DONS AT A GLANCE

- Making its home debut in West Coast Conference (WCC) action, the University of San Francisco (USF) women's volleyball team most recently fell to Pepperdine, 3-0, at War Memorial at the Sobrato Center on Thursday, Oct 2. The first two sets of the match were in reach as the Dons led 23-21 in set one, and trailed 24-23 in set two, but the green and gold were unable to take either set, and ultimately dropped the third set, 25-14. In the loss against the Waves, four Dons registered six kills to lead the team: Shannon Knight, Hannah Taylor, Astrid Puig, and Maeve Bailey. Andrea Fabikovicova once again led USF in assists with 17. Replacing the injured Hokulani Perez, Jamie Low received her first start of the fall against Pepperdine, and just her third start at the collegiate level overall.
- Through three matches in conference play so far, San Francisco ranks in the top five in both blocks per set (2.73, second) and hitting percentage (.223, fifth).
- Saturday will mark the end of a short two-game homestand for San Francisco, as the Dons will travel next week to begin a four-game road trip, first heading to the South Bay to face Santa Clara on Thursday, Oct. 9.
- USF looks to capture its first-ever win over Oregon State in program history, with the Beavers having won each of the previous 11 contests against the Dons, including going 2-0 last season in their first year as affiliate members of the WCC.
- Coming into the match against Oregon State, three Dons rank in the top five in the conference in important statistical categories: Abby Wadas is second in digs per set (3.71), Bailey is third in hitting percentage (.366), and Fabikovicova is fifth in assists per set (6.81).

SCOUTING THE BEAVERS

- Oregon State has begun its final season in the WCC with success, compiling a 3-0 record to kickstart conference play, most recently taking down Santa Clara, 3-1, at Leavey Center on Thursday night. Lauren Rumel led the Beavers offensively with 18 kills, and Emma Lilo totaled 26 assists in the victory, her highest total of conference action and second-most of the season (30, Sept. 20 at Portland State).
- Looking at the conference rankings, Oregon State enters the match first in the WCC in hitting percentage (.251), first in solo blocks (39), second in kills per set (13.59), second in assists per set (12.59), second in points per set (17.4), and fifth in assists (579). Individually, Nathalie Scholz leads the WCC in blocks per set (1.31), Alana Marrs is second in hitting percentage (.372), Rumel is second in kills per set (3.89) and fourth in kills (179), and Cheyenne Green is fifth in service aces per set (0.41).
- The Beavers are one of three 3-0 teams in the West Coast Conference this season, along with San Diego and Washington State. Before the start of the season, Oregon State was picked to finish in a tie for fourth with Washington State.
