About the River Hawk

The River Hawk nickname and initial logo was selected in the spring of 1994 following a lengthy process, a contest and a final vote by the UMass Lowell student body.

Not representative of any specific bird, the River Hawk is envisioned as a mythical bird of strength, speed and courage. It soars to great heights but never loses its connection to the river and the land below.

Straddling both sides of the Merrimack River, UMass Lowell has been a thriving educational and research center with strong ties to the industries that have lined its shores for over a century.

The University extends sincere thanks and gratitude to Chad Dooley for the suggestion of the River Hawk name and 1980 alumnus Brian Trainor for his creative design on the original logo mark.

The University amended the logo in 2006 and again in 2010 through the creative work of Phoenix Design in New York City.

Throughout its 100 year history, the University of Massachusetts Lowell has excelled at providing innovative, responsive programs that meet both the needs of its students for a quality education and the needs of regional businesses for skilled practitioners and managers.

Formed through the merger of a technical institute and a teacher's college, the University is part of the five-campus University of Massachusetts system. The academic experience at UMass Lowell offers students comprehensive, broad-based programs characterized by a continuing effort to break down traditional barriers between disciplines, and between the classroom and the "real world."

Courses typically involve a practical component which can range from the political science team that competed nationally in a United Nations Model Assembly; to the music business majors who went to a recording industry conference in California; to the civil engineering students who helped the city of Lowell inventory and replace all of its street signs.

Members of the faculty are respected researchers who value their commitment to teaching and extend the learning experience beyond the classroom. Undergraduates participate in funded research and college policy committees, and senior faculty are involved in student projects such as building and racing a solar-powered car. Strong links with local businesses, educational systems, and health care providers benefit students through an increasing number of internships, part-time jobs, and grants. In short, students graduate with the hands-on experience and practical problem-solving skills for which employers are looking.

UMass Lowell offers 82 different undergraduate concentrations, including recent popular choices like meteorology, sound recording technology, exercise physiology, criminal justice, and plastics engineering. Most courses incorporate some kind of practical component that gives students hands-on experience in their field. Support services ranging from the University-wide Honors Program to multimedia computer labs to academic tutoring ensure that all students have access to the programs and services that help them succeed. The Graduate School enrolls nearly 3,000 students in 30 master's degree and 11 doctoral programs.

UMass Lowell's 6,000 undergraduate students are ethnically, culturally, and economically diverse. Students are active in a wide variety of community service activities, including athletics-based programs for local high school students; the Assistive Technology Program in which students create and modify devices for the disabled; and volunteer work at local shelters and community programs.

There are more than 100 campus organizations to choose from: academic, recreational, and special interest groups; the women's center; marching band; the student newspaper; an FM radio station covering a 20-mile radius; and the Off-Broadway Players. Campus-wide events include University Week and Spring Carnival, and resident hall associations sponsor social and recreational events.

The University's three campuses, spread over 100 acres on both sides of the Merrimack River, include classroom and laboratory buildings, two libraries, a student center, two gymnasiums, multiple dining halls, a Center for the Performing Arts, an art gallery, and numerous residence halls. State-of-the-art laboratories include such special-interest facilities as the six Sound Recording Technology Program studios; an interactive video lab (one of three in the country) that enables nursing students to simulate medical emergencies; and a manufacturing lab where engineering and management students team up to produce microelectronic components.

In 1998, the University's collaborative relationship with the city of Lowell resulted in the completion of the nearby Paul E. Tsongas Hockey Arena and the on-campus Edward A. LeLacheur Baseball Stadium. Both facilities are shared by UMass Lowell and the Lowell Devils of the American Hockey League (AHL) as well as the Lowell Spinners, a class A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox.

These projects and the University's Campus Recreation Center, which opened in the Fall of 2002, are located in the city's Northern Canal area where campus and community meet. Other collaborative projects in this area include a three-mile river walk/canal walk system, and the mixed-use renovation of the 18-acre Lawrence Mills complex.

The Facilities: A Commitment to River Hawk Athletics

Among the many things on which the UMass Lowell Department of Athletics prides itself is its facilities.

There is the palatial 6,500-seat Tsongas Center at UMass Lowell, home of the River Hawk Division I ice hockey program; the 4,700-seat Edward A. LeLacheur Park home of the baseball team; the Cushing Field Complex, which houses the soccer, field hockey and track and field teams; and River View Field, home of the UML softball team.

The Tsongas Center at UMass Lowell

A joint venture with the City of Lowell and the University led to the construction and completion in 1998 of the Paul E. Tsongas Arena and the Edward A. LeLacheur Park on the University's north campus.

Sold to the University on Oct. 30, 2009, and renamed The Tsongas Center at UMass Lowell, the Center has since undergone dramatic changes, including the addition of the Lowell Bank Pavilion restaurant; a new jumbotron scoreboard with video replay capability; fascia display boards on either side; and the Hall of Fame, NCAA Champions and Legends of Lowell displays on the north side of the concourse.

Not only is the Tsongas Center home to the UMass Lowell Division I hockey team, it is also a facility which attracts many concerts, sporting events and functions.

Costello Athletic Center

The Costello Athletic Center is home of the UML volleyball and women's and men's basketball teams as well as the winter refuge for the baseball team.

Built in 1964, the CAC underwent many renovations over the summer of 2006, including the installation of a new hardwood playing surface; new collapsible bleachers in several areas, including the east end of the court; and new banners at either end of the court celebrating the University's many championships.

Additionally, a new sound system was installed with speakers to be added above the balcony level as well as attractive acoustic panels on the ceiling to improve sound.

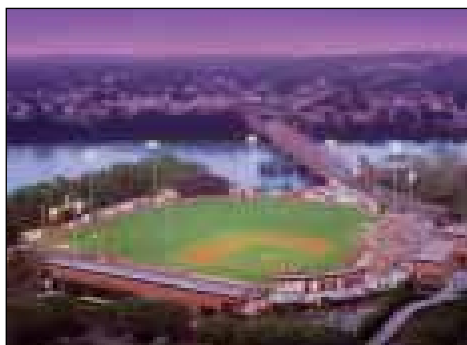

Among the minor changes has been a new curtain separating the main floor and the auxiliary gymnasium, as well as new blinds on the windows above the balcony level.

Along with the main and auxiliary basketball courts, this three-floor facility also contains a swimming pool, training facilities and the main offices for the athletic department staff.

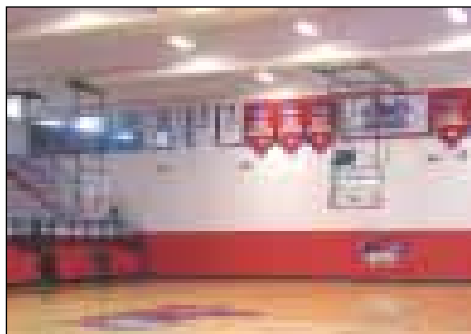

The weight room, located in the basement, contains the latest equipment and a wide variety of free weights suitable for training and is exclusive to UML student-athletes.

Costello Athletic Center

Cushing Field Complex

Adjacent to the Costello Athletic Center is the Cushing Field Complex, named after the Lester H. Cushing, former athletic director and chair of the Department of Languages at Lowell Technological Institute for 49 years.

The complex was constructed in 2000-01 and features an artificial field (resurfaced in 2009) and bleacher stadium for field hockey, a competitive track and field complex and a natural grass soccer field.

In the summer of 2007, a state-of-the-art pressbox was added to the soccer field, complete with a radio/webcast booth and outlets to enable for live internet scoring.

Edward A. LeLacheur Park

A 4,767-seat natural grass facility, LeLacheur Park is home to the UML baseball team as well as the Lowell Spinners, the Class 'A' affiliate of the 2004 and 2007 World Series Champion Boston Red Sox. It is among the most attractive, most beautifully manicured minor league ballparks in the country.

Completed in 1998, LeLacheur Park has served as site of the NCAA Tournament Division II Northeast Region Baseball Championship from 1998-2003, as well as the Northeast-10 Tournament from 2001-07.

River View Field

Located on the University's south campus, River View Field serves as the home of the 2007 Northeast-10 Conference Tournament champion UMass Lowell softball team and has also been the site of the NE-10 Tournament in recent years. Situated on the banks of the Merrimack River, River View Field is regarded as one of the premier softball complexes in New England.

Campus Recreation Center

The newly constructed Campus Recreation Center caters to the needs of the student-athlete. This two-story, 80,000 square foot facility offers a variety of fitness and fun activities.

The CRC contains three basketball courts with a one-eighth-mile seamless rubber compound running track overlooking the courts from the second floor. Adjacent to the basketball courts are two racquetball courts in addition to a squash court.

Additionally, there is a 6,500-square foot dual-level fitness area that contains a variety of cardiovascular equipment, free weights and selectorized machines. Multipurpose studios offer space for aerobic and fitness classes, and a wellness room provides information and help on how to eat and exercise better.

Locker rooms offer a sauna for relaxation, and pool and tennis tables give students a chance to unwind in the atrium.

Head Coach Sarah Behn

One of the most recognized names in New England women's basketball, Sarah Behn was named head coach of the UMass Lowell women's basketball program on Apr. 5.

The sixth head coach in the program's 36-year history, Behn enjoyed a spectacular career at Boston College (1989-93) where she became the only four-time Big East Conference all-star in BC women's basketball history and two-time Kodak All-American. She remains the all-time leading scorer in Big East regular season games with 1,546 points (67 games). For her career, Behn compiled 2,523 points.

The Big East Conference Rookie of the Year in 1989-90, Behn was inducted into the BC Hall of Fame in 1998. Five years later, she became the first female student-athlete in BC history to have her jersey (No. 33) retired and was named among the top 10 athletes in BC history by Sports Illustrated in 2008.

She graduated in 1993 with a degree in communications. Following graduation, she played professionally for one year in Ettlebruck, Luxembourg, and led Central Europe in scoring with 35.0 points per game.

Behn inherits a program which went 9-18 overall and 8-14 in the North-east-10 Conference (tied for 10th) and advanced to the NE-10 Tournament where it suffered a 74-59 loss at Saint Michael's in the first round.

"The great reputation of UMass Lowell and the power of the NE-10 in women's basketball is what first attracted me," said Behn. "I've been reading about the growth of UMass Lowell and I was excited when the job opened. When I visited the campus and met Mr. (Dana) Skinner (Director of Athletics), the coaches, and administrators in the athletic department, I realized what a solid and hardworking family they have. It seemed like the perfect fit for me."

The River Hawks return four starters and 13 veterans from the 2010-11 squad.

"I know we've got a really strong group of women coming back," Behn said. "They seem committed and they want to work hard to improve. If we can get everyone on the same page working hard together, I know we can build the program up sooner rather than later. I think we have the players to do that."

Behn established the Sarah Behn Basketball Camp in 1994, which remains the most successful basketball camp in New England. Over the last 17 years, her camps and clinics have developed more than 25,000 young women and men and have an annual enrollment of 2,200 players per year in over 25 communities in Massachusetts.

"The great reputation of UMass Lowell and the power of the NE-10 in women's basketball is what first attracted me. I've been reading about the growth of UMass Lowell and I was excited when the job opened."

Sarah Behn, Head Coach
UMass Lowell

Behn earned her first college coaching post in 1997 at Framingham State where she turned a struggling program from a last-place team into contenders for the Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference (MASCAC) title within a year. Also the head coach of the women's soccer team, Behn guided the Rams to the 1999 MASCAC Championship and their first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance. She was named the 1999 MASCAC Women's Soccer Coach of the Year.

Behn was named the head coach at NE-10 rival Franklin Pierce in 2000 where she took the women's basketball program from a 14th-place finish in 2001 to a NE-10 Tournament bid in 2002. She left the post after the 2001-02 season and shortly after gave birth to twin boys.

Anxious to coach again while raising four children, Behn moved on to her alma mater, Foxboro H.S., in 2004 where she guided the Warriors to the MIAA Tournament in each of the last six seasons, which included appearances in the South Sectional semifinal in 2007 and 2010. She was named The Sun Chronicle Coach of the Year in 2010.

"Sarah was on course for a long career coaching at the college level until she paused to raise her four children," said Skinner. "We believe she's back doing exactly what she was meant to do."

A four-year player at Foxboro H.S., Behn was an All-American in both soccer and basketball. She set the Massachusetts career scoring record as a senior with 2,562 points and remains among the top 10 career scorers in the state.

Behn was named the Massachusetts Gatorade Player of the Year as a senior. Also a standout goalkeeper on the soccer team, she set a national high school record with more than 50 shutouts.

Behn is a native of Foxboro, Mass., where she resides with her husband Tim and four children: twins Jack and Joey (9), Teddy (5) and Gracie (2).

“ I know we’ve got a really strong group of women coming back. They seem committed and they want to work hard to improve. If we can get everyone on the same page working hard together, I know we can build the program up sooner rather than later. I think we have the players to do that. ”

THE COACHING STAFF

Assistant Todd Schultze

A native of Ottawa, Kan., Todd Schultze enters his first year with the UMass Lowell women's basketball team.

Schultze comes to UMass Lowell following 11 years as an assistant at Western Illinois University, preceded by coaching stints at Butler County (Kan.) Community College, Highland County (Kan.) Community College and Ottawa (Kan.) University.

Schultze will serve as UMass Lowell's recruiting coordinator as well as the director of the program's camps and clinics. He will also assist Behn in practice and game preparation as well as overseeing the team's fundraising and community service efforts.

UMass Lowell returns four starters and 13 veterans from the 2010-11 squad which went 9-18 overall and 8-14 in the Northeast-10 Conference (tied for 10th).

Schultze spent 11 years as an assistant coach to Leslie Crane at Western Illinois, where he was integral in guiding 17 WIU players to All-Mid-Continent Conference honors, including three players of the year and two defensive players of the year.

Among the WIU's player of the year honorees was Zane Teilane, who was drafted by the Detroit Shock and played the 2006 season with the Washington Mystics.

During Schultze's stay, the Fighting Leathernecks won Mid-Continent Conference regular season titles from 2002-03 to 2005-06 and posted an 83-34 overall record and a 51-11 MCC clip during that span. WIU also enjoyed appearances in the WNIT in 2002 and 2006.

Prior to his time at WIU, Schultze spent a year (1999-00) as an assistant coach of men's basketball as well as head coach for the volleyball and tennis teams at Butler County Community College. He also doubled as a full-time professor of mathematics and physical education.

Among the players Schultze signed while at Butler was former Oklahoma State standout and former Boston Celtic (now Memphis Grizzly) Tony Allen.

Schultze served the head men's basketball coach at Highland from 1997-99 and served as the assistant coach for both the men's basketball and track and field teams at NAIA power Ottawa University. At Ottawa, he helped the Braves to NAIA Tournament appearances in 1992 and 1994.

Schultze attended Allen County Community College where he lettered in basketball and track and field, twice earning All-American status in the decathlon.

He transferred to the University of Kansas where he emerged as one of the top decathletes in the Big 8 Conference. He completed his bachelor in mathematics at Ottawa University and returned to KU where he earned his master's degree in education with emphasis in sports administration, sports psychology and biomechanics.

A graduate of Ottawa H.S., Schultze was an all-state standout in both basketball and track and field.

Schultze lives in Lowell, Mass.

Assistant Erica Anderson

A former standout player at Siena College from 1999-03, Erica Anderson enters her first year with the UMass Lowell women's basketball program and will serve as the team's academic coordinator, oversee travel plans and assist with game preparation and film exchange.

A native of North Easton, Mass., Anderson graduated from Siena with a 3.0 grade point average in English. She comes to UMass Lowell following a stellar career at Siena as well as a five-year professional career in Europe.

While at Siena, Anderson was a two-time Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) all-star, earning third team honors as a junior and second team as a senior, and was a member of the All-Rookie Team as a freshman.

She graduated among career leaders in several categories: 3-point field goals (third, 182), assists (fifth, 416) and scoring (14th, 1,174 points). She led Siena to the postseason all four years, including an NCAA Tournament bid in 2001 where the Saints fell to Colorado, 98-78, in the first round.

Additionally, Siena advanced to the WNIT in Anderson's other three years and moved on to the second round in 1999 and 2003 with wins over Georgetown (86-73) and Seton Hall (66-58), respectively.

Over her four years, Siena posted an 82-39 mark (56-16 in the MAAC) and captured the MAAC regular season titles in 2001 and 2002 as well as the MAAC Tournament crown in 2002.

Anderson peaked as a senior with averages of 12.5 points, 3.8 assists and 1.9 steals while shooting .371 from 3-point range (75-202).

Following graduation, Anderson served as an assistant coach for one season at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute before moving overseas to play professionally. She spent two seasons as a player/coach with Breidablik BC in Korpavog, Iceland before moving to TG Sandhausen in Sandhausen, Germany.

Anderson was a four-time Hockomock League all-star at Oliver Ames H.S. (1995-99) and graduated as the program's all-time leading scorer with more than 1,500 points. She was also named to both The Boston Globe and Boston Herald All-Scholastic teams and led OAHS to the Hockomock League title as a senior.

Anderson lives in Lowell.

THE COACHING STAFF

Assistant Jamie Kelley

Jamie Kelley enters her first year on the UMass Lowell women's basketball staff, and 18th year working alongside head coach Sarah Behn.

A 1999 graduate and former player at Assumption College, Kelley has served as Behn's assistant at the Sarah Behn Basketball Camp as well as each of Behn's coaching posts through the years: Framingham State, Franklin Pierce, Franklin H.S. and Foxboro H.S., from where she graduated in 1995.

A volunteer assistant, Kelley will have a hand in all areas, including practice and game management as well as recruiting, scouting and player development.

Kelley was a four-year player at Assumption from 1995-99 under Sue Lauder (1995-96) current head coach Kerry Phayre (1996-99) where she helped lead the Greyhounds to the Northeast-10 Conference tournament each year. She was a starting point guard from her sophomore through her senior seasons.

One of the better defenders in Assumption history, Kelley still ranks third among the Greyhounds all-time leaders in steals with 263. She graduated with a degree in sociology with a concentration in elementary education, and went on to earn her masters degree in creative arts and learning from Lesley University.

A graduate of Foxboro H.S. and four-year starter, Kelley led the Warriors to the MIAA state championship as a senior in 1995. She was a two-time Hockomock League all-star - including the League's Most Valuable Player in 1995 - and compiled 966 career points.

Kelley has been a director within the Sarah Behn Basketball Camp for nine years and has overseen the Camp's site in Acton, Mass., the last four years.

Kelley is a first grade teacher within the Walpole school district. She and her husband, Dan Griffith, live in Foxboro with their two sons Jake (5) and Joey (2).

Assistant John Cody

John Cody enters his first year on the UMass Lowell women's basketball staff following more than 30 years as a high school coach.

Also 13-year assistant coach with the UMass Lowell volleyball team, Cody will assist with practice and game preparation, as well as scouting and player development.

Cody has coached high school boys and girls basketball for more than 30 years, including 20 years with the Arlington H.S. boys team; eight years with the Bedford (Mass.) H.S. girls program; as well as three years apiece at Notre Dame (Mass.) H.S. and Bishop Guertin in Nashua, N.H.

Cody amassed 250 victories in 20 years at Arlington, where he taught chemistry for 36 years and doubled as the boys tennis coach. He moved on to Bedford H.S. where he guided the program to seven appearances in the MIAA state tournament.

Cody led both the Notre Dame and Bishop Guertin programs to the NHIAA state tournament all six seasons.

In addition to basketball, Cody spent 25 years as the director of the Merrimack Valley Junior Olympic Volleyball Program and also served as the head coach at Holy Cross (1989-96) and at Stoneham H.S. (1987-88).

Cody resides in Chelmsford, Mass., with his wife, Elizabeth. They have raised eight grown children, three of whom played volleyball at Division I universities.

2011-12 Season Preview: Sarah's Era Takes Flight

Northeast-10 Conference opponents will be well-familiar with the UMass Lowell women's basketball team this season, since it returns all but one of its players from the 2010-11 season.

What is unfamiliar is the River Hawk coaching staff, led by first-year head coach Sarah Behn, who replaced Kathy O'Neil following 26 years.

Behn's appointment is her third foray into college coaching. She was the head coach at Framingham State from 1997-00 where she turned the Rams into Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference (MASCAC) contenders within a year.

She moved on to Franklin Pierce in 2000 for two seasons where she brought the Ravens from a 14th-place finish into the NE-10 Tournament a year later. She left the post following the 2001-02 season to give birth to twin boys.

After six successful years as coach at Foxboro H.S., Behn was anxious to get back to the college level.

"I know we've got a really strong group of women coming back," Behn said. "They seem committed and they want to work hard to improve. If we can get everyone on the same page working hard together, I know we can build the program up sooner rather than later. I think we have the players to do that."

With 13 veterans and only two newcomers, there is going to be a learning curve, from the staff to the players and vice versa. But what is encouraging is that the River Hawks went nine and sometimes 10 players deep last season, nine of whom saw at least 10 minutes per game a year ago.

Graduated from last year's team is Krissy Little, a two-year captain who specialized in the intangibles: leadership, defense and 28.2 minutes per game.

Little will undoubtedly be missed. But with 13 returning players, UMass Lowell could be in a worse position.

With seven players 6-feet or taller, the River Hawks remain one of the biggest teams in the East Region.

In junior guard Bianca Simmons, they have one of the best playmakers in the Conference.

Sha'Nay Bushner, a 6-1 forward, is the lone senior on the team. Translated, there is plenty to look forward to.

There was no sophomore jinx for Simmons, who did a little of everything last year: 16.6 points, 5.2 rebounds and 4.0 assists per game while meshing 40 attempts from 3-point range and converting her free throws at an .808 clip.

She was among NE-10 leaders in assists (fifth), free throw accuracy (eighth) and scoring (third).

Simmons may not be available for the first few games due to an injury, but she is expected to be the focal point of the offense.

"The return of Bianca will be instrumental," said Behn. "She's getting stronger. When she's out there we'll play better and we're in a better rhythm."

Also carrying the offensive burden will be Bushner, who registered 10.5 points and 7.3 rebounds per game, along with 22 blocked shots.

"Sha'Nay has explosive-type scoring potential," said Behn. "We're trying to get her the ball where she can do what she does best."

With many moments of promise last year, junior Brianna Wilson, a 6-4 forward, could also emerge among UMass Lowell's go-to players. With averages of 6.4 points and 3.5 rebounds over 14.7 minutes per game, Wilson's output this season should significantly increase with more minutes.

Wilson is one of several River Hawk post players who are teeming with potential. Junior center Sarah Bennett registered 7.2

points and 5.4 rebounds last year and will likely be counted upon for more.

Ditto for junior center Briana Szidat, who at 6-3, emerged among NE-10 blocked shot leaders with 1.8 per game, along with 5.0 points and 3.5 rebounds per game.

Szidat also meshed 9 of 24 attempts from 3-point range last season.

Whitney Wilson, the 6-3 twin sister of Brianna, saw action in 23 games last year (6.4 minutes per) and sophomore Dominique

Pagan (19 games, 8.2 minutes) will also look for more action.

Junior Bianca Simmons

Between Simmons and junior guard Brianna Calver, getting the ball to UMass Lowell's "biggs" won't be an issue.

Calver, who appeared in 25 games last year (seven starts), chipped in 2.9 points and 1.8 assists and was always on the floor at the end of tight games. An .833 free throw shooter over two seasons, Calver also meshed .400 of her attempts from long range (18-45).

"All the kids have been doing pretty well," said Behn. "Dominique Pagan is doing well and Brianna Calver is handling the ball well. It's everybody chipping in, especially with Bianca out. Kids are being asked to step up more offensively."

Also looking to contribute more is sophomore Danielle DePierro, comfortable driving to the basket or pulling up from long range.

Behn can also look to junior Erika Sjoberg and sophomore Nyachuol Biliew at either the two or three spots.

Sjoberg appeared in 27 games with 10 starts and meshed 21 treys last year. Biliew played in 22 games (10.5 minutes per), and got to the free throw line 21 times, hitting 16 (.762).

Sophomores Lauren Fiola and Alex Guidi will also battle for minutes and look to contribute. Fiola was sidelined for all but four games last year due to an injury while Guidi played in 17 games (7.7 minute per).

"We just need to get healthy and get better," she said. "If we're healthy, we certainly have the size and weapons."

Behn welcomes two newcomers to the lineup in sophomore Gia O'Connor, a member of UMass Lowell's women's soccer team, and freshman Haley McGuire, late of Lowell Catholic H.S.

Along with soccer, O'Connor was a three-year player at Central Catholic H.S. and two-time Merrimack Valley Conference all-star who led CCHS to the MIAA state title as a senior.

McGuire was a four-year player at Lowell Catholic H.S. where she earned all-star billing from The Sun, and led LCHS into the state tournament all four years.

The Schedule: Put to the test early

Over the first three weeks of the season, UMass Lowell will face two teams – No. 20 Holy Family University and No. 8 Bentley – which were ranked in the final WBCA/ESPN/USA Today Division II Top 25 Poll, as well as Franklin Pierce, which received votes.

UMass Lowell opens the season on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 12-13, at home as part of the Northeast-10 Conference/Central Atlantic Collegiate Conference (CACC) Challenge. The River Hawks face Felician College Nov. 12 and Holy Family, a regular East Region contender, Nov. 13 in the predetermined pairings.

UMass Lowell opens its NE-10 schedule on Nov. 16 at Bentley (28-5 last year), the 2010-11 NE-10 regular season and tournament champion, which is kicks off a challenging month:

Three of four games – at Bentley, at Saint Michael's Nov. 22, home against Southern New Hampshire Nov. 27 and at Stonehill Nov. 30 – are away from home.

The River Hawks visit Merrimack on Dec. 3 then host Saint Anselm and NE-10 runner-up Franklin Pierce on Dec. 7 and 10 to end the semester. Over the intercession, UMass Lowell enters the C.W. Post Shootout, facing Post University Dec. 29 and the University of District of Columbia Dec. 30.

The River Hawks open the New Year at home with a Jan. 3 clash with American International, and following away games at Southern Connecticut and Adelphi, play four of the remaining six in January at home.

UMass Lowell ends the season on Feb. 22 at home against Bentley. The NE-10 Tournament is slated for Sunday, Feb. 27 through Sunday, Mar. 4.

"I am optimistic," said Behn. "We have a nice group of players who offer leadership and size and they are ready to work hard. We are going to be up for the challenge, but I think we may experience some growing pains."

The Northeast-10 Conference

The Northeast-10 Conference is an NCAA Division II conference that was established in 1979. The NE-10 currently consists of 16 institutions throughout the Northeast including Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York and Vermont.

The institutions that make up the Northeast-10 include Adelphi University (Garden City, N.Y.), American International College (Springfield, Mass.), Assumption College (Worcester, Mass.), Bentley University (Waltham, Mass.), Franklin Pierce University (Rindge, N.H.), Le Moyne College (Syracuse, N.Y.), University of Massachusetts Lowell (Lowell, Mass.), Merrimack College (North Andover, Mass.), University of New Haven (West Haven, Conn.), Pace University (Pleasantville, N.Y.), Saint Anselm College (Manchester, N.H.), Saint Michael's College (Colchester, Vt.), College of Saint Rose (Albany, N.Y.), Southern Connecticut State University (New Haven, Conn.), Southern New Hampshire University (Manchester, N.H.) and Stonehill College (Easton, Mass.).

The 16 member institutions are spread geographically from Syracuse, New York to Boston, Massachusetts and Burlington, Vermont to Long Island, New York. Many of the members are located in or around the urban metropolitan areas of Albany, Boston, New Haven, Worcester and New York. The Conference was proud to welcome the University of New Haven and Adelphi University in its latest expansion, thus adding to the powerful union of strong academic and athletic colleges and universities.

The Northeast-10 has evolved into a membership committed to competitive athletics programs that emphasize the education on and off the field of its more than 5,500 student athletes.

Among the many accomplishments of these institutions are NCAA Division II National Championships in women's basketball, field hockey, men's lacrosse, women's lacrosse, men's soccer, women's track & field and men's and women's swimming & diving.

The Northeast-10 has a strong history of nationally ranked teams in all sports. In the 2008-2009 academic year the conference had 63 different teams representing 14 institutions advance to NCAA postseason play.

The Northeast-10 had teams advance to the national championship game in field hockey, women's basketball and men's lacrosse.

The UMass Lowell field hockey team made their fourth finals appearance in the last six years last fall. In the winter, the Franklin Pierce women's basketball became the third NE-10 team in the last four years to advance all the way to the national championship game and also continued a ten year run of an Northeast-10 school advancing to the Elite Eight. The spring season also saw its share of championship buzz as the Le Moyne men's lacrosse team advanced to its fourth straight national championship game.

From the field of play to inside the class room, the Northeast-10 honored a number of student-athletes for their academic accomplishments. The conference honored close to 200 student-athletes throughout the year that excelled at a high level on the field and in the classroom as members of the academic all conference teams. In addition, 2,619 student-athletes earned a 3.0 GPA or higher and earned Commissioner's Honor Roll achievement last year.

Today's Northeast-10 Conference remains focused on complementing the academic integrity and missions of the member institutions with a commitment to a broad-based championship program, as evidenced by the 23 sports the Conference offers in championship play, the most such of any Division II conference.

Covering the River Hawks

BOB ELLIS
Director of
New Media

The familiar and passionate voice of Bob Ellis, in his 28th year of calling UMass Lowell hockey, will also call a handful of UMass Lowell basketball for the 2011-12 season.

In addition to his play-by-play responsibilities, he is also a Media Relations Specialist with the University; acting as a staff photographer and producing the daily video segment "The River Hawk Report" on www.goriverhawks.com.

In September of 2009, Ellis was honored with the Joe Concannon Media Award at the Hockey East Media Day.

A well-known radio personality throughout Massachusetts, Ellis served for nine years as the play-by-play announcer for the Lowell Spinners, the Class A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox of the New York-Penn League. He is one of four official scorers for the Boston Red Sox and served, for several seasons, as the official scorer at Lowell Spinners home games.

Over the course of his career, Ellis has been the recipient of several awards from the United Press International. He is also the co-founder and co-instructor of the Baseball Official Scoring Seminars, providing official scoring clinics several times a year.

A 1975 graduate of Emerson College, Ellis earned his bachelors degrees in mass communication and history and began his broadcasting career at WATS/WAVR-FM in Sayre, Pa. in 1975. He came to WLLH Radio in Lowell as a news reporter in 1984 and became a fixture at UMass Lowell hockey games. He has also previously worked at WKBK in Keene, N.H.

Ellis' broadcasting career includes interviews with Presidents, Presidential candidates and reporting from overseas.

A native of The Bronx, NY, Ellis was a four-year hockey player at Emerson and was named captain and Team MVP as a senior. He led the team in scoring in three of his four seasons.

Ellis resides in Lowell, Mass.

SCOTT SUDI KOFF
Director of Basketball Broadcasting

Well-versed in New England College basketball, Scott Sudikoff begins his second year as the voice of UMass Lowell basketball.

A 2008 graduate of the University of Maryland, Sudikoff is currently a media assistant at Tufts University and has called basketball games for a variety of New England colleges including Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Wheaton and UMass Lowell.

Additionally, he did the commentary for Northeast-10 Conference games televised by Pack Network as well as the New England Women's and Men's Athletic Conference (NEWMAC) women's tournament and several games in the NCAA Division II Tournament.

Sudikoff has also served as the public address announcer at Tufts and Harvard as well as UMass Boston and Dean College.

In addition to his college basketball work, Sudikoff has served as the voice of the Brockton Rox and Worcester Tornadoes baseball teams of the Can-Am League, over the past two years. In addition to play-by-play, he hosted and produced Brockton's pre- and post-game shows, as well as the weekly On the Rox.

During his undergraduate days, Sudikoff was the assistant sports director at Maryland's student radio station, WMUC, where he called games for both the Terrapins women's and men's basketball teams, football and baseball teams. His talent also took him off campus as he served as a fill-in for the Potomac Nationals baseball team.

Sudikoff lives in Allston, Mass.
