THIS WEEK

USC sets up for the 2017 MPSF Tournament, hosted by Stanford, with the Trojans holding the No. 4 seed at the event. That puts USC (22-3) up against Penn State Behrend (6-12) in a 10 a.m. opener on Friday (Nov. 17) before taking on host Stanford (18-3) at 3 p.m. that afternoon. Two wins on Friday would put the Trojans in the MPSF final at 1 p.m. on Sunday (Nov. 19). A loss on Friday would relegate the Trojans to fight it out for a third-place finish. The tournament champion will secure an automatic bid into the coming NCAA Tournament, which USC will host Dec. 2-3.

RANKINGS

USC started its 2017 journey holding strong at No. 2 in the preseason national rankings. The Trojans wrapped 2016 at No. 2 in the land after reaching the NCAA final for the 12th consecutive season. After standing at No. 2 for the first five weeks of 2017 competition, USC climbed to No. 1 in the nation on Oct. 4. The Trojans dropped out of the top spot on Nov. 8, and have since move to No. 4 in the latest national poll (released Nov. 15).

THIS TIME LAST YEAR

USC was 20-1 overall and the No. 1 seed in the 2016 MPSF Tournament, hosted by UCLA. The Trojans opened the event with a 9-5 victory over No. 4 seeded Stanford before posting a 10-0 win over MPSF newcomer Penn State Behrend that afternoon. That put USC on a 14-game win streak entering the title match against host UCLA. There, USC would pin up a 9-6 victory over the Bruins to claim the Trojans' 10th MPSF Tournament Championship. The Trojans jumped out to a 3-0 lead on their hosts, and No. 2 UCLA would get no closer than two goals the rest of the way as the Trojans muscled through to take the tourney title and the free ticket to the 2016 NCAA Tournament. USC goalie McQuin Baron was an all-out wall in the cage, finishing with 17 total saves to help anchor USC to the win and to later help earn Baron honors as the MPSF Tournament MVP. Trojans Nick Bell and Blake Edwards also earned spots on the MPSF All-Tournament Team.

AND NOW...

This year, the Trojans have the No. 4 seed in this 2017 MPSF Tournament after going 1-2 during the MPSF regular season to hold an 22-3 overall record entering the postseason. It's USC's 10th consecutive 20-win season. USC needs a strong run in the tournament in order to secure a spot and a high seed in the coming NCAA Tournament, where the Trojans look to extend their 12-year streak of trips to the NCAA title match and raise the trophy for the first time since 2013. USC has won 10 MPSF Tournament championships to date, last winning it in 2016. The last time USC was the No. 4 seed in the MPSF Tournament was 2015, when the Trojans finished second at the MPSF tourney before going on to reach the NCAA final for the 11th straight year.

RECORD-BREAKING BARON

On Sept. 16 in USC's first-ever meeting with MIT, senior goalie McQuin Baron broke USC's all-time career saves record with his fifth save of the game. That notched Baron's 856th save to edge out previous leader Joel Dennerley, who had set the USC record during his senior season on Sept. 18, 2011 – almost exactly six years earlier. Baron already held the USC record for single-season saves, set his freshman year with 288 saves collected in 2014. Now with 1,023 career saves to his name, Baron has become just the second MPSF goalie to break the 1,000-save barrier in his career. As he continues to set his sights on anchoring the Trojans to a national championship, Baron also is hot on the trail of Pacific's Alex Malkis, who holds the MPSF record with 1,057 career saves from 2010-13.

CLIMB ON

While McQuin Baron tops the saves leaderboard at USC with his 1,023 career stops, a set of All-American senior sharpshooters are charging up the scoring charts. Blake Edwards has cracked the No. 10 all-time with 151 career goals. He's followed by Matteo Morelli and Grant Stein at No. 15 with 140 apiece. Just steps behind is Lachlan Edwards at No. 18 in USC history with 135. Fellow senior James Walters, meanwhile, has built his career count up to 91 goals, putting him in striking distance of the century mark as a Trojan.

ALL-AMERICAN EDGE

With eight All-Americans back in the water for 2017, USC head coach Jovan Vavic has more All-American talent than he has room for in his starting lineup. In that core group of decorated All-Americans, seven are seniors. Two of them are repeat team captains – James Walters and returning top scorer Blake Edwards – both two-time All-Americans. One is Cutino Award winner McQuin Baron, who will soon be taking over as USC's all-time saves leader. Three more Trojan All-Americans – Matteo Morelli, Lachlan Edwards and Grant Stein – accumulated over 100 combined goals last year. The seventh – standing out as the brains of the group – is NCAA Elite 90 Award winner Mihajlo Milicevic, who stars as a stingy defender for the Trojan cause. The only first-time All-American in the crew is on his way in to his second season at USC, as sophomore Matt Maier returns to the pool as the 2016 MPSF Newcomer of the Year.

BY THE NUMBERS

Now entering the 2017 postseason, the 22-3 Trojans have displayed widespread scoring ability. Twenty-one Trojans scored on USC's first day of action – a double-header at the UCLA Mini Invitational. Since then, freshman Marko Vavic now stands as the most prolific Trojan to date with 43 goals, followed by senior Blake Edwards with 41, seniors Matteo Morelli and Grant Stein with 30 each and senior Lachlan Edwards with 27. Defensively, three goalies have capped up in the cage. McQuin Baron has appeared in 24 games, with double-digit saves in 10 games. He's averaging 10.4 saves and 5.6 goals-against per game. Will Rubschlager and Simon Wu have shared time in backup roles to Baron, combining for 45 saves. In all, USC has outscored opponents 389-147. As a team, USC ranks No. 1 in the MPSF in offense (15.56 gpg) and No. 2 in defense (5.88 gagg).

DEPTH CHARGE

As valuable as USC's sizeable senior class is, Jovan Vavic has his eyes on a few other returners as linchpins in this season's efforts. Now sophomores, Olympian Thomas Dunstan, MPSF Newcomer of the Year Matt Maier and FINA Junior World Championship silver medalist Marin Dasic are even more prepared to be impact players for the Trojans. Junior Zach D'Sa and redshirt sophomore Daniel Leong both had breakout seasons last year and are primed for major playing time in 2017. Redshirt junior Tim Leong has also maneuvered his way into an increased role, while redshirt sophomore Sam Slobodien, too, made major strides last season and during the summer, lining himself up for extra duty at the two-meter mark along with fellow centers Maier, James Walters and Lachlan Edwards. In all, the Trojans return 90 percent of their scoring production from last season as well as their entire goalkeeping corps.

NEW CREW

Among the talented Trojan youth movement, Vavic taps redshirt freshmen Luke Wyatt, Chas Hornecker and Luka Karaman and true freshmen Marko Vavic and Christian Hockenbury as the brightest stars who are seeing the benefits of their hard work and skills developed in the run-up to this 2017 campaign. At 6-foot-6 and with U.S. National Team experience, Vavic stands to be a quick and powerful fit into his father's gameplan. Marko is the third of head coach Jovan Vavic's children to cap up at USC, following in the footsteps of older brother Nikola and sister Monica, who won a combined five NCAA Championships as Trojans.

OPENING DAY

Twenty-one Trojans got on the scoresheets in USC's season-opening action at the UCLA Mini Invitational. Fifteen Trojans logged goals in each game as USC posted a 27-3 win over Claremont-Mudd-Scripps followed by a 24-3 win over Pomona-Pitzer. Along the way, five Trojans – Marko Vavic, Troy Furniss, Christian Emerson, Christian Hockenbury and Chas Hornecker – registered their first career goals at USC.

TROJAN TRAVELS

In July, the Trojans took a trip through international waters, soaking up some sun while splashing down in seas, pools and rivers across France, Italy, Croatia and Montenegro. The Trojans set up camp in Nice (France), Recco (Italy), Split (Croatia) and Herceg Novi (Montenegro) while scrimmaging local teams and training for the upcoming 2017 season back in the USA. That European adventure brought the entire USC squad together as a team, offering up invaluable opportunities to gel in the water and out. In fact, the last three USC teams to take a similar summer training trip to Europe came back to the USA and won the national championship that same year. It's a theme that bodes well for the 2017 Trojans, who boast a senior class that is 13 Trojans strong and who have 11 redshirt freshmen and newcomers lined up for their first official action this season.

AND NOW, THIS

Now in his 23rd year at the helm of the USC water polo program, Jovan Vavic has guided the Trojans to the NCAA title match every season for the past 12 years. He's captured seven championships during that stretch. Last season, USC manufactured a 24-2 overall record, losing just one road game during the regular season, winning the MPSF Championship and then falling in a frustrating NCAA final that went to overtime in its opponent's home pool. This year, the Trojans are lined up as host of the 2017 NCAA Tournament, set for Dec. 2-3 at USC's own Uytengsu Aquatics Center. The last time the Trojans hosted the national championship, they capped it off by hoisting the 2012 championship trophy. This year, USC aims to once again successfully defend the Trojans' home waters while adding a 10th NCAA trophy to the men's collection of championships.

MOUNTAIN PACIFIC INVITATIONAL RECAP

In the first game of the day at the 2017 Mountain Pacific Invitational at Uytengsu Aquatics Center, USC saw 12 Trojans score and three USC goalies log time in the cage to help notch an 18-9 win over San José State. The next day, USC shrugged off a three-goal deficit in the quarterfinals and a two-goal hole in the semis to claim two tight comeback wins. The Trojans had to make a fourth-quarter comeback to beat No. 10 UC Irvine 10-9 in the quarters. The Anteaters had been up 9-6 on the Trojans entering the final eight minutes of regulation. With some key defensive stops, USC was able to generate a four-goal rally on scores from Matteo Morelli, Blake Edwards, Marko Vavic and Matt Maier to lift USC ahead 10-9 with 2:30 to go. USC's defense would step up for the rest, and the Trojans averted a dire situation to claim the comeback victory. That set up a rematch with No. 3 Stanford in the semis, where USC showed it still had some fight left to make a late move to beat the Cardinal 11-10. USC gripped a 3-1 lead in the first period of play, but would fall behind 8-7 entering the fourth. After a see-saw battle ensued to lock it up 10-10 entering the final minute, Morelli let loose a laser that put USC on top 11-10 with 28 ticks to go. Baron would come up big with a late save, and USC was able to hang on for the crucial comeback victory. Down by three goals with 4:13 left in Sunday's title match vs. UCLA, USC dug deep to carve the deficit down to one with 1:47 on the clock. Dunstan earned a power play for his Trojans, and Morelli served up his seventh assist of the tournament in finding Stein for a ripper that made it 12-10 at 3:07. After turning away the Bruins, USC got back on the attack, with Blake Edwards finding the hot-handed Stein for a sizzling skip that cut it to 12-11. Edwards would come up with a steal next, and USC called timeout with 1:20 to go. The referee's whistle would turn the ball back to the Bruins soon after, however, but Vavic was able to come up with a steal with 37 seconds left. Lachlan Edwards let loose a brilliant backhand, but it slammed the post, and USC's next try to equalize was off the mark. That left the ball in UCLA's hands for the final possession, and the Bruins opted to pad its lead with a last-second strike that finished things as a 13-11 UCLA win for USC's first loss of 2017.

CONFERENCE CHANGES

The Mountain Pacific Sports Federation took on a new look last season, as six teams departed the conference to start their own new league in 2016. The MPSF men's water polo field is now a five-team group that includes veterans Cal, Stanford, UCLA and USC after the foursome welcomed newcomer Penn State Behrend for the 2016 season.

FIGHTING ON FOR JON

On Jan. 8, 2014, the Trojan Family lost a special member in the passing of USC freshman Jon Walters. At 19 years old, Walters was an NCAA Champion, beloved teammate and a Trojan warrior for the USC men's water polo team. His loss has touched the Trojan Family and the water polo world deeply, and the USC water polo program continues to play with Jon in their hearts. As a first-year freshman 2-meter man, Jon Walters was a key contributor on USC's 2013 NCAA championship men's water polo team that won a sixth consecutive NCAA title in December. He scored 17 goals on the year, including two in the NCAA semifinal game and another two in the MPSF championship game, despite missing the middle part of the season with an elbow injury. A native of Newport Beach, he attended Mater Dei High School, where he was an All-American and the 2012 CIF Player of the Year. Jon's younger brother James is now a senior at USC. A two-time All-American, James is a team captain. •

JOVAN VAVIC • 23rd season (518-84)

14 National Titles • 13-time National Coach of the Year • 12-time MPSF Coach of the Year

With 14 national championships won during his tenure at USC, Jovan Vavic has the most team titles of any USC head coach in history.

Also solidified as one of the top water polo coaches in the country, Vavic serves a dual role as the head coach of both the USC men's and women's teams. He now has led both to national championships four times in the same school year (1998-99, 2003-04, 2009-10 and 2012-13), and lifted USC to an unprecedented six consecutive men's national championships with the Trojans' run to the 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012 and 2013 titles.

He holds 14 national championships (nine men's and five women's) and is a 13-time National Coach of the Year and 12-time MPSF Coach of the Year between the two programs. He also has seen his players win 13 Peter J. Cutino Awards.

Now in his 23rd season at the helm of the men's program, Vavic has improved his career coaching record on the men's side to 518-84 (.861). In his tenure as men's head coach, Vavic boasts a winning record against all opponents on the men's side of the game. He has accumulated a 350-82 (.810) record against current and former members of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation, with only two losses coming to teams outside of that group since 1995.

In 2016, Vavic guided the Trojans back to the NCAA title match for the 12th straight season and finished up with a 24-2 overall record while claiming the 2016 MPSF Tournament championship. In 2015, USC went 22-7 with a repeat run to the NCAA final, and the previous year, Vavic's young 2014 Trojans were led by eventual Peter J. Cutino Award winner Kostas Genidounias, who became the program's all-time top scorer during his senior season. That year, USC would defy the odds and reach the NCAA title game for the 10th consecutive season, finishing as runners-up to close the year at 24-7 overall.

In 2013, USC pulled off a sixth consecutive NCAA crown – won in an overtime battle with Pacific. The experienced USC squad snatched the title from the Tigers and finished up with a 28-4 overall record. With a roster that would include six 2013 All-Americans, USC finished the year with seven straight wins in also claiming the MPSF Tournament title.

For the third time in four years, Vavic's 2012 team boasted a program-high nine All-Americans – including National Coach of the Year honors for Vavic and the National Player of the Year award for Vavic's son, Nikola – following USC's run to a perfect 29-0 season and the 2012 National Championship. In their home pool, the Trojans captured their fifth consecutive title with a heart-stopping 11-10 win over UCLA in the final. Vavic's 2013 women's team would go on to complete a dominating year for USC in winning the women's title.

In 2011, the USC men finished off a fourth straight national title run with a 24-3 overall record thanks to a 7-4 win over UCLA in the final. In the calendar year of 2010, Vavic swept both sides of the game, following 2010 National and MPSF Coach of the Year awards on the women's side with 2010 National and MPSF Coach of the Year with the men in leading the Trojan men to their third consecutive national championship.

The 2010 campaign saw Vavic's Trojans defy the national predictions of a fourth-place finish in the conference by instead forcing their way to successfully defending their NCAA crowns with a third straight national championship. A 12-10 overtime win over host Cal in the 2010 title match finished off a 28-2 record for the MPSF and NCAA champions. In 2009, Vavic had guided the Trojans to a 26-2 record en route to USC's second straight national championship. In the 2009 title match, the Trojans beat UCLA 7-6 to win USC's fifth NCAA championship. Soon after, Vavic was named the National Coach of the Year, and he would see his players sweep the Cutino Awards for the third time in his career, as J.W. Krumpholz and Kami Craig went back-to-back as the 2009 and 2010 Cutino Award winners following the USC women's run to the 2010 NCAA Championship.

In 2008, the USC men were unstoppable. The Trojans claimed the program's third MPSF Championship on the way to the best season in program history with a 29-0 undefeated mark that culminated in the 2008 NCAA Championship for USC's fourth national title. Vavic's 300th career men's win was notched on Oct. 12, 2008 in a 12-7 win over Cal 12-7 in the SoCal Tournament semifinals.

USC posted its first undefeated regular season in 2006, as its overall winning streak reached a program-record 44 straight victories. Vavic was named the MPSF Coach of the Year for the sixth time in his career, and the Trojans finished 2006 with a 26-2 overall record after a last-second loss in the NCAA final. It was USC's second straight trip to the final, as Vavic had guided the Trojans to their third-ever NCAA Championship and a program-best 26-1 record in 2005.

For his success in guiding USC to the NCAA crown in 2005, Vavic was named the National Men's Coach of the Year. His Trojans also claimed the 2005 MPSF Championship, and Vavic earned himself MPSF Coach of the Year honors as well. At 26-1, USC posted its most wins in history and broke another record by closing out the year on an 19-game winning streak.

Vavic came to USC in 1992 as an assistant coach, joined John Williams as co-head coach in 1995 and took over the men's head coaching reins in 1999 after Williams retired. He and Williams were named National Coaches of the Year in 1998 after leading USC to its first-ever national championship. They also were named MPSF Co-Coaches of the Year in 1996 after leading USC to the conference title.

In fact, in the 1998-99 season, Vavic did something no other coach has accomplished as his teams won three national championships. In addition to capturing the 1998 men's and 1999 women's titles, his 1999 men's club team won the Men's Senior National Club Championship. In 2003, Vavic pulled a coaching double sweep when he was named 2003 National and MPSF Coach of the Year for the men and 2004 National and MPSF Coach of the Year for the women.

Vavic has been with the USC women's program since its inception in 1995, and the 2004 women's team became the first team in NCAA Championship history to go undefeated (29-0) during the regular season. USC's 25-3 overall mark in 2010 culminated in the women's program's third national championship and 13th straight 20-win season. And in 2013, the Women of Troy played the longest NCAA women's final in history, beating Stanford in triple sudden-death overtime to win USC's fourth National Championship. In 2016, the USC women completed another perfect season, finishing up 26-0 and winning a fifth national title. Overall, Vavic's career record on the women's side stands at 545-146 (.789) in 23 seasons as head coach.

Vavic oversaw the women's water polo team's move from Division II in 1995 to Division I in 1996. In 1999, the USC women captured their first national championship. Since 1999 when the program was fully funded, Vavic's record is 402-69 (.854). He has swept as National and MPSF Coach of the Year in 1999, 2004 and 2010.

Vavic spent the 1990 season as an assistant men's coach at UCLA. Previously, he coached three seasons (1987-1990) at Palos Verdes High, with two undefeated league seasons (1987-89). Vavic served as a U.S. assistant coach at the 1995 World University Games, and was the head coach of the team in 2003. He also served as interim head coach for Team USA at the 2013 UANA World Aquatic Championship Qualification Tournament.

Vavic, a native of Yugoslavia, graduated from UCLA in 1992 with a bachelor's degree in history. He and his wife, Lisa, have four children: Nikola, Monica, Marko and Stefan.
