TEAM NOTES

DUCKS HEAD NORTH

The Ducks' relentless Pac-12 schedule doesn't ease up as they travel to the Evergreen State to face two more ranked squads – No. 9 Washington on March 15 (1:30 p.m. PT) and No. 36 Washington State on March 17 (11 a.m. PT).

Washington enters the contest against the Ducks on a seven game winning streak, which includes victories over No. 10 Kansas and No. 12 North Carolina State. The Huskies' only loss of the season comes to second-ranked Vanderbilt.

While Washington State hasn't beaten any ranked squads, they have registered sweeps against six of their opponents – Idaho, Eastern Washington, Montana, Purdue, Seattle and Iowa state. However, the Cougars dropped their opening Pac-12 matches, losing 4-3 to both Utah and Colorado.

HOW TO FOLLOW

Updates during both matches will be provided on Twitter via @OregonWTennis.

LAST TIME OUT

The Ducks opened Pac-12 play with a tough schedule, facing No. 20 California and No. 4 Stanford at home. Oregon couldn't hold on against the Northern California schools, falling 5-2 against Cal and 7-0 against Stanford.

The Bears go out to a quick start, claiming the doubles point and winning the first four singles matches. But despite a victory in hand for the visiting team, Shweta Sangwan and Paiton Wagner remained on the court for Oregon.

Tensions ran high in the final two matches. On court one, Sangwan found herself in a third-set tie-break against 25th-ranked Julia Rosenqvist, while a few courts over Wagner was trying to survive, down 5-6 in the third set.

Sangwan was unphased by her opponent's ranking throughout the match, staying calm and playing her own game which resulted in a

5-7, 6-4, 10-8 victory. Wagner remained resilient during some tough breaks, coming back from being down 4-0 in the third set, to claim a 6-4, 3-6, 7-6 victory on an overruling call.

Sunday against the Cardinal proved to be slightly more challenging for the Ducks.

In doubles, Rifanty Kahfiani and Allison Muville were the first off the court, claiming a 6-3 win over the 20th-ranked pair of Emily Arbutnott and Michaela Gordon. But despite hard-fought matches on the neighboring courts, Stanford won at the No. 1 and No. 3 spots to take a 1-0 lead heading into singles play.

From there, the Cardinal carried over their momentum, tallying wins across the board.

RECORD SETTING SENIORS

After recording a singles win against California, Shweta Sangwan has 63 career wins, claiming sole possession of eighth on UO's all-time career win's list.

Fellow senior Daniela Nasser is right on Sangwan's heels with 62 career wins, good for ninth on the list, passing Kumi Nagamoto (1987-90).

Head coach Courtney Nagle currently sits at seventh among UO career win leaders with 65 wins.

IN THE RANKINGS

Shweta Sangwan is currently ranked as the No. 87 player in the nation after winning her first five matches of spring season. The most notable of Sangwan's wins, comes against No. 25 Julia Rosenqvist of California in a 5-7, 6-4, 10-8 victory.

UP NEXT

The Ducks return to Eugene to host No. 17 USC on Saturday, March 23 (12 p.m. PT) and No. 6 UCLA on Sunday, March 24 (11 a.m. PT).

This past July, University of Oregon athletic director Rob Mullens announced the hiring of North Carolina assistant coach and former Duck Courtney Nagle as the next head coach of the women's tennis program.

A four-year letter winner at Oregon (2002-05) and a former volunteer assistant for the Ducks, Nagle has spent the last four seasons as the top assistant for a highly successful North Carolina program, helping lead the Tar Heels to a 122-12 dual match record, three ACC titles and two Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) national championships. Long considered one of the top assistants in the nation, Nagle was named the national assistant coach of the year in 2017 by the ITA.

In 2018, Nagle helped the Tar Heels to a 28-4 overall record and their third straight ACC championship while also coming away with the ITA Indoor national team title. UNC entered the NCAA Tournament as the No. 2 overall seed before falling to eventual national champion Stanford in the Sweet 16. Nagle also helped guide the duo of Sara Daavettila and Alle Sanford to the semifinals of the NCAA Doubles Championship, a run that included a win over the nation's No. 1 ranked pair. The Tar Heels finished 2018 with a program-record five all-America selections.

En route to being named the nation's top assistant by the ITA in 2017, Nagle guided Hayley Carter to her second straight ACC player of the year honor while also helping Daavettila claim the conference freshman of the year award. In addition to repeating as ACC champions, UNC won a school-record 33 dual-matches and claimed the No. 2 overall seed in the NCAA Championships, reaching the quarterfinals.

The Tar Heels were also the No. 2 seed in the 2015 NCAA Tournament before losing to UCLA in the quarterfinals for the third time in four years, and Nagle helped Jamie Loeb to the first NCAA Singles championship in program history. Earlier in the 2015 season, the Tar Heels won their second ITA Indoor national title. UNC went 31-3 in 2016, winning the first of three straight ACC championships and earning the No. 3 overall seed in NCAA play. Prior to joining the Tar Heels, Nagle spent two seasons (2012-14) as the assistant coach at the University of Iowa. In 2013, she helped the Hawkeyes reach as high as No. 57 in the ITA team rankings and eighth in the Division I Midwest Regional rankings. Nagle earned her first full-time job as an assistant at Colorado during the 2011-12 season.

Before fully committing to her coaching career, Nagle competed across the globe as a world-ranked tennis professional on the World Tennis Association (WTA) Tour, where she earned World Team Tennis (WTT) Rookie of the Year honors with the Philadelphia Freedoms. She won 15 career professional doubles titles and reached a doubles ranking of No. 97.

Nagle started her playing career at Oregon as a walk-on freshman in 2002 before earning a full athletic scholarship. She helped lead the Ducks to NCAA Tournament appearances in both 2002 and 2004, and in 2003 she reached the quarterfinals of the NCAA Doubles Tournament in addition to earning a berth to the NCAA Singles Tournament. The first women's doubles all-American in UO history, Nagle was twice awarded Oregon's most improved player award. She was also the Oregon Athletics Pride recipient and was named the ITA National Arthur Ashe Leadership and Sportsmanship Award winner.

Nagle graduated from UO in 2004 with a degree in human physiology while minoring in Spanish. After graduation, she remained in Eugene becoming the assistant director of the Nike Junior Tennis Camps in 2004, later joining the Oregon coaching staff in 2005 as a volunteer assistant coach. In 2007-2009, Nagle began coaching at Princeton University in the same capacity, before returning to Eugene in 2010 to once again become a volunteer assistant for the Ducks.
