DONS AT A GLANCE

- Looking to get back on track, the University of San Francisco volleyball team is set to begin conference action with a two-match road trip in the Evergreen State, starting WCC play against Washington State on Thursday night in a 7:00 p.m. match in Pullman.
- The Dons look to end a five-game skid, going 0-3 in last week's USF Challenge, most recently falling to San Jose State in a 3-1 match on Saturday afternoon.
- Hannah Taylor and Astrid Puig led the green and gold offensively with 15 and 12 kills, respectively, and Andrea Fabikovicova once again led the Dons in assists with 33.
- At the conclusion of nonconference action, Abby Wadas leads all WCC student-athletes in digs per set (3.82), Hokulani Perez ranks fourth in the WCC in blocks per set (1.18), and Fabikovicova ranks fifth in assists per set (7.36).
- As a team, the Dons lead all WCC opponents in blocks per set with a 2.53 block-per-set mark.
- San Francisco looks to improve on a 10-8 conference record from last season, which saw four consecutive victories to open WCC play.

SCOUTING THE COUGARS

- After dropping three of its first five contests of the season, Washington State looks to stay on a hot streak to start its second season of WCC action, having won four of its last five matches, most recently sweeping Eastern Washington last Friday night in a 3-0 victory.
- Wazzu is one of three schools in the WCC (San Diego, Portland) with three players totaling triple-digit kills on the season, with redshirt sophomore Lucie Blazkova (120), freshman Eliana Ti'a (111), and graduate student Melina Christodoulou (100) leading the offensive attack for the Cougars.
- As a unit, WSU leads all WCC programs in hit percentage (.252), digs per set (14.8), and points per set (18.5).
- The Cougars will begin its second and final conference season as affiliate members of the West Coast Conference, having amassed an 11-7 record in WCC action last year, finishing fourth in the league. Washington State will return to Pac-12 conference action next season.
