About the Western Water Polo Association (WWPA)

Located within the heart of the hotbed of college water polo, the Western Water Polo Association continues to grow as a men's and women's water polo conference competing at the NCAA Division I level.

The league began sending teams to the National Collegiate Water Polo Championships in 1981 on the men's side and in 2001 on the women's side when the NCAA added the sport to its long list of championships. The current structure of the WWPA includes eight teams on both the men's and women's sides.
