HISTORY OF THE UTES

One of the most successful programs in the history of college basketball, Utah enters its 97th season ranked 10th in the NCAA with a .660 all-time winning percentage. Utah is also tied for 11th in the NCAA in all-time wins with a 1,541-793 record.

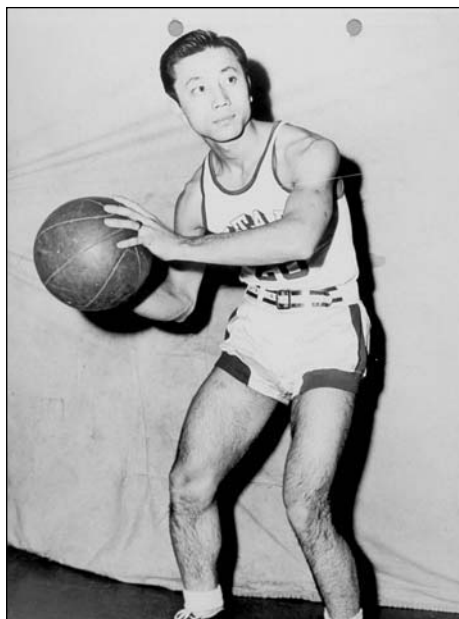

Utah, one of just 13 schools that have 1,500 victories, won the first of its three national titles in 1916, winning the AAU National Tournament. Utah also captured the NCAA Championship in 1944 and the National Invitational Tournament in 1947. Utah is one of only 35 schools that have claimed the NCAA Division I men's basketball title.

In its 96-year history, Utah has posted a losing record just 18 times—and only 11 times in the last 75 seasons. The U. has also recorded 20-win seasons 31 times and advanced to postseason play on 39 occasions.

Utah is tied for 11th all-time in NCAA Tournament appearances (25) and tied for 10th in games played (61). The Utes have a 33-28 record (.541) in NCAA Tournament play. Utah has made four trips to the NCAA Final Four: 1944 (NCAA champions), 1961 (4th), 1966 (4th) and 1998 (NCAA runner-up). Only 14 teams have more Final Four appearances than Utah.

GREAT NAMES IN THE GAME

Numerous outstanding coaches and athletes have contributed to the building of Utah's proud tradition. One of the greatest coaches in the history of the game, Jack Gardner, manned the Utah bench from 1953-71. Gardner, who was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in 1984, went 339-154 (.688) in 18 seasons at Utah.

Wat Misaka (above) in 1944 and Arizona's Mike Bibby in 1997 are the only two freshman point guards to lead their teams to NCAA Championships.

He led the Utes to NCAA Final Four appearances in 1961 and '66.

Vadal Peterson has the most wins in school history, going 385-230 (.626) in 26 seasons from 1927-53. Rick Majerus, who stepped down during the later part of the 2003-04 season, became the third Ute coach to reach 300 wins and has the best winning percentage since the 1910's with a 323-95 (.773) record in 15 seasons. When he retired, Majerus' .742 career winning percentage in 20 seasons as a head coach ranked tied for 18th all-time.

Before Keith Van Horn became Utah's all-time scoring leader in 1997, Billy McGill had manned the throne since 1962. Despite playing just three seasons, McGill scored 2,321 career points. In his final season at the U. in 1961-62, he averaged 38.8 points per game to lead the nation in scoring and post a school record 1,009 points.

McGill, Van Horn and Josh Grant are the only three Utes with 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds in their careers. Utah has had five consensus first team All-Americans in Bill Kinner (1936), Arnie Ferrin (1945), McGill (1962), Van Horn (1997) and Andre Miller (1999).

Here is a look at the highlights of 96 seasons of Utah basketball.

In its eighth season, Utah won the first of its three national championships by capturing the National AAU Tournament title in Chicago, Ill. The Utes defeated the Columbia Athletic Club and the Olympic Athletic Club before defeating the Illinois Athletic Club, 28-27, in the championship game. Coach Nelson H. Nordgren led Utah to its only undefeated season with an 11-0 record overall and a 6-0 mark in Rocky Mountain Conference play.

1918-19

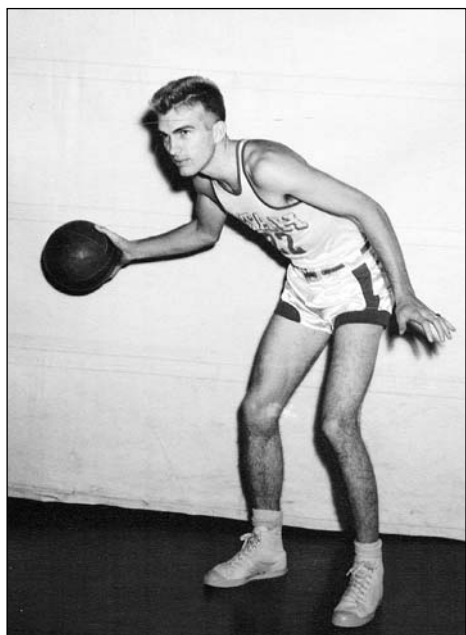

Utah captured its third Rocky Mountain Conference title with a 7-0 record. Under second-year head coach Thomas Fitzpatrick, Utah made its second appearance in the National AAU Tournament, April 18-19, nearly a month after its perfect regular season had concluded. The Utes lost both games in Los Angeles to finish 7-2.

1919-20

The Utes competed in the National AAU Tournament for the second consecutive year, this time making the trip to Atlanta, Ga. After winning all four regular-season games, Utah won its first round AAU Tournament game and lost in the second round to Rutgers.

1943-44

The "Blitz Kids" finished the regular season with an 18-4 record and went on to give the school its first NCAA basketball championship, defeating Dartmouth, 42-40 in overtime, in the finals in New York City. The Utes actually had been invited to the NIT that year. But after losing to Kentucky in the first round, they filled in for Arkansas in the NCAA Tournament and went on to win the title. Vadal Peterson (deceased, 1976) was the coach and Arnie Ferrin, who later served as Utah's athletics director, was named tournament MVP. Utah later met NIT winner St. John's in a Red Cross benefit game and took a 43-36 victory.

Arnie Ferrin was the first of three freshmen in NCAA Tournament history to be named Final Four MVP in 1944. He is also one of only two players ever to win NIT, NCAA and NBA championships.

1944-45

The Utes compiled a classy 17-2 regular season record and had sights set on a second straight NCAA title. However, Utah dropped its opening game (62-37) to a tough Oklahoma State team that went on to win it all. Arnie Ferrin earned All-America honors.

1946-47

Utah took a 16-5 record into the NIT and went on to capture its third national championship. The Utes won three games by a total of seven points, defeating Duquesne (45-44), West Virginia (64-62) and Kentucky (49-45). Vern Gardner was named the tournament's MVP.

1948-49

Utah took a 24-7 record to New York and lost a 64-63 NIT first round thriller to San Francisco.

1952-53

Head coach Vadal Peterson, Utah's all-time leader with 385 wins, stepped down after 26 seasons. Peterson guided the Utes to a national championship and three league titles. One legend succeeded another as Peterson was replaced by Jack Gardner (deceased, 2000).

1954-55

Utah took a 23-3 record into the tournament where it opened play against Bill Russell and the University of San Francisco Dons, who knocked off the Utes, 78-59, on their way to winning their first of back-to-back NCAA championships. The three "Bs" (Art Bunte, Morris Buckwalter, Gary Bergen) were the stars.

1955-56

Utah went 21-5 to make its second consecutive appearance in the NCAA West Regionals. This time the Utes met Seattle in the first round, taking an 81-72 win, but San Francisco derailed the Utes for the second straight year (92-77) in the West Regional championship.

1956-57

Utah finished 19-7 for the season but lost to Memphis State by a bucket in the first round of the NIT.

1957-58

For the second consecutive season, Utah bowed out in the first round of the NIT. The Utes lost to St. John's by one point to finish 20-7.

1958-59

Utah's luck in the NCAA Tournament continued to run bad. This time the Utes took a 21-5 record into the show only to run into the eventual national champion California Bears in the second round. Utah lost in the West Regional consolation game to Idaho State. It was the third NCAA appearance in five years for head coach Jack Gardner.

1959-60

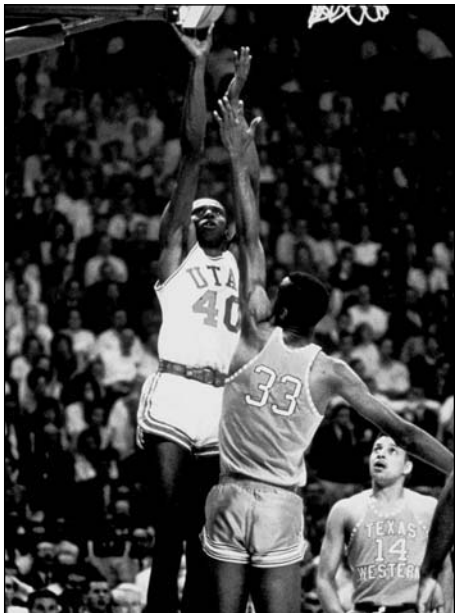

Led by sophomore Billy "The Hill" McGill, the Utes took a 24-2 regular-season record into the NCAA Tournament. Utah knocked off USC in the first round but fell to Oregon in the West Regional semifinals. Future Ute coach Jerry Pimm was a guard for the Trojans. The Utes came back to defeat Santa Clara in the regional consolation championship, 89-81. Utah won the Skyline Conference with a 13-1 record.

1960-61

Utah won the NCAA West Regionals and advanced to the Final Four in Kansas City as Billy McGill led the way. Eventual champion Cincinnati knocked off the Utes, 82-67, in the semifinals and the Utes finished fourth after losing the battle for third place in four overtimes (127-120) to St. Joseph's.

1965-66

The Utes compiled a 21-6 record and won the WAC title on their way to the NCAA Tournament. Without one of their mainstays, George Fisher, who broke his leg late in the season, the Utes' chances looked dim. But Jerry Chambers had a spectacular tournament to lead the Utes to the West Regional title and another berth in the Final Jerry Chambers was named the 1966 NCAA Tournament MVP after leading Utah to the Final Four.

Danny Vranes helped lead Utah to the Regional Semifinals of the NCAA Tournament in 1981.

Four. The Utes lost to eventual champion Texas Western (now UTEP) in the semifinals and finished fourth. Chambers was named the tournament MVP.

1969-70

The Jon M. Huntsman Center was completed in November. Then known as the Special Events Center, the 15,000-seat facility hosted its first Utah game on Dec. 1 when Utah defeated Stanford, 96-94. After an 18-8 regular season, the Utes picked up a spot in the 16-team NIT field. They also picked up a first round victory over Duke but lost to eventual champion Marquette in the second round.

1970-71

Hall of Fame coach Jack Gardner retired following the season. During 18 years on The Hill, Gardner posted 339 wins and a .688 winning percentage. He also led the Utes to two NCAA Final Four appearances and seven conference championships.

1973-74

The Utes entered the NIT with a 19-7 record and promptly blasted their way to the finals with victories over Rutgers, Memphis State and Boston College. Purdue beat Utah, 87-81, in the finals, but Mike Sojourner was named the tournament MVP and Luther "Ticky" Burden led all scorers.

1976-77

The Utes compiled a 21-6 regular-season record and won the WAC title on their way to advancing to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in 11 years. Jeff Judkins and Jeff Jonas provided the one-two punch on that team. A 72-68 victory over St. John's set up an NCAA second round game with UNLV in Provo, Utah. The Rebels proved to be too much, however, as they came away with an 88-83 victory.

1977-78

Utah chalked up an impressive 22-5 record and qualified for the NCAA Tournament as the second-place finisher in the WAC. The Utes faced Missouri in a subregional game and took an 86-79 victory in double overtime. The Utes were pitted against Notre Dame in a Midwest Regional semifinal game played on St. Patrick's Day. The luck of the Irish prevailed as they took a 69-56 win.

1978-79

Finishing the season with a 20-10 record, the Utes became one of only 10 teams to advance to the NCAA Tournament three years in a row (1977, '78, '79). Utah faced Pepperdine in a first round match-up and witnessed a two-point lead evaporate on a last-second shot to send the game into overtime. The Waves went on to take a 92-88 victory.

1980-81

Led by Danny Vranes and Tom Chambers, the Utes posted a 25-5 regular-season mark in winning the conference championship. An easy 94-69 NCAA second round victory over Northeastern earned the Utes a West Regional semifinal battle with North Carolina in the Huntsman Center. The Tar Heels overcame the Utes' homecourt advantage and forced Utah into one of its worst shooting performances of the season in a 61-56 victory.

1982-83

The Utes wound up in a three-way tie for the WAC crown and were matched-up against Illinois in the first round of the NCAA Tournament in Boise, Idaho. Manny Hendrix and Peter Williams led the Utes to a 52-49 win over the Illini and then followed up with a 67-61 upset win over UCLA in the second round, as Pace Mannion and Angelo Robinson provided the spark. Utah ran into another Cinderella team in the regional semifinals in North Carolina State. The Wolfpack took a 75-56 victory on their way to capturing the national championship.

1985-86

The Utes won a share of the WAC crown and met North Carolina in an NCAA Tournament first round match-up in Ogden, Utah. Trailing just 39-38 at the half, the Utes couldn't sustain the effort in the second period and the Tar Heels pulled away for an 85-72 win.

1986-87

Utah met Boise State on the Broncos' home court in the first round of the NIT, falling 62-61.

1987-88

For the second year in a row, Utah made the NIT field but was forced to open tournament play on the road. The Utes traveled to Indiana and came up short to Evansville in the first round, 66-65.

1990-91

The Utes, picked to finish seventh in the WAC, surprised everyone by winning the conference with a 15-1 mark and posting a 26-2 regular-season record. After winning a pair of games in the WAC Tournament, the Utes met South Alabama in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, coming away with an 82-72 victory as Josh Grant hit for 22 points. Michigan State and the Utes staged an epic battle in the second round with the Utes finally taking an 85-84 victory in double overtime to advance to the "Sweet Sixteen" in Seattle. Grant netted 29 points in the victory. Defending NCAA champion UNLV was the opponent in the West Regional semifinal and defeated Utah, 83-66. The Utes finished with a 30-4 record and a No. 10 national ranking.

Buster Matheny played on the Runnin' Utes' NCAA "Sweet Sixteen" teams in 1977 and '78.

The Runnin' Utes hit their stride as they moved into the NIT and played their best basketball of the season. Rick Majerus directed his new team against his old one as Utah opened the tournament by hosting Ball State. The Utes came away with a 72-57 victory. A second round win came at Arizona State, where Utah put together a balanced scoring attack to drop the Sun Devils, 60-58. A home win against Rhode Island sent the Utes to New York after Paul Afeaki scored 32 points to lead the Utes to an 84-72 victory. In the semifinals at New York's Madison Square Garden, the Utes dropped a close game to Notre Dame, 58-55. The Utes came back two days later to knock off Florida, 81-78, to capture third place. Jimmy Soto was named to the all-tournament team.

1992-93

The Utes won their second WAC crown in three years with a 15-3 record and met Pittsburgh in the first round of the NCAA Southeast Regional in Nashville, Tenn. Phil Dixon scored 22 points to lead the Utes to an 86-65 victory over the Panthers. Kentucky was up next for the Utes, and the talented Wildcats were too much, taking an 83-62 victory. Josh Grant had 24 points in the game.

After posting a 27-5 regular-season record and winning both the WAC regular-season and tournament championships, the Utes were off to Boise, Idaho, to face Long Beach State in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. The Utes led most of the way and took a 76-64 win. Brandon Jessie topped the Ute scorers with 22 points while Keith Van Horn added 21. Second round action pitted Utah against powerful Mississippi State. Poor shooting (35 percent) doomed the Utes in a 78-64 loss. Van Horn, with 21 points, and Jessie, with 13, were the only Utes in double figures.

1995-96

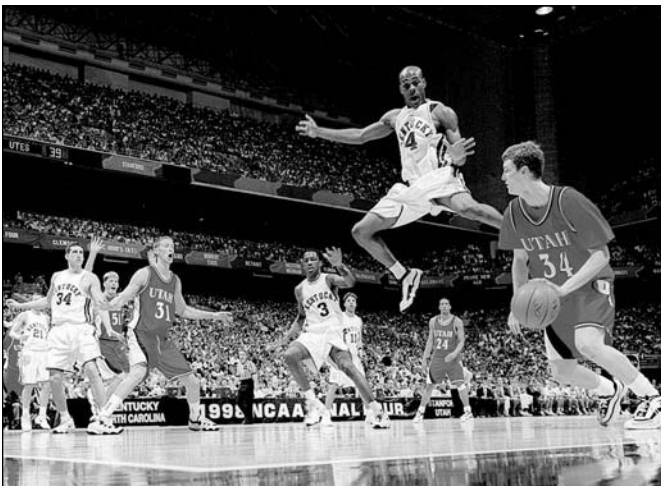

The Utes won their second straight WAC crown and entered the NCAA Tournament in Dallas with a 25-6 record. Utah drew Canisius in the first round of the Midwest Regional and, led by Brandon Jessie's 23 points, dispatched the Golden Griffins, 72-43. All-American Keith Van Horn missed the game with the flu. Van Horn played just 11 minutes in the second round game against Iowa State, but Michael Doleac came up big with 23 points and 12 rebounds and Andre Miller scored 14 to give the Utes a 73-67 win and send them to Minneapolis for a "Sweet 16" match-up with Kentucky. The Wildcats, who went on to win the national championship, were simply too much in a 101-70 victory at the Metrodome. Van Horn led the Utes with 23 points, while Ben Caton added 22 points.

1996-97

The Utes won their third straight WAC title and were assigned to the NCAA First/Second Round Tournament in Tucson, Ariz. Utah outgunned first-round opponent Navy for a 75-61 victory. Four Utes scored in double figures led by Michael Doleac's 19 points. Second round opponent UNC Charlotte fell to the Utes, 77-58, as consensus All-American Keith Van Horn had a big game scoring 27 points, sending the Utes to the NCAA "Sweet Sixteen" for the second year in a row. West Regional semifinal opponent Stanford proved a tough customer, but the Utes survived a late Cardinal rally to take an 82-77 overtime victory. Van Horn again led the way with 25 points before fouling out in the extra period. Andre Miller scored 19 points. The regional championship game saw the Utes in a rematch with defending national champion Kentucky. Utah trailed by just three points at halftime but a second-half outburst by the Wildcats propelled them to a 72-59 victory.

After winning their second straight WAC Mountain Division title, the Utes made their fourth straight NCAA appearance. Wins over San Francisco (85-68) and Arkansas (75-69) put the Utes in the "Sweet 16" for the third consecutive year. A 65-62 win over West

Utah advanced to the 1998 Final Four at the Alamodome in San Antonio, Texas. After upsetting No. 1 North Carolina in the semifinals, Utah faced Kentucky in the national championship game.

Rick Majerus (left) and All-American Andre Miller (right) led the Utes to a 56-6 WAC record from 1996-99. Miller was named the Basketball News National Player of the Year in 1999.

Virginia matched Utah against defending NCAA champion Arizona in the West Regional championship game. The Wildcats were no match for the Utes that day as Andre Miller led Utah to a 76-51 victory and a trip to the Final Four for the first time since 1966. Miller, who racked up the first triple-double in Ute history against Arizona, was named the West Region MVP. Top-ranked North Carolina was Utah's opponent in the national semifinals, but again the Utes' magic continued as they downed the Tar Heels 65-59 to advance to the championship game for the first time since 1944. Utah faced Kentucky in the championship game and, although leading for much of the game, the Utes were overcome by the Wildcats in the final minutes, 78-69. All-Americans Miller and Michael Doleac were named to the Final Four all-tournament team.

After beginning the season 5-4, Utah won 23 consecutive games to finish 28-5 and win its fifth consecutive WAC title. The Utes became the first team in the history of the WAC to go undefeated against conference foes. They went 14-0 during the regular season to claim the Pacific Division championship and took three games at the conference tournament to win the title. Utah entered the NCAA Tournament with a No. 2 seed, equalling its highest ever. The Utes used a strong finish to defeat Arkansas State in the first round of the Midwest Regional but were upset by Miami (Ohio) in the second round. Andre Miller was named a consensus first team All-American.

Led by two of the top 28 scorers in Utah history, the Utes began a new era and a new millennium by winning the inaugural Mountain West Conference championship. Alex Jensen, who was named the league MVP, and Hanno Möttölä co-captained the Utes to a 23-9 overall record and a 10-4 mark in conference play.

Utah, seeded eighth in the Midwest Region, opened NCAA Tournament play with a 48-45 win over Saint Louis in the first round. For the eighth time in school history, the Utes were knocked out of the NCAA's by the eventual national champion. Top-seeded Michigan State came back from a six-point deficit early in the second half to defeat Utah, 73-61.

2000-01

The Utes persevered through a season full of challenges to win their seventh consecutive conference regular season title, finish 19-12 overall and advance to the NIT. Utah returned only one starter and lost Rick Majerus for all but the first game of the season when he took a personal leave of absence. After going 11-9 through January, the Utes gelled to win eight of their last nine games to end the regular season. Utah lost to Memphis in the first round of the NIT in Salt Lake City.

2001-02

Rick Majerus returned to lead the Utes back into the NCAA Tournament for their seventh appearance in eight seasons. Seeded 12th in the South Region, Utah bowed out in the first round to No. 5 Indiana, which advanced to the national championship game. Utah also won 20 games for the 10th time in 13 seasons under Majerus, going 21-9 overall and 10-4 in league play to place second. Britton Johnsen was honored as the Mountain West Conference Player of the Year.

2002-03

Utah had its seventh 25-win season under Rick Majerus and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament with a thrilling 60-58 win over No. 8-seeded Oregon in Nashville, Tenn. The Utes also won their 10th conference championship in 14 seasons under Majerus. In a season full of milestones, Utah recorded the 1,500th win in its history against No. 1-ranked Alabama on Dec. 30. Majerus recorded his 400th career win against Wyoming on Feb. 10, becoming the 16th-fastest coach to reach that mark. He also became the third coach in Ute history to reach 300 wins against Colorado State on Feb. 8.

After guiding Utah to a 15-5 start, Rick Majerus stepped down as head coach on Jan. 28 citing health concerns. In 15 years at the U., Majerus went 323-95 (.773), leading Utah to 10 conference titles and 10 NCAA appearances.

The Utes were coached by assistant Kerry Rupp the rest of the season, finishing with a 24-9 record. Utah won the Mountain West Conference Tournament on a three-pointer by senior Nick Jacobson at the buzzer in the title game against UNLV. The Utes advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the third consecutive season, falling to Boston College in the first round.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

1916 AAU CHAMPIONS

The 1915-16 Ute hoop squad started out as a team unsure of itself, but after a victory over Brigham Young in Provo and two close wins over Utah State the team knew it was pretty good. Utah had not considered sending a team to Chicago for the AAU National Championships, but after the Utes beat the defending national champion Olympic Club of San Francisco, 46-26, a ground swell of support raised enough money to send the team to the Windy City in search of a national title. After drawing a first-night bye, the Utes faced a rematch with the Olympic Club. The results were the same the second time around as Utah took a 52-40 victory to move into the championship game against the Illinois Athletic Club. The game was close throughout, and with just seconds to go Illinois had a one-point lead and the ball out of bounds under the Ute basket. Utah coach Nelson H. Nordgren set up a tight defense, and on the inbound pass Ute forward Clyde Packer knocked the ball to the ground. Packer picked up the ball and with just a "second or two left" threw the ball in the basket to give Utah a 28-27 win and its first national championship.

1944 NCAA CHAMPIONS

The Utes were invited to both the NIT and the NCAA Tournament at the end of the 1944 season, but chose the former. At the time, the NIT was a much better tournament financially, and the chance to play in New York's Madison Square Garden was something the Ute players, and especially coach Vadal Peterson, wanted to experience.

Kentucky was Utah's first opponent in the NIT and even though the young Utes played well, they couldn't overcome the experience of the Wildcats and fell 46-36. While the Utes were still seeing the sights of New York before heading home, Peterson received a phone call from the NCAA asking them to participate in their tournament as a late fill-in for Arkansas, which was involved in an automobile accident, making the team unable to play in the tournament. The Utes quickly accepted and headed to Kansas City, where they beat Missouri, 45-35, in the first round and Iowa State, 40-35, to advance to the championship game back in Madison Square Garden against Dartmouth.

The game was close throughout, with the lead changing hands six times in the last two minutes. At the end of regulation the two teams were tied at 36 and the game headed into overtime.

Arnie Ferrin, who scored 22 points that night, netted four points in the extra period. Ferrin was the first of three freshmen all-time to be named MVP of the Final Four. With the score tied at 40 with just three seconds left, Herb Wilkinson hit a one-hander from behind the free throw circle to give the Utes the win and the NCAA Championship. A few days later, Utah faced NIT winner St. John's in at a Red Cross Benefit game in the Garden. Helped by a nine-point run in the second half, the Utes came away with a 43-36 victory.

1947 NIT CHAMPIONS

Three years after accepting an NIT invitation that turned into an NCAA Championship, the Utes were again invited to the prestigious New York tournament. This time, the Utes helped the state of Utah celebrate its centennial by coming away with the 1947 NIT Championship. The Utes won the three games in the tournament by a total of seven points, beating Duquesne, 45-44, West Virginia, 64-62, and sneaking by Kentucky, 49-45, in the championship game.

Arnie Ferrin, Wat Misaka and Dick Smuin, veterans of the '44 NCAA Championship run, were mainstays of this team, but center Vern Gardner garnered tournament MVP honors. Fred Weidner also played a major part in the championship. The NIT crown was the last of the three major basketball championships to allude the Utes, making the University of Utah the only school in history to win the NCAA, NIT and AAU National Championships.

BASKETBALL HALL OF FAME

Jack H. Gardner Head Coach (1953-71)

In 28 years of coaching at the major college level, Gardner's teams won 486 games and lost just 235. During his 18-year tenure at the U., he went 339-154 while leading the Utes to seven conference titles and 10 post-season appearances. Gardner guided the Utes to the NCAA Final Four in 1961 and 1966. Also a head coach at Kansas State, Gardner is the only coach to lead two different teams to the Final Four twice each. He was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame on April 30, 1984. Gardner passed away on April 9, 2000. A plaque honoring Gardner has been placed above the tunnel leading to the locker rooms in the Huntsman Center.
