

UCLA'S HOME ARENA FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY

UCLA will play its 53rd season in Pauley Pavilion presented by Wescom in 2018-19, the seventh year since the arena opened after undergoing a 33-month, $136-million renovation prior to the 2012-13 season. UCLA's athletic teams vacated the building during the 2011-12 season, and the men's basketball team played its 18 "home" games at the Los Angeles Sports Arena (14 games) and the Honda Center in Anaheim (four games).

The Bruins have gone 30-3 in Pauley Pavilion the past two seasons. In 2016-17, UCLA recorded its highest per-game home attendance average (11,183) since the team's 1995-96 campaign (11,872), the season after winning a record 11th NCAA Championship in April 1995. UCLA closed its 2016-17 home schedule with sellouts in nine of its final 10 home games.

Since reopening its renovating home arena prior to the 2012-13 season, UCLA has compiled a 88-15 home record (.854 win percentage) over the last six years. The Bruins drew a sellout crowd of 13,513 fans when the historic arena reopened on Nov. 9, 2012. UCLA downed Indiana State, 86-59, in what was the Bruins' first game in Pauley Pavilion since Feb. 26, 2011. In the 2012-13 regular season finale, a school record 13,727 fans watched UCLA defeat Arizona, 74-69, hours after Pauley Pavilion served as the host site for ESPN's College GameDay program (March 2, 2013) for the second time in six seasons.

Originally opened in 1965, Pauley Pavilion has been among the nation's premier all-around collegiate facilities. The arena's recent renovation included the addition of nearly 1,000 seats, allowing the building to seat up to 13,800 guests in various event formats – sporting events, concerts, award shows and commencement exercises. While calling Pauley Pavilion its home, the men's basketball program has won nine NCAA championships and 21 conference titles.

Highlights of the building's recent renovation and expansion include a new seating bowl with renovated aisles and steps, a retractable seating system on the event level and a renovated bowl that includes a new floor system and over 1,000 seats. Pauley Pavilion currently features a state-of-the-art, center-hung HD video board and LED ribbon board encircling the arena's interior. The renovation allowed for more than 25 additional points of sale for concession and an increased number of restrooms (by 154% of the previous total).

The building's north side includes two large locker rooms with player lounges and one film room, primarily used by the men's and women's basketball teams. Other amenities for UCLA's student-athletes include a sports medicine room, equipment room, storage space and a multi-purpose workroom that serves as the media room during the basketball season. The Pavilion Club on the mezzanine of the same structure serves the campus for numerous special events, while the building's exterior showcases a marketplace on the south side and a beautifully landscaped plaza to the east (adjacent to UCLA's Meyer and Renee Luskin Conference Center, which opened in August of 2016).

UCLA dedicated the floor in Pauley Pavilion as "Nell and John Wooden Court" prior to a men's basketball game against Michigan State on Dec. 20, 2003. Players from virtually all of Coach Wooden's teams joined him to celebrate the occasion. UCLA won that day's game against Michigan State, 64-58. During his 27-year UCLA coaching career, Coach Wooden had amassed an astounding 149-2 record in Pauley Pavilion (which opened during his 18th season as the program's head coach).

In 1991, Pauley Pavilion served as the site for the U.S. Olympic Festival basketball and gymnastics competitions. Many world-class competitions, including the 1984 Olympic gymnastics and a historic table tennis match between the United States and China, have taken place in Pauley Pavilion.

Some of the top names in college basketball history have competed in Pauley Pavilion. The list includes such greats as Lew Alcindor (Kareem Abdul-Jabbar), Bill Walton, Ed O'Bannon, Sidney Wicks, Marques Johnson, Reggie Miller, Tracy Murray, Don MacLean, Baron Davis, Earl Watson, Kevin Love, Russell Westbrook, Ann Meyers, Denise Curry and Pete Maravich and coaches such as John Wooden, Dean Smith and Denny Crum.

Entertainers such as Bob Dylan, Bob Hope, Henry Mancini, Frank Sinatra, Luciano Pavarotti, Nirvana, Bobby Brown, Eric Clapton, Guns and Roses, the Grateful Dead and Jay-Z have performed in UCLA's home facility. More recently, the venue has served as a host site in the summer to the Nickelodeon Kids' Sports Choice Awards.

UCLA's longest winning streak in Pauley Pavilion is 98 games (from 1970-71 to 1975-76). The historic men's basketball streak began with a victory in the team's season opener versus Baylor on Dec. 4, 1970, and concluded with a 65-45 loss to Oregon on Feb. 21, 1976.

UCLA has defeated the nation's No. 1-ranked team (as ranked in that week's AP poll) in Pauley Pavilion four times, most recently taking down No. 1-ranked Kentucky, 87-77, on Dec. 3, 2015. Other wins over the nation's top-ranked team took place in January 2002 (Kansas), December 1986 (North Carolina) and January 1974 (Notre Dame).

Among the most memorable moments in the building's history occurred when UCLA hosted its final game in the building's original configuration (Feb. 26, 2011, prior to the year-long closure). With 25 seconds to play in a game UCLA had turned into a rout, Tyler Trapani – the great grandson of the late Coach Wooden – caught a teammate's airball underneath the hoop and scored on a put-back for his first and only points as a Bruin. That marked the last basket ever scored by a men's player in the then-46-year history of "old Pauley Pavilion." UCLA won that game versus No. 10 Arizona, 71-49, on a sunny Saturday afternoon.

Pauley Pavilion was introduced to the University at the June 1965 Commencement exercises, at which time it was dedicated and named for Regent Edwin W. Pauley, the principal donor to the building fund. The Pauley family also contributed to UCLA's Campaign of Champions.

Total cost of the original Pauley Pavilion was as follows: $2 million by the State, $1 million by the student body and in excess of $2 million by the alumni with $1 million of the alumni contribution donated on a matching basis by Regent Pauley. The building's address is 301 Westwood Plaza, Los Angeles, CA, 90095.

11 NCAA CHAMPIONSHIPS

UCLA's program has won a national-best 11 NCAA titles, including seven consecutive national championships under the guidance of head coach John Wooden from 1967-73. The Bruins have posted undefeated records four times, going 30-0 en route to winning the national title in 1964, 1967, 1972 and 1973.

Overall, the Bruins have played in 49 NCAA Men's Basketball Tournaments, tied as the nation's second-highest total (tied with North Carolina, trailing Kentucky). In addition, UCLA has advanced to the Final Four 18 times and has posted a 106-42 record in the NCAA Tournament. The Bruins have compiled a 71.6 overall win percentage in the tournament.

NIT & CONFERENCE HISTORY

In addition to capturing 11 NCAA Championships, the Bruins won the 1985 NIT Championship under the leadership of head coach Walt Hazzard. The Bruins have twice competed in the NIT, winning the title in 1985 before returning to that tournament in 1986.

Entering its 100th men's basketball season in the fall of 2018, UCLA has secured 31 regular-season conference titles. During his 27 seasons as the Bruins' head coach, John Wooden helped direct UCLA to 19 conference titles (includes co-championships).

NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR

UCLA players have been honored with the two most prominent National Player of the Year Awards – the John R. Wooden Award and the Naismith Trophy – on multiple occasions. Since being honored as the first-ever recipient of the Wooden Award in 1977, Marques Johnson has been the only UCLA player to secure both the Wooden Award and the Naismith Trophy in the same season (1976-77, Johnson's senior year).

Wooden Award winners at UCLA have included Marques Johnson (1977) and Ed O'Bannon (1995). Johnson averaged 21.4 points and 11.1 rebounds per game in 1977, while O'Bannon logged 20.4 points and 8.3 rebounds per game during UCLA's 1995 NCAA Championship season.

UCLA has seen three of its players capture the coveted Naismith Trophy five times. Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar) won the first-ever Naismith Trophy as a senior in 1969. Bill Walton was a three-time winner of the award in 1972, 1973 and 1974. Johnson became the Bruins' third player to win the Naismith Trophy in just nine years as a senior in 1977.

MCDONALD'S ALL-AMERICANS

With the addition of freshmen Moses Brown in 2018-19, UCLA has seen 44 of its players compete in the annual McDonald's All-American Game at the conclusion of their high school careers. Only Duke and Kentucky have enrolled more McDonald's All-Americans.

JOHN R. WOODEN

UCLA's head coach from 1947-1975

The UCLA basketball program earned an international reputation as being No. 1, thanks in large part to the work of John R. Wooden, the late Bruins' head coach who guided the Bruins to 10 NCAA championships in the final 12 seasons of his 27-year tenure at UCLA.

Wooden retired at the conclusion of the 1974-75 season with an all-time head coaching record of 885-203 (40 years, including 27 at UCLA). His 81.3 winning percentage is the highest in the sport's history. In 27 seasons at UCLA, he went 620-147 while earning far more honors than any other coach at any other university.

Wooden celebrated his 99th birthday on Oct. 14, 2009 and passed away on June 4, 2010. Under his leadership, UCLA won an unprecedented 10 NCAA championships, including seven consecutive titles from 1966-73. Included in that string of titles is one of the most impressive streaks in modern-day athletics – 38 straight NCAA Tournament victories.

In addition, Wooden guided UCLA to the all-time NCAA men's basketball record of 88 consecutive wins spanning four seasons. The Bruins recorded consecutive 30-0 seasons in 1971-72 and 1972-73. UCLA won 149 of 151 games in Pauley Pavilion with Wooden at the helm.

Wooden became the only coach to record four undefeated seasons (at 30-0). His UCLA teams captured 19 conference championships, the record of which he was most proud. Wooden became the first person inducted into the National Basketball Hall of Fame as both a player and a coach.

Complementing the honors listed elsewhere in his biography, Wooden received two other accolades of which he was especially proud. He was named the 1969 "Outstanding Basketball Coach of the U.S." by his denomination, the Christian Church, for his services to collegiate basketball and the community. The other honor was having his hometown of Martinsville, Indiana, name a street after him and at the same time serving as the 1969 King of the famed Morgan County Fall Foliage Festival and Grand Marshal of the Festival Parade. The city's high school gymnasium also bears his name.

Born in Hall, Ind., on Oct. 14, 1910, Wooden attended high school there and won all-state prep honors in basketball three consecutive years, leading Martinsville High to the Indiana State title in 1927 and runner-up in 1926 and 1928.

At Purdue University, he won letters in basketball and baseball his freshman year and later earned All-American honors as a guard on the basketball team from 1930-32. He captained

Purdue's basketball teams of 1931 and 1932 and led the Boilermakers to two Big Ten titles and the 1932 national championship.

Wooden's name was inscribed on Purdue's academic honor roll and he was awarded the 1932 Big Ten Conference medal for outstanding merit and proficiency in scholarship and athletics.

Shortly after graduating from Purdue in 1932, he married his charming wife, Nell. He began his teaching career at Dayton High School in Kentucky where he coached numerous sports. After two years, he returned to the state of Indiana where he coached basketball, baseball and tennis at South Bend Central High School and taught English for nine years. His impressive 11-year prep coaching record was 218-42.

World War II interrupted his coaching career as he served as a full lieutenant in the U.S. Navy from 1943-46. Following his discharge in 1946, he went to Indiana Teachers College (now Indiana State University) as athletic director, basketball and baseball coach for two seasons prior to moving to UCLA.

Wooden and his wife, Nell, who died in Los Angeles on March 21, 1985, were married for 53 years. Parents of a son, James Hugh, and a daughter, Nancy Anne, John has seven grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. UCLA's basketball floor in Pauley Pavilion was dedicated "Nell and John Wooden Court" on Dec. 20, 2003.

YEAR-BY-YEAR WITH COACH WOODEN

Among college basketball's most accomplished coaches, John Wooden led UCLA to 10 NCAA titles during a 12-year span at UCLA. Prior to his 27-year coaching tenure in Los Angeles, he spent two seasons as head coach at Indiana State University (then known as Indiana Teachers College in Terre Haute, Ind.).

The 1963-64 season marked the start of UCLA's dominant run in college basketball. Until that year, the Bruins had been just another fine team, but it all changed that season.

In his 16th season as UCLA's head coach, John Wooden assembled an experience team blessed with great quickness. The Bruins installed the zone press, a system that helped carry Wooden's team to the top. Employing Gail Goodrich and Fred Slaughter under the basket, Walt Hazzard and Jack Hirsch behind them and Keith Erickson as the safety, the press destroyed opposing offenses all season.

UCLA logged a 30-0 record and won the NCAA title, the first of 10 championships in a 12-year span for the Bruins. Perhaps the top playmaker in UCLA history, Hazzard was named NCAA "Player of the Year" although he did not lead the Bruins in scoring. That honor went to Goodrich, who averaged 21.5 points to Hazzard's 18.6 ppg.

Hirsch and Erickson, the two forwards, averaged 14.0 and 10.7 points, respectively, while center Fred Slaughter averaged 7.9 ppg. Top reserves included forward Kenny Washington and center Doug McIntosh.

That year was symbolized by the "Bruin Blitz." There was no better illustration than in the NCAA championship game against Duke. With 7:14 remaining in the first half, the Bruins trailed 30-27. In the next 2:40, the Bruins outscored Duke, 16-0, to secure a 43-30 cushion. UCLA won the game, 98-83, starting its dynasty.

In early January, the Bruins pushed past Kentucky in the nation polls and into the No. 1 spot for the first time in program history.

Although the Bruins lost to Illinois, 110-83, in the season opener, they defeated Michigan, 91-80, in the NCAA championship game to win their second straight national title.

Head coach John Wooden had two returning starters from 1963-64 but had the right players to fit the championship puzzle. Utilizing the devastating zone press, the Bruins compiled a perfect conference record and captured the NCAA title with a 28-2 mark.

The leader of UCLA's championship unit was senior guard Gail Goodrich, who assumed the job of playmaker and scorer. The 6-foot guard led the Bruins by averaging 24.6 points per game (UCLA school record for guards). He finished his career as the Bruins' all-time leading scorer.

Also averaging double-figures included senior co-captain Keith Erickson (12.9), junior Fred Goss (12.2) and sophomore Edgar Lacey (11.6). Doug McIntosh took over as starting center, while Kenny Washington and Mike Lynn gave the Bruins superior bench strength.

UCLA reached its peak form during the NCAA Tournament, averaging 100 points in four games. Playing his best in the big games, Goodrich set a school record by scoring 42 points in the title game as the Bruins downed Michigan, 91-80, to win the school's second straight NCAA championship.

After failing to reach the NCAA Tournament in 1965-66, unable to defend their back-to-back titles in 1964 and 1965, the Bruins were ready to start a new streak during the 1966-67 season.

With four new sophomore starters and a junior returning to the starting lineup, the Bruins knew they could accomplish something special. Sophomore Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar) embarked on his varsity career and became the most dominating force in college basketball. Junior guard Mike Warren developed into among the smoothest playmaking guards in program history. Alcindor and Warren were joined in the starting lineup by sophomores Lucius Allen, Lynn Shackelford and Kenny Heitz.

Head coach John Wooden turned in another fantastic job at the helm, molding the 1966-67 unit into one of the finest teams in school history. Warren and the four sophomores, along with reserves Bill Sweek and Jim Nielsen, banded together to win 30 straight games and capture the school's third NCAA championship in four years.

In his first varsity contest, Alcindor set a school record by registering 56 points, a record he later broke that season by tallying 61 against Washington State.

The only thing that slowed the Bruins down was a delayed game, and the UCLA's smallest margin of victory was five points. In NCAA playoff competition, the Bruins outscored four opponents by 95 points, defeating Houston in the semifinals and Dayton in the finals to claim the NCAA championship.

Alcindor led the way by averaging 29.0 points and setting an NCAA record by hitting 66.7 percent of his field goal attempts. Allen and Warren averaged 15.5 and 12.7 points, respectively, while Shackelford logged 11.4 points per contest.

Lew Alcindor, Mike Warren, Lucius Allen, Lynn Shackelford and Kenny Heitz were all a year older and more experienced in 1967-68. In addition, Mike Lynn and Edgar Lacey (starters from 1965-66) returned to the varsity squad, so many figured the Bruins would cruise through every game, but that was not the case.

UCLA opened defense of its national title at Purdue, escaping with a 73-71 victory. The close win shocked the Bruins, who won their next 12 games (including 11 contests by 24 or more points) to extend their winning streak to 47.

The winning streak ended at the Houston Astrodome, where a then-record 52,693 fans watched Houston upset UCLA, 71-69. Alcindor, who had an injured eye, did not play at full strength, and the Cougars exploited that weakness.

The Bruins ended the regular season with a No. 2 national ranking (behind Houston). One Pac-8 foe came within eight points of the Bruins, who set a school record by averaging 93.4 points per game that season. In the NCAA Regionals, UCLA defeated New Mexico State and Santa Clara to advance to the semifinals against Houston.

In the rematch at the L.A. Sports Arena, Alcindor, Allen and Lynn scored 19 points each against Houston. Playing a diamond-and-one defense against Elvin Hayes and the Cougars (Shackelford was the one), UCLA roared to a 53-31 halftime lead and a 101-69 triumph. The next day, the Bruins earned their fourth NCAA title in five seasons with a 78-55 win against North Carolina.

Despite the elimination of the dunk shot, Alcindor led UCLA's attack with a 26.2 scoring average, followed by Allen (15.1), Warren (12.1), Shackelford (10.7) and Lynn (10.3).

The Bruins entered the 1968-69 season without any experienced guards to get the ball to Lew Alcindor, Lynn Shackelford and forwards Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks.

Head coach John Wooden solved the problem by filling one guard spot with junior college transfer John Vallely, who became known as the "Money Man" for his play in big games. The other backcourt spot was filled by Kenny Heitz.

Although the scores were closer, the Bruins still won their first 23 games without much of a scare. But the next two, an overtime victory at California and a double overtime win at USC, were omens of things to come. The night after the double-overtime victory, USC upset the Bruins, 46-44, in Pauley Pavilion. That loss marked UCLA's first in its relatively new home arena and just the second of the Alcindor Era.

The Bruins advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the third straight year, defeating New Mexico State and Santa Clara (in Pauley Pavilion) to head back to the NCAA Final Four.

UCLA extended its winning streak with an 85-82 victory over Drake in the NCAA semifinals. Vallely had 29 points and Alcindor registered 25 points. The following afternoon, the Bruins became the first team in NCAA history to win three straight titles, taking down Purdue, 92-72. Playing in his final collegiate game, Alcindor netted 37 points while UCLA's defense (led by Heitz) held high-scoring Rick Mount in check.

Alcindor averaged 24.0 ppg, followed by Rowe (12.9 ppg), Vallely (11.0 ppg), Wicks (7.5 ppg) and Heitz (7.0 ppg). In three seasons at UCLA, Alcindor led the Bruins to an 88-2 record while establishing the school's career scoring and rebounding records.

With Lew Alcindor playing in the NBA, the rest of the college basketball world could breathe easier. UCLA returned John Vallely and Curtis Rowe from the 1969 NCAA championship team and most figured the Bruins would not be a factor in the championship picture. UCLA set out to prove those naysayers wrong.

Junior Sidney Wicks, moving in at the vacated forward position, became UCLA's top scorer (18.6 ppg) and rebounder (11.9 rpg). Wicks was joined on the front line by Rowe (15.3 ppg, 8.7 rpg) and center Steve Patterson (12.5 ppg, 10.0 rpg).

Vallely provided senior leadership in the backcourt, averaging 16.3 points per game. Sophomore guard Henry Bibby, the team's fifth starter, had one of the best seasons for any UCLA guard, averaging 15.6 points while shooting 50.1 percent from the field.

UCLA averaged 92 points per game and established a school scoring record of 133 points against LSU, led by Pete Maravich. Although the Bruins lost two regular season games, they won their fourth consecutive Pac-8 title, serving notice that they would be ready to defend their three straight NCAA championships.

The Bruins advanced to the NCAA title game against Jacksonville, led by 7-foot-2 center Artis Gilmore and guard Rex Morgan, a duo dubbed "Batman and Robin" by the media.

Jacksonville opened a nine-point lead in the first half, but by halftime, the Bruins secured a five-point cushion and Wicks had blocked five of Gilmore's shots. Rowe scored 19 points, Wicks and Patterson each finished with 17, and the Bruins won their fourth straight NCAA championship with an 80-69 victory.

Coach Wooden and the Bruins returned their frontcourt of seniors Sidney Wicks, Curtis Rowe and Steve Patterson. Their contributions became more important throughout the season, because UCLA did not generate the quality guard play they had received in previous championship seasons.

Wicks returned as the Bruins' leading scorer (21.3 ppg) and rebounder (12.7 rpg). When the Bruins were in trouble, they went to Wicks, and he usually found a way to pull them through. In a contest against Oregon State, Wicks dribbled the clock to its final seconds before hitting a jump shot for a two-point victory.

Rowe (17.5 ppg) and Patterson (12.9 ppg) collected over 290 rebounds each. The often overlooked Patterson saved his best for last, scoring 29 points in UCLA's 68-62 win over Villanova in the NCAA championship contest.

Taking over the backcourt playmaking chores of John Vallely, Henry Bibby averaged 11.8 points, scoring 17 in the title game. Senior Kenny Booker (5.5 ppg) started opposite Bibby and senior Terry Schofield (6.2 ppg) proved to be a valuable sixth man. UCLA lost just one game all season, an 89-82 decision at Notre Dame. That game was the Bruins' last loss for three years, there were a number of other close calls.

The Bruins trailed USC by nine points with nine minutes remaining at the L.A. Sports Arena, before rallying for a 64-60 win. In the NCAA West Regionals, the Bruins rallied from an 11-point deficit to defeat Cal State Long Beach, 57-55, and earn another trip to the NCAA Final Four. In all, the Bruins won seven games by five points or fewer en route to a 29-1 record and their fifth consecutive NCAA championship.

Senior guard Henry Bibby was the only returning starter and junior Larry Farmer, a top reserve the previous season, took over one of the vacated forward positions and averaged 10.7 points and 5.5 rebounds in 1971-72.

The big story for the five-time defending NCAA champions was the team's three sophomores, led by 6-foot-11 center Bill Walton. On his way to establishing himself as one of the game's premier players, Walton led UCLA in scoring (21.1 ppg) and tied Lew Alcindor's school record by collecting 466 rebounds.

UCLA's two other key sophomores included Keith Wilkes (now Jamaal Wilkes) and Greg Lee. Wilkes averaged 13.5 points, second only to Walton and Bibby (15.7). Wilkes averaged over eight rebounds per game. Lee assumed UCLA's point guard duties, averaging 8.7 points per game while running the team's fast break.

The starters also received help from Larry Hollyfield (7.3 ppg) and Tommy Curtis (4.1 ppg). Swen Nater, an eventual first-round NBA draft pick, was a key contributor from the bench (6.7 ppg).

UCLA opened the year by scoring at least 100 points in seven straight games. Prior to the NCAA championship contest against Florida State, only one team had closed to within six points of the Bruins. Walton scored 24 points and Wilkes added 23 as the Bruins downed Florida State, 81-76, claiming their sixth consecutive NCAA title.

UCLA became the first school to compile three perfect 30-0 seasons. The Bruins also established an NCAA record (which still stands) by outscoring opponents by at least 30.3 points per game.

UCLA returned the bulk of its team from the previous season, as senior Larry Hollyfield (10.7 ppg) did a fine job filling in for the departed Henry Bibby. The rest of the cast remained the same with Bill Walton (20.4 ppg) at center. Keith Wilkes (14.8) and Larry Farmer (12.2) at forward and Greg Lee (4.6) at guard. Tommy Curtis (6.4), Dave Meyers (4.9), Swen Nater (3.2) and Pete Trgovich (3.1) gave the Bruins an outstanding reserve contingent.

Together, these nine players set numerous records. UCLA registered its 60th consecutive victory on Jan. 25, 1973, posting an 87-73 victory over Loyola University (Chicago), tying San Francisco's previous NCAA record. Two days later, UCLA established a new record with a win over Notre Dame, 82-63, on the Fighting Irish home court. By the end of the season, the streak had reached 75 straight wins.

The Bruins suffered very few close calls during the regular season, winning every game by at least six points and 23 of the 26 contests by 10 points or more. In the NCAA West Regional finals, the Bruins faced a determined San Francisco team trailed UCLA at halftime, 23-22. UCLA outscored the Dons in the second half, 31-17, to secure a 54-39 win.

In the NCAA semifinals, Indiana gave the Bruins a scare with a furious second-half rally. But Curtis came off the bench to score 22 points, and the Bruins reached the title game with a 70-59 victory.

Walton finished the year with a school-record 506 rebounds. In the title contest, he established an NCAA record by making 21 of 22 shots, scoring 44 points as the Bruins defeated Memphis State, 87-66. UCLA won its seventh straight NCAA title and became the only school to compile consecutive undefeated seasons.

Senior David Meyers was the lone returning starter from the 1973-74 team that finished third, nationally. He assumed UCLA's leadership role and became well-known for his aggressive play and hustle. Sophomores Richard Washington (15.9 ppg) and Marques Johnson (11.6) joined Meyers (18.3) on the front line and were supported by junior Ralph Drollinger (8.8) at center.

Coach Wooden's 1974-75 team had little experience in the backcourt. Pete Trgovich (10.2), who had started early in the previous year, moved in at one guard spot while junior Andre McCarter (7.0) assumed the playmaking role, leading the team with 156 assists.

The Bruins opened the season by winning their first 12 games before being upset at Stanford. Along the way, UCLA lost two more games and had numerous other close contests, at the end of the regular season the Bruins captured another Pac-8 title and looked to reclaim the NCAA championship.

UCLA won its first playoff game in overtime, securing a 103-91 decision against Michigan, before knocking off Montana, 67-64. The Bruins won the West Regional title behind Johnson's 35-point effort in an 89-75 win against Arizona State.

In the NCAA Final Four, UCLA defeated Louisville in overtime, 75-74, as Washington led the Bruins' charge by scoring 26 points. Following that game, Wooden announced that he would retire upon the conclusion of the NCAA championship contest.

UCLA used just six players in a 92-85 win over Kentucky in the NCAA title game, helping Wooden secure his 10th NCAA title at the helm of the Bruins' program. Washington finished with 28 points, Meyers added 24 and Drollinger came off the bench to grab 13 rebounds. Wooden's final career win accounted for UCLA's 10th NCAA championship in 12 years, a record that has yet to be matched.

UCLA won the NCAA title in 1994-95, earning its first NCAA championship in 20 years and making its first NCAA Final Four appearance in 15 seasons. Behind the senior trio of Ed O'Bannon (20.4 ppg), Tyus Edney (14.3 ppg) and George Zidek (10.6 ppg) and led by head coach Jim Harrick, the Bruins defeated defending NCAA champion Arkansas, 89-78, to win the program's 11th national title.

O'Bannon scored a team-leading 30 points and collected a team-best 17 rebounds in the win over Arkansas, earning Most Outstanding Player honors at the Final Four.

Edney was named the Most Outstanding Player in the West Regional, and his last-second full-court dash against Missouri in the Bruins' 75-74, second-round win propelled the Bruins to the "Sweet 16." Edney played just three minutes against Arkansas in the title contest after suffering a sprained right wrist in the team's 74-61 win over Oklahoma State in the NCAA semifinals. Sophomore Cameron Dollar filled in admirably for the injured Edney versus Arkansas, contributing six points and eight assists.

A season-long stalwart for UCLA, the 7-foot tall Zidek saved his best performances for the Final Four. He contained OSU's Bryant Reeves in the semifinal win and held Corliss Williamson (1994 Final Four Most Outstanding Player) in check against Arkansas. Zidek (10.6 ppg, 5.4 rpg) earned first-team GTE Academic All-America honors.

Dollar, sophomore Charles O'Bannon (13.6 ppg) and freshmen Toby Bailey (10.5) and J.R. Henderson (9.2) were instrumental in UCLA's championship season. Charles O'Bannon started all 33 games, Dollar played in every contest. Bailey erupted for a career-high 26 points in the West Regional final against Connecticut, earning All-Tournament Team acclaim at the Final Four and West Regional. Henderson was consistent all season, earning Pac-10 All-Freshman first team accolades.

Harrick earned Naismith and NABC National Coach of the Year honors, in addition to capturing Pac-10 Coach of the Year acclaim. He was assisted that season by Mark Gottfried, Lorenzo Romar, Steve Lavin and David Boyle.

NIT Champions

First-year head coach Walt Hazzard helped lead the 1984-85 UCLA team to its only championship in the National Invitational Tournament (NIT) after the Bruins managed just three wins in their first nine games.

UCLA's 67-59 double-overtime win over Oregon (Jan. 5) helped jump start the Bruins' season. Over a seven-game stretch that month, UCLA moved into first place in the Pac-10 standings with a 6-2 conference mark. After losing four consecutive games in February, the Bruins closed the regular season with six wins in their final seven games.

The Bruins opened the NIT with wins over Montana (74-48) and Nebraska (82-63), before cruising past Fresno State, 53-43, to advance to the semifinal round. Brad Wright scored a career-high 23 points in a 75-66 win over Louisville. Tournament MVP Reggie Miller and All-Tournament guard Nigel Miguel scored 18 points each, leading UCLA to a 65-62 victory over Indiana in the NIT championship contest.

MO OSTIN BASKETBALL CENTER

The men's and women's basketball programs officially opened the Mo Ostin Basketball Center in October 2017. The Bruins' new, state-of-the-art training facility stands just southwest of Pauley Pavilion and adjacent to the Los Angeles Tennis Center. The Mo Ostin Basketball Center provides both basketball programs with incredible resources to help the two programs in all phases.

In total, the Mo Ostin Basketball Center features approximately 35,000 gross square-feet of space. Designed by award-winning architectural design firm Kevin Daly

Architects, in partnership with globally acclaimed high-performance design firm AECOM, the facility features Russell Westbrook Court, Ann Meyers Drysdale Court and The Kevin Love Strength and Conditioning Facility. The two basketball programs also have locker rooms in their new practice facility, as well as a meeting rooms, equipment rooms and a film room.

The Mo Ostin Basketball Center, as well as the Wasserman Football Center, have been part of the $4.2 billion campus-wide UCLA Centennial Campaign. The athletic department has aimed to surpass its $260 million goal by 2019, securing more than $160 million since the campaign was announced in May of 2014. These two facilities directly address the Department's primary Centennial Campaign objective: to create a financially sustainable future to build upon UCLA's standing as the premier intercollegiate athletics program in the nation.

In Dec. 2015, the athletic department announced a significant financial contribution from Russell Westbrook toward the Mo Ostin Basketball Center. Kevin Love matched that donation in Sept. 2016 (the two largest donations by former basketball student-athletes in school history). In honor of these gifts, UCLA named the men's basketball practice floor Russell Westbrook Court. UCLA's basketball-specific strength and conditioning facility in the new building is named The Kevin Love Strength and Conditioning Center.

"It's hard for me to put into words how excited we are as coaches, and how excited our players are, to get into this building as our season gets underway," head coach Steve Alford said. "We're so grateful to Mo Ostin for his incredible generosity. His lead gift has encouraged so many others to help make this project possible. To all these individuals, please know that we're humbled by your support."

"I'd like to thank Russell Westbrook and Kevin Love for giving back to their alma mater," Alford continued. "I also appreciate the leadership of Dan Guerrero and our department's administration for making this vision a reality. It's certainly an exciting time for our basketball program."

In addition, UCLA received a significant financial contribution in Feb. 2017 from an anonymous donor, who respectfully requested to acknowledge the legacy and leadership of Bruin great Ann Meyers Drysdale by naming the women's basketball practice floor in her honor – as such, the women's practice floor is named Ann Meyers Drysdale Court.

STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Wes Long enters his 10th year as the strength and conditioning coach for the men's basketball team, which has its own weight facility in Pauley Pavilion. Long served as UCLA's strength coach from 2007-11 prior to a two-year stint in the same position at Wyoming (2011-13).

Wes Long

The Mo Ostin Basketball Center has a state-of-the-art weight facility, named the Kevin Love Strength and Conditioning Center. This facility is exclusively used by the men's and women's basketball teams. In addition, UCLA's student-athletes also have access to the Athletic Performance Center in the Acosta Athletic Training Complex, a facility that has doubled in size (15,000 square feet) and is directed by athletic performance coach Mike Linn.

An athlete's development requires a comprehensive plan that maximizes all physical components of competition. The program developed by UCLA's staff is instrumental in equipping all Bruin student-athletes with the physical tools required to successfully compete in the national spotlight. Each men's basketball player receives individual attention from Coach Long in developing all facets of athleticism, such as strength, force production and power.

The Athletic Performance Center in the Acosta Athletic Training Complex features 27 weightlifting platforms, a state of the art dumbbell area, 30 upper and lower body weight machines and a variety of cardiovascular equipment. The room is highlighted by the Athletic Performance Area, a specialized space dedicated to enhancing acceleration/deceleration capabilities, foot speed, balance and coordination, vertical jump and flexibility for all Bruin athletes.

ACOSTA ATHLETIC TRAINING COMPLEX

This state-of-the-art facility provides UCLA student-athletes and coaches plenty of advantages needed to maximize athletic performance. Key features include a 15,000 square-foot weight room, with the modern equipment for use by multiple teams in the athletic department. The training complex is a three-story building that also features a "Bod Pod," which is used to accurately measure one's body fat, and an 8,000 square-foot athletic training and rehabilitation facility with private offices and doctor's suites.

The Acosta Athletic Training Complex, in addition to the sports medicine room in the Mo Ostin Basketball Center, provides greater advances in sports medicine to benefit UCLA's student-athletes, including state-of-the-art hydro-therapy pods. Mark Pocinich heads the UCLA sports medicine staff and works closely with team physician Dr. David McAllister and men's basketball athletic trainer Shane Besedick.

Key components of UCLA's 8,000 square foot athletic training and rehabilitation facility are private offices, doctor's suites and meetings rooms. The second floor features locker rooms for men's and women's sports and houses an athlete lounge. Included are multiple hydro pools, expanded rehab and examination areas and an interfacing with the award-winning "Best in the West" UCLA Ronald Reagan Medical Center.

UCLA's sports medicine staff works with the athletic performance staff to maintain a holistic approach to athletic performance. Key components include Olympic lifting, functional training, dynamic flexibility, sports nutrition, injury prevention, sport specific conditioning, metabolic assessment testing, a Bod Pod that is accurate for body fat testing and a specialized turf area dedicated to enhancing sports specific movements such as acceleration/deceleration capabilities, foot speed, balance and coordination, vertical jump and flexibility.

BRUINS AT THE OLYMPICS

UCLA's basketball team has been represented at the Olympic Games five times, most recently in 2012 when former UCLA standouts Kevin Love and Russell Westbrook helped Team USA capture the gold medal at the Olympics in London. UCLA's former players have also competed for the U.S. Olympic Team in 1996, 1964, 1948 and 1936.

GOLD MEDAL WINNERS

Each of UCLA's 10 former players who have competed in the Olympic Games have captured gold medals for the United States. Reggie Miller, who played at UCLA from 1984-87, was a part of the 1996 U.S. Olympic Team. That year, Team USA captured the gold medal in Atlanta with a 95-69 victory over Yugoslavia. Both Kevin Love and Russell Westbrook played significant roles in leading Team USA to the gold medal at the 2012 Olympics in London. After defeating Argentina in that tournament's semifinal round, the U.S men's team knocked off Spain, 107-100, to win gold.

Among the world's leading research universities, UCLA is best known for the breadth and quality of its academic, research, health care, cultural, continuing education and athletic programs. UCLA is a truly international university that offers a world of opportunity. Consistently ranked among the world's top-tier universities and powered by extensive resources, a renowned reputation and – most important – the will to make a real difference in the world, the result is clearly in the numbers.

UCLA is the most applied-to university in the nation. For the fall of 2018, more than 114,000 freshman applications were received. Nearly 96 percent of the school's freshmen live in university housing, and approximately 52 percent of UCLA's undergraduates receive some sort of financial assistance.

The top six most popular undergraduate majors include business economics, biology, psychology, political science, economics and psychobiology. The university offers over 125 majors and 80 minors. In addition, UCLA has nearly 150 graduate degree programs, including an extensive selection of management and health sciences options. There are 40 UCLA doctoral programs that rank among the top 10 in their fields nationwide. Many of its 11 professional schools and academic departments and programs are ranked among the best in the nation. UCLA is a university with the size and scope to allow for unimagined diversity, unmatched breadth and depth of scholarship, and limitless possibility for its 31,002 undergraduates and 13,025 graduate students.

FACULTY, STUDENTS & ALUMNI

Seven UCLA faculty have been awarded Nobel Prizes – the four most recent are J. Fraser Stoddard in chemistry and biochemistry (2016), Lloyd Shapley in economic sciences (2012), Louis Ignarro in medicine (1998) and biochemist Paul Boyer in chemistry (1997). Among faculty there have been nine National Medals of Science recipients, and hundreds of Guggenheim Fellowships, Fulbright Awards and other academic distinctions. At UCLA, thousands of students extend their educations beyond the classroom by working directly with faculty on research projects. Many UCLA undergraduates participate in major research studies, working one-on-one with world-renowned scholars as they discover and create new knowledge. UCLA's alumni are bright stars on the world stage. They include leaders of industry and commerce – Oscar, Grammy, Tony, and Emmy winners; philanthropists and public servants; Olympians and professional athletes; educators, engineers, bankers, and astronauts. Founded in 1934, the UCLA Alumni Association serves 88,000 members, part of the larger network of more than 500,000 UCLA alumni around the globe, with a comprehensive array of services and programs.

Powell Library

BOOKS & TECHNOLOGY

The UCLA Library is ranked among the top academic research libraries in North America with holdings of more than 12 million print and electronic volumes and has over 15 million virtual visitors via the website. From the birth of the Internet at UCLA in 1969, UCLA continues to be a leader in resources for learning. UCLA is nationally recognized for developing ground-breaking computer services for undergraduates and was the first university to have a website for every undergraduate. The UCLA Library is one of the largest student employers on campus, while countless hours are spent providing free research help and writing assistance of students. The university provides an innovative, on-line tool called "myucla.edu," which provides a Web page tailored to each student's academic needs.

OUTREACH & COMMUNITY SERVICE

From its founding, UCLA has been an integral and contributing part of the greater Los Angeles community. Outreach programs and volunteerism are as much a part of UCLA as academics and research, with hundreds of UCLA-sponsored programs providing a wide range of opportunities. Many of UCLA's undergraduates volunteer for these programs, including tutoring youths, adults and incarcerated youths; addressing health and educational needs of underserved communities; combating poverty and homelessness; aiding the elderly and disabled; and providing legal, social, medical and educational assistance to community residents. Through outreach and academic preparation programs, UCLA works with K-12 schools throughout Los Angeles to help greater numbers of students prepare to compete successfully for college. UCLA also partners with community colleges to increase the number of underrepresented students transferring to the university. Additionally, UCLA faculty, researchers and students provide leadership and public service in health care, law, economic development, social welfare, urban planning, public policy, arts and the environment. Most academic departments have major research projects, field studies or student internships that directly affect people's lives in Los Angeles, the state and the nation.

HEALTH CARE

UCLA Health has been a leader in patient care, medical research, education and community service for more than 60 years. The UCLA health system includes four hospitals on two campuses; more than 160 community clinics throughout Southern California; the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA, and the UCLA Faculty Practice Group.

UCLA Health's four hospitals – Ronald Reagan UCLA Medical Center; UCLA Medical Center, Santa Monica; UCLA Mattel Children's Hospital; and Stewart and Lynda Resnick Neuropsychiatric Hospital at UCLA – are consistently ranked among the best in the nation by U.S. News & World Report. In addition, UCLA's wide-reaching system of primary- and specialty-care clinics offers patients convenient access to the best in health care and the latest in medical technology.

Patients also benefit from UCLA Health's standing as a comprehensive academic medical system, in which physicians and scientists work together to discover new and better ways to diagnose and treat diseases. At the forefront of these efforts is the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA. The medical school offers a comprehensive array of research and clinical centers – with such specialized emphases as stem cell and regenerative medicine, AIDS, gene therapy, neurosciences, women's health and geriatrics – that translate research findings into the latest diagnostic and treatment techniques across the broad spectrum of medicine.

UCLA Health's mission extends beyond the walls of its hospitals and clinics. Located in one of the most diverse communities in the country, UCLA Health has a wide-range of community health programs designed to prevent and treat adverse health conditions, such as obesity, asthma, cardiovascular disease, and much more. A degree from UCLA means success across the world.

COMPLETE NATIONAL SPORTS MEDIA COVERAGE

Centered in Los Angeles, the nation's second-largest media market, UCLA garners more overall national, regional and local television team exposure than any other college in the nation. With multiple daily newspapers, UCLA ranks among the top in former student-athletes and students in broadcasting, sports writing, acting, and more, with access to numerous contacts and current athletes. UCLA ranks No. 1 in Sports Illustrated cover appearances. Prominent media outlets such as ESPN, Fox Sports, CNN and USA Today have offices in Los Angeles. UCLA's athletic department has inherited more national exposure with the creation of Pac-12 Networks, which broadcasts live Pac-12 athletic events through television and multiple mobile devices.

TOP TRADITION OF ATHLETIC EXCELLENCE

INTANGIBLES, BEST COLLEGE LOCATION

UCLA's overall success combining prestigious academics, top athletic finishes and tremendous social life cannot be matched by any other university. UCLA has great resources available on a daily basis for our student-athletes to be the best in any area they select. UCLA lives by its axiom of "Champions Made Here," and the university's metropolitan location provides its student-athletes with countless opportunities for growth, development and leadership.

EXCELLENCE IN THE NBA

UCLA has produced the second-highest total of NBA Draft selections (120). The Bruins had a string of 13 consecutive seasons (1997-2009) which saw 20 players drafted out of UCLA (including eight first-round picks). In June 2017, four former UCLA basketball players were selected in the NBA Draft, highlighted by the No. 2 overall pick in Lonzo Ball. In 2014, UCLA produced three first-round draft selections for just the second time in school history (Zach LaVine, Jordan Adams and Kyle Anderson). In 2008, Russell Westbrook and Kevin Love were taken as the No. 4 and No. 5 draft selections, respectively, in the first round.

ABOUT THE PAC-12 CONFERENCE

The Pac-12 Conference has entered its eighth season since incorporating 12 teams, prior to the 2011-12 academic year. The league expanded in July 2011 by adding the University of Colorado and the University of Utah. Upholding its tradition as the "Conference of Champions," the Pac-12 has captured 175 NCAA team titles since 1999-2000, including 12 in 2017-18.

Just 27 days after the conference officially changed its name, Commissioner Larry Scott announced the creation of the Pac-12 Networks on July 27, 2011, solidifying a landmark television deal and putting the conference on the forefront of collegiate athletics. The Networks, including one national network, six regional networks, and a robust digital network, marked the first-ever integrated media company owned by a college conference.

The only conference to win at least 500 NCAA Championships, the Pac-12 once again led the nation in 2017-18 with 12 NCAA crowns. Even more impressive has been the breadth of the Pac-12's success, with championships coming in 28 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-12 has led or tied the nation in NCAA Championships in 52 of the last 58 years, the only exceptions being in 1980-81, 1988-89, 1990-91 and 1995-96 when the conference finished second, and only twice finished third in 1998-99 and 2004-05.

For the 13th consecutive year, the Pac-12 had the most, or tied for the most, NCAA titles of any conference in the country, winning at least six every year since 2000-01. No other conference has won double-digit NCAA crowns in a single year, the Pac-12 doing so 10 times, including a record 14 in 1996-97.

Spanning over a century of outstanding athletics achievements, the Pac-12 has become the first conference to reach at least 500 championships. The Pac-12 has claimed 513 NCAA Championships (300 men's, 183 women's, 30 combined), over 200 more than the next league.

Pac-12 members have won 300 NCAA team championships on the men's side, 83 more than the next-closest conference. Men's NCAA crowns have come at a phenomenal rate for the Pac-12, with 16 basketball titles by six schools, 54 tennis titles, 47 outdoor track & field crowns and 29 baseball titles. Pac-12 members have won 25 of 48 NCAA titles in volleyball, 44 of 49 in water polo, 30 in skiing, and 24 in swimming & diving national championships.

The conference's excellence is further proven in the annual Division I Learfield Sports Directors' Cup competition, the prestigious award that honors the best overall collegiate athletics programs in the country. Stanford won its 24th consecutive Directors' Cup in 2017-18 to lead the conference. UCLA finished second, USC finished fourth, California was No. 19 and Oregon was No. 24. At least five member institutions have been ranked in the top 25 each of the Directors' Cup program, with seven appearing in the top 20 on five different occasions (1998, 2001, 2003, 2005 and 2006).

Last season, in addition to the conference's 12 national championships, the Pac-12 also had runners-up in 10 NCAA Championship events. In 11 sports, there were at least two teams among the final four and 39 teams finished in the top four at 23 NCAA Championship events, including all-Pac-12 finals in women's soccer, men's water polo and women's water polo.

Eight Pac-12 men's basketball teams secured postseason bids, including three teams selected to the NCAA Tournament (Arizona, Arizona State and UCLA). Arizona captured the Pac-12 regular-season title as well as the Pac-12 Tournament championship.

THROUGH THE YEARS...

The conference's roots date back to December 2, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at a meeting at Portland's Oregon Hotel. Original membership consisted of California, Washington, Oregon and Oregon State College (now Oregon State).

PCC play began in 1916, and one year later, Washington State College (now Washington State) was accepted into the Conference. Stanford University joined in 1918. By 1922, the PCC had expanded to eight teams with the admission of USC and the University of Idaho. Monana joined the conference in 1924, and the PCC grew to 10 members by 1928 with the addition of UCLA. The PCC competed as a 10-team league until 1950, with the exception of 1943-45, when World War II curtailed intercollegiate athletic competition to a minimum. In 1950, Montana resigned from the conference to join the Mountain States Conference.

The PCC dissolved in 1959, as the Athletic Association of Western University formed. Original AAWU membership consisted of California, Stanford, USC, UCLA and Washington. Washington State joined the AAWU in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State were added in 1964.

The "Pac-8 Conference" was first adopted in 1968. The conference admitted both Arizona and Arizona State on July 1, 1978, to complete the Pac-10 Conference. The league did not expand until July 1, 2011, when the Pac-10 became the Pac-12 with the addition of Colorado and Utah.
