Baseball Tradition
The Dennis Dellapiana Award - for courage, determination and sportsmanship

The Dennis DellaPiana Memorial Award was instituted in may of 1966. DellaPiana was truly a great student-athlete at the University of Massachusetts in the mid 1960's, but died in April of 1966 during his senior year after a long battle with Hodgkin's disease. He was an outstanding baseball player at UMass and at Malden High School, and was able to play through his junior year at UMass. His courage, determination and sportsmanship were exemplary.

UMass Baseball Legends

Dick Bergquist
Head Coach
1967-1987

Dick Bergquist was formally inducted into the University of Massachusetts Athletic Hall of Fame in 1999 for his contributions to UMass athletics and especially UMass baseball.

A man whose service to UMass spanned a quarter of a century, he was also honored on Oct. 12, 1991, when the $27,000 bleachers at Lorden Field were officially dedicated in his name. The dedication was made during the Massachusetts-Connecticut baseball game by David Bischoff, former Dean of the School of Physical Education; UMass head coach Mike Stone; and UConn coach Andy Baylock, a longtime friend of coach Bergquist.

Coach Bergquist had an additional honor bestowed upon him as his uniform number, 26, which he proudly wore during his 21 years of coaching, was officially retired. As he was presented his uniform encased in a glass frame, coach Bergquist witnessed the unveiling of a six-foot high, maroon and white UM #26 sign, which will forever serve as a remembrance of the many contributions he made to UMass baseball. Appropriately located in the outfield area near the Minuteman bullpen, the sign is a fitting tribute to the man who helped send 34 players, including 17 pitchers, to professional baseball.

"I'm extremely grateful and honored by the retirement of my number and the naming of the bleachers," said Bergquist. "But," he continued in his gentlemanly sense of humor, "I think the University should probably have named the bleachers after my wife, Sonya. After all, she's the one who sat in them for 21 years!"

Coach Bergquist, the winningest coach in the history of UMass baseball at the time of his retirement, compiled a lifetime record of 392-321-5. During his tenure, his ballclubs captured seven Yankee Conference championships, two New England championships, one Atlantic 10 Conference championship and a fifth-place finish at the 1969 College World Series in Omaha, Neb. His impact on amateur baseball throughout the world has been well documented, having served as a United States Baseball Federation ambassador and clinician for numerous years. His many accomplishments earned him induction into the American Baseball Coaches Association (ABCA) Hall of Fame in 1989.

Coach Bergquist served four years as a faculty member of the Sport Management department upon his departure from coaching, before officially retiring from the University in 1991. He also spent four years as the Executive Director of the American Baseball Coaches Association before retiring in 1994. He remained a well-known face in the Pioneer Valley and in the greater baseball community until he passed away on Feb. 24, 2019 at age 86.

Earl Lorden
Head Coach
1948-1966

The father of UMass baseball, Earl Lorden roamed the dugouts at the University of Massachusetts for nearly two decades. From 1948-1966, the "gentleman coach" led the Redmen (the nickname Minutemen was not adopted until 1972) to three Yankee Conference titles, a New England College championship in 1954, and four NCAA appearances (1954, 1955, 1956, 1966), including a trip to the 1954 College World Series in Omaha, Neb.

The Franklin, N.H., native was enshrined by the University on two occasions. First he was honored when the UMass baseball field was dedicated in his name on April 24, 1971, and second, when he was inducted into the University's Athletic Hall of Fame in 1982. Lorden was also inducted into the Massachusetts Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame in 1970 and the American Baseball Coaches Association (ABCA) Hall of Fame in 1971.

A graduate of the University of New Hampshire, coach Lorden compiled a impressive record of 189-147-3 over his 19 years at UMass, ranking third on the all-time wins list behind the legendary Dick Bergquist and Mike Stone. He sent 10 players on to professional baseball including former Major Leaguers Ralph Lumenti and Edward Connolly, and also served the University as Assistant Athletic Director from 1953-1966, helping establish the outstanding overall athletic image UMass enjoys today.

Lorden impacted not only UMass, but also the collegiate baseball world, serving as the NCAA District I Representative on the Baseball Rules Committee from 1963-1966, and on the District I Committee for NCAA baseball playoffs for more than 10 years.

Following his retirement in 1966, Lorden remained a fixture on the UMass scene as a fan and loyal supporter until his death at the age of 87 in 1984. He was a man of strong character and principles, and epitomized the type of coach and administrator that most colleges seek.

Teams and players come and go, but Lorden's contributions to the athletic heritage of the University of Massachusetts will long be remembered. He will always be remembered as a "Gentleman's, gentleman."

Minutemen In Professional Baseball

Over the years, the University of Massachusetts has sent more than 60 players into professional baseball, with 18 former Minutemen advancing to the major leagues. Included in the list are pitchers Jeff Reardon, a two-time All-Star, Mike Flanagan, the 1979 American League Cy Young Award winner, and Gary DiSarcina, who played in 1086 games in an 11 year career. During Mike Stone's tenure at UMass, more than 30 players have gone on to sign professional contracts.
