

HEAD COACH

Mick Dennehy

Head Coach
(Montana, 1973)
Fifth Year at Utah State

As Mick Dennehy enters his fifth season as the head coach at Utah State, there have been strong signs of the Aggies turning around a program which has produced just two winning seasons in the last 23 years.

In the first four years of the Dennehy era, the Aggies have drawn three of the top five season attendance averages in school history. His five years at the helm are the fourth most of the 14 coaches that have followed Dick Romney, who coached 29 seasons before retiring in 1948.

On the field his teams have played seven nationally ranked teams in four years, the most ranked opponents for an Aggie coach since Chuck Shelton's teams played seven from 1988-91 and nine overall in Shelton's six years.

His teams have produced winning home records in each of his four years as he has become the first Aggie coach to accomplish that feat since John Ralston, who coached from 1959-62.

He has coached four players that have received All-America honors in the last four years (Emmett White, Kevin Curtis, Steve Mullins, and Chris Cooley), the best stretch for the school since an identical four players were recognized from 1985-88.

And as the Aggies finish up play in the Sun Belt Conference this season after two years as an independent from 2001-02, the future is bright as USU will join the Western Athletic Conference beginning in the 2005 season.

This new era in Utah State University football began on Dec. 3, 1999 when the University hired a head football coach known for explosive offenses and an impeccable record both on and off the field. Dennehy was a highly successful head coach at Montana from 1996-99 and became the 24th head coach in Utah State University and in his first season at the Aggie helm in 2000 showed why the Aggie football program is in good hands. Dennehy (pronounced Den-uh-hee) replaced Dave Arslanian, who led USU to a 7-15 record in two seasons.

"We need to win some fans back with an exciting brand of winning football," said then USU director of athletics Rance Pugmire on the day Dennehy was hired.

USU started to win the fans back as the Aggies averaged 19,910 fans per game for the then third best home average (now fifth) in school history his first season. In 2001 the Aggies set a school attendance mark averaging 21,784 fans without the benefit of hosting BYU or Utah. In 2002, USU reached the 21,000-mark for just the third time in school history with a 21,112 average.

Dennehy's first team won five games for the most victories by an Aggie team since 1997 and despite being picked to finish fifth in the Big West Conference in the preseason polls, USU's final league game against Boise State was for the conference championship.

In 2003, USU's only other year in a conference in the Dennehy era, the Aggies were picked to finish a distance sixth in the Sun Belt, but responded by winning three of its first four league games and tying for fourth.

USU produced three of the top-10 total offense days in school history in his inaugural year here and the defense landed three linebackers and the only freshman on the all-Big West Conference first team.

Facing a difficult task as an independent in 2001 and 2002, Dennehy's teams showed a never-say-die attitude, posting strong results late in each of those years. In 2001 after opening the year with five straight losses, including four to future bowl teams, the Aggies ran off four straight wins. In 2002, USU put together a 3-1 streak after suffering a heart-breaking 35-34 loss to BYU.

Mick and Sheila Dennehy

Dennehy, who came to USU known for producing a high-powered, wide-open passing offensive attack, led Montana to three Big Sky Championships in his four years as head coach with a runner-up finish in 1997. The Grizzlies advanced to the Division I-AA playoffs in each of his four years and finished as the national runner-up in 1996.

Dennehy was a finalist for the Eddie Robinson award in 1999, which is given to the Division I-AA Coach of the Year and built a 39-12 record for a 76.5 winning percentage in his four years, including a 27-5 (84.4 percent) conference mark. In 1999, Montana went 9-3 overall with a 7-1 mark in Big Sky play to claim the league title and finished the year ranked seventh in the country. The Grizzlies lost in the first round of the I-AA playoffs 30-27 to Youngstown State on Nov. 27.

Montana's offenses with Dennehy as the offensive coordinator or head coach were among the most productive at the Division I-AA level and were consistently ranked among the national leaders, leading the country in total offense, passing offense and scoring offense in 1995, as well as in passing offense in 1993 and 1996.

In fact, Montana ranked in the top four in the country in passing offense in all nine of Dennehy's years at Montana and was in the top five in scoring and total offense in five of his last seven years.

Montana was ranked second in Division I-AA in passing offense (370.0 per game), total offense (517.4) and scoring offense (46.4) in 1999. The 1999 team led the Big Sky in scoring offense and scoring defense (23.1), marking the first time one school led the league in both categories since Idaho State in 1981. The Grizzlies also led the league in total offense and total defense (348.5) marking just the third time one school led in scoring offense, total offense, scoring, and total defense in the same season.

"Montana has had a model program and has dominated its league for years," Pugmire said when he hired Dennehy. "Mick has been at the heart of that success and we are fortunate to attract a coach of his caliber to Utah State University. I remember my many years at Idaho watching what seemed to be an unstoppable offense.

"As we checked references, it became very clear that not only would this be a great catch for Utah State, but this hire would be a great fit for the community."

Academics have also been very important for the Montana football program as the school produced 13 academic All-Americans, including 12 selections in Dennehy's tenure. Dennehy has had 55 of his 60 seniors earn a degree as well. Montana ranked first or second in the Big Sky in football academic all-league selections in 12 of the last 13 years. In addition, in 1999 Montana had four players earn GTE Academic all-district honors.

That attention to academics has continued at USU as the Aggies have had several players earn all-district honors for their academic achievements.

During his career at Montana, which included serving as the team's offensive coordinator and offensive line coach from 1991-95, UM won five league titles and advanced to the national playoffs seven consecutive times. Montana won the national championship in '95 and was runner-up in his inaugural season as the head coach in '96. Montana advanced to seven straight I-AA playoff appearances, the longest streak of any team in the '90s and the team's 93 wins in the '90s were third best in I-AA trailing only Youngstown State (101) and Dayton (98).

While serving as Montana's head coach for four years Dennehy saw 21 of his players named first-team all-Big Sky, with another 30 being tabbed during his five years as an assistant coach.

Prior to returning to his alma mater (he graduated from Montana in 1973 with a bachelor's degree in education) as an assistant ahead of the 1991 season, Dennehy was head coach at Colton (Wash.) HS from 1975-78, head coach at Helena (Mont.) HS from 1979-81, assistant coach at Montana State from 1980-81, head coach at Campbell County (Gillette, Wyo.) HS from 1982-87 and head coach at Western Montana, a NAIA school in Dillon, Mont. from 1988-90.

At Western Montana, he took over a program that had dropped football in 1987 and posted a 1-6 record in 1988. In 1989 the team improved to 4-4 and in 1990 went 5-3 under his guidance.

Dennehy played safety at Montana from 1971-72 and earned first-team all-Big Sky Conference honors in 1972. He is tied for second on the Big Sky single-season interceptions list with 10 pickoffs in 1972 and is tied for ninth in career interceptions with 16. He also earned the Golden Helmet Award his senior year as the hardest hitter on the team.

Dennehy, who was born June 13, 1950 in Butte, Mont., and his wife Sheila, have two sons: Jake, a four-year letterman at safety for Montana from 1994-97 and Mark, a former Grizzlies wide receiver from 1996-97.

In addition to his bachelor's degree from Montana, Dennehy earned a master's degree in educational administration from Washington State in 1977.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Lance Anderson

Linebackers
(Idaho State, 1996)
First Year at Utah State

The newest member of the USU coaching staff is Lance Anderson who was named as the outside linebackers coach in January of 2004. Anderson replaced David Reeves, who resigned to accept the head coaching position at Rocky Mountain (Mont.) College.

Anderson served as the co-defensive coordinator and defensive line coach at Saint Mary's (Calif.) College in 2003. Last season the Gaels had four defensive players earn I-AA Independent honors as safety Weston Borba was a first-team selection, linebackers Ray Mike and Heath Villarreal were second-team picks and linebacker Anthony Woodards earned honorable mention recognition.

Prior to spending one season at Saint Mary's, Anderson worked four years at Bucknell with current Aggie defensive coordinator Dave Kotulski. He spent 2001 and 2002 as the school's defensive line coach and recruiting coordinator after working with the tight ends and offensive line in 1999 and 2000.

While at St. Mary's, Anderson used the same defense he learned from Kotulski at Bucknell.

Anderson is familiar with the area as he was born and raised in Rupert, Idaho and his father wrestled and played football at Utah State. Anderson played high school football, basketball and track before walking on to the football team at Brigham Young University in 1989. After serving an LDS mission, he walked on at Idaho State in 1993 and 1994.

He graduated from ISU with a degree in biology in 1996. He and his wife Sherri have three children, Aubrey, Jaren, and Braden.

Anderson's previous coaching stops include Idaho State in 1997 and 1998 and the Mobile (Ala.) Admirals of the Regional Football League in 1999.

coach. In 1996 he earned the school's teacher of the year honor.

Prior to working at Post Falls, he was the defensive coordinator at Twin Falls (Idaho) High School and the head coach at Challis (Idaho) High School.

Choate started his coaching career at his alma mater of Western Montana, where he spent 1991-93. In that time he was the linebackers coach, strength coach and recruiting coordinator.

Fifth Year at Utah State

In his fifth year at Utah State and his 13th as an offensive coordinator at the collegiate level is Bob Cole, who came to USU after one year at Montana.

Directly responsible for the quarterback position, Cole helped develop Jose Fuentes, who went on to become the school's all-time passing leader before graduating after the 2002 season.

Last year he coached Travis Cox, who in his first year as a starter, threw for 2,791 yards to lead the Sun Belt Conference and earn second-team all-league honors.

USU's offense ranked seventh in the nation in 2002 and was 13th in 2001. Under his direction in 2000 the Aggie offense produced three of the top 10 total yardage games in school history.

In a four-game stretch late in 2000, USU averaged 565.5 yards and 39.3 points per game and scored 30-plus points in four straight games for the first time since 1990.

Cole spent the 1999 season at Montana, and under his direction the Grizzly offense finished second in the nation in total offense (517.4 yards per game), passing offense (370.0) and scoring offense (46.4). In his final year at Portland State in 1998, the Vikings led the Big Sky in total offense at 464.6 yards per game and were fourth in Division I-AA in passing at 305.4 yards per game.

The Cole Family - Bob, Zoe, Kathy and Bobby

While coaching quarterbacks and designing the offense at Portland State, Cole coached Jimmy Blanchard, who led the nation in passing efficiency in 1998, while Orshawante Bryant led the Big Sky in receiving yards and running back Charles Dunn was in the top 10 in the nation in rushing in that same season.

As a three-year starting quarterback at Widener, he led the Pioneers to a 35-2 combined record in that time as well as the 1981 Division III national championship. Widener advanced to the national semifinals in his sophomore and junior seasons as well.

Cole earned a degree in social science, along with a teaching credential from Widener in 1982. He and his wife Kathy have one daughter (Zoe) and one son (Bobby).

Entering his fifth year at Utah State is Jeff Hoover. Hoover came to USU after spending the previous five seasons as the offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator at Portland State. He coaches the offensive line at USU.

In his first two years Hoover's line helped pave the way for Emmett White, who ranked 13th in the NCAA in rushing in 2000 and 11th in 2001. In 2000, Utah State was ranked among the top teams in the nation by allowing just 15 sacks. In 2001, the Aggies were 14th in the country in passing offense.

This past season Hoover coached Outland Trophy candidate Trevor Hutton, who was a second-team all-Sun Belt pick and signed a free agent contract with Indianapolis.

Two Aggies earned all-Big West honors in 2000 under his guidance, including first-team pick Jeff Long and second-team selection Jim Walker. In 2001 Jim Walker was an all-independent selection.

Hoover, who joined the Portland State staff in 1995, coached two first-team all-conference linemen, who helped pave the way for first-team all-Big Sky running back and PSU career rushing leader Charles Dunn. The Vikings also boasted the nation's passing efficiency leader in Jimmy Blanchard in 1998. Two of his linemen earned All-America honors, including Bobby Singh, who played for the Super Bowl Champion St. Louis Rams and Moe Tauiolo.

Second Year at Utah State

The Aggie defense will be under the direction of second-year USU coordinator David Kotulski, who has spent the last 14 years as a collegiate defensive coordinator.

Kotulski begins his second season with the Aggies after being a coordinator at St. Mary's (Calif.) College (1990-94) and Bucknell (1995-2002), where the Bison produced seven consecutive winning seasons. He has been a collegiate assistant coach since 1978 and spent the 2002 season as the interim head coach at Bucknell, filling in for Tom Gadd, who had taken a leave of absence to fight brain cancer.

In his first year at USU Kotulski's defense produced the second-best turnaround in college football as the Aggies ranked 111th in total defense the year before he arrived and improved that to 45th in 2003.

Kotulski is no stranger to the state of Utah as he started his collegiate coaching career as a defensive line and linebackers coach at the University of Utah from 1978-89. There he worked for three different Ute head coaches, including Wayne Howard, Chuck Stobart and Jim Fassel.

In his eight years at Bucknell, the Bison's defenses were annually among the top two in the Patriot League and ranked nationally at the division I-AA level.

In the last eight years, Bucknell allowed just 101 yards rushing, 189 yards passing and 290 total yards per game. In addition, Kotulski's teams averaged 34 sacks and forced 26 turnovers per year and allowed just 16.9 points per game.

John Roberts

Graduate Asst. (Running Backs)
(Utah State, 2002)
Third Year at Utah State

An inspirational leader on the football team during his four seasons at Utah State (1998-2001), John Roberts begins his third season on the Aggie football staff as the offensive graduate assistant in charge of running backs.

Last year Roberts coached David Fiefla, who was a second-team all-Big West running back and one of the top receiving backs in the nation.

A former running back and key special teams performer for the Aggies, Roberts had his playing career shortened when he suffered a broken arm in the sixth game of his senior year against Idaho State.

Roberts backed up two of the best running backs in school history as he saw action behind Demario Brown, USU's all-time rushing leader, and Emmett White, the fifth-leading rusher at USU.

As a freshman, Roberts rushed for 313 yards on 86 carries, including a 118-yard game against Sam Houston State. As a sophomore he carried 30 times for 141 yards and in 2000 he rushed 26 times for 99 yards.

Roberts excelled on special teams and was voted the team's most inspirational player in 2000 and again in 2001. He also shared the team's Golden Helmet Award in 2000.

Roberts was born Feb. 19, 1980 in San Diego, Calif.
