GAME 24 NOTEBOOK
• Carolina leads the nation in rebounds per game (42.9), is second in scoring (88.3) and is fourth in assists (19.7) and rebound margin (+9.7).
• Carolina is 9-1 in ACC play for the first time in Roy Williams' 16-year tenure and the 14th time overall (see the full list on page 3 of the notes). It's Carolina's first 9-1 or better start in league play since the Tar Heels were 11-0 in 2000-01.
• This is the 10th time Carolina and Virginia have played when both teams are ranked in the top 10 in the Associated Press poll (full listing on page 2). The Tar Heels won the last top-10 matchup in the 2016 ACC Tournament championship game and are 6-3 against the Cavaliers in top-10 games.
• Carolina has shot 60 percent from the floor in the second half in four of the last six games – .600 at Miami, .606 vs. Virginia Tech, .600 vs. NC State and .640 against Miami.
• Cameron Johnson is the only player in the ACC in the top 10 in field goal percentage (sixth), three-point percentage (second) and free throw percentage (third).
• Coby White's 33-point performance against Miami increased his scoring average to a team-leading 15.9 points per game, the highest by a Tar Heel freshman since Tyler Hansbrough averaged 18.9 in 2005-06.
• White is the second Tar Heel freshman to score 30 or more points twice (J.R. Reid scored 31 twice in 1987), but is the only UNC freshman to score as many as 33 on two occasions. Harrison Barnes (40 vs. Clemson in 2011) and Tyler Hansbrough (40 vs. Georgia Tech in 2006) are the only freshmen to score more in a game than White.
• Luke Maye has scored 71 points in the last three games (23.7 per game). He scored 20 at Louisville, 31 against NC State and 20 in the overtime win over Miami. It's the second time he has scored 20 or more in three consecutive games in his career. He's the first Tar Heel to do that since he had 27 vs. Michigan, 24 at Davidson and 22 vs. Tulane a season ago.
• Five different Tar Heels have won defensive player of the game honors in the last five games.
