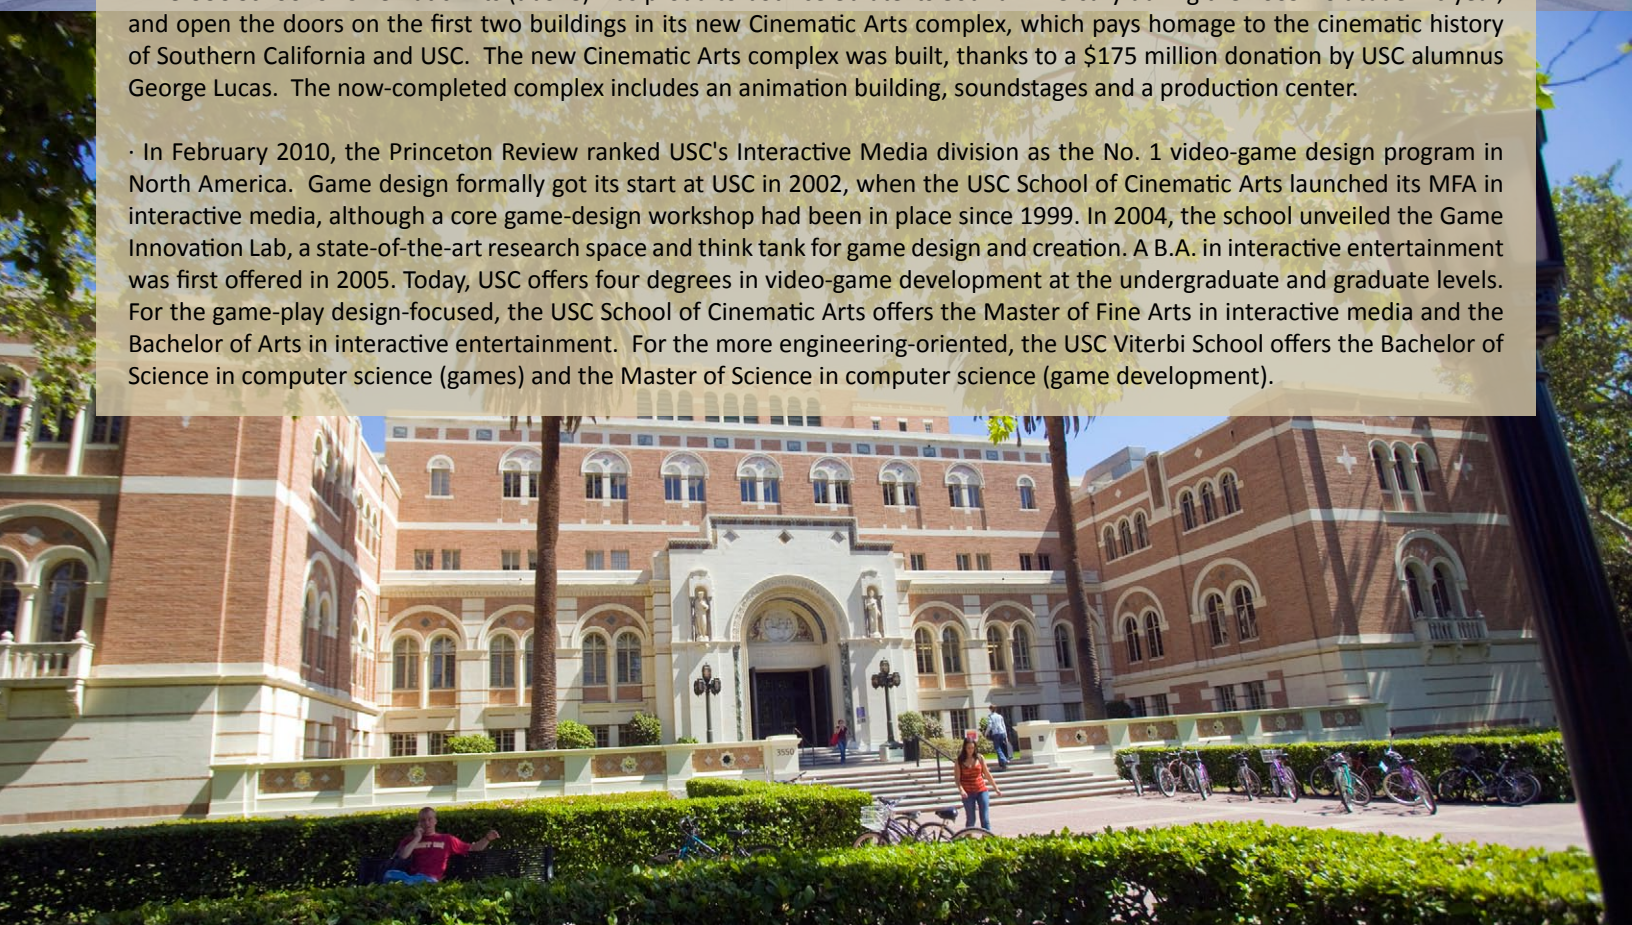
The Vision of USC

Did You Know?

· The USC School of Cinematic Arts (above) was proud to both celebrate its 80th anniversary during the 2009-10 academic year, and open the doors on the first two buildings in its new Cinematic Arts complex, which pays homage to the cinematic history of Southern California and USC. The new Cinematic Arts complex was built, thanks to a $175 million donation by USC alumnus George Lucas. The now-completed complex includes an animation building, soundstages and a production center.

· In February 2010, the Princeton Review ranked USC's Interactive Media division as the No. 1 video-game design program in North America. Game design formally got its start at USC in 2002, when the USC School of Cinematic Arts launched its MFA in interactive media, although a core game-design workshop had been in place since 1999. In 2004, the school unveiled the Game Innovation Lab, a state-of-the-art research space and think tank for game design and creation. A B.A. in interactive entertainment was first offered in 2005. Today, USC offers four degrees in video-game development at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For the game-play design-focused, the USC School of Cinematic Arts offers the Master of Fine Arts in interactive media and the Bachelor of Arts in interactive entertainment. For the more engineering-oriented, the USC Viterbi School offers the Bachelor of Science in computer science (games) and the Master of Science in computer science (game development).



The University of Southern California is a private research institution of international distinction. It is distinguished by renowned faculty, highly competitive admission standards, an appreciation of the arts and an innovative community service outreach program that was recognized by Time Princeton Review when USC was named College of the Year in 2000 and Newsweek/Kaplan College Guide's "Hot School of 2001."

Founded in 1880, it enrolls about 35,000 students annually on two campuses, the 235-acre University Park Campus in Exposition Park and the 50-acre Health Sciences Campus, three miles to the northeast of downtown Los Angeles.

USC is a unique and distinguished university with a proud tradition of achievement and unheralded success in all areas of study:

USC is a member of the Association of American Universities, a select group of 62 elite public and private universities in the United States and Canada that, together, do about two-thirds of all federally funded research and development.

USC has 63 faculty members who are members of national academies. Membership in these prestigious academies, created by Congress, is by election only and is based on a faculty member's distinguished and continuous achievements.

The University is the home of 17 professional schools, in addition to the College of Letters, Arts and Sciences. These schools train specialists in fields ranging from medicine and law to architecture, theatre, education and business.

USC undergraduates can design degrees from 77 major and 101 minors available in the College of Letters, Arts & Sciences, the Graduate School and Professional Schools.

- More than 229,000 living alumni in the Trojan Family
- 40 housing facilities available both on and off campus
- More than 300 clubs and student organizations
- Many of USC's undergraduate/graduate programs rank in the top 10 nationally
- 46 fraternities and sororities
- One of the nation's best academic reputations.

The Vision of USC

Did You Know?

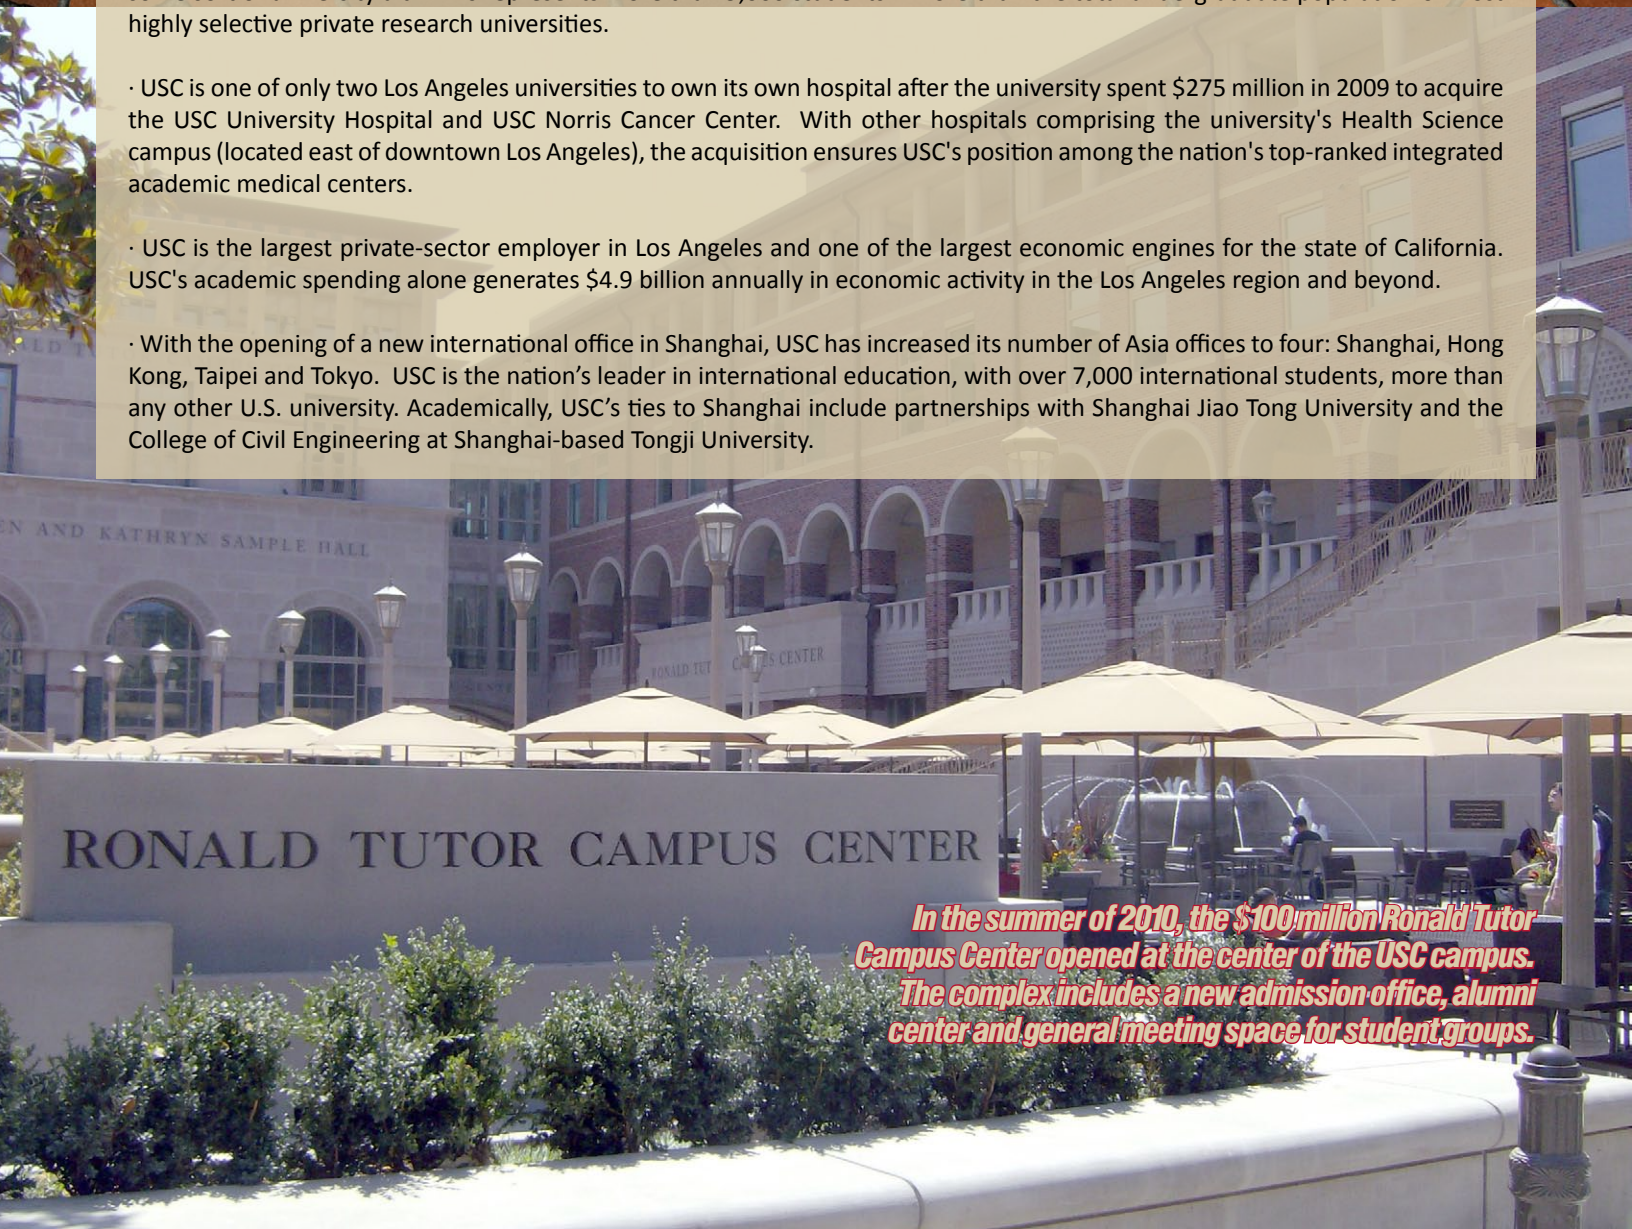
· USC was named No. 23 in the nation for the "best national universities" category by U.S. News & World Report in 2010. At 23rd, USC was tied with Carnegie Mellon University. U.S. News listed USC among only five institutions in the American West in the top 25; it also included Stanford (No. 5), the California Institute of Technology (No. 7), the University of California, Berkeley (No. 22) and UCLA (No. 25). From 1991 to date, USC has risen 28 places in the U.S. News rankings. Moreover, the university also was rated as having the third most economically diverse student body among top schools. Two USC schools were singled out in the rankings for quality: The USC Marshall School of Business was ranked No. 10 nationally and was listed as No. 4 in entrepreneurship and No. 5 in real estate. The USC Viterbi School of Engineering was rated 26th overall.

· USC's 2009 entering class is the most academically talented in the university's 129-year history. Despite a difficult economic environment, demand remained high, with 35,753 applications for 2,869 places in the class. Students' average standardized test scores are in the 94th percentile as compared to all students in the United States, and their average grade point average is 3.7. USC offers admission without regard to ability to pay, and the university meets 100 percent of the demonstrated need of on-time financial aid applicants. USC has the largest university-funded financial aid budget of any university in the country, providing more than $180 million each year of university funds to undergraduates. Almost 60 percent of USC's undergraduate students receive some sort of university aid. This represents more than 9,000 students – more than the total undergraduate population of most highly selective private research universities.

· USC is one of only two Los Angeles universities to own its own hospital after the university spent $275 million in 2009 to acquire the USC University Hospital and USC Norris Cancer Center. With other hospitals comprising the university's Health Science campus (located east of downtown Los Angeles), the acquisition ensures USC's position among the nation's top-ranked integrated academic medical centers.

· USC is the largest private-sector employer in Los Angeles and one of the largest economic engines for the state of California. USC's academic spending alone generates $4.9 billion annually in economic activity in the Los Angeles region and beyond.

· With the opening of a new international office in Shanghai, USC has increased its number of Asia offices to four: Shanghai, Hong Kong, Taipei and Tokyo. USC is the nation's leader in international education, with over 7,000 international students, more than any other U.S. university. Academically, USC's ties to Shanghai include partnerships with Shanghai Jiao Tong University and the College of Civil Engineering at Shanghai-based Tongji University.



In the summer of 2010, the $100 million Ronald Tutor Campus Center opened at the center of the USC campus. The complex includes a new admission office, alumni center and general meeting space for student groups.

The Trojan Family

The extended family of USC is a global network made up of thousands of alumni, students, faculty, and staff, as well as parents of students, SCions (children and grandchildren of alumni), the Board of Trustees, the boards of councilors, donors, athletic fans, and neighborhood partners. But the uniqueness of the Trojan Family isn't due to its vast numbers. Rather, it's the extraordinary closeness and solidarity that is found in this genuinely supportive community. To its members, the term "Trojan Family" is more than a phrase: it represents a promise, a commitment to support that is lifelong and worldwide.

USC ALMA MATER
"All Hail"

"All Hail to Alma Mater
To thy glory we sing;
All Hail to Southern California
Loud let thy praises ring;
Where Western sky meets
Western sea
Our college stands in majesty;
Sing our love to Alma Mater,
Hail, all hail to thee!"

Students

USC's diverse student body is a strength and source of pride. From its earliest days, USC aspired to diversity by instituting policies that assured no student would be denied admission because of race, color, religion, or gender. The university has attracted more international students over the years than any other American university. Currently, 11 percent of USC's students represent over 110 countries.

Equally important is the academic excellence that today's USC students bring. USC accepted 80 percent of applicants from the top 10 percent of their high schools. The 2009 entering class' SAT score average between 1930-2150 and GPA average is 3.7. But USC students are more than academic high-achievers. There have been more Trojans in the Olympics than any American university, and over 60 percent of the university's students volunteer in community-service programs in neighborhoods around campus and throughout LA. Outstanding, well-rounded students are a hallmark of USC.

Faculty

USC's faculty members aren't just teachers of others' works, but active contributors to what is taught, thought, and practiced throughout the world. The university's faculty includes Nobel Prize laureate George A. Olah and 63 members of the National Academy of Sciences, National Academy of Engineering, and, Institute of Medicine. More than 200 faculty members have received prestigious academic and professional awards from organizations as varied as National Institutes of Health, the National Science Foundation, the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, the National Endowment for the Humanities, the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation, and the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences.

Alumni

USC's first alumni association was founded in 1885, just a year after the university graduated its first class. Those initial eight men and women paved the way for today's more than 229,000-member USC Alumni Association. Trojan alumni span all 50 states and virtually every region of the world. As leaders in their communities and professions, they bring recognition to their alma mater. Distinguished alumni include former U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher, astronaut Neil Armstrong, architect Frank Gehry, opera singer Marilyn Horne, symphony conductor Michael Tilson Thomas, film director George Lucas, and baseball pitcher Mark Prior. The talents and commitment of its alumni are among USC's greatest strengths.

Did You Know?

· USC distributes $343 million in financial aid; over 60 percent of our students receive assistance.

· For the academic year, a total of 11 percent of the student body are first-generation college students.

And consider this:

· The student-to-faculty ratio is 10-to-1.

· The average class size is 26 students.

· Full-time faculty teach the vast majority of our courses.

· Students can get all the classes they need in order to graduate in four years.

· USC grads get great jobs, attend the best graduate and professional schools in the country (including our own) and are supported by the Trojan Family - a network of nearly a quarter million alumni.

Traveler

Traveler, the noble white horse that appears at all USC home football games with a regal Trojan warrior astride, is one of the most famous college mascots.

Traveler first made an appearance at USC football games in 1961. Bob Jani, then USC's director of special events, and Eddie Tannenbaum, then a junior at USC, had spotted Richard Saukko riding his white horse, Traveler I, in the 1961 Rose Parade. They persuaded Saukko to ride his white horse during USC games, serving as a mascot. Ever since, whenever USC scores, the band plays "Conquest" and Traveler gallops around the Coliseum.

The current Trojan mascot is Traveler VII. Even though the breed of horse may have changed over the years — Travelers I through VI ranged from an Arabian/Tennessee Walker to a pure-bred Tennessee Walker to a pure-bred Arabian to an Andalusian — Traveler's color has always remained pure white.

In the fall of 2004, USC alumnus Bill Tilley ('61) and his wife, Nadine, donated $2 million to provide a permanent endowment to support Traveler.

Besides the horses, USC once even had a canine mascot. A mutt named George Tirebiter I (famous for chasing cars through the USC campus) first appeared at football games in 1940. He survived a publicized dognapping by UCLA in 1947, but succumbed under the tires of an automobile in 1950. He was succeeded by George II for three years(1950-52), then George III for one year (1953) and finally George IV for one year (1957).

Tommy Trojan

In the center of the USC campus stands one of the most famous collegiate landmarks in the country: Tommy Trojan. Since being unveiled in 1930 for USC's 50th jubilee, the statue of the bronzed Trojan warrior has served not only as a popular meeting place on campus, but as a symbol of the university's fighting spirit.

Sculpted by Roger Noble Burnham, Tommy Trojan cost $10,000 to build. A $1 surcharge then on season football tickets helped pay for it. The statue is a composite of many USC football players from the late 20s, most notably 1930 Rose Bowl Player of the Game Russ Saunders and All-American Erny Pinckert.

Inscribed on the statue's base is "THE TROJAN" and the university's seal, with the Latin motto "Palmam qui meruit ferat (Let him who deserves it bear away the palm)." Below the seal are inscribed the qualities of the ideal Trojan: "Faithful, Scholarly, Skillful, Courageous and Ambitious."

Cardinal and Gold

Before 1895, the official color of USC was gold. The official color of the College of Liberal Arts was cardinal. The college had its own official color because it was the largest academic unit in the University. In 1895, both colors were adopted as USC's official colors.

"Trojans"

USC's nickname, "Trojans," originated in 1912. Up to that time, USC's teams were called the Methodists or Wesleyans, nicknames which were not looked upon with favor by university officials.

So, Warren Bovard, director of athletics and son of university president Dr. George Bovard, asked Los Angeles Times sports editor Owen Bird to select an appropriate nickname.

"At this time, the athletes and coaches of the university were under terrific handicaps," recalled Bird. "They were facing teams that were bigger and better-equipped, yet they had splendid fighting spirit. The name 'Trojans' fitted them."

The Spirit Of Troy

The Trojan Marching Band - known as "The Spirit of Troy" - is perhaps the most dynamic and innovative collegiate band in the nation. Named among the eight best marching bands in the country by USA Today, the band is one of the most visible tools of the University.

Established in 1880, the band has played for seven Presidents, appeared in numerous movies, commercials and television shows, and has even produced several records of its own music.

The band marches upwards of 80 miles a year while traveling across the land supporting almost every USC athletic team. A typical football halftime show by the band takes more than 4,000 work hours to prepare.

Now 300-plus members strong, the Trojan Marching Band has tripled in size since Dr. Arthur C. Bartner became its director in 1969.

The Pac-12 Conference

Built on a firm foundation of academic excellence and superior athletic performance, the Conference ushers in a new era with the additions of the University of Colorado and University of Utah, officially becoming the Pac-12 Conference on July 1, 2011.

The Pac-12 rises above the rest, upholding its tradition as the "Conference of Champions" ®, claiming an incredible 180 NCAA team titles over the past two decades, including nine in 2010-11, averaging nearly nine championships per academic year. Even more impressive has been the breadth of the Pac-12's success, with championships coming in 27 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-12 has led the nation in NCAA Championships in 45 of the last 51 years and finished second five times.

Spanning nearly a century of outstanding athletics achievements, the Pac-12 was the first conference to reach 400 championships in 2010-11. With the inclusion of CU and UU, league teams have captured 442 NCAA titles (302 men's, 140 women's), outdistancing the next closest conference by nearly 200.

The Conference's reputation is further proven in the annual Learfield Sports Directors' Cup competition, the prestigious award that honors the best overall collegiate athletics programs in the country. STANFORD continued its remarkable run and won its unprecedented 17th-consecutive Directors' Cup in 2010-11. Six of the top 25 Division I programs were Pac-12 member institutions: No. 1 STANFORD, No. 3 CALIFORNIA, No. 11 UCLA, No. 14 USC, No. 16 ARIZONA and No. 21 WASHINGTON. With two teams in the top five, it was the most of any conference.

The 2010-11 campaign was marked by the 25-year anniversary of women's sports in the Pac-10, with year-long focus on the milestone. And after commissioner Larry Scott made history at the end of his first year with the announcement of the expansion of the Conference to include the University of Colorado and the University of Utah, he put the Conference on the forefront, announcing a landmark television deal, which is set to go into affect in 2012-13, and established a Pac-12 Football Championship game in 2011.

In 2010-11, the then-Pac-10 led the country with nine NCAA titles, with men's and women's programs sharing the wealth as the Conference claimed five NCAA women's titles and four men's crowns.

CALIFORNIA, STANFORD and USC each won two NCAA Championships, while six different league institutions claimed titles. The Golden Bears swept the men's and women's swimming and diving crowns; the Cardinal hoisted the national championship trophy in men's gymnastics and women's water polo; and the Trojans were tops in men's water polo and men's tennis.

Claiming titles in softball (ARIZONA STATE), women's indoor track & field (OREGON), and women's golf (UCLA), the Pac-10 also had runners-up in 10 NCAA Championship events: women's volleyball (CALIFORNIA), women's soccer (STANFORD), women's gymnastics (UCLA), women's rowing (STANFORD), women's tennis (STANFORD), and women's track & field (OREGON). It was an all-Pac-10 final in men's and women's water polo, as well. Overall, the Conference had 32 teams finish in the top four at 18 NCAA Championship events.

Participation in the postseason was a common occurrence for the Pac-10 in 2010-11. Of the 22 sports sponsored by the Conference, 16 witnessed at least half its teams participating in NCAA or other postseason action. The men sent 66 of a possible 91 teams into the postseason (65.9 percent), while the women sent 69 of a possible 99 teams (69.7 percent).

The Conference experienced continued success in football as the league sent two teams to BCS Bowl games, with the Ducks earning a spot in the national championship bout. Overall, four went to bowls games. Oregon claimed its ninth Pac-10 crown in the sport, making its first-ever appearance in the BCS title game. Meanwhile, STANFORD (Discover Orange Bowl), ARIZONA (Valero Alamo Bowl), WASHINGTON (Holiday Bowl) also earned bowl bids. Oregon and Stanford were ranked in the top-5 of the Associated Press' poll at season's end, finishing third and fourth, respectively.

Pac-10 regular-season champion ARIZONA, tournament champion WASHINGTON, UCLA and USC represented the Conference in the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament, and three others competed in other postseason events. The Wildcats' run to the Elite Eight gave the league its 22nd appearance in the last 24 years. The CBI title returned to the Pac-10 after OREGON bested Creighton in a best-of-three series for the crown.

On the women's side, three teams competed in the NCAA Tournament and three others competed in postseason play. STANFORD made its fourth-consecutive NCAA Women's Final Four appearance after winning its fifth-straight Pac-10 Tournament crown. UCLA made its first back-to-back postseason outing for the first time since 1998-99. USC advanced to the WNIT championship game, while ARIZONA and CALIFORNIA were also invited to the event.

Without question, the Conference has dominated the softball field, winning 23 national championships in the sport since 1982 and six in a row after ARIZONA STATE hoisted the 2011 NCAA trophy, its second in three years. Seven Pac-10 teams earned NCAA Tournament bids, with two advancing to the NCAA Women's

Pac-12 Conference teams have won 26 baseball national championships (16 more than any other conference)

College World Series, including Pac-10 Champion ASU and CALIFORNIA.

Six Pac-10 baseball teams received NCAA Tournament bids in 2011. ARIZONA STATE, CALIFORNIA, OREGON STATE and STANFORD reached the Super Regionals, with Cal ultimately punching its ticket for the NCAA Men's College World Series, its first appearance in the CWS since 1992. ARIZONA, and UCLA also represented the Conference in the postseason event.

The Conference swept two men's and women's sports, capturing national championships in swimming & diving and water polo. CALIFORNIA took home both swimming & diving crowns. In water polo, USC was the top men's teams and the STANFORD women were national champs.

With the additions of Colorado and Utah, Pac-12 members have won 302 NCAA team championships on the men's side, 89 more than the next closest conference. Men's NCAA crowns have come at a phenomenal rate for the Pac-12 - 16 basketball titles by six schools (more than any other conference), 52 tennis titles, 44 outdoor track & field crowns, and 26 baseball titles. Pac-12 members have won 25 of 42 NCAA titles in volleyball, 37 of 42 in water polo, and 22 in swimming & diving national championships.

Individually, the Conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA men's individual champions, as well, boasting 2,019 individual crowns.

On the women's side, the story is much the same. Since the NCAA began conducting women's championships 30 years ago, Pac-12 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 22 occasions, including 2010-11. Overall, the Pac-12 has captured 140 NCAA women's titles, easily outdistancing the SEC, which is second, with 77. Pac-10 members have dominated a number of sports, winning 23 softball titles, 19 tennis crowns, 13 of the last 21 volleyball titles, 14 of the last 22 trophies in golf, and 12 in swimming & diving.

Pac-12 women student-athletes shine nationally on an individual basis, as well, having captured an unmatched 616 NCAA individual crowns, an average of nearly 21 championships per season.

Pac-12 Conference History

The roots of the Pac-12 Conference date back over 95 years to December 2, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at a meeting at the Oregon Hotel in Portland, Ore. The original membership consisted of four schools - the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State College (now Oregon State University). All still are charter members of the Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference play began in 1916 and, one year later, Washington State College (now Washington State University) was accepted into the league, with Stanford University following in 1918.

In 1922, the PCC expanded to eight teams with the admission of the University of Southern California (USC) and the University of Idaho. In 1924, the University of Montana joined the league roster, and in 1928, the PCC grew to 10 members with the addition of UCLA.

The Pacific Coast Conference competed as a 10-member league until 1950, with the exception of 1943-45 when World War II curtailed intercollegiate athletic competition to a minimum. During that time, the league's first commissioner was named. Edwin N. Atherton was Commissioner in 1940 and was succeeded by Victor O. Schmidt in 1944. In 1950, Montana resigned from the Conference and joined the Mountain States Conference. The PCC continued as a nine-team Conference through 1958.

In 1959, the PCC was dissolved and the Athletic Association of Western Universities was formed and Thomas J. Hamilton was appointed Commissioner of the new league. The original AAWU membership included California, Stanford, Southern California, UCLA and Washington. Washington State joined the membership in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State joined in 1964. Under Hamilton's watch, the name Pacific-8 Conference was adopted in 1968. In 1971, Wiles Hallock took over as Commissioner of the Pac-8.

Ten years later, on July 1, 1978, the University of Arizona and Arizona State University were admitted to the league and the Pacific-10 Conference became a reality. In 1986-87, the league took on a new look, expanding to include 10 women's sports. Thomas C. Hansen was named the Commissioner of the Pac-10 in 1983, a role he would hold for 26 years until 2009. Hansen was succeeded by current Commissioner Larry Scott, who took on the new role in July 2009.

During the 2010-11 academic year, Scott helped deliver monumental changes that transformed the Conference into a modern 12-team league. The Conference expanded by adding the University of Colorado and the University of Utah, agreed to equal revenue sharing for the first time in Conference history, created two divisions, the North and the South, for football only, established a Football Championship Game for the first time ever, secured a landmark media rights deal that dramatically increased national exposure and revenue for each school and established the Pac-12 Network and Pac-12 Digital Network that guaranteed enhanced exposure across all sports.

The University of Colorado accepted its invitation to join the Pac-12 on June 11, 2010, and on June 17, 2010, the University of Utah agreed to join the Conference. The Buffaloes and Utes officially became the 11th and 12th members of the Conference July 1, 2011, the first additions to the league since 1978. During the 33 years between expansions, Conference teams claimed 258 NCAA titles, including 130 women's and 128 men's.

Currently, the Pac-12 sponsors 11 men's sports and 11 women's sports. Additionally, the Conference is a member of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) in four other men's sports and three women's sports.

The Pac-12 Conference offices are located 25 miles east of San Francisco in Walnut Creek, Calif.

National Championships

USC has long dominated the world of intercollegiate athletics. In fact, it could be argued that Troy was the "Collegiate Athletic Program of the 20th Century." USC men and women have combined for 113 national team titles.

Trojan men's teams are tops in the nation in NCAA championships with 77 — more than any other university. Overall, USC's men have won 91 national championships.

USC has won the National Collegiate All-Sports Championship--an annual ranking by USA Today (previously The Knoxville Journal) of the country's top men's athletic programs — 6 times (1971-72-74-75-77-80) since its inception in 1971.

USC's women are also a force, with 23 national team titles, all since 1976.

From 1959-60 to 1984-85, USC put together an amazing streak. In each of those 26 years, at least one Trojan team won a national championship (including five crowns in both 1962-63 and 1976-77).

The USC Athletic Experience

USC has a proud athletic heritage — and with good reason. Arguably, Troy could be regarded as one of the best collegiate athletic programs in the nation:

· Trojan teams have won more national championships, 90 men's (including a national-best 77 men's NCAA titles) and 23 women's, than all but two other universities

· The Trojans won at least one national team title in 26 consecutive years (1959-60 to 1984-85)

· USC has won the National College All-Sports Championship — an annual ranking by USA Today (previously the Knoxville Journal) of the country's top men's athletic programs — six times since its inception in 1971

· USC has won the annual Gauntlet Trophy, a year-long all-sports competition between Troy and crosstown rival UCLA, six times (2002, 2004, 2006, 2008, 2009, 2010)

· Trojan men athletes have won more individual NCAA titles (302) than those from any other school in the nation (the Women of Troy have brought home another 56 individual NCAA crowns)

· Troy has also established a stellar reputation and a long tradition of nurturing Olympic athletes. Since 1904, 392 Trojan athletes have competed in the Games, taking home 122 gold medals (with at least one gold in every summer Olympics since 1912), 76 silver and 60 bronze (medal count before 2008 Olympics)

· Four Trojans have won the prestigious Sullivan Award as the top amateur athlete in America: diver Sammy Lee (1953), shot putter Parry O'Brien (1959), swimmer John Naber (1977) and Janet Evans (1989)

· Two Women of Troy athletes have won the Honda-Broderick Cup as the top collegiate woman athlete of the year: Cheryl Miller (1983-84) and Angela Williams (2001-02)

· USC has won six Heisman Trophy winners with the most recent winners being Carson Palmer (2002) and Matt Leinart (2004).

· Along with the great accomplishments on the playing fields, USC student-athletes have received 50 NCAA Postgraduate Scholarships, in the top 10 among all schools. In addition, USC has had 29 first team Academic All-Americans and four athletes who were Rhodes Scholars

Dedeaux Field

You knew there had to be something special about Dedeaux Field from the day it first opened its gates on March 30, 1974.

Righthander Russ McQueen threw a no-hitter that afternoon in the first game ever played at Dedeaux Field as USC swept a doubleheader from California. The Trojans went on to win the national championship that year and Dedeaux Field has been their home ever since.

The 2011 season will mark the 38th season of play at Dedeaux Field, where USC has a record of 736-370-1.

One of the nation's finest collegiate baseball structures, Dedeaux Field has continually been improved over recent years with the grandest project taking place before the 2002 season. A $4 million project signified the largest improvement made to the facility as a new clubhouse and players' lounge were added on the first base side. Expanded offices for the coaching staff and new Hall of Fame were also part of the project, along with a new restroom pavilion. Prior Plaza, named after Jerry and Millie Prior (parents of former Trojan Mark Prior), is located on the first base side and features USC's All-Americans and players who have played in the majors.

During the 2008 season, the million-dollar Rod Dedeaux Research for Baseball Institute (RDRBI) added redesigned batting cages, a new weight room and state-of-the-art video motion analysis. A brand-new Daktronics scoreboard with a video board also was installed and the outfield wall was replaced with a fence that features padding to protect players.

Prior to the start of the 2011 season, USC spent $600,000 to replace the lights with a system that meets NCAA-mandated requirements in order to host postseason play. The baseball program also dedicated the scoreboard in honor of former head coach and player Mike Gillespie as well as naming the batting cages for the Boone Family, which included former USC players Aaron and Bret Boone.

A new bleacher section was added on the first base side, pushing capacity to 2,500 at Dedeaux Field. In the fall of 2003, the drainage system was upgraded with new grass installed for the entire field.

Prior to the 2000 season, the press box was expanded while in 1994, a state-of-the-art scoreboard/message center, which was donated by the Port Family in memory of Al Port, whose two sons, Randy (1967-69) and Jeff (70-72), both played baseball at USC, and whose grandson, Ryan, also was a part of the program was built in right field.

Dedeaux Field has also been used extensively by the entertainment industry. It has been the site of MTV's "Rock-and-Jock" softball game and was used in the production and filming of several motion pictures, including "Mr. Baseball," "The Big Leaguer," "A League of Their Own" and "For Love of the Game."

Just minutes away from downtown Los Angeles, the field is located on the northwest corner of the USC campus near the intersection of Jefferson and Vermont streets.

The Trojans (above) celebrate after Michael Moon's walk-off two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth on May 26, 2001, in a 4-3 come-from-behind win against Pepperdine at the NCAA Regional. Down 3-1, USC rallied on a leadoff double by Josh Persell and RBI single by Bill Peavey. After a failed bunt attempt and a 1-2 count against him, Moon homered to right off Pepperdine's Noah Lowry for the game-winner.

Athletic Facilities

Heritage Hall, which sits in the middle of the USC campus, houses the University's athletic department and celebrates the glorious Trojan athletic heritage.

Originally 48,000 square feet and built at a cost of $2.8 million, the three-level brick and concrete colonnaded building opened in 1971 and since then it has been expanded three times.

Between the north and south wings on the building's ground level are some of USC's numerous athletic trophies, including various NCAA team championships, six Heisman Trophies and the jerseys of Troy's winners, and updated displays honoring recent successful Trojan athletes. Plaques commemorating the members of USC's Athletic Hall of Fame are located in the patio. The Honors Rail, which encircles the open-air foyer above the first floor lobby, has bronze medallions saluting every Trojan who won an Olympic gold medal, captured an NCAA individual championship, or was named a first team All-American in an NCAA sport in which there are no individual champions.

The underground lower level of Heritage Hall houses various locker rooms, plus the equipment room, medical training room, the Jess Hill Weight Room, and the McAlister Academic Resource Center.

The Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum is the home of the USC football program, a historic facility that first opened in 1923 and has been the host for two Olympics (1932 and 1984). The Coliseum is located just south of the USC campus.

USC's swimming and water polo coaches are located in the nearby Kennedy Aquatics Building, while the baseball staff has offices at Dedeaux Field which underwent a $4-million renovation in 2002 to add 700 additional seats, chairback seats, a player's lounge, remodeled coaches offices and hall of fame.

Outside the northwest corner of Heritage Hall, the $3-million Galen Center — a popular sports-themed dining and activity center — opened in early 1999.

USC's other on-campus athletic facilities include Howard Jones (football practice field), the McDonald's Swim Stadium, Marks Tennis Stadium, Cromwell Field and Katherine B. Loker Stadium (men's and women's track) and McAlister Field (women's soccer).

In October of 2006, the brand new, 10,258-seat, on-campus events center, Galen Center, opened and houses the men's and women's volleyball and men's and women's basketball programs. The Galen Center features a weight room and training room with locker rooms for all four teams. The Galen Center allows all four teams to be able to practice at the same time with three full volleyball courts available for the USC women's volleyball program.

Athletic Facilities

In January of 2011, the USC athletic department broke ground on the new John McKay Center, a $70 million, 110,000-square foot facility on the west side of Heritage Hall that will house meeting rooms, coaches offices and a locker room for the football program, as well as an academic center, weight room, athletic training room and state-of-the-art digital media production facility for all of USC's 21 sports.

Construction is expected to take 18 months for completion in mid-2012.

Los Angeles

The University of Southern California is nestled in the city of Los Angeles, the second-largest city in the United States with nearly four million residents. In fact the combined population for Los Angeles County and Orange County (located east) is close to 13 million people.

Nicknamed "The City of Angels", the Los Angeles metropolitan area is the third-highest economic center in the world behind New York and Tokyo. Los Angeles is one of the most diverse cities in terms of demographics in the United States and benefits from one of the mildest climates.

The average temperature is 66 degrees during the year with an average high of 75 degrees as the city receives on average just 35 days of precipitation.

Not only do residents in Los Angeles enjoy year-round sunshine, but they can drive from the beach to the mountains or to the desert within a two-hour drive.

With the many activities and attractions available in the area, Los Angeles has not only been a destination for many tourists, but one of the best cities in the world to call home.

ROD DEDEAUX - THE ARCHITECT OF USC BASEBALL

On January 5, 2006, the USC baseball program suffered the loss of Rod Dedeaux, one of the greatest college coaches ever, who passed away at the age of 91.

Not only was Dedeaux the main architect for the success of the USC baseball program, but also one of the great ambassadors for college baseball and amateur baseball in international competition.

In his 45-year tenure at USC (1942-86), Dedeaux led the Trojans to 11 national championships and 28 conference titles. He posted an overall record of 1,332-571-11 for a superb .699 winning percentage. At his retirement, he had won more games than any other college baseball coach (he currently ranks seventh among Division I coaches).

His teams from 1970-74 won five straight NCAA championships, a record that may never be broken. No other school has won more than two in a row.

Two personal honors for Dedeaux, which are quite fitting considering his accomplishments, came in 1999 when he was named "Coach of the Century" by both Baseball America and Collegiate Baseball.

As part of the 50th anniversary of the College World Series in 1996, Dedeaux was named the head coach of the All-Time CWS team by a panel of former World Series coaches, media and college baseball officials. In 1999, he was presented with keys to the city of Omaha (home to the College World Series).

Dedeaux was named Coach of the Year six times by the American Baseball Coaches Association and was inducted into the organization's Hall of Fame in 1970. He received the ABCA's Lefty Gomez Award in 1980 as "an individual that has distinguished himself amongst his peers and has contributed significantly to the game of baseball locally, nationally, and internationally." In 1989, he was awarded the U.S. Baseball Federation's W.P. "Dutch" Fehring Award of Merit for outstanding service.

Dedeaux helped develop 59 major leaguers, including such top stars as Tom Seaver, Mark McGwire, Randy Johnson, Fred Lynn, Dave Kingman, Roy Smalley, Don Buford, Ron Fairly, Rich Dauer, Steve Busby, Jim Barr and Steve Kemp.

Rod spearheaded the development of amateur baseball nationally and internationally. He was instrumental in bringing baseball to the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles as a demonstration sport and coached the silver medal-winning U.S. team. He also coached the U.S. amateur team that played in Tokyo in conjunction with the 1964 Olympics.

Dedeaux founded the USA-Japan Collegiate World Series in 1972. He served as Series Chairman from 1972-84 and later as Chairman Emeritus. Dedeaux also was honored in May of 1996 by the Japanese government with the Fourth Order of Merit — Cordon of the Rising Sun award.

Hollywood enlisted Dedeaux's expertise as well, inviting him to serve as a technical director and consultant for two highly successful movies: "Field of Dreams" and "A League of Their Own."

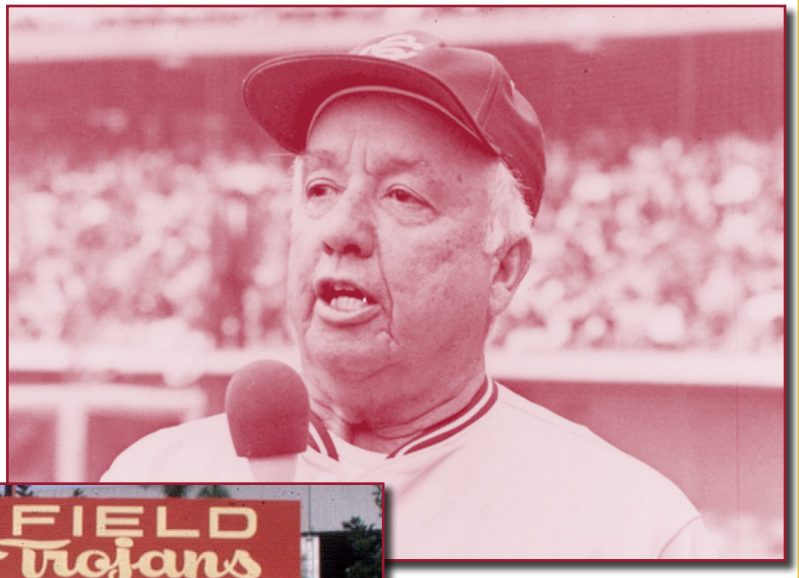
On Feb. 14, 2004, the Trojans opened the regular season by celebrating Rod Dedeaux's 90th birthday (Rod's actual birthday is Feb. 17, 1914). The legendary play-by-play announcer of the Los Angeles Dodgers Vin Scully (center) and former owner Peter O'Malley (right) were on hand, along with one of Dedeaux's closest friends, former Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda. Over 100 former Trojans, including Tom Seaver and Roy Smalley, attended the festivities. Remarkably, USC's first national championship squad from 1948 was well-represented as 15 members of that team were in attendance.

Dedeaux played baseball at USC and was a three-year letterman as the starting shortstop from 1933-35. He played briefly in the Major Leagues with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1935.

During the 1930s, Dedeaux started Dart Transportation, Inc., a company that eventually grew into a million-dollar trucking firm that specializes in world-wide distribution. Even until his passing, Dedeaux served as the company's president and was a daily fixture with the company.

Born on Feb. 17, 1914, in New Orleans, Dedeaux moved to California as a youngster and was a baseball star at Hollywood (Calif.) High.

"Tiger" will be sorely missed, but the legacy of Rod Dedeaux and his impact on others will always live on.



The following excerpts are from a 1976 Jim Murray column in the Los Angeles Times:

"... But the greatest farm club in the history of the major leagues ... and the most consistent supplier of major league talent the past 10 years is a franchise maintained at no cost to baseball. It finds and signs its own prospects, suits them up, develops them, refines them, weeds them out — and then turns them over to the big leagues fully polished and ready for the World Series.

"The University of Southern California baseball team is to the majors what the Mesabi range is to steel or the forest is to Weyerhauser — a seemingly limitless supply of basic ore or timber.

"... Rod Dedeaux went to bat only four times in the big leagues. Nevertheless he probably should go to the Hall of Fame as a man who has done as much for the great game in his own way as Babe Ruth."

PRONUNCIATION GUIDE

AGUIRRE, J.R. .....uh-GEAR-ee
COTTO LOZADA, Omar .....KOH-toe

In May of 2011, after his team showed steady improvement during his season as interim head coach, Frank Cruz was installed as the head coach of the USC baseball program on a fulltime basis with seven games to play.

Now in 2012, Cruz returns for his first full season at the helm of the most successful college baseball program in the country. He is determined to return USC to the upper echelon of collegiate baseball, one that has a history steeped in tradition and an unequalled 12 national championships.

This will be Cruz's eighth year with the program - four seasons as an assistant coach (1993-96), two seasons as the volunteer coach and the majority of last season as interim head coach. He has assembled a staff of former Trojan players to assist coaching and guiding the program into the future.

Former Trojan pitcher Dan Hubbs (1990-93) joins the staff from California and will serve as pitching coach and associate head coach while also handling recruiting. Former Trojan shortstop Gabe Alvarez (1993-95) returns for his second season as full-time assistant coach. New additions and former Trojan catchers, Jason Brown (1994-97) and Eric Munson (1997-99) round out the staff as assistants.

"We are thrilled to have a staff of former Trojan ballplayers that can teach and mold the young men in our program," said Cruz. "Each of them bring the dedication and passion for the game necessary to lead us in the right direction."

With the new regime now firmly in place at Dedeaux Field, the 2012 Trojans look to build on the improvement of last season.

After winning just three of its first 12 games of 2011 and then falling eight games under .500 by midseason, USC won nine of its next 11 contests to nearly even its record before a late six-game losing skid halted its momentum. The Trojans finished 25-31 overall and 13-14 in the Pac-10 (seventh place). Twenty of USC's losses were by four runs or less, including seven one-run defeats. Half of USC's Pac-10 losses were by four runs or less.

Here is a position-by-position outlook for the Trojans:

CATCHERS

Catching will be the strength of this year's team, led by senior Kevin Roundtree (.308, 1 HR, 11 RBI in 2011). His .308 batting average and .404 slugging percentage ranked third on the team. He led the team with 38 runs scored, and tied for the lead with 11 doubles while putting up 64 hits (2nd on the team) and appearing in all but one game for the Trojans. He is backed by young talent; sophomore Jake Hernandez (.200, 6 RBI) and freshman Garret Stubbs (Torrey Pines HS). Hernandez and Stubbs could also see action at first base and the outfield, respectively, as both handled the bat well in the fall. Additionally, sophomore Nick Bast adds depth to the position.

"Roundtree had a fabulous year defensively for us, threw out a high percentage of runners and was a very consistent hitter," said Cruz. "He handled the pitchers well and even called his own, game which is very unusual at the college level. Hernandez has steadily improved on offense and defense and is athletic enough to play another position as well. Additionally, Stubbs has shown a natural knack to catch. He's a great catch-and-throw guy with a strong arm and he is a strong left-handed hitter. Against right-handers you could see all three of them in the lineup because of their bats."

INFIELDERS

Junior Adam Landecker (.280, 16 RBI) is coming off an error-free 2011 conference campaign and brings strong leadership to the team at third base. His 3 triples tied for first on the team and he ranked third in on base percentage at .390 while appearing in 51 games. He will be backed by sophomore Kevin Swick (.258, 4 RBI), who could also see time in the outfield and freshman Trent Boras (J Serra HS) could come off the bench.

"We expect big things from Landecker this year," said Cruz. "He had a productive fall with the bat and, mixed with his defense, will be a key player for us."

After starting every game last season, sophomore James Roberts (.274, 1 HR, 15 RBI) returns as the team's starter at shortstop. With added strength and an improved bat, Roberts is expected to hit anywhere from 2 to 5 in the lineup this season. In 2011, his 49 hits were good for fifth on the team, while he was third in walks with 17 and was hit by a pitch a team-leading 15 times resulting in a .384 on base percentage.

"Roberts is a tremendous defender and he will be our quarterback at the shortstop position," said Cruz. "He is one of the smartest and most fundamentally-sound ballplayers I have coached and solidifies us up the middle. I think he will also have a great year at the plate."

Dante Flores (St. John Bosco HS), a highly-touted freshman who has impressed coaches with his bat since arriving on campus, is expected to start at second base for the Trojans. Another talented freshman, Andres Rodriguez (La Mirada HS) will provide solid defense off the bench for the Trojans as well.

"Flores has a sweet maintenance-free swing that should fit well into our lineup," said Cruz. "He is going to play a lot of innings for us and will make an instant impact as a freshman."

Senior Matt Foat (.262, 1 HR, 26 RBI) looks to be the starter at first base after finishing third on the team in RBI's last season. He may share playing time with senior Brandon Garcia (.309, 2 HR, 22 RBI), whose .309 batting average was third on the team, and whose .397 slugging percentage was fourth. Hernandez could see time as well as the Trojans will look for maximum offensive production.

"Foat is a tremendous leader with an impeccable work ethic," said Cruz. "We know he can swing the bat and he has improved his defensive skills. Both Garcia and Hernandez can handle the bat, so we have options."

OUTFIELDERS

Garrett Houts (.290, 7 RBI), a fifth-year senior, will enter the season as the Trojans starting center fielder after batting .324 in Pac-10 play last season. Senior Alex Sherrod (.318, 6 HR, 35 RBI) will man right field and he is expected to be an offensive threat in the middle of the order. His .486 slugging percentage led the team and he was second in both batting average at .316 and in home runs with six.

The left field spot will provide a good competition this year. Fourth-year junior Sean Spear (Glendale C.C.) hit .339 for Glendale C.C. last season and brings speed to the outfield and basepaths. Sophomore Omar Cotto and junior J.R. Aguirre have both shown improvement and could work their way into the rotation as well. Freshmen Bobby Stahel (Palos Verdes HS) who led the nation with 93 stolen bases during his junior season at Palos Verdes HS, and Nigel Nootbaar (El Segundo HS), a threat on the mound and with the bat, have shown flashes of excitement and could also be called to action. Freshmen Will Morrow (Corona Del Mar HS) and Scott Hahn (Tesoro HS) are battling for the remaining reserve positions.

"Houts and Sherrod bring athleticism, offense and solid defense to the outfield," said Cruz. "If Sherrod can stay healthy, he has all the tools to have a big year for us. Houts has improved his bat and also adds to the strength up the middle."

PITCHERS

With a mix of veteran talent and intriguing freshman arms, the competition on the USC pitching staff will be intense as starting and relief jobs are still open.

Senior Andrew Triggs (5-4, 3.67 ERA, 90 2/3 IP, 72 SO), who led the team in wins, ERA and strikeouts, was drafted in the 21st round of last year's draft by the San Francisco Giants. He is an Academic All-American candidate, and returns to USC to assume the Friday starter spot. After an impressive summer in the Cape Cod League where he won Top Pitcher honors, Ben Mount (1-2, 5.15 ERA, 43 2/3 IP, 30 SO) looks to step into the role of Saturday starter. The battle for the remaining rotation spots includes 1B/DH Garcia (2-5, 8.73 ERA, 33 IP, 29 SO) and sophomore Bobby Wheatley (1-1, 6.39 ERA, 12 2/3 IP, 5 SO), as well as two top freshman recruits; Stephen Tarpley (Gilbert HS) and Wyatt Strahan (Villa Park HS).

"We feel like Triggs was our biggest recruit last year coming back for his fifth year," said Cruz. "He has great maturity and has developed a solid changeup that we are excited about. Ben had a fantastic summer and we think he will do a nice job in the middle of the rotation for us. The third starter spot is probably going to come down to four guys. Brandon has done well for us in starting roles in the past. Wheatley has really improved his off-speed pitches in the off season. We are also impressed with our two freshmen. All of our guys have said that Tarpley was tough to hit this fall and Strahan has a plus changeup and a plus curve. One of those four will also emerge as the midweek starter."

Several experienced relievers are back for the Trojans. Left-hander Kyle Richter (2-3, 4.01 ERA, 33 2/3 IP, 21 SO) got some spot starts last season while making 23 appearances and will be counted on again this year. Lefties Wheatley and Brad Douthit (7.88 ERA, 8 IP, 3 SO) will also be valuable assets in relief.

Right-hander Matt Munson (0-1, 5.19 ERA, 26 IP, 18 SO) was a key arm last season making a team-high 24 relief appearances and will need to be a contributor again this year. Sophomore James Guillen (Damien HS) returns for the Trojans and will be a key piece out of the bullpen in addition to new comer Corey Carma (Hartnell College). Fellow righties Brett Williams, Jordan Hershiser and Nick Berhel are coming off injuries last season but continue to progress. The dark horse of the group may be senior transfer Martin Viramontes who brings big game experience to the bullpen from his three seasons spent at Loyola Marymount. The closer spot may not be decided until the final days leading up to the home opener.

USC will take advantage of having four two-way players on the team in Garcia, Sherrod, Roberts and Nootbaar and Cruz expects all three to make an impact in the bullpen if called upon.

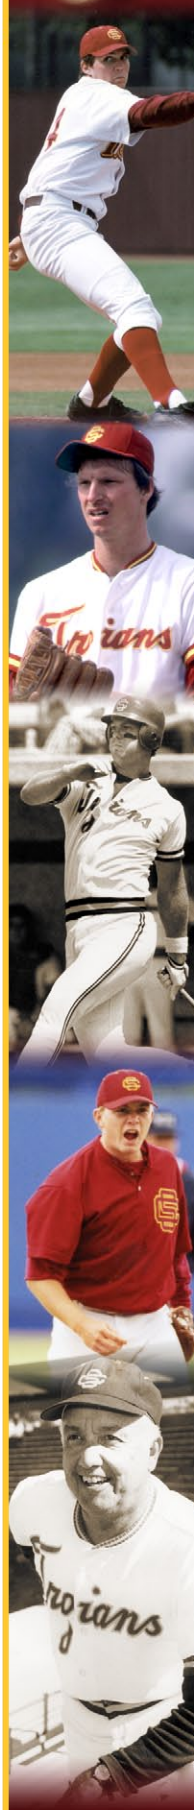
"We have some quality arms in the bullpen coming back for us this year," said Cruz. "Munson will be a big piece for us this season and some of our younger guys could also get work in relief."

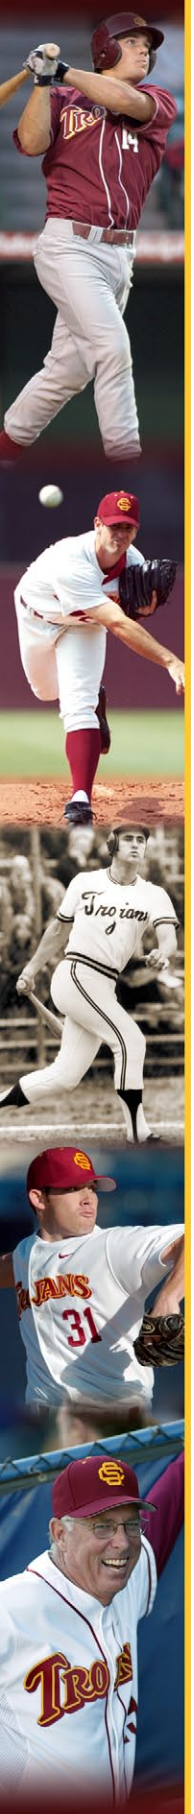
USC will have its work cut out in 2012, especially with a schedule that features nine teams from the preseason Top 25 Poll. The Pac-12 Conference schedule alone pits USC against six teams that qualified for last year's NCAA Tournament last year. The Trojans' road prospects won't ease up as they will play at powers UCLA, Stanford, Arizona State, Oregon and Washington State in conference play.

The non-conference schedule is equally challenging with home series against Jacksonville and Akron as well as midweek games at Long Beach State and Pepperdine. The Trojans then travel to North Carolina for a three-game set before returning home to host Cal State Fullerton and Cal State Bakersfield. USC will face UCLA at the Dodgertown Classic in a non-conference meeting and play midweek contests with UC Irvine, Cal State Bakersfield, Cal State Fullerton and UC Santa Barbara to round out the schedule.

"The Pac-12 is home to some of the best baseball in the country," said Cruz. "We face nine teams in the Top-25 during our season and six that had a shot at the title last year. It won't be an easy road and our guys know that. Playing baseball at USC is about facing the best in the country head on and not backing down. We will work hard and compete every pitch of every game.

"USC baseball has a very proud and distinguished history to maintain. It is our goal to return the program to that state and I have no doubt we are headed in the right direction."





#13 FRANK CRUZ

HEAD COACH

2nd Year/8th Year at USC

Frank Cruz enters his first full season at the helm of the USC baseball program. Cruz was named interim head coach prior to the 2011 season with the interim tag taken off by athletic director Pat Haden in May 2011 after two seasons as USC's volunteer assistant coach during his second tour of duty with the Trojans.

Cruz spent four seasons at Troy as an assistant coach (1993-96) under former head coach Mike Gillespie prior to his 12-year tenure as head coach at Loyola Marymount (1997-2008).

During his four years as an assistant coach at USC, the Trojans compiled a 169-86-1 record and made four straight NCAA Tournament appearances. In 1995, USC made its first College World Series appearance in 17 years, reaching the championship game and finishing with a 49-21 record.

As LMU's head coach, he had a 329-356-3 record. He finished ranked eighth in West Coast Conference history for overall victories and sixth in conference wins (170). The Lions won three straight WCC titles from 1998-2000 as well as making three consecutive appearances in the NCAA Tournament.

Cruz was named assistant coach for the 2000 United States National Team as the squad compiled a 27-3-1 record, finishing the season with a 21-game unbeaten streak. Team USA beat Cuba twice to win the 2000 IBAF Tournament in the Netherlands.

USA Baseball invited Cruz back to the program again in 2004, this time as the head coach for Team USA. The team won the program's first gold medal at the FISU World University Championships in Taiwan, winning 12 of its final 14 games. He was named 2004 IBF International Coach of the Year and U.S. National Development Coach of the Year.

Before USC, he was the head coach at University High School in Los Angeles, posting a 152-68 career record. He led University to the 1988 L.A. City baseball title, four Western League crowns (1988-90-91-92) and six trips to the city baseball playoffs.

He attended Santa Monica College and transferred to Pepperdine, where he earned a bachelor's degree in 1983 in physical education and master's degree in 1989 in education. He is a graduate of St. Monica High School and resides in West Los Angeles.

#41 DAN HUBBS

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH

1st Year

Dan Hubbs begins his first season at USC as associate head coach. He will be the Trojans' pitching coach and recruiting coordinator after 12 seasons at California (2000-11).

At California, the 40-year-old Hubbs regularly produced team ERAs among the lowest in the Pac-10. Three times, his pitching staff set a school record for season strikeouts, including 475 in 2011 when the Golden Bears--a program that was slated to be discontinued after 2011 due to budget cuts but was saved through fundraising efforts--advanced to the College World Series for the first time since 1992. His 2011 staff was second in the Pac-10 with a 2.90 team ERA, posted 11 shutouts and at one point went 47 innings without allowing an earned run.

Besides being a top recruiter, he helped develop some of the greatest pitchers in Cal history, including current major leaguers Brandon Morrow, who became the school's highest draft pick ever (fifth in 2006), and Tyson Ross, Freshman All-Americans Kevin Miller (2008), Justin Jones (2010) and Kyle Porter (2011) and 2011 All-Pac-10 first teamer Erik Johnson. He produced Pac-10 save leaders in 2001 (Matt Brown) and 2004 (Jesse Ingram) and the school's career strikeout leader (Trevor Hutchinson). He had 4 pitchers drafted in 2011 and 3 in 2008, and saw 25 of his pitchers sign professional baseball contracts.

Before going to Cal, Hubbs was the pitching coach of the Yakima Bears (a short-season single A minor league Los Angeles Dodgers affiliate in Yakima, Wash.) and assisted Pepperdine during the 1999 season.

Hubbs was a 3-year (1991-93) letterman at USC, including as a senior in 1993 when Cruz was in his first year as a USC assistant. He currently is fourth on the Trojans' career saves list (22) and eighth on the career strikeouts per inning chart (9.19). He posted a career record of 19-13 with a 3.58 ERA in 81 appearances (64 in relief).

After seeing action in just 4 games as a 1990 freshman, he had a 7-2 record with a 3.60 ERA as a relief pitcher in 1991 as the Trojans won the Pac-10 title. He went 7-6 in 1992 with a 3.97 ERA as a starter. He returned to the bullpen in 1993, setting the since-broken USC season saves record (a national-best 18) while going 5-5 with a 2.96 ERA and a team-high 90 strikeouts as he earned All-American first team and All-Pac-10 first team honors. The Trojans advanced to the NCAA Regionals in 1990, 1991 and 1993.

Hubbs earned a bachelor's degree in finance from USC in 1993.

He had a seven-year (1993-99) minor league career with the Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies. He finished second in the Dodgers' organization with 126 strikeouts in 1994. In 1996, he went a combined 16-1 between AAA Albuquerque (7-1) and La Romana (9-0) of the Dominican winter league, and was named to Baseball America's Winter League All-Star Team. He led the Pacific Coast League in appearances in 1997, taking the mound 62 times in a 144-game season. He finished his career with a 27-16 record with nine saves and a 3.75 ERA. In 427 innings, he struck out 436 while walking only 172.

He was born on Jan. 23, 1971. He and his wife, Alison, a USC graduate, have 2 sons, Patrick (11) and Charlie (8)

#9 GABE ALVAREZ

ASSISTANT COACH

2nd Year

Gabe Alvarez enters his second year as assistant coach, returning to his alma mater.

Alvarez played at USC as a shortstop from 1993-95 and had a career .338 batting average for the Trojans with 28 home runs and 163 RBI. He earned Baseball America All-America second team honors in his 1993 freshman season after batting .326 with eight home runs and 53 RBI. In 1994, he was a first team All-America pick by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association after batting .326 with seven home runs and 51 RBI.

In 1995, he was part of the Trojan squad that made its first trip to the College World Series since 1978 as USC reached the national title game. After batting .361 with 13 home runs and 59 RBI, Alvarez earned ABCA and NCBWA All-America first team, Collegiate Baseball All-America second team and Baseball America All-America third team honors.

He was a second-round selection in the 1995 major league baseball draft by the San Diego Padres and played three seasons in the major leagues (1998-2000). He was drafted by the Arizona Diamondbacks in the 1997 expansion draft before being traded to the Detroit Tigers. He made his debut in 1998 with the Tigers, batting .231 with five home runs and 29 RBI. He was eventually traded to the San Diego Padres in 2000, where he finished his career by playing 92 total major league games.

The El Monte native and graduate from Bishop Amat High is single and has a 10-year-old daughter, Madison.

Second year assistant coach Gabe Alvarez

#42 JASON BROWN

ASSISTANT COACH

1st Year

Former USC and professional baseball player Jason Brown enters his first season on the staff after being named assistant coach by USC head coach Frank Cruz.

"We are very excited to bring another former Trojan baseball player aboard," said Cruz. "He has always been a huge supporter of USC baseball going back to his playing days and he has a relentless work ethic that we envision rubbing off on our players. Jason is going to be an asset for us in teaching and coaching all aspects of the game."

Brown saw action as a catcher, first baseman, designated hitter and outfielder at USC from 1994 to 1997, posting a career batting average of .311 with 14 home runs and 77 RBI. He earned All-Pac-10 honorable mention honors as a senior in 1997, while hitting .368 with 10 home runs and 45 RBI.

In 1995, he was a part of the Trojan squad that made its first trip to the College World Series since 1978 as USC reached the national title game.

He signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers as an undrafted free agent in 1997 and played in the Dodgers' system until 2000. Brown went on to play another eight seasons in the farm systems of the Tampa Bay Rays, Florida Marlins, Pittsburgh Pirates, Montreal Expos and New York Yankees.

Brown made the switch to coaching in 2009 as a varsity assistant coach at his alma mater, Palos Verdes High School. He spent the past two seasons as an assistant coach of the Orleans Firebirds of the Cape Cod League.

He holds a degree in business administration from USC.

#30 ERIC MUNSON

ASSISTANT COACH

1st Year

Former USC All-American catcher and third overall pick in the 1999 major league baseball draft Eric Munson enters his first season on the staff after he was named Trojan undergraduate assistant coach by USC head coach Frank Cruz.

Munson joins assistant head coach Dan Hubbs, assistant coach Gabe Alvarez and volunteer assistant Jason Brown on the 2011-12 coaching staff. All four individuals played at USC.

"It is incredible to have a person like Eric come back and coach as well as to continue the pursuit of his college degree," said USC head coach Frank Cruz. "He sets a great example for our players as to how they should balance their careers. To be the No. 3 pick in the draft and finish your education is a testament to the type of kids we want at USC. "

Munson, who starred at USC from 1997 to 1999, helped the Trojans to their 12th national title in 1998. During that title run, he batted .476 in the College World Series and was named to the All-CWS team.

On USC's career lists, he ranks third in home runs (44), fourth in slugging percentage (.655), sixth in batting average (.356), ninth in RBI (147), tied for ninth in walks (106), and tenth in total bases (364).

Munson played for the USA National Team in both the summer of 1997 and 1998. He was also named The Sporting News National Freshman of the Year in 1997 and a first team All-American in 1999.

A first round selection of the Detroit Tigers, Munson played five seasons with the organization, including stand-out campaigns in 2003 and 2004 in which he totaled 18 and 19 home runs, respectively. He went on to play for the Tampa Bay Rays, Houston Astros, Oakland Athletics and San Diego Padres before retiring in 2010.

"His baseball experience and knowledge is top-notch," said Cruz. "With a national title and a professional career under his belt, the insight he will be able to provide to our catchers and hitters will be a huge addition for us."

The San Diego native is a graduate of Mt. Carmel High School. He and his wife, Shanda, have 2 children, Solen (7) and Soraya (3)

MARTY BUTTERICK

DIRECTOR OF BASEBALL OPERATIONS

5th Year

Marty Butterick begins his fifth season as Director of Baseball Operations after spending nine years as a director with Core Capital Management in Beverly Hills.

Along with his current duties, he is the co-founder of the Rod Dedeaux Research and Baseball Institute (RDRBI), which specializes in biomechanical research and training.

Butterick and his wife, So Young, have a son, Corey (3).

KYLE ROSS

ACADEMIC COUNSELOR

3rd Year

Kyle Ross is in his third year as academic counselor for the USC baseball program. He also handles the mens' and women's swimming teams and the mens' and women's water polo teams. He coordinates the new student-athlete orientations for the department and is an instructor in the physical education department for the freshman success seminar.

Prior to his tenure at USC, Ross worked for two years at the University of Nebraska, working with the baseball, wrestling and women's gymnastics teams. He also spent one year at the University of Virginia in the life skills office.

He graduated from Western New England College with a bachelor's degree in psychology and a minor in education. He received his master's degree from Springfield College in psychology (athletic counseling/sport psychology).

A native of upstate New York, Ross resides in Redondo Beach and still roots for his New York teams (Yankees, Giants, Rangers and Knicks).

CHRIS ROBERTS

BASEBALL SPORTS INFORMATION DIRECTOR

1st Year

Chris Roberts begins his first season with the USC baseball program as the sports information director and his second year with the athletic department.

In addition to his baseball duties, Roberts handles media relations for the USC women's rowing and lacrosse programs. He also assists with day-to-day activities with the football team.

Prior to his tenure at USC, Roberts worked for three years at Fox Sports Network and as a student he interned with CBS and KCAL Sports.

A graduate of USC, he earned his bachelor's degree in Communication from the Annenberg School of Communication in 2006. A southern California native, Roberts resides in his hometown Santa Monica.

USC's first national championship came in 1948 with co-head coaches Sam Barry and Rod Dedeaux leading the Trojans. At the second-ever College World Series in Kalamazoo, Mich., USC battled Yale in a best-of-three confrontation for the title. Troy won the first game, 3-1, ending the game with a spectacular triple play in the ninth.

The next day Yale sent its ace right-hander, Art Quinn, to the mound for game two. He posted an 8-3 victory over the Trojans to force a decisive game three.

In the final game, the hero for the Trojans was second baseman Art Mazmanian, who went 3-for-3 with a sacrifice and scored a run in the first inning, which gave USC a lead it never relinquished on the way to a 9-2 championship victory. Dick Bishop scattered 10 hits to go the distance and get the victory while adding two hits of his own. Third baseman Bill Lillie had two RBI on two hits, and center fielder Gordon Jones added two RBI. For Yale, first baseman and future President George Bush had a double in four at-bats in the final game.

The Trojans clinched the CIBA by a four-game margin, going 13-2 to win their third straight title. USC then advanced to the PCC Playoffs, where it swept Washington State in two games, 7-5 and 6-3. In the finale, USC clinched the title on a three-hitter by lefthander Tom Kipp, who had a no-hitter through seven innings.

After a three-game sweep at the NCAA Western Playoffs, which saw two wins over Baylor and one over Oklahoma A&M (now Oklahoma State), USC advanced to its first College World Series.

did you know?

The 1948 team had a famous batboy (the young boy wearing the white t-shirt in the front of the team picture). The batboy was none other than George "Sparky" Anderson, the Hall of Fame manager who won three World Series with the Cincinnati Reds and Detroit Tigers.

The next USC title came 10 years later when Troy went 5-1 at the 1958 CWS, losing only to Holy Cross in the opening game, 3-0. USC fought its way back through the losers' bracket to claim the crown, making it only the second team in CWS history to accomplish that feat (Texas did it previously in 1950).

The Trojans rebounded from the loss to beat Arizona, 4-0; Colorado State, 12-1; and Holy Cross, 6-2.

USC then had to defeat Missouri twice to claim the championship. In the first game, with no score entering the ninth inning, the Trojans exploded for seven runs. With the support of Bill Thom's three-hitter, USC defeated the Tigers, 7-0, forcing one final game.

Then, in one of the most exciting championship games in baseball history, USC beat Missouri, 8-7 in 12 innings, after trailing, 4-0. Third baseman Mike Blewett won the game for USC with a single to right field in the bottom of the 12th that sent outfielder Rex Johnston home from third with the winning run. Thom (the tournament MVP) pitched 4 2/3 scoreless relief innings to get credit for the win. USC first baseman Ken Guffey went 2-for-4 with two RBI.

By winning their eighth straight CIBA title (and their 12th in the past 13 years), the Trojans earned a berth in the PCC Playoffs, where they swept Oregon State in two games, then advanced to the District 8 finals, where they beat Portland twice to advance to Omaha.

Trojans Win Title; Bill Thom Honored

OMAHA, June 20 (AP)—Pitcher Bill Thom of Southern California's NCAA baseball World Series champions has been selected as the most valuable player in the tourney by votes of sports writers and broadcasters.

Thom shut out Missouri, 7-0, Wednesday night to send the tourney into an extra game and last night held the Missouri club scoreless for four-and-a-third innings in a relief role before SC shoved across a 12th-inning run to win, 8-7.

Thom lost his first start in the series to Holy Cross when Hal Dietz blanked the western club.

Blewett Hits

Mike Blewett finally broke up last night's game, driving a long hit to right field to score Rex Johnston from third with two men out.

The Trojans seemingly had put the game away in the fourth when they scored seven runs for a 7-4 lead. But Missouri got three in the top of the eighth to tie and then throttled numerous Trojan threats until Blewett belted his blow, ending the first extra-inning championship game in the history of the tourney.

Southern California became the second team to lose its first game in the double elimination tourney and then come back to win the crown. Texas did it first in 1950.

Follow Bears

The Trojan win kept the championship on the West Coast where it went last year when California won. Oddly, this marked the second time that California and Southern California followed each other as champions. California won its first title in 1947 and in 1948 Southern California was the champion.

Named by the writers and broadcasters to the All-Tournament team were four Southern California and four Missouri players along with one from Holy Cross and one from Western Michigan . . . SC choices were Mike Castanon, second base; Fred Scott, shortstop; Ron Fairly, outfield, and Thom . . . Missouri players chosen were Sonny Siebert, first base; Martin (Bo) Toft, outfield; Hank Kuhlmann, catcher, and Doug Gulick, pitcher . . . Ken Komodzinski of Holy Cross was selected at third base and Marvin Winegar of Western Michigan for the outfield.

The 1961 championship game was exciting as well. It was also notable because USC became the first school with three national titles.

USC went 5-0 in the CWS, making it only the fifth team in 15 years of the NCAA Tournament to go undefeated. To start the tournament, the Trojans beat Texas, 8-6; Boston College, 10-3; and Oklahoma State, 4-2. In the win against Oklahoma State, Larry Hankammer set a CWS record by striking out 16 batters.

In a second meeting with Boston College, the Eagles took a 3-0 lead before the Trojans rallied with two runs in the seventh and one in the eighth to send the game into extra innings. In the 10th, back-to-back-to-back singles by third baseman Tom Satriano, rightfielder Art Ersepke and catcher Larry Himes gave USC a 4-3 victory, and sent the Trojans to the championship game.

After enduring a rain delay before the final, USC squeaked out a 1-0 victory over Oklahoma State to win the national championship. With no score and one out in the eighth inning, leftfielder Mike Gillespie (the future Trojan head coach) doubled to the left-center field fence. One out later, Ersepke drove home Gillespie with a single. Trojan pitcher Jim Withers improved his record to 12-1 with the shutout, in which he gave up only four hits and struck out 13.

Five Trojans earned All-CWS honors: Ersepke, Himes, Withers, Hankammer and first baseman Bill Ryan.

Prior to the CWS, the Trojans earned a 12-4 mark in the CIBA, which was good for their 11th consecutive first-place finish and their 15th in 16 years.

Troy took two out of three games from Fresno State to win the first round of the District 8 Playoffs before sweeping Washington State in two straight to claim the District 8 championship and a trip to the CWS.

CHAMPIONS: Team captain Ken Washington, left, and Coach Rod Dedeaux, University of Southern California baseball team, look at first place trophy after Trojans won the N.C.A.A. championship Sunday night with 5-2 victory over University of Arizona nine.

The next NCAA title came in 1963 when USC lost its first CWS game, then had to win all of its remaining games to stay alive. Troy did just that and eventually defeated Arizona, 5-2, to take the title.

The Trojans opened the CWS with an 8-3 loss to Texas. But that defeat was followed with five straight victories, avoiding elimination and earning USC's fourth championship.

The Trojans beat Holy Cross, 6-5, scoring all six runs in the seventh inning; Florida State, 4-3, assisted by a defense that threw out three runners at the plate; and Missouri, 12-3, eliminating the No. 1 team in the tournament.

USC then needed to beat Arizona twice. In the first contest, the Trojans scored five runs in the first inning en route to a 6-4 win. After a day off because of rain, USC took a 5-0 lead after five innings and held on for the 5-2 victory. Walt Peterson pitched a complete game and struck out nine while catcher Bud Hollowell and first baseman Gary Holman hit 400-foot homers.

Hollowell hit four home runs in the final four games to earn tournament MVP honors. The 1963 team was one of the youngest Trojan championship teams, with a starting lineup that included seven sophomores.

After losing the CIBA title to Santa Clara in 1962, which snapped USC's 11-year winning streak, the Trojans earned their revenge by clinching the 1963 title on the field against the Broncos. USC went on to defeat Oregon State for the District 8 championship in three games.

If the mark of a good team is the ability to win close games, the 1968 USC team was very good. That team went undefeated in Omaha, though it won no CWS game by more than two runs and the team hit .221 for the series.

The road to the championship was filled with comebacks. The Trojans scored four in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie and beat BYU, 5-3; they scored three in the fourth and two in the fifth to defeat Oklahoma State, 6-5; and scored four in the seventh and one in the eighth to edge St. John's, 7-6. Bob Vaughn, pitching for the first time in a month because of injury, tossed a six-hit shutout against North Carolina State in a 2-0 win, advancing the Trojans to the final.

The championship game against Southern Illinois required another comeback. USC trailed 2-0 in the third inning but tied the game at 2-2 in the fourth frame thanks to a two-run home run by first baseman Bill Seinsoth (the tournament MVP).

Southern Illinois scored a go-ahead run in the eighth inning. Trailing 3-2 in the bottom of the ninth, USC got two runners on base with two men out. Up came pinch-hitter Pat Kuehner, hitless to that point in the CWS. He laced a triple with two strikes on him to score the tying and winning runs in the 4-3 victory.

Brent Strom earned his second CWS victory in relief. For the series, Strom pitched 9 1/3 innings, giving up only one run and three hits while striking out 13.

After winning the Pac-8 title, USC took two of three games from Cal State Los Angeles to win the District 8 Playoffs and advance to the CWS.

* Pac-8 game
District 8 Playoffs at Cal State Los Angeles
+ College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

Two years later, USC won the first of an unprecedented five straight NCAA baseball titles, though it took many extra innings to accomplish the feat.

As in 1958 and 1963, the Trojans lost their opening game, 4-1 to Ohio, and had to win all of the rest of their games for the national title. The loss to the Bobcats snapped the Trojans' 13-game winning streak. But the Trojans came back with easy victories over Delaware, 7-1, and Dartmouth, 6-1.

Things looked bleak in the next game against Texas when the Trojans fell behind, 7-1, after six innings. But USC exploded for six runs in the top of the seventh, and the game stayed tied until the top of the 14th inning, when outfielder Jeff Pedersen singled and scored on shortstop Cal Meier's triple. Righthander Jim Barr pitched eight innings of scoreless relief in the 8-7 victory.

In an interesting situation, the remaining three teams — USC, Texas and Florida State — all had records of 3-1. The Trojans won a coin flip, giving them a bye and putting them into the final.

The championship game against Florida State was another extra-inning affair, as it took 15 innings to earn a 2-1 victory. Barr pitched another eight scoreless innings in relief on just one day's rest to earn the win.

Meier led off the bottom of the 15th inning with a walk. Third baseman Dan Stoligrosz walked and rightfielder Dave Kingman singled to load the bases with nobody out. Second baseman Frank Alfano, who already had two hits on the day, singled home the winning run.

USC won the regular-season Pac-8 title, the Pac-8 Tournament and the District 8 Playoffs before moving on to the CWS.

The Trojans captured their second straight NCAA crown and third in the last four years in 1971, the 25th anniversary of the CWS. USC became only the second team in the history of the tournament to win back-to-back championships (Texas was the first in 1949-50).

As they had done in previous tournaments, USC had to overcome an early defeat. Following a 5-1 victory over Seton Hall, the Trojans suffered an 8-3 loss against Southern Illinois.

But the Trojans rebounded quickly with an 8-6 win over BYU and an 8-4 beating of Tulsa.

In a rematch with Tulsa, Troy avoided defeat as righthander Mark Sogge lifted himself out of trouble. With the bases loaded in the eighth inning, his pickoff started a double play, keeping the score tied at 2-2. Sogge also singled home the game-winning run in the ninth for a 3-2 victory.

In the championship game, second baseman Frank Alfano and catcher Craig Perkins hit back-to-back homers over the left-field fence in the seventh inning of a 7-2 win over Southern Illinois, avenging the earlier loss to the Salukis. With the bases loaded in the top of the ninth, righthander Steve Busby struck out the final batter to cap his complete-game victory.

Outfielder Fred Lynn hit .467 (7-for-15) in the CWS with a home run.

USC went undefeated (17-0) in the Pac-8 season, making the Trojans the first-ever team to record an unbeaten conference season. The Trojan pitchers also set a conference record by tossing 38 1/3 consecutive scoreless innings.

The Trojans went 3-1 to win the Pac-8 Playoffs, then moved on to the District 8 Playoffs at Santa Clara. The host Broncos won the first game, but USC won the next two.

USC won the 1972 CWS — becoming the first school to win three straight baseball titles —despite hitting only .198 for the series. But Troy had dominant pitching, which came up big in one close game after another. All five of USC's victories were by one or two runs.

The Trojans fought back from the loser's bracket for the third year in a row. USC opened with victories over Mississippi, 8-6, and Connecticut, 5-4, in 11 innings, but lost the next game to Arizona State, 3-0.

In a 10-inning thriller against Texas, first baseman Daryl Arenstein, after breaking his bat on a 2-2 pitch, borrowed one from his roommate, Jeff Port, and delivered a game-winning single to score Tim Steele for a 4-3 win.

USC then had to beat Arizona State twice for the title. First, Randy Scarbery went the distance in a 3-1 victory. The Trojans scored two runs in the second inning, ending a 33 1/3-inning scoreless streak by ASU pitchers.

Then, in the championship, Russ McQueen's heroics in relief helped preserve a 1-0 shutout of the Sun Devils for the title. He entered the game with the bases loaded and nobody out in the fifth inning, got out of the jam unscathed and gave up only one hit in five innings of work. Steele scored the game's only run on a wild pitch in the third inning and had two hits, including a double.

McQueen, the tournament MVP, pitched 14 innings without giving up a run in the CWS and earned three wins and a save. USC's strong pitching was a surprise because Troy had lost three pitchers to the pros before the season.

Prior to the CWS, the Trojans defeated Washington State twice for the Pac-8 title, then beat UC Santa Barbara twice in the District 8 Playoffs.

In 1973, USC again defeated Arizona State in the title game, this time behind an offense that featured outfielder Fred Lynn, shortstop Roy Smalley and third baseman Rich Dauer. It was USC's fourth consecutive championship.

Troy went undefeated en route to the championship (only the second time a CWS winner had been unbeaten since 1961). The first three victories were against Harvard, 4-1; Texas, 4-1; and Arizona State, 3-1.

The next game, and the highlight of the CWS, was USC's incredible 8-7 victory over Minnesota — one of the greatest comebacks in NCAA history in any sport. Going into the bottom of the ninth, the Trojans had been held to just one hit and were being shut out, 7-0, by Gopher pitcher and longtime major leaguer Dave Winfield. But Troy sent 11 men to the plate, coming up with eight singles, a sacrifice fly and a stolen base (as well as three Minnesota errors) to score eight runs and win the game. Pinch-hitter Ken Huizenga led off the ninth with a single and then his sacrifice fly tied the game at seven runs apiece. USC won it on outfielder Creighton Tevlin's RBI single.

That vaulted the Trojans into the championship game, where they beat top-ranked ASU, 4-3. USC took a 4-0 lead, then held on as lefthander Jeff Reinke, who was on a basketball scholarship at USC, retired the final 11 batters. Huizenga scored a run, had two RBI and made a diving catch to open the ninth inning for the Trojans.

Troy swept Washington State in two games for the second straight year to win its fourth consecutive Pac-8 championship, then defeated Loyola and Cal State Los Angeles in four straight games for its fourth consecutive District 8 title.

The last of USC's unprecedented five straight NCAA titles came in 1974 and was led by infielder Rich Dauer and designated hitter Steve Kemp, who helped the 1974 Trojans to the champion. No other team, before or since, has won more than two titles in a row.

With a win over Texas in the opening game of the tournament, 9-2, and a game two victory over Southern Illinois, 5-3, the Trojans enjoyed a 10-game CWS winning streak before a 7-3 loss to Miami (Fla.). But the Trojans made their way to the title game for the fifth straight year by defeating Texas, 5-3, and Southern Illinois, 7-2.

In the final, USC beat Miami (Fla.), 7-3, avenging the earlier loss. Trojan pitchers John Racanelli and George Milke combined to strike out 10 Hurricanes (and allowed zero earned runs) in the clincher while second baseman Rob Adolph, a backup to quarterback Pat Haden on the football team, hit a two-run home run.

Milke was named the CWS Most Outstanding Player after earning three victories.

To get to the CWS, the Trojans beat Oregon in the Pac-8 Championships and Cal State Los Angeles and Pepperdine in the District 8 Playoffs.

Dauer set an NCAA record in the opening game of the CWS with a second-inning single. It was his 102nd hit of the season, breaking Arizona State's Alan Bannister's record of 101 set in 1972. Dauer ended the season with a total of 108 hits and two other NCAA records: total bases (181) and RBI (92).

Kemp was fifth in the nation in batting average with an awesome .435, still the USC single-season record.

On March 30, 1974, in the inaugural game at Dedeaux Field, Jeff McQueen tossed a 7-0 no-hitter over California.

USC's 11th title came in 1978, as the Trojans went 54-9 overall (the best record in the country and still the school single-season record for wins) after starting out the season with a 7-4 record. The Trojans finished the season with a 10-game win streak and went 27-2 in their last 29 games.

At the CWS, the Trojans easily won their first three games by beating Miami (Fla.), 9-3; Michigan, 11-3; and Arizona State, 5-2.

It required a late-inning comeback to hold off North Carolina in a 3-2 victory. Down 2-0 heading into the eighth inning, the Trojans scored twice in the top of the eighth and got the game-winner in the top of the ninth as centerfielder John Wells' sacrifice fly scored second baseman Larry Fobbs.

Once again the Trojans beat Arizona State in the CWS final, 10-3, as first baseman Dave Hostetler hit a third-inning homer that proved to be the game-winner. Hostetler and outfielder Tim Tolman each had three hits for USC. The Trojans took a 10-0 lead and Bill Bordley didn't allow a run for the first seven innings.

Rod Boxberger was named tournament MVP.

Previously, USC's two-game sweep of Washington State in the Pac-8 Championships extended USC's conference tournament winning streak to 13 games. The Trojans then went 3-0 in the NCAA West Regional at Dedeaux Field with two wins over Arizona and a victory over Cal State Fullerton, all by one-run margins.

Bordley (12-2) and Boxberger (12-1) were two of four Trojans — including Brian Hayes (11-2) and Ernie Mauritson (11-0) — with at least 11 wins, making NCAA history. Bordley started the 1978 season 6-0, giving him wins in 20 straight decisions. The pitching staff registered a 2.63 ERA for the season.

+ College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

The 12th and most recent title came in 1998, as the Trojans put together an amazing run at the College World Series. It was the 50th anniversary of USC's first-ever baseball crown.

For the fourth time, USC was able to overcome an opening-round loss (12-10 to two-time defending champion LSU) to claim the title.

USC needed four wins in the next five days to reach the final. First, USC beat Florida, 12-10, in 11 innings. Rik Currier then shut down Mississppi State, 7-1, as he struck out 12 in eight innings.

The Trojans then had to beat LSU twice in two days, and righthanders Seth Etherton and Mike Penney were up to the task, as they pitched USC to 5-4 and 7-3 wins, respectively.

USC faced a familiar foe in the title game: Arizona State. For the fourth time, the two teams met in the final, and for the fourth time, the Trojans came away victorious in a 21-14 slugfest.

Robb Gorr opened the first with a three-run shot to left and the Trojans opened an 8-0 lead in the second on a three-run homer by second baseman Wes Rachels and Gorr's second homer of the game with a solo shot. The Sun Devils, though, answered with five in the bottom of the inning, including a grand slam by shortstop Michael Collins. USC held off Arizona State throughout the game and led, 11-8, in the seventh before one of the most dramatic moments in CWS history.

With the bases loaded and two outs, Head Coach Mike Gillespie called for a triple steal as Morgan Ensberg stole home. Rachels followed with a two-run single to give the Trojans a six-run lead. Arizona State scored five runs in the seventh, but the Trojans put the game away in the ninth on a grand slam over the center-field wall by designated hitter Jason Lane in the ninth.

Lane set CWS records for hits (15) and total bases (31). Wes Rachels, the CWS Most Outstanding Player, went 5-for-7 with a championship-game record seven RBI. Jack Krawczyk pitched the final 1 2/3 innings to earn a save and set NCAA single-season and career records.

"I was proud of our guys," said Gillespie. "We couldn't allow ourselves a week ago to think that we would be playing for the national championship. This achievement for me goes beyond my ability to describe it."

At the NCAA East Regional, the Trojans also had to come back from an early loss, but they won their final three games in a two-day period.

The Early Years

USC played its first baseball game on Nov. 23, 1889, losing to a club team called Bonny Brae, 13-10, on a campus field. Records don't indicate another game until Feb. 20, 1892, when USC had a 14-13 win over Woodbury Business College on its way to an undefeated (5-0-1) season. There were about 20 players on the USC squad that year.

The 1893 season began prior to the calendar year with a 13-0 victory over El Monte on Oct. 29, 1892. Ten games were played that season.

Records show USC playing only a combined total of three games over the next four years. The program regrouped in 1898, going 8-3, with L.W. Umsted serving as manager and catcher.

The program wavered without distinction again until 1902 when Hall of Fame pitcher Rube Waddell, who starred for the Philadelphia Athletics and three other teams, directed the team in early-season training.

USC played a limited number of games each season thereafter until 1905, when a 12-game schedule was played (there was rarely a season with fewer than 10 games after that). USC played its first international game, losing to Waseda of Japan, 13-6.

Official statistics were first kept in 1906, when shortstop and captain Walter Bridewell hit .461.

Harvey Holmes is credited with being USC's first baseball coach, leading his team to a 17-2 mark in 1908.

On May 24, 1913, USC baseball was abolished in order to focus all springtime athletic pursuits on the track and field team.

From 1914-17, the university's law school team represented Troy on the baseball field, with the squad open to non-law students the last two years. The 1914 all-law school team played surprisingly well, going 8-2 overall and 4-1 against college teams.

Students organized one USC baseball game in 1918, a 3-2 loss to Union Oil on March 24, but other than that baseball was not played in 1918-19 due to World War I.

Baseball was brought back as a full-fledged university sport in 1920 with famed football coach Elmer "Gloomy Gus" Henderson leading the squad to a 9-4-1 record (4-1-1 versus college teams).

The 1921 team was co-coached by Henderson and Willis O. Hunter, and was also very successful: 9-3 overall, 6-1 against colleges.

Records don't indicate who coached the 1922 squad, but former major leaguer George Wheeler returned to coach USC in 1923 after previously doing so in 1914.

The rest of the 1920s belonged to Hall of Famer Sam "Wahoo" Crawford (who still holds the major league baseball career record with 309 triples), who brought USC to prominence. Crawford was instrumental in creating the first baseball conference for USC to compete in with the creation of the CIBA in 1927.

The Leagues/Conferences

USC's first participation in league play was in the California Intercollegiate Baseball Association (CIBA), originated in 1927. USC was one of five founding members, including California, St. Mary's, Santa Clara and Stanford. Prior to the advent of the CIBA, USC, Cal and Stanford shared a loose alliance in 1923-24 and 1926.

The CIBA ran from 1927-66, plus a brief return in 1976. USC and Cal were the only teams to participate in each of the years that the conference was in existence. In addition to the original members, other participants in the CIBA in its first 40 years were Loyola Marymount, Occidental, Pepperdine, UCLA, University of San Francisco and Whittier. In 1943, the CIBA was divided into two divisions as USC played with five other teams in the Southern Division.

In 1967, USC joined the Athletic Association of Western Universities, along with Cal, Oregon, Oregon State, Stanford, UCLA, Washington and Washington State. The AAWU changed its name to the Pacific-8 Conference in 1968. The Pac-8 was divided into Northern and Southern divisions in 1970, with USC, Cal, Stanford and UCLA in the latter.

The brief reformation of the CIBA in 1976 included the four Pac-8 Southern Division teams and UC Santa Barbara. In 1977, the Pac-8 Southern Division was restored in its original form.

In 1979, Arizona and Arizona State joined the four California Pac-8 schools in the Pac-10 Southern Division, which remained intact until the 1999 season. Then, the three remaining Northern Division schools (Oregon State, Washington and Washington State) joined with the South's six schools to form one single division.

In 2007, Oregon reinstated its program as the Pac-10 Conference will have a full 10-team alignment starting in the 2009 season. The conference expanded in the summer of 2011 with the newly-named Pac-12 Conference adding Utah for baseball (Colorado does not sponsor baseball).

The Head Coaches

USC has an unprecedented tradition of coaching excellence in baseball, highlighted by Rod Dedeaux, one of the winningest baseball coaches in NCAA history. Only six other men have had the distinction of being a USC head baseball coach since 1924.

The Pre-Sam Crawford Era (1889-1923)

USC's first full-time head baseball coach was Harvey Holmes in 1908. He led Troy to a 17-2 mark for the season. Holmes also coached the Trojan footballers from 1904-07.

The next USC team with an official head coach was the 1911 squad. Curtiss Bernard, a professional player for the Pacific Coast League's Los Angeles Angels, led the Trojans to a 10-3 mark. Another PCL player, Len Burrell of the Vernon club, took over the following season.

George Wheeler, who played for the National League's Philadelphia Phillies in the 1890s, coached USC in 1914 and again in 1923. Wheeler did an amazing job in 1914 when he led the School of Law team (the only Trojan baseball team at that time) to an 8-2 record.

Ralph Glaze, the Trojan head football coach in 1914-15, took command of the baseball program in 1915.

Charles "Pat" Millikan was head coach in 1916. In 1917, Phil Koerner, a first baseman for the Los Angeles Angels, was named USC's head coach, but he was traded to San Francisco by the Angels midway through the season. So, with Koerner out of Southern California, Millikan reassumed control for the remainder of the season.

When Trojan baseball got back in gear in

Sam Crawford

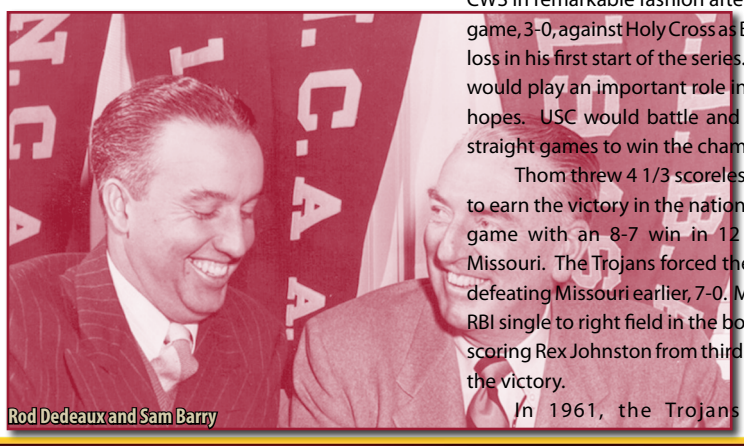
1920 following the end of World War I, Elmer "Gloomy Gus" Henderson became the head coach. Henderson is probably best remembered for being the winningest football coach in USC history, losing only six games in six seasons (1919-24). He was also successful on the baseball diamond as the 1920 team went 9-4-1. Henderson co-coached the baseball squad with Willis O. Hunter in 1921.

The Sam Crawford Era (1924-29)

Crawford led USC for six years as Troy began a steady climb toward prominence. He actively sought to enlarge the schedule and improve it through tougher competition. He was a key force in the development of the California Intercollegiate Baseball Association in 1927. He had three seasons of double-digit wins and led USC to a second-place finish in the CIBA's initial campaign. Crawford was 59-46-3 in all games, 55-33 against other college teams and 19-19 in CIBA games.

The Sam Barry Era (1930-41)

Barry took the baton from Crawford in full stride. His first USC team went 25-5-1 overall, 15-2-1 in college games and 11-2 in the CIBA to take the league title. He ended up with five CIBA crowns (including two ties). Barry posted five seasons of 20-plus wins. His career marks: 219-89-3 against all competition, 133-54-2 versus college opponents and 112-52 in conference games.



Rod Dedeaux and Sam Barry

The Barry-Dedeaux Era (1942, 1946-50)

In a unique situation, Barry and Dedeaux were co-head coaches for six very successful seasons. The duo led USC to CIBA championships in five of the six years, including 1948, a significant milestone year for the Trojan program. Not only did USC get its first 40-win season, but it also won its first national championship. The national champion Trojans were 26-4 against college competition, going 2-1 against Yale in the final three games of the College World Series. The final marks for the Barry-Dedeaux tandem were 170-70-3 overall (110-28 against college foes and 67-18 in CIBA games).

The Rod Dedeaux Era (1943-45, 1951-86)

When Barry joined the Navy in 1942 for World War II, Dedeaux was left as the sole head coach for the next three years and he made good on the opportunity, finishing second in the CIBA every year. Dedeaux's best work was ahead of him, though. Barry returned to his rank of co-head coach in 1946, until he passed away in the fall of 1950.

The Trojans made their first venture to the College World Series in 1948, utilizing a 16-game winning streak which included being crowned CIBA co-champions. USC defeated Yale in the first game of the CWS, 3-1, before Yale (with former President George W. Bush as the first baseman) snapped Troy's streak with an 8-3 victory. USC rallied to win their first national championship with a decisive 9-2 win against Yale, finishing the season with a 26-4 record.

Another CIBA championship and trip to the College World Series helped the 1949 squad, which finished with a 23-6 overall record.

In the next 11 years with Dedeaux at the helm, USC began an incredible streak where the Trojans won nine CIBA championships and two CIBA co-championships. The 1951 and 1955 squads reached the College World Series, but it was the 1958 squad that put another national championship trophy in USC's hands.

The 1958 Trojans went 28-3 and won the CWS in remarkable fashion after losing their first game, 3-0, against Holy Cross as Bill Thom took the loss in his first start of the series. Thom, however, would play an important role in the Trojans' title hopes. USC would battle and win its next five straight games to win the championship.

Thom threw 4 1/3 scoreless innings in relief to earn the victory in the national championship game with an 8-7 win in 12 innings against Missouri. The Trojans forced the title game after defeating Missouri earlier, 7-0. Mike Blewitt hit an RBI single to right field in the bottom of the 12th, scoring Rex Johnston from third with two outs for the victory.

Rod Dedeaux

In 1961, the Trojans capped their conference streak with the school's third national championship. USC went 5-0 in the College World Series, becoming only the fifth team in 15 years to go undefeated. In the second meeting of the CWS against Boston College, the Trojans rallied from a 3-0 deficit to force the game into extra innings. Three straight singles by Tom Satriano, Art Ersepke and Larry Himes produced the game-winning run in the 10th, sending the Trojans to the national championship.

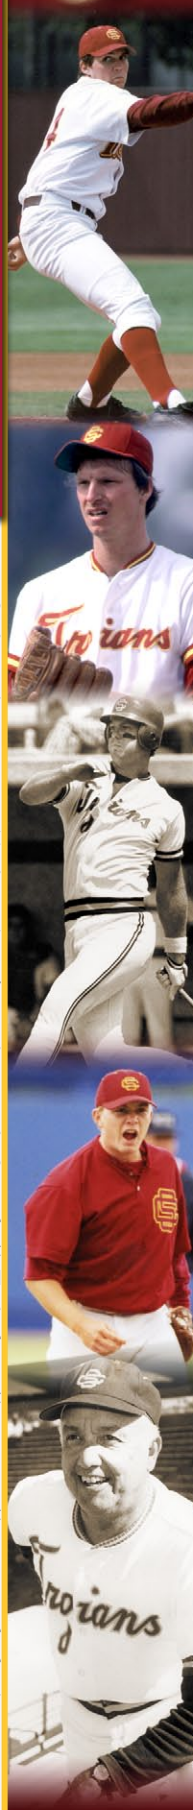
A rain delay forced Oklahoma State and USC to wait before playing the title game, but it was future head coach Mike Gillespie who helped bring home the title for the Trojans. In the eighth, Gillespie, who started the game in left field, doubled to left-center and scored on a single by Ersepke in the 1-0 victory over the Cowboys. Jim Withers threw the shutout, allowing only four hits and striking out 13 to improve his record to 12-1 on the season.

The 1963 national championship found the Trojans rallying from an opening-round loss to win five straight games, having to beat Arizona twice to win it all. Walt Peterson threw a complete game while Bud Hollowell and Gary Holman hit 400-foot homers for the 5-2 victory for the national championship. Hollowell hit four home runs in the final four games to earn CWS MVP honors. The team was also one of the youngest Trojan national championship squads with a starting lineup that featured seven sophomores.

USC was 17-3 in the CIBA in 1964 and finished fourth in the College World Series. The next season was a rebuilding year, but the Trojans still went 30-15-1.

In the summer of 1965, the Trojans played a "barnstorming" tour that featured stops to Alaska and Hawaii. The Trojans were the first collegiate team to be invited to play in the eight-game Midnight Sun series with the Alaska Goldpanners. The series was climaxed with the Midnight Sun game that started at 10:30 p.m. and was completed without the aid of artificial light.

USC returned to Omaha in 1966, finishing third in the CWS. The Trojans again "struggled" In



The 1968 USC Infield: Bill Seinsoth (1B), Pat Harrison (2B), Chuck Ramshaw (SS) and Ron Drake (3B)

1967, finishing third in the CIBA and going 38-13-2 overall.

Dedeaux's greatest years were still to come, beginning in 1968 with another national championship. During the 1968 College World Series, the Trojans used "little ball" as the team hit a combined .221 and registered wins by either one or two runs. Bill Seinsoth earned MVP honors, hitting a two-run homer in the championship game against Southern Illinois to tie the game at 2-2 in the fourth. Down 3-2 in the bottom of the ninth, pinch-hitter Pat Kuehner hit a two-run triple with two strikes to give Troy its fifth national title.

The following year, USC went 13-8 to finish third in league play before starting a run not likely to be seen for a long time in college baseball. The Trojans rattled off five straight national championships from 1970-74.

The 1970 College World Series opened with a 4-1 loss to Ohio, giving the Trojans an opportunity to once again winning the championship from the losers' bracket. After two straight wins, USC staved off elimination in dramatic fashion against Texas. Down 7-1, the Trojans scored six runs in the seventh and defeated the Longhorns, 8-7, in 14 innings. With three teams tied at 3-1, USC won a coin flip to earn a bye to the championship game and faced Florida State. Second baseman Frank Alfano singled home the winning run in the bottom of the 15th with the bases loaded for the 2-1 win. Pitcher Jim Barr threw eight scoreless innings of relief, allowing only three hits.

Dedeaux won six NCAA crowns between 1968-78, including five in a row from 1970-74. The "worst" year in that span came in 1969 when USC went 13-8 in league play to finish third. The best season, arguably, was 1971: the Trojans won all 17 of their conference games, went 54-13 overall and took the CWS championship (losing only to Southern Illinois, whom they rebounded to beat later in the series). USC was perfect in CWS play in 1968, 1972, 1973 and 1978, going 5-0 each year.

One of the greatest hitters in USC history, Steve Kemp, batted .435 in the 1975 season and finished with a school career mark of .397. Kemp was drafted No. 1 overall by the Detroit Tigers in the 1976 draft.

The 1973 national title produced one of the greatest CWS moments for the Trojans. Down 7-0 in the bottom of the ninth against Minnesota, the Trojans sent 11 men to the plate and scored eight runs against future Hall of Famer Dave Winfield to cap a remarkable 8-7 victory. Future major leaguers Fred Lynn, Roy Smalley and Rich Dauer contributed to the championship.

The incredible streak of five straight national titles concluded with the 1974 squad, the same year the Trojans played their first game at Dedeaux Field. John Racanelli and George Milke combined to strike out 10 Hurricanes in the national title game as USC defeated Miami, 7-3. Dauer set an NCAA record in the tournament with his 102nd hit and finished the season with three NCAA season records: hits (108), total bases (181) and RBI (92).

After starting the 1978 season with a 7-4 mark, the Trojans went on a torrid pace en route to their 11th national title and seventh in 11 years. USC used a 47-5 streak to finish the season with the nation's best record at 54-9. The 54 victories are still a school record and the pitching staff set an NCAA record with four pitchers (Bill Bordley, Rod Boxberger, Brian Hayes and Ernie Mauritson) recording at least 11 victories on the season.

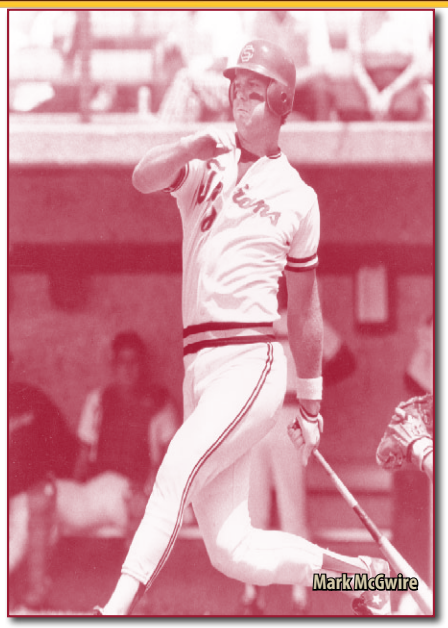
During the run from 1968-78, the Trojans recorded 40 or more wins in a season nine times.

Near the end of his career, Dedeaux piloted USC to second-place Pac-10 Southern Division finishes in 1983 and 1984.

Dedeaux would also have the honor of coaching two future Hall of Famers and easily the two most recognizable Trojans: Mark McGwire and Randy Johnson.

McGwire, who broke Roger Maris' single season home run record with 70 home runs in 1998, set the school and Pac-10 single season record with 32 home runs for the Trojans in 1984. He was also a pitcher and actually put up better numbers than Johnson. Johnson played for Troy from 1983-85 and went on to win five Cy Young Awards.

When Dedeaux stopped coaching after the 1986 season to become USC's Director of Baseball, he left behind a record that may never be surpassed. He had winning seasons in 41 of his 45 years — in one stretch, USC went 37 years without a losing campaign. His 1,332 wins (with only 571 losses and 11 ties) were more than any other Division I coach in history until Texas' Cliff Gustafson eclipsed the mark in 1994. Dedeaux was a part of 11 Trojan national championships (he had 10 of his own and co-coached with Barry on the other). He developed many future professionals, including Rich Dauer, Ron Fairly, Dave Kingman, Fred Lynn, Mark McGwire, Tom Seaver, Roy Smalley and Randy Johnson.



Mark McGwire

The Mike Gillespie Era (1987-2006)

After winning 72 percent of his games as head coach of College of the Canyons (a community college in Valencia, Calif.), Gillespie returned to his alma mater, where he had played for Dedeaux from 1960-62. He brought a new style of Trojan baseball, based on sound execution of the fundamentals and an aggressiveness geared towards pressuring opponents.

It would not be until 1991 when Gillespie would lead the Trojans to their first conference title in 13 years. That year, the Trojans went 46-17-1, but fell to Hawaii at home in the NCAA Regional. USC reached the 1993 and 1994 NCAA Regional, but it was the 1995 season when the Trojans made their triumphant return to Omaha and the College World Series. After losing the first game, the Trojans made another charge with four straight wins before falling to Cal State Fullerton in the national championship game, 11-5.

In 1998, the Trojans beat South Alabama twice at the NCAA Regional to advance to the College World Series. LSU defeated USC, 12-10, in the first game of the CWS, but the Trojans used their Omaha magic with five straight wins for the school's 12th national championship. USC defeated Arizona State, 21-14, in a wild national title game that included Morgan Ensberg stealing home in a pivotal moment.

Seth Etherton set a school and Pac-10 record by striking out 182 batters that season and Jack

Krawczyk posted NCAA marks for saves in a season (23) and career (49).

The 2000 and 2001 squads made back-to-back appearances in the College World Series and witnessed a special season when Mark Prior swept every national player of the year award, including the Golden Spikes Award, in 2001. Prior went 15-1 with a 1.69 ERA, breaking Etherton's school record with 202 strikeouts on the season. Prior was drafted No. 2 overall by the Chicago Cubs and became an instant sensation in the Windy City when he made his major league debut in 2002.

The 2005 squad was one win away from another trip to Omaha after a wild series at Oregon State. The Trojans made their fifth NCAA Super Regional appearance in seven years. The 2006 season represented Gillespie's 20th and final season at USC as he retired from college baseball.

Gillespie registered five Pac-10 titles and made trips to the NCAA playoffs in 15 of 20 years with his efforts helping to restore the luster and tradition of USC baseball. 28 former Trojans under Gillespie have gone on to play in the major leagues, including Barry Zito, Prior, Ensberg, Geoff Jenkins, Jacque Jones, Aaron Boone, Bret Boone and Anthony Reyes.

USC and the Olympics

The association between USC and Olympic baseball in the United States started back in 1964 when legendary Trojan coach Rod Dedeaux took a group of U.S. players to the Far East for a tour, and then to the Tokyo Games for an exhibition game against a Japanese team. The U.S. won, 6-2.

When baseball returned to the Olympics 20 years later, it was again Dedeaux that managed the U.S. team, leading the 1984 USA squad to a silver medal as a demonstration sport here at the Los Angeles Games.

One of Dedeaux's assistants was Art Mazmanian, an All-American at USC in 1948 and the head coach at Mt. San Antonio College. Two USC baseball players were key members of the team: pitcher Sid Akins and first baseman Mark McGwire.

Akins appeared in two games as a relief pitcher, allowing no runs and one hit in 2 1/3 innings. McGwire started at first base, and though he hit just .190 (4-for-21) in the Olympics, he batted .391 with 26 RBI in 30 games in the pre-Olympic tour.

USC infielder Bret Barberie was on the USA's gold-medal winning team in the 1988 Seoul Games, the only gold medal won by the U.S. until the 2000 Olympics. It was once again a demonstration sport, however. Barberie came off the bench to play in four of the USA's five games and was hitless in two at-bats.

The 1992 Barcelona Games, the first time that baseball was an official Olympic sport, marked the only time in the past four Olympics that the U.S. failed to medal — and it was the only time no Trojans appeared on the roster.

Jacque Jones continued the USC-USA connection at the 1996 Atlanta Games. Jones, an outfielder, was one of the top players for the U.S.'s bronze-medal winning team. In 37 games (including the pre-Olympic tour), Jones hit .404 with a team-leading 61 hits, and knocked 15 home runs and 49 RBI. He ranked among the team's top three in nine offensive categories.

At Atlanta, Jones was second on the team with a .433 average (13-for-30), and led the USA with five home runs (tied with Warren Morris) and 13 RBI.

Rod Dedeaux served as head coach for the 1984 U.S. Olympic Team. Dedeaux is viewed by many as a pioneer in the international baseball community after taking his USC squads to the Far East during the 1950s and 1960s. He also helped start the USA-Japan Series in 1972.

McGwire set the Pac-10 single season record with 32 home runs in 1984 (since broken by Troy Glaus). Fans, however, might not know that McGwire also pitched for the Trojans and actually put up better numbers than his teammate and future Cy Young Award winner Randy Johnson.

Seth Etherton completed one of the top pitching careers at USC in 1998, leading the Trojans to their 12th national championship. He set a school and Pac-10 record with 420 career strikeouts until USC's Rik Currier set a new mark with 449 strikeouts in 2001.

As the Trojans' No. 1 starter, Mark Prior turned in one of the most dominating seasons in collegiate history with the added pressure of being a top draft pick (he was drafted No. 2 overall by the Chicago Cubs). He was only the second player in history to sweep every national player of the year award and the first Trojan to win the Golden Spikes Award.

Due to an act of Congress in 1978, USA Baseball is the National Governing Body for the sport and represents amateur baseball in America as a member of the United States Olympic Committee (USOC) and the International Baseball Association (IBAF). Virtually every major national amateur baseball organization in America is united as a USA Baseball National Member. As a result, USA Baseball governs more than 20 million amateur players in ballparks and playgrounds across the country.

The USC baseball program has a great relationship with USA Baseball as many Trojans have played for Team USA. A total of 13 Trojans have played on the U.S. National Team with five players playing in back-to-back seasons.

In a study conducted by USA Baseball, USC ranks second among collegiate programs. The study combined the number of players, total number of participations and number of years out of the total that each program produced at least one National Team member.

The list includes: Mark McGwire (1984), Sid Akins (1984), Brad Brink (1985), Bret Barberie (1988), Geoff Jenkins (1994), Randy Flores (1994), Jacque Jones (1995 and 1996), Eric Munson (1997 and 1998), Seth Davidson (1998), Mark Prior (2000), Anthony Reyes (2000 and 2001), Jeff Clement (2003 and 2004) and Ian Kennedy (2004 and 2005).

The USA Baseball National Team consists of the top collegiate baseball players in the country. The team performs on a Red, White and Blue Tour each summer - a schedule of exhibition games all across America versus the world's top baseball talent. They also take on the Japanese Collegiate All-Stars in an annual five-game series.

Jeff Clement (upper left) and Ian Kennedy (upper right) were members of the 2004 U.S. National Team. Kennedy also played on the 2005 U.S. National Team. Clement (middle left) is shown after he hit the game-winning grand slam in the bottom of the 8th inning in a 5-2 tournament semifinal win against Chinese Taipei. Team USA went on to win the FISU II World University Baseball Championship in Taiwan. Anthony Reyes (middle left) was a two-time member of the U.S. Team. Jacque Jones (bottom left) is at the plate at the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta, Georgia, where Team USA won the bronze medal. Mark McGwire (bottom right) had his number (41) with Team USA retired in a special ceremony at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, Missouri.

Triple Play Helps Trojans Topple Yale

HYAMES FIELD, Kalamazoo, Mich., June 25—A ninth-inning triple play saved the game for Southern California here today as the Trojans beat Yale, 3-1, to take a one-up lead in the NCAA College World Series.

With the bases loaded and no outs, Yale's pinch-hitter, Jerry Breen, slapped a bouncer to Wally Hood, Trojan pitcher. Hood rifled the ball to Bob Zuber, catcher, for the first out, and Bob threw to Henry Cedillos at first to get Breen for out No. 2. Cedillos then zipped the ball to Bill Lillie at third who tagged the runner, Dick Mathews, who had rounded the bag, to end the game.

Unearned Three

The Trojans, trailing from the third inning when Yale scored its unearned run without benefit of a hit, rallied for three runs in the top of the ninth, apparently to clinch the triumph. Two dropped balls at the plate by Paul Russ, Yale catcher, helped the Trojans plenty as all three runs were unearned.

Then Hood, who had held the New Haven team to two hits, let down and two singles and a walk loaded the bases and set the stage for Breen's ill-fated appearances.

Kipp To Hurl

Tomorrow Lefty Tom Kipp throws for Troy and will oppose Frank Quinn, Yale ace right-hander. If Yale wins, a third and deciding game will be played forthwith.

Anthony Reyes set a World Series record by a rookie in 2006 after he retired 17 straight batters in Game 1 against the Detroit Tigers. He gave up just two runs in eight innings in a key 7-2 win as the St. Louis Cardinals went on to win the series in five games.
