2026-27 Domestic Single Skating Calling Clarifications
Championship Singles – Euler Addendum
Updated July 9, 2026 (watermark removed)

IMPORTANT: This document reflects the rules in place for the 2026-27 season, which begins March 3, 2026. It is subject to change by the ISU. Information will be updated as needed when the ISU issues its documents for the 2026-27 season.

Euler	The Euler (Eu) will have no value The Eu can be used between two jumps In a combination, an Eu, plus up to three other listed jumps are permitted. • Ex: 2Lz + Eu + 2S + 2T • Ex: 2A + Eu + 3S

Euler and Jump Sequences	In a Championship Track free skate, only one of the following can be used: • Jump Combination with an Euler OR • Jump Sequence (with or without an Euler) If both are used in a program, the 2nd instance will be treated like such: • All jumps after the infraction will be asterisked ○ Ex: skater performs 2Lz + Eu + 2S + 2T and later performs 2F + 1A + SEQ. Result: 2Lz + Eu + 2S + 2T and 2F + 1A*+ SEQ ○ Ex: skater performs 2Lz + 1A + SEQ and later performs 2A + Eu + 2S + 2T. Result: 2Lz + 1A + SEQ and 2A + Eu + 2S*+ 2T* A jump element may contain both a Eu and a + SEQ, so the following examples would be permitted. ○ Ex: 2Lo + 1A + Eu + 2S+ SEQ ○ Ex: 2Lo + Eu + 2S + 1A+ SEQ This is a correction from the 3/3/2026 version of this document.

Data Operator	Eu (not 1Eu) will be entered for the Euler without value, similar to Axel (Axel with no value) versus 1A or 2A. If a skater performs a combination with an Euler and three listed jumps, an asterisk will appear on the final jump (ex. 3Lz+Eu+3F+2T*) and will need to be removed manually.
