ANDREW DIBITETTO
Head Coach

ANDREW DIBITETTO is in his fourth season as head coach of the Tar Heels and 10th with the Carolina men's golf program. Under his leadership, the Tar Heels finished in the top 20 at the NCAA Championships from 2017-19 and were ranked No. 13 in the country and poised for another bid to an NCAA Regional in 2020 before the season was canceled due to the pandemic.

"Andrew has brought a renewed excitement to the golf program," says three-time Tar Heel All-America, PGA champion and Hall of Famer Davis Love III. "His passion, commitment, and vision for the future has the Tar Heel family engaged in supporting the team any way possible."

UNC has won five tournament titles in his three seasons as head coach (2017 and 2018 Tar Heel Intercollegiate, 2018 Western Intercollegiate, 2019 Turning Stone Tiger Intercollegiate and 2020 General Hackler Championship) and advanced out of NCAA Regional play in each of DiBitetto's first two seasons as head coach.

In eight events last season, which Carolina played in 37 under par, the Tar Heels won twice, and added a second- and two fourth-place finishes. Sophomore Ryan Burnett (70.21) and junior Ryan Gerard (71.08) unofficially set the lowest- and third-lowest single-season scoring averages in Carolina history. Golfweek named Burnett a second-team All-America and Gerard an honorable mention All-America, both earned PING all-regional honors and Burnett was on the Haskins Watch List for National Player of the Year. Academically, four Tar Heels were ACC Scholar-Athletes, eight made the ACC Honor Roll and Burnett and Luis Castro earned Srixon/Cleveland Golf All-America Scholar honors.

"Coach was walking with me last year one time when I was our first player out," says Austin Greaser, who had the third-best stroke average among freshmen in the ACC last season. "We had 113 yards with a side slope left of the pin. He looks at me and says 'One bounce it into that side slope, let it spin down and it'll go in the hole.' That's exactly what happened and I made eagle. It was just a cool moment for coach and me that I'll remember forever. He was so prepared, thinks every shot has a chance to get close and completely believes in our abilities to pull the shot off."

DiBitetto continues to sign and develop some of the most talented players in the country. He recruited and coached players with six of the seven best career stroke averages in Carolina history, including

Burnett and Gerard, who enter the 2021 spring season ranked one-two in career scoring average in UNC history. David Ford, who signed with UNC in November 2020, finished the 2020 amateur golf season as the No. 1-ranked junior player by the AJGA, Golfweek and Junior Golf Scoreboard.

In 2019, the Tar Heels finished second at the NCAA Stanford Regional, which tied the best finish ever for Carolina in regional play, won the Tar Heel Intercollegiate for the second year in a row, had an honorable mention All-America and an All-ACC performer (Austin Hitt), two all-region honorees (Hitt and Gerard), an Academic All-America scholar (senior Joshua Martin), two Academic All-ACC selections (Martin and Burnett) and five members of the ACC Academic Honor.

Gerard set UNC's 18-hole scoring record when he shot a 61 at Notre Dame. Burnett, then a freshman, shot a 63 in the NCAA Stanford Regional, the best round ever by a Tar Heel in NCAA play, and advanced to the fourth round of stroke play at the NCAA Championship.

In 2017-18, his first as head coach, Carolina won the Tar Heel Intercollegiate and beat a national field at the Western Intercollegiate, UNC's first win on the west coast. The Tar Heels were fourth at the NCAA Kissimmee Regional and finished 15th at the NCAA Championship, the program's highest national finish since 2003. Martin earned honorable mention All-America honors and seniors Ben Griffin, Jose Montañó and William Register were PING all-region selections.

Tar Heel players set a number of new standards for Carolina golf in 2017-18: Griffin finished his career with the lowest stroke average in UNC history and earned All-ACC honors for the second time; Griffin set UNC 54-hole records in winning the Tar Heel Intercollegiate with a 19-under-197; Hitt posted the lowest score to par by a Tar Heel in an NCAA regional; Griffin became the first Tar Heel to shoot three rounds in the 60s in an ACC Tournament; UNC won the Tar Heel Intercollegiate shooting the lowest 54-hole score (815) and finishing the best to par (-49) in school history. It was the second-best score to par in ACC history.

Six Tar Heels earned a spot on the ACC Honor Roll and four were named All-America Scholars. Carolina was the only ACC program to have four All-America Scholars.

"Coach DiBitetto has a great ability to motivate his players and teach them to embrace anything that is thrown their way," says Hitt, who finished ninth in stroke play at the 2019 U.S. Amateur in Pinehurst. "These are skills that not only make us better players, but more importantly better people."

"He's really showed me how to dissect a golf course," says junior Dougie Ergood. "Coach taught me how to develop a game plan for each course I played. He taught me how to be aggressive in situations and how to play aggressively smart in other situations. I have so many new shots in my bag that I can hit from around the green that I didn't have before I came to Carolina."

DiBietto was an assistant coach at UNC from 2011-14 and the associate head coach from 2014-17. He won the prestigious Jan Strickland Award in 2016, which is presented to the assistant coach who has excelled in working with their student-athletes both on the course and in the classroom. DiBietto served as an assistant coach on the United States' team that defeated Team Europe in the 2017 Palmer Cup.

The Rochester, N.Y., native was an accomplished golfer at Charlotte, where he led the 49ers to unprecedented success at the NCAA Championships. In 2018, Charlotte honored DiBietto at a home football weekend for his outstanding playing career.

As a junior in 2007, he earned honorable mention GCAA/PING All-America honors after finishing ninth and leading Charlotte to a tie for third place at the NCAA Championships, the school's highest finish in history. His ninth-place finish was the highest to date by a 49er.

As a senior, Charlotte was ranked consensus No. 1, won the A-10 Championship and tied for eighth at the NCAA Championships. It was the first time in school history men's golf posted back-to-back top 10s at NAAs. He set and still holds the records for most tournaments and most consecutive tournaments played (50).

DiBietto was second at the 2007 A-10 Championships and fifth in 2006. He led the 49ers to A-10 Championships in 2006.

DiBietto also excelled in the classroom as a student-athlete, winning Atlantic 10 Scholar-Athlete of the Year honors in 2007, and was chosen an All-America Scholar by the coaches in 2007 and 2008. He was an Atlantic 10 All-Academic team selection in 2006 and 2007.

DiBietto graduated cum laude with a degree in business management and played professionally for a short time. He returned to Charlotte as assistant coach in 2009 and was named the interim head coach for the 49ers in December 2010.

DiBietto played or coached on six consecutive Atlantic 10 championship teams. Charlotte qualified for the NCAA Regionals in 2009, 2010 and 2011, and the 49ers had six players selected to the All-Atlantic 10 team. Five players were named GCAA Scholar All-Americans, three players were selected to the GCAA/PING All-Region team and two players earned A-10 Student-Athlete of the Year honors. Corey Nagy was a two-time All-America, earning honorable mention in 2009 and second-team honors in 2010.

DiBietto (pronounced DEE-bih-TET-toe) was born on Jan. 17, 1986. He and his wife, Laree, have two sons, Levi and Luxen.

Clark helped Carolina sign David Ford in November 2020, just days before Ford was named the No. 1 junior player in the country. Under his tutelage, Gerard shot the lowest round in Carolina history, a 61 at Notre Dame in 2018; two players – Burnett and Austin Greaser – had the highest finish ever by a UNC freshman in a college debut; and three players have shot under 200 in 54-hole tournament, something only one other Tar Heel has ever accomplished.

In 2019, Carolina tied for second at the NCAA Stanford Regional, which also equaled the best finish ever for Carolina in regional play, and 19th at the NCAA Championship, won the Tar Heel Intercollegiate for the second year in a row, had a honorable mention All-America and an All-ACC performer, two all-region honorees, an All-America scholar, two Academic All-ACC selections and five members of the ACC Academic Honor Roll.

"Coach Clark tells his players the right thing at the right time," says senior Austin Hitt, who owns the sixth-lowest stroke average in UNC history. "He is always there to give you a good laugh, but also can knock you down a little when the time is right. I really enjoy his straight-shooter kind of personality and he has inspired me to work on the areas of my game and my life where I needed to improve. His wealth of knowledge in the college game is extensive and he's great to have on the coaching staff."

"Coach Clark challenged me to be more resilient on the course," says junior Dougie Ergood. "He knew me well enough to use my martial arts background to channel my mental game. After I played a shot I wasn't happy with, he'd say, 'no weakness.' He said if I showed weakness in the dojo I'd get knocked out, and the same thing applies on the course in a tournament. This phrase has been a cue for me to re-engage after a bad shot and it's been very helpful to my game."

In 2018, the Tar Heels finished 15th at the NCAA Championship, the program's highest showing in 15 years, won two team tournament titles and posted six other top-five performances. Three Tar Heels earned all-region honors and a fourth was an honorable mention All-America. Six players made the ACC Honor Roll, four were All-America Scholars and one was recipient of an ACC post-graduate scholarship.

Clark was a Division I head coach for 14 years – from 2008-17 at UNCW and 2003-08 at Georgia State. He built both programs into two of the top mid-majors in the country, winning a combined five conference championships. He played at South Florida from 1993-94 and at Alabama from 1995-97, Clark began his coaching career as an assistant for six seasons at his alma mater, where he worked for a pair of national coaches of the year and Golf Coaches Association of America Hall of Famers in Dick Spybey and Jay Seawell.

A four-time conference coach of the year (twice at UNCW and twice at Georgia State), Clark led the Seahawks to 10 team titles, including the 2016 Tar Heel Intercollegiate at UNC Finley, and a dozen individual event titles, including the 2017 Auburn Tiger and Clemson Invitationals. His student-athletes received five PING all-region honors, 20 all-conference selections, three Colonial Athletic Association Player-of-the-Year awards, two CAA Rookie-of-the-Year honors and one UNCW Male Student-Athlete of the Year award. Josh Brock competed in the U.S. Open as a sophomore.

The Seahawks won the CAA in 2011, 2012 and 2013, and played in four NCAA Regionals as a team and had individuals qualify for regional play an additional five times. In 2016-17, the Seahawks posted the lowest team stroke average and had the lowest individual stroke average in school history.

Clark's UNCW teams also excelled in the classroom. The NCAA awarded UNCW the public recognition award in his last two seasons

MATT CLARK
Assistant Coach

MATT CLARK is in his fourth season as assistant coach at the University of North Carolina, where he has helped recruit and coach players that have re-written the Tar Heel record book. Under head coach Andrew DiBietto's and his direction, Carolina posted consecutive top 20 finishes at the NCAA Championships, won five tournaments and excelled on the course and in the classroom.

Last year, Carolina won twice and was ranked 13th nationally by Golfweek when the season was halted after eight events due to the pandemic. Sophomore Ryan Burnett and junior Ryan Gerard earned All-America honors and compiled the lowest and third-lowest stroke averages in a season in UNC history. Burnett had a win, two seconds and a third and was one of 10 players nationally on the Haskins Award watch list, given to the top player in college golf. Those two players enter the spring with the lowest career averages in UNC history.

Academically, four Tar Heels were ACC Scholar-Athletes, eight made the ACC Honor Roll and Burnett and Luis Castro earned Srixon/Cleveland Golf All-America Scholar honors.

for having Academic Progress Rates in the top 10 percent in the country. Twelve Seahawks earned Academic All-America honors, the team received All-Academic honors from the GCAA from 2011-2017 and Thomas Eldridge was the CAA's Scholar Athlete of the Year for men's golf in 2017. The men's golf team won UNCW's Team Leadership Award in 2011 and 2012 for outstanding academics, athletics and community service.

Clark began his head coaching career in 2003 at Georgia State in Atlanta. Clark led the Panthers to two conference championships, six team and 10 individual event titles, and coached six All-Americans, seven all-region players and 12 all-conference selections. He had three players compete in the Palmer Cup, two were named GSU Male Student-Athletes of the Year, and he had a finalist for both the Ben Hogan and Jack Nicklaus Awards. Two of the Panthers competed in the Open Championship.

Georgia State participated in the NCAA Regionals all five years he served as head coach and advanced to the NCAA Championship three times, finishing in the top 20 in 2004, 2005 and 2007. The Panthers were ranked No. 4 in the nation in 2005.

A native of Prattville, Ala., Clark and his wife, Erica have two daughters, Ansley (8) and Graelyn (6 in March 2021).

DR. SCOTT GRANT
Director of Operations, Outreach &
Leadership Development

Dr. Scott Grant is in his second season as Carolina's Director of Operations, Outreach and Leadership Development for the men's and women's golf programs. Grant spent 15 years in different roles in the high school and college ranks as a teacher, head golf coach and director of athletics and facilities.

He's served as an operations and marketing director of collegiate golf camps, while building a junior golf tournament series from the ground up.

Prior to joining the UNC golf staffs, Grant was a full-time faculty member in the college of business at The University of Findlay (Findlay, Ohio), teaching leadership and marketing courses, while also directing an innovative student run agency, @TheOiler10. Grant has worked with over 200 different organizations and schools over the past three years through his leadership development consulting organization – Triple Threat Leadership, LLC.

A native of Continental, Ohio, Grant graduated from Findlay with a bachelor's degree in secondary education. He earned a master's in business administration with an emphasis in sport & event management while serving as the graduate assistant for the Oilers athletic department. In 2017, he completed a doctorate in leadership & policy studies from Bowling Green State University (Bowling Green, Ohio).

Scott and his wife, Elizabeth, have three sons – six-year-old twins, Paxton and Knox, and Gavin, who was born in 2020.

CAROLINA

Tar Heel golf legend Harvie Ward is carried off in celebration after winning the 1948 North & South Amateur, one of the most prestigious tournaments in the country. Ward later won the United States, British and Canadian Amateurs.

Carolina has a long and rich golf tradition with 45 appearances in the NCAA Championships, including three consecutive top-20 finishes in the last three seasons.

The Tar Heels have won 98 team events, including 11 Atlantic Coast Conference championships. Carolina golfers have won 119 individual titles, including a pair of NCAA championships — Harvie Ward in 1949 and John Inman in 1984.

Carolina has 21 top-10 finishes in the NCAA Championship, including second-place in 1953 and 1991. The Tar Heels finished third in 1993, fourth in 1960 and 1984 and fifth in 1978.

UNC posted five straight top 10s from 1949-53, placing eighth, sixth, seventh, 10th and second in consecutive championships.

The Tar Heels finished ninth, eighth and fourth from 1982-84 when the team was led by Inman and future PGA standout Davis Love III. Devon Brouse coached those teams in the '80s as well as the 1990 and 1991 squads that placed seventh and second at the NCAA Championships, respectively.

UNC's latest top-10 performance was in 2003 when Inman, who was head coach from 1998-2011, led UNC to a tie for ninth.

Individually, the Tar Heels have 21 top 10s in NCAA Championship play, led by medalists Ward and Inman. That includes 11 finishes in the top five — in addition to Ward and Inman, Bill Williamson was second in 1953, Buck Adams was third in 1957, John McGough (1978), Greg Parker (1987) and Tim Scherrer (1991) each placed fourth and Joe Correll (1954), Gene Lookabill (1956), Bob Galloway (1960) and McGough (1979) were fifth.

McGough's back-to-back fourth- and fifth-place performances in 1978-79 stamp him as the only Tar Heel with two top-five finishes in NCAA play; Ward and Love III are the other Tar Heels with a pair of top 10s. Love tied for sixth in 1985 and was eighth a year earlier.

Ward won the 1949 NCAA title, a year after he won the prestigious North and South Amateur in Pinehurst. The Tarboro, N.C., native beat Texas's Morris Williams Jr., 5 & 4 in the 36-hole NCAA final in Ames, Iowa. In 1950, Ward reached the third round of match play.

Inman shot a 66 and a pair of 67s in his four rounds to break Ben Crenshaw's NCAA record with a 17-under 271 to win at Bear Creek Golf World in Houston.

Inman also won the Fred Haskins Award in 1984 as the top collegiate golfer in the nation. The Greensboro native later became the first person to win the Atlantic Coast Conference men's golf title as both a player and head coach.

The Tar Heels have won the ACC Championship in 1956 and 1960 under head coach Chuck Erickson, 1965 under Ed Kenney, 1977 under Mike McLeod, 1981, 1983, 1984, 1986, 1995 and 1996 under Brouse and 2006 under Inman.

Thirteen different Tar Heels have won medalist honors at the ACC Championships, including Buzzy Basinger (1956), Bill Thornton (1958), Pete Green (1961), John Baldwin (1965), Marty West (1971), John Spelman (1981), Inman (1982), Love III (1984), John Hughes (1986), Parker (1987), Mark Wilson (1996), Dustin Bray (2002) and Richard Treis (2003). Erwin Laxton won consecutive league titles in the 1930s when the Tar Heels were members of the Southern Conference.

Bray won three events in two different seasons and holds the UNC for most collegiate tournaments won with seven. Love III and Pat Moore won a half-dozen times, Inman, Parker and Hughes were five-time winners.

Moore holds the single-season record for most tournaments won. The Austin, Minn., native won six events overall, including four in 1991, and went on to win three times on the Buy.com Tour.

Three players have earned All-America honors three times — Inman (1982-84), Love III (1983-85) and Max Harris (1998-2000). They're among the 33 Tar Heels to earn honorable mention or better All-America honors.

In addition to success in collegiate competition, Carolina golfers have been successful in professional, international and amateur golf.

Love III has won 21 PGA Tour events, including the 1997 PGA Championships, and the 1992 and 2003 PLAYERS Championship, and played on six United States' Ryder Cup teams and six President Cup teams. He was Ryder Cup captain in 2012 in and is the captain of the 2016 Ryder Cup team. He won the 2015 Wyndham Championship at age 51, making him the third-oldest winner in PGA Tour history. He is the only player to win on the PGA Tour in the 1980s, 1990s, 2000s and 2010s.

Mark Wilson is a current PGA Tour professional and has won five times on tour, including the Honda, Sony and Phoenix Opens. Wilson won the Ben Hogan Award as the top scholar-athlete in collegiate golf in 1996.

Inman won two PGA Tour events and is playing on the Champions Tour, while Bray is playing on the Web.com Tour.

Jim Ferree, who won the 1953 Southern Conference title while a Tar Heel, was a fixture for many years on the PGA and Senior Tours.

Internationally, Ward went 6-0 in Walker Cup matches in 1953, 1955 and 1959. Fuhrer (1981), Love III (1985) and Scherrer (1991) played in the Walker Cup and Inman was a member of the World Amateur Team in 1984. Max Harris represented England/Ireland on the 1998, 1999 and 2000 Palmer Cup teams. Bray represented the United States in the 2002 U.S./Japan Matches and was on the Palmer Cup squad the next year. Kevin O'Connell was the MVP of the 2008 U.S./Japan Matches as he led the USA to a 37-23 win.

Exceptional amateur play dates back more than 60 years to Ward, who became one of the most successful golfers in amateur history. He reached the U.S. Amateur quarterfinal in 1947, won the North and South in 1948 and the NCAA title in 1949. Ward won the 1952 British Amateur, the 1954 Canadian Amateur and the U.S. Amateur in 1955 and 1956. He is the only person to win an NCAA title and the U.S., British and Canadian Amateurs.

Ward finished fourth in the 1957 Masters, seventh in the 1955 U.S. Open and eighth in the 1955 Masters. He turned professional in 1974 and won the 1977 North Carolina Open.

Scherrer, who won the PGA Tour's Kemper Open in 2000, was second at the U.S. Amateur in 1992.

Carter Jenkins won both the 2015 North Carolina and Carolinas Amateurs. Jenkins became the first player in 92 years to win the Carolinas Amateur three times.

Kevin O'Connell, a two-time All-ACC selection in Dustin Bray won seven times including the 2002 ACC Championship and led UNC to a top-10 finish at NAAs in 2003.

Five-time PGA Tour champion Mark Wilson is one of 13 Tar Heels who have won the ACC Championship.

Tee Burton led UNC to a seventh-place finish at NAAs in 1990 and a second-place effort at the national championship in 1991.

UNC played its home matches at Hope Valley Country Club in Durham.

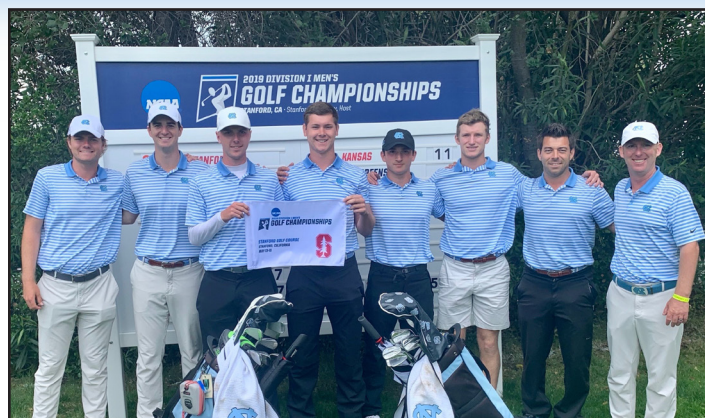

Erickson, a long-time member of the NCAA Golf Committee, was succeeded by Ed Kenney in 1961, whose teams won over 71 percent of their matches during his 12 years as head coach. Clyde Walker served as coach for one year in 1973, and Mike McLeod for four years beginning in 1974.

Devon Brouse took the reins in 1978 and led the Tar Heels to a fifth-place NCAA finish in his first season. In 21 seasons, Brouse's teams won six ACC titles and posted 17 top-20 and 10 top-10 finishes in the NCAA Championships. His teams won 55 tournament titles and he coached 54 individual champions, including six ACC individual champions and an 2008 and 2009, won the 2018 U.S. Mid-Amateur title, earning spots in the 2019 Masters and U.S. Open.

Carolina has had its share of great coaches, as well.

John Kenfield became head coach in the program's second year in 1929 and served for six years. Better known as UNC's tennis coach for 30-plus years, Kenfield yielded to Chuck Erickson in 1935. Later to become UNC's director of athletics, Erickson built Carolina into a national golf power. In 23 seasons, Erickson's teams posted a 182-45-9 dual-match record, won five conference championships, and placed second and fourth in the 1953 and 1960 NCAA Championships. Erickson's tenure was interrupted for three years during World War II when the school fielded no team, but the post-war era produced Ward and A.E. Finley Golf Course was built in 1949. Prior to that,

Carolina has played in the NCAA Championship in each of the last three seasons. The 2019 team (shown above) finished tied for second (behind eventual national champion Stanford in regional play) and placed 19th at the Blessings in Fayetteville, Ark.

NCAA champion.

Inman's teams won 16 events and had 16 individual champions, including two ACC champions, in his 13 years as head coach. The Tar Heels posted 10th-place finishes at the NCAA Championships in 1999 and 2000.

Under Andrew Sapp, Carolina won seven team and six individual events from 2011-17, playing in four NCAA Regionals and returning to the NCAA Championship in '17 for the first time in 10 years.

Andrew DiBitetto spent six years as an assistant coach under Sapp before being named the head coach in 2017.

The Tar Heels won the 2017 Tar Heel Intercollegiate in record fashion, shooting 49 under par. Senior Ben Griffin set school records by winning the event at 19-under-197.

Griffin earned his second honorable mention All-America honor in 2018 after leading UNC to a 15th-place finish at the NCAA Championship.

In fall 2018, sophomore Ryan Gerard shot a 10-under-61 in the final round at Notre Dame, the lowest competitive round in Carolina Golf history.

In 2019, freshman Ryan Burnett set UNC records for NCAA regional play with a final round 63 and a 7-under-203 total that led UNC to another NCAA Championship appearance.

A full-page photograph of a male golfer, Ryan Burnett Jr., captured in the middle of his golf swing. He is wearing a light blue polo shirt, white trousers, a white belt with a logo, and a white baseball cap. He is holding a golf club with both hands, and his body is twisted in the follow-through position. The background is a dense, green, leafy hedge. In the bottom left corner, a white fence post is visible.
