SAM PAUL

Head Coach • 33rd Season as UNC head coach

- The 2025-26 season will be his 33rd as UNC's head men's tennis coach.
- Inducted into the North Carolina Tennis Foundation's Hall of Fame in September 2022.
- Paul has a 587-252 record. He is the winningest coach in program history and has more wins than any active ACC coach.
- Paul was the 2017

Wilson/ITA National Coach of the Year.

● He has led Carolina to two ITA Indoor National championships and two NCAA Final Fours since 2016.

● Carolina has made nine appearances in the NCAA Tournament Sweet 16 in the last 11 Tournaments.

Head coach Sam Paul is the winningest active coach in the Atlantic Coast Conference with over 587 victories, and he continues to take the Tar Heel program to new heights as one of the nation's top coaches.

Entering his 33rd season as the Tar Heels' head coach in 2025-26, Paul has led UNC to rare air in the last decade, with the team's first indoor national championship and first No. 1 ranking coming in 2016, the program's first NCAA finals appearance in 2017, another NCAA semifinal berth in 2019 and a second indoor national title in 2021.

Paul was inducted into the North Carolina Tennis Foundation's Hall of Fame in September of 2022.

In 2024, Carolina made its 10th consecutive trip to the NCAA Championship, posting a 14-10 overall record and tying for fifth place in the competitive ACC regular season.

In 2023, UNC went 19-9 and tied for third in the ACC regular season standings while making its ninth consecutive trip to the NCAA Tournament round of 16.

In 2022, Brian Cernoch earned All-America honors in singles and was named the 2022 ACC Men's Tennis Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

In 2021, Carolina won the ITA National Team Indoor championship for a second time (joining 2016), reached the finals of the ACC Tournament and advanced to the NCAA Round of 16. The Tar Heels finished sixth in the nation, ranking among the nation's top seven teams in the final ITA poll for the sixth year in a row and the seventh time in eight years.

William Blumberg became the first 10-time All-America in ITA history by winning the honor in both singles and doubles for the fifth consecutive year. He also won the Rafael Osuna Sportsmanship Award from the ITA.

Paul won his 500th match on February 16, 2020.

In 2019, Carolina posted a 22-7 season that saw the team reach the NCAA final four for the second time in three years and post its sixth consecutive 20-win season.

The 2017 Wilson/ITA Coach of the Year, Paul is also a six-time ACC Coach of the Year, most recently in 2014.

Carolina's tradition of excellence in men's tennis dating back to the early stages of the 20th century has only continued under Paul. The native of Lancaster, S.C., has strengthened the winning reputation of Tar Heel men's tennis through his skill as a coach and recruiter since UNC athletic director John Swofford named him as head coach in April 1993.

Paul's players at Carolina have achieved at every level of play. Since he became an assistant coach at UNC in 1989, the Tar Heels have had players earn first-team All-America honors 41 times. In both 2016 and 2020, UNC led the nation with five All-America selections. In 2020, Blumberg won the ITA Senior Player of the Year award.

Many players under Paul's tutelage have gone on to tremendous success on the professional level. Don Johnson, captain of the 1990 ACC championship team and a former UNC assistant coach under Paul, won the 2001 Wimbledon doubles championship and is the former No. 1-ranked doubles player in the world. Rinky Hijikata won the 2023 Australian Open doubles championship in just his second year as a professional, reached the round of 16 at the 2023 US Open as a wild-card entry and reached the 2025 Wimbledon doubles final. Paul's former players have reached the semifinals of every Grand Slam event.

During his tenure as the head and assistant coach at North Carolina, the Tar Heels have won seven ACC championships, including the 1990, 1992 and 2002 tournament titles and the 1991, 1992, 1996 and 2004 regular-season championships.

The Tar Heels have earned NCAA Tournament bids in 28 of 30 possible years under Paul as head coach (the NCAA Tournament was canceled in 2020 due to Covid-19). UNC has hosted NCAA matches in 10 of the past 12 NCAA Tournaments.

Paul has guided a host of Tar Heel players to conference, regional and national accolades. UNC players have earned All-ACC accolades 78 times since 1994.

Among the awards won by Paul's players have been ITA National Senior Player of the Year, Arthur Ashe Leadership & Sportsmanship Award, ITA National Player to Watch, ITA National Rookie of the Year, ITA Rafael Osuna Sportsmanship Award, ITA Team Sportsmanship Award and ITA Scholar-Athlete Award as well as a host of regional ITA accolades.

Paul has mentored 21 first-team All-Americans in his tenure as head coach since 1993-94 to a total of 29 All-America awards.

While UNC has experienced tremendous success on the court, Tar Heel tennis teams under Paul also excel in the classroom. In 2019, Blaine Boyden was named to the All-ACC Academic Team for the third year in a row, and Brian Cernoch and Josh Peck also did so. Additionally, Peck and Simon Soendergaard were named ITA Scholar-Athletes and UNC was named an ITA Academic Team. Boyden won an ACC Weaver-James Postgraduate Scholarship.

In 2024, senior Peter Murphy won an ACC Senior Scholar-Athlete Award for having the top grade point average among male student-athletes at Carolina.

Paul became the only ACC coach to coach a player ranked No. 1 in the world in the ATP men's doubles rankings when he acted as personal coach for UNC alumnus Don Johnson during his magnificent runs in doubles at Wimbledon and the U.S. Open during the late 1990s and early 2000s. Paul coached Johnson to a pair of Grand Slam titles and an appearance on the U.S. Davis Cup Team.

After serving as the Director of Tennis and the head men's and women's tennis coach at the University of Richmond for two years from 1987-89, Paul came to Chapel Hill in September 1989. At the University of Richmond, he won honors as the Colonial Athletic Association's (CAA) Women's Tennis Coach of the Year in both 1988 and 1989.

During Paul's four years as the Carolina assistant, UNC was 82-29 overall in dual matches, 26-3 in ACC regular-season dual matches and 10-2 in ACC Tournament dual matches. In those four years, UNC won ACC Tournament titles in 1990 and 1992, was the ACC Tournament runner-up in 1991 and 1993 while winning the conference's regular-season championships in 1991 and 1992.

A 1983 graduate of Presbyterian College with a B.S. in applied psychology, Paul also played tennis for the Blue Hose for two years. He has a 1981 Associate of Arts degree with a concentration in business from Anderson (S.C.) College, where he played tennis as a freshman and sophomore. In 2008, Paul received Presbyterian's Bob Waters Award, given to distinguished alumni of the institution.

Paul married Rebecca Dirksen, a Dartmouth College alumna, on September 12, 2009. Dirksen works in the real estate field and was an assistant women's tennis coach at UNC for two years in the early 2000s. They have a daughter, Madeline, and a son, Colton.

TRIPP PHILLIPS

Associate Head Coach • 21st Season at UNC

University of North Carolina alumnus Tripp Phillips joined the Tar Heel men's tennis coaching staff in 2006 and has distinguished himself as head coach Sam Paul's chief assistant ever since. He was promoted to associate head coach in the summer of 2013.

Entering his 21st season on staff at Carolina in 2025-26, Phillips continues to be one of the top recruiters and coaches in the nation. In 2021, he won the ITA Carolina Regional Assistant Coach of the Year award.

In his 20 years as an assistant coach, the former professional player has made a huge impact on the UNC tennis program, an era in which the Tar Heels have advanced to the NCAA Tournament all but one season.

His work in recruiting has also paid dividends for the Tar Heel program, with UNC players earning ACC Freshman of the Year honors twice in recent years (William Blumberg in 2017 and Benjamin Sigouin in 2018). Phillips also played a key role in recruiting 2023 Australian Open doubles champion and 2024 Olympian Rinky Hijikata.

After graduating from Carolina in 2000, Phillips began a highly successful professional career. The right-hander achieved a career-high Association of Tennis Professionals' (ATP) doubles ranking of 29th on October 6, 2006. In singles, Phillips reached his high point as the 343rd-ranked player in the world on May 19, 2003.

Phillips was coached as a professional by both Paul and Charlotte Country Day varsity tennis coach Calvin Davis. While he enjoyed success as a singles player, notching victories against players such as Michael Chang, Harold Levey and Oscar Hernandez, Phillips ultimately decided to focus his efforts on doubles and the results he achieved in those events gave him a better opportunity to play in the world's biggest and most respected tournaments.

Phillips had perhaps his most successful year as a doubles player in 2006, when he paired with Australia's Ashley Fisher. The pair reached the semifinals of the 2006 U.S. Open, a run that was highlighted by wins against Andy Murray as well as two of the Top 10 doubles teams in the world. Phillips and Fisher also won the doubles championship at the 2006 ATP event in Tokyo.

In 2007, Phillips continued his success as an established doubles player, earning seeds in three of the four Grand Slam tournaments and reaching the round of 16 in the U.S. Open. In 2008, he qualified for Wimbledon, and also won the ATP event hosted in Indianapolis.

The background to Phillips' successful career on the ATP tour was an outstanding college career from 1996 to 2000 as a member of the tennis team at the UNC, where he was a tireless and intense competitor and valued team leader.

Phillips returned for a fifth-year senior season in 2000 after taking a medical redshirt and earned All-America honors after posting a stellar 25-6 singles record at the top singles flight. During that season, he defeated top-ranked Daniel Anderson and third-ranked Shuon Madden in singles play while helping the Tar Heels to a second-place ACC finish and a No. 16 national ranking. Phillips dominated the conference at number one singles, posting a 12-2 record in ACC play. After the team competition in 2000 was over, he advanced to the quarterfinals of the individual portion of the NCAA Championships in singles, earning a No. 12 national ITA ranking to finish the season.

UNC honored Phillips' playing career and character with the 2000 Patterson Medal, a prestigious award given annually to the school's top male and female senior student-athletes. When he won the Patterson Medal, he was the first UNC tennis player to receive the award since Vic Seixas in 1950. He also captured the ITA's John Van Nostrand Memorial Award, which is given annually to an outstanding senior men's player who plans to pursue a professional tennis career upon graduation.

Phillips was born in Newport News, Va., on August 26, 1977, and grew up in Charlotte, N.C. He married Laura Zuger on November 4, 2006, and they have two sons: Owen T. Phillips IV and James Zuger Phillips.

ROBERT KELLY

Assistant Coach • Third Season at UNC

Robert Kelly, one of Carolina's most decorated men's tennis players of the last decade, returned to Chapel Hill to join head coach Sam Paul's coaching staff in July of 2023. He enters his third season on staff in 2025-26.

The three-time All-America and Chapel Hill native, who played at Carolina from 2015-18 and helped the Tar Heels win their first national title at the 2016 ITA Team Indoor National Championships, serves as an assistant coach alongside Paul and longtime associate head coach Tripp Phillips.

As a sophomore in 2016, Kelly teamed with Brett Clark to earn All-America honors in doubles. The two, who were ranked No. 1 at two separate points in the spring, finished fourth in the final rankings despite missing the NCAA Tournament due to injury. They were the first Tar Heels since 2006 to reach the No. 1 ranking in doubles. In 2017, Kelly teamed with William Blumberg to reach the NCAA doubles quarterfinals, again earning All-America honors. In Kelly's senior year, he again earned All-America doubles honors with Blumberg.

He became just the fourth player in program history to earn All-America honors in three separate seasons. He also was a three-time All-ACC selection.

Kelly reached the finals of the ITA National Indoors doubles bracket with two different teammates (with Clark in 2016 and with Blumberg in 2018). A stellar student, he was an Academic All-ACC choice who served as a UNC team captain as a junior and senior.

During Kelly's career as a Tar Heel, Carolina finished in the top 11 of the final ITA team rankings all four years, including No. 6 in 2015, No. 3 in 2016, No. 5 in 2017 and No. 11 in 2018.

After graduation, he played on the professional tour and won a title at the Doubles ITF 15K in Claremont, Calif.

Chewning Tennis Center

The University of North Carolina dedicated its beautiful, new outdoor tennis center in a special ceremony in April of 2023.

UNC officials and supporters gathered for the official ribbon-cutting for the Chewning Tennis Center, named in honor of former Carolina tennis student-athlete and longtime supporter Tom Chewning and his wife Nancy, which provides a new outdoor home for the Tar Heel men's and women's tennis programs.

The Chewning Tennis Center provides a championship-level experience to UNC student-athletes, as well as a top-notch viewing experience for fans.

"We couldn't be more grateful to Tom Chewning and the Chewning family for their generosity and dedication to the continued success of our tennis programs," says Carolina Director of Athletics Bubba Cunningham. "Many supporters stepped forward to make this new facility possible, and the Chewning Tennis Center is going to make a huge impact on the experience of every student-athlete who competes and trains here. I can't wait to watch our teams win in this beautiful facility for years to come."

The facility includes six new championship courts for competition, six practice courts adjacent to the competition area, elevated seating for fans to view matches and other viewing areas and amenities. Construction on the project began in January 2022 and was completed for a men's and women's doubleheader on March 31.

The $18.5 million project was funded through private donations. During construction, additional improvements were made to the Cone-Kenfield Indoor Courts as well. The project was designed by HKS Architects, and Frank L. Blum Construction coordinated the building process.

"The Carolina family steps forward so often to meet the needs of our student-athletes and coaches," says John Montgomery, executive director of The Rams Club. "A wonderfully generous group of tennis supporters worked so hard to make this facility possible, and other donors showed through their gifts that they believe in building on the enormous success of these two programs. It's a special new home for Carolina Tennis, and I thank Tom, Nancy and all of the people who stepped forward for this important project."

"Collegiate success to Grand Slam success, that's one way we recruit," says Sam Paul, Carolina's men's tennis coach since 1993. "Our recruiting mantra is you're going to get a world-class education and you're going to get world-class training – setting you up for the pro tour or whatever you do in life. We've got a lot of history of tennis at Carolina. These improvements will only allow us to build on that history and tradition."

The Southern Conference decided a sole singles champion throughout Carolina's membership in the league. The Southern Conference decided a sole doubles championship team throughout Carolina's membership in the league. In addition to those listed, Carolina also won doubles championships in 1922 and 1923 but research has been unable to attach the names of the champions to those years.

The Atlantic Coast Conference decided sole singles and doubles champions from 1954 to 1964. Beginning in 1965, ACC champions were determined by flight. The ACC discontinued the practice of naming flight champions following the 2001 season. It now merely names an All-ACC Team.

Carolina's All-America Selections

Bitsy Grant, 1931

When asked near the end of his tenure in 1955 to rate the best players at Carolina all-time, John Kenfield chose Bitsy Grant to head up the list. Bryan "Bitsy" Grant came to Carolina as a freshman in 1929 and was named an All-America in 1931. Ranked as high as No. 3 nationally in men's singles during his career, Grant played on four U.S. Davis Cup teams and won three USTA national clay court championships. Grant's leadership helped the 1931 team finish undefeated and capture the Southern Conference title.

Wilmer Hines, 1933

Carolina's top player in 1933, Wilmer Hines won the Southern Conference singles title and combined with Lenoir Wright to win the doubles crown. He was named an All-America that year. The Tar Heels won the Southern Conference crown every year during Hines' career, never losing a match for a combined overall record of 52-0-1. After leaving Carolina, Hines went on to win the Italian Open championship.

Vic Seixas, 1948

Vic Seixas is one of the outstanding players in American tennis history. Seixas was named an All-America in 1948. Seixas won the Wimbledon singles championship in 1953 and won the U.S. Open championship in 1954. While at Carolina, Seixas, who played for coach John Kenfield from 1947-49, won the Southern Conference singles title in 1948 and finished as the runner-up in 1947 and 1949. He teamed with Clark Taylor to capture the league doubles crown in 1949. In 1948, he entered the NCAA Tournament as the top seed and won five matches in the tournament before dropping the championship match to the No. 1 ranked player in the U.S. That same year Seixas was the seventh-ranked men's singles player in the U.S. amateur ranks. By 1952, he had attained the No. 1 singles ranking among American players. The 55 Davis Cup singles matches he played in were the most of any American player in history when he retired from active play and his 75 U.S. Open singles victories were a record that stood until broken by Jimmy Connors in 1985.

George Sokol, 1963

Named an All-America in singles in 1963, George Sokol had a distinguished tennis career at Carolina. He was a dominant presence in the ACC. From 1954 to 1964, the ACC chose a sole singles champion before going to individual flight titles. Sokol won three of those prominent singles titles, capturing the crowns in 1962, 1963 and 1964. Sokol also won an outright ACC doubles title in 1963 with partner Keith Stoneman.

Freddie McNair, 1970, 1971, 1972 & 1973

The first Carolina player to win All-America honors in each of his four years, Freddie McNair ranks as one of Carolina's finest players ever. While at Carolina, McNair combined with Rich McKee to reach the NCAA doubles finals in 1973. In the ACC, he won three individual singles titles in 1970, 1971 and 1972 and three doubles titles, one with Joe Dorn in 1970 and two with McKee in 1971 and 1972. He went on to have a distinguished professional career, attaining the world's No. 1 doubles ranking with teammate Sherwood Stewart.

Rich McKee, 1972, 1973 & 1974

A native of Charlotte, Rich McKee earned All-America honors as a sophomore, junior and senior. The son of teaching professional Dick McKee, who reached the finals at Wimbledon, McKee's play improved with each year. He became known for his quiet on-the-court manner and his amazing talent. A team captain, McKee and doubles partner Freddie McNair reached the NCAA doubles finals in 1973, and the duo won the 1971 and 1972 ACC No. 1 doubles titles. In singles, McKee won two ACC titles, at No. 4 in 1971 and No. 3 in 1972.

Billy Brock, 1976

Billy Brock was a member of four ACC championship teams and was an All-America in 1976. He won two ACC individual flight singles titles, winning at No. 3 in 1974 and at No. 1 in 1975. He also won a doubles title in 1975 with partner Tommy Dixon. One of the Norfolk, Va., native's greatest wins was a second-round 1974 NCAA Tournament upset of 12th-seeded Steve Mott of UCLA. Down a set, Brock, then a freshman, went on to win nine straight games against the favored Bruin, and won the final two sets 6-0 and 6-1.

Jeff Chambers, 1985

The only Carolina player in history to receive an NCAA singles invitation each of his four years, from 1984-87, he was named an All-America in singles in 1985 after capturing the ACC individual flight championship at No. 2 singles and going 26-8 overall. Chambers also played in the NCAA Tournament in doubles three times, missing only during the 1986 season. The St. Petersburg, Fla. native was a three-time All-ACC selection.

Bryan Jones, 1992

One of three players in program history to be named ACC Tournament MVP, Bryan Jones received that honor in 1992 as the senior tri-captain led the Tar Heels to one of the school's most successful seasons. Jones was named the ACC Player of the Year and helped lead the team to the 1992 ACC Tournament championship. The Kings Mountain, N.C., native was named an All-America selection in singles after finishing with a 35-7 overall record. He was named the ITA Region II Senior Player of the Year and reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament. Jones also won the flight No. 2 ACC singles title in 1992.

Chris Mumford, 1992

A member of the 1992 ACC Tournament championship team, Chris Mumford was one of three Tar Heels to be named All-America on that squad. Mumford had a spectacular season, capturing All-America honors in doubles with teammate Roland Thornqvist. The pair were quarterfinalists at the NCAA Championships and finished the season ranked 14th in the ITA poll. Mumford garnered All-ACC honors, the second such honor in his career, as the Richmond, Va., native captured the No. 5 ACC singles title.

Roland Thornqvist, 1992 & 1993

Roland Thornqvist was UNC's No. 1 singles and No. 1 doubles player for three straight years. The Farsta, Sweden native was named an All-America in both singles and doubles by the ITA in 1992 and 1993. His greatest accomplishment was winning the Rafael Osuna Sportsmanship Award in both 1992 and 1993. He was the first player in the history of college tennis to win the prestigious honor twice. In 1993, he captured the singles title in the ITA National Indoor Championships, was the ITA Region II Senior Player of the Year and the ACC Player of the Year. Thornqvist was the ACC champion at No. 1 singles in both his sophomore and senior years and he won the No. 1 doubles crown as a senior. A three-time All-ACC selection, Thornqvist qualified for the NCAA Tournament in singles three years and in doubles twice. He was a quarterfinalist in singles in both 1992 and 1993 and in doubles in 1992.

Daryl Wyatt, 1993

Although he spent only one year at UNC before turning professional, Daryl Wyatt made his time in a Carolina uniform count. Wyatt was superb in doubles with partner Roland Thornqvist when Wyatt was a freshman in 1993. The pair went undefeated in ACC play that season and finished 24-6 overall. In the process Wyatt earned All-America honors from the ITA. Wyatt and Thornqvist also captured the ACC individual doubles title at the No. 1 position.

David Caldwell, 1994 & 1995

Two-time All-America David Caldwell came to UNC as one of the most decorated junior tennis stars in the country, having been ranked in the top five nationally. At Carolina, he became the first player in history to earn ACC Player of the Year honors three times, taking the award in 1994, 1995 and 1996. Caldwell was named an ITA All-America in singles as both a sophomore and a junior and was a doubles All-America with partner Brint Morrow as a junior. Caldwell was 16-0 in ACC singles play as a junior and senior and is the only player to ever win three individual ACC flight titles at No. 1 singles. He won the 1995 Rafael Osuna Sportsmanship Award and was the Region II Head/Arthur Ashe Jr. Sportsmanship Award recipient. The 1996 Region II Men's Tennis Player of the Year, Caldwell received NCAA singles invitations in 1994, 1995 and 1996 and was an NCAA quarterfinalist in 1995.

Brint Morrow, 1995

Brint Morrow was named All-America in doubles in 1995 with partner David Caldwell, the tandem having gone 26-10 over the course of the season while receiving an NCAA doubles invitation. Morrow was also a three-time All-ACC selection. He won three individual ACC singles flight championships and one doubles championship. He also was the recipient of the 1995 Blue/Gray

Carolina's All-America Selections

Classic Sportsmanship Award after competing in that prestigious tournament in Montgomery, Ala.

Tripp Phillips, 2000

Tripp Phillips of Charlotte, N.C., earned All-America status his senior season. After returning from a medical red-shirt campaign, Phillips had an outstanding senior season, posting a stellar 25-6 record at the No.1 singles position. Phillips' 12-2 record against ACC competition earned him runner-up honors at No. 1 singles. However, Phillips saved his best performance of the year for last as he advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Championships in singles. Phillips' career and character were honored as he received the prestigious Patterson Medal as UNC's top senior student-athlete in 2000.

Nick Monroe, 2004

Nick Monroe received All-America honors from the ITA in 2004. Monroe won the Patterson Medal in 2004 as UNC's outstanding senior men's student-athlete and he reached the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament in singles. A three-time All-ACC selection, Monroe finished his UNC singles career with 100 wins, the second most in Tar Heel history behind David Caldwell's 116 wins. As a senior Monroe won the Jon Van Nostrand Award from the ITA, receiving a grant to pursue his professional tennis career. In 2011, he won a bronze medal in doubles for the United States at the Pan American Games.

Raian Luchici, 2006

Raian Luchici, a native of Timisoara, Romania, earned All-America honors his senior season as a both a singles player and as a doubles competitor with fellow senior Brad Pomeroy. The Tar Heel tandem opened the spring season ranked #1 in the country in doubles. Luchici was the first Tar Heel player since 1995 to be honored as an All-America in both singles and doubles in the same season. He was named the Farnsworth/ Intercollegiate Tennis Association National Senior Player of the Year in 2006, the first recipient of that award in Carolina history. With Pomeroy, the duo was the first in Carolina history since 1973 to compete in the championship match of a collegiate grand slam event when they advanced to the finals of the Polo Ralph Lauren All-American Championships.

Brad Pomeroy, 2006

Brad Pomeroy was honored as a first-team All-America in doubles following the conclusion of his senior campaign. Pomeroy teamed with fellow standout senior Raian Luchici to post a dominating 26-12 doubles record, a 16-8 dual meet record and an outstanding 10-4 doubles record in tournament play. The Tar Heel pair advanced to the second round of the NCAA Championships. They were the first Carolina duo to advance to the final round of an ITA grand slam event since 1973 when they reached the finals in the Polo Ralph Lauren All-American Championships.

Taylor Fogleman, 2008 & 2009

After playing sparingly his freshman season, Fogleman burst on to the scene in 2006-07, leading the Tar Heels in both singles and doubles wins. In 2007-08, Fogleman led Carolina in singles and doubles victories again and spent the entire season in the top 10 in the ITA doubles rankings. Fogleman and Chris Kearney reached the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament in doubles, finishing the season ranked fourth in the nation. The 2008-09 campaign was the third straight year Fogleman led UNC in singles and doubles wins and the senior also recorded his 100th career doubles victory in '09. Fogleman earned All-America distinction after reaching the NCAA doubles semifinals with partner Clay Donato.

Chris Kearney, 2008

Kearney followed up his ACC Freshman of the Year campaign in 2007 with an even bigger 2008 campaign, landing All-America distinction along with doubles partner Taylor Fogleman. Kearney also earned All-ACC honors. Kearney and Fogleman were ranked in the Top 10 by the ITA all season, and advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Championships. The pair finished the season ranked fourth in the nation.

Clay Donato, 2009 & 2010

Clay Donato earned All-ACC honors in 2008 and 2009, and combined with Taylor Fogleman to earn All-America distinction in 2009 after reaching the semifinals of the NCAA doubles tournament. The pair recorded 36 doubles wins together in 2009. A year later, he again won All-America honors as he and Stefan Hardy reached the 2010 NCAA tournament semis, giving Donato back-to-back NCAA doubles semifinal appearances.

Stefan Hardy, 2010

California native Stefan Hardy captured All-America honors in doubles, winning that accolade as a redshirt junior in 2010. Hardy earned an NCAA doubles invitation with partner Clay Donato and the duo advanced to the NCAA semifinals in doubles, the second straight year a UNC team made that round of the championship. Hardy completed his successful career in 2011 being named All-ACC after leading the Tar Heels to a 9-2 ACC record and fourth NCAA team bid during his playing career.

Jose Hernandez, 2011

Hernandez had a brilliant sophomore year for the Tar Heels in 2010-11. He was named All-ACC for the second straight year, finished the year ranked in the Top 20 in singles in the ITA rankings and reached the Round of 16 in NCAA singles to earn first-team All-America honors. He won 30 singles matches during the season and was 16-7 in dual match play. Twenty of his 33 matches were played against ranked players, and he went 11-9 in those matches. His singles win clinched a heart-thumping 4-3 win over Duke for the Tar Heels in regular season action.

Brayden Schnur, 2014, 2015 & 2016

Brayden Schnur was a first-team All-America by the ITA in 2014, the first UNC freshman to do so since Daryl Wyatt in 1993. He went 19-5 in singles and 21-6 in doubles, helping lead UNC to a school-record 27 dual match wins, the ACC Tournament final and the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament. Schnur won All-ACC honors and was the first Tar Heel in history to be honored as the ITA National Rookie of the Year. Schnur qualified for the NCAA Championships in singles and in doubles. As a junior, Schnur earned All-America honors in doubles after reaching the NCAA quarterfinals with Jack Murray. He is just the third player in program history to earn All-America honors in three separate years.

Brett Clark, 2016

Brett Clark and doubles teammate Robert Kelly earned All-America honors after finishing fourth in the final ITA doubles rankings. The two were ranked No. 1 nationally at two points in the spring, becoming the first Tar Heels to reach the top spot since 2006, when Brad Pomeroy and Raian Luchici earned the No. 1 ranking. They were unable to compete in the NCAA Tournament due to an injury, but earned All-America honors based on the season's final rankings. Clark the recipient of the 2016 ITA Regional Arthur Ashe Jr. Leadership and Sportsmanship Award.

Robert Kelly, 2016, 2017 & 2018

As a sophomore, Robert Kelly teamed with senior Brett Clark to earn All-America honors in doubles. The two, who were ranked No. 1 at two separate points in the spring, finished fourth in the final rankings despite missing the NCAA Tournament due to injury. They were the first Tar Heels since 2006 to reach the No. 1 ranking in doubles. In 2017, Kelly teamed with William Blumberg to reach the NCAA doubles quarterfinals, again earning All-America honors. The two went 23-8 during the year and earned All-NCAA Tournament honors at No. 1 doubles. They went 5-1 in NCAA play and beat the nation's top-ranked team, Kelly, from Chapel Hill, also was named to the All-Tournament team in singles, at No. 3.

In Kelly's senior year, he again earned All-America doubles honors with Blumberg. He became just the fourth player in program history to earn All-America honors in three separate seasons.

Jack Murray, 2016

Jack Murray, from Beverly Hills, Mich., teamed with Brayden Schnur to earn All-America honors in doubles in 2016, when both players were juniors. After reaching the 32-team field as alternates, they became the first Tar Heel doubles team since 2010 to advance as far as the quarterfinals. The duo was ranked No. 21 in the final ITA doubles rankings of the season.

Ronnie Schneider, 2016

Ronnie Schneider reached the NCAA Round of 16 in singles to earn All-America honors. The honor capped a stellar junior season for Schneider, from Bloomington, Ind., who was selected as the Most Outstanding Player following UNC's win at ITA National Team Indoor Championship in February. Schneider, who played mostly at the No. 2 spot, went on to earn All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors for the third year in a row. He finished the season ranked No. 23 national in singles.

Carolina's All-America Selections

William Blumberg, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021

William Blumberg made history in 2021 as the only 10-time All-America in ITA history. He earned All-America honors in both singles and doubles five years in a row after receiving an extra year of eligibility due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

As a freshman, he became the first Tar Heel ever to reach the NCAA singles final, finishing as the runner-up with a season record of 31-3 and a final ranking of No. 6. In doubles, he and partner Robert Kelly reached the NCAA quarterfinals and finished the year ranked No. 4.

As a sophomore Blumberg was named ACC Player of the Year and again earned All-America honors in both singles and doubles. He finished the year at No. 2 in the singles rankings and No. 3 in doubles, teaming with Kelly for the second year.

As a junior, he became the first Tar Heel to reach the NCAA singles quarterfinals three times, again earning All-America honors in both singles and doubles.

In 2020, Blumberg earned All-America honors in singles and doubles once again when the ITA named its All-America team in March upon the cancellation of the season due to Covid-19.

In 2021, he reached the NCAA quarterfinals in singles for a fourth time in a row while teaming with Brian Cernoch to reach the doubles quarterfinals.

Blaine Boyden, 2019

Blaine Boyden earned All-America honors in doubles as a senior when he and William Blumberg finished 20-6 for the year and were seventh in the final rankings. Boyden also had success in singles, leading the team in ACC singles wins in his junior (11-1) and senior (8-2) years.

Benjamin Sigouin, 2019

As a sophomore, Benjamin Sigouin reached the Round of 16 in singles to earn All-America honors for the first time in his career. A first-team All-ACC honoree, he finished the year at No. 20 in the ITA singles rankings.

Brian Cernoch, 2020, 2021, 2022

Brian Cernoch earned All-America honors in doubles in 2020, teaming with William Blumberg. The duo was ranked No. 13 in the nation in March when the Covid-19 pandemic canceled the season. The ITA named its 2020 All-Americans shortly thereafter.

Cernoch and Blumberg became a two-time All-America doubles team in 2021 when they reached the NCAA quarterfinals and finished the year ranked No. 4 in the ITA rankings.

Cernoch earned All-America honors as a singles player for the first time in 2022, finishing the season ranked 25th.
