Supporting Carolina Men's Soccer Supporting the Tar Heels

The University of North Carolina is proud of its long-standing relationship with Nike. The two parties signed a new 10-year contract in December 2018 for Nike to continue as the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel and accessory products. Nike will provide the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment.

Nike also gave the University $2 million for the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund to support faculty. This partnership has benefitted all 28 varsity sports and provided millions of dollars for academics and student scholarships at the University.

Carlos Somoano
Head Coach
15th season as head coach
24th season at Carolina

Carlos Somoano enters his 15th year at the helm of the North Carolina men's soccer program in 2025.

Somoano reached the summit of collegiate soccer when he led the Tar Heels to the 2011 NCAA title, becoming just the second rookie head coach in NCAA history to win a national championship. He returned to the College Cup with his Tar Heel squad in 2016, 2017 and 2020.

In 2020, he led Carolina on an improbable run to its fourth College Cup under his tutelage. Entering the NCAA Tournament unseeded, UNC advanced past Charlotte on penalty kicks in the first round, then upset fourth-seeded Stanford and fifth-seeded Wake Forest to reach the national semifinal. Carolina lost, 1-0, in the semis to eventual NCAA champion Marshall and finished the year with a 9-5-4 record.

Somoano has guided 12 of his 13 squads to NCAA postseason play and six of those teams have reached at least the NCAA quarterfinals. He owns an impressive 167-59-44 career record entering 2024, good for a program-best .700 winning percentage.

Coaching History

Somoano was named the 2011 National Coach of the Year by Soccer America as the Tar Heels posted a 21-2-3 mark en route to the national title. The Tar Heels became only the second team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to claim the treble in a single year by winning the ACC regular season title, the ACC

Championship crown and the national championship in 2011.

In addition to his national coach-of-the-year honors, ACC coaches also pegged Somoano the top head man in the league in 2011. Somoano joined former Carolina men's coach and current Carolina women's coach, Anson Dorrance, as the second coach to be named the ACC Coach of the Year in their first year at the helm.

Several Tar Heels earned national recognition in 2011 under Somoano's watch with Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez and Billy Schuler earning All-America honors. Another Tar Heel, Ben Speas, was also named the National Player of the Year by Soccer America.

Five Tar Heels earned All-ACC honors in 2011 with Scott Goodwin, Hedges, Martinez and Schuler being named first team and Kirk Urso joining the second team. Mikey Lopez, Jordan McCrary and Boyd Okwuonu were named to the ACC All-Freshman Team, while Hedges and Lopez were Defender and Freshman of the Year, respectively. Goodwin, Rob Lovejoy and Urso also earned ACC All-Academic Team honors in 2011.

It was going to be a tough act to follow in his second season, but the Heels did well in recording a 16-4-3 mark and came within one match of a fifth-straight College Cup berth in 2012. UNC ultimately fell, 1-0, to eventual national champion Indiana in the NCAA quarterfinal.

The Somoano Era at North Carolina

- 176 overall wins
- 2011 NCAA champion (second title in program history)
- 21 NCAA Tournament wins
- 13 NCAA Championship appearances
- 4 College Cup appearances - 2011, 2016, 2017 & 2020
- Two National Players of the Year - Ben Speas (2011) & Andy Craven (2014)
- 19 All-America selections among 16 different players
- 2011 ACC Champions
- 62 Atlantic Coast Conference wins
- 4 ACC Players of the Year - Matt Hedges (2011), Boyd Okwuonu (2013), Cam Lindley (2017), Alex Comsia (2018)
- 3 ACC Rookies of the Year - Mikey Lopez ('11), Danny Garcia ('12) & Cam Lindley ('16)
- 30 MLS SuperDraft Selections or Homegrown Picks
- 2 European Signings - Billy Schuler (Sweden) & Brendan Moore (England)

Similar to previous seasons, UNC was honored with a handful of national awards in 2012 with Danny Garcia, Scott Goodwin, Mikey Lopez and Boyd Okwuonu all receiving All-America honors. Additionally, Jonathan Campbell and Garcia, the ACC Freshman of the Year, earned Freshman All-America plaudits.

Six Tar Heels earned All-ACC awards during the 2012 campaign. Danny Garcia joined Mikey Lopez as the first Tar Heel duo to be named ACC Freshman of the Year in back-to-back seasons since 1993 and 1994. Additionally, Lopez and Boyd Okwuonu were the only underclassmen in the league to be recognized on the All-ACC First Team.

Academically, Scott Goodwin was the winner of the Capital One Academic All-America of the Year award for Division I men's soccer. He also headlined the All-ACC Academic Team, earning the Scholar-Athlete of the Year award.

The 2013 Tar Heels featured one of the top defensive sides in the nation, led by ACC Defender of the Year Boyd Okwuonu, who also earned All-America honors for the second-consecutive season. Carolina advanced to the second round of the NCAA Championship, finishing with a 9-6-5 record.

Okwuonu led a group of five players that earned All-ACC accolades as he was tabbed First Team All-ACC. Jonathan Campbell and Brendan Moore secured second team citations, while Jordan McCrary was a third team pick and Omar Holness landed on the All-Freshman squad. Holness also secured a slot on Soccer America's All-Freshman Team.

The Tar Heels turned 2014 into another stellar campaign by posting a 15-5-2 overall mark and again reaching the NCAA Quarterfinals for the sixth time in seven seasons. UNC was a prolific scoring team, leading the country in goals (52) and total points (157) and was second with 53 assists. Andy Craven, a finalist for the MAC Hermann Trophy, led the scoring corp with an NCAA-best 35 points and 15 goals.

Andy Craven and Boyd Okwuonu both earned First Team All-America honors in 2014, while Jonathan Campbell was an Academic All-America First Team selection. Carolina also led the way in the ACC with eight players selected for all-league honors, including three first team honorees in Craven, Holness and Okwuonu.

The Tar Heels opened the 2015 campaign unbeaten in its first 12 matches, and in the process set a program record with a 16-game unbeaten streak dating back to the end of the 2014 season. Carolina finished first in the ACC Coastal Division, earned the No. 5 national seed in the NCAA Championship, reached the third round for the seventh time in the last eight years, and finished the season with a stellar 15-2-3 record.

Team captain Jonathan Campbell became the first player in program history to earn both First Team NSCAA All-America and First Team Academic All-America honors. Additionally, Campbell was the ACC's Scholar-Athlete of the Year and led a trio of Tar Heels on the ACC Academic Team.

After knocking on the door of the College Cup for several years, UNC broke through for the program's seventh trip overall, and second under Somoano, in 2016. Carolina won the ACC's Coastal Division, earned the top seed in the ACC Championship and received the No. 10 national seed in the NCAA Championship.

A thrilling overtime winner over Providence in the NCAA quarterfinals set up a heavyweight bout between the Tar Heels and defending champion Stanford. The match was played to a scoreless draw; However, the Cardinal advanced, 10-9 in penalties, and ultimately won a second-straight national championship in Houston.

Cam Lindley, regarded as the top newcomer in college men's soccer, was named the TopDrawer Soccer National Freshman of the Year and ACC Freshman of the Year in 2016. He also earned First Team All-ACC honors, leading a group of seven players named all-conference.

Excelling in the classroom just as they did on the pitch, Alex Comsia earned the prestigious NCAA Elite 90 Award, an honor that goes to the College Cup participant with the highest GPA. Additionally, David October was a First Team Academic All-America in 2016.

Somoano helped guide the Tar Heels back to the College Cup in 2017 for consecutive appearances after winning the ACC Coastal Division for the third straight year. Cam Lindley was named ACC Midfielder of the Year while also being named All-America alongside Alan Winn.

2018 was another stellar year for Carolina, which compiled an impressive 14-4-1 record. UNC advanced to its eighth ACC Championship title game in program history, eventually falling to Louisville, 1-0. The Heels earned the No. 5 seed for the NCAA Tournament but dropped a 2-1 decision to James Madison in the second round after a first-round bye.

Highlighted by Alex Comsia being tabbed the league's Defender of the Year, six Tar Heels landed on All-ACC teams in 2018. UNC led all schools with four players named to the All-ACC First Team, with Nils Bruening, James Pyle and Mauricio Pineda joining Comsia on the list. Those four Tar Heels tied the school record with the 2011 national champion squad for most players selected to the first team in program history. Comsia was also named a MAC Hermann Trophy semifinalist, while he and Pineda were First Team All-American and Second Team All-American, respectively.

Mauricio Pineda was once again named All-ACC First Team in 2019, with Jeremy Kelly and Jack Skahan landing on the All-ACC Second Team. The Tar Heels went 7-7-4 that year, with the season ending after a penalty-kick heartbreaker in the first round of the ACC Championship.

The season being split into Fall 2020 and Spring 2021 because of COVID-19 didn't deter the Tar Heels. UNC made its fourth NCAA College Cup appearance under Somoano and ninth in program history after besting Charlotte, Stanford and Wake Forest. UNC fell, 1-0, in the semifinals to eventual champion Marshall and finished the year with a -5-4 mark.

After earning an at-large bid into the NCAA Tournament, UNC finished the year at No. 4 in the United Soccer Coaches poll. Alec Smir and Giovanni Montesdeoca both earned All-ACC Second Team accolades, with the latter also picking up All-America Third Team honors. Additionally, Victor Olofsson and Tim Schels were tabbed to the All-ACC Academic Team.

UNC produced an overall mark of 11-7-2 in 2021, capped off by earning its 28th bid to the NCAA Tournament in program history with an at-large bid. The Heels defeated Loyola Maryland in penalty kicks to advance to the second round before falling to New Hampshire. Prior to its NCAA run, UNC made it to the ACC Championship quarterfinal where they dropped to eventual national champion Clemson.

An impressive five Tar Heels secured a spot on 2021 All-ACC teams. After leading the ACC with 10 shutouts, goalkeeper Alec Smir was on the First Team with Joe Pickering and Filippo Zattarin on the Third Team. Ken Bellini and Teka Ikoba were also named to the ACC All-Freshman Team.

Before his success as UNC's head coach, Somoano helped recruit six top-10 recruiting classes and was part of one of the most successful periods in Carolina school history as an assistant coach for nine seasons from 2002-10. The Tar Heels advanced to three consecutive NCAA College Cups, including the 2008 National Championship game, and amassed a 118-52-27 record with Somoano on staff. College Soccer News named Somoano a Top 20 Assistant Coach six times in his career as well as the NSCAA South Region Assistant Coach of the Year in 2010.

Somoano also played a key part in developing Tar Heels into professional soccer players. Since his arrival in Chapel Hill in 2003, 40 former players have been selected in the MLS SuperDraft. Included in that group are 15 first-round draftees: David Stokes, Dax McCarty, Michael Harrington, Zach Loyd, Jalil Anibaba, Eddie Ababio, Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez, Mikey Lopez, Jonathan Campbell, Omar Holness, Jordan McCrary, Colton Storm, John Nelson and most recently Jeremy Kelly in 2020.

A Premier Facility

The University of North Carolina boasts one of the finest soccer and lacrosse facilities in the nation. Carolina opened its new, on-campus Lacrosse & Soccer Stadium on March 2, 2019, by hosting a men's and women's lacrosse doubleheader. The stadium was dedicated as Dorrance Field in honor of longtime women's soccer coach Anson Dorrance in Sept. 2019.

The facility had been under construction since May 2017. It is built on the site of the old Fetzer Field, which housed six sports on campus from 1935-2017. The current name of the new facility is the UNC Lacrosse & Soccer Stadium, which is home to UNC men's and women's soccer and lacrosse teams.

The stadium provides student-athletes and coaches of these programs with the facility needed to continue to pursue the championships for which they are known. Fans in the stadium can enjoy a much-improved gameday experience with new seating, concession areas, restrooms and amenities. The stadium will also bring fans closer to the field. The stadium features:

- A natural grass playing field
- A full program facility (the building provides offices, team meeting areas and locker rooms for both soccer programs and women's lacrosse, while the men's lacrosse team's facilities will remain in the Loudermill Center)
- Hall of Honor (the success of these programs will be celebrated in a new Hall of Honor in a fully renovated McCaskill Center)
- 4,200 individual chair back seats
- New concessions and restrooms
- New LED scoreboard/video board

In the Heart of Campus

The Soccer & Lacrosse Stadium is located in the heart of central campus on the current footprint of Fetzer Field. The stadium connects on its south end with the Football Practice Complex, providing a needed and attractive connection between the southeast side of campus and central campus.

A host of numerous ACC Championship, NCAA Championship and Final Four matches over its illustrious history, Fetzer Field has long been one of the nation's most storied soccer facilities. With the 1999 relocation of the UNC soccer offices to the McCaskill Soccer Center adjacent to Fetzer Field, Carolina enjoys perhaps the finest overall facility in all of college soccer.

Fetzer Field, which boasts a capacity of 5,025 fans, is the home to UNC's men's and women's soccer, men's and women's lacrosse and men's and women's outdoor track and field teams.

The dedication of the McCaskill Soccer Center on April 11, 1999, solidified Fetzer Field's elite status among soccer facilities. The Center is a two-story structure that houses locker rooms for the men's and women's soccer teams as well as a team meeting room, coaches' offices and a large conference room. Total costs on the project were $1.8 million. Fetzer Field was originally completed in 1935 as a Works Projects Administration program.

The facility has been home not only to NCAA and ACC Soccer Championships, but also to several ACC Track and Field Championships, the N.C. High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics and men's lacrosse NCAA and ACC Tournaments. In 1996, the facility was the home training site for the United States Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta. In 2001, it was home to the Carolina Courage of the WUSA.

History

Fetzer Field, named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track and field head coach Bob Fetzer, was the only home the North Carolina men's soccer program knew from the team's first varsity game in 1947 through the entirety of the 1988 campaign. When Fetzer was being renovated, the Tar Heels played all their 1989 home games at Finley Field near the University golf course, as well as the first eight home matches of 1990.

Carolina then returned home to Fetzer on Oct. 21, 1990, and celebrated the homecoming with a stunning 2-0 upset over No. 10 NC State. On Nov. 10, 1990, Carolina played its first night game ever at Fetzer Field, beating Wake Forest, 2-1, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

Carolina's 2001 NCAA Title

The 2001 North Carolina Tar Heels notched the men's first national title in their first-ever appearance in a national championship contest. After a thrilling, late-game comeback win over Stanford to reach the finals, the Tar Heels faced and defeated five-time champion Indiana, who entered the tournament having given up just six goals all season. The Hoosiers had even knocked UNC out in the quarterfinals the year before in Chapel Hill.

The Tar Heels used an early goal 12 minutes in off a header by junior Ryan Kneipper to establish a 1-0 lead and set the tone for the game. Kneipper beat an Indiana defender and goalkeeper Colin Rogers to a long cross from Matt Crawford and headed a shot from six yards out, just inside the right post.

The Tar Heels then turned to their defense, led by senior captains Danny Jackson and Chris Leitch, senior goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey and sophomore David Stokes, who was assigned to Indiana all-everything player Pat Noonan for most of the game. The Hoosiers put pressure on the Heels, but could not find a way to even the score against the stalwart Carolina defense.

At the 75 minute mark freshman Marcus Storey was fouled in the box, leading to a converted penalty kick by Jackson into the top left of the net, giving Carolina a 2-0 lead. The score would hold up as Carolina claimed its first-ever national title.

Carolina's chances of even reaching the finals looked bleak with less than 10 minutes on the clock in its NCAA semifinal versus Stanford. Carolina trailed 2-0 at the time, when forward David Testo bent a left-footed shot from 25 yards out just inside the far post to breathe life back into the Tar Heel attack. Less than two minutes later the Tar Heels found the back of the net again, as Crawford knocked in a rebound to tie the score at two with around eight minutes remaining.

The two teams would go at it for the final eight minutes of regulation and through four overtime periods until Carolina finally broke the deadlock. Mike Gell took a long pass from UNC keeper Michael Ueltschey and chipped a shot over onrushing goalkeeper Andrew Terris in the 136th minute. The goal gave Carolina the 3-2 victory and a place in the title game.

Drama was no stranger to the Heels in the 2001 NCAA Tournament. Carolina needed and received overtime goals to defeat both American and Farleigh Dickinson along its march to the championship. On the season, Carolina finished with a school-record 21 wins with only four defeats.

Captain Kirk Urso and the Tar Heels claimed their second title in school history in 2011.

Carolina's 2011 NCAA Title

Junior Ben Speas turned in the goal of the tournament to provide Carolina with a 1-0 edge in the 65th minute and the Tar Heel defense stepped up in the final minutes to give UNC its second national title in school history with a 1-0 win over Charlotte at Regions Parks in Hoover, Alabama. The title came 10 years after UNC won its first-ever championship in 2001.

The goal was Speas' third of the tournament and earned the junior forward Most Valuable Offensive Player honors.

Speas nearly put the Tar Heels ahead just minutes prior to his goal as he worked his way down the left flank before moving to the middle of the field and floating a ball to the far post. Sophomore Rob Lovejoy was making a run down the right and connected on a diving header as the cross got over the Charlotte defender, but Lovejoy's header sailed wide of the target.

The Tar Heels finally broke through in the 65th minute when Speas turned in a golazo with his shot from 25 yards out that changed the momentum of the match.

The 49ers earned a corner kick in the 84th minute and nearly found the equalizer when Thomas Allen ripped a shot from eight yards out. The ball was destined for the back of the net but defender Jordan Gafa was the last man on the line and headed the ball clear.

The line clearance started a flurry of shots from the 49ers that the Tar Heels continued to turn away. The 87th minute saw Charlotte rip a shot that was saved by Goodwin, the rebound was crossed to T.J. Beaulieu who headed the ball off the crossbar. Jordan McCrary forced his way in front of the next shot opportunity before a shot went side of the goal for a goal kick.

The Tar Heels became the first ACC team since Virginia in 1995 to claim the treble as UNC won the ACC regular season and tournament titles in addition to the NCAA title. Carolina finished with a 21-2-3 mark which equaled the school record for wins with the 2001 team.

Head coach Carlos Somoano became just the second coach in NCAA history to claim a national title in his first year.

Carolina is one of the top performers in the history of the men's soccer NCAA Championship. UNC has won two national titles, made nine College Cup appearances, 10 Sweet 16 appearances, nine Elite Eight appearances and 28 total trips to the NCAA Tournament.

NCAA Tournament History

The Tar Heels made their first NCAA Tournament appearance in 1968 in a game played on a wet and muddy Fetzer Field. Unfortunately, the defending national co-champions from Michigan State spoiled the debut. The Spartans outshot the Tar Heels, 37-6, and won by a score of 5-0 on three goals by Tony Keyes and two from Tom Kreft.

The next time Carolina returned to the big dance was 1987. It wound up the most successful run prior to capturing the 2001 national title. Coached by Anson Dorrance, the Tar Heels entered the NCAA Tournament as the eighth-ranked team in the nation after winning the ACC Championship. In the first round, Carolina defeated archrival and defending national champion Duke, 2-0. The Tar Heels then battled South Carolina through two overtimes and a shootout before winning, 2-1, on a successful penalty kick by Derek Missimo.

In the quarterfinal against Loyola (Md.), Missimo scored on a header to give the Tar Heels a 1-0 victory, making Carolina only the fourth team in ACC history to achieve 20 wins in a season. Carolina then went to the Final Four but fell 4-1 to eventual champion Clemson on the Tigers' home field. The Tar Heels were ranked sixth in the final Soccer America rankings and placed sweeper David Smyth on the All-America team.

In 1988—Anson Dorrance's final year as the men's coach—the Tar Heels defeated Wake Forest, 2-0, in the first round of the tournament. Both Tar Heel goals came in the first half as Adam Tinkham scored on a breakaway and Marc Buffin kicked one in from 25 yards out. For Carolina, it was the 10th win in 11 games with its only loss coming to Virginia in the ACC Tournament title game. The Tar Heels then advanced to the South Region championship, where they suffered a 3-1 loss to South Carolina.

Under coach Elmar Bolowich, Carolina again defeated Wake Forest in the first round of the 1990 tournament. Freshmen Chris Lyn and Brent Walker scored to give Carolina a 2-1 win and improve the series record against the Demon Deacons to 9-1-2. In the second round, the Tar Heels were defeated by Virginia, 3-1, in Charlottesville.

In the first round of the 1991 tournament, the Tar Heels defeated UNC Charlotte, 1-0, at Fetzer Field. Todd Haskins scored the winning goal on an assist by David Moore in the first overtime period. The Tar Heels then traveled to St. Louis, falling 4-0 to the hometown Billikens.

In 1993, the Tar Heels were once again victorious in the first round, holding on for a 3-2 victory over Duke. Gregg Berhalter scored a pair of goals off free kicks, and then Chapel Hill native Greg Caiola came off the bench to score the game-winner in the 69th minute. In the second round, the Tar Heels were upset, 2-1, by Air Force after ACC Rookie of the Year Temoc Suarez suffered a broken ankle midway through the first half.

Carolina returned to NCAA Tournament action in 1994 for the sixth time in eight seasons. Despite possessing the home-field advantage, Carolina was beaten by James Madison, 3-0, in the first round.

The Tar Heels once again made an NCAA Tournament appearance in 1999 after a four-year absence. UNC played at No. 3 Furman and gave the Paladins, who eventually reached the NCAA Quarterfinals, all they could handle before losing, 2-1, in overtime.

In 2000, Carolina was the top overall seed in the tournament after winning the ACC championship. UNC hosted three games at Fetzer Field, coming back from a 2-0 deficit in the first round to defeat William & Mary, 3-2, in an overtime game played in a driving snowstorm. The Heels then downed Rhode Island, 3-1, in the second round before losing to two-time defending NCAA champion Indiana in the quarterfinals.

The 2001 Tar Heels notched the men's first NCAA crown in their first-ever appearance in a national title game. After a rousing, late-game comeback win over Stanford to reach the finals, the Tar Heels faced and defeated five-time champion Indiana, who entered the tournament having given up just six goals all season.

The Tar Heels used an early goal 12 minutes in off a header by junior Ryan Kneipper to grab an early 1-0 lead. Kneipper beat an Indiana defender and IU goalkeeper Colin Rogers to a long cross from Matt Crawford and headed a shot from six yards out, just inside the right post.

The Tar Heels then turned to their defense, led by senior captains Danny Jackson and Chris Leitch, senior goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey and sophomore David Stokes, who was assigned to Indiana all-everything player Pat Noonan for most of the game. Indiana put pressure on the Heels, but could not find a way to even the score against the stalwart Carolina defense.

At the 75 minute mark freshman Marcus Storey was fouled in the box, leading to a penalty kick by Jackson into the top left of the net, giving Carolina a 2-0 lead and its first-ever national title.

The Tar Heels made their fourth-consecutive tourney appearance in 2002. Carolina opened its title defense with a 6-0 win over Winthrop in Chapel Hill, paced by Kneipper's school-record tying five goals. In the second round, UNC fell on the road to Penn State, 1-0, in double overtime.

In 2003, UNC earned the No. 4 national seed and a first-round bye but lost to the nation's highest-scoring team, Coastal Carolina, 3-0, at Fetzer Field in the second round of the tourney.

The Tar Heels hosted a postseason match for the fifth straight year in 2004, but fell to George Washington, 1-0, in the first round.

Carolina was the tournament's No. 4 overall seed once again in 2005 and advanced to the quarterfinals for the fourth time in school history and third time over the last six seasons. The Tar Heels opened with wins over Providence (2-0) and Virginia (2-1) behind four goals from Ben Hunter, but were eliminated in the Elite Eight by SMU, 3-2 in double overtime.

UNC hosted once again - as the No. 14 seed - in 2006 but suffered a 1-0 loss to Old Dominion in its first match.

After missing the 2007 tourney, the Tar Heels returned as the No. 13 seed in the 2008 and made a run to the national title game with four straight one-goal victories and a stout defense. After opening the tourney with a 1-0 second round win over Jacksonville, Carolina posted a 3-2 rain-soaked, overtime win over UIC to reach the quarterfinal round. All-America Michael Callahan tied the match with a 12-yard rocket in the 87th minute before Brian Shriver sent a cross from the left flank to Garry Lewis at the far post for the overtime game-winning header in the 95th minute.

The Tar Heels punched their ticket to the College Cup with a 1-0 win over Northwestern at Fetzer Field on freshman Kirk Urso's game-winner in the 61st minute.

UNC met No. 1 Wake Forest in the semifinals and jumped in front quickly with a Brian Shriver header in the fourth minute. Zach Loyd made a run up the right side and found Shriver in the box for what proved to be the game-winner.

The Demon Deacons pressured the Tar Heels for the rest of the match, but goalkeeper Brooks Haggerty, who made a career-best seven saves, and the back four withstood the pressure and advanced to their second national title match with their third shutout of the 2008 NCAA Tournament.

In the final, Carolina suffered a 1-0 loss to Maryland, ending their memorable run through the postseason.

Carolina made a return trip to the College Cup in 2009 where the Tar Heels squared off against undefeated and untied No. 1 Akron in the semifinals. The Tar Heels held the Zips scoreless for the first time on the season before falling, 5-4, in penalties.

The Tar Heels opened the 2010 NCAA Tournament with a first round bye before dispatching No. 25 Brown by a 2-0 margin. Indiana came to Chapel Hill next and left in similar fashion as Alex Dixon tallied the lone goal in UNC's 1-0 win. Next on the docket was No. 24 Drake who was the lone team to tally against Carolina during the 2009 NCAA Tournament en route to falling, 2-1. Kirk Urso and Dixon scored in the win, as Dixon became the first player in school history to score in three consecutive NCAA Tournament games.

North Carolina advanced to its third consecutive NCAA College Cup in 2010 in remarkable fashion as the Tar Heels became the first team in NCAA history to advance in three consecutive rounds via penalty shootout.

The Tar Heels opened with a 0-0 draw against Georgetown before advancing, 5-4, on penalties. In the second round, sophomore All-America Enzo Martinez delivered the goal of the tournament by scoring with nine seconds remaining in regulation to tie Michigan State before UNC advanced, 5-4, on penalties once again. Another 1-1 draw in the quarterfinal round against SMU resulted in a 4-2 penalty win to send Carolina to Santa Barbara, California.

In the semifinal, Carolina went up against undefeated and No. 1 overall seed Louisville. The Cardinals took a 1-0 lead early in the second half before Stephen McCarthy headed home a cross from Alex Dixon four minutes later to knot the score at 1-1. In another match looking to head to penalties, UofL scored a last-minute goal to beat UNC in heartbreaking fashion.

The 2011 season saw the Tar Heels reach the College Cup for a fourth-straight year and finally knock down the door to claim the second national championship in school history. Carolina claimed a 3-2 win over Coastal Carolina in the second round before Billy Schuler sent the Tar Heels through with a 1-0 overtime winner against Indiana.

The Tar Heels downed Saint Mary's, 2-0, in the quarterfinals to earn a trip to Hoover, Alabama, where Carolina locked up with UCLA. The Tar Heels fell in an early 1-0 hole but netted a pair of goals in the second half to force overtime and an eventual penalty shootout that the Tar Heels claimed, 3-1. Ben Speas was the only person to score in the championship as Carolina downed Charlotte, 1-0, to claim the 2011 National Championship.

Carolina reached the quarterfinal round for the fifth-straight season in 2012 after picking up wins over UMBC (3-2 in penalty kicks) and Fairleigh Dickson Chapel Hill, before falling 1-0 at home to eventual national champion Indiana.

After a rare second round exit in 2013, UNC quickly regained its footing on the national scene with its sixth quarterfinal appearance in the last seven seasons in 2014. A dominant 6-0 home win over James Madison was followed by a pair of 2-1 road wins over national seeds Charlotte and Clemson.

A cross-country trek ensued in the quarters at No. 2 UCLA in what turned out to be a match for the ages. Despite playing more than 90 minutes with just 10 men, Carolina rallied from a 3-1 deficit on goals by Tyler Engel and Andy Craven to force penalties, but the Bruins ultimately advanced to the College Cup with a 7-6 shootout victory over the Tar Heels.

Carolina earned the No. 5 national seed in 2015, and promptly took down Coastal Carolina, 2-1, in the second round, setting up a matchup with former Tar Heel head coach Elmar Bolowich and the Creighton Blue Jays. UNC ultimately lost in the third round with a 1-0 setback.

The 2016 campaign featured the Tar Heels returning to the College Cup for a seventh time in program history. UNC took down Florida Gulf Coast, 3-2, in a double overtime thriller before handling Syracuse, 1-0. Drew Murphy's 102nd-minute goal sent 9th-seeded UNC past Providence in the quarterfinals to earn a spot in Houston, ultimately dropping to Stanford in a heartbreaking 10-9 penalty kick shootout.

In 2016, UNC won the ACC Coastal Division, held the top seed in the ACC Championship and finished the season ranked No. 4 in the final NSCAA poll, its best showing since winning the title in 2011.

The Tar Heels made it back-to-back College Cup appearances with a return trip in 2017, their sixth trip in the last 10 seasons. During its run, UNC were kings of the second half, scoring all six of its postseason goals during the last 45 minutes and outscoring its opponents, 6-2. Second half goals from Jelani Pieters and Mauricio Pineda in a win over UNCW (2-1) and Jack Skahan and Pieters against SMU (2-0) set up a quarterfinal matchup with a red-hot Fordham team.

After Zach Wright put the Tar Heels on the board in the 61st minute, Fordham answered back to tie things two minutes later. Alan Winn scored the game-winner in the 80th minute to send the Tar Heels back to the College Cup where they fell to Indiana, 1-0, and finished the season ranked No. 4 in the final coaches poll.

Earning the fifth seed in 2018 to receive a first-round bye, the Tar Heels dropped an uncharacteristic 2-1 loss to James Madison in the second round, concluding the year at 14-4-1.

After not securing an NCAA appearance in 2019, Carolina made its ninth showing in the College Cup (and seventh in 13 years) in 2020, making an unexpected run to the national semifinals as an unseeded, at-large bid. Along the way to the College Cup, the 16th-ranked Tar Heels advanced past No. 14 Charlotte on penalty kicks (4-1) and beat both No. 5 Stanford (1-0) and No. 4 Wake Forest (2-1). Eventual NCAA champion Marshall edged the Tar Heels, 1-0, in the national semifinals.

North Carolina's 28th NCAA Tournament appearance came in 2021 with another at-large bid. The Heels advanced past Loyola Maryland on penalty kicks, 4-2, at home before falling to New Hampshire, 4-1, on the road.

In 2023, the Tar Heels earned the No. 3 overall seed, defeating Memphis, and advancing on penalty kicks against Hofstra, before falling in the NCAA quarterfinals to Oregon State.

Berhalter, Pope Play For U.S. In 2002 and 2006 World Cup

Former University of North Carolina men's soccer stars and long-time U.S. National Team members Gregg Berhalter and Eddie Pope were members of the 23-man 2006 United States World Cup team after also earning spots on the U.S. squad in 2002.

The two defenders both started games for the U.S. team during its 2002 qualifying campaign and World Cup run, and Pope started two matches in the 2006 World Cup.

Pope, who lettered at Carolina from 1992-95, made his third World Cup appearance, having started three World Cup games in 1998. Pope was a regular with the U.S. team throughout the last decade before retiring from international play following the 2006 World Cup.

Berhalter lettered at Carolina from 1991-93 and played professionally in Europe after leaving Chapel Hill until joining the MLS' LA Galaxy. He entered the 2006 World Cup with 44 career caps and was an injury replacement for Cory Gibbs. Berhalter started three games as a central defender during the USA's 2002 qualifying season and that year's World Cup was the first of his career.

Below: Eric Lichaj scored his first international goal for the U.S. National Team against El Salvador at the 2017 Gold Cup.
