SEASON HIGHLIGHTS

- The Mavs posted an even 293.00 scoring average over 31 rounds, representing the 6th-best single-season mark in program history. UTA's +5.90 score to par was the 4th-best in single-season program lore.
- UTA tied for the 2nd-most par-or-better rounds in single-season program history with 11, just one shy of matching the record of 12 set by the 2008-09 team in 33 rounds. Helping fuel those performances was a record 16 eagles – the most by a UTA team in a single year in program history.
- The 2021-22 team accounted for three of the top-8 54-hole totals in program history: 839 at the Grand Canyon Invitational (4th-lowest), 844 at the Trinity Forest Invitational (6th-lowest) and 845 at the Mark Simpson Colorado Invitational (8th-lowest). The 845 was 19-under par, representing the 2nd-best score to par in program history (record: -41 at the 2007 Turtle Bay Resort Collegiate Invitational).
- UTA's 4.83 par-5 scoring average was the 2nd-best in program history behind only Devoll's 2019-20 squad which averaged 4.73. The Mavs reached that mark thanks in part to 451 birdies – the most in a year since 2010-11, and also the 7th-most in program history. Additionally, the Mavs posted a 4.21 par-4 scoring average to check in as the 5th-best in single-season program history.
