

The background of the entire cover is a collage of action shots from lacrosse games. At the top, several white lacrosse helmets with "Carolina" and "STELLION" branding are visible. The main title "2017 MEN'S LACROSSE" is in a dark blue, bold, sans-serif font, flanked by blue and white diamond patterns. Below it, the word "CAROLINA" is written in a very large, light blue, outlined font. The collage features several players in blue and white uniforms. In the upper right, a player in a blue jersey with the number 7 is pointing upwards. To his right, another player in a blue jersey with the number 28 is shown. In the lower right, a player in a white jersey with the number 21 is in a dynamic pose. In the lower left, a player in a blue jersey with the number 24 is running. In the center, a player in a blue jersey with the number 17 is also running. Other players in white jerseys with numbers 3, 4, and 7 are visible in the background and foreground. The overall color scheme is blue, white, and light blue.

GoHeels.com: Official Home of the Tar Heels On the World Wide Web

Media and fans can follow the Carolina men's lacrosse team and the entire UNC athletics program from anywhere in the world on the official World Wide Website of North Carolina athletics. GoHeels.com offers schedules, rosters, results, features, podcasts, media guides and game notes plus much more for all 28 of Carolina's varsity sports. Onsite coordinator for GoHeels.com is Matt Bowers of the Athletic Communications Office.

Nike Supports UNC Athletics

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Nike Inc. signed a 10-year contract for Nike to be the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel, and accessory products to the Tar Heels effective July 1, 2008. Nike provides the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment. In addition to the apparel and equipment, which constitutes the majority of the value of the contract, Nike gives the University $2 million for the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund. Chancellor Carol Folt has directed the funds to faculty support. Nike also provides support for team tours, travel and the hosting of regular-season tournaments in several sports. The athletic department also received $1 million for signing the contract, with those funds having been used to overhaul lighting and sound at the Dean E. Smith Center.

Coming off one of the most treasured seasons in UNC men's lacrosse history, the Tar Heels enter the 2016 campaign ranked No. 1 in the USILA coaches poll and No. 2 in the Face-Off Yearbook media poll.

UNC entered last year's NCAA Championship as an at-large bid recipient and an unseeded team. Carolina then ran off four victories over national seeds to not only advance to NCAA Championship Weekend for the first time since 1993 but also claim its first NCAA crown since 1991.

Carolina finished 12-6 overall after beating No. 6 Marquette 10-9 in the first round, No. 3 Notre Dame 13-9 in the quarterfinals, No. 7 Loyola 18-13 in the semifinals and No. 1 Maryland 14-13 in overtime in the championship game.

"We certainly celebrated throughout the fall – on the football field being recognized at the Virginia Tech football game and having the ring ceremony at Bubba Cunningham's house (UNC AD) and having our team banquet," said Tar Heel head coach Joe Breschi. "The coaching staff together was able to achieve greatness. We had been knocking on the door for many years. The thing I am most proud of for everybody's sake is that we stayed the course. We never wavered and we felt we could have a breakthrough. All the credit in the world goes to the young men on the team who persevered and worked so hard and the coaching staff of Coach Metzbow on the offensive end, Coach Feifs defensively and Coach Holman with the goalies."

At times during the year Carolina looked as if a Championship Weekend appearance was not in the cards. A February loss to Hofstra was the first sign of trouble and then a five-goal loss at UMass in March left the Tar Heels at 3-3 heading into the toughest part of their schedule.

"Starting out 3-3, we had that meeting where the players and the coaches aired all their thoughts and pushed all their chips to the middle and say hey you know what, it's time to put up or step aside. From that moment on, we practiced harder, we played harder," said Breschi. "We enjoyed the experience more and enjoyed being together but I think that goes along with how hard you practice and how hard you play. I think there are games to look and say this was the difference maker. I think the Notre Dame game, scoring seven goals in the last 10 minutes was just incredible. I've never been a part of something like that. I felt like the confidence never wavered from that moment on."

Carolina returns a solid core of the 2016 team to defend its title in 2017, but the five seniors from last year's championship squad will be sorely missed. This senior core from 2017 included the team's leading scorer, Steve Pontrello, who had 49 goals and 21 assists as an attackman, after starting at midfield for three years. Senior Patrick Kelly was the top offensive midfielder for Carolina and had a stellar season with 27 goals and 11 assists. Jake Matthai was Carolina's top short-stick defensive midfielder and a second-team All-America. Zach Powers started 10 games at close defense before being injured late in the year only to return as a reserve and have a magnificent post-season. Evan Connell, a tough four-year letterman, was Carolina's top long-stick defensive midfielder on last year's squad.

But plenty of talent returns led by preseason first and second-team All-America close defensemen Austin Pifani and Jack Rowlett. Five of the team's eight top scorers return with Luke Goldstock having totaled 53 points last year (31 goals, 22 assists) and Chris Cloutier notching 43 goals and 14 assists. Cloutier was the Most Outstanding Player

Kyle Mathie and Jack Lambert also return for the Tar Heels.

"I think the biggest thing for us is we have a senior-laden group," said Breschi. "Thirteen veteran players, redshirts or others, have been through it and have great perspective.

They've done a great job of leading the younger guys, managing expectations and helping the younger guys get acclimated – in the weight room, on the practice field, off the field, all aspects. It hasn't been a "rah, rah" fall. It's been more businesslike. They've been there, they've done that. The expectations are how they have always been – to compete at the highest level in the conference, to compete for an ACC championship and a national championship. I think the overall feeling that they are showing and the approach they are taking it's very professional and that's a fun thing to see from their end. When they get out of the field they are excited, they attack it and from my vantage point it's the leadership that's the biggest difference.

"People are saying, you'll have a target on your back, and I say North Carolina always has a target on its back. We have to go about our business and prepare. We have a tough early-season non-conference schedule and then beginning in late March we are going into a difficult stretch with Maryland at home, Duke at home, then going to Virginia, having Syracuse for Alumni Weekend, then at Notre Dame. So it's as demanding a schedule as we always have had here at UNC. We have an opportunity to get better. We have nine home games. I like that."

Chris Cloutier was the Most Outstanding Player of the NCAA Tournament after scoring nine goals in the semifinals and five goals in the championship game. His 19 goals in the NCAA Tournament's four games broke the Championship record (previously 17 goals).

in the NCAA Championship after recording 14 goals on Memorial Day weekend alone. Other key returnees in the midfield include Michael Tagliaferri (36 points), Timmy Kelly (18 points) and Brian Cannon (13 points).

Preseason third-team All-America face-off man Stephen Kelly is back for his senior season. The team's co-MVP a year ago, he won 249 of 434 face-offs last year (.574) and led the team with 126 ground balls.

In addition to Pifani and Rowlett, Ryan Macri returns as a starter on close defense and Brian Balkam is back as the starting goalkeeper. Seniors Tate Jozokos and Brett Bedard lead a deep short-stick defensive midfield corps and veteran long-stick defensive midfielders

Luke Goldstock was UNC's third-leading scorer in 2016 and was named to the NCAA All-Tournament Team.

Jake Matthai led six Tar Heels on the USILA postseason All-America Team in 2016 with his second-team honor.

CAROLINA

HEAD COACH JOE

of the program and its outreach to alumni, student-athletes, their families and the Chapel Hill community. On the field, in the classroom and in the community, Carolina men's lacrosse is achieving at the highest levels and the credit for that goes to Breschi, one of the sharpest minds in collegiate coaching circles.

Breschi, a 1990 Carolina alumnus and former assistant coach for the Tar Heels, became the 12th head lacrosse coach in Carolina history on June 18, 2008. Breschi came to Chapel Hill from Ohio State where he had served as the head coach for the previous 11 seasons. He hit the ground running and his first recruiting class, which enrolled in August 2010, was ranked No. 1 in the nation by Inside Lacrosse Magazine. His past four recruiting classes have been tabbed in the Top 5 nationally as his recruiting efforts have built a strong foundation for UNC's future in the sport. Simply put, young men pursuing college lacrosse careers and college degrees want to play for a man with the character of Breschi. With those recruiting classes in place, Breschi and his staff know they have put the Tar Heel program on sound footing talent wise and these young men have also achieved at high levels in the classroom while being community service leaders.

Carolina has advanced to the NCAA Tournament in each of his eight years as head coach. Last year's team went into the NCAA Tournament unseeded and with an 8-6 regular season record, but over the course of three weekends in May, UNC beat four Top 7 national seeds, culminating with a 14-13 win over #1 Maryland in overtime in the title game. Carolina not only reached the Final Four for the first time since 1993, it won the national title for the first time since 1991. It did all this without a single player being named first-team All-America. Six Tar Heels were named All-ACC Academic and 24 players made the ACC Academic Honor Roll. UNC's team GPA in the spring semester was the highest in program history. In December, Breschi was acknowledged for all those accolades by being named the 2016 USILA National Coach of the Year, the first Tar Heel coach to win the award since 1991.

The previous year's team won 13 games, the seventh straight year UNC reached double digits in wins. Twenty Tar Heels were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll. Statistically it was a record setting campaign for the Tar Heels who went 13-4, finished second in the ACC and reached the NCAA quarterfinals. Eight Tar Heels were named All-Americas, the most since the 1982 team. Offensively, the Tar Heels rewrote the Tar Heel record book, led by players like Joey Sankey, Jimmy Bitter, Chad Tutton and Luke Goldstock.

The 2013 Tar Heels won the ACC regular season, just as the 2016 team did, and also won the ACC tournament championship, the latter for the first time since 1996.

Finishing at 13-4, UNC reached the NCAA quarterfinals and was ranked #1 in the USILA coaches poll for the first time since 1993. 18 Tar Heel lacrosse players were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll, eight to the All-ACC Academic Team for men's lacrosse (for the second time in Breschi's tenure) and the Tar Heel program was one of three sports on campus to win an ACC Top Six For Service award from the conference. Senior attackman Marcus Holman was UNC's first Tewaaraton Trophy finalist since 2004 and Breschi notched his second ACC Coach of the Year honor.

In 2012, Carolina advanced to the ACC Tournament championship game for only the second time since 1996. The second half of the season was a strong one for the Tar Heels and Carolina featured one of the most improved offenses in the nation. Eighteen UNC players were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll. In 2011, Carolina had the ACC Freshman of the Year for the second straight season while six UNC players were named All-America and three were tapped for All-ACC accolades. Fifteen Tar Heels were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and Carolina placed a school record eight players on the All-ACC Academic Team.

In 2010, Breschi led the Tar Heels to a 13-win season, matching the fourth most wins in a season in school history, and the most wins since 1993. Carolina grabbed a share of the ACC regular-season title for the first time since 2003. Carolina opened the season with 10 straight wins, its longest winning streak since 1991. Breschi guided his team to the national lead in extra-man offense and he saw attackmen Billy Bitter and

#Ohio State played in the now defunct Great Western Lacrosse League when Breschi coached there; UNC plays in the Atlantic Coast Conference

In his first year at Carolina in 2009, he led the Tar Heels to a 12-6 overall record and a spot in the NCAA quarterfinals. The Tar Heels won their first game in the ACC Tournament in 13 years and they fell just one goal shy of reaching their first Final Four in 16 years.

The Tar Heels have advanced to the NCAA Tournament and achieved double-digit win totals in each of his eight years as the head coach. He is the first UNC coach in history to have double digit win seasons in his first eight years as head coach.

Breschi was an assistant coach at UNC and Brown University for seven seasons prior to his stint in Columbus with the Buckeyes and he has completed 26 seasons of collegiate coaching experience overall entering the 2017 campaign. Breschi has accomplished much in his life for a man a mere 48 years old.

A native of Baltimore and a 1986 alumnus of the Loyola-Blakefield School, Breschi compiled a 92-63 record in his 11 years at OSU along with a 34-18 regular-season Great Western Lacrosse League mark. The Buckeyes shared GWLL regular-season outright titles in 1999, 2003 and 2008 and won the conference championship outright in 2004. The Buckeyes had seven winning seasons in Breschi's last eight years and made NCAA Tournament appearances in 2003, 2004 and 2008. Taking over a non-scholarship program in 1997, Breschi built the OSU program to prominence from scratch. Along the way, OSU had three double-figure winning seasons, going 10-3 in 1999, 12-4 in 2004 and 11-6 in 2008, when the program had its most significant wins in its history.

Immediately prior to moving to Chapel Hill, in Breschi's 11th season at OSU, the Buckeyes enjoyed their most successful campaign in history. Ohio State won its first NCAA Tournament game by defeating No. 8-seeded Cornell 15-7 in the NCAA first round on the Big Red's home field. The Buckeyes shared the GWLL regular-season title and reached the finals of the GWLL Tournament.

Four Buckeyes were named All-Americans in 2008, including second-team attackman Kevin Buchanan, who was also the fifth pick in the 2008 Major League Lacrosse draft. Four Buckeyes were GWLL first-team selections in 2008 and another four were second-team choices. He coached Ohio State players to 128 academic All-Big Ten honors and 217 Ohio State Scholar-Athlete awards in his 11 seasons at Columbus. Breschi was a three-time GWLL coach of the year selection in 1999, 2003

In his first eight seasons at Carolina, he has had players earn 46 All-America citations and 25 All-ACC awards. Attackman Billy Bitter was named a first-team All-America in 2009, Carolina's first choice since 2005. He repeated as a first-team All-America in 2010. Ryan Flanagan earned first-team All-America accolades as well in 2010. He also was named the co-winner of the Schmeisser Memorial Cup from the USILA as the nation's top defenseman. It was UNC's first major USILA award winner in 14 years and its first Schmeisser Cup recipient in 19 seasons. In 2012, R.G. Keenan was the first Tar Heel midfielder to be named a first-team All-America since Jude Collins and Jason Wade in 1996. In 2013, Marcus Holman was both a first-team All-America and the ACC Offensive Player of the Year.

Breschi was one of the finest lacrosse players in the history of the ACC while playing for UNC from 1987-90. He was an All-ACC selection in both 1989 and 1990 and was selected to play in the prestigious USILA North-South All-Star game in 1990. He was a first-team All-America pick on defense in 1990 and an honorable mention All-America in 1989. He was elected the sole team captain in 1990. Carolina has elected a single captain only three times since 1981 including Breschi's senior year.

After leading the Tar Heels his senior season to the NCAA semifinals and an ACC title, Breschi was selected as UNC's nominee for the 1990 Anthony J. McKeelin Award, given annually to the outstanding male athlete in the ACC. In 2002, Breschi was named to the prestigious ACC 50th Anniversary Men's Lacrosse Team, honoring the Top 50 players in league history. He was a member of U.S. National Teams that played in the World Lacrosse Games in 1994 and 1998. Breschi earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in communications from Carolina in 1990. He was a member of two U.S. National Teams (1994 and 1998).

After graduating from Carolina in 1990, Breschi coached at his alma mater for two seasons before going to Brown as an assistant coach from 1993-97. Breschi was an assistant at UNC for Dave Klarmann in 1991 and 1992 and was part of a staff that captured ACC titles both of those seasons as well as UNC's fourth NCAA title in 1991. UNC compiled a 28-3 record during Breschi's assistant coaching stint.

Success at North Carolina came not only as a coach for Breschi, but also as a player. Breschi and his wife Julie have five children, the late Michael Breschi, as well as four amazing daughters, Sam, 15, Abby, 13, Lucy, 11, and Emily, 10.

Michael R. Breschi Scholarship Fund

Since the Michael R. Breschi Scholarship fund was created, hundreds of contributions have come from more than half the states in the Union. The scholarship is awarded annually to an Ohio State lacrosse player – most likely a rising senior — who fits former head coach Joe Breschi's criteria.

"It was started in memory of Michael and what he meant to me and my family in the three and a half years that he was with us," Breschi said. "And it's a way to keep his memory alive in all of us, in the Ohio State program and in what I did at Ohio State. And it's a tribute to him and an opportunity to give to a young man who exemplifies the spirit of Michael."

Ohio State and North Carolina annually compete in a fall scrimmage in Baltimore, Md., to benefit the scholarship fund. To make contributions to the Michael Breschi Scholarship Fund please send checks to: The Ohio State University, Michael Breschi Scholarship Fund, Room 235, St. John Arena, 410 Woody Hayes Drive, Columbus, OH 43210.

CAROLINA

Offensive Coordinator David Metzbower

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR DAVID METZBOWER, 3RD SEASON

A veteran coach with more than a quarter century of experience on collegiate sidelines, David Metzbower was named in July 2014 as the offensive coordinator for the men's lacrosse program at UNC.

Within two years the hiring of Metzbower proved extremely profitable to the Tar Heels' success on the field as a dynamic offensive led Carolina on a post-season run that resulted in UNC's first NCAA championship since 1991. In beating four seeded opponents in the 2016 NCAA Tournament, Carolina scored in double digits in all four games including 13 goals against Notre Dame in the NCAA quarterfinals, 18 goals against Loyola in the NCAA semifinals and 14 goals against Maryland in the NCAA championship game.

This past fall Metzbower was tapped as the NCAA Division I assistant coach of the year as named by the U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association. In 2016, UNC finished sixth in the nation in goals per game at 13.06 and the Tar Heels were fifth in man-up offense at .500. All three Tar Heel attackmen - Luke Goldstock, Steve Pontrello and Chris Cloutier - were named to the 2016 NCAA All-Tournament Team with Cloutier being tapped as the tournament's Most Outstanding Player.

In his first season as offensive coordinator, the Tar Heels averaged 14.35 goals per game in 2015 in reaching the NCAA quarterfinals, the best scoring average since 1996 with players like Joey Sankey, Jimmy Bitter, Chad Tutton and Luke Goldstock rewriting large portions of the Tar Heel record book. All four of those players earned All-America honors in 2015 including Tutton on the first team.

Metzbower joined the Carolina staff from Loyola University (Maryland) where he served as an assistant coach and the Greyhounds' offensive coordinator since November 2012. In his two years on the staff at Loyola, the Greyhounds earned back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances and won the Patriot League regular-season and tournament championships in 2014. The Greyhounds went 26-7 in Metzbower's two years as an assistant coach to Charley Toomey.

"I'm extremely happy that David and his family have come to Chapel Hill to join the Carolina lacrosse program," said UNC head coach Joe Breschi at the time of Metzbower's hire. "We've known each other since our Loyola High School days and played club lacrosse together for his brother Jimmy Metzbower in the Maryland area back in the 1980s.

"David has a tremendous history of success over the years at both Princeton and Loyola, and adds a wealth of experience and knowledge at the offensive end of the field. He's a wonderful addition to the UNC lacrosse family."

Beginning in 1990, Metzbower spent 20 years as an assistant coach, offensive coordinator and goalkeeper coach at Princeton University, the final seven seasons as the Tigers' associate head coach. Metzbower helped the Tigers win six NCAA Championships and 230 games during his tenure in New Jersey.

Originally from the Baltimore area and an alumnus of Loyola Blakefield High School, Metzbower graduated from the University of Delaware in 1986 after a standout career as an attackman.

"My family and I would like to thank Athletic Director Bubba Cunningham, Senior Associate Athletic Director Clint Gwaltney and Coach Breschi for this opportunity," Metzbower said when he made the decision to join the Tar Heel staff. "We are thrilled to move to Chapel Hill and join the University of North Carolina lacrosse family. It's a unique opportunity in college lacrosse, and I am looking forward to coaching these student-athletes. I can't wait to get started."

After graduating from Delaware, Metzbower joined the Blue Hens' coaching staff and spent 1987-1989 on the sidelines in Newark.

In 1990, Metzbower joined the Princeton staff as the top assistant to new Tigers' head coach Bill Tierney and helped create dynamic offenses that averaged 181.6 goals per year over a 20-season span.

Metzbower helped the Tigers win six NCAA championships, reach the NCAA semifinals 10 times and advance to the NCAA quarterfinals on 16 occasions. During Metzbower's tenure, the Tigers won 14 Ivy League titles while achieving a cumulative 230-65 record.

He helped develop the top five goal scorers in Princeton history, the top four in career points, 22 All-Ivy League attackmen, seven Ivy League Players of the Year, 27 first-team All-Americans and 74 All-Ivy League first-team selections. Under Metzbower, Kevin Lowe (1994) and John Hess (1997) won the Lt. Col. J.L. Turnbull Award as the most outstanding attackman in Division I, and Josh Sims twice won the Lt. Donald McLaughlin Award as the top midfielder in NCAA Division I (1998 and 2000).

As Princeton's goalkeeper coach, he directed three players - Scott Bacigalupo (1992-1994), Trevor Tierney (2001) and Alex Hewitt (2006) - who won the Ensign C. Markland Kelly Award as the top NCAA Division I goalkeeper a combined five times.

Metzbower left the Princeton program in June 2009 as associate head coach after turning down an offer to be the Tigers' head coach and served as an assistant coach at the Haverford School in 2010. He then served as head coach at Malvern Preparatory School in suburban Philadelphia for two years before moving to Loyola University in 2012.

Metzbower and his wife, Mimi, have two children, a daughter, Jordan, and a son, Derek.

ASSISTANT COACH JOE MARTIN, 4TH SEASON

Joe Martin officially joined the University of North Carolina men's lacrosse coaching staff on Tuesday, August 30 as announced by Tar Heel head coach Joe Breschi.

Martin had served as the team's director of operations for the past three years before being promoted last August to a full-time assistant coaching position. Martin will work primarily with UNC's face-off men and wing play as well as the defensive unit.

"I would like to thank athletic director Bubba Cunningham, senior associate athletic director Clint Gwaltney and coach Breschi for this opportunity," said Martin at the time of his hiring. "I am thrilled to take this next step within the program here at the University of North Carolina, and have the opportunity to work more closely with our terrific student-athletes to help guide them in achieving their goals on and off the field."

Martin originally joined the Tar Heel staff in November 2013 as the operations director. He took over the full-time spot on the coaching staff vacated by Chris Feifs, a seven-year veteran of the staff, who last summer took over as head coach at the University of Vermont.

In his role as operations director, Martin oversaw all game and practice film responsibilities, supervised the team managers, oversaw equipment ordering and distribution, arranged team travel and meals and helped operate youth and high school clinics. During his tenure, Carolina won the NCAA championship in 2016 while also earning bids to the tournament in the previous two seasons. This past season's team also won the ACC regular-season championship. Carolina's record over the past three seasons was 35-15.

"After three years of being in the program as the director of operations, I'm thrilled to have Joe Martin as part of our coaching staff," UNC head coach Joe Breschi said. "He's a bright and hungry young coach who will bring tremendous energy and passion to the program."

Martin earned his Bachelor of Science degree in business administration from Western New England University in Springfield, Mass., in May 2012. He had a major in finance and a minor in economics.

After graduating, Martin stayed on at WNEU for a year as an assistant men's lacrosse coach before moving to Chapel Hill in November 2013. His duties at Western New England included coaching the face-off specialists and defense and organizing the scout offense for the 2013 Commonwealth Coast Conference titlists. The 2013 team also went to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Division III Tournament. He also coached wide receivers and quarterbacks for the Western New England football team during the 2013 season.

Martin played his college lacrosse at his alma mater from 2009-12. He was a first-team All-Conference selection in 2011 and 2012. As a senior, he was named both ECAC All-New England and NEILA All-New England.

ASSISTANT COACH BRUCE FRADY, 1ST SEASON

The University of North Carolina men's lacrosse program added Bruce Frady as its volunteer assistant coach in the fall of 2016. Frady took over for Brian Holman, who had served in the role for eight years before becoming the head coach at the University of Utah.

Frady will work specifically with the Tar Heel goalkeepers and defense. Frady's previous collegiate coaching experience includes stops at Eastern Connecticut State University, Fairfield and Quinnipiac.

Most recently he had worked from 2014-16 for 3D Lacrosse LLC in San Francisco as its director for Northern California. In that role, he oversaw select camps, clinics, workshops and training and development for the company.

Prior to that he was an assistant coach at Quinnipiac University from 2006-14. He served as the team's defensive coordinator for seven of those seasons and as the offensive coordinator in 2012. He was the program's recruiting coordinator and also served as goalie coach.

In 2010, the Bobcats finished 8-6 and Frady led a defense that finished 10th nationally in goals against average (8.57) and fifth nationally in caused turnovers (10.21 per game). The 2011 squad was the co-regular season champions in the Northeast Conference and advanced to the NEC finals. The 2012 & 2013 squads reached the NEC Tournament semifinals.

Frady also served as an assistant coach at Eastern Connecticut State in 2004 and at Fairfield in 2005 when the Stags won the Great Western Lacrosse League championship and played in the NCAA Championship.

He is a 2005 alumnus of Eastern Connecticut State University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in communication with a focus in public relations. He minored in physical education. He was a varsity lacrosse player for three years at ECSU from 2001-03, playing on teams which won the Little East Conference each of those seasons. The Warriors advanced all three years to the NCAA Division III Championship tournament.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS MATT HUDSON, 1ST SEASON

Matt Hudson is the newest member of the Tar Heel men's lacrosse program staff as he became the director of operations in the fall of 2016. Hudson took over for Joe Martin who was promoted to an assistant coaching position after being in the operations role for three years.

Hudson arrived in Chapel Hill after three successful years coaching in the NCAA Division III ranks in New England. He served on the staff at Western New England University from August 2014-August 2016 and at Springfield College from September 2013-May 2014.

In two years with the Golden Bears of WNEU, Hudson helped lead the squad to a 14-6 record in 2015 and a 15-4 mark in 2016. The 2015 team was the ECAC Division III championship squad while the 2016 unit captured the Commonwealth Coast Conference championship and advanced to the NCAA Division III Tournament.

In 2014, he worked with the lacrosse program at Springfield College, a season in which The Pride went 15-4 and captured the New England Athletic Conference title. The 2014 Springfield team advanced to the second round of the NCAA Division III Tournament.

Hudson is a 2012 alumnus of Springfield College where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Movement and Sports Studies with a minor in health studies. He was a four-year member of The Pride men's lacrosse team which captured four straight Pilgrim League championships from 2009-12 and advanced to the NCAA Division III Tournament each of those seasons.

CAROLINA

Bubba Cunningham, Director of Athletics

Carolina; a master plan for UNC's athletic facilities; and creation of The Rammys - an innovative end-of-the-year awards show popular with Carolina's student-athletes and staff.

Cunningham, who is the 1st Vice President of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA), has Carolina positioned to have a voice in the on-going conversation about the future, whether it is in the state university system, the Atlantic Coast Conference or at the NCAA level. Cunningham is in his sixth year on the ACC Television Committee and has served on numerous NCAA committees over the last two decades.

In his first full year in Chapel Hill, Cunningham led a planning committee that worked with Dr. Paul Friga, associate professor of strategy and entrepreneurship at Carolina's Kenan-Flagler School of Business, to develop Carolina's strategic plan. From that process was the creation of the mission statement and the four core values for Carolina Athletics- Responsibility, Innovation, Service and Excellence. The strategic plan will be updated again in 2016-17.

Soon after the strategic plan was announced, Cunningham joined with provost James W. Dean and other University officials to develop the Student-Athlete Academic Initiative Working Group, which was launched in fall 2013. That group spent several months developing a comprehensive approach to assessing and enhancing how the University provides academic support to student-athletes. The group has implemented a rigorous and transparent set of processes and metrics as part of an ongoing initiative. The objective is to ensure proper alignment with the University's academic mission, a goal that is consistent with Cunningham's strategic plan for the Department of Athletics.

In 2014, Cunningham announced the creation of Complete Carolina, an enhanced degree-completion program that honors former student-athletes' scholarships for life. The program provides financial support for degree completion, as well as academic advising and career counseling, to former student-athletes who return to complete their degrees at any time.

On the field, Carolina has achieved outstanding success under Cunningham's leadership. In each of his five seasons, the Tar Heels have finished in the top 15 of the Learfield Director's Cup, including four top-10 finishes. During that same period, the number of UNC student-athletes on the ACC Academic Honor Roll has steadily increased.

Carolina finished seventh in the 2015-16 Learfield Director's Cup. The Tar Heels won NCAA titles in men's and women's lacrosse, finished second in men's basketball and field hockey and had top-10 national finishes in men's and women's tennis and men's soccer. Carolina teams won four ACC titles and the men's tennis team won the ITA Indoor Team National Championship. In addition, the football team won 11 games, advanced to its first ever ACC Championship Game and earned a final No. 15 ranking in both national polls.

The 2015-16 season marked Carolina's second consecutive top-10 finish in the Director's Cup as the Tar Heels placed fifth the previous year. Ten Tar Heel teams posted top-10 national finishes in 2014-15 and 25 advanced to postseason play, led by a second-place finish by women's lacrosse and a final four appearance by field hockey. Carolina also had top-10 finishes in men's soccer, volleyball, men's lacrosse, men's tennis, women's tennis, men's basketball, women's basketball and women's soccer.

In addition, the women's cross country team won its first ACC title in 11 years and the women's tennis team captured the ITA national indoor team championship for the second time in the last three years. Individually, Jamie Loeb won UNC's first-ever women's tennis NCAA singles championship.

Carolina finished 14th in the 2013-14 Learfield Director's Cup with seven teams posting top-10 national finishes. In 2012-13, Cunningham's first full season at UNC, Carolina finished eighth in the Director's Cup on the strength of national championships in women's soccer and women's lacrosse. The women's tennis team captured the ITA national indoor title and 11 other programs finished in the top 25.

The UNC women's athletics program captured the 2013 Capital One Cup, which is awarded to the best men's and women's Division I athletics programs in the country. For winning its first Capital One Cup, the Tar Heels earned $200,000 toward student-athlete scholarships and a spot at the annual ESPY Awards show in Los Angeles.

Carolina student-athletes have excelled in the classroom as well. During the 2015-16 academic calendar, more than 350 student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year. It was the fourth-consecutive year more than 300 UNC student-athletes have earned the honor. Carolina has set or tied its top single-season score in the APR in the last two seasons. UNC student-athletes have improved their APR scores from 966 in 2011 to 987 in 2015.

Cunningham is in his 15th year as a Division I director of athletics. He came to Chapel Hill after spending the previous six years as the director of athletics at the University of Tulsa. He also was the AD for three years from 2002-2005 at Ball State University. He was honored as the 2008-09 FBS Central Region Athletics Director of the Year, an award presented by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics.

At Tulsa, Cunningham guided the Golden Hurricane through its initial move to Conference USA and spearheaded a $60 million athletics initiative. Tulsa won 34 league championships in his tenure, more than any other school in Conference USA and the football program played in five bowl games in his last six years.

At Ball State, Cunningham led a program with 19 intercollegiate sports and a budget of $12.4 million. In his final year, Ball State completed a $12 million campaign to renovate the football stadium. In raising those funds, Cunningham secured the largest single gift in Ball State athletics history.

From 1988-2002, Cunningham worked in the athletics department at the University of Notre Dame. He served as Notre Dame's associate athletics director for finance and facilities from 1995-2000 and was the associate director of athletics for external affairs from 2000-02.

Cunningham earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration, both from Notre Dame, in 1984 and 1988, respectively. He played on the Irish golf team in 1982-83.

Cunningham is a member of the USTA Athletic Director Advisory Group. He is a former member of NACDA's Executive Committee, and was on the Board of Directors of the Alzheimers Association of Oklahoma and the Folds of Honor Foundation Board. Cunningham also served on the Gatorade National Advisory Board and has been a featured speaker at numerous NACDA and I-A institute conferences.

Born in Flint, Mich., and raised in Naples, Fla., Cunningham and his wife, Tina, have four children: Matthew, Michael, John and Sarah.

Fetzer Field serves as the long-time home of the Tar Heels' men's lacrosse program. After more than eight decades of use the facility will be razed at the close of the 2017 season and a new Fetzer will be built on the same site, opening in time for the 2018 soccer season.

At Fetzer Field, the North Carolina lacrosse program enjoys one of the premier lacrosse domains in the nation and one of the best home field advantages in the sport. Fetzer Field has been the home to five NCAA championship men's lacrosse teams at Carolina, 22 national championship women's soccer squads, two NCAA title winning men's soccer teams and two NCAA champion women's lacrosse squads.

Fetzer Field is just a part of the outstanding lacrosse facilities enjoyed by the UNC lacrosse program. Fetzer Field will play host to eight Carolina men's lacrosse regular season games this year while the Tar Heels will play at Kenan Stadium versus Syracuse on Senior Day in April.

Carolina's locker room facility in the Loudermilk Center for Excellence at the Blue Zone, which opened in the fall of 2011, is a state of the art facility and arguably the finest facility in all of NCAA Division I lacrosse. It not only provides the Tar Heel program with a memorabilia area, coaches locker rooms, a film and team meeting room, locker room and laundry area, it also provides access to adjacent facilities for academic support and weight training in the same building.

Fetzer Field, originally built in 1935, underwent significant improvements in 1988. The facility has been host to NCAA men's lacrosse tournament games on numerous occasions, most recently in 2015. It began hosting men's track meets as far back as 1935.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track coach Bob Fetzer, Fetzer Field has been the home of Carolina soccer since 1947, the first year UNC sponsored a varsity men's soccer team, and Carolina men's lacrosse since 1949, the initial year for that varsity sports program. The women's soccer program was started in 1979 and the women's lacrosse program in 1996. All those sports call Fetzer Field home for their regular-season and post-season tournament games and all four sports are annually ranked among the Top 10 teams in the nation in their respective sports.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly adjacent to Carmichael Arena on South Road (N.C. State Road 54), the facility was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the tenure of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The facility's renovations nearly three decades ago made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. The playing field itself was reworked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two convenient ticket booths were added to the front gate and a computerized scoreboard and message center was installed. Even more recently the facilities' concession areas were revamped so they are more convenient for fans and the scoreboard was upgraded in 2015.

The facility has been home not only to women's and men's soccer NCAA and ACC Championship events, but also numerous ACC Outdoor Track and Field Championships, the North Carolina High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics, men's and women's lacrosse and soccer ACC Tournaments and first round, second round, third round, quarterfinal and semifinal action in NCAA tournament play. In the summer of 1996, the facility was the home training site for the U.S. Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

The Humble Beginnings of a Vaunted Program

Lacrosse, a sport invented by Native Americans and played long before European settlers first visited the shores of North America, was first introduced at the University of North Carolina in 1937 on a club sport basis.

The first Carolina teams in the late 1930s used the football team's discarded helmets and cleats while team members bought their own gloves and sticks. The team played its home games on a field across the street from Woollen Gymnasium.

In those days, Carolina played in what was called the Dixie Lacrosse League with fellow league members Duke, Virginia, Washington & Lee, Loyola College of Maryland and the Washington Lacrosse Club. Albert C. Cornsweet, a 1929 graduate of Brown University, coached the initial Carolina teams of the late 1930s.

Most of the players on those early lacrosse teams worked part-time jobs in order to stay in school. It was the heart of the Great Depression and most college students needed to supplement their incomes. There were some scholarship football players who competed in the sport as well. Rumor has it that Carolina football coach Ray Wolf made his players compete in lacrosse so they'd learn how to run. Wolf had an appreciation for the sport and wanted to use it to his advantage by helping keep his players in shape during the football off-season, knowing lacrosse players competed in a sport where participants ran and ran and then ran some more.

In the late 1940s, the athletic department hired Bill Darden as a member of the business office staff and he also began to coach the lacrosse team at UNC in his extra time. The athletic department, after a brief period of time, officially awarded varsity status to the sport and monogram awards were first granted beginning with the 1949 team, officially making it Carolina's initial varsity unit.

The school was admitted as a member of the U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association (USILA) in 1950 and has remained a member since that time. The 1951 team featured the program's first All-America player. Nick Sowell was named the first-team All-America goalie that year by the USILA.

After UNC soccer and lacrosse coach Alan Moore left Chapel Hill following the 1953 campaign, the 1954 squad was coached by George Good, a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps who was stationed in Chapel Hill as part of the Naval ROTC program. The 1954 team posted a disappointing 0-6 mark. After just a six-year period from 1949-54, the team's status as a varsity sport at Carolina came to an end. The athletic department at that time began to focus resources on other varsity sports. Recruiting high-level in-state talent was a major issue in trying to compete with league foes like Virginia and Maryland and there were no high school programs in North Carolina in the 1950s.

For a decade the men's lacrosse program at the University would be relegated to a different existence. A club team existed and played outside competition but was no longer recognized by the athletic department as a varsity program. By no means, however, was lacrosse permanently vanquished to the scrap heap. In fact, a strong club team competed on campus from 1957-63 and although varsity letters were not awarded, the players on that club squad kept lacrosse alive on the Chapel Hill campus and were key figures in setting the foundation for future greatness.

When Jim Tatum arrived on campus to coach football in the late 1950s, it was a simple gesture by him that helped Carolina maintain a strong presence on the club level. Tatum came to UNC from the University of Maryland, which had one of the nation's most dominant lacrosse teams at the time. Tatum agreed to provide funding for lacrosse equipment from the football budget in return for the club team's commitment to take all willing football players in the spring to keep them in shape.

The existence of the club team helped Tatum recruit Frank Riggs from Baltimore the next year and Riggs went on to be captain of the 1961 football team. He later played for the Mount Washington Lacrosse Club in Baltimore and served as president of United States Lacrosse, the sports national governing body in Baltimore. Riggs recruited other football players to play on the club team. UNC quarterback Jack Cummings was a member of the club team from the outset. In its formative years, the club played teams from Duke, Washington & Lee, Virginia and Colgate. Arthur Greenbaum, a member of the varsity team under coach Alan Moore in the early 1950s, initially coached the club team.

Permanent Varsity Status Granted to Lacrosse in 1964

Lacrosse was resurrected on a varsity level at Carolina in 1964. UNC wanted to add a varsity sport to improve Carolina's standing in the Carmichael Cup, the annual all-sports trophy in the ACC at that time. Maryland was dominating the Carmichael Cup standings at the time and the Tar Heel administration was determined to give Carolina a better chance to win the award. Even if Carolina's initial intention was to improve the University's Carmichael Cup standing, which it certainly did, the move proved to be even more brilliant at a more important level as within 17 years the Heels became an NCAA title team.

The UNC program competed on the varsity level without awarding athletic scholarships for 10 years after reappearing on campus in varsity form. Carolina upgraded the program with the awarding of scholarships after the hiring of head coach Paul Doty during the summer of 1973. The Tar Heels also transitioned from an NCAA small college program (the equivalent of what is now the Division II and III levels combined) to NCAA Division I status in 1974 with the awarding of those scholarships. Almost immediately the Tar Heels were competitive with the top teams in the nation.

Despite its rather brief history on campus in comparison to other UNC sports, which date back to the early decades of the 20th century or even the late decades of the 19th century, North Carolina lacrosse has been something very special in its time on campus from 1949-54 and 1964 to the present.

Since 1949 the all-time Tar Heel record stands at 479-288-2.

Carolina recorded the 400th victory in school history when Coach Joe Breschi's Tar Heels defeated Lehigh 17-5 on February 20, 2010. Tar Heel teams have won NCAA Division I national championships five times, earning crowns in 1981, 1982, 1986, 1991 and 2016. Carolina teams have also captured 12 Atlantic Coast Conference championships—including 11 in a period spanning just 16 seasons from 1981-96. Those championships were won in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994 and 1996. Carolina returned to the top of the heap in ACC play when the Tar Heels won the 2013 crown with a 16-13 championship game victory over Virginia.

The 1981 and 1982 teams won 26 games in succession, recording one of the longest winning streaks in collegiate lacrosse history. Thirty-one times since first qualifying in 1976, the Tar Heels have competed in the NCAA Men's Lacrosse Championship. Only four schools (Johns Hopkins, Maryland, Virginia and Syracuse) have played in the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Tournament more often than Carolina has.

Tremendous growth in the program occurred beginning in the late 1960s after the sport gained a foothold in Chapel Hill. After a pair of losing seasons in 1966 and 1967, Jim Bischoff coached the Tar Heels to a vastly improved 7-4 mark in 1968. In addition, at 25th in the final poll, Bischoff's 1968 team was the first Tar Heel squad to earn a post-season national ranking.

Mueller Tutors the Likes of Kramer and Peterson

In 1969, Fred Mueller, a long-time professor in UNC's Department of Exercise and Sports Science and a former assistant football coach at UNC, began a successful four-year run as head coach. The 1970 Tar Heels ranked as Mueller's best team as they finished seventh in the country in the USILA poll with a 9-2 record and won the South Atlantic division championship of the USILA. That team would likely have been the first UNC squad to earn an NCAA Tournament bid but the first championship tournament sponsored by the NCAA came a year later in 1971.

Among Mueller's greatest players was Peter Kramer, who won the C. Markland Kelly, Jr. Memorial Cup as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper in 1969. Attackman Harper Peterson copped honors as a first-team All-America three times in his career and Kramer was a three-time honoree as well.

Ron Miller took over the lacrosse coaching reins on an interim basis for one season in 1973. Miller led the team to a 12-5 record in 1973. Those 12 wins stood as Carolina's school record for victories in a season until the 1982 national championship team broke the mark when it finished with a 14-0 ledger.

Carolina lacrosse entered a new era in 1973 when the program hired Paul Doty as the first full-time head coach in school history. That same year, the team was elevated to scholarship status with the first athletic grants-in-aid in the sport being awarded during the 1974 season. Doty led UNC to national Top 10 rankings in both 1976 and 1977 and to UNC's first two NCAA Division I Tournament appearances those same two seasons. Another program milestone achieved under Doty's tutelage was Carolina's 13-10 win over Virginia during the 1976 season. It marked the first time Carolina had ever defeated either Maryland or Virginia as a varsity team, the two schools which had dominated ACC lacrosse since 1954. UNC's first win over Maryland would not come until 1981, however, during another head coach's tenure.

In 2003, UNC retired the numbers of three national players of the year - Tom Sears (1982), Tom Haus (1986) and Dennis Goldstein (1991).

CAROLINA

An Era of Excellence under Willie Scroggs

In 1978, UNC turned to the hotbed of college lacrosse, Johns Hopkins University, and hired the Blue Jays' top assistant coach, Willie Scroggs, as the Tar Heels' new head coach. It was a move that bore fruit for a dozen years and led to some glorious years for Carolina lacrosse. Scroggs retired from coaching at the end of the 1990 season to become a senior associate athletic director at UNC, ending a brief but brilliant coaching tenure. In 2013, Scroggs was recognized with the Intercollegiate Men's Lacrosse Coaches Association's Creators of the Game Award and in 2016 he won the organization's Joseph R. "Frenchy" Julien Award presented to a member of the lacrosse community for outstanding and continuous service to the sport. Scroggs retired from his administrative role in the athletic department in the summer of 2014, ending a long and prosperous career as a Tar Heel that began in 1978.

The initial decision to pursue Scroggs was made by Tar Heel athletic director Bill Cobey whose philosophy was that a person needed to go to the best programs in the sport and recruit a top assistant coach or existing head coach in order to build winning programs.

Tar Heel teams were 121-37 during the Scroggs era and were invited to the NCAA Tournament 11 straight seasons from 1980 through 1990. In nine of Scroggs' 12 years, UNC made at least the NCAA Tournament semifinal round while the 1981, 1982 and 1986 squads won NCAA Division I championships. The Tar Heels were 17-8 in NCAA post-season play during his tenure. Scroggs' teams won ACC titles in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989 and 1990. In addition, the 1982 team finished the season ranked No. 1 in the nation in the final USILA poll while the 1981 squad finished second in the USILA poll.

When Scroggs announced his retirement immediately after Carolina's NCAA semifinal loss to Syracuse in 1990, the University turned to coaching veteran Dave Klarmann, who had been the chief assistant coach to Scroggs for 11 seasons in Chapel Hill. The move paid off in instantaneous results. In Klarmann's first season at the helm of the Tar Heels, he led the team to a 16-0 record and the 1991 NCAA and ACC championships. That team also finished first in the USILA poll.

After an ACC championship and an appearance in the NCAA semifinals in 1992, the Tar Heels had another banner season the following year.

In 1993, the Tar Heels again finished first in the USILA national coaches' poll, marking the second such regular season finish in Klarmann's coaching tenure. Carolina also advanced to the NCAA championship game for the fifth time in history, dropping a 13-12 decision to Syracuse. In 1994, UNC won its seventh straight ACC crown. Carolina won the ACC title again in 1996 as Carolina routed Duke in the semifinals and upset eventual NCAA finalist Virginia to claim the crown behind a brilliant goalkeeping performance by Brooks Brown.

Klarmann resigned from his coaching position following the 2000 season after leading Carolina to five ACC championships in his tenure. In his last game as the Tar Heel head coach in 2000 he earned his 100th career victory as the Tar Heels defeated Lehigh.

Carolina athletic director Dick Baddour then employed the same plan used by Cobey in 1978 and he went again to lacrosse power Johns Hopkins to find the new head coach for the Tar Heels, this time hiring the Blue Jays' two-year head coach, John Haus, to lead Carolina into the new millennium. The hiring of Haus proved worthwhile as the Carolina program returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2004 for the first time since 1998, winning its first NCAA game since 1993 in the process. Carolina again played in the NCAA Tournament in 2007, reaching the NCAA quarterfinal round for a second time in four seasons. The Tar Heels reached the NCAA Tournament again in 2008.

At the conclusion of the 2008 season, Haus announced his resignation and he became the director of lacrosse and head men's lacrosse coach at Lebanon Valley College in Annville, Pa., shortly thereafter. Baddour then hired Ohio State head coach Joe Breschi, a 1990 UNC alumnus, to lead the Tar Heel program. In Breschi's first season at the helm, the Tar Heels reached the NCAA quarterfinal round, won 12 games in a season for the first time since 1996 and won an ACC Tournament game for the first time in 13 years. The 2010 campaign was even more successful as the Tar Heels opened the season with 10 straight wins and finished 13-3 and ranked No. 4 in the nation. The 13 wins matched the fourth most in school history and the No. 4 poll ranking was the highest since 1996. Breschi's teams have advanced to NCAA Tournament play in each of his eight years at the helm and again advanced to the ACC Tournament championship game in 2012. The 2013 season was a breakthrough year for the Tar Heels under Breschi as Carolina finished 13-4, winning 10 games in a row during the campaign. UNC advanced to the NCAA quarterfinals for the third time in Breschi's five years as head coach. Carolina won the ACC Tournament for the first time since 1996, outlasting Duke 18-17 and Virginia 16-13 in two of the most exciting games in tournament history. UNC also finished the regular season ranked #1 in the USILA coaches poll. The 2015 season saw the Tar Heels finish 13-4, place second in the ACC regular season, earn the NCAA Tournament's #3 seed and advance again to the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Eight Tar Heels were named All-Americans and Joey Sankey and Jimmy Bitter finished first and third in school scoring history.

Carolina returned again to the pinnacle of NCAA lacrosse in 2016 as a team which finished 8-6 in the regular season and went into the NCAA Tournament unseeded downed four seeded teams in a row to capture Carolina's first national championship since 1991.

Stellar Play in the NCAA Tournament

In winning five NCAA championships since 1981, Carolina teams have been involved in some of the most exciting games in the tournament's 46-year history.

In 1981, UNC went through the regular season unbeaten and it was ranked No. 2 in the nation behind three-time defending national champion Johns Hopkins entering the tournament. The Tar Heels recorded lopsided wins over Syracuse and Navy in the first two rounds of the tournament before meeting the unbeaten Blue Jays in the national championship game at Princeton's Palmer Stadium. Before a crowd of 13,943, UNC scored six straight goals in the second half to overcome a three-goal Johns Hopkins advantage as the Heels eventually triumphed by a 14-13 margin.

In 1982, the Tar Heels swept through the regular season unscathed again. In the NCAA Tournament, UNC routed Navy and Cornell, setting up a championship game rematch with Johns Hopkins. In a game dominated by the two teams' defenses, UNC beat the Blue Jays 7-5 behind five goals by junior attackman David Wingate and brilliant goalkeeping by Tom Sears who was the choice as that year's national player of the year.

Carolina's third NCAA championship came in 1986 and at the time it was the most unexpected of the quintet of crowns that have been won by UNC. The Tar Heels were seeded fifth going into the tournament. No team seeded lower than fourth had ever made the championship game prior to the 1986 season and none seeded lower than third had ever won the title. To this day, only four other teams seeded as low as fifth have won the NCAA crown in the history of the tournament. Ironically, in winning the championship, the Heels avenged all three regular-season losses in the exact same order in which they had lost to those teams earlier in the year. After a 12-10 quarterfinal win at Maryland, UNC headed to the first-ever NCAA men's lacrosse Final Four, an institution now embedded in the culture of the sport every Memorial Day weekend.

At Newark, Del., Carolina was well prepared for the semifinals and it avenged a 16-4 regular-season loss to two-time defending NCAA champion Johns Hopkins by beating the Blue Jays 10-9 in overtime. Carolina won the game on Mike Tumillo's goal off a Gary Seivold assist a little over two minutes into the extra period. Two days later against Virginia, UNC and the Cavaliers traded the lead throughout the contest with neither team ever holding more than a two-goal advantage at any time. Another overtime period was required to settle the issue. Gary Seivold scored an assisted goal 1:50 into the extra session to give the title to Carolina.

Michael Burnett led the Tar Heels to NCAA championships in 1981 & 1982 and he ranks 2nd in UNC history in assists with 106.

Like the 1981 and 1982 teams, 1991's national championship team finished the season unbeaten. UNC opened NCAA Tournament play by defeating Loyola 11-9 in the quarterfinals at Fetzer Field. Six days later, the Tar Heels handed Syracuse its first NCAA home playoff loss in history as Carolina routed the Orangemen 19-13 at the Carrier Dome. Two days later against Towson, Carolina led 11-4 at the half and was seemingly in control of the game. But Towson made a huge run in the second half and Carolina saw its lead shrink to a single goal in the fourth quarter before the Tar Heels pulled away to win the game 18-13. The Tar Heel victory was led by senior attackman Dennis Goldstein, the National Player of the Year, who was the championship game's Most Valuable Player. Goldstein led UNC past Syracuse with four goals and he added four goals and four assists in the title game against Towson.

In 2016, Carolina was unseeded for one of the first time in its history but it edged #6 seed Marquette 10-9 in the first round before routing #3 Notre Dame 13-9 in the second round to advance to Carolina's first Final Four in 23 seasons. Heading to Philadelphia as an underdog was the best scenario for Coach Joe Breschi's Tar Heels. In the semifinals, UNC jumped out to a 10-goal lead early in the second quarter and went on to beat #7 Loyola 18-13 behind sophomore attackman Chris Cloutier's school record nine goals. Two days later, UNC upset top-ranked Maryland 14-13 in overtime to win the national championship. Carolina trailed by two goals with less than four minutes to play but goals by Luke Goldstock and Patrick Kelly forced overtime. After weathering a man-down situation in the extra period, Cloutier scored his fifth goal of the game with 1:39 to play in overtime to give the Tar Heels the win. Cloutier was named the Most Outstanding Player of the NCAA Tournament after scoring 19 goals, a new tournament record, in four games, including nine against Loyola in the semifinals and five against Maryland in the finals.

A Bevy of All-America Selections and USILA Award Winners

Over the past 38 seasons, UNC players have earned 177 All-America accolades and 108 All-Atlantic Coast Conference citations.

Eleven Tar Heels have been named ACC Player of the Year — attackman Michael Burnett in 1981, goalkeeper Tom Sears in 1982, defenseman Randy Cox in 1984, attackman Mac Ford in 1985, defenseman Graham Harden in 1991, defenseman Alex Martin in 1992, midfielder Ryan Wade in both 1993 and 1994, midfielder Jason Wade in 1996, attackman Billy Bitter in 2010 and attackman Marcus Holman in 2013.

Scroggs was tapped as ACC Coach of the Year in 1988 and Klarmann won the same honor in 1991, 1993, 1994 and 1996. Current head coach Joe Breschi earned the award in 2010 and 2013. In 1989, midfielder Jim Buczek was named as the ACC Freshman of the Year. Attackman Jeff Sonke won the same award in 1998 and attackmen Marcus Holman and Nicky Galasso won the award in back-to-back years in 2010 and 2011. Eight ACC Tournament Most Valuable Players have been Tar Heels — attackman Michael Thomas in 1989, defenseman Joe Breschi in 1990, attackman Dennis Goldstein in 1991, attackman John Webster in 1992, attackman Dan Levy in 1993, goalkeeper Rocco D'Andrea in 1994, goalkeeper Brooks Brown in 1996 and attackman Marcus Holman in 2013.

Carolina has had at least one first-team All-America selection in 23 of 38 seasons since 1979. In 1981, 1991 and 1993, UNC had three first-team selections and the 1984, 1985, 1992, 1996, 2004, 2010 and 2015 squads had two each. In 1982, five of the 11 players named to the first-team All-America squad were Tar Heels, a rather astounding feat. In 2015, UNC had the most overall All-America selections (8) in a single season since the 1982 team.

Peter Kramer started Carolina's long list of USILA award winners when he won the C. Markland Kelly, Jr. Memorial Cup as the nation's top goalie in 1969. In 1981 and 1982, Tom Sears won the Kelly Award as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper. In 1982, he also captured the Enners Award as the National Player of the Year and the Brine Award as the most outstanding player in the NCAA championship game.

A year later, in 1983, Peter Voelkel won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's outstanding midfielder. In 1984, Tom Haus won the first of his three Schmeisser Cups as the nation's outstanding defensive player. He went on to win the Schmeisser Cup again in 1986 and 1987. In 1986, Haus was also tapped for the Enners Award as National Player of the Year. Gary Seivold's two-goal, two-assist effort in the 1986 NCAA championship game win earned him the Brine Award as the game's Most Valuable Player.

Carolina added to that jackpot of top awards during the 1991 season. The USILA tapped Goldstein as the National Player of the Year as well as the MVP of the NCAA championship game after scoring four goals and adding four assists in the 18-13 victory over Towson. Graham Harden captured the Schmeisser Cup as the top defenseman in the nation and Andy Piazza became the first Tar Heel to win the Kelly Award as the nation's top goalie since Sears won the honor in 1982.

In 1992, Jim Buczek won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfielder. A year later, the USILA honored Ryan Wade as the top midfielder in America. Ryan Wade's younger brother, Jason Wade, won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfield performer in 1996.

In 2010, Ryan Flanagan became the first Tar Heel in 14 years to win one of the USILA's top individual awards. The junior defenseman won the Schmeisser Memorial Cup as the nation's top defender. He was the first Tar Heel to capture the Schmeisser Cup since 1991. In 2016, Joe Breschi was tapped as the USILA's National Coach of the Year while David Metzbow was tapped as the National Assistant Coach of the Year. Sophomore Chris Cloutier won the Brine Award as the Most Outstanding Player of the NCAA championship game after scoring five goals in UNC's 14-13 overtime victory over #1 Maryland.

Scroggs was named National Coach of the Year in 1981 by the USILA and he was an assistant coach for the U.S. team that won the title at the 1982 World Lacrosse Games in Baltimore. Sears was the starting goalkeeper for that U.S. team and was named the All-World goalie. Midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, and defenseman Randy Cox, '84, both played on the U.S. team that won the title at the 1986 World Lacrosse Games in Toronto. Three other Tar Heels, Steve Stenersen, '82, Peter Voelkel, '83, and Mac Ford, '85, were alternates on that team.

Mac Ford went on to play on the U.S. team that swept the title at the 1990 World Lacrosse Games in Perth, Australia. He was named the top attackman in the tournament. UNC midfielder Robin Cornish, a Perth native, competed in the 1990 World Games as a middle on the Aussie squad. Carolina sent two representatives to the 1994 World Lacrosse Games in Manchester, England as the Americans won yet again. UNC defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94, played major roles for the U.S. team. The World Lacrosse Games returned to the United States again in 1998 and both Breschi and Wade made return engagements as members of the American team. More recently in the summer of 2005, four Tar Heel players were invited to the U.S. National Team tryouts for the 2006 World Lacrosse Championship. The quartet including goalkeeper Billy Daye, '93, attackman Jeff Sonke, '01, attackman Jed Prossner, '05, and defenseman Stephen McEliduff, '06. Two Tar Heels were in contention for roster spots for the 2014 U.S. Team for the World Lacrosse Games – attackman Marcus Holman, '13, and midfielder Ben Hunt, '09. Hunt was a finalist for the team and Holman made the squad where he was a part-time starter in the attack unit. UNC alumnus Richie Meade, '76, coached the U.S. Team in the World Lacrosse Games at Denver, Colo. in the summer of 2014. The U.S. team advanced to the championship game before falling to Canada in the finals.

This past summer two current Tar Heels – sophomore attackman Timmy Kelly and sophomore defenseman Jack Rowlett – played for the U.S. Team which won the U19 World Championship in Canada.

A Legacy of Great Players

In 1979, defenseman Ralph "Rip" Davy, who passed away at just 51 years old in 2008, became the first Tar Heel to be named a first-team All-America under coach Willie Scroggs. Midfielder Kevin Griswold earned similar honors a year later and was a key player on the 1981 and '82 title teams. Defenseman Gary Burns, '82, was named to All-America teams on three occasions and now works for the Educational Foundation, raising funds for Carolina athletic scholarships. Midfielder Doug Hall was a hero of the 1981 NCAA championship game victory, scoring three goals, and he was a first-team All-America that season.

Jeff Homire, another midfielder, was a first-team All-America in 1982. Chris Walker, '87, was a three-time All-America selection on defense. He played much of his career with the talented Boyd Harden, a first-team All-America in 1988. The brothers Seivold, Joey a midfielder and Gary an attackman, both of whom graduated in 1987, won USILA All-America honors each of their four years while wearing the Carolina Blue and White. Another standout defenseman was Joe Breschi, who led Tar Heel teams to the NCAA semifinals in both 1989 and '90 and is now in his ninth year as head coach of the Tar Heels.

In 1993, the Tar Heels said goodbye to a quartet of outstanding talents. Attackman John Webster left Carolina amongst career leaders in goals (109), assists (79) and points (188). Midfielder Donnie McNichol had a team-leading 109 ground balls in 1993. In addition, his .740 face-off percentage established a school record for a single season. Defensemen Alex Martin and Greg Paradine were also spectacular players of the early 1990s. Both were first-team All-America choices. The 1996 senior class included the likes of first-team All-America midfielders Jude Collins and Jason Wade. Attackman Jeff Sonke was a second-team choice in 2000 and 2001 on attack.

Jed Prossner earned first-team All-America honors in 2004, the first UNC attackman to win them since Dennis Goldstein in 1991. Ronnie Staines was a first-team All-America on defense in 2004, the first Tar Heel defender since Paradine and Martin won first-team accolades on defense in 1993. Prossner went on to be named a first-team All-America attackman again in 2005, so honored despite a 5-8 UNC record. Prossner was only the third Tar Heel attackman in history to win first-team All-America in two or more years, joining Harper Peterson and Michael Burnett. In 2010, Billy Bitter became the third UNC attackman in history to win first-team All-America honors twice.

Prossner, who was the second overall pick in the 2005 Major Lacrosse League draft, also won All-ACC honors in 2005 for the third straight year. No Tar Heel had made the All-ACC team three years in a row since 1983 when Peter Voelkel did so. Billy Bitter followed that up by being named All-ACC three straight years from 2009-11 and Joey Sankey was named All-ACC three years in a row from 2013-15.

Prossner and fellow 2005 senior Mike McCall finished their careers as two of the most prolific goal scorers in Carolina history. Prossner scored 113 goals to rank No. 2 in UNC history while McCall scored 102 goals to move him into a tie for No. 6 on the career chart. Prossner was also the first lacrosse player in history to win the Patterson Medal as UNC's top senior male athlete. He was joined as a Patterson Medal winner by Joey Sankey in 2015. Senior goalkeeper Paul Spellman also broke the UNC career record for saves in 2005, smashing the mark that had stood since 1983 when Tom Sears established it.

Marcus Holman, '13, was a Tewaaraton Trophy finalist in his senior year, joining Prossner (2004) as the only two Tar Heels to be named finalists. Holman was ACC Player of the Year and ACC Tournament MVP as a senior when he broke Bruce Ledwith's 40-year-old record for career points.

The Senior Class of 2015 was an impressive cadre, including first-team All-Americans Chad Tutton and Ryan Kilpatrick, second teamers Jimmy Bitter and Joey Sankey and third teamer Jake Bailey. Sankey finished as UNC's all-time leading scorer and Bitter ended up third. Bitter finished as the second-leading goal scorer in UNC history and Sankey ranked third. Tutton was the most prolific midfield goal scorer in Tar Heel history, finishing ninth overall in career goals.

15 Tar Heels Named to ACC Top 50 Team

Seven Tar Heels have been inducted into the U.S. Lacrosse Hall of Fame—former head coach Willie Scroggs in 2003, three-time national defenseman of the year Tom Haus in 2005, star goalkeeper Tom Sears in 2007, a pair of dynamic attackmen in 2010 — Michael Burnett and Mac Ford — midfielder Ryan Wade in 2013 and midfielder Peter Voelkel in 2014.

In 2002, when the ACC announced its Top 50 players in each sport to celebrate a half century of the league's existence, 15 Tar Heel players were tapped amongst the Top 50.

This group included defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, midfielder Jim Buczek, '92, attackman Michael Burnett, '83, defenseman Randy Cox, '84, attackman Mac Ford, '85, attackman Dennis Goldstein, '91, midfielder Kevin Griswold, '82, defenseman Graham Harden, '91, defenseman Tom Haus, '87, attackman Harper Peterson, '70, goalkeeper Tom Sears, '83, midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, midfielder Peter Voelkel, '83, midfielder Jason Wade, '96, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94.

Jed Prossner was a Tewaaraton Trophy finalist in 2004 and a three-time first-team All-ACC selection.

CHAPEL HILL

Home for a Lifetime

- Chapel Hill has been ranked the Most Livable Small City (less than 100,000) in America.
- Chapel Hill has a population of approximately 60,000 and neighboring Carrboro adds another 20,000 people.
- The Chapel Hill/Carrboro area offers a wealth of dining, shopping and entertainment options, with many more located nearby in Hillsborough, Durham and Raleigh.
- Chapel Hill's location is ideal, within an easy drive of North Carolina's beautiful beaches and mountains.

Often referred to as "The Southern Part of Heaven," Chapel Hill has been called the perfect college town by several publications, including Sports Illustrated.

Running along the north edge of campus, Franklin Street is the heart of Chapel Hill. It provides a mix of restaurants, shops and nightlife, and also serves as the town's meeting place. UNC fans rush Franklin Street to celebrate Tar Heel titles, and each year Halloween festivities draw thousands of revelers.

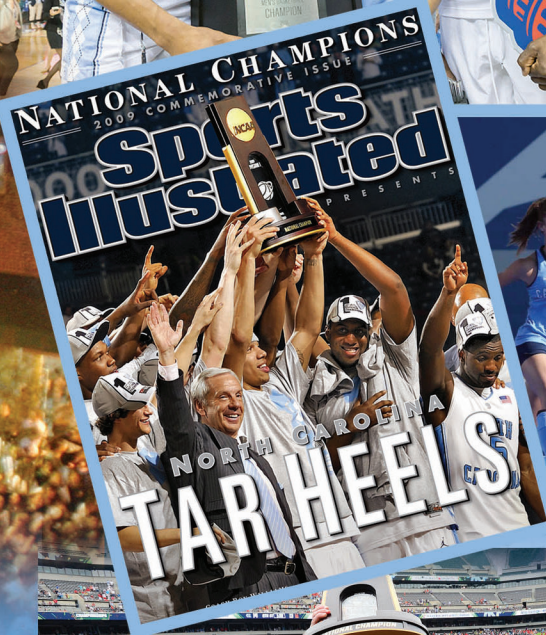

ATHLETIC HERITAGE

Representing UNC with Class

UNC won the 2016 ACC Men's Basketball Tournament and reached the NCAA national championship game.

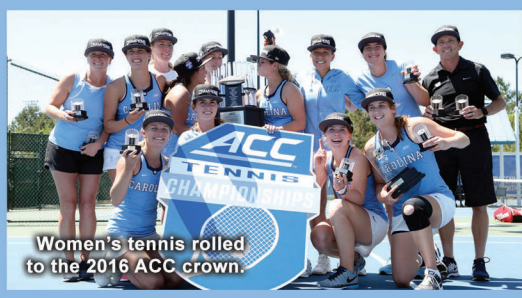

Carolina won the 2015 ACC Coastal Division Championship

UNC Athletics celebrates success at the annual Rammy Awards, held each spring.

Field hockey claimed the 2015 ACC title with an overtime win over Syracuse.

Women's tennis rolled to the 2016 ACC crown.

The Tar Heels won NCAA titles in both women's and men's lacrosse in 2016

• UNC has won more national championships and more conference championships than any other school in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

• UNC has finished among the top 10 in the Directors' Cup standings 13 times in the past 15 years and 19 times in the 23-year history of the competition. The Tar Heels were seventh in 2015-16.

• Carolina is one of three programs to rank in the top 10 in both the men's (second) and women's (fourth) standings in the Capital One Cup in 2015-16.

• Some of the best-known names in sports – such as Michael Jordan and Mia Hamm – wore Carolina blue.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

*Advancing to graduation,
Building Character,
Developing leadership*

LOUDERMILK CENTER
FOR EXCELLENCE

- The Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes assists Tar Heel student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals.
- The Academic Support Program is housed in the Loudermilk Center for Excellence, a 150,000-square-foot facility that serves all of Carolina's nearly 800 student-athletes across 28 varsity sports. The Loudermilk Center's largest feature is the John W. Pope Student-Athlete Academic Support Center. This facility provides classrooms for teaching and tutoring, study lounges, office space and a computer lab. It also houses the Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy, which offers leadership training for Carolina student-athletes, coaches and staff.
- The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.
- During the 2015-16 academic year, a record 356 Carolina student-athletes earned spots on the ACC Academic Honor Roll, a recognition that requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year.

Team Academic Highlights

- Men's lacrosse earned a 3.114 team GPA in the 2016 spring semester, the highest in Coach Breschi's tenure.
- Thirty-two of 45 players earned a 3.0 or higher in the 2016 spring semester
- Twenty-four players earned ACC Honor Roll recognition
- Michael Tagliaferri was accepted into UNC MBA program
- Senior Patrick Kelly was accepted into University of Maryland Medical School

RICHARD A. BADDOUR CAROLINA LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

Developing World-Class Leaders for a Lifetime of Service and Success

UNC student-athletes have the opportunity to participate in the Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy, now in its 13th year of ground-breaking leadership training.

As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world-class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Leadership Academy provides comprehensive and cutting-edge leadership development programming through interactive workshops, 360-degree feedback, one-on-one coaching, peer mentoring and educational resources.

The Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy offers five programs for student-athletes:

Carolina CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the first year at UNC. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore first-year student-athletes are taught skills to effectively lead themselves. Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion.

CREED Mentors Program

Upperclass student-athletes are selected to serve as CREED mentors, directing discussions and helping to build community. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

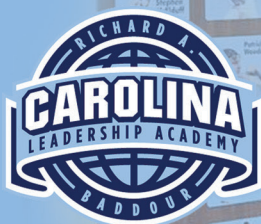

Leadership Lab Program

This level is an opportunity for continued leadership reflection, mentorship, and application. Leadership reflection entails authentically sourced curriculum for leadership workshops. Mentorship is offered by coaches, department staff members, and current team leadership. Leadership application involves a leadership project.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles as well as share successes, frustrations and lessons.

UNC's Veteran Leaders learn about leadership under pressure by visiting with the trauma, critical care and air care teams at UNC Hospitals

Seven men's lacrosse players have been named Tar Heel Leaders of Distinction, earning the highest honor bestowed by the bCLA. Recipients are Jake Matthai, Thomas Wood, Ryan Creighton, Dave Werry, Michael Munnelly, Mark Rizzo and Marcus Holman.

THE CAROLINA CREED

As a University of North Carolina student-athlete I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team, and myself.

C I will know and embrace the tradition and culture of this great university and its athletics department

R I will respect myself and others

E I will pursue excellence in my academic work by striving to reach my academic potential while preparing for a career of significance

E I will excel athletically by committing myself to performance excellence, team success, and continual improvement

D I will develop the capacity to effectively lead myself and others

THE RAMS CLUB

THANK YOU RAMS CLUB MEMBERS!

YOU ARE WHY OUR WORLD-CLASS STUDENT-ATHLETES AND COACHES WORK TO BE SMARTER, FASTER AND STRONGER EVERY YEAR IN ORDER TO LIVE UP TO CAROLINA'S TRADITION OF SUCCESS.

Each year, The Rams Club's primary mission of fully funding all 450 of Carolina's student-athlete scholarships becomes more and more challenging. Thanks to the incredible generosity and longevity of support from Rams Club members, The Rams Club has always been able to fulfill our mission.

Because of this support, Carolina student-athletes have excelled representing the Tar Heels in the classroom and on the playing field.

In addition to the nine ACC Players of the Year and four ACC Freshmen of the Year, 88 Tar Heels were recognized on All-ACC Academic Teams, two were named ACC Scholar Athletes of the Year and UNC Field Hockey's Loren Shealy was named Sports Illustrated's College Athlete of the Year. None of these incredible feats would be possible without the foundation of support you provide for Carolina Athletics.

YOU ARE WHY Carolina continues to educate and inspire the best student-athletes in the nation!

329 student-athletes were named to UNC's Dean's List during the academic year of 2013-2014.

The NCAA honored five University of North Carolina athletic programs whose Academic Progress Rates are among the top 10 percent nationally.

A record number of UNC student-athletes – 347 – made the ACC Academic Honor Roll in 2013-14. UNC's previous high was 329 in 2012-13.

THE RAMS CLUB

YOU PROVIDE THE OPPORTUNITY

RAMS CLUB MEMBERS GIVE THE GIFT OF OPPORTUNITY –
