Nike Supports UNC Athletics

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Nike Inc. signed a new 10-year contract for Nike to be the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel and accessory products to the Tar Heels effective July 1, 2008 and running through the 2017-18 school year, which is this coming school year. Nike provides the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment. In addition to the apparel and equipment, which constitutes the majority of the value of the contract, Nike gives the University $2 million for the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund. Chancellor Carol Folt has directed the funds to faculty support. Nike also provides support for team tours, travel and the hosting regular-season tournaments in several sports, including in past years the annual Carolina Nike Classic in women's soccer. The athletic department also received $1 million for signing the contract, with those funds having been used to overhaul lighting and sound at the Dean E. Smith Center.

2016 UNC Women's Soccer Core Values & Team Accolades

TOUGH: From George Bernard Shaw: ". . . be a force of fortune instead of a feverish, selfish little clod of ailments and grievances complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy." Funded by Dwight Anderson; Exemplified by Julia Ashley, Abby Elinsky, Darcy McFarlane

DISCIPLINED: "You have to decide what your highest priorities are and have the courage...to say no to other things. " Exemplified by Julia Ashley, Annie Kingman, Darcy McFarlane

FOCUSED: From Reynolds Price: "College is about books. This will almost certainly be the last time in your life when other people bear the expense of awarding you four years of financially unburdened time. " Funded by Marjorie and Walter Buckley; Exemplified by Annie Kingman, Darcy McFarlane, Frannie Reuland

RELENTLESS: From Thomas Buxton – Philanthropist: "The difference between one person and another, between the weak and the powerful, the great and the insignificant, is energy – invisible determination. It is not the critic who counts...The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena." Funded by Munroe and Becky Cobey; Exemplified by Megan Buckingham, Hanna Gardner, Samantha Leshnak.

RESILIENT: From Jason Elliot; An Unexpected Light: Travels in Afghanistan: "What an extraordinary place of liberties the West really is . . . exempt from . . . a traditional life for survival, they become spoiled and fragile like over bred dogs . . . " Funded by Alston Gardner; Exemplified by Abby Elinsky, Hanna Gardner, Katie Morris.

POSITIVE: From Viktor E. Frankl Man's Search for Meaning: " . . . everything can be taken from a man but one thing: the last of the human freedoms – to choose one's attitude in any given set of circumstances, to choose one's own way." Funded by Laszlo Birinyi; Exemplified by Cannon Clough, Abby Elinsky, Katie Morris CLASSY: From Doug Smith, Manager ('86): "Class is the graceful way you treat someone even when they can do nothing for you." Exemplified by Maggie Bill, Cannon Clough, Katie Morris.

CARING: From John Donne; For Whom the Bell Tolls: "No man is an island, entire of itself . . . any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind, and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee." Funded by Keath Castelloe-Low; Exemplified by Cannon Clough, Samantha Leshnak, Katie Morris.

NOBLE: From Viktor E. Frankl Man's Search for Meaning: "If there is a meaning in life at all, then there must be a meaning in suffering. " Exemplified by Hanna Gardner, Megan Goff, Samantha Leshnak, Katie Morris.

SELFLESS: From Note given to Coach Dorrance by Rakel Karvelsson (UNC '98): "People don't care how much you know until they know how much you care." Exemplified by Maggie Bill, Samantha Leshnak, Katie Morris.

GALVANIZING: From William Damon; Greater Expectations: "Not long ago, to 'believe in yourself' meant taking a principled, and often lonely, stand when it appeared difficult or dangerous to do so." "Not often in the story of mankind does a person arrive on Earth who is both steel and velvet." Funded by Bill Rogers; Exemplified by Julia Ashley, Hanna Gardner, Darcy. McFarlane.

GRATEFUL: From Gregg Easterbrook, The Progress Paradox. "Finally there is the question of whether we have a duty to feel grateful. Hundreds of generations who came before us lived dire, short lives . . . and did so partly motivated by the dream that someday there would be men and women who lived long lives . . . without fear of an approaching storm." Exemplified by Cannon Clough, Morgan Goff, Katie Morris.

THE KELLY MULDOON AWARD is given yearly to the player who is selected by her teammates as the person who lives the 12 Core Values to their fullest. The fall 2016 recipient was Katie Morris and the spring 2016 recipient was Samantha Leshnak.

Kenan Charitable Trust Gives $1 Million Endowment to UNC Women's Soccer Program to Honor Braxton Schell

Trustees of the William R. Kenan, Jr., Charitable Trust announced a gift of $1 million dollars to help endow scholarships and the operating budget of the University's women's soccer program in 2007. Dr. Richard M. Krasno, executive director of the Trust, made the announcement. The endowment was made in the name of William R. Kenan, Jr., in honor of the late Braxton Schell, an attorney in Greensboro, N.C., and a Carolina alumnus.

"The William R. Kenan, Jr. Charitable Trust was delighted to make this grant for two reasons. First, it enabled us to honor Braxton Schell, who was a staunch supporter of women's soccer at Carolina for decades and an important figure in the evolution and administration of many of the Kenan philanthropies," explained Krasno. "Second, the grant provides a way for us to honor an athletic program that has not only been phenomenally successful on the playing field; but also has been a model of the best that college sports can offer to its participants, fans and alumni. We hope that our gift will enable the women's soccer program to thrive and continue to demonstrate that all college athletic programs can be a source of pride and excitement to the UNC-Chapel Hill community."

Schell was a long-time fan and supporter of the UNC women's soccer program and he served as an attorney for the William R. Kenan, Jr. Funds. Schell regularly attended the team's games and traveled with the team on overseas exhibition tours as well. He was a partner in the law firm Schell, Bray, Aycock, Abel & Livingston PLLC in Greensboro, N.C. Schell was a 1948 Phi Beta Kappa alumnus of Carolina with a Bachelor of Science degree and he received his Juris Doctor degree with honors in 1951. Schell served as the Associate Editor of the North Carolina Law Review and was a Life Fellow of the American Bar Foundation. He was listed in "Best Lawyers in America" for corporate law practice for over 25 years and was named as a member of Business North Carolina's Legal Elite

The endowment goes to help fund annual scholarships for women's soccer at Carolina as well as benefiting the operating budget of the program in order to maintain the program at the highest level.

"The gift from the Kenan Trust means so much to the University and particularly to the women's soccer program. I think it speaks volumes as to the pride this University and the benefactors of UNC feel about not only the success of the women's soccer program but also the way in which Anson Dorrance and his staff have conducted themselves in building and maintaining a championship program," said former UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour.

"We are overwhelmed and so appreciative of the Kenan Charitable Trust for this remarkable gift," said UNC head coach Anson Dorrance. "We are all incredibly humbled with the size of the gift and honored with the rationale. Thank you on behalf of my staff and all the extraordinary young women who like me wear the Carolina Blue with undying loyalty and pride and have tried to show that every year."

Preseason Conversation With Anson Dorrance

UNC Associate Athletic Communications Director Dave Lohse sat down with UNC head coach Anson Dorrance in the preseason to talk about the 2016 season, the upgrade in Tar Heel women's soccer facilities and the upcoming 2017 campaign. Here are highlights of the conversation.

Lohse: Anson, last year the Tar Heels started slow and then came on near the end of the year to reach their first College Cup since 2012. Can you please reflect some on last year's campaign.

Dorrance: "That was an incredibly enjoyable year for us because with the U20 World Cup taking away Jessie Scarpa and Taylor Otto, basically our first and second best players, we were just thinking it was going to be an incredibly difficult year for us and at first it was. We struggled in the preseason, we struggled early in the regular year but the thing I really appreciated about last year's team is that the players just kept getting better. I attribute that to a fantastic collection of leaders but also a very coachable collection of young kids.

"We also had an absolutely brilliant goalkeeper. Lindsey Harris saved us in game after game after game. Between her ability on the field and the fact these kids never quit, but also had the ability to keep getting better, it ended up a remarkable year. If someone had said before the season began that we were going to finish in the top four teams in the country I would have said you're absolutely nuts. For us to have given our players away to the U20 World Cup, which not every team in the country did, and for us to reach the College Cup eventually is just an incredible nod to our leadership."

Lohse: I know you had a very special spring practice season. Can you please tell us some of the impressions you came away with.

Dorrance: "Usually in the spring we lose one quarter of our roster and so the team isn't as good as the team was in the fall. But honestly, our spring team was better than the fall team. We got Taylor Otto back. We got Jessie Scarpa back. We got Emily Fox, who started along with Scarpa and Otto on the U20 National Youth Team. She came in as what we are calling a grayshirt in January with three other very fine players. So our spring team was actually better than our team in the fall.

"We played three professional teams. We were destroyed by one – the Washington Spirit just picked us apart. But against Sky Blue and the North Carolina Courage we played them to 1-0 losses. I'm not pretending the games were that close. They obviously sat on us and they had more chances than just the one they finished, but I was very happy with the way we played those teams.

"The weekend we played the Courage we played two games on Sunday and we played our reserves in those games against Georgia and Virginia Tech and the reserve team played in a fantastic manner. I'm proud to say we threw Joanna Boyles into one of the games and she was the margin of victory against Georgia. Late in the spring we played Virginia and we threw Joanna Boyles out there again coming off an ACL tear and she was the margin of victory against Virginia as well, hitting a picture book free kick and getting an assist to help us beat Virginia 3-1. Of course, Virginia is a national power and I was just thrilled to end the spring season on that high note."

Lohse: You have a new practice facility and construction on the new Fetzer Field is underway. In the meantime, Carolina will be playing at WakeMed Soccer Park. There is a of exciting stuff going on in terms of facility upgrades.

Dorrance: "I don't look not having a home stadium in 2017 as an overwhelming challenge. I think this is going to be fun. WakeMed Park is a fabulous soccer complex. Going over there is a privilege. That's the way I'm going to look at it. That's the way my kids are going to look at it. I love what's happening already with the improvement in our various facilities. If you look at our two new practice fields on Finley South, these are two unbelievable fields, so our training platform has improved dramatically. So the field we train on is better than the field we used to train on. And the fields we will be playing on at WakeMed are also better than the field we used to play on at Fetzer Field. From our perspective, except for the drive over there and the ability to attract the gate we would like, I am looking at this as a positive.

Lohse: Can you talk a little bit about the 2017 schedule. What's in the works?

Dorrance: "We're playing Penn State in our non-conference schedule. We're playing Duke in our non-conference season. Because of the pod system in the ACC, they rotated out of our pod. But obviously we need to play Duke. We're playing them in the season opener as well so we have two Top 10 teams in our non-conference season which will be very good. And then of course, every game in the Atlantic Coast Conference is a grind. You can't take any day off."

Lohse: Can you talk about the new Fetzer that is being built on campus and what kind of home we'll have in the fall of 2018.

Dorrance: "We are overjoyed. When you think about it, that facility was built in 1935. So for us to have endured playing in this relic for so long and so successfully is a tribute to our program – and next just us successfully but also men's and women's lacrosse and men's soccer. I'm very proud of what we did in that facility. Obviously it lacked atmosphere. For all of us that wanted to believe there was a certain charm playing in a stadium that was built in 1935, we were only saying that to protect ourselves and to an honor a facility that has been a huge part of Carolina athletic history. But thhere was a huge space difference between the crowd and the field and obviously that didn't create atmosphere.

"So many things about this new place are going to be much better. The old Fetzer was configured with just one side with people watching. Going forward, we will have a "U" shape around the field with an end zone that we hope we are going to be able to traffic with special events, with alumni reunions, with business people holding events around our games. We are hoping to make the new Fetzer a destination with all kinds of soccer people in the community. Any part of the business community or the alumni community that want to be a part of our games, we want to embrace them. We think, in every positive respect, this is going to be fantastic for us.

"I was really dreading leveling the McCaskill Soccer Center because I know the McCaskill family and I did not want to see their legacy demolished. Also, it is a fantastic building. I love the compromise we have made in building the new facility and McCaskill is going to become a Hall of Fame for our four programs - soccer and lacrosse. It's something we can recruit with and it's something we can rent out to an alumni group or a business group to gather and watch the game and be supportive of the events on the field. From every respect – the "U" shape with the fans around the field, the offices and the locker rooms and the team meeting rooms are going to be on a completely different level than we have had before.

"Overall, all the new construction going on around campus is, in total, impacting 12 sports programs. We have a 28-sport array of teams and this is going to be enhancing 12 of them so this is an incredible, aggressive, bold and fantastic push by athletic director Bubba Cunningham and the University."

Lohse: I know you are delighted with the staff you have put together here at UNC. I'm going to let you brag on them for a while.

Dorrance: "What's happened in the last couple of years is that we were fortunate enough to convince Damon Nahas to be a part of our staff and he is remarkable in every respect. He's not only good in every training session where he brings a cutting edge to player development, but he's always a fabulous recruiter and he ties us into the national youth teams. Damon was the U15 National Team coach so my motivation in hiring him was certainly in part that he ties us into a culture where it is critical to have a connection. And the youth national team program is our recruiting pool. His energy in the office is great and his dream is to continue the player development capital that we've developed.

Lohse: You've touched on player development. I know that is something near and dear to your heart.

Dorrance: "If you look at all the places on the face of the Earth, the place that has developed players who have played in more Olympic Games and in more World Cups than anyplace else is Chapel Hill, N.C. We're incredibly proud of that. We obviously roll that out in recruiting and the number of roster spots we've earned is staggering. We can compare it with any college that is out there and we can compare it with any international club team. We can compare it to any professional environment anywhere in the world. Damon, just like Bill Palladino and Chris Ducar, has a player development attitude just like mine. We all want to develop players who are competing at the highest levels in the sport. This will always put us in a position to compete for national championships and compete for ACC championships. But ultimately what drives us is watching a kid come in at one level and then after four years to see her at a completely different level. I'm very proud of that.

"I'm also proud of the number of kids who every single year sign pro contracts. I'm also proud of what happens with our kids academically. We have players in the Harvard graduate business school and the Harvard medical school right now. We can tell recruits that regardless of whether you want to compete on an international level, a professional level, or attend a prestigious graduate school I can tell recruits that you can get there from here.

" As for the rest of our staff, Chris Ducar continues to be the point person in recruiting but now his resources are greater. His resource of having Damon with him is absolutely huge. We also have Brittany Bartok, who is a social media maven because her Twitter account is the most followed in collegiate soccer and it's exciting to have someone like her who is on the cutting edge of creativity. My dream is once we have this new stadium we sell it out on a consistent basis and to do that we need the manpower. We have a fantastic analytics crew and a fantastic marketing department and in every respect we're checking all the boxes to have this program continue to be one of the power programs in women's collegiate soccer. Tom Sander, our operations director, is extraordinary in every respect. He's intrinsically motivated. I would have to say he's the best director of operations in the country. He's an incredible loyal and valuable self motivating individual with fantastic leadership qualities. Honestly, I'd be lost without him."

Lohse: Can you talk a little bit about your depth chart. Feel free to bounce around if need be. I know you have a lot of people to cover.

Dorrance: "We have all kinds of options up front with the return of Jessie Scarpa and Taylor Otto but also with the recruitment of Lotte Wubben-Moy who is the starting center back for Arsenal. She's an amateur starting on a professional team that's in the top three or four in the pro team ranks in England. This is a player Arsenal tried to sign. She turned it down to come to the University of North Carolina. If she can comfortably step in and be our center back we can do whatever we want with Taylor Otto. Then it becomes Lotte as the center back in the semi-flat 1-3-4-3 with Julia Ashley as the right back and probably Maya Worth as the left back. Samantha Leshnak will be in goal and we expect great things from her now that she is the full time starter.

"If we want the best defensive player at the defensive midfielder position we can go with Morgan Goff. The best offensive defensive midfielder for us would be Jo Boyles. We're expecting her full return to the lineup because of her performances in the spring. Either one could start there based on what we need. On the right side we'll probably go with Emily Fox and she's fantastic. The left side would continue to be Megan Buckingham. The attacking center half will be Annie Kingman.

Up front our starting forward line could easily be Scarpa in the middle, Taylor Otto on one side and Alessio Russo, the English international freshman, on the other side. So what that means is that last year's starting front line becomes the reserve front line. That's the difference between the talent we have now and the talent we had last year. Having said that I also feel comfortable with a forward line of what we had last year with Bridgette Andrzejewski at right wing, Zoe Redei in the middle and Madison Schultz on the left. That would be an excellent back up front line.

"Backups at other positions would be Miah Araba at the attacking center midfielder. We also have some depth in the back with Brooke Bingham, another grayshirt who came in last January. Another great defensive midfielder who could get some time would be Abby Elinsky who has been outstanding since transferring here from Illinois. We could have Kate Morris go in as a reserve defender or defensive midfielder in a 4-2-3-1 format. A key reserves on the flank midfield in the 1-3-4-3 would be junior Dorian Bailey. Bailey could also be the first backup for Annie Kingman. Bailey would be the first off the bench for either Kingman, Buckingham or Fox. She is incredibly versatile for us. California grayshirt Alea Hyatt will also give us quality minutes in the midfield. She can play anywhere in midfield. She will be a quality reserve.

"Cannon Clough was an excellent defensive reserve for us last year. She never let us down when we subbed her in last year. Ru Mucherera could serve as a reserve on the left side of midfield in the 3-4-3 but also would be a great left sided player in the 4-2-3-1.

"Kasey Parker, Maggie Bill and Alex Kimball will all be red-shirting in 2017 and we will miss what all three individuals would bring to the table for us. They will all be medical red-shirts. Kasey Parker was an excellent reserve up top because she has quickness and energy and before she got hurt last year, she was contributing significantly in her freshman year. Another new player who could play significantly up top as a reserve is Sydney Spruill. Abby Staker could be a deep reserve in the back. Nicole Crutchfield could also be a deep reserve. Frances Reuland, who going into her senior year in college still has a 4.0, would be a deep reserve as a defender or midfielder. Maggie Bill and Alex Kimball are out because of their continued injuries but look forward to their return next year. Sydney Wooten is going to go to nursing school so she is out of our lineup but we look forward to her taking advantage of this academic opportunity. Laura Sparling, another first-year player, would give us another deep reserve at flank midfield.

"The freshmen most likely to play are Fox, Otto and the two English freshmen. This freshman class is good. Taylor Otto will start. Emily Fox will start. Lotte Rubben-Moy will start. Russo will probably start so that is four out of that class which is fantastic. Bingham has huge potential for us as a starter potentially, not this year, but she'll be competing to start as a sophomore. This will be the deepest team in our history except in goal where we will need Sam Leshnak to be a durable warrior for us."

Dorrance on Bridgette: She is a rocket ship. She has the potential to start for us again after an exceptional freshman year as a starter in 2016. Her acceleration and speed are world class. She's improving technically and tactically. She works very hard for us defensively. She's very eager to get behind the other team's back line. She was outstanding for us as a freshman last year and was one of three first-year players to start at striker for us a year ago.

Sophomore Year (2017): Named to preseason Hermann Trophy Watch List.

Dorrance on Julia: One of the hardest working members of the team. Always comes in as fit as can be when we start fall practice. We don't have to worry about her fitness rate. She paints the field. She works herself to death in every practice and in every game. I know she will come in as one of my fittest players. She had a huge impact as a freshman, playing more minutes than any freshman on my roster as my right back. She came back and had another tremendous year in 2016 as the starter at right back. She's very ambitious about her game. She's dedicated to improving. She doesn't cut any corners. I know she will continue to improve and her top quality right now is that she is a relentlessly hard worker. She's very coachable with some fine leadership qualities. Possesses good strength. Dorrance on Dorian: Dorian Bailey was having a fantastic season for us in 2015 when she tore her ACL. It was her injury that started to derail us. She was the perfect complement for Joanna Boyles. Bailey's speed and work rate complement Jo Boyles' technical platform and playmaking ability. The marriage in the midfield between those two was a marriage made in coaching heaven. Dorian returned to her previous glory in 2016 coming off that ACL. The way she played her freshman year was significant. She was the most valuable freshman on our team. She got the rookie of the year honor at our banquet and it was well deserved even though she only played half the season. Of course, this is a players' vote. This isn't me picking the player but unquestionably if I had to pick the player who had the best freshman season on the roster it would be Dorian. When Dorian was in the lineup, we were undefeated and ranked No. 1 in the country. When we lost her from the lineup that was the beginning of the decline of the team so her value to us that year was significant and we were thrilled with her return last fall.

Dorrance on Maggie: Maggie Bill stepped in a couple of years ago when we really needed her and won a starting spot and had a magnificent season. That year, 2014, with a very ordinary roster, we were ACC regular season champions, being tied with Florida State, a team which went on to win the national championship. The savior for us that season was Maggie Bill. She stepped in, never having started for us in the back and, all of a sudden, she's winning minutes. What we love about her is obviously, because of her success in lacrosse, that has given her a wonderful confidence in our sport as well. She came back for us and started 22 games on defense in 2016, leading us to the College Cup. She suffered an ACL injury in last year's lacrosse season and will red-shirt this year, but I look forward to her return for her final soccer

Dorrance on Joanna: Joanna Boyles technically is my most gifted player. Even if you look at our entire history of our brilliant technicians she ranks right up there with the Tobin Heaths and the Meghan Klingenbergs and some of the best technical players that we've ever had here at UNC like the Tisha Venturinis. Jo Boyles technically is just a magnificent player. The other thing I like about Jo is that she has improved defensively every year she's been here and she's becoming a greater asset to our program and to the players that she plays with. She's an island of tranquility and composure in a game where that is difficult to ever have. She sets the mark for us in terms of playmaking, in terms of technical platforms and in terms of decision making. She's just a spectacular player for us.

Dorrance on Cannon: She is actually quite good and showed that in her junior transfer year for us in 2016. Whenever we put her on the field she never disappointed us. She's very athletic. Dorrance on Alex: Alex Kimball is one of the best athletes on the roster. In 2016, coming off her labrum surgery limited her minutes played. Because of nagging injury issues, she will redshirt in 2017 and we will get her back for another season in 2018. She's a significant athlete with the best vertical jump on the team. She's very explosive and has been a wild card in our lineup.

Dorrance on Annie: Annie Kingman has improved every year. Just as last year I expect her to be our starter at the attacking center halfback in the 3-4-3 alignment. Her impact for us has been significant. She is my most technical player. If we win the ball and Annie Kingman is unmarked then we want to give her the ball. Her decisions on the ball are amongst the best on the team. I just love the way she plays. I think we can play her in the 6 or the 8 or the 10 or play her as an attacking center half, playmaking out of the middle high or lower so she can help us get out of the back. Annie Kingman is a very good player who has improved each year.

Dorrance on Ru: Ru is a bundle of potential waiting to make her mark. If she can become more disciplined she has some spectacular qualities. She's extraordinary in the air. She's very good off the dribble. And she's left sided which is an asset for us. Those three qualities can separate her from others. Obviously, she needs to check the box that says every day I will work on my fitness base. If she checks that box and comes in with any kind of fitness platform she could be an impact player for us. Her potential is great.

Dorrance on Taylor: After redshirting in 2016 while playing with U20 U.S. National Team at World Cup, she is projected to start at forward for the Tar Heels this year. Taylor is an absolutely fantastic player. Historically, she's been a center back who plays with her head up who plays fantastic balls forward. She has a fabulous skill set. She can play for us up front and be one of our best strikers in the nation. She can play in the back and be one of our best defenders. She's tremendously versatile. This kid will star as a freshman. Right now, I would put her along with Jessie Scarpa as my top two players on the team in talent. She was with us in spring 2016 and all year last year when she was not with U20s. She showed us her class all spring that first year. Against Sky Blue professional team that we played, in my opinion in that game, including all the pro players, she was the best player on the field.

Dorrance on Kasey: Kasey will redshirt this year and we will have her for three more years beginning in 2018. I saw her in camp as a high schooler and I could not believe how good she was. I could not believe a player of that caliber was not already salted away with another program. But UNC was her dream school. This kid can play in any line. She's very fast. She's very tough. She's very combative so she could start up front for us, she could start in the midfield for us, she could start in the back for us and I am very excited for her potential when she returns next year. Her athletic platform is very good but so is her technical platform. But the thing that excites me most is that the girl competes. The biggest adjustment for most freshmen to make is that they don't understand the level. Last year she showed the ability to compete immediately. I think that's her mentality. I think she has a great chance to start in one of our three lines when she returns next year.

Freshman Year (2016): Key reserve at forward for the Tar Heels last season • saw action in 11 games, playing 248 minutes • shares the team lead in assists with four • all four assists have come in ACC play • recorded assists in back-to-back games against Virginia Tech (3-0 win) and Clemson (1-1 tie) and then again in back-to-back matches against Miami (3-1 win) and Wake Forest (2-1 win) • suffered lower body injury in mid-season and was sidelined the remainder of the season.

Dorrance on Zoe: A very talented, technical attacking center midfielder and forward. Came to us as an attacking personality from one of the top clubs in the country. She is a very sophisticated player who will see time for us up front because of her advanced soccer knowledge and her advanced technical mind. Started in the early part of the 2016 campaign before being injured.

Dorrance on Jessie: Scarpa has improved every year we've had her. She came in as a freshman as a top recruit coming off an ACL tear so it was hard for her to impact early. We hid her in the back the beginning of her freshman year. Then in the spring after her freshman year we figured we needed to find ways to score goals so we threw her up front where she was fantastic for us. She had a very good freshman year and a spectacular sophomore year and the top national youth coaches in the country took note of her success for us and they gave her an opportunity with the U20 National Youth team last year. She strikes the ball with her right foot like a man. She absolutely kills it. She obviously has great vision and is very good in the air. She has fantastic strength. I just like where her game is now and where it's going.

She has become a rock for us in the back. Not only is she difficult to beat off the dribble because of her strength, aggression and speed, she also gains more composure the more I see her mature. She has one more season for us and I am convinced that after she plays out her eligibility for us she will sign a pro contract. She was one of the stars of our spring game against the pro team in 2016. In fact, right afterwards the Sky Blue coach walked up to me asked me who's the left back and I said Maya Worth. And the next question was when does she graduate. There are a thousand different reasons we play the pro teams for the experience our players get to be under the gun against superior players and players with more experience but the other reason is we're advertising our kids so that was an advertisement for Maya Worth. Even the quality players in the NWSL struggled to beat her.

UNC Athletics Announces Strategic Plan

"We educate and inspire through athletics" - that is the mission statement for the University of North Carolina's department of athletics that is a result of a strategic planning process developed by Bubba Cunningham, who is in his fourth year as the Tar Heels' director of athletics.

"Our number one priority is for athletics to be part of the educational experience of all students at the University, those who compete in our 28 varsi-ty sports as well as those who do not," says Cunningham. "Athletics provides academic and competitive opportunities for more than 700 students, and is part of a unifying spirit for thousands of other students, faculty, staff and alumni.

"Through competition and achievement, our programs can be a source of inspiration for the student body, the community, our alumni, donors and future generations of Tar Heels."

Early in his tenure as director of athletics, Cunningham appointed a group of executive staff members that began developing a strategic plan that will guide the athletic department's decision-making from 2012 through 2016.

The planning team identified four core values for Carolina Athletics- Responsibility, Innovation, Service and Excellence (RISE).

A blue ribbon committee of faculty, staff, student-athletes and alumni convened on multiple occasions throughout the 2016-17 school year to rewrite the strategic plan and update it for the next four years. The rollout of the new strategic plan will be made in fhe fall of 2017 under the leadership of athletic director Bubba Cunningham.

Bubba Cunningham, Director of Athletics

Shortly after beginning his tenure as Carolina's athletics director, Lawrence R. (Bubba) Cunningham helped create a new mission statement: "We educate and inspire through athletics." And that's just what UNC has done during his six years in Chapel Hill.

Since Cunningham officially began his duties on November 14, 2011, Carolina has inspired in a myriad of ways. Among his many accomplishments are the implementation of a strategic plan for Carolina athletics; a partnership with Disney to enhance customer service and organizational practices; the development of the Student-Athlete Academic Initiative Working Group; a compliance review by an outside firm; a new student-athlete degree completion program entitled Complete Carolina; a master plan for UNC's athletic facilities; and creation of The Rammys - an innovative end-of-the-year awards show popular with Carolina's student-athletes and staff.

Cunningham, who is the President of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) in 2017-18, has Carolina positioned to have a voice in the on-going conversation about the future, whether it is in the state university system, the Atlantic Coast Conference or at the NCAA level. Cunningham is in his sixth year on the ACC Television Committee and has served on numerous NCAA committees over the last two decades.

In his first full year in Chapel Hill, Cunningham led a planning committee that worked with Dr. Paul Friga, associate professor of strategy and entrepreneurship at Carolina's Kenan-Flagler School of Business, to develop Carolina's strategic plan. From that process was the creation of the mission statement and the four core values for Carolina Athletics- Responsibility, Innovation, Service and Excellence. The strategic plan will be updated again in 2017-18 after a blue ribbon committee worked on it in the last school year.

Soon after the strategic plan was announced, Cunningham joined with provost James W. Dean and other University officials to develop the Student-Athlete Academic Initiative Working Group, which was launched in fall 2013. That group spent several months developing a comprehensive approach to assessing and enhancing how the University provides academic support to student-athletes. The group has implemented a rigorous and transparent set of processes and metrics as part of an ongoing initiative. The objective is to ensure proper alignment with the University's academic mission, a goal that is consistent with Cunningham's strategic plan for the Department of Athletics.

In 2014, Cunningham announced the creation of Complete Carolina, an enhanced degree-completion program that honors former student-athletes' scholarships for life. The program provides financial support for degree completion, as well as academic advising and career counseling, to former student-athletes who return to complete their degrees at any time.

On the field, Carolina has achieved outstanding success under Cunningham's leadership. In each of his six seasons, the Tar Heels have finished in the top 15 of the Learfield Director's Cup, including five top-10 finishes. During that same period, the number of UNC student-athletes on the ACC Academic Honor Roll has steadily increased and reached a University record 385 in 2016-17.

The University of North Carolina finished fifth in the final 2016-17 Learfield Directors' Cup standings, the Tar Heels' 11th top-five and 20th top-10 finish in the 24-year history of the award. It marks the 18th time UNC was the highest-ranked Atlantic Coast Conference program in the year-end standings. The Learfield Directors' Cup measures NCAA post-season competitive success and awards points to a maximum of 10 men's and 10 women's programs per school. UNC compiled 1,154 points last year, led by men's basketball, which earned 100 points as NCAA champion, and field hockey and men's tennis, which both finished second in the nation and earned 90 points. The 1,154 points are UNC's fourth highest total (behind 2009, 2007 and 2011) in the current point system which began 15 years ago. Four other UNC teams finished in the top five in the NCAA – men's and women's soccer both tied for third and women's lacrosse and women's tennis both tied for fifth place. Women's golf, men's lacrosse and volleyball placed ninth to give the Tar Heels 10 teams in the top 10. Four other teams – women's swimming and diving, baseball, softball and men's golf – had top-20 performances. Twenty-five of Carolina's 28 sports advanced to NCAA Championship competition.

In addition, UNC won four ACC Championships in 2016-17, equaling Virginia Tech for the most in the league. Carolina's conference titles came in men's lacrosse, volleyball, women's tennis and women's lacrosse. UNC has now won 270 ACC crowns in its history.

The UNC women's athletics program captured the 2013 Capital One Cup, which is awarded to the best men's and women's Division I athletics programs in the country. For winning its first Capital One Cup, the Tar Heels earned $200,000 toward student-athlete scholarships and a spot at the annual ESPY Awards show in Los Angeles.

Carolina student-athletes have excelled in the classroom as well. During the 2016-17 academic calendar, 385 student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year. It was the fourth-consecutive year more than 300 UNC student-athletes have earned the honor. That total was the most in school history.

Cunningham is in his 16th year as a Division I director of athletics. He came to Chapel Hill after spending the previous six years as the director of athletics at the University of Tulsa. He also was the AD for three years from 2002-2005 at Ball State University. He was honored as the 2008-09 FBS Central Region Athletics Director of the Year, an award presented by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics.

At Tulsa, Cunningham guided the Golden Hurricane through its initial move to Conference USA and spearheaded a $60 million athletics initiative. Tulsa won 34 league championships in his tenure, more than any other school in Conference USA and the football program played in five bowl games in his last six years.

At Ball State, Cunningham led a program with 19 intercollegiate sports and a budget of $12.4 million. In his final year, Ball State completed a $12 million campaign to renovate the football stadium. In raising those funds, Cunningham secured the largest single gift in Ball State athletics history.

From 1988-2002, Cunningham worked in the athletics department at the University of Notre Dame. He served as Notre Dame's associate athletics director for finance and facilities from 1995-2000 and was the associate director of athletics for external affairs from 2000-02.

Cunningham earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration, both from Notre Dame, in 1984 and 1988, respectively. He played on the Irish golf team in 1982-83.

Cunningham is a member of the USTA Athletic Director Advisory Group. He is a former member of NACDA's Executive Committee, and was on the Board of Directors of the Alzheimers Association of Oklahoma and the Folds of Honor Foundation Board. Cunningham also served on the Gatorade National Advisory Board and has been a featured speaker at numerous NACDA and I-A institute conferences.

Born in Flint, Mich., and raised in Naples, Fla., Cunningham and his wife, Tina, have four children: Matthew, Michael, John and Sarah.

Head Coach Anson Dorrance

Anson Dorrance enters his 41st year of service to the University of North Carolina soccer programs in the fall of 2017. Dorrance, a 1974 Tar Heel alumnus, debuted as the Carolina men's soccer coach in September of 1977 and then added duties as head coach and founder of the UNC women's program in September of 1979.

A former U.S. Women's National Team head coach and current University of North Carolina head women's soccer coach, Anson Dorrance was named the 2016 winner of the prestigious Werner Fricker Builder Award from United States Soccer on January 29, 2016.

As U.S. Soccer's highest honor, the Werner Fricker Builder Award is given to an individual or group of individuals who have dedicated at least 20 years of service to the sport, working to establish a lasting legacy in the history and structure of soccer in the United States. The award recognizes those who have developed programs that will outlast their own involvement in the sport.

When Dorrance was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame on August 2, 2008, it marked one more milestone moment in the career of a man whose coaching prowess became legendary at a young age. Because Dorrance has not yet retired from his coaching career, he was only eligible for election to the Hall of Fame on the "Builders of the Game" ballot, being inducted in his first year of eligibility.

Like fine wine — with age — the coaching career of Anson Dorrance only gets better.

It was just two years ago in 2015 when Tar Heel soccer stayed in the international news as nine University of North Carolina standouts competed in the FIFA Women's World Cup. Six former UNC players helped the U.S. win its first World Cup title since 1999, including starters Meghan Klingenberg and Tobin Heath. Tar Heel Lucy Bronze led England to its best ever World Cup finish as it gained a bronze medal.

Winning Championships

In 2012, Dorrance led the Tar Heels against one of the best College Cup fields in history as North Carolina won its 22nd overall national title and its 21st NCAA crown. When UNC won the NCAA crown in 2009, Dorrance became the first coach in NCAA history to win 20 championships coaching a single sport.

Head coach of the Carolina women's soccer program since its inception in 1979, Dorrance has built and guided a program successful on multiple levels - on the field, in the classroom and in the community. Under his direction, the Tar Heels have collected national and conference championships at a stupendous rate, compiled an overall record staggering in its numerical verity, established records likely never to be approached and procured the esteem befitting a dynasty.

At an institution familiar with such incomparable achievement, especially with regard to its storied basketball program, it might be possible to think that Dorrance's accomplishments could somehow fade to the background. But what he has done at UNC is simply impossible to ignore.

Thus, when an expert panel employed by ESPN announced its list of the Best Coaches of the Past Quarter Century on July 28, 2004 – coincidentally headed at the No. 1 spot by the late legendary Carolina basketball coach Dean Smith – it came as no big surprise that another deserving Tar Heel mentor made the list. That Dorrance was one of only two coaches in the prestigious collection to coach an Olympic sport on the collegiate level speaks even louder about his recognized greatness.

More recently, Beckett Entertainment released a magazine in which it named the Top 30 Sports Dynasties of all-time. UNC's women's soccer program success from 1982-2000 was rated the sixth best dynasty of the 20th century, trailing only the 1957-69 Boston Celtics, the 1947-62 New York Yankees, 1963-75 UCLA men's basketball, the 1991-98 Chicago Bulls and the 1953-60 Montreal Canadiens. Of the Top 30 programs named in the study, only four involved collegiate programs.

As Dorrance prepares to begin his 39th season as the head coach at Carolina in the fall of 2017, some folks must be wondering if there is anything left to be accomplished. Chances are excellent that Dorrance will find something.

Praise From Coach Smith

It is said that greatness recognizes fellow greatness.

Perhaps there is no better example of that than the quote Dean Smith gave Football News Magazine in 1997. Smith was asked by Football News about Carolina's preseason No. 1 ranking in football and what it was like for some sport other than basketball to be ranked No. 1.

Coach Smith's reply? "This is a women's soccer school. We're just trying to keep up with them." Coach Smith's clever retort was his way of giving Dorrance his due.

From the person who was then the winningest head coach of all-time in one sport to the winningest head coach of all-time in another sport, the comment struck Dorrance as the ultimate honor. As Dorrance has said, "So much of what we have tried to do in our program is modeled after what Dean Smith accomplished. To have our program compared favorably to his by the man himself was enormously humbling."

Similarly, Dorrance's immense loyalty to Carolina mirrors the loyalty Smith possessed for his adopted school. In 1994, when Dorrance decided not to continue his duties as the head coach of the U.S. Women's National Team, the choice perplexed many.

Some thought he relinquished the honor in order to avoid the pressure that comes with being the leader of what was then the defending World Cup championship squad. But Dorrance's decision had everything to do with allegiance to his alma mater.

The glory that came with coaching the U.S. to the championship in the first-ever Women's World Cup in 1991 was not enough to pull Dorrance away from his true professional love – working full-time with the Tar Heels. He wanted to increase the level of excellence that soccer fans had come to expect from the record-shattering program he had molded from scratch. To do that Dorrance knew he would have to dedicate all of his coaching energy to the University. With more elite-level players emerging from high school and club teams than ever before, the playing field in the college game was leveling out; Dorrance knew that for UNC to remain at the top, he would have to throw himself into the process with renewed vigor.

"College programs like ours require a lot of work," says Dorrance. "At that point in time we had been surviving by just doing the minimum amount of work. We certainly couldn't continue to be successful by doing just the minimum. We needed the extra time to stay competitive in an increasingly tough college game."

A prime example of what Dorrance meant about a leveling playing field is the fact UNChas

In the program's 37-year history, totaling 912 games, Carolina has shut out opponents 568 times and has been held scoreless in just 52 games.

Simply Staggering Numbers

It is difficult to comprehend Dorrance taking Carolina's women's program to any greater heights than what it has already achieved. Yet, for a program consumed with striving for excellence, a national championship every season remains the goal.

It is this relentless attitude that has helped the Tar Heels win a mind-blowing 22 of the 36 national championships that have been decided in the history of collegiate women's soccer. Only three other schools in the country have won as many as two titles – Notre Dame in 1995, 2004 and 2010, Portland in 2002 and 2005, and USC in 2007 and 2016. Seven other schools have won one title each – George Mason (1985), Florida (1998), Santa Clara (2001), Stanford (2011), UCLA (2013), Florida State (2014) and Penn State (2015).

Carolina has also captured 20 of the 29 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships since the sport was given title status by the league in 1988. Carolina's all-time record in ACC Tournament play is 61-5-5 and the first loss did not come until 2011. UNC also won the initial 1987 ACC title when it was held in a round-robin format at the end of the regular season to determine the champion. All told, the Tar Heels are 809-67-36 in the 38-year history of the program, a winning percentage of .907. When Carolina decided to make women's soccer a varsity sport in 1979, Dorrance became a two-sport head coach as he was already in his third year coaching the men's team at Carolina. Dorrance's brilliance at coaching women manifested itself almost immediately as it took just three years before the Tar Heels won a national championship, capturing the 1981 Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) national title. Beginning with that championship, the Tar Heels have won 61.1 percent of the titles ever decided in the sport.

Carolina went on to claim three national titles in a row after the NCAA began sponsorship of the sport in the fall of 1982. UNC netted NCAA championship game wins in 1982 over UCF, in 1983 over George Mason and in 1984 over Connecticut. The Tar Heels made it to the NCAA title game in 1985, but lost to George Mason 2-0 on the Patriots' home field – the first of only 12 losses in NCAA Tournament play for Carolina to go along with 125 wins and three ties. That loss to George Mason, remarkably, was the last time the Tar Heels lost any game in the decade of the 1980s. Beginning with the season opener in 1986 and continuing midway into the 1990 season, Dorrance's Tar Heels won 97 games and tied six matches over a stretch of 103 contests. In 1986, Carolina defeated Colorado College 2-0 in the finals at Fairfax, Va. A year later, the Tar Heels downed Massachusetts 1-0 on the Minutewomen's home field in the title game. The 1988 campaign saw the Tar Heels defeat NC State 4-1 in the title game in Chapel Hill. A year later, Carolina defeated Colorado College 2-0 in the championship contest at Raleigh, N.C.

During this era, the ACC also began championship competition with UNC winning the inaugural title in 1987 in a round robin format. NC State claimed the 1988 title on a penalty kick shootout against the Tar Heels but Carolina regained the title in 1989 and has won all but eight conference tournament championships since then.

Connecticut snapped a 103-match UNC unbeaten streak that had started in 1986 by defeating the Tar Heels 3-2 in overtime at Storrs, Conn. on September 22, 1990. The Tar Heels rebounded from that lone defeat to win their fifth straight NCAA crown in 1990, avenging the only blemish on their season by beating the Huskies in the final game 6-0 in Chapel Hill.

National Team Duties

Along the way, Dorrance's love of a challenge prompted him to take the coaching job for the U.S. Women's National Team just a year into its existence in 1986. In a short time, Dorrance took the National Team to the vertex of the world's most popular sport. On November 30, 1991, Dorrance led the U.S. to a 2-1 win over Norway to claim the initial World Cup championship. The win came just six days after assistant coach Bill Palladino, acting as interim head coach, led UNC to a 3-1 NCAA title game win over Wisconsin for Carolina's sixth NCAA title in a row.

Dorrance was the architect of the World Cup triumph, a win tinged with a Carolina Blue hue. Not only was Dorrance coaching the U.S. team, but nine of the 18 players competed collegiately at North Carolina and his assistant coach was former UNC player Lauren Gregg.

The next year, Dorrance assembled what many soccer observers have labeled the best college soccer team in history. That edition of the Tar Heels finished the season undefeated (25-0), claimed the ACC championship for the fourth straight year and won the NCAA title for the seventh consecutive time. Carolina's 9-1 NCAA championship game victory over Duke was as thorough as the final score would lead one to believe and was a nonpareil way for the Heels to finish the year.

In 1993, UNC won the NCAA championship with an unsullied record of 23-0. The Tar Heels whitewashed George Mason 6-0 before what was then a collegiate women's soccer record crowd of 5,721 fans at Fetzer Field. Mia Hamm capped her brilliant career at Carolina that day and went on to win unanimous national player of the year honors for the second year in a row.

92 Wins in a Row

Amongst all the coaching jobs that Dorrance has done during his career, the one that culminated in the 1994 NCAA championship may be the most impressive. Dorrance was able to rally the Tar Heels after arch-rival Duke ended a 101-game unbeaten streak by beating Carolina 3-2 on October 19, 1994. The loss came 17 days after Notre Dame had snapped a 92-game Carolina winning streak by playing the Heels to a scoreless tie.

UNC ran the table after the loss to Duke and NCAA Tournament wins over NC State, Duke, Connecticut and Notre Dame added a 13th national title to Dorrance's coaching resume. Tar Heel midfielder Tisha Venturini was selected as the 1994 National Player of the Year, marking the seventh straight season in which the national player of the year came from the ranks of Carolina players.

The 1994 season presaged a sea change in the college game. With the proliferation of available talent and the vast increase in the number of college programs, parity was quickly becoming a part of the women's game. While the Tar Heels still led the way in terms of consistent excellence, one of the big news stories of 1995 was the fact Carolina failed to win the national title in women's soccer for the first time in 10 years. The Tar Heels, seeded No. 1 in the NCAA bracket with a 25-0 mark, were upset by Notre Dame 1-0 in the 1995 NCAA semifinals.

Relinquishing the title to Notre Dame in 1995 only fueled the team's competitive fire the next season. Dorrance took a team that returned nine starters and molded it into another victorious unit by season's end. In the ninth game of the season, Notre Dame defeated the Tar Heels 2-1 in overtime and became the first college team to beat UNC in successive meetings. Carolina regrouped and the Tar Heels whipped William & Mary, James Madison and Florida in the opening three rounds of the NCAA tourney before defeating Santa Clara 2-1 on its home field in the semifinals. Two days later UNC proved it was still at the acme of women's college soccer, beating defending champion Notre Dame 1-0 in overtime to claim the 1996 crown.

A Dynamite Defense in 1997

Dorrance turned in another magnificent coaching job as the Tar Heels wound up in the winner's circle again in 1997. Honored by Soccer Buzz and Soccer Times as the national coach of the year, Dorrance spearheaded a Carolina campaign that resulted in a 27-0-1 record. The 27 victories were an NCAA record and UNC tied its own NCAA record by shutting out 22 opponents during the campaign.

After seeing the 1998 NCAA title elude the Tar Heels, Carolina fans were able to find solace in the performance of the U.S. team which competed in the 1999 Women's World Cup. The 20-person roster featured eight Tar Heel players — Mia Hamm, Kristine Lilly, Carla Overbeck, Cindy Parlow, Tisha Venturini, Tracy Noonan, Lorrie Fair and Tiffany Roberts — and UNC alumna Lauren Gregg as a U.S. assistant coach. The Tar Heel-laden composition of the World Cup Team, which reclaimed the championship it had relinquished in 1995, once again stood as a testament to the indelible contributions Dorrance has made to U.S. soccer.

Back-To-Back National Championships

Basking in the glow of a World Cup title featuring so many ties to the program, Carolina's collegiate dominance seemed to be in doubt when just eight games into the 1999 season the Tar Heels sported a 6-2 record. The two losses were the most in a season since 1985. But Dorrance led Carolina to 18 wins in a row and another NCAA championship. Lorrie Fair earned national player of the year accolades, but in many regards the 1999 team was a squad without star presence, just incredible unity of purpose.

A year later, the 2000 Carolina team suffered the program's most losses in a season in 20 years but again won ACC and NCAA titles. Three times in six NCAA Tournament games, Carolina trailed its opponent 1-0 midway through the second half. All three times, the Tar Heels came from behind to win 2-1 in regulation time en route to another national title.

After a two-year hiatus from the awards stand, UNC reclaimed the NCAA title in 2003 with its most dominant team in a decade. Carolina became the first team since the Tar Heels of 1993 to go undefeated and untied, finishing with a perfect 27-0 mark while winning its 15th straight ACC title and its 18th national championship. Led by co-national players of the year Lindsay Tarpley and Catherine Reddick, Carolina outscored its opponents 132-11, including an amazing 32-0 margin in six NCAA Tournament matches.

Another Quartet of National Titles

In 2006, Dorrance turned in one of the best coaching jobs of his career in piloting UNC to its 19th national championship. He was the unanimous choice as the national coach of the year after leading Carolina to a 27-1 balance sheet. The Tar Heels accomplished these heroics while starting six freshmen for most of the season. In fact, seven freshmen took the field for the start of the second half of UNC's 2-1 NCAA championship game win over Notre Dame.

In 2008, UNC captured its 20th national championship with a team that started 4-1-1 but went 21-0-1 in its final 22 matches. Led by national player of the year Casey Nogueira, who led the nation in scoring with 25 goals, Carolina defeated two unbeaten teams in the College Cup, downing UCLA 1-0 and Notre Dame 2-1, to win the NCAA title. Nogueira scored two second-half goals to rally UNC past the Fighting Irish in the final game.

A year later, the Tar Heels turned in one of the best defensive efforts in school history en route to a 21st national crown. Senior defender Whitney Engen was a National Player of the Year honoree and the defensive MVP of the ACC and she led a team that allowed only 12 goals and posted 19 shutouts. Carolina allowed only two goals in the final 11 games of the season as the Tar Heels won the ACC Tournament hardware over Florida State 3-0 and the NCAA Tournament title over Stanford 1-0.

Carolina won the most unlikely of its 22 national crowns in 2012 after finishing the regular season with a mundane 10-5-2 ledger. But the Heels caught fire in the post-season, winning three overtime games and downing regional No. 1 seeds in each of the last three rounds of the NCAA Tournament. Crystal Dunn was the consensus National Player of the Year and the winner of the ACC's Top Female athlete accolade for 2012-13 while Amber Brooks took home player of the season accolades from Top Drawer Soccer.

Dorrance's Start In Coaching

Ironically, Dorrance's career plans did not originally include coaching a women's team. He began his coaching career at Carolina as the designated head coach for the men's team in 1976 during Marvin Allen's last year as head coach. He took over as men's coach the following year and served for 12 years in that role, posting a 172-65-21 record. His team won the ACC Tournament championship in 1987. He took the Tar Heels to the 1987 NCAA College Cup semifinals and the second round of the 1988 NCAA Tournament. Dorrance's .708 winning percentage is second amongst Carolina's men's soccer coaches all-time and his 172 wins rank third in school history behind Elmar Bolowich, whom Dorrance brought to Carolina as an assistant men's coach in 1987, and Dr. Marvin Allen, the founder of the program in 1947, and the man who coached Dorrance at Carolina.

Since being named the women's head coach in 1979, Carolina has an 809-67-36 record under Dorrance and only 11 times in 38 years have the Tar Heels lost more than two games in a single season. The Tar Heels' 21 NCAA crowns are more than any other women's NCAA Division I sports program in the history (Stanford women's tennis is second with 18), and the 22 national championships overall are more than any single sports program in ACC history, men's or women's.

A Host of National Players of the Year

Over the years, 19 different Tar Heels have been named national players of the year under Dorrance's direction — April Heinrichs in 1984 and 1986, Shannon Higgins in 1988 and 1989, Kristine Lilly in 1990 and 1991, Mia Hamm in 1992 and 1993, Tisha Venturini in 1994, Debbie Keller in 1995 and 1996, Staci Wilson in 1995, Cindy Parlow in 1996, 1997 and 1998, Robin Confer in 1997, Lorrie Fair in 1999, Meredith Florance in 2000, Lindsay Tarpley in 2003, Catherine Reddick in 2003, Heather O'Reilly in 2006, Yael Averbuch in 2006, Casey Nogueira in 2008, Whitney Engen in 2009 and Crystal Dunn and Amber Brooks in 2012.

Coach of the Year Honors Galore

Dorrance has been named national coach of the year for coaching both women and men. He earned women's national honors in 1982, 1986, 1997, 2000, 2003 and 2006 and he was named men's national coach of the year in 1987.

Dorrance has been named the Southeast Region coach of the year in 1989, 1996, 1997, 2001, 2003, 2006 and 2008. In 1987, 1990, 1991, 1993, 1996, 2001, 2003, 2004, 2006 and 2008, he was named the ACC Women's Soccer Coach of the Year.

In 1996, Dorrance received one of the highest honors possible from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America when he won the Walt Chyzowych Award for lifetime coaching achievement. In 2007, he won the Bill Jeffrey Award from the NSCAA for raising intercollegiate soccer to new heights through his long-term dedication to the game. In 2011, the NSCAA accorded him its prestigious NSCAA Honor Award.

Honors from His Peers

Dorrance was inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece in 1988, Carolina's highest honorary society which includes Carolina students, faculty and staff.

In 1994, Dorrance added another cherished honor when the athletic department designated him a "Priceless Gem." This honor is reserved only for those individuals who have contributed in extraordinary ways to the successful athletic climate at the University.

In 1995, Dorrance's program was profiled in a full-length documentary film entitled, "Dynasty." The movie focused in particular on the Tar Heels' amazing nine-year national championship run from 1986 through 1994, and it included in-depth interviews with both current and former Tar Heel players. Another documentary about the UNC program, "Winning Isn't Everything," was released in DVD format following the 2007 season.

Dorrance In His College Years

A 1974 University of North Carolina graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and philosophy, Dorrance originally enrolled at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Texas, where he spent one semester studying and playing soccer. He then transferred to Carolina to play for Marvin Allen.

Dorrance's natural gifts on the pitch led to his selection to the All-ACC Team three times as an undergraduate and he won All-South Region honors in 1973. He was named in 2002 as one of the Top 50 men's soccer players in ACC history. He was also one of the top intramural sports performers on the Carolina campus during his days as an undergraduate.

Dorrance has an "A" level coaching license from the U.S. Soccer Federation. He was a charter member of the NCAA Women's Soccer Committee and he also served as the women's chairman of the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America. He is the former chairman of the NCAA Men's and Women's Soccer Rules Committee and one of the few coaches in the country to qualify as a national staff coach for the U.S. Soccer Federation and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He formerly was involved in training coaches and awarding coaching licenses as part of the NSCAA Coaching Academy. In the summer of 2003, he was named to the Board of Directors of the National Soccer Hall of Fame.

Dorrance's summer soccer camps for women are the most popular in the nation. The camps sell out well in advance. Dorrance has even hosted a version of the famous camp in England.

The Dorrance Family

Albert Anson Dorrance, IV, was born on April 9, 1951, in Bombay, India, and he is married to M'Liss Gary Dorrance. The couple celebrated their 43rd wedding anniversary in August 2017.

M'Liss Dorrance is a former professional ballet dancer who teaches at the Ballet School of Chapel Hill, which she cofounded in 1980. When M'Liss is not watching soccer games on the weekends she is rehearsing her choreography for Chapel Hill Dance Theatre productions.

The Dorrances have three grown children.

Michelle, a graduate of New York University's Tisch School of the Arts, is an internationally renowned multi-award winning rhythm tap dancer residing in New York City where she is director/founder of Dorrance Dance/NY. Dorrance Dance was presented in the fall of 2014 and fall of 2016 by Carolina Performing Arts at Memorial Hall. Michelle is a 2015 MacArthur Genius Award winner.

Natalie Dorrance Harris, a UNC graduate, is currently pursuing a master's degree in library science from UNC Greensboro and also administrates the North Carolina Girls Soccer Camp team camps, amongst the most popular youth camps in America. She and attorney husband David Harris, a University of North Carolina law school graduate, are the proud parents of Finley Dorrance Harris. The Dorrance family's first grandchild was born in April 2009.

Donovan Dorrance, a 2013 UNC graduate with a B.A. in philosophy, is currently working with his sister Michelle as company music director and composer. He also performs as a controller and musician for Dorrance Dance/NY.

Dorrance's soccer origins stem from his youth when he lived overseas. He resided in India, Kenya, Ethiopia, Singapore, Belgium and Switzerland while growing up. His family moved all around the world following his father's assignments as an international businessman. Additional members of the Dorrance extended family residing in Chapel Hill include his brother Pete, a co-owner of six prominent Triangle area restaurants, and Pete's wife Dolly Hunter, a former UNC head field hockey and softball coach. Carolina's biggest soccer fan, Anson Dorrance's mother Peggy, passed away at the age of 87 in October 2014 and has been sorely missed at Carolina women's soccer games since that time.

Assistant Coach Bill Palladino

In 2017, Bill Palladino returns for his 37th year as a member of the Tar Heel women's soccer coaching staff.

Palladino has served as the chief assistant coach for the Carolina women's soccer program since the 1980 season when he joined Anson Dorrance's staff in the Carolina women's soccer's second varsity season. Palladino has demonstrated tremendous loyalty to the program he helped head coach Anson Dorrance shape at UNC. During his entire tenure at Carolina, Palladino has specialized in developing some of the top defenses in the history of collegiate soccer.

Palladino's success in developing brilliant defensive schemes has been a key element in leading Tar Heel teams to 20 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships, 21 ACC regular-season titles and 22 national collegiate titles since he joined the staff in 1980. Those are astounding numbers indeed.

The defenses Palladino has coached at Carolina have allowed only 472 goals in the 912 games the Tar Heels have played in their history, an average of a mere 0.52 goals per game. He did one of his best coaching jobs in 2012 as injuries decimated the UNC defensive corps with returning starters Megan Brigman missing the entire season and Caitlin Ball missing most of the regular season. But Palladino retooled the defense, relied on a versatile corps of players including Crystal Dunn, Hanna Gardner, Satara Murray and Katie Bowen and sparked Carolina to its 22nd national championship. In the final four rounds of the NCAA Tournament, including three games against No. 1 tournament seeds, the Tar Heels allowed only one goal in the run of play and three goals overall. The highlight of that streak was a 1-0 double overtime shutout of top-ranked Stanford in the NCAA semifinals.

In 2014, Carolina played the nation's most difficult schedule but shared the ACC regular-season championship and earned a No. 2 seed in the NCAA Tournament on the strength of a defense which allowed only 15 goals in 20 games, compensating for the fact UNC had season-long offensive struggles.

The Tar Heels' Palladino-led defense was again a key factor in UNC's run to the 2016 NCAA College Cup, Carolina's first trip to the national semifinals since 2012. Carolina came on at the end of the season and allowed only two goals combined in its three ACC Tournament and five NCAA Tournament games combined.

Palladino was rewarded with the Glenn "Mooch" Myernick Award as the national assistant coach of the year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America following the 2012 campaign when Carolina claimed its 22nd national title.

Carolina's defense was also the key to the success of the 2009 team which outscored its opponents 63-12 en route to winning UNC's 21st national championship. The Tar Heels' patented flat back three defense of Kristi Eveland, Whitney Engen and Rachel Givan, along with goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris, recorded 19 shutouts on the season as the Tar Heels went 23-3-1. UNC posted a pair of long shutout streaks in 2009 as Tar Heel opponents went without goals for both eight-game and seven-game stretches during the season. The team allowed only two goals in nine post-season contests in the ACC and NCAA Tournaments combined.

Under Palladino's expert direction, Carolina defensive units have consistently been a critical cog in Tar Heel runs to national championships. In 1987, the Tar Heels set an NCAA record on the defensive end of the field unlikely to ever be matched. The team allowed only two goals all season. Goalkeeper Anne Sherow led an incredible defensive effort which produced 22 shutouts in 24 games. Those 22 shutouts stand as an NCAA record that has only been equaled once and that was by another UNC team exactly one decade later. While going 27-0-1 in 1997, the Tar Heels posted 22 shutouts in the team's 28 games.

In 2003, Palladino worked his magic again with the UNC defense. That defense did not allow a single goal in six NCAA Tournament games as the Tar Heels outscored their opponents 32-0. It stands as the most efficient defensive effort ever in an NCAA Tournament.

In 2002-03, he served as the top assistant coach for the U.S. Women's National Team before retiring from that role in January 2004. In that capacity, Palladino served as the chief assistant to U.S. National Team head coach April Heinrichs. In the fall of 2003, Palladino split his duties between UNC and the National Team as it competed in the 2003 Women's World Cup. The U.S. women won the bronze medal in that competition.

Palladino came aboard as an assistant coach during the program's second year in existence and has been coaching along side Dorrance through the last 37 years.

In 1991, Palladino was named South Region Coach of the Year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He took over the helm for much of that season as interim head coach while Dorrance directed the efforts of the U.S. Women's National Team in its successful quest to win the 1991 Women's World Cup title in China. Palladino was head coach of the Tar Heels for 10 games that season and Carolina was victorious in each contest, including three games in the NCAA Tournament. North Carolina won the 10th of its 22 national titles with a 3-1 win over Wisconsin on November 24, 1991 at Fetzer Field.

"For me, Bill is the reason I enjoy my job so much," says Tar Heel head coach Anson Dorrance. "He is the reason the players enjoy the program so much. Bill is a big part of the reason there is such great team chemistry.

"Bill is a team builder. He has helped us develop a philosophy toward player development that encourages an informal but effective rapport between players and coaches."

Palladino's coaching career with the Carolina women's team began in 1980. A Chapel Hill, N.C. native, Palladino joined the staff that year after three seasons as an assistant coach – also to Dorrance – with the UNC men's soccer program from 1977-79.

The 67-year-old Palladino holds an "A" coaching license from the U.S. Soccer Federation. He was head coach of the South team at the 1995 U.S. Olympic Festival in Denver, Colo. He also served as head coach of the Raleigh Wings in the W League in the late 1990s. Under his stewardship, the team completed an undefeated season in 1998 and added a second W League crown in 1999.

At Carolina, his duties include on-field coaching, overseeing camps, scouting and administration. He is also in charge of putting together UNC's non-conference schedule each year.

A 1973 UNC graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology, Palladino played varsity men's soccer at Carolina for three seasons from 1970-72 under the aegis of legendary head coach Marvin Allen. He holds a master's degree in education from NC State and has worked on a doctorate in education at UNC.

Palladino expanded his already-vast repertoire of skills from 2001-03 when he served as a sideline reporter and color commentator for national and regional WUSA telecasts.

Palladino has two children from his first marriage. Twins Bill and Suzi live in Charlotte, N.C., and Chapel Hill, N.C., respectively. Suzi is a teacher and Bill is a producer/director for ESPN.

Palladino is married to former Tar Heel soccer star Wendy Gebauer Palladino, who earned All-America honors while playing at UNC from 1985-88 and was a member of the U.S. Team that won the initial World Cup in 1991. Bill and Wendy are the parents of Zachary Ryan Palladino, who was born on January 14, 2005.

The 2017 season marks Chris Ducar's 22nd year as an assistant coach with the University of North Carolina women's soccer program. Coach Anson Dorrance says Ducar ranks as one of the nation's top recruiting coordinators and goalkeeper coaches. The veteran Tar Heel head coach credits Ducar with keeping UNC at the top of the college game with his recruiting and organizational prowess.

Ducar's experience as an assistant coach and recruiter was recognized at the conclusion of the 2006 season when he was named the national assistant coach of the year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA). He also won the same assistant coach of the year award for the NSCAA's South Region that season as well as Carolina concluded a 27-1 season and captured the 2006 ACC and NCAA championships.

During his two plus decades in Chapel Hill, Ducar has proven to be both a tremendous game and practice coach as well as a fantastic recruiter.

Ducar's recruiting prowess is well known in the college game as he has consistently brought in classes ranked in the top 10 in the nation. Top Drawer Soccer recognized UNC's Class of 2013 group as the nation's best and those players keyed UNC to a national championship in 2012. The Tar Heel freshmen who enrolled in the fall of 2016 were recognized as the nation's third-ranked recruiting class by Top Drawer Soccer and the 2017 class was again recognized as one of the nation's best by Top Drawer Soccer.

During his long coaching tenure at Chapel Hill, Ducar has helped lead Carolina to NCAA championships in 1996, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2003, 2006, 2008, 2009 and 2012 and to ACC Tournament championships in 13 years as well. Carolina has finished atop the ACC regulaseason standings 14 times during his coaching tenure.

In 2016, Ducar mentored Lindsey Harris to a school record save total of 96, breaking a mark which had stood since 1980. Harris' play as a redshirt senior was a key element in UNC's advancement to the ACC Tournament finals and the NCAA Tournament semifinals.

A member of the Olympic Development Program Staff in Regions I and III, Ducar is a National Clinician for the United States Youth Soccer Association and belongs to the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

Ducar has been a mainstay in coaching U.S. women's national teams in international events. He was the goalkeeper coach for the U21 National Team which won the 1999 Nordic Cup title in Iceland. Former UNC player Siri Mullinix was the championship keeper for the U.S. in that tournament, and she was the starter for the U.S. National Team in the 2000 Olympics in Sydnery, Australia when the Americans won silver.

Ducar served as goalkeeper coach for the 1998 U.S. U21 women's national team which competed in the Nordic Cup. The United States won the silver medal in that competition. He also served as goalkeeper coach for the 1997 U.S. U21 national team that won the gold medal in the 1997 Nordic Cup in Denmark.

In addition to his duties as an assistant coach at UNC, Ducar also served as an assistant coach for the women's team at UNCG from 1995-98 on a part-time basis before he became a full-time coach at Carolina in 1998. In 1995, he was the goalkeeper coach at Greensboro College. In 1990-91, he was an assistant coach at the University of California Santa Cruz.

During his time at Carolina, Ducar has tutored three first-team All-America goalkeepers in Siri Mullinix, Jenni Branam and Aly Winget. Mullinix was a three-year starter for UNC, and Branam and Winget were both four-year starting goalkeepers. Winget set the ACC records for solo shutouts in a season with 16 in 2003 and in a career with 35. In 2006, Anna Rodenbough nearly equaled Winget's mark as she posted 15 solo shutouts in helping the Tar Heels win the NCAA championship. He did one of his best coaching jobs of his career in 2009 as senior Ashlyn Harris, a long-time member of the U.S. National Team and a 2015 FIFA Women's World Cup champion, led Carolina to another national title as Carolina posted 19 shutouts and allowed a mere 0.44 goals per game against the nation's toughest schedule. Harris was named first-team All-ACC as well as an Academic All-America. In 2011 and 2012, Ducarr helped develop Yale transfer and walk-on Adelaide Gay into one of the most consistent goalkeepers in the college game. Gay was a first-team Academic All-America in 2011 and in 2012. She allowed only 0.62 goals per game as the Tar Heels won the national championship in 2012.

In the summer of 2000, Ducar served as the head coach for the North Carolina women's state team that won the regional championship and advanced to compete in the Donnelly Cup national tournament over Thanksgiving weekend.

Ducar graduated from the University of Missouri in 1990 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science. He was a Dean's List student there and went on to earn a teaching credential from San Jose State University in 1995.

Ducar played on the men's club soccer team at the University of Missouri from 1986-90. Post-collegiately, he played for Inter A.C. in Fremont, Calif., helping the team claim the 1990 Premier Division title. He was also a member of the San Francisco Bay Blackhawks of the American Professional Soccer League (APSL) when they won the 1991 national championship. He played for the San Jose Oaks, the 1992 U.S. Open Cup champions.

Former national director for Soccer Plus Goalkeeper Schools in Connecticut, he spent much of his time traveling the United States organizing camps and clinics for Soccer Plus. He has also served as director of Go For Gold Soccer Schools, World Soccer and Santa Cruz Soccer Camps in California and for David Brcicís Goalkeeper Schools in Missouri.

Ducar holds coaching licenses from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (premier license) and the United States Soccer Federation (national "A" license). Ducar is on both the United States Soccer Federation and National Soccer Coaches Association of America National Goalkeeping Staffs.

Tom Sander, Director of Women's Soccer Operations

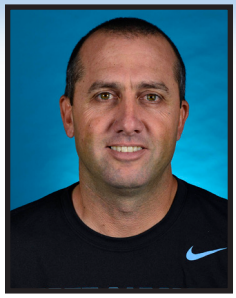

A vital component of the University of North Carolina women's soccer scene since 1992, Tom Sander was named the program's Director of Women's Soccer Operations on a full-time basis in the spring of 1998. Previously, he served as the head student manager and an administrative assistant for six years in the women's soccer office.

It was clear from Sander's undergraduate days that he would be a great asset to the program with his organizational skills and savvy mind. When Sander graduated in 1993, UNC head coach Anson Dorrance worked hard to create a position on his staff to utilize Sander's skills.

Sander coordinates all team games operations at home and on the road, organizes team travel and serves as a liaison for the program with the University administration, Educational Foundation, program scholarship donors, soccer alumni and the Friends of Carolina Soccer. He helps with all practice scheduling and serves as a vital communication link between current and former players and the coaching staff.

A native of Lancaster, Pa., Sander attended Hempfield High School and then graduated from UNC with a Bachelor of Science degree in biology in 1993.

Assistant Coach Damon Nahas

Damon Nahas is beginning his second complete season as a full-time assistant women's soccer coach at the University of North Carolina in the fall of 2017.

Nahas officially joined the Tar Heel staff on November 9, 2015.

UNC head coach Anson Dorrance has had nothing but praise for Nahas since he joined the staff two years ago.

"What's happened in the last couple of years is that we were fortunate enough to convince Damon Nahas to be a part of our staff and he is remarkable in every respect," says Dorrance. "He's not only good in every training session where he brings a cutting edge to player development, but he's always a fabulous recruiter and he ties us into the national youth teams.

"Damon was the U15 National Team coach so my motivation in hiring him was certainly in part that he ties us into a culture where it is critical to have a connection. And the youth national team program is our recruiting pool. His energy in the office is great and his dream is to continue the player development capital that we've developed."

Nahas brought with him an extensive background from the previous 15 years in player development, club coaching and national team coaching to his duties in Chapel Hill. In 2000, he developed a U7-U11 technical academy, Next Level Academy (NLA), which not only played a major role in his development as a coach but along with the NLA staff continues to be a leader in player development in the Triangle. He served as the technical director of one of the most successful youth clubs in the country, the Capital Area Soccer League (CASL) in Raleigh since 2000. He also served as head coach of the U.S. U15 Girls National Team from 2011-14 and began a stint as an assistant coach for the U.S. U17 Women's National Team in 2014.

"I am incredibly honored and humbled to have the opportunity to work alongside Anson Dorrance and his staff. The UNC women's soccer program has an unrivaled tradition of success, so to say I am excited for the next phase of my career, would be an understatement," says Nahas. "To have the chance to work with some of the most talented players in the women's game while learning from a staff who continues to be motivated to develop players both on and off the field is incredible. I want to thank Anson along with the entire UNC family for this amazing opportunity and I look forward to the beginning of an exciting journey."

"If you look at all the places on the face of the Earth, the place that has developed players who have played in more Olympic Games and in more World Cups than anyplace else is Chapel Hill, N.C.," says Dorrance in praising what he believes will be one of Nahas' strength. "We're incredibly proud of that. We obviously roll that out in recruiting and the number of roster spots we've earned is staggering. We can compare it with any college that is out there and we can compare it with any international club team. We can compare it to any professional environment anywhere in the world. Damon, just like Bill Palladino and Chris Ducar, has a player development attitude just like mine. We all want to develop players who are competing at the highest levels in the sport. This will always put us in a position to compete for national championships and compete for ACC championships. But ultimately what drives us is watching a kid come in at one level and then after four years to see her at a completely different level. I'm very proud of that."

Nahas attended and played soccer at North Carolina State University from 1992-96 and then played professionally with the Wilmington Hammerheads and Capital Express. In 2000, he joined the CASL staff where he helped develop and execute a technical curriculum for the coaching staff and players, primarily at the U9-U14 levels for both boys and girls. During his tenure there he coached teams across all age groups and genders including squads which won two ECNL national championships, a U.S. Club national championship, a Super Y League national title, four state championships and two Disney showcases while having success in many other national tournaments.

Nahas began his coaching tenure on the national level with U.S. Soccer in 2011. He was the U15 girls' national team coach from 2011-14, overseeing the program for up to five training camps per year while also scouting and selecting players eligible for the teams. In 2014, he began a stint as the U17 WNT assistant coach, a position which included scouting players and assisting with training sessions with head coach B.J. Snow. In 2014, Nahas was also invited to serve as an assistant for the full USWNT during various camps, where he conducted technical training sessions for the team.

"Damon Nahas has changed girls soccer in the state of North Carolina. It used to be very difficult to find local players that could compete at a national level collegiately. Damon has changed that," says Dorrance. "Three of his youth players off one team have started for us– Joanna Boyles, Cameron Castleberry and Maya Worth–since the 2013 season. There are not many youth coaches in the country that can say off one youth team, they have produced three NCAA Division I starters on a Top 10 collegiate team.

"Watching his teams play and seeing his players develop has been inspiring. It was clear as soon as he entered the girls' game that he was something special. We have too many coaches in our sport that are reluctant to do the grunt work – trapping, passing, shooting, dribbling and heading – and an even smaller number that can make this fun. Damon is a brilliant young coach and is a tremendous addition to my veteran staff. Our player development has always been good. This hire is making us even better."

Among his past head coaching experiences have been stints with Cary Clarets PDL (head coach), Carolina RailHawks (assistant coach 2007-09) and Cardinal Gibbons High School in Raleigh (men's head coach 1999-2002).

Nahas is a native of East Northport, N.Y. Nahas and his wife, Nicole, have two sons, Crew and Grayson.

After suffering a career-ending knee injury during her junior season she remained with the team as an undergraduate assistant coach from 2011-2013 . A Program of Remarkable Consistency

The University of North Carolina women's soccer program is one of the most successful sport programs in the history of college athletics. In its first 38 years, Carolina has won 22 national championships and played in 29 of 37 College Cups (final four teams in national tournament) sanctioned by the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) in 1980-81 and National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) from 1982-2016.

Under head coach Anson Dorrance, who assumed the coaching reins when the program was elevated to varsity status in 1979, the Tar Heels have staked a claim as one of the greatest dynasties in intercollegiate athletics history. In fact it was judged the greatest dynasty in the opinion of Sports Illustrated On Campus magazine, which featured the Tar Heels on its cover in 2003. In 2014, Beckett Entertainment's Sports Dynasties tabbed the Tar Heel women's soccer program as the sixth greatest dynasty of the past 100 plus years in a magazine featuring the Top 30 sports dynasties of the era covering 115 years from 1900-2015.

Heading into the 2017 season, the Tar Heels have posted an 809-67-36 overall record in the history of the sport.

Carolina won its first official national championship, the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) title in 1981, and has since won a total of 21 of the 35 NCAA championships with titles coming in 1982, 1983, 1984, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1996, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2003, 2006, 2008, 2009 and 2012. The only 14 years since 1981 in which the Tar Heels did not win the national crown were 1985 when they lost to George Mason in the NCAA championship game, 1995 when they lost to eventual NCAA champion Notre Dame in the NCAA semifinals, 1998 when they fell to Florida in the NCAA championship game, 2001 when Santa Clara beat Carolina in the championship contest, 2002 when they were upset by Santa Clara in the NCAA semifinals, 2004 when Notre Dame became the first school other than Carolina to win more than one national championship, 2005 when Portland won its second title, 2007 when USC claimed its first championship, 2010 when 1981 AIAW champions – the first of the Tar Heel championship squads.

Notre Dame downed the Tar Heels in the third round en route to winning its third title, 2011 when Stanford claimed its first NCAA crown, 2013 when eventual NCAA champion UCLA defeated the Tar Heels in double overtime in the NCAA quarterfinals, 2014 when Florida State became the first ACC team other than UNC to win the crown, 2015 when Penn State downed long-time Tar Heel rival Duke in the championship contest and 2016 when Carolina fell in the NCAA semifinals to consensus #1-ranked West Virginia. In 12 of the last 13 occasions when UNC has failed to advance in NCAA play, the games have either been decided by one goal or resulted in a tie where the advancing team earned its way to the next round in a penalty kick shootout.

In fact, Notre Dame's 4-1 victory over North Carolina on November 20, 2010 in the NCAA Tournament third round broke a 25-year streak during which the Tar Heels had never suffered a defeat by more than one goal. Prior to that loss to the Fighting Irish, the last time Carolina lost a game by a margin of more than one goal was on November 24, 1985 when George Mason beat UNC 2-0 in the NCAA championship game. Carolina had played 607 games since that loss and 55,440 minutes and 41 seconds had ticked off stadium clocks since the Tar Heels last fell by more than a single goal.

Carolina's women's soccer program has won 21 NCAA titles. When UNC won the 2009 NCAA title over Stanford, Carolina women's soccer became the first women's sports program to claim 20 NCAA crowns and head coach Anson Dorrance became the first coach in NCAA history to earn 20 titles coaching a single sport – men or women. The second most NCAA women's titles won in a single sport are the 18 captured by the Stanford women's tennis program.

The Tar Heels' 22 total national championships are more than any other sports program has won, men's or women's, in Atlantic Coast Conference history. In addition, UNC women's soccer teams have won 21 of the 30 official ACC championships decided since league play started in 1987.

An Amazing Array of Talent

Tar Heel players over the past 38 years have regularly earned the distinction of being named All-Americas as either first-, second-, third-team or honorable mention choices and most of those players have won All-America honors in multiple seasons during their Carolina careers. In 38 campaigns, Carolina has had 74 selections to either the NSCAA coaches or Soccer America first-team All-America squads, 43 more than second-place Stanford on the list. The Cardinal has had 31 all-time first-team All-Americas.

Nineteen players — April Heinrichs, Shannon Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Debbie Keller, Staci Wilson, Cindy Parlow, Robin Confer, Lorrie Fair, Meredith Florance, Catherine Reddick, Lindsay Tarpley, Heather O'Reilly, Yael Averbuch, Casey Nogueira, Whitney Engen, Amber Brooks and Crystal Dunn — have been named the National Player of the Year in at least one season, some winning those honors in multiple seasons. Lori Henry, Shannon Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Cindy Parlow, Lorrie Fair, Lindsay Tarpley, Heather O'Reilly, Yael Averbuch, Casey Nogueira, Whitney Engen and Crystal Dunn have been saluted as the Atlantic Coast Conference's overall Player of the Year, offensive Player of the Year or defensive Player of the Year. Carolina has had a total of 156 selections to the first, second or third-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference squads since the league began sponsorship of the sport in 1987, outflanking any other league school in that regard by 61 selections. UNC has also boasted the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament in 20 of the 29 tournaments held since the first event in 1988.

The numbers associated with the program's success boggle the mind. Seven Tar Heels have been named ACC Freshman of the Year, most recently Bridgette Andrzejewski in 2016, and eight have been named National Freshman Player of the Year. Anson Dorrance has been named national coach of the year on seven occasions and ACC coach of the year 10 times.

There are still more numbers that illustrate the dominance of the program. Thirteen Carolina women's soccer players have won the Patterson Medal as Carolina's outstanding senior athlete, the most recent honoree being Crystal Dunn in 2014. The recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the Female Athlete of the Year in the ACC has been a Tar Heel women's soccer player eight times, including Crystal Dunn in 2013.

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...
607 games between losses
by more than one goal

Notre Dame's 4-1 victory over North Carolina on November 20, 2010 broke a 25-year streak during which the Tar Heels never suffered a defeat by more than one goal. Prior to that loss to the Fighting Irish, the last time Carolina lost a game by a margin of more than one goal was on November 24, 1985 when George Mason beat UNC 2-0 in the NCAA championship game. Carolina had played 607 games since that loss and 55,440 minutes and 41 seconds had ticked off stadium clocks since the Tar Heels last fell by more than a single goal. In between the losses on November 24, 1985 and November 20, 2010, UNC had lost only 26 games in 25 years and none by more than one goal. Carolina has played 144 games since that loss to Notre Dame and has lost just 28 games, 25 by a one-goal margin, two by a two-goal spread and one by three goals. Of UNC's last 54 losses, 50 have come by one goal, two by two goals and two by three goals.

UNC has had 148 selections for All-Tournament honors at the AIAW or NCAA national College Cups since 1981. The Tar Heels have boasted choices for the offensive, defensive or overall Most Valuable Player at the NCAA Tournament 34 times. On 102 occasions, Tar Heels have been tapped as All-ACC Tournament selections since that honor squad was started in 1991.

Lasting Relationship With The U.S. National Team

Many Carolina players have continued their playing careers as members of the U.S. Women's National Team. Since the founding of the National Team program by the U.S. Soccer Federation in 1985, a total of 57 different Carolina players have earned caps with the full U.S. National Team. The most recent Tar Heels to be capped for the first time were Jessica McDonald and Kealia Ohai in 2016. Several other former Tar Heels have gone on to play for the national teams of other countries, including those of Canada, Denmark, The Netherlands, Iceland, Norway, New Zealand and England. Dorrance was the chief architect behind the initial success of the U.S. Women's National Team, having coached that squad from its second year of existence in 1986 until he stepped down in 1994 to concentrate solely on his head coaching duties at Carolina.

Under Dorrance's brilliant coaching guidance, the U.S. won the first-ever Women's World Cup championship in China in November 1991. Half of the 18-woman 1991 U.S. roster played collegiately for the Tar Heels. Seven players who competed collegiately in Chapel Hill were on the 1995 U.S. Team that captured third place at the World Cup. During the summer of 1996 at the Centennial Olympic Games, the U.S. roster was again filled with Tar Heel connections as the Americans captured the gold medal. Both of that team's assistant coaches and seven of the 16 players were Tar Heels, giving the gold medal the U.S. won a pronounced Carolina Blue tint. In the summer of 1999, eight more UNC players competed for the U.S. team that recaptured the World Cup title by outscoring China 5-4 on penalty kicks in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. Six more Tar Heels played for the 2000 U.S. Olympic Team that won the silver medal in Sydney, Australia under the leadership of head coach April Heinrichs, an '87 Tar Heel alumna.

The 2003 U.S. World Cup roster featured six Tar Heel players as the Americans claimed the bronze medal at that event. Six Tar Heels were also named by Heinrichs to the U.S. Team that played in the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. That team won the second gold medal for the U.S. in Olympic competition. The 2007 World Cup was played in China with five former Tar Heel players on the U.S. squad and one UNC player on the Canadian team. The Americans won the bronze medal in that event. In 2008, four Tar Heels were on the U.S. Olympic Team and one was on the Canadian side with the Americans winning gold for the third time in four Olympic soccer tournaments.

The 1992 Tar Heels were undefeated and untied and simply dominant. They beat Duke 9-1 in the NCAA championship match after spotting the Blue Devils a 1-0 lead.

The Americans captured the silver medal at the 2011 World Cup in Germany. Former Tar Heels Heather O'Reilly and Tobin Heath were members of the U.S. Team while 2007 alumna Robyn Gayle played for the Canadian side. All three of those former Tar Heels — O'Reilly, Heath and Gayle — were members of their respective teams at the 2012 Olympic Games. The Americans won their fourth gold medal in five tries in that competition while Canada took the bronze medal.

The world was again captivated by the women's game in the summer of 2015 when the U.S. recaptured the FIFA World Cup crown that had eluded it for 16 years. Altogether, nine current and former Tar Heels played in the tournament in Canada. Meghan Klingenberg started for the U.S. in the defense and Tobin Heath started in the midfield. Four Carolina players were key reserves for the U.S. side – Lori Chalupny, Heather O'Reilly, Ashlyn Harris and Whitney Engen. Lucy Bronze starred for the England team, leading it to the bronze medal and joining Klingenberg on the tournament's Best XI team. Robyn Gayle was a member of Team Canada and Katie Bowen started for New Zealand.

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...
Only 11 seasons with more than two losses

UNC has played 38 years of varsity soccer from 1979 through 2016. Only 11 UNC teams have lost more than two matches in a season. In fact, only eight teams have lost more than three games in a season. The 1980 team finished 21-5, the 2000 team was 21-3, the 2007 team was 19-4-1, the 2009 team was 23-3-1, the 2010 team was 19-3-2, the 2011 team was 13-5-2, the 2012 team was 15-5-3, the 2013 team was 20-5, the 2014 team was 14-4-2, the 2015 team was 15-5-1 and the 2016 team was 17-4-4. Despite the three losses in 2000 and again in 2009 and the five losses in 2012, Carolina went on to win the NCAA championship each of those three years.

Carolina's 1997 championship team was one of the stingiest in school history, allowing only eight goals in a 27-0-1 season. The Tar Heels beat UConn 2-0 for the title.

It All Started Way Back When

Having players compete in the World Cup and the Olympics was a passing fancy when the program first began playing on a varsity level in 1979. The Tar Heels played their first game, a 12-0 win over the Duke University club soccer team on September 20, 1979. That first season saw Carolina compile a 10-2 overall record. Janet Rayfield, still the Tar Heels' third all-time leading scorer with 223 points, recorded 30 goals that season.

In 1980, the Tar Heels won 21 of 26 games and were again led in scoring by Rayfield, who had 25 goals. Midfielder Nancy Clary became the first Tar Heel player in history to earn first-team All-America honors. The five losses marked the most Carolina has ever suffered in one season, matched only by four other teams since that time. No Tar Heel team in 38 seasons has ever lost more than five games.

The 1981 season was an exciting year for the women's college game as the first-ever national champion was crowned during a 12-team, four-day tournament in Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels provided their fans with many exciting moments during the course of the season, scoring a school record 172 goals. Led by 36-goal scorer Stephanie Zeh and getting 30 more tallies from Janet Rayfield, UNC averaged an astounding 7.48 goals per game.

Following a 19-0 regular season and a win over Virginia in the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) regional tournament final, the Tar Heels swept the AIAW National Tournament by winning three games by shutout. After receiving a first-round bye as the tournament's top seed, Carolina defeated Massachusetts 6-0, Connecticut 5-0 and UCF 1-0 to take the championship. In the title game, the Tar Heels outshot the Golden Knights 30-8, scoring on a Diane Beatty goal off a Kathy Kelly corner kick with 19:36 left in the first half.

The NCAA Dynasty Kicks Off

The NCAA became the sport's governing body in 1982 and the Tar Heels celebrated by winning their second national championship in a row. Carolina opened the season with 10 consecutive victories to run its winning streak to 33 games over two seasons, but then it dropped back-to-back decisions to Missouri-St. Louis and Cortland State. Following that second loss, the Tar Heels won their final nine games, culminating in an NCAA title with a 2-0 win over UCF. Amy Machin's 22 goals and 59 points led the team in scoring and she notched one of the two goals in the championship game victory. Betsy Johnson came off the bench to score off a rebound late in the first half for the winning goal.

The 1983 campaign brought the arrival of April Heinrichs to the Carolina campus. The first dominant women's soccer player in the American game, who would later coach the U.S. National Team from 2000-04, Heinrichs was the most successful player of the 1980s in collegiate soccer and one of the early stars of the U.S. National Team. In her freshman season, Heinrichs led the Tar Heels to their third straight national title as she scored 18 goals and totaled 47 points. Amy Machin was again amongst the team's leaders in scoring with 19 goals. Only a 3-1 loss at Connecticut in the opening game of the season prevented UNC from having another perfect season. Carolina claimed its third title in a row as Heinrichs scored two goals in a convincing 4-0 win over George Mason in the NCAA championship match at Orlando, Fla.

In 1984, the Tar Heels were the No. 1-ranked team in the nation from season's start to its finish and they capped their fourth straight national title campaign with a 2-0 win over Connecticut at Fetzer Field in the NCAA title game. The 1984 season marked the first of seven times UNC would play host to the NCAA College Cup at Fetzer Field. Heinrichs, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America (ISAA) National Player of the Year, led the team with 23 goals and 13 assists and Joan Dunlap was second on the squad with 21 goals and 10 assists. Carolina went 24-0-1 and won its first 17 games to run its winning streak to a then NCAA-record 36 games.

George Mason ended the 36-game winning streak by playing the Heels to a 1-1 tie on October 20, 1984. When College Cup weekend rolled around, the Tar Heels were taken to overtime in the national semifinals by California, but an Amy Machin goal with 9:05 left in the second extra period propelled the Tar Heels into the NCAA final against Connecticut. The championship game was played in front of 3,500 fans with Heinrichs and Dunlap scoring second-half goals to provide the Tar Heels with a 2-0 victory and a fourth straight national title.

All Good Things Must Come to an End

The NCAA championship trophy took a one-year hiatus from Chapel Hill in 1985 as the Tar Heels lost the national championship game to host George Mason 2-0. Led by a 50-point season from April Heinrichs and a team-leading 19 goals from Carrie Serwetnyk, the Tar Heels finished the season 18-2-1. The 1985 campaign was one of just 11 seasons out of a total of 38 in which Carolina has failed to win 20 games in a season. In fact, since going 10-2 in that initial 1979 campaign, the Tar Heels have won at least 18 games in 30 of the past 35 years.

After opening the 1985 season with a 3-3 draw against George Mason, Carolina ran off 12 straight wins and raised its collegiate record unbeaten streak to 57 games. Massachusetts eventually ended the streak with a 2-0 win over UNC in Amherst, Mass., on October 12, 1985. Carolina went on to meet George Mason in Fairfax, Va., in the NCAA championship game. The Patriots scored a goal in each half and sent the Tar Heels home without the championship trophy for the first time. At that time no one suspected that Carolina would not lose another game for five years and a stretch of over 100 games. In fact, the Tar Heels would never taste defeat again in the 1980s after that title game loss to GMU.

The 1986 campaign proved to be a season of redemption for the Tar Heels as seniors April Heinrichs and Marcia McDermott were determined to go out as winners. In 1986, Heinrichs was named National Player of the Year for a second time in her career, scoring a career-best 28 goals and totaling 69 points. McDermott set what was then the Carolina single-season record with 23 assists. The Tar Heels and George Mason met again, this time in the national semifinals, and Carolina came out on top 3-2 in overtime. Wendy Gebauer had two goals for Carolina and Heinrichs tallied the winner 5:50 into the first overtime period. Gebauer and Tracey Bates scored goals in the title game the next day against Colorado College in a 2-0 win. The Tar Heels found themselves back in familiar territory — atop the victory stand after the NCAA championship game.

Shannon Higgins' Postseason Fireworks

The 1987 campaign was a year dominated by defense as a stifling Carolina unit allowed only two goals during the entire season and posted an NCAA record 22 shutouts, a mark equaled only once since—by the 1997 UNC team. The defensive unit leaders were ACC Player of the Year Lori Henry, sweeper Carla Werden and goalkeeper Anne Sherow. They anchored a defense which allowed only 52 shots and two goals in 24 games en route to posting a 23-0-1 record. Only a tie with William & Mary marred the Tar Heels' perfect record. Midfielder Wendy

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...
23 years between season opening losses
Carolina lost its 1983 season opener at Connecticut 3-1. It would be 23 years before the Tar Heels would lose another season opener, falling 1-0 at Texas A&M in double overtime in 2006. In 38 years of play, the Tar Heels are 31-5-2 in season-opening games and 33-2-3 in home openers. The only losses in a home opener for UNC came in 2007 against South Carolina and in 2014 against Stanford. In season-opening games, UNC has a winning percentage of .842. In home openers, Carolina has a winning percentage of .908. The Tar Heels' winning percentage in all games played since the beginning of the program in 1979 is .907.

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...
26 20-win seasons
Carolina has won 20 or more games in 26 of 38 varsity seasons. That is a truly staggering figure given the fact most teams must make deep runs into the NCAA Tournament to play even 25 games in a season. Nevertheless, four of the UNC teams that did not win 20 games still won NCAA titles. They were the 1982, 1983, 1988 and 2012 teams.

Gebauer's 15 goals and 40 points led the Tar Heel offense in 1987, but it was a second-half goal by sophomore midfielder Shannon Higgins which proved to be the margin of victory in a 1-0 win over Massachusetts in the NCAA final. That game, along with the semifinal win over California, were played in near-Arctic weather conditions at Amherst, Mass., making it one of the most memorable NCAA College Cups ever. In the championship game, the wind was so strong that it made attacking offensively going against the gusts a futile proposition. Fortunately for Carolina, the Tar Heels went against the wind in the first half of the championship game and they were able to play the Minutewomen to a standstill. UNC had the benefit of the wind in the second half and scored the game's only goal to capture another NCAA championship. Higgins' game-winning goal would be the first of three she would score in NCAA championship games in three successive seasons.

The 1988 season proved to be a challenging one for the Tar Heels as rival NC State threatened to steal the championship trophy and relocate it down recently opened I-40 to Raleigh. The teams battled to a pair of dramatic 1-1 ties, one in the regular season game at Raleigh and another in the ACC Tournament championship game on the Wolfpack's home field at Method Road Soccer Stadium. NC State actually won the ACC title in a penalty kick shootout 4-3. During the season, Carolina set an NCAA record for a collegiate soccer unbeaten streak. First, the Tar Heels topped their own women's record of 57 games without a loss and then it surged past the Penn State men's soccer team's 65-game record unbeaten streak for all of college soccer. As the 1988 Soccer America National Player of the Year Shannon Higgins was an electrifying force on the squad, directing playmaking duties and setting up goals from her attacking center midfield position. In the national championship game versus NC State, Higgins scored three goals in a 4-1 Carolina victory. That match was played in front of 4,500 fans at Fetzer Field, the largest collegiate women's soccer crowd in history at the time.

In 1989, Higgins again was voted the top player in the nation and she led the Tar Heels to another unbeaten finish and national title. Higgins was named the National Player of the Year by Soccer America, won the Hermann Trophy and the Honda Sports Award for Soccer, was the ACC Player of the Year and became the first ever recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's Female Athlete of the Year. She led the team in scoring with 48 points and scored the game-winning goal in the NCAA championship game for the third consecutive year, opening the scoring against Colorado College in a 2-0 Tar Heel win. Freshmen Mia Hamm and Kristine Lilly scored 21 and 20 goals, respectively, although at that time it was a mere glimpse of that duo's future greatness in the world of women's soccer. Seniors Shannon Higgins, Julie Guarnotta, Ava Hyatt and Carla Werden closed out their four-year careers with a staggering 89-0-6 record and a quartet of NCAA championship rings.

The 2003 senior class ended its time in Chapel Hill by going 27-0 and winning the NCAA crown. UNC outscored the opposition 32-0 in six NCAA games.

The Greatest Game in Women's Soccer Lore

In 1990, Carolina again won the national championship, but did so with a notch in the loss column for the first time since November 24, 1985. On September 22, 1990, Connecticut ended the Tar Heels' national record unbeaten streak at 103 games by defeating the Tar Heels 3-2 in overtime at Storrs, Conn. Ironically, the Tar Heels would go on to avenge that defeat by routing the Huskies 6-0 in the NCAA championship game at Fetzer Field last in the season.

Following the loss at Connecticut, the Tar Heels fell out of the No. 1 spot in the ISAA poll for the first time since the second week of the 1986 season. Carolina regained the top spot by knocking off No. 1-ranked Virginia 3-0 late in the regular season and it then beat the Cavaliers again 2-0 in the ACC Tournament title game at Charlottesville, Va. The 1990 national quarterfinals matched the Tar Heels against old nemesis NC State in what would be one of the most dramatic games ever played in the sport's history. The Wolfpack held one-goal leads late in regulation time and again in the first overtime period, but both times the Tar Heels came back to tie the game on goals by Kristine Lilly. Finally, with just over two minutes remaining in the second overtime, Hamm sent a corner kick from the right side that Rita Tower headed in for the game-winning goal. After that dramatic game, which Soccer America dubbed the "Greatest Game in Women's Soccer History," the NCAA College Cup was played in Chapel Hill. Tower and Lilly each scored in the 2-1 semifinal win over Colorado College and six different Tar Heels scored in the championship game shutout of Connecticut.

In 1991, the Tar Heels had to defend their national title minus a host of spectacular players as well as its head coach. The top four leading scorers from the year before were not available to the team for much of the season. Kristine Lilly played the first 19 games of the season but departed prior to the start of the ACC and NCAA Tournaments to play in the 1991 World Cup in China. Mia Hamm, also on the World Cup Team, sat out the year as a redshirt. Rita Tower and Jill Jakowich were both rehabilitating knee injuries. Led by freshman midfield sensation Tisha Venturini and senior forward Pam Kalinoski, who herself had battled back from a serious knee injury, UNC won 24 consecutive games to win the title, including the last 10 games with assistant coach Bill Palladino at the controls after Dorrance had left to coach the U.S. in the World Cup in China. Lilly was the consensus National Player of the Year as well as the ACC Player of the Year. Venturini was the National Freshman of the Year and the ACC Tournament MVP. Venturini and Kalinoski shared MVP honors in the NCAA College Cup. Kalinoski set a national record for assists in a season with 28 and Venturini led the nation in scoring with 21 goals and 58 points.

1992! Perhaps The Greatest Team Ever

The 1992 Tar Heels were what many observers called the best team in the history of collegiate women's soccer. It would be extremely difficult to argue to the contrary with the only possible competitor being Carolina's undefeated 2003 team. Carolina rolled to a 25-0 record, a seventh consecutive NCAA title and an NCAA record for consecutive wins with 58 in a row by season's end.

The Tar Heels outscored their opposition 132-11 and trailed on just two occasions, once in a regular season victory at NC State and again in the NCAA final versus Duke. Both opponents' leads were short-lived. In the NCAA championship game against Duke, the Tar Heels rattled off nine successive goals after the Blue Devils drew first blood. Hamm led the nation with a school record 97 points on 32 goals and 33 assists, the latter mark also being a University standard. She was the unanimous choice as National Player of the Year and she was the ACC Player of the Year as well as the Most Valuable Player of both the ACC and NCAA Tournaments. Lilly and Venturini added 65 and 46 points, respectively, and joined Hamm as first-team All-Americas. The Tar Heels won the NCAA championship during an almost surreal 9-1 victory over Duke at rain-soaked Fetzer Field as Hamm became only the second player to post a hat trick in an NCAA final game. But the most remarkable feat of the season may have been a mid-season West Coast road trip in which Carolina won four games in four days by a combined margin of 22-2. Included were wins over three nationally-ranked opponents. The Tar Heels vanquished UC-Santa Barbara 5-1,

Saying Goodbye to a Legend

In 1993, Hamm was again a unanimous selection as the National Player of the Year as she led the country in scoring with 68 points on 26 goals and 16 assists. She helped lead the Tar Heels to a 23-0 record as Carolina outscored the opposition, 92-15. Carolina hosted the NCAA College Cup at Fetzer Field for the fourth successive year and emerged with another national championship. Hamm finished her career with 103 goals, 72 assists and 278 points, each a school record. She also set NCAA Tournament scoring records for both career and single tournament points, goals and assists. In 1994, she was named the recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's Top Female Athlete for the second consecutive year. Tisha Venturini missed several weeks at midseason with a broken bone in her foot but returned in time to reap Most Valuable Player honors at the ACC Tournament. The Tar Heels claimed their fifth straight league crown by virtue of a 4-1 win over Duke. Venturini was named first-team All-America for the third time. Before an NCAA record crowd of 5,721, UNC dismantled George Mason 6-0 in the NCAA final after the Tar Heels had whipped Massachusetts 4-1 in the semifinals.

The 1994 season was another triumphant campaign as the Tar Heels went 25-1-1 and won the NCAA championship for a ninth straight year. Venturini was the season's most impressive performer. She was unanimously selected the National Player of the Year and received first-team All-America honors for the fourth time in her career. Venturini, who led the Tar Heels with 21 goals and 13 assists for 55 points, was the ACC Player of the Year, MVP of the ACC Tournament and Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the NCAA Tournament. It was the third time in her career in which she was named the ACC Tournament MVP and the second time she earned MVP honors in the NCAA Tournament. Freshman Staci Wilson earned first-team All-America honors, was the National Freshman of the Year and the Most Outstanding Defensive Player in the NCAA Tournament.

The Tar Heels had two incredible streaks of excellence snapped in the regular season. An NCAA record winning streak reached 92 contests before Carolina and Notre Dame battled to a 0-0 tie in St. Louis on October 2, 1994. On October 19, 1994, Duke handed the Tar Heels a 3-2 defeat at Fetzer Field. That loss snapped a 101-game unbeaten streak for the Tar Heels dating back to September 22, 1990. The setback was also Carolina's first home loss since October 25, 1980, a streak of 137 games. The Tar Heels and Blue Devils met twice more during the 1994 campaign and Carolina came away with a 4-2 win in the ACC Tournament championship game and a 3-1 win in the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Venturini had three goals in the ACC final, the first hat trick in the history of the Tournament. Angela Kelly netted a pair of goals against Duke in the NCAA quarterfinals. The College Cup was held in Portland, Ore., where Venturini stole the show in the final two games of her college career. She capped her brilliant four years at Carolina by leading the Tar Heels to a 3-0 win over Connecticut in the semifinals and a 5-0 triumph over top-seeded Notre Dame in the final. Venturini scored twice in the championship game.

The 1995 season saw the Tar Heels' national championship streak end at nine seasons in a row. The previous year's senior class of 10 players was one of the most dominant in the history of the game. Carolina entered the 1995 campaign an inexperienced team with only three seniors and with a host of new starters on the field. Dorrance quickly molded the young players into a cohesive unit and the Tar Heels reeled off 25 successive wins while playing the nation's toughest schedule. Carolina won its eighth ACC title in nine years by sweeping through the tournament field and outscoring its opponents 16-0 in the three games. UNC dispatched Vanderbilt 4-0 in the NCAA second round after getting a bye in the first round as the tournament's top seed. Seventh-ranked Santa Clara fell victim to the Tar Heels 2-0 in the quarterfinals at Fetzer Field before UNC was beaten in the semifinals on an own goal by Cindy Parlow in a 1-0 loss to fourth-ranked Notre Dame. What was then a women's soccer record crowd of 7,212 watched that Tar Heel loss, only the sixth loss at home in school history. Standout performances abounded during the 1995 campaign. Four Tar Heels earned first-team All-America honors—forward Debbie Keller, forward Cindy Parlow, defender Staci Wilson and goalkeeper Tracy Noonan. Keller and Wilson were named co-National Players of the Year by Soccer Digest.

Mining Olympic Gold

During the summer of 1996, Carolina's soccer fame grew as the Olympic Games held their first ever medal competition in women's soccer. The U.S. won the gold medal, beating China 2-1 in the final match with the help of a cast that had a pronounced Carolina Blue hue. Both assistant coaches for the team, Lauren Gregg and April Heinrichs, were Carolina graduates. Seven of the 16 players on the roster were either Carolina alumnae or Tar Heel players returning for the 1996 season. This cadre included Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Carla Overbeck, Kristine Lilly, Cindy Parlow, Staci Wilson and Tiffany Roberts.

Led by the play of co-National Players of the Year Debbie Keller and Cindy Parlow, UNC returned to the pinnacle of the collegiate women's soccer world during the 1996 campaign. After a sluggish start that saw the Tar Heels struggle through their first eight matches yet escape unscathed, Carolina fell to Notre Dame in the season's ninth game, 2-1 in overtime. The Fighting Irish thus became the first collegiate team in history to beat Carolina two times in a row. Shortly thereafter, Dorrance reconfigured his defensive scheme to a flat back three alignment (3-4-3) and Carolina has stuck with that defensive alignment ever since while also employing a 4-2-3-1 formation as an alterrnate plan. Carolina rolled to victory over the final 17 games of the campaign to finish with a 25-1 record. UNC had spirited opposition in the ACC Tournament as Carolina claimed its eighth league crown in a row with wins over Florida State 7-1, Virginia 5-2 and Clemson 4-1. Junior forward Robin Confer was named the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament. The Tar Heels were the No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament despite the fact that Notre Dame had beaten Carolina during the regular season and both teams had only one loss heading into postseason play. Carolina shut out its first three opponents in the NCAA Tournament and then received a stiff challenge from College Cup host Santa Clara in the semifinals. Earlier in the season, the Tar Heels had escaped against the Broncos on a goal in the last minute of play by Debbie Keller. In the rematch, goals late in the second half by Cindy Parlow and Laurie Schwoy gave the Tar Heels a 2-1 victory. Two days later, Carolina avenged its last two defeats to Notre Dame by beating the second-seeded Fighting Irish 1-0 in overtime in the NCAA title match. Senior forward Debbie Keller ended her career on a splendid note by scoring the game-winning goal in the 111th minute of the match.

A Dominant 1997 Season

Carolina was again the best team in the country in 1997, led by co-national players of the year — forwards Cindy Parlow and Robin Confer. The Tar Heels ended the season at 27-0-1 with only a regular-season, lightning-shortened draw against Notre Dame as a blemish on the perfect mark. UNC allowed a paltry eight goals in 28 games and tied the NCAA record for shutouts in a season with 22, a mark that had originally been established by the 1987 NCAA championship team. Carolina's toughest matches of the year came in the final three rounds of the NCAA Tournament as the Tar Heels outlasted Harvard 1-0 in the quarterfinals, came from behind to defeat Santa Clara 2-1 in the semifinals as Lorrie Fair and Robin Confer scored second-half goals and then blanked UConn 2-0 in the title game on goals by Cindy Parlow and Robin Confer.

The 1998 team was an outstanding one although it failed to win the national championship. Led by seniors Cindy Parlow, Siri Mullinix and Tiffany Roberts, the Tar Heels won the first 24 games of the season heading into the NCAA College Cup at Greensboro, N.C. Carolina defeated Portland 1-0 in the semifinals on Meredith Florance's goal in the 150th minute of play, just 22 seconds before the match was going into penalty kicks to decide which team would advance to the finals. In the championship game, Florida scored in the first 10 minutes of play and Carolina was never able to produce an equalizer.

Reclaiming the Crown

The 1999 campaign started in unsettling fashion as Carolina lost two games in September and stood 6-2 just eight games into the season. It was the first time Carolina had lost two games in the same season since 1985.

But a strong senior class, led by National Player of the Year Lorrie Fair and which also included Rebekah McDowell, Lindsay Stoecker and Beth Sheppard, rallied the troops. Over the final 13 games of the season, Carolina allowed only only goal. The signature Tar Heel defense, keyed by Fair and Stoecker, and featuring first-team All-America Danielle Borgman and freshman goalkeeper Jenni Branam refused to let Carolina lose down the season's stretch run. Carolina won its 11th straight ACC championship and it capped the season with brilliant play in the NCAA College Cup, beating Penn State 2-0 in the semifinals to avenge a regular-season loss to the Nittany Lions and Notre Dame 2-0 in the championship game. Junior Meredith Florance and senior midfielder Beth Sheppard scored the goals in the championship game for Carolina.

In 2000, the Tar Heels won their 12th successive ACC championship and its 17th national championship. UNC's three losses marked only the second time in history Carolina had lost more than two times in a single year, the other previous instance being 1980. All three losses came on the road against ACC teams and in each of the one-goal losses. the Tar Heels surrendered a goal on a penalty kick. Prior to 2000, the Tar Heels had lost only one ACC game in their history. UNC rebounded to sweep three opponents easily in the ACC Tournament, avenging its regular-season loss to Florida State in the semifinals 3-0 and winning against Duke 4-0 in the finals. Seeded fifth entering the NCAA Tournament, its lowest seed ever, UNC beat Wake Forest 5-0 in the second round, avenging another of its regular season losses. In three of the last four games of the NCAA Tournament, the Tar Heels had to rally from 1-0 deficits with less than 25 minutes to play in regulation. Carolina beat Virginia 2-1 in the NCAA Tournament third round on late goals by Laurie Schwoy and Meredith Florance and then rolled past Connecticut 3-0 in the quarterfinals behind a pair of goals by National Player of the Year Meredith Florance. The Tar Heels rallied to beat top-seeded Notre Dame 2-1 in the NCAA semifinals on goals by Kim Patrick and Jordan Walker and then overcame UCLA 2-1 in the national championship game. Freshmen scored the winning goals in the final two games of the season, both in the final 10 minutes of play. Jordan Walker scored to beat Notre Dame in the semifinals and Catherine Reddick had the game-winner in the title game after Florance had tied the match with less than 15 minutes to play.

Casey Nogueira's magical goal from a sharp angle with two minutes to play lifted Carolina past Notre Dame 2-1 in the 2008 NCAA final in Cary, N.C.

2003 Team Excels With Aplomb

Despite brilliant regular seasons and a pair of ACC championships, UNC went without NCAA titles in both 2001 and 2002, losing both times to Santa Clara. The Broncos beat the Heels in the championship game in 2001 and in the semifinals in 2002 by 1-0 and 2-1 scores, respectively.

The Tar Heels returned to the throne of college soccer in 2003 with one of the best teams, if not the best team, in the history of the game. For the first time since 1993, when the Tar Heels also accomplished the feat, a collegiate women's soccer team completed a season with an undefeated and untied record as the Tar Heels matched the NCAA record for wins in a season by finishing 27-0.

In three of the first six matches of the campaign, UNC had to go to overtime to win road games against Washington, Texas and Texas A&M. Lori Chalupny scored the game winner at UW and Maggie Tomecka and Libby Guess had game-winners in the Lone Star State matchups.

UNC was led by an impressive offensive array of talent which was spearheaded by co-National Player of the Year Lindsay Tarpley, who led the nation in total points with 73 and in assists with 27. Tarpley became the first player since Mia Hamm in 1993 to be named ACC Player of the Year and ACC Tournament MVP while also leading the ACC in scoring. Tarpley's 19 points in the NCAA Tournament were a record, highlighted by 11 assists, a record in NCAA play in a single tournament.

Senior forward Alyssa Ramsey finished with 10 goals and 25 assists, the second-highest total of assists in the nation, and consensus National Freshman of the Year Heather O'Reilly shook off the effects of a broken leg suffered in June by scoring 13 goals in the final 12 games of the season, including eight tallies in UNC's six NCAA Tournament contests, the most goals ever scored by a Tar Heel in a single NCAA Tournament. O'Reilly won NCAA Tournament offensive MVP honors and Catherine Reddick won the defensive award. Three Tar Heels earned All-America honors on defense including Honda Sports Award for Soccer and Hermann Trophy winner Catherine Reddick, a consensus first-team All-America choice. Senior Carmen Watley also copped All-America honors as did sophomore goalkeeper Aly Winget who finished second in the nation in goals against average and posted 16 solo shutouts, an ACC season record.

UNC outscored its opponents 113-11 on the season and was at its best in NCAA play when it scored 32 goals while not allowing a single tally in six games, a tournament record for defensive prowess. Carolina's opposition in the Tournament was not easy as the Tar Heels had to beat four conference champions en route to the title while beating No. 3 Santa Clara in the quarterfinals and No. 2 UCLA in the semifinals by identical 3-0 scores.

The 2004 and 2005 seasons produced another two ACC regular season titles for Carolina as well as an ACC Tournament title in the latter year. UNC's 10-member senior class in 2005, led by 2003 National Player of the Year Lindsay Tarpley and three-time consensus first-team All-America midfielder Lori Chalupny, finished its career with only four losses. The class also included All-America midfielder Kacey White and All-America defender Kendall Fletcher and goalkeeper Aly Winget, who set an ACC record with 35 career solo shutouts.

The 2006 Freshmen Lead Carolina To Another Golden Era

Carolina returned to the top rung of college soccer in 2006 with a team that started seven freshmen in the second half of the NCAA championship game against Notre Dame. UNC lost its season opener at Texas A&M 1-0 in double overtime, its first loss in a lidlifter since 1983. A week later, standing at 2-1, the Heels trailed UConn 2-0 at halftime before rallying for a 3-2 win with three second-half goals. That second 45 minutes of soccer turned the Tar Heels' season around and sent them on the way to a 10-0 ACC mark and a thrilling overtime win over Florida State 2-1 in the ACC championship game on a goal by senior Libby Guess. Altogether, the freshman-laden squad ran off wins in its final 27 matches of the campaign. In the NCAA Tournament, the Tar Heels rallied to beat Texas A&M in the quarterfinals on three second-half goals, scored two goals in the final seven minutes to beat UCLA in the semifinals and beat No. 1 Notre Dame 2-1 in the championship contest. Both Yael Averbuch and Heather O'Reilly earned national player of the year awards and O'Reilly was the offensive MVP of the College Cup for the second time.

After a 19-4-1 season in 2007, Carolina returned to the top of the college soccer ranks in 2008 as it won its 20th national championship. Consensus National Player of the Year Casey Nogueira led the nation with 25 goals and her two goals in the second half of the NCAA title game rallied the Tar Heels past No. 1-ranked Notre Dame 2-1. Carolina, which finished the year 25-1-2, had to beat undefeated teams in both the NCAA semifinals and finals as UCLA and Notre Dame both headed into the College Cup without having lost in 2008. Carolina also won the ACC Tournament without allowing a goal in three games. UNC needed a goal in double overtime by Ali Hawkins to rally past Texas A&M 2-1 in the NCAA quarterfinals at Fetzer Field and then a week later it beat UCLA 1-0 in the semifinals on a penalty kick goal by Yael Averbuch. Notre Dame scored in the opening minute of the national championship match but Nogueira tied the score on a free kick early in the second half and then won the game with a spectacular, world class goal from a near impossible angle with just over two minutes left on the clock.

UNC's NCAA title run in 2009 was fueled first and foremost by defense. UNC posted 19 shutouts in 27 games and allowed only 12 goals all season. A preseason No. 1 team with 11 players returning with starting experience, Carolina beat eventual NCAA semifinalist UCLA 7-2 in the season opener. In the fourth game of the season, the Tar Heels defeated Notre Dame 6-0 in the debut of the Fighting Irish's new soccer stadium. By midseason, the Tar Heels were not clicking on all cylinders, however. Nogueira was struggling with her scoring touch while Tobin Heath and Ashlyn Harris missed time with the National Team. A season-ending injury to Nikki Washington was a huge setback and Ali Hawkins and Courtney Jones also missed time with injuries. Carolina lost three times in the regular season in ACC road games to Virginia Tech, Florida State and Miami but rebounded to win the ACC Tournament with a 3-0 win over Florida State in the final as Nogueira scored twice and was named MVP. In the end, the defense of National Player of the Year Whitney Engen, Kristi Eveland and Rachel Givan and goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris carried the Tar Heels to shutouts in 10 of the last 11 games of the season. In the College Cup, UNC held Notre Dame and undefeated and untied Stanford to no goals in 180 minutes of play. Nogueira had the game-winner against the Fighting Irish in the semifinals off an assist by freshman Lucy Bronze and then Jessica McDonald scored less than three minutes into the championship game to provide the scoring in the two 1-0 triumphs.

A Most Unlikely Title in 2012

Carolina won its 22nd national championship in 2012 but to say the least it was the most improbable of the group. Due to injuries to key players and National Team commitments by four starting players, the Tar Heels never found their chemistry in the regular season and finished 10-5-2 heading into NCAA play. Fortunately UNC had played the nation's toughest schedule and earned a No. 2 seed in the NCAA Tournament even after losing in the ACC Tournament quarterfinals to Virginia 1-0 in a game in which the Tar Heels did not have a shot on goal.

With 13 days off between the ACC Tournament loss and the start of the NCAA Tournament, UNC regrouped and eased past Radford and Illinois before facing No. 3 seed Baylor in the third round. The Bears led for most of the game before Crystal Dunn tied the contest with less than nine minutes remaining. The game would go to penalty kicks where UNC prevailed 4-2, only its second win ever in a penalty kick shootout. UNC would then meet No. 1 seeds BYU, Stanford and Penn State in the next three rounds. The Tar Heels won in Provo 2-1 in double overtime on a pair of goals by Crystal Dunn and a remarkable back save by Brooke Elby which denied what seemed a sure Cougar goal in the first overtime period.

In the College Cup in San Diego, UNC denied top-ranked Stanford a second straight title as Carolina won 1-0 in double overtime on a goal by Kealia Ohai, assisted by Crystal Dunn and Katie Bowen. Two days later in the championship game, UNC dominated the second half against Big Ten champion Penn State, outscoring the Nittany Lions 3-0 after intermission in a 4-1 win. Ohai put the Tar Heels up less than two minutes into the game before Hanna Gardner and Satara Murray tallied off corner kicks and senior Ranee Premji added an insurance goal.

Both Crystal Dunn and senior midfielder Amber Brooks won national player of the year honors with Dunn becoming the first UNC recipient of the Hermann Trophy since Cat Reddick in 2003. Dunn also won the Garber Award as ACC Female Athlete of the Year. Ohai and Satara Murray were the NCAA Tournament MVPs and three Tar Heels played on the gold medal winning U20 World Cup Team (Dunn, Ohai and Bryane Heaberlin) while Heath and O'Reilly mined Olympic gold for the USA in 2012 in London.

After losing in the NCAA quarterfinals with a magnificent team in 2013, UNC exited early in the from post-season play the following two years. The 2016 season proved special as Dorrance's team made an improbable run to the College Cup after a midseason slump. Senior Lindsey Harris set a school record for saves in a season with 89 and freshman forward Madison Schultz scored five game-winning goals in the last nine games of the season. UNC reached the ACC championship match and the NCAA semifinals.

As Carolina prepares for the 2017 season the challenge for Dorrance will be to try to improve upon numbers which are already staggering in nature, including an 809-67-36 overall record, a 349-27-11 all-time record in home games, a total of 568 defensive shutouts in the 912 games while being shut out offensively in only 52 of 912 games.

The senior class of 2012 celebrates the return of the NCAA championship trophy to Chapel Hill after a three-year absence.

Note On Overtime Games
From 1979-1997, overtime games were formatted to include 2 mandated 15-minute overtime periods played out in their entirety. So all games indicated as overtime games during those 19 years are indicated with a 2OT designation and were all decided in 2 mandatory 15-minute periods. Beginning in 1998, the overtime process was changed to a golden goal format with the exception of ACC and NCAA Tournament games. A goal scored in overtime ended the contest at that point in time. In 1999, the golden goal format went into effect for ACC Tournament and NCAA Tournament games as well. In 1998-2001, overtime periods were 15 minutes in length. Beginning in 2002, the process remained golden goal but the overtime periods were reduced to 10 minutes in length. From 1999 to the present, games that went to overtime are listed as either OT or 2OT depending on when the golden goal was scored. The 1998 NCAA semifinal match versus Portland was a four overtime sudden death match. The game would have gone to penalty kicks after the fourth overtime period. Games with penalty kicks outcomes are only relevant for ACC Tournament and NCAA Tournament play when the games have ended in ties after regulation and the mandatory overtime periods.

Note: One game in UNC history has not gone the regulation 90 minutes. In a contest at Notre Dame in 1997, UNC and the Fighting Irish played to a 2-2 tie in a match that was ended in the 72nd due to repeated lightning delays.

Note: Beginning the 2017 season, North Carolina has played 912 games.

During that time, UNC has won 809 contests, lost 67 contests and played to 36 ties.

The NCAA recognizes only solo shutouts for individual statistical purposes. A shared shutout goes down as a team shutout but is not credited to any individual. Despite extensive records research by UNC Athletic Communications, determining the goalkeepers who played in shutout games in 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982, 1984, 1985, 1987 and 1988 did not yield complete and accurate results.

UNC and the U.S. Women's National Team

Since the founding of the U.S. Women's National Team in 1985, Carolina players have played an integral role in the team's success. A total of 57 UNC players have earned caps playing on the USWNT since its creation in 1985 through the conclusion of the 2016 calendar year.

The summer of 2015 proved to be an especially exciting time for Carolina women's soccer players as nine competed in the FIFA World Cup in Canada. Six former Tar Heels were members of the U.S. Team - Lori Chalupny, Whitney Engen, Ashlyn Harris, Tobin Heath, Meghan Klingenberg and Heather O'Reilly. Former Tar Heels Robyn Gayle (Canada) and Lucy Bronze (England) and then UNC senior Katie Bowen (New Zealand) also competed in the World Cup.

The six Tar Heels on the U.S. team were a key part of the American side which won the U.S.'s first World Cup crown since 1999. Klingenberg started on defense and played every minute of the tournament while Heath started in the midfield for the United States and scored a goal in the 5-2 championship game victory over Japan. Bronze started for the England team which won third place in the tournament, its first ever World Cup medal, while Bowen started for New Zealand in the midfield. Both Klingenberg and Bronze were named to the FIFA World Cup Best XI for 2015, the equivalent of the All-Tournament Team. The Americans ran through the tournament unbeaten with only a draw in group play against Sweden marring their record. In that game Klingenberg made a near miraculous back save in the closing minutes to maintain the tie. In the knockout phase the U.S. beat Colombia, China, Germany and Japan to win the gold medal and become the first nation in history to win three World Cups on the women's side.

Three Tar Heels — Heather O'Reilly, Tobin Heath and Meghan Klingenberg (alternate) — played for the U.S. in the 2012 Olympic Games in London and were rewarded with gold medals after astonishingly dramatic wins over Canada in the semifinals and Japan in the final. It was the third gold medal for O'Reilly and the second for Heath. The Americans have won the Olympic gold medal in four of the six competitions since the inaugural event in 1996, including three in a row in 2004, 2008 and 2012.

O'Reilly and Heath were also members of the 2011 U.S. World Cup Team which claimed the silver medal in the event in Germany. Lindsey Tarpley was also named to the roster for that team in May 2011 but shortly thereafter tore an ACL and had to miss the competition. 1987 UNC alumna Marcia McDermott was an assistant coach for the 2011 U.S. World Cup Team.

Chalupny, O'Reilly, Heath and Tarpley were all on the U.S. Team which played in the 2008 Olympics in China as the team won its second straight Olympic gold medal and its third overall.

The U.S. National Team was coached by 1987 UNC alumna April Heinrichs from 2000-05. Heinrichs retired as the team's coach after leading the Americans to the 2004 Olympic gold medal in Athens, Greece.

One of the top highlights of all the National Team's events over the past 32 years was the play of the U.S. World Cup Team which recaptured the World Cup championship with a 5-4 penalty kick shootout victory over China in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., on July 10, 1999. Rarely has any athletic team captured the imagination of the American public as that team did. Forty percent of the U.S. roster was comprised of graduates of Carolina's program led by starting forwards Mia Hamm and Cindy Parlow, starting midfielder Kristine Lilly and starting defender Carla Overbeck, the team's captain. Reserve roles were played by midfielders Tisha Venturini and Tiffany Roberts, defender Lorrie Fair and goalkeeper Tracy Noonan.

Parlow tallied the game-winner as the U.S. ousted Brazil 2-0 in the semifinals. After battling China to a 0-0 tie through 120 minutes of play in the final, the U.S. triumphed 5-4 on penalty kicks with Tar Heels Overbeck, Lilly and Hamm providing three of the five successful chances from the 12-yard spot in the penalty shootout.

American teams have medaled in all six World Cups ever played, taking gold in 1991, 1999 and 2015, silver in 2011 and bronze in 1995, 2003 and 2007.

In the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece, the U.S. reclaimed the gold medal it had relinquished to Norway in 2000 when the U.S. settled for silver after an overtime loss in the gold medal match. That squad was coached by Heinrichs and six Tar Heels played on the squad, including Hamm, who was competing in her final major international event before retiring from the sport. During the Olympic Tournament, Lilly and Parlow continued as veteran mainstays of the team and they were joined by three younger generation Tar Heels – Cat Whitehill, Heather O'Reilly and Lindsay Tarpley. O'Reilly scored the game-winning golden goal in overtime as the U.S. beat Germany 2-1 in the semifinals and then Tarpley scored the opening goal of the match as the Americans beat Brazil 2-1 in overtime for the gold medal. Tar Heel players accounted for seven of the 12 goals scored by the U.S. in the 2004 Olympics.

Tar Heel head coach Anson Dorrance was one of the chief architects of the national team's amazing success. He began coaching the team in 1986 and he served in that role for eight years before retiring in 1994 to concentrate on his work as the Tar Heels' head coach. During Dorrance's coaching tenure, he led the U.S. National Team to a record of 65-22-2.

In 1991, Dorrance took the U.S. Team to China to compete in the first-ever Women's World Cup. Nine of the 18 players on the team were Carolina graduates or active UNC players at that time, including team captain April Heinrichs. The Americans won that initial World Cup, beating Norway 2-1 in the championship match.

Although the U.S. would be dethroned by eventual champion Norway four years later in the 1995 Women's World Cup semifinals and had to settle for the bronze medal, the Americans came back to claim the 1996 Olympic gold medal in women's soccer. The U.S. defeated Norway in sudden death overtime in the semifinals and then downed China in the gold medal match 2-1 before a capacity crowd at the University of Georgia's Sanford Stadium. That U.S. Olympic team featured seven Carolina players.

The U.S. National Team took home the silver medal at the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia with six more Tar Heels on that team. The National Team won the bronze medal at the 2003 World Cup with six Carolina players on that squad and it captured bronze at the 2007 World Cup and silver at the 2011 World Cup.

There were six former Tar Heels who competed in the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Crystal Dunn, Whitney Engen, Tobin Heath, Meghan Klingenberg and Allie Long played for the U.S. and Katie Bowen for New Zealand.

APRIL HEINRICHS
1984 & 1986 National Player of the Year

April Heinrichs was the first of the truly great players in Carolina's storied women's soccer history. She was also the first true superstar in women's soccer worldwide and proved that by being the captain of the first team to ever win a World Cup championship in 1991.

Heinrichs was named a first-team All-America forward in 1984, 1985 and 1986 by the Intercollegiate Soccer Association, the sport's chief governing body at the time. She was also a third-team All-America in 1983 as a freshman. The Intercollegiate Soccer Association named her National Player of the Year in both 1984 and 1986 as Carolina won NCAA titles in both of those years.

Heinrichs particularly excelled in postseason play while she wore the Carolina Blue & White. She was named to the All-Tournament Team at the 1983, 1984, 1985 and 1986 NCAA Tournaments as Carolina won NCAA crowns in three of those four seasons. In 1984, she was tapped as the overall Most Valuable Player of the NCAA Tournament. In 1985 and 1986, she was the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the tournament as well. Heinrichs' performances in those tournaments helped the Tar Heels win NCAA championships in 1983, 1984 and 1986. Heinrichs' No. 2 uniform number was the first to ever be retired by the UNC women's soccer program.

Heinrichs' greatness is evidenced by her place in the Carolina record books. She shares the school record for assists in a game with five against Warren Wilson on October 29, 1983. She is second in Carolina history in scoring with 225 points. Her 87 goals are the third most in school history and she is also tied for eighth in assists with 51.

Heinrichs led the Tar Heels in scoring four times during her caeer – in 1983 with 47 points, in 1984 with 59, in 1985 with 50 and in 1986 with 69 as she led the Tar Heel leaderboard every season she was a Tar Heel.

Soccer America recognized her as the Women's Player of the Decade for the 1980s.

She was a member of the U.S. Women's National Team from 1986-91, earning 47 caps and scoring 37 goals. Heinrichs served as the captain of the 1991 U.S. team that won the championship at the first ever Women's World Cup in China. That team, coached by Anson Dorrance, beat Norway 2-1 in the gold medal match.

After Heinrichs' playing days, she made a transition to the coaching arena. In 1996, she served as an assistant coach for the United States Olympic Team, which won the gold medal in the Atlanta Games. She was the head coach of the U.S. Women's National Team from 2000-05, leading the team to an 87-17-20 record in five years. Heinrichs coached the team to an Olympic gold medal in 2004 in her last major competition as the squad's head coach. As head coach, she also led the U.S. to a silver medal at the 2000 Olympics and to a bronze medal at the 2003 World Cup.

Her first college coaching position was as head coach at Princeton University in 1990, where she compiled an 8-6-1 mark. She then became head coach at the University of Maryland for five years from 1991-95, compiling a mark of 56-40-7. In 1995, she was named ACC Coach of the Year after leading the Terrapins to their first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance. She then served four years as the head coach at the University of Virginia. She went 52-27-7 there with four NCAA Tournament appearances. Heinrichs was named head coach of the U.S. National Team in 2000 and she retired at the conclusion of the 2004 season after leading the American side to Olympic gold. She then coached for one year at the University of California at Irvine in 2006 before accepting a post with the U.S. Olympic Committee in December 2006 as Performance Services Team Leader. In January 2011, Heinrichs was appointed Development Director for women's soccer by the United States Soccer Federation.

A native of Denver, Colo., she graduated from Carolina in 1986.

SHANNON HIGGINS
1988 & 1989 National Player of the Year

Shannon Higgins won two national player of the year honors during her four years at the University of North Carolina Higgins was one of the stars in the early stages of the U.S. Women's National Team and one of the most clutch players in collegiate women's soccer history.

Soccer America honored her with its national player of the year award in 1988 and the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America gave her its award in 1989. She also won the Honda Sports Award for Soccer in 1989.

Higgins played for the U.S. Women's National Team from 1987-91 and earned a total of 51 caps. She was a member of the United States Team which won the 1991 Women's World Cup title in China.

Her career continued as a coach of the sport on the collegiate level. She was the head coach for seven years at George Washington University and six more at the University of Maryland before retiring from coaching following the 2004 season. Her seven Maryland teams combined to go 62-51-10. Her final Terrapins' squad advanced to the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament, the furthest the Terps had advanced in the national tournament at that point.

Before her time with the Terps, Higgins served as the head women's soccer coach at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., where she posted a 69-59-11 record in seven years.

Higgins is married to Sasho Cirovski, the head men's soccer coach at the University of Maryland since 1993 and coach of two national championship teams with the Terrapins' men's program.

As a collegian, Higgins rather remarkably scored the game-winning goal in the 1987, 1988 and 1989 NCAA championship games as the Tar Heels beat UMass 1-0, NC State 4-1 and Colorado College 2-0, respectively. It is a feat unrivaled in soccer history on the NCAA level. In the Tar Heels' NCAA championship victory over the rival Wolfpack in 1988, she recorded a hat trick.

She was named a first-team All-America midfielder by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America in both 1988 and 1989. Higgins was also named to the first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference squad in 1987, 1988 and 1989, winning the ACC Player of the Year award in her senior season of 1989.

The University of North Carolina honored her with the Patterson Medal in 1990 as the outstanding senior student-athlete at the school. Also in 1990, Higgins won the first-ever Mary Garber Award given by the Atlantic Coast Sports Media Association to the female athlete of the year in the conference. She was the first of eight UNC women's soccer players to win the award.

Higgins had a memorable career in postseason play for the Tar Heels. She was named to the All-Tournament Team at the NCAA Tournament in 1987, 1988 and 1989. Higgins was the Offensive Most Valuable Player of the 1988 NCAA Tournament after she scored three goals in Carolina's 4-1 victory over NC State in the championship game.

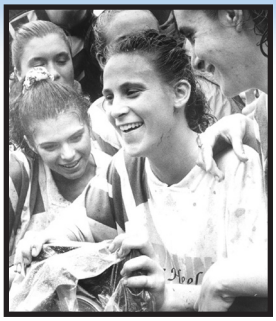

In each of her four years at Carolina (1986-89), the women's soccer team captured the NCAA championship. She also played on Tar Heel teams which captured ACC Tournament championships in 1987 and 1989.

Her jersey number (No. 3) is one of 19 numbers which have become eligible in Carolina women's soccer history for retirement.

Higgins is ranked 16th in career scoring at Carolina with 129 points and she is 20th in goals scored at Carolina with 39. She is tied for eighth in Carolina history with 51 assists. In 1988, she led the ACC in scoring with 43 points. For three consecutive seasons, she led the conference in assists. She had 11 assists in 1987, 17 assists in 1988, and 18 assists in 1989.

KRISTINE LILLY
1990 & 1991 National Player of the Year

Kristine Lilly's tenure on the U.S. Women's National Team earned her the distinction of being one of the most celebrated players in soccer history. Before her retirement from international soccer on January 5, 2011, Lilly had 354 caps with the U.S. National Team. She has 43 more caps than any other player in USWNT history. Christie Rampone ranks second with 311.

Lilly was honored in 2015 with induction into the U.S. Soccer Hall of Fame. She was elected in the first year in which she was eligible for election to the Hall.

Lilly played in her fifth Women's World Cup in 2007, an amazing feat that dated to her first appearance in 1991. Rampone is the only other American to have played in five World Cups. When she retired, Lilly was the second-leading scorer in USWNT history with 130 goals and 106 assists for 366 points, ranking only behind Mia Hamm in those two statistics. She finished her career No. 1 in career starts and caps and No. 2 in goals, assists and points.

Lilly was twice named National Player of the Year at Carolina, winning the award in 1990 and again in 1991. Soccer America honored her during both campaigns, while the Missouri Athletic Club, the Honda Sports Award for Soccer, the Hermann Trophy and the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America all gave her their awards in 1991. Lilly won the award in 1991 despite playing only in the regular season before departing for China to play in the Women's World Cup.

In 1993, she earned the Patterson Medal as the outstanding senior athlete at the University. She was the ACC Player of the Year in 1991 while winning the ACC Tournament's Most Valuable Player award in 1990. Soccer America named her the National Freshman of the Year in 1989.

In postseason play, Lilly was named the Most Outstanding Offensive Player in the 1989 and 1990 NCAA Tournaments. She scored 10 goals and had seven assists for 27 points in nine NCAA Tournament matches in her career. The Heels won NCAA championships in all four of her years at Carolina and UNC compiled a record of 93-1-2 during Lilly's tenure.

She is fifth in school history in scoring with 197 points, fourth in goals scored with 78 and tied for 17th in assists with 41. In 1990, Lilly ranked second in the nation in scoring with 52 points.

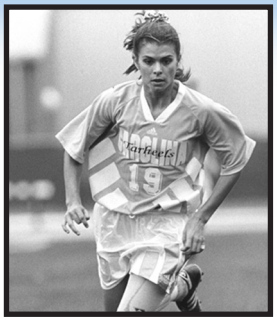

When it comes to experience internationally, Lilly simply had no equal. She participated in more than 80 percent of the matches the U.S. women's team had ever played at the time she retired. That gave her more international match appearances than any other player – man or woman – in the history of U.S. Soccer. The U.S. Soccer Federation named Lilly its Player of the Year in 1993.

Lilly was a member of the U.S. National Team, which won the gold medals at the 1996 Olympics and 2004 Olympics. She also helped the U.S. win the 1999 World Cup just as she had been a key cog in the win in 1991. Lilly scored two goals and had one assist during the 1999 competition. She converted a key penalty kick in the shootout in the final against China as well as clearing what would have been a sure Chinese goal off the goal line in overtime before the match went to penalty kicks.

Her jersey number 15 was retired by the University of North Carolina. She received her degree from Carolina in Radio, Television & Motion Pictures in 1993. Lilly played for the Boston Breakers in the WUSA for three seasons. She returned to professional soccer in 2009 as a member of the new Boston Breakers franchise in Women's Professional Soccer. In 2011, she had her number retired by the Breakers' franchise and the mayor of Boston, Thomas Menino, honored her with Kristine Lilly Day in the city. In 2014, Lilly was elected to the U.S. National Soccer Hall of Fame. She chas served as an assistant coach at the University of Texas and with the Boston Breakers.

MIA HAMM
1992 & 1993 National Player of the Year

Mia Hamm attained the status of being recognized as one of the world's most talented and well-known female athletes in any sport and she accomplished that status very early in her career. More than a decade after her retirement from soccer she is still one of the most respected and admired women's athletes in American history.

FIFA named her the Women's World Player of the Year in both 2001 and 2002, the first two years in which the world's governing body had bestowed the award.

Her fame expanded off the pitch. People Magazine named her one of the 50 Most Beautiful People in the World in 1997. Corporations contracted with her for major endorsements, including Gatorade, Pepsi and Pert Shampoo. Nike named the largest building at its world headquarters in Beaverton, Ore., after her in 1999. She has devoted her life after soccer to multiple philanthropic causes. She remains, 13 years after her retirement, a recognizable icon in American sports history. A modest and humble player, she is nevertheless one of the most charismatic and well-liked athletes in history.

Hamm was one of the stars of the U.S. team which won the title at the 1999 World Cup, an event which propelled the popularity of women's soccer in the U.S. to unheard of heights. Hamm converted a key penalty kick in the victory over China in the championship game.

Hamm was the 1994 recipient of the Honda Broderick Cup given to the Outstanding Female Athlete in all of college sports. She is the only UNC athlete to ever win the award. She received the 1994 Patterson Medal as the outstanding senior athlete at Carolina.

The ACC honored Hamm with the 1993 and 1994 Mary Garber Awards as the ACC's Female Athlete of the Year. She also won the ACC Player of the Year award in women's soccer three times and was a three-time unanimous first-team All-America selection. In 2002, she was named the outstanding female athlete in the first half century of the ACC's history dating back to the league's founding in 1954.

Hamm helped lead UNC to NCAA championships in 1989, 1990, 1992 and 1993. She was the unanimous choice as college soccer's National Player of the Year in 1992 and 1993. Hamm won the NCAA Tournament MVP awards for offense in 1992 and 1993. In 1989 and 1992, she was the MVP of the ACC Tournament.

Hamm led the nation in scoring in 1990, 1992 and 1993, setting the NCAA single-season record for scoring with 97 points in 1992. Hamm also holds the UNC record for assists with 33 in 1992. She scored 32 goals in 1992, the second-highest total in UNC history.

Before retiring from soccer at the conclusion of the 2004 season, Hamm had been a member of the U.S. National Team since 1987 when she was still in high school. She was 15 years old when she first played for the team, making her the youngest woman ever to play for the National Team.

She ended 2004 as the world's all-time leading scorer with 158 goals and 145 assists for 461 points. Her 158 international goals were the most of all-time in FIFA history, male or female, until that mark was broken by Abby Wambach in 2013. Hamm concluded her career on a high note by winning her second Olympic gold medal in 2004.

In 1999, she established the Mia Hamm Foundation to raise funds and awareness for bone marrow transplant patients and families and also to provide more opportunities for young girls in athletics.

She received her degree in political science from Carolina in 1994. In 2003, she was married to Nomar Garciaparra, a former Major League Baseball All-Star and current ESPN commentator. They have twin daughters, Ava Caroline and Grace Isabella, born in 2007, and a son, Garrett, born in 2012.

TISHA VENTURINI
1994 National Player of the Year

Tisha Venturini won championships at every level in her playing career – high school, college, international play and as a professional.

She is one of only three women in history to win an NCAA title, an Olympic gold medal, a Women's World Cup championship and the WUSA's Founders Cup championship. The others were also Tar Heels — Mia Hamm and Carla Werden Overbeck.

Her career at Carolina got off to a fast start as she won Soccer America's National Freshman of the Year accolade in 1991 to complement her ACC Freshman of the Year award. That season, she led the NCAA in scoring with 21 goals and 16 assists for 58 points. She carried the Carolina team in the NCAA Tournament as Kristine Lilly and Mia Hamm were playing in the World Cup in China where they led the U.S. to the first of its three World Cup championships.

Venturini would go on to be the unanimous selection as the 1994 National Player of the Year after leading Carolina to a fourth straight national championship, capping an utterly brilliant playing career on the college level. She was the recipient of the Hermann Trophy and was also named Player of the Year by the Missouri Athletic Club, the Honda Sports Award for Soccer, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America, Soccer America, Soccer News and College Sports.

She was the recipient of the 1995 Patterson Medal given annually to the outstanding senior athlete at the University of North Carolina. She is one of a long line of Tar Heel women's soccer recipients of the Patterson Medal.

In 1995, she also won the Mary Garber Award as the Outstanding Female Athlete in the ACC. She was the ACC Player of the Year in 1994 and was also named first-team All-ACC and first-team NSCAA All-Southeast Region four times.

Venturini was at her best in the postseason in leading Carolina to multiple ACC and NCAA championships. She was named the ACC Tournament's Most Valuable Player in 1991, 1993 and 1994, and, in each of her four seasons at North Carolina, she made the NCAA College Cup All-Tournament Team. Remarkably versatile, she won the Most Outstanding Defensive Player of the 1991 NCAA Tournament accolade and the Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the 1994 NCAA Tournament award. In 14 NCAA Tournament games, she had seven goals and added nine assists for 23 points.

Venturini established a reputation as a clutch player, scoring three goals against Duke in the 1994 ACC Tournament championship game and two goals against Notre Dame in the 1994 NCAA title game as she finished her post-season career in impressive fashion. She led the Tar Heels to a 5-0 win over Notre Dame in the championship game after the two teams played to a tie in the regular season.

She is sixth all-time in UNC history with 69 goals and tied for eighth all-time in assists with 51. She is tied for seventh in points with 189.

Venturini also went on to great success in international play for the U.S. National Team.

She started at center midfield for the U.S. National Team in the 1995 Women's World Cup, and tied for the U.S. team lead in scoring with three goals.

In the 1996 Olympics, she helped the U.S. capture the gold medal. She was also a member of the 1999 U.S. World Cup championship team for the USA. Venturini scored two goals versus North Korea in the last round of pool play in that event.

DEBBIE KELLER
1995 & 1996 National Player of the Year

University of North Carolina head coach Anson Dorrance once called Debbie Keller potentially the finest leader he had seen in his 39 years of coaching women's soccer at Carolina.

In 1995, she was named Co-National Player of the Year by Soccer Digest, and, in 1996, Keller was named National Player of the Year by both Soccer America and Soccer Buzz. Keller won the latter two awards after leading the Tar Heels on a relentless run to regain the national championship it had relinquished to Notre Dame the previous year. Keller's overtime goal in the national championship game in 1996 in Santa Clara, Calif., was the difference in the game.

Keller received the Patterson Medal, given to the most outstanding senior athlete at the University of North Carolina, in 1997. She is one of 13 UNC women's soccer players to have won the prestigious award.

UNC won NCAA championships with Keller as a leading component of the team in 1993, 1994 and 1996. She co-captained the 1996 team and played all 210 minutes of the NCAA semifinals and championship game that year against Santa Clara and Notre Dame in the College Cup. The Tar Heels prevailed against the Broncos 2-1 in the semifinals and then in the championship game, she scored the game-winning goal at the 110:56 mark. After the tournament, she was named the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the NCAA College Cup.

In 1996, she was named a first-team All-America selection by Soccer America, Soccer News and Soccer Buzz. In 1995, she was named a first-team All-America honoree by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America and Soccer News. In 1994 and 1996, she was named a second-team All-America selection by the NSCAA.

Keller was a finalist for the prestigious Honda Sports Award for soccer in 1996.

With 102 games played, she was the NCAA career record holder in that category until it was broken a year later by fellow Tar Heel forward Robin Confer who played in 107 matches. Keller ranks sixth in UNC history in career points with 191, eighth in career goals with 67 and fifth in career assists with 57. Over the course of her career, she scored a remarkable 16 game-winning goals, averaging four a year.

The Atlantic Coast Conference tabbed her as a first-team all-league selection in 1994 and 1995. She was also the Most Valuable Player of the 1995 ACC Tournament. Ironically, she did not earn first-team All-ACC honors in 1996 despite winning two national player of the year awards, a slight that was rectified by her post-season play.

The Tar Heels won four ACC Tournament championships while Keller played at UNC to go with the three NCAA crowns she also won.

In 1996, she was a finalist for both the Hermann Trophy and the Missouri Athletic Club Sports Foundation's Player of the Year Award. Sports Illustrated featured her in its Faces in the Crowd section of a December issue in 1996 after she scored the game-winning goal in the 1996 NCAA championship game against Notre Dame. Her overtime goal lifted the Tar Heels past the Fighting Irish 1-0.

She scored all three goals for the East Team in the 1997 Umbro Select Senior All-Star Game in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The East team defeated the West Team 3-0.

Soccer Buzz gave her its inaugural National Sportsmanship Award in 1996.

From 1995-98, Keller earned 46 caps with the U.S. Women's National Team. She started 14 games in that time and had 18 goals and six assists for 42 points. Keller played on the National Team during an era when it had some of its greatest success in history.

ROBIN CONFER
1997 National Player of the Year

One of the most gifted women's soccer players in NCAA history, Robin Confer had an uncanny ability to find the back of the net throughout her UNC career at the most fortuitous times. She was the stereotype of a pure finisher and that was reflected in her career scoring statistics and the number of game-winning goals she tallied while leading the Tar Heels to three national championships.

The Florida native and 1998 UNC alumna is ranked fourth in Carolina history in total points with 209 and is the fifth highest goal-scorer in school history with 77 tallies. Her 55 assists are good enough for the sixth most in Tar Heel women's soccer lore. Playing on teams with bigger name stars who populated the U.S. Women's National Team roster, it was Confer who was the quiet catalyst behind multiple national championship winning teams.

In 1997, she had 62 points – a total tying her for the 10th most points in a single season in Carolina history. That same season, she had 22 assists, eighth most in a single campaign. The 18 assists she recorded in 1995 are tied for the 12th most in a single year in Carolina women's soccer statistical rankings.

As a senior, she was named the National Player of the Year by Soccer Buzz magazine and Soccer News magazine. Confer was also a finalist for the 1997 Hermann Trophy and a semifinalist for the 1997 Missouri Athletic Club Player of the Year award.

Confer established an NCAA record for games played in a career with 107 appearances from 1994-97, breaking Debbie Keller's existing NCAA record of 102 set the year before. Confer never missed a game in her career at Carolina. She shares the Carolina record for most games played in in a season and most games started in a season with 28 in 1997.

An inspired performance in the 1997 NCAA Tournament led to her being named the Most Valuable Offensive Player of that competition. She scored a goal on a nifty free kick late in the second half to lift UNC to a come-from-behind 2-1 NCAA semifinal win over Santa Clara. Two days later, she scored the insurance goal in the waning minutes in the Tar Heels' 2-0 victory over Connecticut in the NCAA championship game in Greensboro, N.C.

In 1997, Soccer America, Soccer News, Soccer Buzz and Soccer Times all named her a first-team All-America selection. She was named a second-team All-America by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America in 1997. In 1996, she was named second-team All-America by Soccer Buzz and Soccer News. In 1995, she was a Soccer News second-team All-America. As a freshman in 1994, she was named a third-team All-America by Soccer News.

Confer was named first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference in 1995 and 1997 and second-team All-ACC in 1994 and 1996. She was the ACC Tournament's Most Valuable Player in 1996. The Tar Heels won four ACC Tournament championships and three NCAA championships (1994, 1996 and 1997) during her stint in Chapel Hill. She has more career points in ACC Tournament games than any other player in history with 31 and the most goals with 13.

Her 27 game-winning goals are the most in UNC history. Confer netted 11 game-winners in 1995, the most in a single season in North Carolina history.

Soccer Buzz named her the 1997 Southeast Region Offensive Player of the Year and Soccer News named her the 1997 Southeast Region Player of the Year.

Confer is currently in her fourth year as the head women's soccer coach at the University of North Florida. She previously served as an assistant coach at North Carolina, Mississippi State, Texas A&M, Florida State and Georgia.

STACI WILSON
1995 National Player of the Year

Small in stature, but big in heart, defender Staci Wilson was impossible to intimidate on the pitch. Literally impossible. She was tenacious in her desire to win. She was indefatigable. Her commitment to doing what was necessay to win stood as a shining example to her teammates at Carolina.

She is remembered as one of the toughest defenders in the history of both the University of North Carolina women's soccer program and NCAA women's soccer overall. Wilson always made the difficult tackle and pursued every loose ball with ferocious intensity. She played on four of the strongest defensive teams in Tar Heel history.

Wilson was also respected as a top offensive threat from her backfield position and she was always successful at jumpstarting the Tar Heel attack with a well-timed run from the back. She had a knack for both assisting and finishing.

Standing barely five feet tall, she helped the Tar Heels win four Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships from 1994 through 1997 and three NCAA championships as the Tar Heels claimed the crowns in 1994, 1996 and 1997.

In 1995, she was the Co-National Player of the Year as named by Soccer Digest and is one of 19 Tar Heel players to have her jersey number retired by the University.

In her first season at UNC, she was named the National Freshman Player of the Year by Soccer America magazine in 1994 on a team which was senior-laden and won the national title for the ninth straight year.

As a senior in 1997, she was named a first-team All-America by Soccer America, Soccer Buzz and Soccer Times and a second-team All-America by Soccer News and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America/Umbro. That 1997 Tar Heel team was as good as any defensively in UNC lore, allowing only eight goals in 28 games as UNC finished 27-0-1. The Tar Heels allowed only eight goals in 28 matches while playing against the toughest schedule in the nation. The Tar Heel defense was that good despite the fact UNC played a system with only three players in the back in front of goalkeeper Siri Mullinix.

In her junior season in 1996, she was a coaches' association first team All-America and was named a second-team All-America by Soccer Buzz and a third-team All-America by Soccer News. That team lost only one game en route to a national title, a midseason loss to Notre Dame that was avenged in the national championship game as Carolina posted a double overtime shutout to triumph over the Fighting Irish. Her 1995 campaign earned her a first-team All-America selection by the National Soccer Coaches Association, Soccer America and Soccer News. As a freshman in 1994, she was a first-team Soccer News All-America.

Wilson was a first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference defender from 1994-1996 and made only the second-team All-ACC squad in 1997 despite being a consensus first-team All-America that season. She was named to the All-ACC Tournament Team in 1994, 1995 and 1997 as Carolina won league championships each of those seasons.

She also earned honors as a member of the NCAA's All-Tournament Team at the 1994, 1995 and 1997 tournaments.

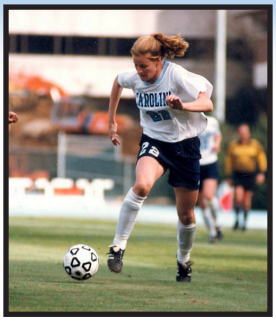

The U.S. Olympic Team tapped her as a reserve for the 1996 gold medal team in Atlanta, Ga. She played for the U.S. National Team in 1995 and 1996 and earned 15 caps, while starting five games.

In the Women's United Soccer Association, she was a starting defender for the Carolina Courage, winning a Founder's Cup title in 2002. Altogether she was a champion at the ACC, NCAA, Olympic and WUSA level, a remarkable quartet of accolades.

Playing high school and club soccer in Northern Virginia, she was one of the top-ranked players in the United States' high school ranks when she was recruited by the Tar Heels for her freshman campaign in 1993-94.

LORRIE FAIR
1999 National Player of the Year

While at Carolina, Lorrie Fair was one of the nation's top defenders, winning National Player of the Year honors following the Tar Heels' 1999 NCAA championship season. Fair was one of the most valuable and versatile players in Carolina history, playing in the midfield, on defense and at striker.

After a solid freshman year in leading UNC to a national championship, Fair was one of the nation's most improved players in the country in 1997 and she followed that year of growth with brilliant junior and senior seasons.

After graduating from Carolina, Fair was one of the founding members of the WUSA as an all-star player for the Philadelphia Charge.

Fair's freshman season at Carolina was an impressive one. Soccer News named her a second-team All-America and a freshman All-America, while Soccer America named her to its freshman All-America Team. Her junior season was tremendous, both for the Tar Heels as a team, and for Florance individually. College Soccer Online named her an honorable mention All-America and Soccer Buzz named her second-team All-Southeast Region. She was named to the NCAA All-Tournament Team after scoring the game-winning goal against Notre Dame in the title game, a thrilling 2-0 triumph over the Fighting Irish. She was also named second-team All-ACC. She started all 24 games for the Tar Heels that season, scoring 13 goals and serving up nine assists for 35 points. Two of those goals were game-winners, and, ironically, both came against Notre Dame, including an overtime winner in a regular-season matchup.

As a senior, Florance firmly established herself as one of the best players in the country. She finished fourth in the nation and first in the Atlantic Coast Conference in goals scored with 26, matching the sixth-highest total in a season for a Tar Heel in history. She also led the conference in scoring with 60 points. Soccer Times named her the National Player of the Year and she also received the Honda Sports Award for Soccer as the top player in the nation. Florance scored five game-winning goals, and, in the NCAA championship game, she netted a goal that tied the game against UCLA at 1-1 with 14:49 to play. Just minutes later Catherine Reddick scored for the Tar Heels and UNC eventually went on to win 2-1, claiming its 17th national championship. In the third round of the NCAA Tournament, she scored the game-winner against Virginia in the waning minutes of the match and in the quarterfinal match against Connecticut, she scored the first two goals of the game in a 3-0 win. Florance was a key leader in UNC's post-season run after the Tar Heels had dropped three ACC games in the regular season.

Florance was a consensus first-team All-America, a first-team All-ACC selection, the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the NCAA College Cup, the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament and the Southeast Region Offensive Player of the Year. Over the course of the season, she was named the MVP of four different tournaments.

Florance is married to former UNC men's lacrosse player Robin Beard who played for the Tar Heels from 1996-99.

CATHERINE REDDICK
2003 National Player of the Year

Catherine Reddick did not earn her first starting assignment in a Carolina uniform until the final game of her freshman year, which also happened to be the NCAA championship contest against UCLA in 2000. Not only did Reddick score the game-winning goal with 7:41 to play in that game, she was also named the Most Valuable Defensive Player of the 2000 NCAA College Cup. Her late season heroics were a precursor of the success to come for Reddick in a UNC and USWNT uniform.

A few months later, April Heinrichs, then the head coach of the U.S. National Team, tapped Reddick for her first National Team cap. From the beginning, Reddick found herself in the starting lineup on defense. From 2000-2010, she earned 134 caps and 111 starts while scoring 11 goals and passing for 10 assists. Reddick is tied for the 20th most caps in USWNT history and has the 18th most starts in a U.S. uniform.

Reddick also carved a niche as a television analyst for international and collegiate soccer for the ESPN family of networks, Fox Soccer Channel and NBC. In the summer of 2015, she was one of the lead analysts during Fox Sports' coverage of the Women's World Cup.

Reddick earned starting spots for the U.S. in the 2003 World Cup as well as on the 2004 gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic Team squad in Athens, Greece. She was a member of the 2007 World Cup Team which earned a bronze medal but she missed the 2008 Olympics because of an injury. Injuries limited her to only 11 caps in her last three years on the National Team (2008-10).

Despite missing much of her junior and senior years because of National Team commitments, Reddick developed into one of the top collegiate defenders in history. She culminated her career by being named the National Player of the Year following the 2003 season as she won the Honda Sports Award for Soccer as well as the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy. No Tar Heel would win the Hermann Trophy again for nine years until Crystal Dunn won the award in 2012.

After being named a freshman All-America in 2000, Reddick went on to become one of Carolina's most decorated players in history during her final three years. She was a consensus first-team All-America in 2001, 2002 and 2003. In each of those years, she was also named All-ACC.

As a senior, Reddick was limited to playing in only 13 matches because of her commitments to the National team while competing in the World Cup. She still scored six goals and had five assists for 17 points. She scored the game-winning goal in the 2003 ACC Tournament championship game on a penalty kick as the Tar Heels rallied past Florida State 3-2. For the second time in her career Reddick was named the Most Valuable Defensive Player of the College Cup as she helped the Tar Heels outscore their six NCAA opponents by a 32-0 margin.

Reddick received first-team All-America accolades following her senior season from Soccer Buzz, Soccer Times, Soccer Post Magazine, College Sports Television, Soccer America and the NSCAA. As a junior, she was named first-team All-America by Soccer Buzz, Soccer America and the NSCAA. As a sophomore she earned first-team All-America honors from Soccer Buzz and Soccer America.

She led the Tar Heels to ACC Tournament championships in each of her four years at Carolina from 2000 through 2003. She played on NCAA championship teams at Carolina in 2000 and 2003.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Reddick was named a 1999 and 2000 Parade high school All-America in soccer coming out of Briarwood Christian School. She was married to Robert Whitehill on New Year's Eve 2005. She played for the Washington Freedom in Women's Professional Soccer for two years before moving to the Atlanta Beat in 2011. In 2013, she joined the Boston franchise in the new National Women's Soccer League.

LINDSAY TARPLEY
2003 National Player of the Year

The 2003 collegiate National Player of the Year, Lindsay Tarpley, had her No. 25 jersey number retired by the University in 2006 after a star-studded career at Carolina and as a member of the U.S. National Team. Despite being injured for half of her junior year and for the start of her senior year, she finished with some of the most impressive career statistics in UNC history.

Tarpley finished her career with 59 goals, 59 assists and 177 points. She ranks 10th in career points in Tar Heel history, is tied for 10th in career goals and is third in career assists. Had she not been plagued by injuries her scoring totals would certainly rank in the Top 5 in Carolina annals in every category. In 2003, Tarpley led the NCAA in scoring with 73 points, the fourth most in a season in UNC history. She had 23 goals that season, equaling the 11th most in a season in Tar Heel lore, and her 27 assists that year are the third most in a single campaign.

Tarpley ended her career with several school records and two NCAA records to her credit based in large measure on her brilliant play in NCAA Tournament games. She holds UNC career records in NCAA games for goals with 16, assists with 19 and points with 51. The 19 assists are also the NCAA record in that category. In 2003, she set UNC school records for assists in a single NCAA Tournament with 11 and in points with 19. The 11 assists in the 2003 Tournament are also an NCAA mark.

Tarpley's banner year was 2003 when she led Carolina to a 27-0 record and was a unanimous choice for first-team All-America honors. That season she also earned a quintet of national player of the year accolades, winning honors from Soccer America, Soccer Buzz, Soccer Times, Soccer Post and Sports Illustrated on Campus. In 2003, she became the first player since Mia Hamm in 1993 to be named the ACC Player of the Year and the MVP of the ACC Tournament while also leading the ACC in scoring.

Tarpley was brilliant as a freshman in 2002, being named national freshman of the year by both Soccer Buzz and Soccer America. That year she was named the ACC Freshman of the Year and earned first-team All-ACC accolades. Most impressively, Tarpley won the prestigious award as the U.S. Soccer Chevrolet Young Female Athlete of the Year.

Tarpley became a member of the U.S. National Team in 2003. In 125 caps, she scored 32 goals. She won gold medals in the 2004 and 2008 Olympics and a bronze medal in the 2007 World Cup. She earned a spot on the 2011 World Cup Team but had to miss the competition after suffering a torn ACL in late May 2011.

FIFA sponsored the first-ever U19 (now U20) youth world championship for women in 2002 with Tarpley earning the captain's armband for the U.S. squad. In sudden death overtime in the championship match, Tarpley pounced on her own rebound to give the U.S. the championship in an exciting 1-0 victory over the host Canadian side.

A native of Kalamazoo, Mich., Tarpley graduated from Portage Central High School in 2002 ranked as the No. 4 recruit in the nation that year by Soccer America. A two-time Parade high school All-America, she was named the national high school player of the year by Parade Magazine in 2002.

Tarpley graduated from UNC in 2006 with a degree in communications. As a senior, she was an ESPN The Magazine third-team Academic All-America as named by the College Sports Information Directors of America. Tarpley is married to B.J. Snow, the former head women's soccer coach at UCLA and now head of U.S. Women's National Team Talent Identification. They have a son, born in 2012.

Tarpley played for four different teams in Women's Professional Soccer from 2009-11. She joined the Chicago Red Stars in the National Women's Soccer League from 2013-15 as her last stop in the pro ranks.

HEATHER O'REILLY

Heather O'Reilly was the top-ranked recruit in the high school class of 2003. She was already playing with the U.S. National Team as a high school senior in 2002 while attending East Brunswick (N.J.) High School. The college career of the dynamic forward would lead the Tar Heels to two NCAA championships and three ACC championships. While in the midst of her time at Carolina she scored one of the most important goals in Olympic women's soccer history, sparking the U.S. to the Olympic gold medal in 2004. She would go on and win a second gold medal in 2008 and a third Olympic gold medal in 2012. Before retiring from the USWNT in September 2016, she played in three World Cups for the United States, winning a bronze medal in 2007, a silver medal in 2011 and reigning as a FIFA World Cup champion in 2015.

O'Reilly finished her college career tied for 10th in goals at UNC with 59 and she was 11th in points with 167 and 12th in assists with 49. Her career was capped in 2006 when she was named the national player of the year by Soccer America magazine while also claiming the prestigious Honda Sports Award for Soccer. She was also named ESPN The Magazine's National Academic All-America of the Year for women's soccer as presented by the College Sports Information Directors of America and she won the Patterson Medal as UNC's outstanding senior female athlete. In 2017, she became the second UNC student-athlete ever inducted into the CoSIDA Academic All-America Hall of Fame.

O'Reilly was at her best in leading Carolina to NCAA Championships in 2003 and 2006, both years being named the offensive MVP of the College Cup. She was the unanimous choice as national freshman player of the year in 2003 and then was a first-team All-America selection in her final three seasons. O'Reilly led the Tar Heels in scoring three straight years from 2004-06 and she was the third-leading scorer on the 2003 team that went 27-0. She had 15 goals, 14 assists and 44 points in NCAA Tournament games in her career. As she was rehabbing from the broken leg in 2003, she had three goals in the ACC Tournament and then exploded in the NCAA Tournament with an 18-point performance on eight goals and two assists. Those eight goals are the most in UNC history in a single NCAA Tournament.

In the summer of 2004, O'Reilly played with the U.S. National Team in Greece in the hopes of winning an Olympic gold medal. With the U.S. and Germany tied 1-1 in overtime of the semifinal game, O'Reilly blistered the back of the net off a Mia Hamm assist to catapult the Americans into the gold medal match. A few days later, the college sophomore possessed an Olympic gold medal after the U.S. beat Brazil in the final match.

In 2006, she led the Tar Heels to 27 straight wins and the national title after UNC lost its season opener at Texas A&M. She was the offensive MVP of the College Cup after scoring four goals and adding six assists in NCAA play. She scored the insurance goal in the 2-0 NCAA semifinal win over UCLA, scored the first goal of the NCAA final against Notre Dame and assisted on the eventual game-winning tally against the Fighting Irish.

Following her senior year she won the NCAA's prestigious Today's Top VIII Award. No Tar Heel student-athlete had won the award since 1984 and it was the crowning jewel of her college career. The award is the highest annually bestowed by the NCAA for athletic prowess, academic achievement and community service.

O'Reilly played for Sky Blue FC of WPS for three years and led the team to the championship of the league in 2009. She joined the Boston Breakers of the National Women's Soccer League in 2013 and then played for Kansas City where she won an NWSL title in 2015. In 2017, she played for Arsenal in the FA WSL 1 in England. She ranks eighth in USWNT history in caps, 11th in goals and sixth in assists.

O'Reilly was married to David Werry on October 1, 2011. A native of Canada, Werry is a 2006 UNC alumnus and four-year letterman on the men's lacrosse team.

YAEL AVERBUCH
2006 National Player of the Year

At the conclusion of the 2008 women's soccer season, senior midfielder Yael Averbuch became the 15th Tar Heel in history to earn the right to have her uniform number retired as a National Player of the Year honoree. Averbuch was a key player on UNC teams which won four straight Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships and claimed national crowns in 2006 and 2008.

Averbuch was a national player of the year honoree when UNC won the national championship in 2006 and she co-captained the Tar Heel squad in 2008 when it again won the NCAA title beating Notre Dame 2-1 in a thrilling championship game in Cary, N.C. In the semifinals of the 2008 NCAA Tournament she scored the lone goal as Carolina defeated UCLA 1-0.

In four years as a member of the Carolina soccer team, Averbuch helped lead the Tar Heels to two NCAA Championships and four ACC Tournament titles. At the same time, she excelled academically, maintaining a 3.7 grade point average while majoring in psychology.

Averbuch started an NCAA and school-record 104 games during her career, never missing a game in her four years and starting all but one game. She finished her career scoring 32 goals and passing for 29 assists for a total of 93 career points.

Averbuch holds the NCAA record for scoring the fastest goal in collegiate women's soccer history. In a game on September 3, 2006 at Yale, Averbuch scored in only four seconds, sending the direct kick at the start of the game 55 yards from midfield directly into the Bulldogs' goal.

A three-time first-team All-America honoree and a three-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, she was named national player of the year as a sophomore by Soccer Buzz magazine. That same year she was the third highest vote getter for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy presented by the NSCAA. She and teammate Heather O'Reilly were two of the three finalists for the prestigious award. She was also the 2006 ACC Offensive Player of the Year.

In December 2008, she was named a recipient of the NCAA's Today's Top VIII Award, an NCAA honor that each year recognizes eight student-athletes who excel in athletics, academics, leadership and community service. She is only the third Tar Heel athlete to win the award since 1984 and the second UNC women's soccer player to win the honor, joining Heather O'Reilly who won in 2006.

Averbuch was named the 2008 ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America of the Year for women's soccer as presented by the College Sports Information Directors of America, recognizing her as the top student-athlete in her sport. She was a first-team ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America in 2008 after being named to the second team in 2007 and the third team in 2006. In 2008, she was also named the National Soccer Coaches Association of America Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

Averbuch was regularly named to the UNC Dean's List, was a three-time selection for the ACC Academic Honor Roll and she was the ACC Scholar-Athlete of the Year for women's soccer in 2007 and again in 2008. She was named to the All-ACC Academic Team each of her four years in a Tar Heel uniform. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa while also being inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece.

Averbuch also represented the U.S. as a member of the National Team, earning 26 caps from 2007-13. Beginning in the spring of 2009, she began playing for Sky Blue FC of New Jersey in the inaugural season of WPS, winning the championship in the league's first year. In 2011 she played for the Western New York Flash of WPS and won a second league title as a member of that squad. She played professionally for two years in Sweden for Lkopparbergs/Goteborg FC before joining the Washington Spirit of the NWSL in 2014 and moving on to FC Kansas City in 2015 where she won a second NWSL crown. She is currently in her third year at FC Kansas City.

CASEY NOGUEIRA
2008 National Player of the Year

The consensus National Player of the Year selection in 2008, Casey Nogueira became the 16th Tar Heel in history to earn player of the year accolades. Nogueira was one of the most prolific goal scorers in ACC history and she scored clutch goals throughout her career in the Carolina Blue & White kit. When the ACC and NCAA Tournaments rolled around, UNC fans saw Nogueira at her best.

As both a junior and a senior, Nogueira pulled off the incredible double of being named the ACC Tournament Most Valuable Player and the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the NCAA College Cup. She played on Carolina teams which won ACC Tournament championships all four years and captured NCAA titles in 2006, 2008 and 2009.

Nogueira finished her Tar Heel career with 55 goals and 29 assists for 139 points. She was Carolina's leading scorer her final three years in a Tar Heel uniform. Her standout season scoring wise was 2008 when she scored a national best 25 goals and had eight assists for a 58-point total, the most points by a Tar Heel in a season in five years. She scored two goals in the national championship game that season to lift the Tar Heels past Notre Dame 2-1 in a classic final in Cary, N.C.

Following her junior season, she won National Player of the Year accolades from multiple sources including the Honda Sports Award for Soccer and player of the season accolades from Soccer America, Soccer Buzz, Top Drawer Soccer and Soccer News Network. She was the runner-up for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy.

In July 2009, she won the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's top female athlete during the 2008-09 school year. She was the first Tar Heel to win the award since Cindy Parlow had captured it 10 years earlier. Nogueira was recognized for virtually willing Carolina to ACC and NCAA crowns in 2008.

Nogeuria won first-team All-America honors in 2007 & 2008 and was a second-team All-America as a senior in 2009.

Nogueira, who played her high school soccer at Raleigh's Broughton High School and graduated a year early to join UNC, will go down in history as scoring some of the most important goals in UNC lore. As a freshman, she came off the bench to score the game-winning goal with 6:29 to play in UNC's 2-0 NCAA semifinal victory over UCLA. Two days later, against Notre Dame in the NCAA final, she earned her first career start and she assisted on Heather O'Reilly's goal at 17:57 and then scored the game-winner on a header at 46:28 in the eventual 2-1 Tar Heel win.

En route to winning the 2008 NCAA title, Nogueira was named ACC Offensive Player of the Year and ACC Tournament MVP. In the national championship game against undefeated Notre Dame, the Tar Heels fell behind in the opening minute of play. Nogueira tied the game on a free kick at 51:08 and then she won the game for Carolina with a spectacular goal from the far left side of the box with just 2:06 left on the clock.

In her senior year, Nogueira had only six regular-season goals but she exploded in the post season for seven additional tallies. She scored twice in the ACC Tournament championship game against Florida State while being named tournament MVP. In NCAA play, she recorded game-winning assists in the first round against High Point and in the championship game against Stanford. She scored the game-winner versus Maryland in the third round, had three goals in the quarterfinal win over Wake Forest and again had the game-winner against Notre Dame in the semifinals in the closing minutes.

Nogueira is married to former UNC All-America Zach Loyd, a member of Atlanta United in MLS. She earned five caps with the U.S. National Team, played two years in WPS and was a member of FC Kansas City in the NWSL in 2013. She played professionally in Cyprus for Apollon FC in 2017.

WHITNEY ENGEN
2009 National Player of the Year

Whitney Engen's career is the personification of the fact that persistence pays off. The California native was never named to the first-team All-ACC squad until her senior year but that same year she emerged as Carolina's 17th selection as a National Player of the Year when she won the Honda Sports Award for Soccer. Rarely is a defender honored with such an award, particularly when the competition includes the two best forwards in the nation and the country's top midfielder, her own teammate, Tobin Heath.

But such was the fate for Engen who in 2009 was the ACC's Defensive Player of the Year as well as the ACC's Women's Soccer Scholar-Athlete of the Year. She also earned second-team ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America honors in her senior season as selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Engen has played with the U.S. National Team since her collegiate days and was rewarded by being named as one of the 23 members of the U.S. team which captured the championship at the 2015 FIFA World Cup. In 2016, she was one of 18 players on the U.S. Olympic Team.

Engen, who played primarily midfield in high school in Rolling Hills Estates, Calif., came to UNC in 2006 as one of the top recruits in the nation but she was somewhat overshadowed at the start by the likes of fellow freshmen Heath, Casey Nogueira and Nikki Washington. It would not stay that way for long. When she arrived at Carolina, UNC had a need at striker and Engen stepped in and played center forward her first two seasons. She had 12 goals and 13 assists for 37 points as a freshman on UNC's 2006 national championship team. No assist was bigger than the one on Casey Nogueira's second half goal, which proved to be the game-winner in Carolina's 2-1 win over Notre Dame. Engen again started as a sophomore in the forward line and had six goals and eight assists on an ACC Tournament championship team.

With the loss of Jessica Maxwell, Robyn Gayle and Ariel Harris off the starting defensive line of the 2007 team, Coach Anson Dorrance looked to Engen to make the switch to center back as a junior and the results were amazing. In her junior and senior years, Carolina won back-to-back ACC Tournament and NCAA Tournament championships, posted 36 shutouts and limited teams to less than half a goal a game over two national championship campaigns.

A four-time All-ACC Academic selection and regular on the UNC Dean's List, Engen finally began to earn the athletic recognition she deserved in 2008 when she was a third-team NSCAA All-America and second-team All-ACC choice.

As a senior everything came together for Engen and she was not only the winner of the Honda Award but also was a first-team All-America choice by the NSCAA and Soccer America. She was named first-team All-ACC, the ACC Defensive Player of the Year and the defensive MVP of the NCAA College Cup. Carolina finished 23-3-1 overall and won its 21st national championship. The Tar Heels pitched 19 shutouts and had separate strings of seven and eight clean sheets during the year. The Tar Heels were third in the nation in goals against average at 0.43 and most impressively they shut out 10 of their last 11 opponents including clean sheets against No. 5 Notre Dame and No. 1 Stanford in the NCAA College Cup.

Engen was selected in the first round of the 2010 WPS draft by the Chicago franchise. In 2011, she played for the Western New York Flash, leading the team to the WPS championship. In 2011, she earned her fist cap with the U.S. National Team although she had been invited to training camps as early as 2009. She had 40 caps with the National team through the 2016 calendar year at the time of her retirement. She played her final professional season for Boston in the NWSL in 2016.

AMBER BROOKS
2012 National Player of the Year

One of the toughest, grittiest and most cerebral players to ever don the Carolina Blue & White, midfielder Amber Brooks capped her brilliant career in 2012 by being named the National Player of the Year by Top Drawer Soccer, making her the 18th Tar Heel in history to earn some form of player of the year accolades. That she earned this accolade while playing the holding center midfield spot in UNC's 3-4-3 system is an even greater testament to the respect in which she was regarded by her peers, the media and coaches. She was never going to be recognized for her scoring prowess but her overall field play and leadership was well recognized by those who love the sport.

Brooks bookended her career with NCAA championships as she started in the final against Stanford in 2009 when the Tar Heels won 1-0 and against Penn State in 2012 when Carolina pulled off a 4-1 victory.

Brooks was a four-year starter who played on a 2009 ACC Tournament champion winner and a 2010 ACC regular season championship team. The New Hope, Pa., native was ranked as the No. 2 recruit in the high school class of 2009. She lived up to the hype, not only in a Carolina uniform but also on the international stage as a member of youth teams, including the U20 and U23 National Teams while still competing at UNC. She was the captain of the U23 Team for the USA in 2012. She trained with the full U.S. National Team on a regular basis and she earned her first USWNT cap in November 2013. After graduating from UNC in just three and one half years she played professionally overseas for FC Bayern Munchen on her initial sojourn into the professional ranks.

Brooks served as UNC's team captain in both 2011 and 2012. She was a finalist for the Senior CLASS Award in her final season and earned the highest honors possible from the Carolina Leadership Academy. She was a four-time ACC Academic Honor Roll selection and made the Dean's List all seven of her semesters at Carolina. Three times she was named to the All-ACC Academic Women's Soccer Team. Brooks was the embodiment of the phrase student-athlete at Carolina.

Brooks had a stellar academic career, being named the ACC Women's Soccer Scholar Athlete of the Year for 2012-13. She was a Capital One first-team Academic All-America in 2012 as selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America after being named to the second team Academic All-America squad in 2011.

She was named first-team All-ACC in both 2011 and 2012 after being named a second team choice as a sophomore. She made the league's All-Freshman team in 2009 after earning the starting role at playmaking center midfield at midseason. She started every game for the Tar Heels in her sophomore, junior and senior seasons after starting the final 10 matches of her freshman campaign, nine of which were post-season victories.

During her senior year she was named first-team All-America by Top Drawer Soccer and was a third-team All-America by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. She also earned first-team NSCAA All-Southeast Region honors in her final campaign. She made the All-Tournament Team at the 2012 NCAA College Cup as well. In 2009, Brooks was named a first-team freshman All-America by Soccer America.

In 93 career games, including 81 starts, she had 17 goals and 19 assists for 53 points.

In November 2013, she was one of 10 NCAA student-athletes to be presented with Today's Top X award for athletes, academics, and community service. She was the third UNC women's soccer player to receive the prestigious award, joining Heather O'Reilly (2006) and Yael Averbuch (2008).

Brooks currently plays for the Houston Dash in the NWSL where she is in her second season. She played for Portland in 2014 and Seattle in 2015.

CRYSTAL DUNN 2012 National Player of the Year

Crystal Dunn finished her Tar Heel career as one of the most decorated players in UNC history. Her four-year career was highlighted by enormous success both on the collegiate level and in international play. In 2012, Dunn became the first Tar Heel underclassman to win national player of the year accolades since Casey Nogueira in 2008.

As a junior, Dunn won the Hermann Trophy, the first Tar Heel to capture that prestigious award since Catherine Reddick in 2003. She also won the Honda Sports Award for Soccer, the first Tar Heel since Whitney Engen in 2009, and she was also named national player of the year by Soccer America and by Soccer News Net.

She followed all those awards up by being a finalist for the 2013 ESPY for Female College Athlete of the Year and then garnering the fabled Mary Garber Award as the Female Athlete of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference. She was the first Tar Heel to win that award since Engen in 2010. Overall, Tar Heels have won the Garber Award eight times, all by women's soccer players.

At the conclusion of her senior year, the multi-talented Dunn won the Patterson Medal as Carolina's outstanding senior female student-athlete.

Dunn, a first-team All-ACC choice each of her first four years at Carolina, was named the ACC Defensive Player of the Year in both 2010 and 2012. As a senior in 2013, she was named the ACC Offensive Player of the Year after scoring 14 goals and passing for six assists and leading the Tar Heels in scoring with 34 points. She was the first player in ACC history to have won both the offensive and defensive awards in her career.

As a junior and a senior, she was named a first-team All-America selection by the NSCAA, by Soccer America and by Top Drawer Soccer. She also won first-team All-America honors from the NSCAA as a freshman.

Dunn's 2012 collegiate season was a special one as she started the last 17 games of the campaign after returning from the women's U20 World Cup in Japan. She started the first 11 of those games on defense before being switched to attacking center midfielder where she thrived in six NCAA Tournament games. She scored all five of her goals in the NCAA post-season including the game-tying goal against Baylor in the third round (UNC went on to win in penalty kicks 4-2) and both goals in the quarterfinals versus BYU, including the winner in double overtime in a 2-1 road win at Provo. She then assisted on Kealia Ohai's game-winning goal in the second overtime in the NCAA semifinal win over No. 1 Stanford.

Dunn helped lead the USA Team to the gold medal at the U20 World Cup in Japan in September 2012. She started every game on defense for the U.S., playing every minute of the tournament in pool play and the medal round. She assisted on a goal by Kealia Ohai that lifted the Americans to the gold medal with a 1-0 win the championship game over the German side.

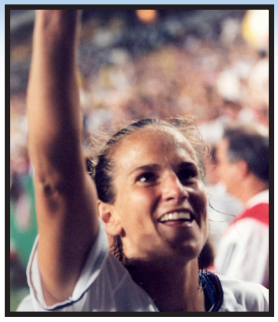

In spring 2013, she received her first call up to the U.S. Women's National Team and became the 51st Tar Heel in history to earn a cap (six more Tar Heels have been capped since then for a total of 57). Playing defense and forward for the National Team she has been capped a total of 54 times through August 4, 2017. To date, she has scored 22 in her USWNT career. Her first cap came against Scotland on February 13, 2013 and her first start against Iceland on March 6, 2013. In 2016, she was one of 18 players chosen to the U.S. Olympic Team that competed in Brazil.

Dunn finished her UNC career with 31 goals and 25 assists for 87 points. She played in 80 games, starting 77 matches.

She was the No. 1 pick in the 2014 National Women's Soccer League Draft, being chosen by the Washington Spirit. In 2015, she was chosen the NWSL's Most Valuable Player and winner of the Golden Boot as the league's leading scorer. She is currently playing in the EPL for Chelsea.

CARLA OVERBECK 1995-2000 U.S. National Team Captain

Carla Werden Overbeck is a proven winner. She is one of only three women in history to win an NCAA title, an Olympic gold medal, a World Cup championship and the Women's United Soccer Association Founders Cup championship, joining Tar Heels Tisha Venturini and Mia Hamm in that category.

While she had an outstanding career at Carolina as one of the nation's standout defenders, her level of success playing for the U.S. National Team in international competition became the hallmark of her playing career. As a member of the U.S. Women's National Team from 1988-2000, she was the sixth-most capped player in the team's history at the time of her retirement, appearing in 170 games. She still ranks 16th all-time in National Team caps 17 years after retiring from the international game.

Winning has never been foreign to Werden, who played on four Carolina women's teams from 1986-89 that won NCAA championships. The Tar Heels did not lose a single game during her four-year tenure, compiling a record of 89-0-6 from 1986-89. The NSCAA named her a first-team All-America in both 1987 and 1988 and a second-team All-America in 1989.

As the catalyst of the defense, Werden led UNC to four NCAA championships. UNC conceded only one goal in the four NCAA championship games in which she played as a Tar Heel.

She earned first-team All-ACC accolades as a junior and senior.

She was named the Most Valuable Defensive Player of the 1988 NCAA Tournament as the Tar Heels defeated archrival NC State 4-1 in the championship game. Her defensive prowess was evidenced by her four appearances on the NCAA All-Tournament team as a Tar Heel defender.

Werden began competing internationally while she was still a Tar Heel. She competed on the 1988 United States Team that won the gold medal at the Goodwill Games in New York. Overbeck was also a member of the 1991 U.S. National Team that won the World Cup in China under the aegis of her college coach, Anson Dorrance. She was captain of the 1995 U.S. World Cup squad, which finished third. In 1996, she was captain of the U.S. National Team that won the gold medal at the Olympic Games, the first gold medal ever awarded in the sport in Olympic history. Overbeck led the American squad to dramatic victories in both the semifinals and finals of that event.

In 1999, she started 22 games for the U.S. National Team, playing 1,764 minutes as she co-captained the United States Team that won the World Cup championship. She converted on the first penalty kick in the U.S.'s victory over China in the World Cup championship match. The U.S. won the penalty kick shootout 5-4 after battling the Chinese to a scoreless tie after 120 minutes of regulation time and overtime. The U.S. defense did not allow a goal that World Cup in either the semifinal or championship round of play.

Overbeck is now in her 27th year as an assistant coach at Duke University. She also played for the Carolina Courage in the WUSA, leading the team to the Founder's Cup crown in 2002. She was a charter member in the founding of the pro league.

She graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1990 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology. Werden is a native of Dallas, Texas, where she attended Richardson High School. She was born May 9, 1968 in Pasadena, Calif. Her husband, Greg Overbeck, co-owns several restaurants in the Triangle, including Squid's, 411 West and Spanky's in Chapel Hill. They have a 20-year-old son, Jackson, and a 14-year-old daughter, Carson.

Overbeck was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame in 2006 and to the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in 2010.

The University of North Carolina women's soccer program was fortunate to call Fetzer Field its home stadium from its infancy in 1979. In its ninth decade of use as a multi-sport facility, Fetzer Field was one of the premier soccer domains in the nation and has been a site where many signature events in UNC athletic history have taken place over the years.

Fetzer Field was officially razed in May 2017 and a new Fetzer complex for men's and women's soccer and lacrosse is being built on the same spot in the heart of the Carolina campus. The new Fetzer will open in August 2018. Renderings of the new facility are shown on pages 84 & 85 of this media guide.

Fetzer was originally built in 1935 with extensive upgrades taking place from 1988-90. The facility was host to the NCAA Women's College Cup semifinal and final games seven times in the history of the tournament.

A Fetzer Field record crowd of 7,212, at the time the most to ever see a women's collegiate soccer game, watched the No. 1 Tar Heels fall to No. 4 Notre Dame 1-0 in the 1995 NCAA semifinals.

The largest regular-season crowd in Fetzer Field lore witnessed the top-ranked Tar Heels' 5-1 victory over second-ranked Notre Dame on September 13, 1998 as 6,024 fans streamed through the Fetzer Field gates.

Large crowds are a regular part of UNC women's soccer history. Carolina led the NCAA in average home attendance five straight years from 1998-2002. Since the NCAA initially compiled attendance figures in 1998, Carolina has ranked in the Top 20 in average home attendance in every single season. Carolina ranked second in average home attendance in 2003 and 2004, stood third in the standings in 2005, 2007 and 2009, ranked fourth in 2008, and was fifth in 2006 and 2010. The Tar Heels were sixth in average home attendance in 2015.

There is no college team in the country that can compare to UNC when packing a stadium. The Tar Heels played Notre Dame in the NCAA championship game on December 5, 1999 before a crowd of 14,410 in San Jose, Calif. That is the largest crowd in NCAA women's soccer history. On August 25, 2006, the Tar Heels played Texas A&M before a crowd of 8,204 in College Station, Texas. That is the fourth largest regular-season crowd to ever watch a game in NCAA women's soccer history. Of the top 31 crowds in NCAA history (regular-season and post-season), 20 of those games (65 percent of them) have featured UNC squads in the matchups.

Given the success of the program it comes as no surprise that the Tar Heels have amassed one of the best home records in collegiate sports history. Carolina enters the 2017 season with a record of 349-27-11 in home games in its history. In those 387 home games, Carolina has outscored its foes by 1,385 goals. In those games, UNC has scored 1,583 times and its opponents have tallied 198 goals.

As dominant as Carolina has been on its home field since 1979, it is a mark of the excellence of the UNC program that its all-time winning percentage (regardless of game site) is .907 and it winning percentage at home is .916, virtually identical figures.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track coach Robert Allison Fetzer, the stadium was the home of Carolina soccer since 1947, the first year that UNC sponsored a varsity men's team. The women's program was started in 1979 as one of the first varsity women's programs in the nation. Anson Dorrance has been the only head coach of the women's program in that time and only five men have served as the head coach of men's teams in games played at Fetzer Field since 1947. Dorrance served as the men's team head coach for 12 seasons (1977-88).

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly adjacent to historic Carmichael Arena on South Road, also referred to as Raleigh Road, the playing field, track and grandstand was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the administration of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. In the heart of the Great Depression, the building of Fetzer Field provided a plethora of much needed jobs to Tar Heel natives who were then suffering through economic depravation.

The facility's renovations over the years made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. Fetzer Field sat in a natural valley in the center of campus surrounded by Carmichael Arena (the home of Carolina basketball from 1965-86), the Michael Hooker intramural fields, the Institute of Government, the Eddie Smith Field House, Henry Stadium, the Navy Field football and lacrosse practice fields, Teague and Carmichael dormitories and Kessing Outdoor Pool.

From early 1989 to the fall of 1990, the playing field itself was reworked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two ticket booths were added to the front gate, a permanent concession stand was erected and a computer scoreboard/message center was installed.

Large crowds have been the rule at Fetzer Field since the inception of the women's soccer program in 1979. The two largest crowds attended Tar Heel matchups against Notre Dame. The third largest crowd was in attendance for the legendary Mia Hamm's collegiate finale when a total of 5,721 fans were on hand at Fetzer Field as Carolina routed George Mason 6-0 in the NCAA title game on November 21, 1993.

Fetzer Field was the home facility for six of Carolina's 28 varsity teams—men's soccer, women's soccer, men's outdoor track and field, women's outdoor track and field, men's lacrosse and women's lacrosse. Fetzer Field was at the heart of the UNC athletic program. It was the home facility for four different sports which have won NCAA championships in their histories (men's soccer, women's soccer, men's lacrosse, women's lacrosse).

The facility was home not only to women's soccer NCAA championship rounds and ACC Tournaments, but also to ACC Track and Field Championships, the N.C. High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics in track and field, men's soccer, men's lacrosse and women's lacrosse ACC Tournaments, men's soccer NCAA first and second round and quarterfinal action, NCAA men's lacrosse tournament action in first round, quarterfinal and semifinal games and women's lacrosse matches in first rounds and quarterfinals. In the summer of 1996, the facility was the home training site for the U.S. Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

The last women's soccer game to be played at Fetzer Field was on November 20, 2016 when UNC beat Clemson 1-0 in the NCAA Tournament third round.

McCaskill Soccer Center

The McCaskill Soccer Center on the University of North Carolina campus was dedicated in a gala ceremony on April 11, 1999. Attending the event were members of the Educational Foundation as well as other University of North Carolina soccer enthusiasts and donors to the building project. Construction on the 6,600-square-foot soccer facility was completed shortly before its dedication.

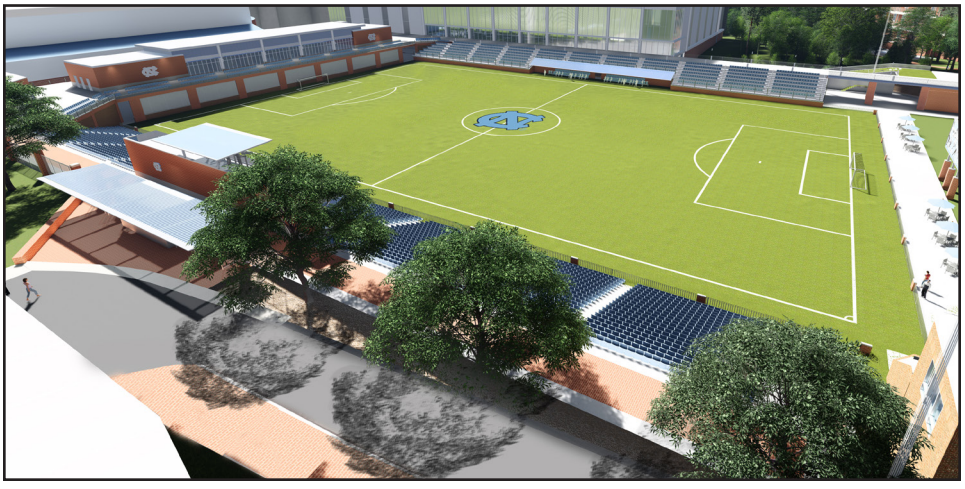

McCaskill Soccer Center will remain as part of the new Fetzer Field complex, providing meeting space as well as museum space for the four programs that play at the facility.

The McCaskill Soccer Center is located on the same site as the former soccer offices adjacent to Fetzer Field. The old soccer offices were located in a building called the UNC Soccer Hut that dated back to the original construction in 1935. The new structure honored the McCaskill family, long-time supporters of Tar Heel athletics.

The two-story structure accommodates varsity men's and women's soccer locker rooms on the first floor as well as a common team meeting room between the dressing areas. The second floor houses coaches' offices for both sports as well as a conference room.

Carolina has one of the richest traditions in collegiate soccer, both men and women. The men's team attained varsity status in 1947 under legendary coach Marvin Allen. The Tar Heel men have suffered only one losing season since 1957. Carolina has appeared in the NCAA Tournament 23 times in the last 30 years. One of the high water marks for the Tar Heel men's team came in 1987 when UNC claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA semifinals under the direction of coach Anson Dorrance.

Under the auspices of head coach Elmar Bolowich, the Tar Heel men's team made great strides during the 1999 season, earning its first NCAA bid in five years. The 2000 season was an amazing one for UNC men's soccer as Carolina claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Carolina went one better in 2001, earning the first NCAA men's

The All-Time Home Record

Heading into the 2017 season, the University of North Carolina has played 387 games at home sites since the program began in 1979. In those 387 games, Carolina has posted a record of 349-27-11, a winning percentage of .916. In those 387 games, UNC has outscored its opponents by a 1,583-198 margin.

soccer championship in school history. UNC also advanced to the NCAA quarterfinals in 2005 and 2012 and in 2008 the Tar Heels advanced all the way to the NCAA championship game as the tournament's No. 13 seed. In 2009, Carolina made a return to the NCAA College Cup, falling on penalty kicks in the semifinals. The 2010 Tar Heels made it three College Cups in a row, advancing on penalty kicks in the second and third rounds and the NCAA quarterfinals. After Carlos Somoano took over as head coach in 2011, the Tar Heels went on to capture their second NCAA title in school history that season and was back in the College Cup in 2016.

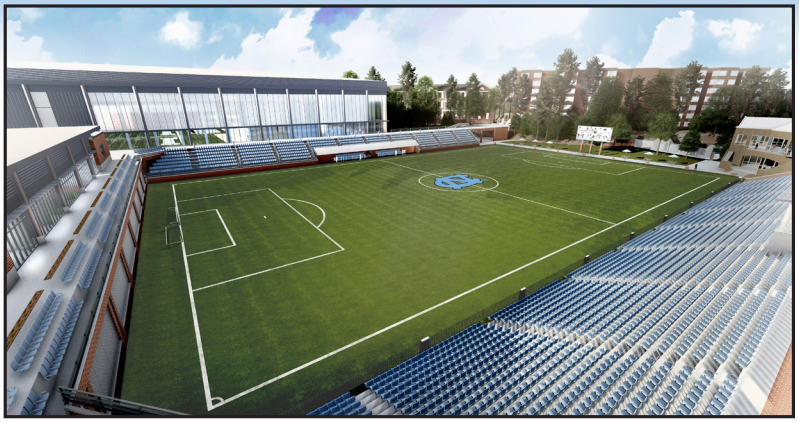

Coach Anson Dorrance's women's teams have comprised one of the most amazing dynasties in college athletics. The Tar Heels have won 22 national championships in the 36 years in which tournaments have been held. The women have an all-time record of 809-67-36. The women have an incredible record of 349-27-11 in home games in their history. In 21 of the past 33 years, Carolina has had at least one player chosen National Player of the Year by a soccer organization. Eight Tar Heels were members of the U.S. National Team that won the title at the 1999 Women's World Cup championship and four played on the 2008 Olympic Team which claimed a gold medal. Six Tar Heels played on the U.S. team which won the World Cup in 2015.

The destruction of the Old UNC Soccer Hut was carried out in 1997. Construction of the new building commenced following the conclusion of the 1997 season. In the meantime, the soccer offices were housed in temporary facilities at Finley Field, the Tar Heels' practice facility near the University golf course. While the new center has over five times more space than the old facility, the expansion occurred without any loss of parking on campus, always a major concern.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Board of Trustees approved the selection of NBBJ Architects of the Research Triangle Park to design the project. Estimated cost of construction was approximately $1.7 million. The project was funded through Athletic Department funds and Educational Foundation gifts. The building was named in honor of Bud and Mildred McCaskill, long-time benefactors of the University.

Together, the new and improved Fetzer Field coming in 2018 and the McCaskill Soccer Center give Carolina two of the best facilities in collegiate soccer.

Tar Heel men's and women's soccer is also already benefitting from the construction of two new grass practice fields located at the new Finley South located just steps off Mason Farm Road in Chapel Hill.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT PROGRAM for STUDENT-ATHLETES

The Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes (ASPSA) reports directly to the Office of the Executive Vice Chancellor and Provost and is uniquely positioned to collaborate with faculty, the Department of Athletics and the campus community to support student-athletes as they excel in the classroom and compete in athletics. The ASPSA helps student-athletes explore their academic interests and abilities as well as provides numerous academic services including tutoring, secondary academic and career advising, assistance with University and NCAA eligibility, and coordination of academic honors and awards. In addition to the Director/Assistant Provost, the ASPSA staff includes 12 academic counselors, three learning specialists, and an office manager.

ASPSA staff members work together to guide and support student-athletes throughout their career at Carolina, beginning with an introduction to academics at UNC during the recruiting process through graduation and beyond. All incoming student-athletes, as well as those in need of more intensive academic support, participate in the My Academic Plan (MAP) program. Academic counselors and learning specialists work with each student-athlete to customize his or her MAP based on academic preparedness, course schedule, and individual need.

Tutoring is available to all student-athletes. The ASPSA employs over 90 tutors each semester with individual, small group, and large group sessions scheduled Sunday through Thursday.

The Academic Support Program is housed in the Loudermilk Center for Excellence, a 150,000-square-foot facility that serves all of Carolina's nearly 800 student-athletes across 28 varsity sports. The Loudermilk Center's largest feature is the John W. Pope Student-Athlete Academic Support Center. This facility provides classrooms for teaching and tutoring, study lounges, office space and a computer lab.

The floor also includes offices for the Student-Athlete Development program, which guides students in personal development, leadership development and career development.

The Leadership Academy provides comprehensive and cutting-edge leadership development programming through interactive workshops, 360-degree feedback, one-on-one coaching, peer mentoring and educational resources.

Carolina CREED Program
Leadership training begins in the first year at UNC. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore first-year student-athletes are taught skills to effectively lead themselves.

CREED Mentors Program
Upperclass student-athletes are selected to serve as CREED mentors, directing discussions and helping to build community. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices and building character.

Rising Stars Program
Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders.

Leadership Lab Program
This level is an opportunity for continued leadership reflection, mentorship, and application.

Veteran Leaders Program
This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network.
