REBELS HOST INCARNATE WORD ON KICK CANCER PINK GAME NIGHT

UNLV is happy to be back home after a rough road trip it when it dropped a pair of WAC matches. Standing in ninth place with four points, the Rebels know they have to put together a run of wins to qualify for the conference tournament, as the top seven teams will advance to next month's event in Seattle.

The good news for the Rebels is they are facing an Incarnate Word team that has struggled to find goals this year, as they have just five total this year, and were shutout for six straight games including its first four league games. They broke out of the scoring slump with a season-best game however in their last contest, as the Cardinals took down UMKC 3-1 this past Sunday in San Antonio.

Saturday night is also the annual "Kick Cancer Pink Game" in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness month. The Rebels will all be wearing pink jerseys for the contest, and all fans are asked to wear pink as well, while cancer survivors will be honored during the game as well.

The game will be streamed live and carried by the WAC Digital Network which will be available on UNLVRebels.com as well as through the Roku, Apple TV, Fire TV and Android streaming devices. Wyatt Tomchek and Eric Rowling will be on the call.

MEET THE REBELS

Sophomore forward Marco Gonzalez has been the leader of this year's offense as he ranks second in the WAC in goals (seven) and third in points (17). Junior midfielder Timo Mehlich as among the earlier leaders after posting seven points to start the season before being sidelined with a pair of injuries. In his absence, senior forward Daniel Moran has stepped up, and has a career-high nine points off four goals this season including a game-winner over Cal Baptist on Sept. 27. Freshman Nico Classen has taken over the center mid role and is second in the WAC with six assists.

Junior goalkeeper Enrique Adame has turned in a strong start in goal in the season,
