The History of the Scenic City

The name "Chattanooga" comes from the Creek Indian word for "rock coming to a point." This refers to Lookout Mountain which begins in Chattanooga and stretches 88 miles through Alabama and Georgia. The city itself started out with 2 different names: Ross's Landing and Lookout City. Ross's Landing was established in 1816 by John Ross, Chief of the Cherokee Indians. This area consisted of a ferry, warehouse, and landing. With the organization of Hamilton County in 1819, Ross's Landing served not only the Cherokee trade but also as a convenient business center for the county. In 1838, the city officially took the name of "Chattanooga". That same year, Cherokee parties left from Ross's Landing for the West on what became known as the Trail of Tears.

"Pardon Me Boy...." The First Gold Record . . .

The famous Chattanooga Choo Choo Terminal Station was built in 1908. The station still stands today as a testament of the golden age of railroad with its 85-foot freestanding dome, the world's largest free-standing dome. In addition, the song "Chattanooga Choo Choo," which was made famous by Glen Miller in the 1940's, became the first gold record.

You'll see tiny seahorses, impressive Beluga sturgeon, fierce sharks, playful otters, and even a butterfly garden! The Tennessee Aquarium's IMAX 3D Theater will transport you "into" the movies. And right down the street is the children's Creative Discovery Museum where fun and education meet.

The revitalization includes a 10-mile Riverwalk, The Passage, a celebration of Chattanooga's Native American heritage, and the Chattanooga Pier. The Scenic City

Since its founding as Chattanooga University in 1886, The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga has developed an institutional excellence which rests on an unusual blend of the private and public traditions of American education.

For 83 years the University was a private school. Three years after its founding, the University was consolidated with another church-related school, East Tennessee Wesleyan University at Athens, under the name of Grant University. In 1907 the name University of Chattanooga was adopted.

In 1969 the University of Chattanooga and a junior college, Chattanooga City College, merged with the University of Tennessee, one of the oldest land-grant universities in the nation, to form the UTC campus.
