THE PAC-12 CONFERENCE

THE CONFERENCE OF CHAMPIONS

Built on a firm foundation of academic excellence and superior athletic performance, the Pac-12 Conference renewed its undisputed claim as the “Conference of Champions” in 2016-17, becoming the first conference to win 500 NCAA Championships.

Spanning over a century of outstanding athletic achievements, the Pac-12 has claimed 501 NCAA titles (297 men’s, 174 women’s, 30 combined) entering the 2017-18 athletics year, outdistancing the nearest conference by almost more than 200 titles.

The conference won 13 NCAA Championships in 2016-17, marking the ninth time overall and the third time in the last four years the Conference claimed double-digit titles. It was also 16th time in the last 17 years the Pac-12 led all conferences in NCAA titles won.

Individually, the Pac-12 has produced 2,292 individual NCAA Champions, also pacing all conferences in that category. Utah contributed three NCAA Champions to that total in 2016-17 (skier Martin Bergström in the 20-km freestyle and 10-km classic, and women’s gymnast MyKayla Skinner in the floor exercise).

The Pac-12’s roots date back to 1915 when four schools banded together to form the Pacific Coast Conference. The teams and names would change over the years, and in 1978, Arizona, Arizona State, California, Oregon, Oregon State, Stanford, UCLA, USC, Washington and Washington State united as members of the Pac-10 Conference. The conference ushered in a new era on July 1, 2011, officially becoming the Pac-12 Conference with the addition of Utah and Colorado.

Pac-12 Networks, now in its sixth season of unprecedented coverage of Pac-12 sports, will air 25 women's gymnastics meets in 2018. In addition, the ESPN family of networks will produce live coverage of two regular-season meets featuring Pac-12 schools.

Utah will make eight appearances on the Pac-12 Networks during the regular season. The Utes will make their second regular-season showing on ESPNU in as many years when the network telecasts the Utah-Georgia matchup from the Huntsman Center on March 16.

Both sessions of the 2018 Pac-12 Women's Gymnastics Championships will be televised live nationally on Pac-12 Network on March 24 from Tucson, Ariz. The ESPN networks will televise the NCAA Championships on April 20-21.

Last season, a young and fiercely determined Utah team reclaimed the Pac-12 title and returned to the Super Six after a one-year drought. With those feats checked off, the Utes have set their sights even higher for 2018.

“The goal of this program has always been to be out on the floor competing for a national championship on the final day of the season,” said co-head coach Megan Marsden, who has participated in 37 of Utah’s record 42 national championship appearances. “While we accomplished that last year, we left tenths on the floor at the NCAA Championships that might have allowed us to finish higher.”

Some of those tenths will come with the return of All-American Kari Lee and former Junior Olympic champion Kim Tessen, whose injuries cost Utah’s NCAA lineup several competitive routines. Lee and Tessen (who was sidelined for most of her freshman season) are among several all-around candidates on this year’s squad.

“Availability is the best ability,” said co-head coach Tom Farden, who along with Marsden navigated the Utes to a fifth-place finish at the 2017 NCAA Championships. “If we stay healthy, we should be even better than last year. Our injury situation dictated that we place a premium on preparing people to fill lineups. This year’s team is seasoned and experienced and our athletes are ready to take that next step in perfecting their execution.”

In the case of super sophomore MyKayla Skinner, maintaining perfection would be more accurate. Skinner, the 2017 NCAA floor champion and all-around silver medalist, had the best freshman season in Pac-12 history. The Pac-12 champion in the all-around, floor and vault (with teammate Tiffani Lewis), Skinner set conference records for most Pac-12 Gymnast of the Week (7) and Freshman of the Week (6) awards. She continued to dominate in the NCAA postseason, winning the all-around, vault and floor titles at the NCAA Regional and in semifinal action at the NCAA Championships against some of the best gymnasts in the world.

“MyKayla excelled at the national level as a freshman and she will be every bit as good or better this year,” says Marsden of Utah’s first NCAA floor champion since 1992 and its highest NCAA all-around finisher since 2009. “MyKayla has always had big tricks in her routines and she executed them beautifully last year, but that hasn’t stopped her from adding upgrades in difficulty and working on perfecting the little details. For instance, she’ll have an impressive combination on beam this season, where she goes from a switch leg leap to a straddle jump to a tuck back. Adding a flip at the end of a leap combo is difficult for most people and MyKayla nails it every day.”

Skinner will again be surrounded by high-scoring routines, including those performed by fellow All-Americans MaKenna Merrell-Giles, Maddy Stover, Lee and Lewis—the latter three who are members of the 2018 Gymnastics Leadership Committee. Missy Reinstadtler established herself as a budding star as a freshman and transfer Macey Roberts was also a key contributor. Lending a late-season assist were NCAA Regional beam champion Shannon McNatt and Erika Muhaw.

The Utes reinforced their lineups with three promising freshmen. Former Canadian Senior National Team member Sydney Soloski and two-time J.O. champion Alexia Burch were both members of the 2017 signing class, while Lauren Wong will join the team in January as a midyear high school graduate.

The coaching staff also gained some new talent in the offseason, most notably 12-year NCAA veteran Robert Ladanyi, a three-time NCAA Region Co-Assistant Coach of the Year at Florida. Ladanyi, who also coached at Denver, has three NCAA champions and 45 All-Americans to his credit.

The Romanian has taken over the coaching on vault, as well as the tumbling elements on floor. Overseeing Utah’s floor choreography and music for the first year is volunteer assistant coach Carly Dockendorf, a former All-America gymnast and pole-vaulter for Washington.

“Robert Ladanyi is an excellent technician and spotter and he has great rapport with the gymnasts,” said Farden. “Robert’s experience with coaching NCAA championship teams is evident in every facet. His expectations align with Megan’s and mine and he has fit into our program seamlessly. Carly is also a valuable addition to our staff. The floor routines she has designed are energetic and crowd pleasing.”

Also new is Utah’s approach to the preseason. “Because we had such a young team last year, we accelerated our preseason training to prepare our new gymnasts for the rigors of college competition,” said Farden. “Possibly as a result, we peaked a little early, with our best meet coming at the Pac-12 Championship.

Kari Lee was the 2017 Pac-12 co-runner-up on bars.

2018 OUTLOOK

We're trying to capitalize on our experience this year by changing a few things in our training so that we peak during the NCAA postseason."

Among the adjustments are tweaks to the strength and conditioning program and an extra emphasis on landings and dismounts.

"Nationals last year came down to landings," said Farden. "We didn't stick one vault landing in the Super Six and we also struggled with our landings on floor and dismounts on bars on that last day. Landings are the separator when you get to that level and so we are emphasizing mechanics that will put our athletes in a position to stick more frequently."

A new scheduling wrinkle could also pay dividends should Utah advance to a record 43rd-consecutive national championship. For the first time ever, the Utes will have an opportunity to compete on podium during the regular season in the Elevate the Stage meet hosted by the Knight Eady Sports Group in Reno, Nev., on Jan. 14. Squaring off against the Utes at the podium meet will be UCLA, Stanford and Washington.

"It is definitely advantageous to experience competing on podium before the championships," said Farden. "There is an adjustment on every apparatus that you cannot simulate on a hard surface. We are really excited about this opportunity and hope it develops into an annual event."

Utah's huge fan base of 15,000 strong will also see a parade of top-20 Pac-12 opponents, as well as SEC power Georgia and in-state rival BYU compete in the Huntsman Center leading up the NCAA Regional, which will be hosted by the Utes on Apr. 7.

Here's a look inside the 2018 Ute roster by class.

UTE SENIORS

Tiffani Lewis, a vault All-American and two-time Pac-12 champion (2016 floor, 2017 vault), also excels on bars. Maddy Stover, a reliable scorer on the beam where she is an All-American, is so versatile at her specialty that she can score from anywhere in the lineup. "Tiffani and Maddy combine to make a great all-arounder," said Farden. Upbeat team player Erika Muhaw adds depth on vault and floor.

UTE JUNIORS

The junior class features a pair of three-time All-Americans in all-arounders Kari Lee and MaKenna Merrell-Giles. "We missed Kari's routines and leadership last year at nationals and she is back to looking just as dynamic as she was as a freshman (before injuries cost her most of her sophomore and part of her redshirt sophomore seasons)," said Marsden. On the flip side, after a freshman year spent adjusting to a four-inch growth spurt, Merrell-Giles lived up to her recruiting expectations as a sophomore, earning second-team NCAA All-America honors in the all-around, beam and floor. She'll be pushing for first-team honors as a junior. Maryland transfer Macey Roberts was an unexpected gift for the Utes last year. A crowd pleaser on floor, she also starts on vault. Shannon McNatt, the 2017 NCAA Regional balance beam champion, clinched fifth place for the Utes at the NCAA Championships with her pressure-packed routine as the final competitor. She hopes to contribute on other events as well this year.

UTE SOPHOMORES

Who, what, where and when does not concern MyKayla Skinner, a 2016 U.S. Olympic alternate who is capable of beating anyone at any meet, anywhere and anytime. As a freshman all-arounder, Skinner hit all 56 routines, which included an NCAA gold, three Pac-12 championships and three NCAA Regional titles. The best news? She's still improving. So is Missy Reinstadtler, who Marsden says, "brings a rare quality of movement to her routines that sets her apart." A three-event performer as a freshman, look for Reinstadtler to contend nationally on all four events this year. Relatively unknown after falling victim to a season-ending injury early in her freshman year, Kim Tessen won't fly under the radar for long. If her recovery continues at its current pace, she could give Utah three sophomores in the all-around lineup.

UTE FRESHMEN

Sydney Soloski brings extensive international experience to the team as a four-year member of the Canadian National team (two years on the Senior National team). She won the balance beam at the 2015 Provincial Championships and took gold that same year on floor (placing third all-around) at the Gymnix International meet. Alexia Burch joins the Utes off the U.S. Junior Olympic National team. She is a two-time J.O. champion, winning the all-around and floor at the 2015 J.O. Championships. A late addition will join the team in January. Lauren Wong, a three-time qualifier into Level 10 regionals, plans to graduate from high school early and is enrolled for spring semester classes.

In her ninth season as Utah's co-head coach and her 34th year on the coaching staff, Megan Marsden has helped lead the Utes to six NCAA team championships, 33 NCAA Championship appearances and three Pac-12 team titles. Marsden, a former Utah All-American and NCAA all-around champion, has participated as an athlete or a coach in all of Utah's record-tying 10 national team titles and 37 of its record 42 national championship appearances.

In her time at Utah, the Utes have placed in the nation's top three 22 times—taking first 10 times, second eight times and third four times. Utah has made 20 Super Six appearances in the 25-year history of team finals. Utah's recent Super Six success includes a second-place finish at the 2015 NCAA Championships. In their six years as members of the Pac-12 Conference, the Utes have captured three Pac-12 championships (2014, 2015, 2017).

Since becoming the co-head coach in 2010, Marsden has compiled a 177-62-3 overall record and is a two-time Pac-12 Coach of the Year (2014, 2015) and NCAA Region Coach of the Year (2011, 2012). In her previous role, she was named the 2005 National Assistant Coach of the Year and the 2005 and 2007 Regional Assistant Coach of the Year.

Marsden transitioned from competitor to coach at her alma mater in 1985 after leading Utah to four national championships as a 12-time first-team All-American and three-time NCAA champion from 1981-84. She apprenticed 25 years for the head coaching job, spending 12 years as an assistant and 13 years as the associate coach. Including her years as an assistant/associate coach, she has helped Utah gymnasts earn 196 All-America awards.

Utah's beam coach her entire career, Marsden's gymnasts on that event have won seven NCAA individual championships. Utah is the only program in the nation that has had two individuals win back-to-back NCAA beam titles: Missy Marlowe in 1991-92 and Summer Reid in 1996-97. Other NCAA beam champions under Marsden were Theresa Kulikowski in 1999 and 2001, and Ashley Postell in 2007.

Her "beamers" have won 65 All-America awards, including four-time beam first-team All-Americans Kulikowski, Postell and Shannon Bowles. Marsden's 2001 beam team made history when all six members won All-America honors and four qualified into individual finals.

Marsden has also assisted in 68 All-America performances on the floor exercise, among them NCAA champions Lisa Mitzel (1985), Marlowe (1992) and MyKayla Skinner (2017). She has coached four NCAA runners-up on floor: Shelley Schaerrer and Marlowe (1990), Kulikowski (1999) and Denise Jones (2000). Winning an NCAA bronze medal on floor under Marsden were Bowles (2002), Melissa Vituj (2004) and Postell (2007).

Utah boasts two Pac-12 Gymnasts of the Year (Tory Wilson in 2014 and Georgia Dabritz in 2015) and five Pac-12 all-around champions (Corrie Lothrop in 2012, Wilson in 2014, Dabritz in 2015, Breanna Hughes in 2016 and Skinner in 2017). Marsden's gymnasts have also claimed several major Pac-12 awards, including three Pac-12 Scholar-Athletes of the Year (Stephanie McAllister in 2012, Dabritz in 2015 and Hughes in 2016), two Pac-12 Freshmen of the Year (Dabritz in 2012 and Sabrina Schwab in 2016) and two Pac-12 Specialists of the Year (Dabritz in 2014 and Cassandra Lopez in 2016).

Marsden has coached four AAI Award winners, which recognizes the nation's top senior gymnast: Marlowe (1992), Kulikowski (2003), Postell (2008) and Dabritz (2016). Three Utes have won a coveted NCAA Top 10 Award: Marlowe (1993), Kulikowski (2004) and Dabritz (2016).

The program has also succeeded academically during Marsden's tenure. Utah placed in the top five in the country in gymnastics team GPA from 2012-16, including first place in 2014 and second place in 2015 and 2016. Ute gymnasts have been honored as CoSIDA All-Americans 14 times and Kulikowski was the CoSIDA Academic All-American of the Year for all sports (women and men) in 2003.

Marsden is also involved with the team's strength and conditioning program, nutrition education, community service, fundraising and recruiting.

In 1996, Marsden became the first gymnast inducted into the school's Crimson Club Hall of Fame. In 2003, she was inducted into the Utah Sports Hall of Fame.

During her undergraduate career as Megan McCunniff, she led Utah to four national titles from 1981-84 and was a three-time NCAA individual champion, winning the all-around title in 1983 and 1984, and the vault title in 1984. She finished her career as a 12-time first-team All-American. Her senior year, she won the Broderick Award, recognizing her as the country's top collegiate woman gymnast.

Her gymnastics background landed her an acting part as gymnast Jo Ellen Carter in the 1985 movie "American Anthem."

The Cedar Falls, Iowa, native graduated from Utah in 1985 with a bachelor's degree in public relations. She and husband Greg have two sons, Montana and Dakota. Greg coached the Ute gymnastics team for 40 years before retiring after the 2015 NCAA Championships.

Utah's lead recruiter throughout his tenure, Farden has coached two NCAA individual champions, 11 Pac-12 titlists and the recipients of 51 All-America awards. As the assistant coach over the uneven bars, he tutored Georgia Dabritz to the 2015 NCAA title and she became the only gymnast in history to score a 10.0 on bars during both the NCAA semifinals and the Super Six. She was the NCAA bar runner-up in 2013. Farden mentored another national champion last season in MyKayla Skinner, who became Utah's first NCAA floor exercise champion since 1992. Skinner was the 2017 NCAA all-around runner-up.

Utah has qualified into the NCAA Championships both seasons Farden as its co-head coach—making the Super Six in 2017 and placing fifth in the nation. The Utes won the 2017 Pac-12 Championship and the 2016 and 2017 NCAA regional titles. Utah has boasted the Pac-12 and NCAA regional all-around champion in back-to-back seasons (Breanna Hughes in 2016 and Skinner in 2017), while collecting eight Pac-12 and six NCAA regional individual titles. In 2016, Utah won Pac-12 awards for Freshman of the Year (Sabrina Schwab) and Specialist of the Year (Kassandra Lopez).

As a freshman in 2017, Skinner not only won the NCAA floor championship and recorded four total top-10 finishes at the NCAA Championships, she set records for the most Pac-12 Gymnast of the Week awards (7), Pac-12 Freshman of the Week awards (6) and all-around wins in a season by a Ute (12).

While Farden's signature event has been the uneven bars, he has also played a key role in coaching the floor exercise all seven years on the staff. As an assistant from 2011-15, Utah won 26 All-America awards on bars and floor (13 on each). As a head coach, he has added 25 All-Americans on the four events and all-around combined, accounting for 51 NCAA and regular season All-America performances under his watch.

The program has also excelled in the classroom and ranked second among the country's gymnastics teams in GPA in 2016. Also in his first season as co-head coach, two Utes were named to the prestigious CoSIDA Academic All-America teams (Hughes and Kailah Delaney).

A veteran NCAA and club-level coach, Farden began his career at age 18 when he opened the Spectrum Training Center in his home state of Minnesota immediately after graduating from high school. He would coach club gymnastics for seven years before accepting an assistant position at Southeast Missouri State in 1999. After four years as a SEMO assistant, he was elevated to head coach in 2004—compiling a 71-48 record in six seasons and taking his team to regionals twice. He was named the 2008 NCAA South Central Regional Coach of the Year and was a four-time conference coach of the year.

In 2007, the Redhawks recorded their most wins in a decade, finishing 17-9 overall. In 2008, SEMO climbed as high as No. 22 in the national polls and took fifth place at the NCAA Regionals. In his final season at SEMO in 2009, the Redhawks won the Midwest Independent Conference championship and finished with a 14-3 record.

His SEMO teams won national academic championships in his last three seasons and his gymnasts earned 70 total scholastic All-America citations. He also spearheaded the fundraising for two major gymnastics renovation projects (the locker room and practice facility).

After 10 seasons at SEMO, Farden went to Arkansas as an assistant coach in 2010. In his only season before leaving for Utah, the Razorbacks placed 11th at the 2010 NCAA Championships.

Farden has contributed to his sport on an administrative level as well, serving on the Ethics Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Gymnastics Coaches/Women (NACGC/W) since 2006. In addition, he was on the Minnesota USA Gymnastics State Board from 1995-99.

A native of Dayton, Minn., Farden earned his bachelor's degree in outdoor recreation from SEMO in 2004. Farden and his wife, the former Christina Faulkner, have a son Ki (pronounced key). In his spare time, he enjoys cooking, hiking, swimming, biking, cross country skiing, kayaking and camping.

ASSISTANT COACH

Robert Ladanyi

ASSISTANT COACH | 1ST YEAR

Robert Ladanyi (lad-an-knee), a 12-year veteran of NCAA women's gymnastics coaching and former coach of the Romanian Junior National Team, was hired as Utah's assistant coach on June 5, 2017. Before joining the Ute staff, Ladanyi spent 10 years as an assistant coach at Florida from 2006-15, followed by two years as an assistant at Denver (2016-17).

Ladanyi helped the Gators to a total of 43 All-America honors on vault, bars and floor, including 37 at the NCAA Championships (15 on floor, 14 on bars and eight on vault). Florida gymnasts achieved an additional six regular-season All-America honors on bars under Ladanyi. In his two seasons as the vault and floor coach at Denver, he had one NCAA champion and two All-Americans to his credit.

Before embarking on his collegiate coaching career, Ladanyi coached at the Mihaiuc Gymnastics Academy in Webster, Texas (2002-05); the Academy of Gymnastics and Dance in Las Vegas (2001-02); and S.G. Amsicora in Cagliari, Italy (1997-2001). While the head coach of CSM in his hometown of Baia Mare, Romania from 1992-97, he also served as coach of the Romania Junior National Team from 1994-97.

Ladanyi was an accomplished gymnast himself, training with the Romanian National Team before retiring from competition due to injury at age 19. He graduated from the Romanian National School of Coaching with a degree a degree in International High Level Gymnastics. He has two daughters, Gabby (12) and Laila (8).

Ladanyi has coached three NCAA individual champions—Florida's Alaina Johnson (2013) and Bridget Sloan (2014) on bars and Denver's Nina McGee (2016) on floor. Johnson and Sloan were the first two NCAA uneven bar champions in Florida history, while McGee was Denver's first NCAA titlist on any event. Ladanyi also assisted in three NCAA team championships at Florida from 2013-15 and was named the Southeast Region Co-Assistant Coach of the Year in 2011, 2013 and 2015.

When Gator head coach Rhonda Faehn left after the 2015 season to become the Senior Vice President of USA Gymnastics, Ladanyi went to Denver as an assistant coach. In his second season at Denver, the Pioneers achieved their best finish ever at the 2017 NCAA Championships, placing ninth.

Ladanyi coached vault and tumbling at Florida from 2006-10. From 2011-15, he coached bars and was the team's co-conditioning coach. Along with his two national bar champions, he mentored five NCAA individual vault finalists and Florida's 12 representatives in the NCAA floor finals from 2006-10 led the nation during that span.

Married: Henry Ruggiero
Children: Crosby, Hayden

Former Canadian National team member and two-sport NCAA All-American Carly Dockendorf is in her first season as a Utah volunteer assistant coach and choreographer. She brings nine years of experience in college coaching to her new position. Dockendorf spent six years at Seattle Pacific as an assistant gymnastics coach (2009, 2013-17) and three years as an assistant track and field coach (2010-12).

During both stints on the Seattle Pacific gymnastics staff, Dockendorf was the head vault and floor coach, floor choreographer, recruiting coordinator and strength and conditioning coach. She also assisted with the team's social media presence.

She doubled as a club coach during her time at SPU, assisting at Falcon Gymnastics Center from 2012-17. After her first year coaching gymnastics at SPU, she moved to the track and field staff, coinciding with her pursuit of a berth on the Canadian Olympic team as a pole vaulter.

While she narrowly missed making the team, she broke the Canadian indoor pole vault record by clearing 14 feet, 6 inches (4.42 meters) and earned a spot to compete for Canada at the Commonwealth Games in India, where she won a bronze medal. In 2011 she won the pole vault at the Canadian National Track and Field Championships and set the British Columbia Provincial record, jumping 4.45 meters.

Dockendorf returned to the SPU gymnastics staff in 2013 and finished with three national champions on floor and two on vault to her credit at the USA Gymnastics Championships (the USAG Championships are for Division II and Ivy League schools). She also coached 21 USAG All-Americans (11 on vault and 10 on floor). The Falcons placed third at the USAG National Championships from 2014-16 and three individuals advanced to the Division I

NCAA Championships, including one on vault and two on floor.

An All-America gymnast and pole vaulter for Washington, Dockendorf was the 2003 Pac-12 uneven bar champion, scoring a 10.0. It was one of a school-record six 10.0 scores for Dockendorf, who also had five perfect scores on floor. She won 48 event titles during her UW gymnastics career from 2002-05, including a school-record 24 titles on floor.

A 2003 second-team All-American on the floor exercise, three-time NCAA Regional champion and two-time All-Pac-10 selection, Dockendorf was Washington's MVP in 2003 and 2005. She won the team's Most Inspirational award in 2002 and 2004 and served as the Huskies' captain in 2004 and 2005.

She took up pole vaulting as a sophomore, earning All-America honors with her sixth-place finish at the 2005 NCAA Championships. She placed 11th at the 2006 NCAA Track & Field Championships.

Dockendorf earned a bachelor's degree in English with a minor in communications from Washington in 2006, where she was a two-time Pac-12 All-Academic selection. She coached one year of high school gymnastics at Shorecrest High School and coached the track and soccer teams at the Seattle Academy of the Arts and Science for three years before accepting the post at SPU.

Dockendorf became USA Weightlifting Sports Performance Certified in 2016 and earned a certificate from the NCAA Women's Coaching Academy in Denver that same year.

The Port Moody, B.C., native is married to Henry Ruggiero, the director of physical performance for the Real Salt Lake Major League Soccer team. They have two daughters: Crosby and Hayden.

Carly Dockendorf coached five USAG national champions and 21 All-Americans as an assistant coach at Seattle Pacific.

GYMNASTICS STAFF

JENNIFER WHITE
Chief of Staff/New Media Director

Now in her second year as the gymnastics chief of staff/new media director, Jennifer White is in her 10th year overall with the Utah athletics department. White currently manages the Utah gymnastics social media accounts, public relations and team travel. She is also involved with gymnastics ticket sales and revenue.

White previously spent eight years on the Ute marketing staff—four as the director—and has been a driving force behind Utah’s record-setting gymnastics attendance. Hired in 2008 as a marketing coordinator, she was later promoted to assistant, associate and director of marketing.

Involved with gymnastics her entire tenure at the school, she also managed the marketing efforts for the Utah football and men’s basketball teams from 2013-16.

Prior to returning to her home state, the Kaysville, Utah, native spent two years working in the Georgia athletics department. She was a UGA event manager in 2006-07 and sold corporate sponsorships for Georgia Sports Properties in 2007-08.

White graduated from Weber State in 2005 with a bachelor’s degree in athletic training and earned a master’s in education/sport management from Georgia in 2007.

The former Jennifer Binkley was a Utah state all-around champion in Level 8 and 9 and later coached club gymnastics for 10 years. She is married to Aaron White and they have a son Kingston.

DAKOTA MARSDEN
Director of Player Development

Dakota Marsden is in his third year as Utah’s gymnastics director of player development and his seventh year assisting with the program. As an undergraduate student at Utah, he served as the gymnastics team manager for four years. He was also a manager for the Utah men’s basketball team in 2010-11.

Marsden’s responsibilities include serving as a liaison for the student-athletes, campus departments and outside agencies. He also tracks academic progress reports, study table hours and mentor meetings and assists incoming freshmen with their transition to the collegiate environment. He has oversight of the Dumke Gymnastics Center and the gymnastics equipment ordering.

The son of co-head coach Megan Marsden and former coach Greg Marsden is a 2015 graduate of the U. in sports management and commercial recreation.

Hill's most monumental accomplishment was spearheading Utah's move to the Pac-12 Conference in 2011. In their first six seasons in the "Conference of Champions," the Utes have won three Pac-12 gymnastics championships (2014, 2015, 2016), one baseball title (2016) and a football South Division co-championship (2015).

Utah has won 10 NCAA team championships during Hill's tenure—six by the ski team (including the 2017 NCAA title) and four by the gymnastics team. The Utes have also placed second in the nation 16 times since he took the helm, including the 1998 men's basketball team's NCAA runner-up finish and a No. 2 final national ranking by the football team after its win over Alabama in the 2009 Sugar Bowl.

Hill has hired three coaches who won National Coach of the Year honors at Utah: football coaches Urban Meyer (2004) and Kyle Whittingham (2008), and men's basketball coach Rick Majerus (1998).

Hill has served on several national boards, including the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee (2004-09), chair of the NCAA Championships/Competition Cabinet (1997-98) and the NCAA Management Council Administrative Committee. He was on NACDA's executive committee from 2002-06.

The football program, which had not played in a bowl in the 22 years preceding Hill's appointment as athletics director, is 14-4 in bowl games during his term. Utah's other athletic programs have also thrived under his leadership. The men's basketball team has played in 15 NCAA Tournaments—advancing to the Sweet 16 six times and the Elite Eight twice. In 1998, the Runnin' Utes played Kentucky for the NCAA Championship. The women's basketball team also has 15 NCAA appearances, making the Sweet 16 twice and the Elite Eight once. The gymnastics team has made 20 NCAA Super Six appearances while qualifying for the NCAA Championships all 30 years with Hill as AD—and the ski team has finished first or second in the nation 15 times under his watch. Volleyball has played in three NCAA Sweet 16s and softball has advanced to two NCAA Super Regionals.

He has received a number of awards, including the following: 2011 National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) Under Armour West Region Athletic Director of the Year, finalist for the 2011 Athletic Director of the Year by SportsBusiness Journal and SportsBusiness Daily, 2011 Utah YMCA Man of the Year, 2004 Mountain West Conference's Commissioner's Award, 1981 Milton Bennion Fellowship, 1984 Utah Recreation Therapy Association Outstanding Service award and 1996 Utah MS Sportsman of the Year.

The New Jersey native was inducted into the Jersey Shore Hall of Fame in 1998. In 2001, the National Consortium for Academics and Sports awarded him its Degree Completion and Outreach and Community Service Honor Award.

Hill has served in five capacities at the U., starting in 1973-74 as a graduate assistant basketball coach on Bill Foster's staff. After coaching boys' basketball at Salt Lake's Granger High from 1975-79 (he was the 1975 4A Coach of the Year), Hill returned to the U. as an assistant coach to Jerry Pimm (1979-81). From 1983-85, he taught in the University's special education department before becoming the athletic department's Crimson Club director (1985-86). In 1987, he was named the director of athletics.

Hill was the executive director of United Cerebral Palsy of Utah from 1981-85, during which time he developed a housing project for people with severe physical disabilities.

As an undergraduate, Hill won three letters in basketball at Rutgers and co-captained the 1971-72 team. His bachelor's degree from Rutgers is in math education (1972). He holds a master's in education (Utah, 1974), and a Ph.D. in educational administration (Utah, 1982).

His wife Kathy, a faculty member in the U.'s Department of Special Education in severe disabilities, received the 2010 College of Education Service Award and the 2012 ASUU Student Choice Award for Excellence in Teaching. They have two children, Aly and Christopher; three granddaughters, Addie, Lily and Ayumi, and a grandson, Jack.

Aly played soccer for the University of Oregon and has a master's degree in social work from Utah. She teaches students with severe disabilities in the Salt Lake City School District. Christopher holds a bachelor's and law degree from the U. He works in business strategy for ESPN and is married to Darci Motoki, who received her bachelor's degree from Boston College and her master's degree from Claremont Graduate University. She is a consultant for Accenture.

David W. Pershing, Ph.D. PRESIDENT

David W. Pershing proudly celebrates four decades of service to the University of Utah. Named as the 15th President in 2012, President Pershing leads a diverse team of faculty and staff as the chief executive at one of the world's top research universities.

President Pershing joined the University of Utah as an Assistant Professor of Chemical Engineering in 1977. He was named a Presidential Young Investigator by the National Science Foundation in 1984, became Dean of the College of Engineering in 1987, and was named a Distinguished Professor of Chemical Engineering in 1995. In 1998, Dr. Pershing became the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs responsible for approximately 1,000 faculty and 25,000 students in the colleges of the main campus. Now, as President, Dr. Pershing continues his commitment to the undergraduate experience with initiatives and programs aimed at enriching academic excellence on campus.

A gifted teacher and prolific researcher, President Pershing is the recipient of the University of Utah's Distinguished Teaching and Distinguished Research Awards and the U's Rosenblatt Prize for Excellence. He has authored more than 80 peer-reviewed publications, won more than 20 research grants totaling approximately $60 million, and earned five patents. He was named Engineering Educator of the Year by the Utah Engineering Council in 2002 and is a winner of the Governor's Medal for Science and Technology. He was director of the University of Utah's Center for Simulation of Accidental Fires and Explosions, fueled by a $40 million grant from the U.S. Department of Energy.

President Pershing holds a bachelor's degree from Purdue University and a Ph.D. from the University of Arizona, both in chemical engineering.

President David W. Pershing flashed a "U" while speaking at the University of Utah's 2014 Commencement ceremony with former Ute quarterback Alex Smith (lower left), a featured speaker, looking on.

UTAH'S CONFERENCE HISTORY

Before joining the Pac-12 Conference, Utah gymnastics competed as an independent for most of its history. However, the Utes did compete in two conferences for a total of eight years: the High Country Athletic Conference (1986-90) and the Western Athletic Conference (1991-93). Utah won all eight conference championships.

HERE'S UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY

Adam Barker

Home to the University of Utah and the state's capital city, Salt Lake City blends the amenities of a major metropolitan area with beautiful natural surroundings.

Featuring the majestic 11,000-foot peaks of the Wasatch Mountains to the east, and the Great Salt Lake and Oquirrh Mountains to the west, Salt Lake City is surrounded by majestic views in all directions. Its metro area population of 1.1 million ranks in the top 50 in the United States.

LIVING IN SALT LAKE

Named one of America's friendliest cities by Travel+Leisure magazine, Salt Lake is the largest city in the state with 192,672 residents. Salt Lake City ranked No. 5 on Forbes' annual list of "America's Fastest-Growing Cities" in 2016. The population along the Wasatch Front, which includes Ogden and Provo, has swelled to more than 2.4 million.

Its literacy rate, percentage of high school graduates, and percentage of college-educated citizens ranks among the best in the nation. Salt Lake has a moderate four-season climate, averaging 237 days of sunshine per year and 15% humidity.

With projects ranging from the renovation of historic buildings to the construction of new office towers, condominiums and apartments, a growing number of people not only work but live in the downtown area, and one in six residents is now in their 20s. Citing professional opportunities and quality of life, WalletHub named Salt Lake City the No. 1 place to start a career in May 2016.

ENTERTAINMENT

Salt Lake City was rated by Livability.com as the "No. 5 Best Downtown in America" in March 2015. It features a wide range of dining options, live music, two large modern malls, a diverse array of specialty stores, art galleries, professional symphony, opera, theater, dance, and cultural and ethnic festivals.

The city played host to the 2002 Winter Olympics. The opening and closing ceremonies and the athletes' village were located on the University of Utah campus. Salt Lake City annually joins forces with nearby resort town Park City to host the Sundance Film Festival.

Professional sports franchises in Salt Lake City include the Utah Jazz of the NBA and Real Salt Lake of Major League Soccer. Other franchises are the Salt Lake Bees (AAA baseball), the Utah Grizzlies (hockey) and the Salt Lake Monarchs (USL soccer).

OUTDOOR RECREATION

Some of the best skiing, fly fishing, hiking, mountain biking, rock climbing and river running found anywhere in the world is easily accessible. Eleven major ski resorts are within an hour drive from "Ski City." Three of those resorts were listed among the "Top 10 in the U.S." by Forbes in November 2016, including No. 2 Snowbird, No. 3 Alta and No. 9 Park City Mountain Resort. Ten national parks are within a day's drive.

With so many recreational opportunities so readily available, Salt Lake was recognized as the eighth fittest city in America by the Huffington Post and first for life expectancy by Livability.com in 2016.

BUSINESS

Forbes named Utah the "Best State for Business and Careers" for the third consecutive year in December 2016 and recognized Salt Lake City as one of the major industrial banking, healthcare and transportation centers in the U.S. Several publications have taken note of Salt Lake's high number of "creative class" workers—including artists, scientists, engineers, and others in technology fields—with the "Silicon Slopes" growing exponentially on the south end of the metro area. In 2016, AdWeek proclaimed that Utah is poised to become America's next tech and creative hub. Bloomberg Business has rated Salt Lake City's job market among the top 10 in America in recent years.

TRANSPORTATION

Salt Lake International Airport, a Delta Airlines hub, is located just 20 minutes from campus and is undergoing a $2.6 billion phased redevelopment. It offers direct flights to 84 U.S. destinations and 11 international cities and handled 23 million passengers in 2016. TRAX light rail provides access to downtown Salt Lake, the University of Utah, the airport and many of the suburbs.

BEST CITY

The hub for Forbes' best state for business and careers, one of America's most livable downtowns, and the gateway to some of the best outdoor recreation anywhere, Salt Lake City has something for everyone.

THE UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

Founded in 1850, the University of Utah prepares students to live and compete in the global workplace. The U. encompasses 1,500 acres in the foothills of the Wasatch Mountain range. Utah became a member of the Pac-12 Conference on July 1, 2011.

With an enrollment of over 32,000, the U. offers 100 undergraduate and more than 90 graduate level fields of study. It has earned a top-tier grading from the Academic Ranking of World Universities for 13 consecutive years, and offers nationally-ranked programs in law, pharmacy, mathematics, business, biomedical engineering, family medicine, life sciences, fines arts, education, architecture, entertainment arts and engineering. The U. was rated No. 41 in the U.S. by the Center for World University Rankings and No. 21 among “best value education programs” by Value Colleges in 2016.

RESEARCH

The University of Utah was rated No. 1 for commercializing technology innovations according to the Milken Institute’s 2017 ratings, generating $211.8 million in licensing income and recording 69 startups from 2012-15, and attracting $417.2 million in research spending in 2015.

Geneticist Mario R. Capecchi received the 2007 Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine for his work on gene targeting. Çağan Şekercioğlu, assistant professor of biology, won the Scientific and Technical Research Council of Turkey’s highest prize for 2014. Peter J. Stang, distinguished professor of chemistry, received the 2013 Priestley Medal and 2011 National Medal of Science for his pioneering work in supramolecular chemistry.

TECHNOLOGY AND COMPUTER SCIENCES

The U.’s entertainment arts and engineering program was rated second in the nation according to Animation Career Review in early 2017 and has earned a top three rating seven years running. The University’s School of Computing, which earned a top 60 world ranking in 2016, was founded in 1965 and began a pioneering legacy in computer graphics and visualization that continues today.

The internationally-recognized Scientific Computing & Imaging Institute is a leader in creating new scientific computing techniques, tools and systems to help solve wide-

-ranging challenges of human life. The College of Engineering’s undergraduate program was ranked 56th and the graduate school 51st according to U.S. News & World Report in 2016.

MEDICINE

University of Utah Hospitals and Clinics, a Level I trauma center, was ranked No. 1 in the nation in quality, safety and accountability in 2016. It marked the seventh-straight year that UUHC ranked among the nation’s top 10 academic medical centers. U.S. News and World Report recognized the school of medicine’s primary care program (34th), pharmacy program (17th), physical therapy program (20), and the school of nursing’s doctorate (22nd) and master’s (31st) programs.

The U.’s surgeons were the first in the world to conduct a permanent artificial heart implant in 1982. More recently, the Utah Genome Project is one of several innovative medical research programs at the U. Other notable programs include the nationally-recognized Huntsman Cancer Institute, the Clinical Neurosciences Center and the Moran Eye Center.

BUSINESS SCHOOL

The David Eccles School of Business’ undergraduate program has been rated among the top 50 by U.S. News & World Report in the past four years. In the magazine’s most recent rankings, the executive MBA program was ranked 21st in the nation while the full-time MBA program jumped 22 spots to No. 57. The school also has been placed in the top 25 for entrepreneurship six straight years by the Princeton Review. The U.’s graduate accounting program was rated top 35 in the nation in 2016.

LAW SCHOOL

The S.J. Quinney College of Law, which opened a new building in the fall of 2015, was ranked 45th among ABA-approved U.S. law schools in 2016.

CAMPUS LIFE

A lively residential living experience is provided in the beautiful Heritage Commons, which served as the Athletes Village for the 2002 Winter Olympics. The Donna Garff Marriott Honors Residential Scholars Community, the George S. Eccles Student Life Center, and the Lassonde Studios for housing student entrepreneurs have all opened in the last five years.

A TOP 100 UNIVERSITY

Among Utah’s nationally-ranked programs are law, pharmacy, mathematics, business, biomedical engineering, family medicine, entertainment arts and engineering.

JON M. HUNTSMAN CENTER

The most famous college gymnastics facility in the country, Utah's Jon M. Huntsman Center has showcased more major collegiate gymnastics meets than any other venue.

The Huntsman Center has hosted a record nine national championships—one AIAW and eight NCAA Championships: 1981 (AIAW), 1982, 1983, 1985, 1987, 1988, 1994, 1999 and 2007.

Other gymnastics events making Huntsman Center appearances include the 1979 USGF World Championships Trials, the 1980 and '82 Championships of the USA, the 1993 World University Games Trials, 13 NCAA regional championships and two Pac-12 Championships.

Opened in 1969 on the southeast side of campus (elevation 4,657 feet), the 15,000-seat Huntsman Center is still in pristine condition. The facility underwent a $6 million renovation in the summer of 2014. The project included the installation of a super-grid ceiling structure, a state-of-the-art sound system, brighter and energy-efficient LED lighting in the arena and concourse, a maple wood floor, and updated graphics wrapping the walls of the lower bowl and mid-level concourse. New videoboard were installed last fall at a cost of $4.1 million.

Also calling the Huntsman Center home are the Ute men's and women's basketball, and women's volleyball teams. The Huntsman Center ranks third among the nation's arenas for most NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament games held (81), including the 1979 Final Four starring Larry Bird and Magic Johnson.

UTES ROCK THE HOUSE!

FAN-TASTIC

Every NCAA gymnastics attendance record has been set in the Jon M. Huntsman Center, including the most people ever to watch a collegiate gymnastics meet (16,019 vs. Michigan in 2015) and highest season attendance average (15,224 in 2017). Utah gymnastics has attracted 21 crowds in excess of 15,000 and 43 crowds of 14,000 or more.

ATTENDANCE CHAMPS

Utah has led the nation in gymnastics attendance 33 of the last 36 years and has won seven all-women's sports attendance titles, including the four three. The Utes have averaged nearly 12,000 fans a meet since 1992 and over 14,000 a meet for the past eight seasons.

HOME COURT ADVANTAGE

Utah once went 24 years and 170 meets (Feb. 20, 1979 through Mar. 23, 2002) without losing a dual meet competition. It is the longest home win streak by any NCAA sport. Including postseason competition, the Utes have won 94% of their home meets, with an all-time home record of 458-26!

CHAMPIONSHIP CENTRAL

The Jon M. Huntsman Center has hosted nine national gymnastics championships—more any other venue—and 13 regional championships.
