LUBBOCK – Texas Tech returns to Manhattan, Kansas to play Kansas State in the only regular season meeting between the programs this season at 8 p.m. on Tuesday at the Bramlage Coliseum. The third Big 12 road game on the schedule for the Red Raiders will be broadcast on CBS Sports Network and the Texas Tech Sports Network radio call can be heard locally on Double T 97.3, and on the Varsity app.

The Red Raiders (11-4, 2-2 Big 12) are currently at No. 17 in the Kenpom ratings and No. 19 in the NCAA NET after an 85-84 overtime loss to No. 3 Iowa State (14-1, 4-0 Big 12) on Saturday and road wins at Utah and BYU. JT Toppin, Chance McMillian and Christian Anderson led the team with 18 points each in the first overtime game of the season for Tech which also got 15 points from Darrion Williams and Elijah Hawkins providing 10 assists. Toppin led Tech with nine rebounds against the Cyclones, while McMillian had eight rebounds and Anderson was 4-for-4 on 3-pointers. The Wildcats (7-8, 1-3 Big 12) are on a three-game losing streak following an 87-57 home loss to Houston on Saturday after road losses at TCU and Oklahoma State.

K-State opened Big 12 play with a 70-67 win over Cincinnati at home before suffering its three straight losses. The Wildcats are 5-3 on their home court this season and enter the matchup against Tech averaging 74.3 points per game by shooting 45.5 percent from the field and 34.4 percent from 3-point range. A trio of players are averaging in double figures this season, led by David N'Guessan (12.7 ppg.) and Brendan Hausen (12.2) while Coleman Hawkins is at 10.5 points per game. N'Guessan also leads the team with 7.7 rebounds per game and Hawkins is adding 7.0 rebounds per. Hausen, an Amarillo, Texas native, joined the program this season after transferring from Villanova. He leads the Wildcats with 47 made 3-pointers and is shooting 40.5 percent from 3-point range after going 5-for-11 and finishing with a team-high 15 points in the loss to Houston on Saturday. Max Jones scored 13 against the Cougars and is now averaging 8.9 points per game while Dug McDaniel has provided 59 assists and is scoring 9.7 points per game.

Tech enters the fifth game of its Big 12 schedule leading the conference by shooting 50.5 percent from the field, with a 58.4 effective field goal percentage and at 77.7 percent from the free-throw line. The Red Raiders are currently 10th in the nation in effective field goal percentage, eighth in field goal percentage and 25th overall at the charity stripe. Along with leading the Big 12 in the trio of statistical categories, Texas Tech is second in the conference and 13th nationally by scoring 85.4 points per game this season and by shooting 39.7 percent on 3-pointers. The Red Raiders have made 10 or more 3-pointers in nine of 15 games played this season after going 10-for-28 in the win over BYU in Provo before finishing 9-for-20 (45.0 percent) against Iowa State. The team is also third within the conference with 17.8 assists per game, fourth with a 1.68 assist-to-turnover ratio and fifth with only 10.6 turnovers per game.

Tech secured a 60-59 win over K-State last season in Lubbock in the only game the two teams played against each other. The Wildcats are 26-25 in the all-time series, including owning an 18-6 record in Manhattan. Tech has lost the past two meetings in Manhattan but has won seven of the last 10 in the series. K-State is coming off a season where it went 19-15 overall, 8-10 in Big 12 play and lost to Iowa in the first round of the NIT. The Wildcats are led by Jerome Tang who is 52-33 leading the program. Grant McCasland and Tang were assistant coaches together at Baylor.

Four Red Raiders are scoring in double figures this season with Toppin (17.3), Williams (16.3), McMillian (15.7) and Kevin Overton (10.0) while Toppin leads the team with 9.1 rebounds per game and Hawkins and Williams are both over five assists per game. McMillian leads nation by shooting 49.3 percent (37-for-75) on 3-pointers for the season after going 1-for-3 against Iowa State, is third in the Big 12 by shooting 57.7 percent (82-for-142) from the field, ninth with 2.7 3-pointers per game and is 10th in scoring. Williams, who is second in the Big 12 with 73 total assists and is fourth in scoring average, was named the Big 12 Player of the Week after going off for a season-high 23 points in the win over Lamar in the team's final non-conference game. Hawkins is coming off his 17th career game with 10 or more assists and leads the conference with 5.9 assists per game while Williams is fourth with 5.0 assists per game. Toppin missed the final four non-conference games and falls below minimums for official statistical rankings but would be second in the Big 12 in scoring and third in rebounding.

McCasland will be coaching his 50th game as the Texas Tech head coach on Tuesday night and is now 245-104 (70.2%) in his NCAA career, including his Tech records of 34-15 overall, 13-9 in Big 12 games, 23-4 at home and 6-6 in true road games. McCasland has also been the head coach at Midwestern State (56-12 record / 2 seasons), Arkansas State (20-12 / 1 season) and North Texas (135-65 / 6 seasons). Last season, McCasland led Tech to six wins over ranked opponents and is now 6-7 against AP Top 25 teams as the Red Raider head coach. McCasland's roster has 13 players on it this season, including two fifth-year seniors (McMillian, Kerwin Walton), two seniors (Hawkins, Federiko Federiko), three juniors (Jack Francis, Corbin Green, Williams), three sophomores (Overton, Toppin, Yalaho) and three freshmen (Anderson, Jazz Henderson, Leon Horner).

Williams has scored in double figures in 13 straight games after going for 15 points, six rebounds and two assists against Iowa State. He is now averaging 16.3 points, 5.7 rebounds and 5.0 assists per game – ranking third in the conference in scoring and fourth in assists. Against the Cyclones, Williams was 2-for-3 on 3-pointers and is now 19-for-52 (36.5 percent) from deep for the season. Against Utah, he had 19 points and nine assists which was his sixth game with 19 or more points this season and his fourth game with eight or more assists before scoring 18 points on 7-for-11 shooting at BYU. Through four Big 12 games, Williams is providing a team-best 15.8 points per game. He earned Big 12 Player of the Week after going off for a season-high 23 points in the win over Lamar along with providing nine assists against ORU in the two games leading into conference play. It was his second Big 12 Player of the Week honor in his career after winning it in the final week last season. His season-best 23 points against Lamar came with him matching a career-high by making four 3-pointers and it was his 40th career game scoring in double figures. He had produced 20-plus points in three straight games after going for 20 points, six rebounds, three assists and three steals in the win over DePaul along with scoring a team-high/season-high 21 points against Northern Colorado to go along with 10 rebounds for his first double-double of the season and the 11th of his career. In Brooklyn, he earned Legends Classic All-Tournament honors after leading the Red Raiders with a season-high 20 points against Syracuse in a game where he also had six rebounds and three assists. The 20-point performances in a career-best three straight games against Syracuse,

Northern Colorado and DePaul gives him three this season and four in his career. His trip to Brooklyn also saw him provide 18 points, six rebounds and three assists against Saint Joseph's. He recorded a career-high 11 assists and nearly became the third Red Raider in history to have a triple-double after adding eight points and eight rebounds in the win over Northwestern State. Williams is Tech's leading returner from last year's roster with 11.4 points, 7.5 rebounds and nine double-doubles after a sophomore season where he earned All-Big 12 Third Team and All-Big 12 Newcomer Team honors. He made 33 starts last season, scoring in double-figures in 19, including a program-best performance where he went 12-for-12 from the field and scored 30 points in a 79-50 home win over No. 6 Kansas. A Sacramento, California native who played his freshman season at Nevada, he finished his first season at Tech shooting 131-for-265 (49.4 percent) from the field and 44-for-96 (45.8 percent) on 3-pointers along with providing 82 assists, 38 steals and 11 blocked shots. In Big 12 play last season, Williams averaged 13.1 points per game and was 23-for-44 on 3-pointers which is the second best in program history for percentage at a 52.3 percent. He established a career-high with 14 rebounds in a non-conference win over Texas A&M-Corpus Christi and had his ninth double-double of the season with 16 points and 11 rebounds in a win over Baylor in the regular-season finale. His 19th double-figure scoring performance of his sophomore season came with 10 points against NC State in the NCAA Tournament. Williams now has 44 games scoring in double figures in his career with 14 this season. In his second season at Tech, he's now at 872 points, 574 rebounds and 247 assists through 81 career games.

McMillian leads the nation by shooting 49.3 percent (37-for-75) from 3-point range this season and has scored in double figures in 14 of 15 games played this year after a game against Iowa State where he finished with 18 points and eight rebounds. He was 1-for-3 from deep in the game and has now had at least one 3-pointer in all 15 games. A starter throughout the season after serving as a reserve in 32 of 33 games last season, he scored 16 points and had a team-high eight rebounds at BYU after 10 points and six rebounds against Utah. He is averaging 15.7 points, 4.5 rebounds and 1.8 assists per game this season. A fifth-year senior, he was 2-for-4 on 3-pointers against the Utes, 2-for-6 at BYU and has made two or more 3s in 11 of 15 games this season. He has scored 20 or more points in seven games in his career after a three-game streak which was capped by 20 points against ORU where he went 8-for-9 from the field and 3-of-4 from 3-point range. He made five 3-pointers and finished with a game-high/season-high 23 points in the loss against Texas A&M after he had led Tech with 22 points in the win over DePaul. He has scored in double figures in 62 games throughout his career which is the second most on the team. He leads Tech by playing 32:36 minutes per game after playing 42:32 against Iowa State and with his 37 made 3-pointers. McMillian had scored in double figures for the sixth straight game after going for 13 points with three 3-pointers against Syracuse before he had 17 points in the loss against Saint Joseph's during the team's trip to Brooklyn. His only non-double figure scoring performance came with nine points against Northern Colorado in a game where he was 6-for-6 at the free-throw line but attempted only four shots from the field. He arrived in Brooklyn after going for 11 points with three 3-pointers and matching his career-high with six assists against UAPB following 16 points on a 4-for-4 display from 3-point range against Wyoming. He also drilled four 3-pointers and went off for 17 points, five assists and five rebounds against Bethune-Cookman in the season opener. Last season, McMillian averaged 10.8 points per game and was 65-for-168 (38.7 percent) on 3-pointers in his first season as a Red Raider where he recorded 18 double-figure scoring performances that included a career-high 27 points at Oklahoma where he went 6-for-8 on 3-pointers. A California native, he scored 17 points in the Big 12 Championship quarterfinal win over BYU and had 15 points against Houston in the semifinals. McMillian was selected as the Big 12 Newcomer of the Week twice during the season, the first time against going off for 24 points at Butler where he went 8-for-10 on 3-pointers. He finished the year 40-for-44 at the free-throw line, including going 26-for-28 in conference play. McMillian has made three or more 3s in seven games this season and is currently 211-for-511 (41.3 percent) on 3-pointers in his career. He enters his 16th game of the year with 1,263 points, 215 assists, 92 steals, 429 rebounds and those 62 double-figure scoring performances through 139 games played in his career.

Toppin is coming off a game against Iowa State where he recorded 18 points and nine rebounds and is now averaging 17.3 points and 9.1 rebounds per game this season. He was 8-for-16 from the field against the Cyclones, including going 1-for-2 on 3-point attempts. Toppin missed the final four non-conference games before returning to the court against UCF to record his fifth double-double of the season (17th career) where he finished with a season-high 26 points, 10 rebounds and matched a season-best with four blocked shots. On the Utah road trip, he went for 11 points and four rebounds in the win at Utah before being limited to single-digit scoring for the first time this season with five points at BYU. He is currently leading the Red Raiders with his 17.3 points, 9.1 rebounds and 1.5 blocks through his 11 games played this season. He had missed the four straight games against Lamar, ORU, Texas A&M and DePaul with a lower body injury before returning to the starting lineup to begin conference play. In his last game played against Northern Colorado before the injury, he recorded his fourth double-double of the season and 16th of his career with 15 rebounds and 11 points in the win. Toppin was named the Big 12 Newcomer of the Week after the trip to Brooklyn in a three-game week where he had two double-doubles and averaged 17.0 points and 11.7 rebounds. He capped the award-winning week with 15 points, six rebounds and three blocked shots against Syracuse after recording his 15th career double-double by going for 22 points and a career-high 18 rebounds against Saint Joseph's. He was on a streak of three straight double-doubles after also going for 14 points and 11 rebounds against Arkansas-Pine Bluff in Lubbock after dropping 24 points on Wyoming to go along with 12 rebounds for his 13th career double-double. His 12 offensive rebounds against Saint Joseph's were the second most in Texas Tech program history – only behind Will Flemons who had 15 against Houston on February 14, 1990. Against UAPB, he was 10-for-15 from the field for his second straight game with 10 makes. He's currently 77-for-137 (56.2 percent) from the field this season after also having games on his resume of 10-for-11 from the field against Northwestern State after an 8-for-12 shooting performance against Bethune-Cookman. Toppin transferred to Tech after being named the Mountain West Conference Freshman of the Year last season following a freshman season at New Mexico where he averaged 12.4 points and 9.1 rebounds. He also provided 68 blocked shots, 38 steals and recorded 12 double-doubles which was tied for the 38th most in the nation. A Dallas native, Toppin returned to his home state after a freshman season where he recorded 23 double-figure scoring performances in 35 games. His first career double-double came with 15 points and 10 rebounds against UT Arlington and was highlighted by him going for a career-high 27 points and 11 rebounds against Toledo. Averaging 1.9 blocks per game as a freshman, he had a career-best five blocks in games against San Diego State, San Jose State and UNLV. He also had 25 points and 13 rebounds at Air Force and 21 points at Boise State. His 12th double-double of the season came with him going off for 13 points and 11 rebounds against San Diego State in the MWC tournament. Toppin finished his first collegiate season going 193-for-310 (62.3 percent) from the field with 11 3-pointers. He was ranked No. 12 in ESPN's transfer rankings and was the third-best transfer still available when he signed on May 28. Toppin comes into the matchup against K-State with seven career games of 20-plus point scoring performances, 33 double-figure scoring games and 635 total points through 47 career games played.

Hawkins recorded his 17th career game with double-digit assists after contributing 10 assists with zero turnover against the Cyclones in a game where he also had seven points. He leads the Big 12 with his assists average of 5.9 this season and is third with a 3.21 assist-to-turnover ratio with only two turnovers through four conference games. Hawkins goes into the game against K-State with 28 assists and only two turnovers in Big 12 games this season. Among active NCAA career leaders, he also ranks 19th with 1.84 steals per game, 26th with 193 career steals and 25th with a 1.88 assist-to-turnover ratio. He was coming off a season-high 22 points with a career-best six 3-pointers at BYU after recording the 12th double-double of his career with 12 points and 10 assists in the win against Utah. He is third in the NCAA active rankings with 6.33 assists per game and is sixth in the career rankings with 665 total assists. Through four Big 12 games, Hawkins is averaging 13.0 points and 7.0 assists per game. Hawkins has scored in double figures in five of his 13 games played this season and was on a three-game streak after having 11 points and five assists against UCF before scoring seven against Iowa State. A senior in his first season at Texas Tech, Hawkins is currently averaging 8.8 points, 5.9 assists and 1.8 steals through 13 games played this season after missing the first two games with a lower body injury. For his career, Hawkins is 152-for-405 (37.5 percent) on 3-pointers with a previous career-high five 3-pointers made last season against Coppin State. He has also made 293 free throws (28-for-31 this season after going 5-for-6 against Iowa State). He had recorded his 11th career double-double and first of this season against UAPB after providing 11 assists, 10 points and five steals in his first start as a Red Raider. He made his Texas Tech debut by going for a team-high five assists and adding seven points in just under 13 minutes of play against Wyoming and has recorded three or more assists in every game he's played this season. A Washington, D.C. native, Hawkins was second nationally last season with 7.5 assists per game at Minnesota where he also averaged 9.5 points and had six double-doubles as an All-Big 10 honorable mention selection before transferring to Texas Tech to play his final season. Hawkins scored a career-high 24 points against Ohio State last season and had a 17-assist performance against IU Indy in a non-conference win for his career-best. He began his collegiate career with two seasons at Howard before playing one at Minnesota. Last season, he had eight games with double-figure assists, including dishing out 15 assists and scoring 11 points in a win over Butler in the NIT and also having double-doubles against Nebraska (12p/11a), Maine (12p/10a), Northwestern (13p/10a) at home, Illinois (12a/10p) and at Northwestern (14p/10a). He has a team-high 67 games with double-figure scoring performances in his career. Hawkins is on the Bob Cousy Award Watch List and currently has 1,184 points, 655 assists and 192 steals through 104 games played in his career. His previous season-high 12 points at Utah was the fourth game he's scored in double figures this season and surpassed his previous season-best of 11 points against UCF and Syracuse. At BYU, Hawkins was 7-for-12 from the field and 6-for-9 on 3-pointers to give him 22 points. He scored 13 of those 22 points in the second half where he was 3-for-3 from 3-point range.

Walton is 10th nationally in active 3-point percentage at 42.5 percent (189-for-445) in his career after going 2-for-4 and finishing with six points in the win at Utah before missing his only attempts at BYU and against Iowa State. He is currently 20-for-50 (40.0 percent) from beyond the arc through 15 games this season as a starter where he is averaging 4.9 points per game. Walton opened this season with a career-high seven 3-pointers and led the Red Raiders with 21 points in the season-opening win over Bethune-Cookman. He's made three or more 3-pointers in three games this season. His 21 points in the opener marked his second career game with 20 or more points in his career only being surpassed by his career-best 22-point performance last season against Omaha. The seven 3-pointers were the most for a Red Raider since McMillian made eight last season at Butler and two off from Alan Voskuil's program record of nine against Kansas back on March 4, 2009. A Minnesota native, Walton averaged 8.5 points per game last season and finished 65-for-136 (47.8 percent) from beyond the arc. His percentage was second nationally and second in program history. He scored a career-high 22 points in a non-conference win over Omaha where he was 6-for-7 on 3-pointers and 8-for-9 from the field. In Big 12 play, Walton started all 18 games last season with a pair of 18-point scoring performances in road games at Houston and UCF. He finished the season with 11 double-figure scoring performances with 12 points against BYU in the Big 12 Championship quarterfinal win in Kansas City. He had eight games with three or more 3s, with a 3-for-4 outing against NC State in the NCAA Tournament First Round being the final one. Starting his career with two seasons at North Carolina, Walton has now played 75 games with 48 starts at Texas Tech where he is 108-for-242 (44.6 percent) from 3-point range as a Red Raider. He comes into the matchup against K-State with 793 points through 135 career games played on his statistical resume.

Overton is averaging 10.0 points, 3.9 rebounds and 1.1 assists per game after having three points and two rebounds against Iowa State. A lead reserve in his sophomore season, he contributed nine points against UCF in the Big 12 opener, eight points and five rebounds in the win at Utah and then finished with five points and four rebounds against BYU. He provided 17 points against Lamar and Texas A&M and is the top scorer off the bench for the Red Raiders. He also scored a season-high 20 points against Northern Colorado and has six double-figure scoring performances going into the 16th game of the season. In his first season at Texas Tech, his 20-point production was the fourth time in his young career with 20 or more points. He also had six rebounds against Lamar to match a season-high and had six straight games with five or more rebounds going before having two against UCF. Overton also scored 19 points in a game against Northwestern State where he was 8-for-9 from the free-throw line after 10 points in his only appearance from the starting lineup in his Red Raider debut against Bethune-Cookman. Overton joined the Texas Tech program this season after a freshman year at Drake where he provided 11.3 points, 3.3 rebounds and 1.1 assists as a starter in 35 games (29.9 minutes per game). An Oklahoma City native, he scored in double figures in 19 games with a career-high 23 points coming against Murray State in his freshman season. Overton finished his first collegiate season shooting 62-for-179 on 3-pointers and contributed 21 steals. He scored 20 or more points in three games with 22 against Oakland and 21 against Saint Louis before his 23-point performance against Murray State where he was 8-for-11 from the field with five 3-pointers. Overton played one prep season at Sunrise Christian in Kansas before beginning his collegiate career. He has 544 points, 176 rebounds and 25 double-figure scoring performances through 50 games in his collegiate career.

Anderson recorded the best Big 12 game of his young career by going for 18 points on 4-for-4 shooting from 3-point range against Iowa State. He played a career-high 37:48 in his reserve role and also finished with two assists and two steals. A freshman guard with five double-figure scoring games, he went for 13 points with three 3-pointers for his fourth double-figure scoring performance of the season in the win at Utah before scoring two points against BYU. He is now averaging 8.9 points per game through 13 appearances in his freshman season. He scored a career-high 20 points against Lamar after going 8-for-10 from the field and 2-of-4 from 3-point range in the non-conference finale before leading Tech with five assists against UCF. After his 18 points against the Cyclones where he was 6-for-11 from the field, he is now 41-for-86 (47.7 percent) overall and 23-for-56 (41.1 percent) from 3-point range. His 20 points against Lamar marked the third double-figure scoring performance of his season after he also recorded 11 points against ORU and a previous career-high 12 points against Northern Colorado where he was 4-for-6 on 3-pointers. Against ORU, Anderson was 3-for-8 from 3-point range and also had four rebounds. Through 13 games played (after missing the first two of the season with a lower body injury), he already has five games with four assists and six with three or more. Anderson led Tech with four assists and provided five points in the loss to Saint Joseph's before providing seven points and an assist in the win over Syracuse in Brooklyn. He also had eight points, four assists and three steals against UAPB where he was 2-for-4 from 3-point range in his second game of the season. He made his collegiate debut against Wyoming where he scored nine points and contributed four assists and three steals in over 25 minutes of play as a reserve. Anderson missed the first two games of the season with a lower body injury but made his presence felt early with a 3-pointer for his first points and finished the night against Wyoming shooting 4-for-7 from the field. He signed with Texas Tech on May 21, 2024, as a four-star recruit following one season at Oak Hill Academy where he averaged 19.1 points and 4.6 assists per game. Originally a Michigan signee, Anderson opened his recruitment and joined the Red Raiders who he practiced with in June before going overseas in July to lead Germany to the 2024 FIBA U18 EuroBasket Championship this season. He averaged 20.3 points and 5.0 assists per game in the tournament, including going off for 31 points and five assists in the finals against Serbia. An Atlanta, Georgia native, Anderson played at The Lovett School where he averaged 23.7 points in his high school career with 2,038 points. As a junior at The Lovett School, before Oak Hill, Anderson averaged 26.1 points and 4.1 assists with three games of 40 or more points. Anderson matched his career-best with his four 3-pointers against the Cyclones and comes into the matchup at K-State with 32 total assists and 19 steals this season.

Federiko led the Tech reserves with 14 points and added three rebounds in the win at Utah where he shot 7-for-9 from the field before having seven rebounds and four points against BYU during the road trip. Back at home against Iowa State, Federiko produced four rebounds, two assists and finished with three points which all came from the free-throw line. It was the first game he didn't attempt a shot from the field this season. He traveled to the state of Utah after a performance against UCF where he had 12 points on 6-for-6 shooting from the field and also added four rebounds in the conference opener. He is now averaging 7.6 points and 4.8 rebounds through the 13 games he's played this season where he is 45-for-59 (76.3 percent) from the field. Federiko had a career night against Oral Roberts in non-conference play, going for a career-best 23 points and adding 12 rebounds for his first double-double of the season and the third in his career. He missed the Lamar game with an upper body injury before returning for Big 12 play. He was 11-for-13 (84.6 percent) from the field against ORU and also finished the game with a career-high five assists and six offensive rebounds. It was his first game in double-figure scoring as a Red Raider and came in his third start of the season. Federiko provided seven points, six rebounds and a career-high four steals against Texas A&M. He began this season going 9-for-9 after making his only shot against Saint Joseph's before going 1-for-3 against Syracuse and 2-for-3 against Northern Colorado where he finished with five points and three assists. Against Texas A&M, Federiko was 3-for-3 from the field. In a season-high 31 minutes against DePaul, Federiko was 4-for-8 from the field and finished with three offensive rebounds. He had previously scored a season-high eight points for the first time in the win over Wyoming where he was 4-for-4 from the field. The tallest Red Raider on the roster at 6-foot-11, he is a senior in his first and final season at Texas Tech following two years at Pitt. A Finland native, Federiko is coming off a season where he averaged 4.7 points, 5.2 rebounds and had 43 blocked shots as a starter in 26 games. He had a career-high 22 points against North Florida last season and finished with eight games in double-figure scoring as a sophomore and two last season. In 2022-23, he went for 13 points and eight points at Florida State and produced his only double-double of the season with 17 points and 14 rebounds against Sacred Heart. Last season, he had a double-double with 13 points, 10 rebounds and four blocks against North Carolina A&T. As a sophomore, Federiko recorded 18 games with two or more blocks, including having four blocks in games against Miami, Vanderbilt and North Carolina before having six games with three or more blocks last season. Federiko was a NJCAA All-America as a freshman at Northern Oklahoma. He now has 487 points, 419 rebounds, 108 blocks and 13 double-figure scoring performances through 81 games at the NCAA level.

Yalaho made his first career start and scored a career-high 13 points in the win over Lamar after going 5-for-8 from the field, including 2-of-2 on 3-pointers. He had two rebounds in two minutes of play against Utah and did not play against UCF, BYU and Iowa State in conference games — coach's decision. Yalaho also had five rebounds against Lamar in his fifth game played of the season. He was coming off a game where he provided three rebounds and two points in the win over ORU in 13 minutes of playing time. He made his season debut against Northern Colorado where he had two points, one rebound and a block in four minutes of play and also had two points and three rebounds against Texas A&M. Yalaho had missed the previous six games to start his sophomore season with a lower body injury. He entered this season after playing in 17 games last season as a freshman, including scoring a previous career-high 10 points against Houston in the Big 12 Championship semifinals. A Finland native, Yalaho was 16-for-33 from the field and averaged 2.5 points and 1.5 rebounds per game. He had a career-best six rebounds at UCF where he also had eight points. Against Houston in Kansas City, Yalaho scored in double figures for the first time in his career after he also provided seven points and three rebounds in the regular-season finale win over Baylor. Over the summer, Yalaho returned to Finland where he participated in workouts with his national team. Yalaho has played in 23 career games where he is averaging 2.8 points and 1.8 rebounds.

Green has appeared in six games this season after he joined the Texas Tech program as a walk-on in September. He played the previous two seasons at Air Force. A Midlothian native, Green returned to his home state having played in 36 career games and produced 46 blocked shots. As a freshman in the 2022-23 season, Green started 12 games and played in 24 at Air Force where he averaged 6.5 points and had 34 blocks. Last season, he played in 12 games where he averaged 2.7 points, 2.8 rebounds and had 12 blocked shots. His career-best came with 17 points and 12 rebounds against USC Update on November 21, 2022. Green is a junior with one year of eligibility remaining after this season.

Francis has appeared in six games this season and 11 in his career. He recorded his first field goal in his career with a layup against ORU for his first points of the season. He is a walk-on who played in five games last season for the Red Raiders. He scored his first career points with a pair of free throws against Sam Houston in a non-conference win and had two rebounds against Kansas and Oklahoma State in Big 12 play. An Austin native, Francis was a practice player for the program during the 2022-23 season before earning a spot on the roster. He was a 1,000-point scorer at Anderson High School.

Horner scored his first career points in the win over ORU and has now made seven appearances this season. He is a true freshman who joined the Texas Tech program after playing at Dynamic Prep and Frisco Memorial. As a senior at Dynamic Prep, Horner averaged 14.5 points, 6.0 rebounds and 3.0 assists per game. He was a McDonald's All-American nominee and helped the program to the Texas Christian Athletic League 6A State Championship. He earned T-CAL All-State Second Team honors. At Frisco Memorial, Horner was a three-time all-district selection who had 889 points, 419 rebounds and 121 assists in three seasons.

Henderson will be out of action for an extended period as he recovers from a lower body injury. He joined the program as a walk-on this season after being a three-time state champion at Oak Cliff Faith Family in high school. A Dallas native, he averaged 14 points and 7 assists as a senior after going for 10 points and 7 assists as a junior.

CONFERENCE NEWS & NOTES

West Virginia makes its first appearance in the Top 25 since December 2022, one of four AP-ranked Big 12 teams. No. 3 Iowa State, No. 11 Kansas and No. 12 Houston join the No. 21 Mountaineers.

Iowa State has the nation's second-longest winning streak at 11 games, trailing only UC San Diego. Houston is tied for sixth with eight straight wins.

Houston holds the nation's longest home winning streak at 31 games, while Iowa State has the third-longest in the nation at 27 games.

The Big 12 features three of the top-10 teams in the Jan. 9 NET rankings, No. 4 Houston, No. 7 Iowa State and No. 9 Kansas. A total of six teams are in the top 25 and nine are in the top 50.

As of Jan. 9, KenPom rates six Big 12 teams inside the top 25: 3. Houston, 4. Iowa State, 10. Kansas, 13. Arizona, 15. Texas Tech and 19. Baylor.

Houston has moved into the nation's lead in scoring margin, leading eight Big 12 teams in the top 30. 5. Iowa State, 10. Texas Tech, 18. Arizona, 21. Baylor, 22. BYU, 22. Kansas and 29. Cincinnati join the top-ranked Coogs.

West Virginia's Javon Small was named Big 12 Player of the Week after hitting the game-winning free throw at Kansas. He averaged 18.5 points, 11.0 rebounds and 5.0 assists in the Mountaineers' two wins.

Iowa State's Joshua Jefferson and TCU's Noah Reynolds were named Big 12 Co-Newcomers of the Week. Jefferson averaged 10.0 points, 6.0 rebounds, 5.0 assists and 4.0 steals, including matching a program record with eight steals against Colorado. Reynolds averaged 20.5 points, including the game-winning shot against K-State.

Texas Tech's Chance McMillian has moved into the national lead in 3-point field goal percentage at 50.0. He is joined in the top 10 by Houston's Emanuel Sharp (No. 5) and Baylor's Jayden Nunn (No. 6).

Since December 1, Houston's Milos Uzan (5.50) and Iowa State's Tamin Lipsey (4.83) rank as the top Power 4 players in assist-to-turnover ratio. Their teams are a combined 15-0 in that span.

For the second consecutive year, Kansas' Hunter Dickinson was named Big 12 Preseason Player of the Year. Baylor's Jeremy Roach and K-State's Coleman Hawkins were Preseason Co-Newcomers of the Year and Baylor's VJ Edgecombe was Preseason Freshman of the Year.

HEAD COACH GRANT McCASLAND

Grant McCasland was named the 19th head coach in Texas Tech program history on March 31, 2023 by Director of Athletics Kirby Hocutt and made an immediate impact in his first season, leading the Red Raiders to the 2024 NCAA Tournament, a 23-11 overall record, and finishing the season at No. 22 in the national rankings.

A proven winner who began his career as the Texas Tech men's basketball Director of Operations from 1999-2001, McCasland became only the third head coach in program history to lead the Red Raiders to a 20-plus wins in their first seasons and the fourth to take the program to the national tournament in their first season. Tech finished tied for third in the Big 12 standings with an 11-7 conference record and also went 15-2 at home.

At the time of his hiring, McCasland said: "I want to thank President Lawrence Schovanec and Athletics Director Kirby Hocutt, and the committee for the opportunity to coach at Texas Tech. The commitment and vision for Texas Tech has no limits and we look forward to loving our team everyday with a greater purpose. We will strive daily for excellence in every aspect of our program, do things the right way, winning championships that values relationships throughout. Our family looks forward to joining the Red Raider nation and can't wait to get started in Lubbock."

Through 10 seasons as an NCAA head coach, McCasland is now 234-100 overall and 178-88 at the Division I level. The Red Raiders were the NCAA South Region's No. 6 seed and played in Pittsburgh where they fell to NC State in the first round. Tech finished the season with six wins over AP Top 25 opponents, including a 79-50 win over No. 6 Kansas and finishing the regular season with a 78-68 win over No. 11 Baylor.

Prior to Tech, McCasland had most recently spent six seasons at North Texas where he led the Mean Green to a 31-7 record and the National Invitation Tournament Championship in his final year. His teams led the nation in scoring defense the final two seasons he was in Denton after limiting opponents to just 55.7 points per game in both seasons. UNT held 27 of its 38 opponents under 60 points this season.

McCasland started his coaching career as the Texas Tech Director of Operations for two seasons under head coach James Dickey and took his first head coaching job at Midland College where he would win a NJCAA National Championship in 2007. The Red Raiders will be the 46-year-old McCasland's fifth head coaching job in a journey back to Texas Tech which includes leading Midland College from 2004-09, two years as the head coach at Midwestern State (2009-11), five seasons as an assistant coach at Baylor (2011-16), and one as the head coach at Arkansas State (2016-17) before amassing an impressive 135-65 (.675) record at UNT.

An Irving, Texas native, McCasland is a Baylor graduate who played for the Bears from 1995-99 as a walk-on. He earned Academic All-Big 12 honorable-mention honors as a senior and graduated from Baylor in 1999 with a degree in entrepreneurship and management before getting his master's from Texas Tech in 2001.

At North Texas, McCasland led the Mean Green to three straight Conference USA titles (2020, 2021, 2022), their first NCAA Tournament victory, first NIT victories, most single-season victories, and most single-season league victories in program history among other achievements. Along with leading the nation by limiting teams to only 55.7 points per game, UNT ranked seventh nationally by holding opponents to 39.2 percent shooting.

During his final season in Denton, McCasland led UNT to a program-record 31 wins after winning the 2023 NIT Championship with a 68-61 victory over UAB in Las Vegas. The Mean Green were second in the C-USA standings with a 16-4 conference record and a 14-2 record on their home court. The program advanced to the NIT Finals with wins over Alcorn State, Sam Houston, Oklahoma State and Wisconsin to set up its matchup against UAB. The Mean Green earned the postseason championship by jumping out to a 37-27 halftime lead and limiting UAB to only 35.6 shooting throughout the night – capping the season with another dominant defensive performance. The Mean Green reached the NIT finals with a 56-54 win over Wisconsin in the semifinals by holding the Badgers scoreless over the final nine minutes of play and to only 13 second-half points. UNT trailed 41-29 at halftime before locking down on defense and limiting Wisconsin to only 24.0 percent shooting in the second half with its final basket coming with 9:07 still on the clock.

McCasland was named the 2020 C-USA Coach of the Year and has recruited and led UNT men's basketball student-athletes to 19 all-league honors, including two Conference USA Player of the Year selections in Javion Hamlet (2020) and Tylor Perry (2023). The Mean Green won the C-USA regular-season championship in 2020 and 2022 along with winning the C-USA Tournament in 2021. He led UNT to a 12-3 record in postseason games with the program having never won a postseason game before his arrival.

TOUGHEST TEAM WINS

Our players explain...

Grant McCasland coaches mental and physical toughness every day at practice. Reinforces being the tougher team in pregame talks before taking the court. Demands it during timeouts and praises it after wins. On social media, 'Toughest Team Wins' is reduced to a hashtag: #TTW. It's much more than that though. 'Toughest Team Wins' permeates within the program and is a mindset instilled throughout the roster.

Darriion Williams, junior from Sacramento, California: "Tough means being resilient no matter how the game is going. You play your tail off and win."

Chance McMillian, senior from Vallejo, California: "Tough is being mentally strong no matter what obstacle is in front of you. Staying focused for however long it takes. Pushing yourself past limits you may have thought were there."

Kerwin Walton, senior from Hopkins, Minnesota: "Being tough means being able to overcome and push through any adversity regardless of how difficult it is."

Elijah Hawkins, senior from Washington D.C.: "Tough means having a strong mentality that however the game goes we will win. Fighting through tough times and coming together as a team and connecting and playing together."

Eemeli Yalaho, sophomore from Jyväskylä, Finland: "Being tough means staying resilient in the face of challenges and pushing forward even when it feels very hard."

Corbin Green, junior from Midlothian, Texas: "Being tough in basketball means staying composed under pressure, hustling on every play, and never letting setbacks dictate your next move. It's about playing with heart, no matter the score."

Federiko Federiko, senior from Helsinki, Finland: "Tough means to be the best in whatever I do. Whether it is on defense or offense just being a force on the court."

Leon Horner, freshman from Dallas, Texas: "Being tough to me is playing the hardest and when times get hard and on the brightest stage you perform at a high level."

Kevin Overton, sophomore from Oklahoma City: "Being able to fight through when adversity is around. Being able to prevail."

Jack Francis, junior from Austin, Texas: "Being tough means playing hard and doing things that benefit the team no matter the challenge or obstacle. Being tough is a physical and mental challenge and the best way to do it is to put others ahead of yourself."

Christian Anderson, freshman from Atlanta, Georgia: "Being tough means to always try your hardest and to always keep going even when things get hard."

JT Toppin, sophomore from Dallas, Texas: "Doing whatever is necessary to win. Being the most physical guy on the court at all times. I try not to let anything get to me. Keep negativity out of my head. You can't focus on missed shots or bad plays. You have to put that behind you and keep playing hard. You're not going to be perfect all the time but you can always keep going."

Jazz Henderson, freshman from Dallas, Texas: "Pushing through adversity when things aren't going your way. Staying confident."

Yalaho: "I focus on trying to control my emotions and staying present in the game."

McMillian: "I'm always thinking about the next play. You can't let past plays effect you."

Horner: "It started with training and the summer I build fighting through hard times, so when season in practice starts my body already use to it."

Francis: "I just try and focus on what I can control and to have confidence in myself. The confidence comes from all of the hours I have put in that aren't seen."

Walton: "By focusing on one goal, which is winning the game."

Overton: "Listening to our coaching staff has gotten me through tough times this season. They believe in me and I believe they will get me through anything. Believing in my teammates and helping us get right on the next play. That's all I try to focus on."

Anderson: "I fight through tough times on the court by always being mentally focused and strong while giving 100 percent effort."

Green: "I focus on simplicity like defense, communication, and effort. When things get tough, I trust my teammates, play for them, and use every ounce of energy to turn the game around."

Henderson: "Getting together with the guys and staying positive is important. Always being connected and being focused. Rally for each other."

Federiko: "I fight through tough times on the court by doing what I do the best and trust and lean on my teammates for help if needed."

Williams: "I do all the little things on the court. I don't care about stats as long as the team gets the win. That's all I care about. I always try to remember that there are a lot of ways to impact the game. You can't get down if things aren't going your way. You have to fight through and go back to the work that we put in every day. You go back to the basics and get your mind right."

Yalaho: "I moved to another country by myself to finish high school and to get recruited and it taught me a lot about myself."

Walton: "I fought through not playing much early in my college career and eventually earning my spot when I got the chance. I've learned that no matter what happens I have to keep working and stay ready when my name is called."

Hawkins: "Something I fought through is injury during the end of the summer. It thought me that you can't take any opportunity to play for granted."

Federiko: "Leaving home and moving to another country by myself and opening opportunities to my family and friends. That has taught me to be tough."

McMillian: "Getting a good grade in my math class in high school was tough. I didn't see that happening. I was persistent with it though."

Williams: "Getting past deaths in my family is something that was really hard in my life. I felt like I could have gone to the dark side at times but I stayed strong. Tried my best to stay levelheaded and remain a happy kid. It showed me that I can get through anything. Staying consistent and positive can get you through tough times."

Overton: "Accepting coaching was tough for me during the summer and preseason. I was overthinking things. Going on to the next play and accepting coaching made me better."

Henderson: "I broke my ankle in my junior year of high school in the state tournament. I played the championship game with it. Fought through it and helped our team win the championship."

Green: "I was in a situation where I was challenged everyday by everyone around me and I would never falter because I knew if I gave up it would hurt the team. It has taught me that this does not apply to one area of life but all of it."

Toppin: "I remember how tough it was not being ranked in high school and not really understanding it. I felt overlooked. It kept me humble and grounded though. It kept me in the gym to work harder to reach my goals."

Horner: "I fought through high school not getting recruited as much and seeing other people getting there. It just made me more hungry so I kept grinding and my time came. I learned to always stay in your vision don't worry about the outside noise."

Francis: "Something I have fought for in my life was to play college basketball at the highest level. There were many ups and downs to this journey but the biggest thing I learned from it all is that you can accomplish anything you set your mind to."

Anderson: "One thing I fought through that was tough was Covid. It taught me to keep working even through the toughest of times even when the gyms got shut down."

Hawkins: "The toughest person I know is my mom. She taught me to never give up and to go for something that you really want in life."

Francis: "The toughest person I know is my Dad. He has always shown me the importance of putting others ahead of yourself."

Williams: "My two grandmas both beat cancer multiple times. My two rocks. If they can go through cancer and battle through chemo and stay positive, then there is no reason I can't in anything that I go up against. This is just basketball. They got through real serious adversity in their lives by pushing through it."

McMillian: "Judy Bowers. My mom. She showed what it means to work and succeed for others. She worked multiple jobs to support us. To make sure my brothers and sisters were good. I take pride in knowing that her hard work is instilled in me."

Overton: "My mother is tough. I've seen the hard things she has gone through and stayed positive. Seeing her work ethic has helped me."

Yalaho: "The toughest person I know is my mom. She's shown me how to get through tough things in many different ways."

Federiko: "My parents. Just the way they deal with everything bad or good."

Toppin: "My mom is the toughest person I know. She always worked hard for our family. Never made it about herself and showed me that hard work pays off. Anything can be accomplished if you work hard enough."

Walton: "The toughest people I know are my parents because they have overcome many obstacles that would have broke most people but they always push through and never make excuses. They taught me to never lose sight of my goals."

Green: "My Mother is the toughest person I know she has played the role of multiple but has been one. She does everything to put me in the best position I can be in life. She has endured plenty and has never quivered. I have learned what it truly means to be tough."

Horner: "My mom is definitely the toughest person I know. Working as hard as she does as a single parent raising three sons is hard."

Hawkins: "TTW means the team with the most grit and the most connected will win. This team can be tough because we learned early in the year how to fight and face adversity."

McMillian: "It's the most connected group that is able to maintain through all 40 minutes of the game."

Walton: "It means that the team with the most focus and grit will always find a way to win. Our team is tough because no matter who we play against, or where, we'll always find a way to fight and win."

Toppin: "You have to be the most physical player you can be and push yourself beyond even what you think you can do. No one is selfish on this team. That's tough. You see it all the time on teams where people make it about themselves. This team isn't like that. Everyone is focused on what they can do to make the team better. It's a tough mindset we all have."

Francis: "Toughest Team Wins means doing the small things that other teams aren't willing to do. It means doing those things from start to finish even when it's hard. I believe this team can be tough because we practice hard every single day. We don't take plays off and all of that will translate to being successful for the remainder of the year."

Henderson: "The team that stays together through adversity is the toughest team. Every team goes through things in games. It's a game of runs. When the other team goes on a run, you have to sustain it and focus on being tough to get the momentum back. Come out on top, no matter what it takes."

Green: "The team that plays with grit, dives for loose balls, locks down on defense, and refuses to give up will dominate. Toughness is a team effort, not an individual trait. We can be tough and we are tough but consistency defines which one we choose to be. If we choose to be all in, we are tough."

Anderson: "'Toughest Team Wins' means to me that the team that gives the most effort, does all the little things, and wins all the 50/50 plays will win the game. I think this team can be tough because everybody on the team are winners and we will do anything it takes to win and be the best."

Federiko: "Being the team that nobody wants to face just because of how hard the team plays every time. We're a tough team because of all the personalities we have. Everyone on this team is a winner on and off the court."

Overton: "The grittier team that is willing to scrap is going to win. Our character on this team is really strong. Great guys. Our collective fight is tough. Our willingness to fight can take us far."

Horner: "Toughest Team Wins is giving 100 percent each possession. I believe we have a really great team and great pieces. Just have to dominate everyone we play."

Yalaho: "It means the team that stays together and plays the hardest wins. I believe this team can be tough because we have each other's backs and we're willing to put in the hard work."

Williams: "You have to be the most physical team. Have the most grit, most desire and be the most resilient team to come out on top. Everyone on this team is focused on winning and doing everything it takes to win every possession. That's 'Toughest Team Wins'."

Grant McCasland: "Our saying 'Toughest Team Wins' means a lot to us. We're going to win because we are competitive in everything we do. We believe in each other and are going to give our hearts to each other. In the toughest of times, I always believe we are going to win."

A FORMATIVE CONVERSATION

How our players developed a love for the game of basketball

Before the roar of an arena crowd there was the sound of a kid bouncing a basketball in his bedroom, driveway or park court. Before dunks and 3-pointers, there were futile attempts and airballs. There was joy though. A made shot after countless misses that would keep them shooting. A parent, coach or teammate whose encouragement built their confidence and kept them going.

Through memories, influences and unique perspectives, we're attempting here in this space to explain how 13 players on the Texas Tech basketball roster developed a passion for the game. This isn't a complete biography on any of them. That's not the objective. In their own words, these are simply recollections from their formative years to help chart their basketball journeys that are now only a month away from the start of the 2024-25 season.

Their responses tell this story.

Chance McMillian, senior from Vallejo, California: "I was about 6 in a 'Cubby' basketball league that my mom put me in. They had the smaller hoops connected to the bigger hoops, but I would always shoot for the bigger hoop. I would make it. The coaches kept telling my mom that I should play up an age."

Leon Horner, freshman from Dallas: "I had a basketball with me everywhere I went growing up. Even in the stores and bathroom. I never let it go. I was playing all the time growing up. In the backyard and courts all over. That orange ball was everything to me."

Kerwin Walton, senior from Hopkins, Minnesota: "Not going to lie. I was bad. I couldn't make a shot. Maybe some layups. I remember going to Aquila Park in Minnesota with my dad and really starting to work on getting better. I spent an entire summer in that park with him. I could barely shoot a 3-pointer when we started. We played 21 and 1-on-1. Having fun, but also training."

Elijah Hawkins, senior from Washington, D.C.: "I was fast. Really fast. I remember falling in love with the game because it was always moving and I was faster than everyone. I was smaller, of course, but I could run by everyone. That made it fun."

Federiko Federiko, senior from Helsinki, Finland: "I played soccer before basketball. My first memory of basketball was a camp I went to. The Rekolan Urheilijat Beginners Basketball Camp in Vantaa, Finland. I had fun there and never stopped playing. Basketball is not as big as it is in the United States so making friends and competing against people in my age group or older was fun."

Eemeli Yalaho, sophomore from Jyväskylä, Finland: "My first team was with other kids who were four years older than me. It was fun, but tough. The only basket I scored that entire year was at the very end of the season in a tournament. It was just one basket but I still remember it giving me a feeling that I could do it."

Christian Anderson, freshman from Atlanta, Georgia: "I fell in love with the game right away. As far back as I can remember. My life has always revolved around the game. Watching my dad play basketball was where I first started loving the game. I remember watching him play in Germany with my siblings and wanting to be just like him."

JT Toppin, sophomore from Dallas: "I was a football player until middle school. I didn't start playing basketball until I was about 13. I made the switch. I didn't make my seventh-grade team but I tried again the next year and made the eighth-grade team. I just kept working and fell in love with the game."

Darriin Williams, junior from Sacramento, California: "My first memory is when I was playing in this league at a really young age. I can't remember the name of my team, but I think we wore black uniforms. The league was called CYBL. I got fouled on a three at the end of the game. I didn't score. I missed all three. I quit that league because I was so sad. I told my dad that I didn't want to play anymore."

Kevin Overton, sophomore from Oklahoma City: "I can remember being in like fifth grade and scoring in ways that no one else on my team or who we were playing could. I was just out there trying things I saw older guys and players on tv doing and I could do it. Generically talented, I guess, at that time."

Jack Francis, junior from Austin: "All I could do when I was younger was shoot. One dimensional for sure. I remember playing in a league called NWAYBA (Northwest Austin Youth Basketball Association) with a couple of my friends. It was coached by my friend's dad. We all the letters 'NP' on our hand. Next Play. That has stuck with me all my life."

Jazz Henderson, freshman from Dallas: "My first memory of basketball is playing in a gym when my dad was playing in a pro league."

Corbin Green, junior from Midlothian: "I was a baseball and football player most of the time when I was a kid. I didn't start playing basketball in middle school. My mom always had me in sports growing up but my main two became basketball and baseball. It was her way of keeping me out of trouble. I was mainly just passing and getting everyone involved when I first started playing basketball. When I was growing up, I always thought I'd be a pitcher in college."

Hawkins: "When I was 10 or 11 years old, I started to get consistent with working out and taking the game seriously. I was waking up early and going to the gym every day. I started going to camps, just playing every day and working for a purpose to get better at the game. I also played football but basketball was my love. I was young but I remember wanting to get up early and get to the gym as fast as possible to start playing again. I've always just wanted to play basketball."

Williams: "I think the game just took my mind off everything else that was going on in life. It was something that just allowed me to have fun. I grew up around it because my brother played basketball, and I was always trying to follow him around. I wanted to be just like him. I think just trying to be like him and just the fun of the game is where my passion for it started and continues to today."

Toppin: "I always liked dribbling the ball around but started to low-key get better at it just messing around before I was on a team. It was hard for me to get good at. I had growth spurts and got tall, but nothing came easy. I could just finish. I couldn't shoot. Finish and rebound around the rim. That's all I could do. Just a bunch of layups."

Walton: "My love for the game started watching my dad playing pick-up at different rec centers. He would always be playing with his friends. I saw him having fun and wanted to do the same thing."

Overton: "I think I've always been pretty talented at basketball, but there was a time for sure when I didn't know if I loved football or basketball more. I just knew I was good at basketball. The love came later. I developed a strong passion for it. My dad played college basketball and I was always really proud of that."

Federiko: "I started getting taller and then the game grew on me. I was kind of forced to play at first because of my height but it became my first love."

McMillian: "There was always a love for the game."

Hawkins: "My dad and uncle were always playing and loved the game. I think that's where I got it from. Seeing them enjoy it and seeing how they liked watching me play."

Francis: "As a kid, I looked at the game as being fun. A place to be with my friends. I can see now that it taught me lessons about life and gave me friendships that have lasted."

Green: "I was all over the place playing every sport. It gave me a lot of different experiences and environments. I think it helped me be able to adapt to different situations. It was a blessing."

Horner: "I was at my grandma's house. Maybe like 4-years-old. She got a mini hoop for me. I remember trying to dunk it and falling straight on my back and getting hurt. I was crying like crazy but finally got back up and kept playing."

McMillian: "The summer going into my junior year we were playing in the American Sports Center in Orange County, California. I remember it like it was yesterday. I had a really good game and got my first calls from college coaches. It gave me confidence that this is something that I could do. I felt like I needed to lock-in on basketball after that game."

CONTINUED

Federiko: “The first time I dunked the basketball was while playing in a park with my friends.”

Williams: “I didn’t really have the confidence to think I was good until about my senior year of high school. That’s when I dunked on someone for the first time. It made me feel confident and strong. Great feeling. It was really exciting because I wasn’t a high jumper at all. I had an injured knee before then and was still able to get through it and dunk. I was getting better and started taking the game more seriously. I played a lot before that dunk, but that dunk gave me the confidence that I needed for the first time to truly believe I was good.”

Toppin: “The game gave me goals. I started watching a lot of NBA and also seeing my friends getting better. That pushed me. It made me want to up my game. Keep working hard. When I got into high school, it started clicking for me.”

Hawkins: “My team in high school was ranked. DeMatha Catholic High School. I made varsity in my sophomore year. That didn’t happen for a lot of really good players. I understood right then that I might be able to play at high levels. I feel like everyone who comes from where I do in D.C. has a competitive edge to them. Where we come from makes us who we are.”

Overton: “I think I started figuring out the game at a higher level in my junior year. I became more consistent and confident.”

Henderson: “The best thing about playing when I was younger was definitely that I was just more advanced than a lot of the other kids so my team would usually always win. As a kid, I loved to compete and win. I was a selfish player when I was younger but always had good intentions of winning with my team.”

Walton: “There was a time when I was playing AAU and we made a good run at a national tournament. I made some big shots to help the team for the first time. It made an impact on me. It showed me the hard work that I was putting into the game was paying off. Sharing those moments after making the shots with my teammates and family after the game made me want to keep getting better. I felt special in those moments.”

Francis: “When we were younger, I had a group of friends that all played select basketball together. We ended up losing only four total games. That was a testament on how well we played as a group and that we were all selfless and enjoyed playing together.”

Anderson: “All the early mornings and late nights are in the gym is where I started understanding that the work was starting to pay off.”

Horner: “Sophomore year for me. I went for 24 points in the fourth round of the playoffs. It was a crazy crowd. I remember looking around during the game thinking that I could do this. Our team won a state championship in high school. We competed every day in practice and always worked hard. We played for each other and won it all.”

Henderson: “My favorite memory is the first time my dad coached me in a game and I made the game-winning shot. Seeing how happy we all were at the time made me want to keep going. The game was super fun.”

Yalaho: “I played soccer and basketball growing up. They both gave me happiness and freedom. I quit soccer when I was 14 though. I knew basketball was what I wanted to do. Take it more seriously. I started growing really tall and was too tall really to play soccer. They’re usually short. But I also really loved basketball. I was a point guard when I started playing. I wasn’t that tall yet and I was good at shooting and could move around.”

McMillian: “My mom has always been my biggest supporter. When I was young, she always encouraged me to enjoy the game but to get better. I had a little goal in our house that I would always dunk on and break. She just kept buying me hoops every time I broke one. She kept putting the game in my life. I wouldn’t be here right now without her. She showed me unconditional love and support throughout my life.”

Walton: “Ken Novak was my high school coach. He really helped me a lot in terms of learning and appreciating the game. Basketball genius, really. His knowledge of the game really impressed me. He helped me reach new heights. A great person who has always looked out for my best interest. My dad has always been a big part of my basketball life. He’s definitely who got me started. They both helped me get here and encouraged me.”

Anderson: “My dad coached after he played and I used to always go to his practices. I loved being there around the team and playing when I could get on the court. He played and coached in so many places that I got to be around. Having him as a source in the process I’m going through is rare. I’m really lucky to have my dad to guide me through everything.”

Francis: “I’ve been lucky to have great coaches throughout my life. My high school coach made a big impact on me. He was always there for me. Coach Pitt (Daniel Pittsford).”

Toppin: “Coach BT at Faith Family (Brandon Thomas). He kept me focused and told me how good I could be. He made me want to work harder. He mentored me into the player that I am today. My mom also. I’ve seen how hard she works every day and the sacrifices she’s made for me and our family. She’s taught me that everything happens for a reason and to put trust in what you’re doing and the ones you care about the most. Success doesn’t happen right away for everyone but if you put in the time and commit you can be successful.”

Horner: “My mom and my Papa. Having my mom taking me everywhere to play was big for me. I always appreciated it. We had 5 a.m. practices and she never complained about taking me. She is my motivation. I’ve already told her my goal is to get her a house to pay her back. My Papa taught me everything about the game and helped me fall in love with everything about it.”

Hawkins: “My dad and uncle were always there for me. They were always in my ear about learning the game, working hard and taking the game seriously. I learned not to take anything for granted from them.”

Overton: “Kyle Lindsted at Sunrise. He helped me understand what’s important. Him and Coach Luke (Barnwell). His ability to help me appreciate the little things helped me get to where I am today.”

Federiko: “Justice Graham. My high school coach in Finland. He made me take basketball more seriously. He made it fun.”

Williams: “My dad has always been the staple in my life for basketball. We’ve always gone back-and-forth, but I always know he believes in me. He coached me from the start and really kept me going when I might have quit basketball. He helped me develop the love for the game.”

McMillian: “Thomas McClanhan. He was my middle school AAU coach. He was on me tough. I appreciate that. It led me here. To good things.”

Horner: “In youth football I had Coach Pat. North Texas Rams when I was little. He got that dog out of me. Coach Jermaine O’Neal pushed me to get better when I was in high school at Dynamic Prep. He played at the highest level and showed me what it takes. The highest standard. My mom and big brother. My mom is always working and has done everything she can for my family. She taught me everything I know. My brother has been by my side and pushes me to get better.”

Yalaho: “Toni Nyman. It was during Covid and I wasn’t sure exactly where I was going. I was bigger then too. Not in great shape. He pushed me to go running and play basketball on the street. Anywhere we could. He coached me to get better and encouraged me to stay focused.”

Green: “Coach Middleton was big for me at Midlothian High School. Even before he was my high school coach, he was helping me develop into the player I am today.”

Williams: “I grew up wanting to be just like LeBron James. Still do.”

Toppin: “I wanted to be like Antawn Jamison. Wanted to have the same touch and feel around the basket. He was always someone I watched on tv and then tried to play like.”

Walton: “Kobe Bryant was always my biggest inspiration. He’s my all-time favorite player, the reason I wear 24. The way he approached the game and life made a deep impact on me. He was driven and focused.”

Yalaho: “I looked up to Lauri Markkanen for sure. He is from the same city as I’m from in Finland. My mom took me to one of his games and from there I really wanted to start playing. He’s a great example for me. Shows me there’s a chance if I keep working hard.”

McMillian: “I always looked up to Steph Curry. His shooting was something that motivated me. Also, Ray Allen. They are players who I have always wanted to play like.”

Federiko: “LeBron and Michael Jordan inspired me. I remember watching their highlights when I was kid. They dominated and influenced the game. I wanted to do that too.”

Horner: "LeBron James. The way he carries himself on the court and as a leader always impressed me. I grew up wanting to be just like him. Model my game and everything about myself like him."

Anderson: "I watched a lot of Curry. He changed the game with the 3-point shot. I loved the way Chris Paul played the game. He set up his teammates and was a leader on the floor. Steph, Chris Paul and Kobe are players I idolized. Kobe had a mentality that everyone can learn from. Michael Jordan. He was competitive and fearless. The way he played was perfect."

Hawkins: "There are a lot of players I really liked and tried to take stuff from to be better. Our games don't compare, but I really like Kevin Durant. We're from the same area."

Francis: "Kevin Durant was my biggest influence. I had every one of his jerseys and watched all of his games. I always watched his highlights before games and this quote of his resonated with me. 'Hard work beats talent when talent fails to work hard.'"

Overton: "My G.O.A.T. is Michael Jordan. From pace and finesse, making plays, Paul George is someone I want to play like. Shai Gilgeous-Alexander is on another level, but pace-wise I can see myself in him some."

Federiko: "I played with Lauri Markkanen on the Finland national team. He was always super professional and loved the game. I wanted to match his aggressiveness."

McMillian: "Darrion Williams. Honestly, he's the best player I've ever played with. He's very unselfish and knows how to make the right reads. He's always hyping people up. He makes the game fun for all his teammates."

Hawkins: "Kyle Foster. We were teammates at Howard. He was a fifth-year senior when I was a freshman. He pushed me and made me believe in myself. He made me think I could excel in college. Gave me confidence by learning from him."

Walton: "I played with Zeke Nnaji in high school. He's on the Denver Nuggets now. We shared the same drive and competitiveness as me. We were always working out on the court and hanging out together. We had the same dream and vision."

Toppin: "I've played with a lot of great players but Ja'Kobe Walter is probably the best. We played together with Team Trae Young. He's in the league now playing for Toronto. His example showed me that it can happen. That we can get there. We were teammates when we were kids and now he's in the NBA. Just keep working."

Horner: "Keyonte George. He was always a natural scorer and fluid. We played together when we were younger. Very skilled. Makes the game fun to watch."

Henderson: "JT (Toppin). He always shows up in the game. Always plays hard."

Overton: "Tucker DeVries. Two-time conference player of the year. I got to be around him last year at Drake and see what a player of the year does to get to that level. He took me in from the jump. I wasn't sure if I was going to play much in my freshman year, but I think Tucker saw that I was different and he was always there for me. As a freshman, I really appreciated it coming from a player like him who didn't really have to treat a young player like me that way. It's really helped me to get to where I'm at with my game."

Williams: "I was a freshman and played with Tré Coleman at Nevada. He was like my big brother on the team. He showed me the ropes, on my good and bad days. He was there for me that entire season and helped me grow up and understand the game more. It really helped me during the season. He built my confidence. I want to be like that now for our younger guys."

Yalaho: "I played with Damarius Owens at Western Reserve Academy. He's at Marquette now. He is an all-around player and great kid. He was really good on offense and defense. Didn't need the ball all the time and a great teammate."

Overton: "Everything has shaped me. My childhood has mentally prepared me for what I'm doing today. My love of the game goes way back."

Walton: "Basketball has helped me want to become the best version of myself. My dad taught me a lot about being self-driven, consistent and disciplined in everything I do. I think that approach started when I was really young and has continued to today."

McMillian: "If I didn't go through the trials and tribulations, I wouldn't be here right now. They've made me stronger. Basketball was huge in that. I've made mistakes that I've learned and grown from."

Federiko: "Basketball changed my life a lot. I'm a kid from Finland who now lives in West Texas playing at Texas Tech. Unreal. It's because of the game. I've learned a lot about myself and other people through basketball. I've grown through the game. I'm confident in myself to be able to adapt in any situation."

Toppin: "Basketball has given me confidence in everything I do. It built character and gave me connections. It's given me everything."

Walton: "The game fueled my competitive nature. I can be a quiet person, but I felt comfortable on the court. It brought something out in me that nothing else really did from an early age. My team won the state championship in my junior year of high school. My boys had been working our entire lives for that. We got it. Our team was bought in completely for each other. There was a real bond there. That game was in the Timberwolves arena. We talked about getting there and winning it forever. Nothing would stop us. That was the best feeling ever for me."

Hawkins: "My perspective changed through the game. I really think the game is why I really focus on details. Being consistent in my life. Not just the game. Time management. I think I grew up faster and became more mature because of my goals I have with the game."

Francis: "The game had a big impact on me, physically and mentally. I've gained a lot of memories and friendships. Tons of positive experiences that the game has provided me."

Horner: "Basketball changed my life in a lot of ways. I don't know where I'd be without the game. Don't want to even think about it really. It brought me here to Texas Tech and has given me incredible opportunities."

Anderson: "I don't just love it. I don't just play it. My mind is wrapped around basketball all the time. I live it. I'm motivated to be the best. I don't want to be anything but the best so that's what I worked towards every day. When I see someone who is better than me, that's motivation to work harder."

Green: "I originally committed to play college baseball but then got an opportunity at Air Force. I'm glad I had those experiences. I feel the game and the opportunity has made me into a better man."

Yalaho: "Finding joy in the game pushes me harder. It makes working hard easier. That's how I've seen and played basketball since I was young."

McMillian: "I've seen a lot playing the game all my life and can't wait to put it all together this season."

Toppin: "I've come a long way with the game and take it a lot more seriously. I was pretty good when I started playing but I can admit I was lazy at first. I've learned you have to work hard every day and keep getting better. The game has shown me that the harder you work the more you can accomplish."

Williams: "I love how it allows me to express myself and meet new people and get out of my comfort zone. I'm more of a shy person. I don't really like talking to new people but in basketball it's natural for me. We have opportunities to meet a lot of new people and impact my life in different ways. Basketball has always done that for me. Having fun with the game is really important. We come here every day and take the sport really seriously in practice, but it's still a game that we all started playing as kids. If you're just going to stress about it and not have fun, then you'll lose the love of the game. The fun part is what brings me back every day wanting to get better. Keeping that childish approach to parts of the game helps you."
