2008-09 SWIMMING & DIVING

TENNESSEE SWIMMING AND DIVING'S 10 GREATEST MOMENTS

10. Overcoming 100 point Day 1 deficit to win 1989 SEC Championship.
9. Dave Parrington's NCAA Champion Divers: Phillip Jones (2003), Evan Stewart (1994, 1995), Jevon Tarantino (2004).
8. John Trembley setting NCAA record -- winning five first place NCAA medals and compiling 64 points. Won NCAA titles in 50 free, 100 free and 100 fly while anchoring UT's American record-setting 400 free relay and serving on victorious 400 medley relay.
7. Volunteers winning Olympic gold medals -- David Edgar ('72) 400 free relay; Jeremy Linn ('96) 400 medley relay; Tripp Schwenk ('96) 400 medley relay; Melvin Stewart ('92) 200 fly, 400 medley relay; Matt Vogel ('76) 100 fly, 400 medley relay.
6. Ray Bussard's introduction of Coonskin Cap to undefeated team prior to handing SMU first home loss in 11 years and beginning a UT Swimming tradition.
5. Opening in 2008 of state-of-the-art Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center.
4. Jeremy Linn setting American and U.S. Open record in 1994 for 100 breaststroke (51.86).
3. Melvin Stewart shattering American and U.S. Open record in 200 fly (1:41.78) in 1991.
2. David Edgar UT's first Olympic gold-medal winner in 1972. Edgar won with world-record setting victory in 400 freestyle relay.
1. Head coach Ray Bussard leading Tennessee to program's 1978 NCAA Championship.

The 2008-09 Tennessee Men's Swimming and Diving Media Guide is published primarily as a source of information for reporters representing newspapers, television and radio stations, wire services and magazines. Persons with any questions regarding Tennessee men's swimming and diving should not hesitate to call the UT Sports Information Office.

PRESS SERVICES: Members of the media are provided official results at the conclusion of each home meet. Coaches and athletes are made available upon request as quickly as possible after the meet. Telephones and a fax machine are available at the Tennessee Sports Information Office, 1720 Volunteer Blvd., in Room 261 of Stokely Athletics Center. Swimming and diving notes, information on upcoming meets and previous meet results are available via the University of Tennessee's athletics Web site at www.utsports.com.

FACILITIES: The Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center is located on Andy Holt Avenue. It is on the west end of the UT campus and directly west of Tom Black Track.

INTERVIEWS: All athlete interviews must be coordinated with the Sports Information Office. It is suggested that interview requests be submitted at least 24 hours in advance in order to be brought to the athlete's attention. Coach John Trembley can usually be reached in his office during the morning hours.

TENNESSEE TRADITIONS

The Volunteer Statue

The spirit of university youth and its ideal of service, the statue was cast, placed in Circle Park, and unveiled on April 19, 1968.

The Hill

"The Hill," the original part of the campus, is symbolic of higher education in the state of Tennessee.

Torch Night

The model for Torch Night was a candlelight ceremony for seniors at the University of South Carolina that was adapted for UT Knoxville by Vic Davis, alumni secretary, and Ralph Frost, head of the campus YMCA.

The Rock

Unearthed in the 1960s, the Rock soon thereafter became a "canvas" for student messages. For years the university sandblasted away the messages but eventually deferred to students' artistic endeavors.

UT Seal

The official university seal had its beginnings in the 1800s and has taken several forms over the years. The seal has included imagery representing enlightenment, peace, and science, as well as the words "agriculture" and "commerce."

"The Strip"

Cumberland Avenue was one of the original Knoxville streets surveyed and platted by Charles McClung in 1791. Through the years, the street has been home to filling stations, grocery stores, clothiers, restaurants, clubs, drugstores and other neighborhood enterprises.

The Legend of Coach RAY BUSSARD

Coach Ray Bussard began his career in 1968 on his second attempt, after being passed up once for the head coaching job for the swim team. Little did the athletic director at that time know what success Coach Bussard would bring to Tennessee swimming and diving. Bussard ended his career in 1988 with an impressive wrap sheet. He managed only to lose 20 times in 272 meets, boasting his winning percentage to a humble .926. Not only did he obtain the school's first SEC Championship followed by seven additional conference titles, but he also led the university to its first and only NCAA Swimming and Diving Championship in 1978. He also coached Tennessee's first-time swimming and diving All-Americans and Olympians while also coaching at the Olympics himself in the 1984 Los Angeles Olympiad. In short, he revolutionized the collegiate swimming world with his motivational coaching style and his expertise in training the human body and mind.

"His focus on winning formed the foundation on which Tennessee Swimming has been built. Thank you, Coach Bussard."

—David Edgar
UT Swimmer, 1969-72,
14-Time All-America,
Six-Time National Champion
& First Aqua Volunteer Olympian

"I would just like to mention that I think Coach Bussard is a wonderful person. He was able to look through my mistakes. Maybe that is what made him a great coach."

—Michael Masters
UT Swimmer 1985-88

"So many things he started have become our unique traditions or have been copied by other programs around the country."

—UT Assistant Coach Joe Hendee

"Ray taught all 'his boys' with a thundery, velvet hand. There was never any confusion on our parts of what he expected and of what he saw as pure and right. In all of our orange-colored blood, we'll always run the lessons learned from Ray Bussard. Speaking as one of 'his boys,' I will be forever indebted."

—UT Head Coach John Trembley
UT Swimmer, 1971-74,
20-Time All-America,
Five-Time National Champion

"Between the years of 1969-1985, there was no one that had an impact on the swimming world like Coach. When he came into the SEC, our conference was nothing. He purposefully caused the SEC to be the fastest swimming conference."

—Former Diving Coach Ken Hall

"Ray Bussard is a coach in the purest sense of the word. He conditioned minds as well as bodies. The key words that come to my mind about Coach Bussard: mentor, conditioner, motivator, parent, perseverance, guts, determination, and spizzierinctum."

—Steve Gilliam
UT Swimmer, 1968-71

"I remember one of Coach's favorite quotes: 'First is first and all the rest is last.' He lived it. He believed it."

—Lee Engstrand
UT Swimmer, 1973-76,
17-time All-America &
Two-Time National Champion

"Ray Bussard was a coach well ahead of his time, and one who was meticulous in everything he did — everything from the way he dressed to preparing for battle. He was always extremely well-prepared and had an unequalled will to win. He had spizzierinctum!"

—Roland Julian

ALLAN JONES Intercollegiate Aquatic Center

"To have one complex that includes one outdoor 50-meter pool, an indoor 50-meter pool and the new 50-meter competition pool will give Tennessee one of the leading aquatic facilities in America."

—Head coach John Trembley

The Athletic

LIFE

Many of the apartment complexes in and around Knoxville provide spacious, comfortable living quarters.

STYLE

Varsity Inn, located in Gibbs Hall adjacent to the Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, was renovated before the fall of 2008. The new-look dining hall features a more spacious layout, expanded stations for food courses and new decorations from each of Tennessee's varsity sports.

Class of THE SEC

The University of Tennessee takes winning on the field and in the classroom very seriously. UT has had more than its share of student-athletes earn the opportunity to play professionally in their respective sport and is proud of that. But the goal is that every one of UT's men earns a college degree. Even the most successful professional athletes need their degrees, because being finished with their professional careers by their early 30s means most guys have more than 40-50 years to live and remain active.

The University of Tennessee athletics department stands by its student-athletes even after their playing days are over. The Renewing Academic Commitment – or RAC Program – was started to help former student-athletes who did not graduate during their athletics eligibility have a chance to come back and finish their degrees. Many colleges do not have the commitment or resources to offer such as opportunity to former players. The Thornton Center stands behind its goal of trying to help every student-athlete earn a degree. Twenty former scholarship student athletes have returned to earn their bachelor's degrees through the RAC Program since fall 2003.

Tennessee athletics is about much more than just wins and losses on the field. Wins and losses in the classroom are taken very seriously as well. UT is a top academic institution that offers more than 100 degree programs in numerous fields. Visit the campus in person to see first-hand what a great university UT has to offer academically, as well as see how the academic support programs for student-athletes are among the nation's best.

UT HIGHLIGHTS

- T Tennessee had 160 student-athletes recognized on the SEC's Academic Honor Roll in the 2007-08 school year.
- T Tennessee placed 44 student-athletes on the 2008 SEC Freshman Academic Honor Roll.
- T UT had 233 student-athletes achieve a 3.0 GPA or higher in spring 2008.
- T The University of Tennessee has students from all 50 states and more than 95 different countries.
- T UT Knoxville is among the nation's 40 top public universities, and its business program entered the top 25, according to U.S. News and World Report's 2007 college and university rankings.

Champs/Life Skills Program

- Provides student-athletes with resources for future work
- Workshops on personal development issues, resume building, and interviewing
- Opportunities for community service

VolScholar Program

- Awards student-athletes based on curriculum research and peer mentoring
- Athletes who achieve academic goals wear special uniform patch in competition

Renewing Academic Commitment (RAC) Program

- Provides opportunities for former student-athletes to return to campus to achieve their goal of graduation

Football player Josh Briscoe is the president of Tennessee's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and also serves as UT's male representative on the Southeastern Conference SAAC.

World-Class A

Pat Summitt coached the Lady Vols to the school's eighth national championship in 2007. Her career record stands at 983-182 over 34 seasons.

- Tennessee is the only Division 1 school ever to rank in the top five nationally in attendance for football, men's basketball and women's basketball in the same season. The Vols turned the trick in 2007-08 for the fifth time.
- The UT men's basketball team is coming off its most successful season in school history, winning a record 31 games, earning their ninth SEC championship, achieving the program's first No.1 national ranking and advancing to the Sweet 16 for the second consecutive season.
- Lady Vols coach Pat Summitt guided Tennessee to its eighth national championship during her illustrious tenure last season. Summitt was the first basketball coach in NCAA history to win 900 games and owns a 983-182 mark over 34 seasons.
- The UT men's tennis team advanced to the round of 16 in the NCAA tournament and finished with a 23-4 record in Sam Winterbotham's second season at the helm. The Vols had two players earn All-America honors in 2008 and have had six total honorees in the last five seasons.

Leonard Scott won the 60-meter title at the 2006 World Indoor Championships in Moscow. Scott was a two-sport standout in football and track at Tennessee from 1999-2002.

Luke Hochevar was the No. 1 overall pick in the 2006 MLB draft by the Kansas City Royals and pitched in their starting rotation during the 2007-08 season.

ATHLETES

After winning the English Amateur Championship in 2006, Ross McGowan has continued to find success on the European Tour, including six top-10 finishes this season and qualifying for the 2008 U.S. Open Championship.

Christine Magnuson took home two silver medals at the 2008 Beijing Olympics, finishing second in the 100-meter butterfly and second as a member of the US 4x100 medley relay

Monica Abbott was a member of the USA Softball Team that earned the silver medal at the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games. Abbott and her teammates advanced to the Gold Medal Game for the fourth straight time.

Bruce Pearl led the Tennessee men's basketball team to its ninth SEC championship, first No. 1 national ranking in school history and its second straight trip to the NCAA Sweet 16.

Peyton Manning is two-time NFL MVP and former Super Bowl MVP after leading the Indianapolis Colts to victory in Super Bowl XLI. Manning played at UT from 1994-97 and finished his illustrious career holding 42 NCAA, SEC and Tennessee records.

- Both men's and women's track and field programs have won national championships since 2001, and the women won the 2007 SEC Indoor title, while the men claimed the 2007 SEC Outdoor crown.
- Tennessee's softball team advanced to the Women's College World Series three straight seasons from 2005-07, finishing third or better each time, including a national runner-up finish in 2007.
- The Volunteers baseball team made its fourth all-time appearance in the College World Series in 2005 and has produced 11 All-America or Freshman All-America honorees in the last four seasons.
- The UT men's golf team won two team championships during the 2007-08 season on its way to being ranked in the top 10 of Golfweek's final 2008 rankings, the highest in recent history.
- The Tennessee football team has led the SEC in attendance every year since 1974. The team has advanced to a postseason bowl game in 18 of the last 19 seasons.

VOLS RETURN SIX ALL-AMERICA PERFORMERS, AIM SIGHTS HIGHER

The Tennessee Volunteers look to move up into the nation's upper echelon of swimming and diving programs. This year they will have a chance to do so as they are well endowed with talent and experience. The Vols will be led by six returning All-Americans and a total of 22 returning swimmers and divers.

SPRINT-FREESTYLE

Senior and 2008 Olympian Jonas Persson will lead the Vols in the sprint-freestyle events. Behind Persson, there is plenty of experience in senior co-captain Barry Murphy, returning All-American Michael DeRocco and seniors Jimmy Dabney, Scott Wherry and junior Jordan Walters.

Senior Co-Captain Jonas Persson

MIDDLE-DISTANCE FREESTYLE

Sophomores dominate the list of middle distance freestyle competitors. Patrick Beasley, Michael Christy, Scott Friderichs, Carl Jones, Geoff Sanders and Chris Winchell each bring one year of experience to the event. Seniors Nolan Morrell, Persson and Andrew Thirlwell add to the list as well as freshman Jake Epperson and Anders Storvik.

LONG-DISTANCE FREESTYLE

Like the middle-distance, the long-distance freestyle event will feature several sophomores. Sanders, Jones, Winchell and Friderichs are all returning swimmers in the event.

Sophomore All-American Michael DeRocco heads the list of butterfly competitors followed by junior Walters and seniors Persson, Thirlwell and Greg Houchin. Also competing in the event are Beasley, Sanders,

Forrest Leary, Stephen Fortney, freshmen Epperson and Ricky Henahan

BACKSTROKE

Senior All-American Nolan Morrell returns to lead a young group into the backstroke. Freshmen Henahan and Storvik as well as sophomores Christy and Winchell will aid the Vols in the event.

Senior Nolan Morrell

BREASTSTROKE

Senior Co-Captain Barry Murphy

All-America co-captain Barry Murphy and sophomore Brad Craig will help freshman Epperson and Derek Paul find their rhythm in the breaststroke. The Vols also return sophomore Mattias Kahlin, Fortney and Winchell.

INDIVIDUAL MEDLEY

Senior All-American Andrew Thirlwell leads a strong group through the I.M. Accompanied by Beasley, Christy, Craig, Epperson, Fortney, Storvik and Winchell the Vols look to succeed in the individual medley.

Senior Andrew Thirlwell

DIVING

Junior Michael Muscari will lead a talented pool of divers. Junior-college transfer Michael Wright, a two-time NJCAA National Champion, along with red-shirt freshman Sean Letsinger will show freshmen Ryan Helms, a four-time Georgia state champion, and Knoxville-native Brent Sterling how to compete in the SEC.

Junior Michael Muscari

THE SEASON

The Vols set high goals for the 2008-09 season and are likely to achieve them. Only losing three seniors, UT returns several top performers from last season's top ten NCAA finish. Tennessee will compete with six of the nation's pre-season top 25 teams and looks to improve in both the SEC and NCAA championships.

John Trembley

Head Coach

(Tennessee, 1975)

21st Season 134-26 (.838)
72-18 SEC (.800)

John Trembley's tenure at the University of Tennessee has been distinguished by extraordinary success in the pool and the classroom. Those who know the New York native would not be surprised by the prosperity his teams have enjoyed during his time in Knoxville. Trembley is a tireless competitor who has known nothing but success at all levels as a swimmer, assistant coach and head coach.

Since his arrival as the head coach at Tennessee in the fall of 1988, Trembley's accomplishments as coach of the Vols have established him as one of the top overall mentors in the land. Consider: a winning percentage of nearly 85 percent, including an 80 percent victory rate in the tough Southeastern Conference, 15 top-10 national finishes, 159 SEC Academic Honor Roll selections, two SEC championships and six runner-up finishes, seven times the entire team has won Academic All-America honors, 55 SEC individual championships, more than 82 school records, four American records, 84 swimmers who have earned 351 All-America honors and coaching ties with 21 Olympians who between them have set a total of six world records and brought home seven Olympic golds.

Trembley was honored by the NCAA as a recipient of the prestigious 2000 NCAA Silver Anniversary Award, honoring former student-athletes who have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields 25 years after graduation from college. Trembley also coached the 2002 U.S. Short Course World Championship Team in Moscow.

The Tennessee head swim coach is preparing to begin his 21st season at his alma mater. During his time on The Hill, Trembley's Vols have earned national acknowledgement as a powerhouse in the pool and hailed achievers in the classroom.

When legendary coach Ray Bussard retired in 1988, Trembley was asked to return home to take over the reins of an enormously successful and tradition-rich program. The prized pupil of Bussard's undefeated 1971-74 teams, Trembley proceeded with the task of returning Tennessee to the lofty spot it once occupied under Bussard. Using his skills as a dynamic recruiter and a masterful teacher, Trembley brought immediate success to the program.

In his first year, 1988-89, he took a squad that had scored 32.5 points in finishing 23rd at the NAAs the previous year and guided it to its first SEC title and top-10 national finish (ninth) in 11 years. That marked only the second time a first-year SEC coach had led his team to the league title, joining Florida's Bill Harlan in 1963. For his efforts, Trembley was named SEC Coach of the Year following the conclusion of the campaign.

With that groundwork laid for future success, his second squad swam to the runner-up spot in the SEC, while improving one notch at the NAAs (eighth) for the team's second straight top 10 finish. In his third season, he guided the Vols through the dual-meet season undefeated and posted a second straight runner-up SEC finish. The highlight, however, came when his Vols battled to a fifth-place finish at the NCAA championships.

In heavy demand as a speaker at coaching clinics, Trembley is widely recognized as one of the most innovative teachers, technicians and motivators in the sport of swimming. In 1992, he joined a select group of coaches in giving presentations at the Australian Sports Institute. The 1993 finalist for the World Swimming Coaches Coach of the Quadrennium honor also has been a national and international events coach on numerous occasions. In 2008, Trembley spoke at the American Swimming Coaches Association's annual banquet.

Part of Trembley's success in the swimming world can be traced to his positive attitude and coaching philosophy.

"My goal always has been to help people develop themselves fully in all categories of their life," Trembley said. "My influence on people can be much more productive if it is positively based. I believe there are no such things as problems; we only have opportunities."

Another important ingredient in the Volunteers' success under Trembley is the high degree of stability his program has featured. Focusing the efforts of Tennessee's coaching staff on producing quality -- not necessarily quantity -- in recruiting classes, Trembley's teams have experienced relatively low turnover and have developed a correspondingly high degree of loyalty to the Vols program. Along with hard work and individual refinement, Trembley ranks this quality highly when explaining how Tennessee has maintained its characteristic success over the years.

At a school like Tennessee, where highly successful team performances have been the standard for years, it would be expected that measures of team success would be translated into dual-meet marks, conference and national finishes and the like. According to Trembley, however, individual and team success comes in a number of less tangible forms.

"Faith in the mission of the coaches extending to the swimmers, trust from swimmer to swimmer, self-discipline and real accountability for training and racing are keys to a successful season," Trembley said.

Trembley came to UT from Loudonville, N.Y., as the nation's top swimming prospect. During his All-America career at Tennessee, he won or was a member of nine NCAA championship efforts and set American records in the 50 freestyle, 200 freestyle relay and 400 freestyle relay. He was the first swimmer in the history of the NCAA to win five gold medals at one championship. Before a home crowd in Knoxville, Trembley pulled a triple crown by winning the 50 freestyle, the 100 butterfly and the 100 freestyle at the 1973 NCAA championships.

He also swam on the Vols' NCAA champion 400 free and 400 medley relay teams. The Touchdown Club of Columbus, Ohio, named him Swimmer of the Year in 1973.

The Volunteers, who were 49-0 in dual meets during Trembley's career, won three SEC titles and placed sixth, third, second and third in NCAA competition. Altogether, he picked up 20 All-America certificates over a four-year period.

Trembley served as a volunteer assistant to Bussard during the 1975 through 1979 campaigns, at which time he was enrolled in graduate school. The Vols were 65-6 in dual meets and won the 1978 NCAA title while he was a deck coach.

He then directed Mercersburg Academy to a sparkling record and national prominence. During his time at the Pennsylvania school, seven of his teams were proclaimed national prep champions. Six times he coached Mercersburg to the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Championship.

He turned out an unprecedented 123 individual All-Americans and produced Olympic team members for the United States, the Philippines and Guatemala while establishing himself as the most dominant high school coach of the decade. His teams combined for a total of 29 national prep school swimming records. Trembley's dual-meet record at Mercersburg was 95-2.

Trembley represented the United States on several national teams and saw action in the Soviet Union, East and West Germany, France and England.

Trembley was inducted into the Tennessee Swimming Hall of Fame in 1985. He is the founder and president of United Swimming Clinics, a summer swim program that has helped more than 13,000 young athletes worldwide.

A graduate of Shaker High School in Loudonville, N.Y., Trembley received a Bachelor of Arts degree from UT in 1975. He and his wife, the former Joanne Hogan, have three sons -- John Michael, Jeff and Lee. The Trembleys attend Second Presbyterian Church.

Favorite moments since coaching at Tennessee: "Times when after unbelievable joy, hugging one of my guys, seeing tears almost forming in their eyes. Those close moments really mean everything."

Favorite book: "The Bible"

Enjoy doing with the team: "Spending time at the lake and watching guys wipe out on the tube and wakeboard!"

Fondest memory of UT Swimming & Diving: "As an athlete, the first time I ran through the "T" with my teammates to Rocky Top blaring over the speaker system as the Timettes line the deck. What a rush! As a coach, the first home dual meet returning to my alma mater, being in position hopefully to continue the great tradition started by my coach, Ray Bussard."

Best advice you have ever received: "To know the truth and the truth will set us free."

Person I'd like to meet, dead or alive: "Jeremiah Johnson, to learn his secret of mental toughness and readiness."

Pre-meet traditions: "Check breathing, slow it down and find a lucky spot!"

Dave Parrington

Diving Coach
(Houston, 1983)

Tennessee diving coach Dave Parrington, a successful athlete on both the collegiate and international levels, has translated that athletic excellence into a high degree of proficiency within the coaching ranks. Parrington has received countless honors within every conceivable realm of the diving community and returns to tutor a talented group of divers.

In the past five years Parrington has twice led a Vol diver to an NCAA title. Jevon Tarantino won the 1-meter crown at the NCAA championships in 2004. In 2003, Phillip Jones won the 3-meter title.

Parrington is no stranger to awards, as he has been named SEC Men's Diving Coach of the Year six times in addition to the 1997 and 2003 SEC Women's Diving Coach of the Year Award and the 1990 Southwest Conference Women's Diving Coach of the Year Award while at the University of Houston.

Parrington has seen service on the Olympic level as an athlete, as well. In 1980, he competed in Moscow as a member of the Zimbabwe team in the 3- and 10-meter platform events. He previously was a member of his country's water polo team.

In the summer of 1997, Parrington was selected to lead a team of U.S. divers to compete in the Australia World Cup Trials. That same fall, he took the U.S. squad to the 1997 World Cup in Mexico. For his efforts, Parrington was awarded the 1997 U.S. Diving Coaches' Award of Excellence.

As a testament to his coaching accomplishments, Parrington was named Zimbabwe's Olympic Diving Coach for the 1996 Atlanta and 2000 Sydney Olympic Games to coach Vol 2 times NCAA Champion and Zimbabwe native Evan Stewart who placed 13th in the 3-meter competition in Atlanta. Vol All America Gabi Chereches was also under Parrington's tutelage while competing in Sydney for Romania.

Parrington was summoned to The Hill in 1990 to revitalize the UT diving program. He has certainly exceeded this mission objective and made Tennessee diving again one of the country's most formidable groups. Since 1994 when Stewart won the first of two consecutive NCAA 3 meter titles UT divers have won a World Championship Gold and Bronze medal, six NCAA golds, 28 SEC individual titles, two gold medals, the silver and bronze from the Commonwealth Games and eight USA diving national championship Gold medals, placed four representatives on USA World Championship teams, two on the USA World University Games team, one on the USA Pan American Games team, and numerous others on USA National teams who have competed world wide. UT divers representing either the USA or their own nation have competed in the 1996, '00, and '08 Olympic Games, the 1994, '98, '01, '03, '05, and '07 World Championships, the 1995, 1997, 1999, '00 and '08 World Diving Cup, the 1999 Pan American Games, the 1994 and 1998 Commonwealth Games, the 1997, '99 and '03 World University Games, and the 1995 All African Games.

Under Coach Parrington's watch UT divers have also received their share of awards. Seven individuals have been named SEC diver of the year on 10 occasions. In back to back years Vol All America, Gabi Chereches was the recipient of the prestigious Commissioner's Trophy awarded to the high point swimmer or diver at the SEC Swimming and Diving Championships, while four individuals have earned SEC freshman diver of the year awards.

Over the years Coach Parrington has served the sport of diving both collegiate and nationally on various committees. Additionally he was selected to judge both the 1998 and '08 USA Olympic diving trials, and was a selector for the 2008 USA Olympic diving team selected from the USA Olympic team selection camp hosted by the University of Tennessee at the Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center.

In August, 2008 University of Tennessee Head Football Coach, Phillip Fulmer endowed $250,000 for the Dave Parrington, Tennessee Diving Scholarship as a token of gratitude from the Fulmer family for his friendship and many years spent coaching their daughter and former Lady Volunteer diver Brittany.

Coach Parrington here with his father, Frank, at the International Swimming Hall of Fame Induction ceremony in 2005.

Joe Hendee Assistant Coach (Tennessee, 1983)

Joe Hendee is a true Volunteer. The Tennessee-native is in his 29th season at the University of Tennessee. Since 1978, Hendee has served as an undergraduate assistant, graduate assistant, and the first full-time assistant in the program's history. Hendee began his career under the legendary head coach Ray Bussard and continued in an expanding-role under current head coach John Trembley.

Under his watch, the Vols have boasted a 168-26 dual meet record, two SEC Championships, 91 individual SEC champions, 13 top-10 NCAA finishes, 15 NCAA individual champions, three gold medalists and numerous All-America selections. Hendee's tenure at Tennessee has been one of the most successful times in the program's history.

His responsibilities include coaching on the pool deck, aiding the dry-land strength program, coordinating recruiting efforts, managing scheduling and making travel arrangements. Hendee also supervises the program's support staff and serves as the liaison between the team and the Timettes organization. He has also served as organizer of the Tennessee Swimming Hall of Fame since its inception in 1982.

During his career, Hendee has been called on to assist at numerous national and international swimming competitions. Shortly after he began his career on Coach Bussard's staff, he served as facilities coordinator for the USSR-U.S. dual-meet held at the Student Aquatic Center in conjunction with the 1982 Knoxville World's Fair. Hendee followed Bussard as an assistant on the 1984 U.S. Olympic swim team. In 1986, his first U.S. Swimming staffing began as he served at the U.S.S Elite Training Camp in Chapel Hill, N.C. Hendee again aided the U.S. Olympic effort by working on the coaching staff of both the 1989 and 1993 Olympic Festivals held in Oklahoma City and San Antonio, respectively. He again served as facilities coordinator at the Student Aquatic Center during the U.S. Olympic training camp in Knoxville; at the same time Hendee was preparing Vol swimmers Jeremy Linn and Ricky Busquets for the 1996 Atlanta Olympics.

Through his accomplishments at UT, Hendee has been able to travel all over the world. He went to Paris in 1994 as a staff member of the U.S. Junior National team. Hendee served on the U.S. Junior National team staff two more times in 1997 and 1999 in Colorado Springs, Colo. In 2000, he went to Athens for the Short Course World Championships, and 2003 saw Hendee traveling with the U.S. National team to the Barcelona for the Long Course

World Championships.

During his coaching career, Joe Hendee has worn many hats. He brings over two decades worth of experience to the Tennessee swimming and diving program, making him one of the nation's top assistant coaches. His knowledge of the University of Tennessee, pride in the UT swimming tradition and loyalty to both the school and program make him an invaluable resource.

It is these qualities that led the Tennessee Swimming Hall of Fame to select him for induction in 2003. Hendee was inducted because of his years of loyalty to the program. The Hall of Fame's motto, "Honoring Those Who Have Served in True Volunteer Tradition," seems to embody Hendee's career at UT perfectly. His name is now along side Olympians, All-Americans and national champions in the Tennessee Swimming Hall of Fame.

When not managing the Tennessee program, Hendee coaches the USS swim team Tennessee Aquatics. In the past, he served as an assistant coach to UT-Gatorade South and Pilot Aquatic of Knoxville. He has coached at several clinics including the Ray Bussard clinics, United Swimming, and 1996 Select Camp.

In his spare time, Hendee enjoys paddle ball and racquetball. He has led the Knoxville Racquet Club to eight Knoxville-area City Championships and is the reigning swim team paddle ball and backgammon champion.

Joe and his wife, Shelli, have two daughters, Claire (15) and Caroline (13), and attend Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Assistant coach Joe Hendee leading the Vols in dual meets. During his time at UT, the Vols are 168-26.

Dr. John D. Petersen University President

In President John D. Petersen's fifth year at the University of Tennessee, UT is continuing to enjoy positive momentum in enrollment, private support, economic development and federal research funding.

Last year, Petersen presided over the official launch of the $1 billion Campaign for Tennessee, the most ambitious fundraising effort in UT history.

Petersen became the 23rd president of UT on July 1, 2004. He was provost and executive vice president for academic affairs at Connecticut for four years before coming to Tennessee.

As president, he is the chief executive officer of the statewide UT system, which includes campuses at Knoxville, Chattanooga, and Martin; the Health Science Center in Memphis, and two statewide organizations, the Institute of Agriculture and the Institute for Public Service. He travels frequently to university campuses and offices throughout Tennessee, as well as speaking at numerous meetings of UT alumni and civic groups. He also is leading the planning for a major university-wide fundraising campaign.

Petersen's earlier career included experience at several public universities. Prior to his appointment at Connecticut, he was dean of the College of Science and professor of chemistry at Wayne State in Detroit, from 1994-2000. Before that he was a faculty member, head of chemistry and associate dean for research in the College of Sciences at Clemson (1980-93) and assistant professor of chemistry at Kansas State (1975-80).

Petersen received a doctorate in inorganic chemistry from the University of California at Santa Barbara and a bachelor's degree in chemistry from California State. He and his wife, Carol, are the parents of two grown children, Melissa and Andrew.

David Blackburn Associate Athletics Director

David Blackburn transitioned smoothly into the position of Associate Athletics Director in October 2007.

Blackburn works closely with Director of Athletics Mike Hamilton while overseeing the sports of swimming and diving, football, and track and field.

The Loudon native previously worked as an Assistant AD for Development from 2003-07 and, before that, in the UT football office. Blackburn was Director of Football Operations from 1999-2001 and was named Assistant AD for Football Operations for his final two years on head coach Phillip Fulmer's staff.

The 43-year-old graduated from UT in 1989 and has used his talents in a variety of positions for the athletics department. After serving two years as head student manager on the football team, Blackburn's first full-time role was as Tennessee's football assistant recruiting coordinator from 1993-95. He followed that with the dual responsibilities of administrative assistant for football and manager of recruiting compliance for all men's varsity teams.

Blackburn is married to the former Audrea Radcliff of Albion, Mich., and they have a daughter, Emma, 11.

Mike Hamilton Athletics Director

The steady leadership of men's director of athletics Mike Hamilton has the UT Volunteers ranked among the nation's most respected and highly-regarded programs.

Since Hamilton accepted his current position in 2003, he has overseen competitiveness of Tennessee teams, graduation of student-athletes, compliance with NCAA and SEC rules, strong financial management, and the growth of the athletics department's service to the university and community.

A major focus for Hamilton is ensuring UT has the facilities it needs for its student-athletes and coaches to compete for championships. Facility projects such as the Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center show that commitment to excellence.

Hamilton previously served as Senior Associate Athletics Director for External Operations, earning that promotion in September 2002, and has been on the UT staff since 1992.

The 45-year-old Hamilton, who grew up in Brevard, N.C., served as assistant director of the Deacon Club at Wake Forest before joining the Vols staff in 1992. He earlier had served as a graduate assistant in fundraising at his alma mater, Clemson, where he earned both a bachelor's in accounting and a master's in business administration.

Hamilton was honored in the spring of 1998 when the National Association of Athletic Development Directors named him National Fundraiser of the Year. In 2006 he was named to the NCAA Academics, Eligibility and Compliance Cabinet.

Hamilton and his wife, the former Elizabeth Merrill, also from Brevard, are parents of a daughter, Madison, and a son, Matthew.

Dr. Joe Whitney Sport Psychology Consultant

Dr. Joe Whitney returns for his 12th season after obtaining his Ph.D. in sport psychology from Tennessee.

Previously, he spent two years in Virginia, where he earned a master's in sport psychology. A 1982 recipient of a physical education bachelor's degree from Springfield College, Whitney worked 13 years in between as a prep football and basketball coach in New York City.

At UT, he serves as the sport psychology consultant to the golf, softball, tennis, volleyball and swimming and diving teams. Whitney, his wife, Linda, and their daughter, Samantha, 18, reside in Knoxville.

Harry Galbreath Strength Coach for Dry Land Training

Harry Galbreath, an All-America offensive lineman for the Vols during his 1984-87 playing career, enters his second season as an associate strength and conditioning coach.

Galbreath, 43, returned to Tennessee after three separate stints as offensive line coach -- Austin Peay (1998-99), Tennessee State (2000-04) and Hampton (2005-06).

Jim Rumbaugh Volunteer Asst. Coach

Jim Rumbaugh enters his second season as volunteer assistant coach for the swimming and diving team. Rumbaugh swam for UT from 1993-96. While a Vol, Rumbaugh was a five-time All-America and won two NCAA Championships. He also coached the Dynamo club swim team in Atlanta and Tsunami Swim Team in Lompoc, Calif.

TJ Saunders Athletic Trainer

TJ Saunders begins his second year as trainer for the Volunteers. TJ is a NATABOC Certified Athletic Trainer (ATC), NSCA Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist (CSCS) and Tennessee Licensed Athletic Trainer (LAT).

Saunders was born in Annapolis, MD. He graduated from Florida State in 2001 with a Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science. He is currently working on his Master's Degree in Exercise Physiology.

Coleman Weibley Head Manager

Coleman Weibley begins his second season serving on the Tennessee support staff. Weibley assists in daily practices in addition to aiding the coaches at meets and travels with the team. He is responsible for seeing that team members have the necessary equipment.

Weibley is from Carlisle, Pennsylvania. He plans to major in education, and aspires to be a principal.

Octavio Alesi Student Assistant

Octavio Alesi is entering his first season as the student assistant for the swimming and diving team. He is a non-coaching assistant and is responsible for various business and administrative tasks that are associated with the everyday operation of the team. Alesi is a native of Barinas,

Venezuela, and earned his bachelor's degree while earning four letters and All-America status while swimming for UT.

Phil Donihe Student Assistant Strength Coach

Phil Donihe is entering his third season with the Vols. His responsibilities include assisting in the strength and dryland program as well as video storage analysis. Donihe is an NASM certified personal trainer. He has coached at every UT Swim Camp since 2002.

Donihe was born in Chattanooga. He is majoring in Exercise Science.

Michael Wolfe Student Assistant

Michael Wolfe is entering his first season as a student assistant with the Volunteers. Wolfe earned All-America honors as he swam for the Vols in the previous four seasons. He is from Bartlesville, Ok. While at UT, Wolfe won an SEC Championship in the 100 backstroke, served as captain of the 2007-08 team and was an NCAA post-graduate scholarship winner.

Marie Wilson Massage Therapist

Marie Wilson begins her eighth year with the swimming and diving program. She began her career in massage therapy eight years ago after raising her three sons, Jeff, Brent and Derek.

A Knoxville native, Wilson has three grandchildren, Emily (15), Zachery (11) and Camille (2).

John-Michael Trembley Graduate Assistant

John Michael Trembley begins his second year as a graduate assistant on the Tennessee Swimming staff. John-Michael is the son of head coach John Trembley.

Debbie Golden Swimming Secretary

Debbie Golden begins her 27th season as secretary to the Vol swimming and diving program. Golden successfully coordinates the hectic daily operation of the swimming and diving office and handles a variety of essential duties, including organization of the yearly Volunteer swimming camps.

Tennessee Earns Big Win Over Auburn, Ends Losing Streak to Gators, Improves NCAA Finish

The Tennessee men's swimming and diving team finished the 2007-08 season fourth at the SEC Championships in Tuscaloosa, Ala. and ninth at the NCAA Championships in Federal Way, Wash. Team members named senior Michael Wolfe team captain, who helped lead the Vols to a 7-2 overall record (4-1 SEC). Senior Octavio Alesi and Ryan Rincon ended their careers as Volunteers. Six Vols earned All-America honors: Wolfe, Alesi, Jonas Persson, Barry Murphy, Andrew Thirlwell, Nolan Morrell and Michael DeRocco.

The Vols opened the season at Louisville on Oct. 20 with a victory, 165-130. The team nearly missed the meet after avoiding a bus wreck, which caused the athletes to lose a day of preparation. Seniors Octavio Alesi and Michael Wolfe picked up two victories each. Alesi won the 50 and 100 freestyles while Wolfe triumphed in the 200 backstroke and butterfly.

Next Tennessee faced both South Carolina and Kentucky in a double dual meet and tallied two victories at the Oct. 27 event. Freshmen Geoff Sanders and Carl Jones paced to first- and second- place finishes, respectively, in the 1000 freestyle (9:38.13 and 9:38.76). Alesi won the 50 freestyle (20.37) and the 100 butterfly (49.57). Nolan Morrell snatched first place in both the 200 backstroke (1:48.89) and the 200 freestyle (1:39.95).

Following the double wins, the then 11th ranked Volunteers picked up arguably one of their biggest victories of the decade with a win over second-place and five-time defending national champions Auburn, outscoring the Tigers 170-127 on Aug. 2. The Volunteers enthusiastically set the tone early, winning the 200 medley relay in 1:27.56. Sanders followed with a victory in the 500 freestyle (9:16.06), beating second place by more than 10 seconds. Wolfe splashed to victories in the 200 butterfly (1:46.12) and 200 backstroke (1:45.54). Redshirt sophomore Michael Muscari surprised the crowd by winning the one-meter diving competition with a score of 317.41 among a field of NCAA championship competitors. Freshman Brad Craig won the 200 breaststroke, finishing in 2:00.36. Freshman teammate Mattias Kahlin followed in second place (2:05.64).

The next victory came against Virginia on Nov. 15, outscoring the Cavaliers 156-144 in Charlottesville, Va. The Vols kicked off the meet with a victory in the 200 medley relay. Wolfe, Craig, Alesi and Persson topped the Virginia relay with a time of 1:29.25. In the 100 breaststroke, Barry Murphy and Craig captured the top two places. Murphy finished in 55.85 and Craig in 56.05.

The then sixth-ranked Tennessee swimming and diving team finished fourth overall (third among collegiate teams) at the Texas Invitational (Nov. 30-Dec. 2) in Austin, Texas. The competition premiered many talented teams such as No. 1 Texas, No. 2 Arizona, No. 3 Stanford, No. 25 Southern Methodist and the post-graduate Longhorn Aquatics Team. The 400 freestyle relay – consisting of Alesi, Persson, Morrell and Murphy – beat the former UT record by over two seconds. The Vols finished the event first in a speedy time of 2:51.82, which satisfied the A-Cut NCAA standard. Persson swam a 41.8 100 freestyle-split which set a new UT record. Jim Dabney and Scott Wherry also achieved their lifetime best in the 100 freestyle. Dabney finished 28th in 44.39 and Wherry came in 39th in 45.70.

The team then took on Georgia Tech on Jan. 4, triumphing over the Yellow Jackets by a score of 98-63. The meet was unorthodox by common standards as the competition included 150 butterfly and 500 freestyle relays, a 400 freestyle and a 200 underwater freestyle relay. Wolfe topped the 400 freestyle with a time of 3:37.96 while Craig followed in second-place with a time of 3:45.55. Murphy and Michael DeRocco took the top two spots in the 50 freestyles, splashing in at times of 20.59 and 21.02, respectively. Morrell won the 200 I.M. in 1:55.52, and Stephen Fortney won the 100 I.M. in 53.04.

On Jan. 18, the Vols suffered their first loss of the season to the No. 7 Indiana Hoosiers. The team kept up with the Hoosiers until just before the three-meter diving break when Indiana pulled away to a 166-134 victory. Muscari, Ryan Rincon and Davis began the day by taking the third-fifth spots on the one-meter boards with scores of 316.95, 284.78 and 260.56, respectively. Seniors stepped up the pace starting with the 200 butterfly as Wolfe won the event by over three seconds, earning an official time of 1:49.61. Immediately following, senior teammate Alesi topped the field in the 50 freestyle with a time of 20.41. Underclassman DeRocco aided the effort with a third-place finish in the event (21.02).

Tennessee fell to 6-2 on Jan. 26 after losing to the No. 9 Georgia Bulldogs, 160-140. Persson won the 200 freestyle in 1:36.75 while also triumphing in the 100 freestyle in 43.91. Wolfe, also a double-winner, won his best event, the 200 backstroke, in 1:46.14. He then went on to top the field in the 200 I.M. with a time of 1:48.93.

After losing two consecutive weekends, the then sixth-ranked Tennessee men's swimming and diving team ended a five-year losing streak to the Florida Gators on Feb. 2. Seniors Alesi, Rincon and Wolfe led the Volunteers to a 160-140 victory on senior day at the UT Student Aquatic Center. Persson followed the 1000 freestyle with a win in the 200 freestyle, clocking in at a season-best 1:35.74. Junior Scott Wherry came in third-place at 1:39.85. Alesi also shined again as he went on to triumph in the 50 freestyle at 20.56. However, the surprise of the meet came when sophomore Jordan Walters placed second with his best collegiate time of 20.80. Muscari won the one- and three- meter diving competitions. Wolfe took second-place in the 200 I.M. against two of Florida's world class swimmers, Bradley Ally and Clark Burckle. Morrell, Persson, Murphy and Alesi capped off the day with a 2:58.98 first-place finish in the 400 freestyle relay.

Tennessee traveled to Tuscaloosa, Ala., for the SEC Championships which lasted Feb. 20-22. The Vols took third-place after finishing fourth the previous year. Morrell, Persson, Thirlwell and Wolfe made up the 800 freestyle relay that topped the previous school record set in 2006. The Vols splashed into first-place over Florida with an NCAA A-Cut time of 6:19.18, which easily surpassed the former record of 6:23.02. In the 200 I.M., Morrell swam to a third-place finish with a time 1:46.10 and Thirlwell to fourth with a time of 1:46.62. Wolfe raced to a lifetime best in the 100 backstroke when he won his first SEC Championships with a time of 47.26. In the mile freestyle, Sanders ended the race ninth in 15:14.84. Jones and Winchell took 12th- and 19th- places, respectively. Jones timed in at 15:20.49 and Winchell at 15:46.29. The Vols ended the meet with a second-place 400 freestyle relay. Morrell, Persson, DeRocco and Murphy splashed in at 2:53.30.

The NCAA Championships were held March 27-29 in Federal Way, Wash. In the 200 freestyle relay, Morrell, Persson, Alesi and Murphy swam to a fifth-place All-America finish in 1:17.72. The 400 medley relay, consisting of Wolfe, Murphy, Alesi and Persson, earned another All-America finish in sixth-place at 3:08.26. Persson, Morrell, Thirlwell and Wolfe teamed up for the bronze finish in the 800 freestyle relay and tapped the wall at 6:20.61. Wolfe, Murphy, Alesi and DeRocco made up the 10th-place 200 medley relay, clocking in at 1:26.50. Wolfe received an Honorable Mention All-America award in the 100 backstroke as he finished 15th at 47.83. Murphy took the 10-spot in the 100 breaststroke with a personal-best time of 53.47. Persson took fifth in 100 freestyle in 42.50 after breaking the school record three times in the event this weekend. The 400 freestyle ended the championships and Morrell, Persson, Alesi and Murphy also earned sixth-place by finishing in 2:52.04.

Vols Inaugurate AJIAC

Construction of the Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center began Oct. 15, 2005. The $24.3 million complex bears the name of Cleveland, Tenn., businessman Allan Jones, who provided a $4 million challenge gift towards the construction of the new state-of-the-art facility. Over 50 former swimmers, divers and their families also made significant contributions in excess of $450,000 to make the AJIAC a reality along with a total of 872 donors. Private support for the swimming and diving program is a great need in underwriting the swim program. The STEP UP campaign for UT Athletic Facilities was a $48.61 million facility campaign that began in April 2001 and has continued to be a driving force in upgrading current facilities and powering the need for new facilities.

The AJIAC, located adjacent to the existing Student Aquatic Center, is a first-class complex capable of hosting the Southeastern Conference and NCAA Championships, as well as national and international events. The location of the new aquatic center gives the Tennessee swimmers and divers the luxury of training at one of the few universities in the country that has three full-size 50-meter pools within 200 feet of each other.

"To have one complex that includes one outdoor 50-meter pool, an indoor 50-meter pool and the new 50-meter competition pool, in our opinion, gives Tennessee the leading aquatic facility in America," said Tennessee men's head coach John Trembley. "This in itself is spectacular. But the real measure is the amount of support the athletic department and the community are giving to Tennessee's swimming and diving programs."

A separate competition diving well features five platforms with heights varying from one to ten meters. Also, there are three one- and three-meter springboards. Other amenities include permanent seating for 1,800 spectators with a spacious deck area to accommodate up to 2,000 additional individuals, teams and other personnel comfortably during meets.

Also included in the new facility are a weight room, training room, and the University of Tennessee Swimming and Diving Hall of Fame. The complex is clearly one of the finest collegiate swimming and diving facilities in the country.

Contributors to the AJIAC include these former swimmers, parents and other extended aquatic family members.

The 1972 freshman class went undefeated and took four straight SEC crowns.

After finishing in the nation's top four in each of the previous six years, the Tennessee Volunteers finally brought home the NCAA swimming and diving title in 1978.

The Vols dominated the 55th annual NCAA Championships held in Long Beach, Calif., piling up 307 points to 185 for SEC rival Auburn. Tennessee took a 24-point lead on the first day of competition and was never seriously challenged on the way to victory. Tennessee became the first team from the South to win the NCAA swimming and diving title.

While the sprint freestylers were the strength of the Volunteers, UT scored points in 16 of the 18 events that were contested.

The Vols were led by Andy Coan, who earned individual national championships in the 50 and 100 freestyle races. Coan was the meet's high scorer with 61.5 points. For his efforts, Coan was named Outstanding Swimmer at the Championships.

"What helped me most ... was realizing that I was on a team that probably worked harder than anybody else in the country," Coan said. "We don't stop until the meet is over, regardless of whether we reach our goal."

Sophomore Marc Foreman was UT's second-leading scorer with 43.5 points and captain Bob Sells was third with 41.5 points. John Newton, Kent Martin and Gary Faykes also had impressive showings for the Volunteers.

"It was all a matter of hard work," Sells said. "That was the story of our whole season."

The squad shaved coach Ray Bussard's head after returning to the Student Aquatic Center and tossed many of those on hand into the pool.

"This is a once-in-a-lifetime thing for these kids," Bussard said. "They'll be able someday to tell their kids what they did here. At Tennessee we say that winning is living."

"Our championship rings have 'triple A-bar-zero' on them," Bussard said. "That comes from General Patton. It means we'll meet you any place, any way, anytime, bar nothing."

SEC in the NCAA Championships

The SEC has had eight NCAA men's champions:
(1978 by Tennessee, 1983 & 1985 by Florida, 1997, 1999, 2003, 2004 & 2005 by Auburn)

2005 marked the 36th consecutive year that the SEC had at least one team in the top 10 at the NCAA Championships.

Did You Know?

*Gabi Chereches and Ricky Busquets are two of only three UT swimmers and divers to win the Commissioner's Trophy twice.

*Bill Ferry, Jim Kennedy and Jeremy Linn are three of only five SEC swimmers and divers to win the same event four straight years.

*From 1972 to 1979, Tennessee finished among the top four at the NCAAs.

*Tennessee has not finished outside of the top 25 since 1969, the second year of the program's existence.

Tennessee has won 147 individual Southeastern Conference titles and 43 relay titles. Sixty-two different Volunteers have won individual conference championships. Billy King, a diver, was the first Volunteer to win an SEC crown when he captured the one-meter diving championship in 1941 and 1942. After the program was revived in 1968, Tennessee proved significantly more successful at placing athletes atop the medal stand at conference meets. In 1968, Bill Ferry, a diver, became the first Volunteer of the modern era to win conference championships. The Vols also won the 400 medley relay in 1968.

In 1973, the Vols won 14 conference titles, the most ever by a UT squad. Three Vols, Bill Ferry, Jim Kennedy and Jeremy Linn are among five SEC athletes to win the same event four seasons in a row. The longest streak of wins came in the 400 freestyle relay as UT won the event for 10 years. The most successful event for the Vols is the 100 backstroke. UT has claimed the 100 back title 16 times, with seven coming from the Gilliam family. The Gilliam family won 20 total SEC crowns.

Since David Edgar won Tennessee's first NCAA titles in 1970, a total of 14 athletes have captured 36 individual NCAA gold medals. Edgar won both the 50 and 100 freestyles in 1970 and repeated the feat in 1971 and 1972. Edgar passed the torch to John Trembley, who did Edgar one better by winning three NCAA titles in one meet. The future coach also won both relay races he entered at the 1973 NCAA Championships, an accomplishment not equaled before or since by a Vol.

Trembley went on to win a pair of titles in 1974 as well. Between Edgar and Trembley, Tennessee won five straight 50 freestyle titles from 1970-74. Lee Engstrand won the 400 individual medley title in 1975 and was one of three Vols to claim an NCAA title in 1976. Jim Kennedy became the first Vol diver to strike NCAA gold that season, and future Olympic gold medal winner Matt Vogel finished first in the 100 butterfly as a portent of things to come.

In 1977 the Vols returned in style to the top of the platform as Andy Coan led the Tennessee national championship effort with victories in the 50 and 100 freestyles. A strong sprint corps enabled the Vols to run away with the 1978 400 freestyle relay team title. Coan picked up a pair of titles in 1979, winning the 100 and 200 freestyles and finished his career with a second 50 freestyle title in 1980.

The return of John Trembley to UT as head coach marked a revival in the Tennessee program. Under the tutelage of a former NCAA champion, the orange and white immediately returned to the NCAA medal stand. Melvin Stewart broke a long NCAA title drought for UT in 1989 with a 200 butterfly gold. He repeated his feat in 1991. Tripp Schwenk won the 1993 200 backstroke title and barely missed in the 100-yard event.

Evan Stewart won three-meter diving titles in 1994 and 1995, cementing UT's status as a national diving power. Ricky Busquets joined the long line of great UT sprinters when he won the NCAA 100 freestyle title in 1996. Teammate Jeremy Linn won the first of four breaststroke titles that season and the pair teamed up to give the Vols a powerful medley relay that won both the 200 and 400 medley relays. Linn won both the 100 and 200 breaststroke events in 1997 and won the 100 breaststroke for the third straight time in 1998. Michael Gilliam captured the 100 backstroke title in 1999 and won the event again in 2001.

Phillip Jones captured the 3-meter crown in 2003 to keep a great tradition of Vol divers alive. Jones, who finished third in 2002, scored a lifetime-best 649.70 points to outdistance himself from Kentucky's Clayton Moss, who scored 646.75 points.

In 2004, Jevon Tarantino chalked up the 1-meter title to give the Vols NCAA champion divers in consecutive years. Tarantino bested a field that included teammate Jones, who finished fourth, with a top score of 388.65.

International Tradition Continues

The Olympic exploits of Vol swimmers through the years are indeed one of the cornerstones of UT's grand swimming tradition.

Tennessee's success on the international scene is clearly outlined by the presence of at least one Volunteer athlete or coach on every U.S. Olympic Swim Team from 1972-2008. Others have seen service as part of teams from around the globe, faring well in the rugged international waters and enhancing Tennessee's already lengthy Olympic tradition.

In 2008, three Vol swimmers and one diver competed in the Beijing Olympic Games. Breaststroker Andrew Bree competed in his second Olympiad representing Ireland while diver Jevon Tarantino and swimmers Octavio Alesi and Jonas Persson all saw their first Olympic competition. Tarantino represented the United States in the three-meter synchronized diving event, Alesi swam the 100 butterfly for his home country Venezuela and returning senior Jonas Persson was a part of Sweden's 4x100 medley relay team.

After missing the 2004 games because of a leg injury, Andrew Bree, a 2004 UT grad, swam the 100-meter breaststroke in 2008. The Northern Ireland-native placed second then first in his first two heats before finishing seventh in the semifinals.

After graduating from UT in 2008, Alesi went on to finish seventh in the 100-meter butterfly for Venezuela.

Returning Vol All-America Persson made it to the semifinals in the 100-meter freestyle before swimming the anchor-leg on Sweden's 4x100 medley relay team that placed fifth in the semifinals.

Jevon Tarantino and his partner Chris Colwill placed fourth in the three-meter synchronized diving competition.

All told, UT swimmers and divers have returned with seven Olympic gold medals, two silvers and a bronze since the program earned its first medal in 1972. Vols have climbed the medal platform in five of the last seven Olympiads.

The 1996 Atlanta Games provided a benchmark in the Olympic history of Tennessee swimming, as six Volunteers participated in nine events and picked up two gold medals and two silver medals against the toughest international competition. It was the most medals the Volunteers have earned in any one Summer Games.

Tennessee Olympic tradition is one of the Vols' proudest accomplishments and sets UT apart from many other programs. As the Big Orange continue to build one of the most elite programs in the United States, international success will accompany the program's successes in the U.S. Tennessee can surely look forward to seeing familiar faces in the 2012 Olympic Games.

In addition to success in Olympic waters, numerous Tennessee swimmers and divers also have competed in international meets throughout the world.

These efforts in international competition have been equally fruitful. Among those who have competed in international meets, seven have earned the title of world champion.

Melvin Stewart, who competed for the Vols in 1988-90, claimed a number of world championships during his career. Most impressive was his performance at the 1990 World Championships in Perth, Australia. Entering the 200-meter butterfly with a number one world ranking in that event, the Fort Mill, S.C., native turned in a world-record time of 1:55.69. Stewart also struck gold at the 1986, 1990 and 1994 Goodwill Games. In the 1990 edition, he set the Goodwill Games record in the 200 butterfly (1:57.05) and was a member of the champion 800-meter freestyle team.

Evan Stewart, a native of Harare, Zimbabwe, who completed his career at UT in 1997, is a veteran of many international competitions. His most impressive victory came at the 1994 World Championships in Rome. As the youngest of 37 competitors, Stewart claimed gold in the one-meter diving competition with a score of 382.14. The two-time NCAA champion added another pair of international victories by winning both the one-meter and three-meter diving competitions at the All-Africa Games in 1995. Most recently, Stewart won the gold medal in three-meter diving at the 2000 Commonwealth Games in Malaysia.

Tripp Schwenk, a 1996 Olympic gold and silver medalist, had a number of international competitions that helped him prepare for his performance at the Atlanta games. Schwenk won the 200 backstroke at the 1991 World University Games as well as both the 100- and 200-meter backstroke events at the 1993 Short course World Championships. Additionally, Schwenk has contributed to three world champion efforts in the 400 medley relay.

Tennessee Swimming From the Beginning

The University of Tennessee swimming and diving program boasts a tremendously strong tradition that is both colorful and worth recounting. The perennial national powerhouse that competes for conference and national titles on a yearly basis finds its somewhat humble roots in the not too distant past.

After an unremarkable period of swimming and diving competition from 1934-1959, the program was vacated from 1960-67. In order to compete for the SEC All-Sports Trophy, UT took steps to bring swimming and diving back to Knoxville. To reinstitute the program, Tennessee needed a top flight facility. In 1967, the Student Aquatic Center was completed, giving the Vols one of the best facilities in the country.

The Vols would also need a coach to head the program and would soon learn first hand that heroes often come from the most unlikely places. After being picked over for the UT head track and field coaching job and the post of Aquatics Director and Swimming Coach, Ray Bussard was finally hired upon applying for the second time. To those who were observing the genesis of the program, it must have seemed strange to place the program in the hands of a man whose experience as swimming coach was limited to summer recreation programs.

Finally, the Vols needed athletes. Or, as former Athletics Director Bob Woodruff said, "the first thing you have to do in swimming is get yourself some fish." Faithfully following the words of his boss, Bussard brought in the fish -- 22 freshmen, including a pair of high school All-Americans.

No one could have expected the success that was realized in that first season with an inexperienced coach and a team full of freshmen. Bussard led his squad to a 9-1 dual-meet mark and a second-place finish in the Southeastern Conference in 1968. Bill Ferry and Steve Gilliam claimed conference titles in three-meter diving and the 100 backstroke, respectively.

The second season brought more success for the Vols, who broke Florida's 13-year stranglehold on the SEC Championship by taking the team title after a 13-1 dual-meet record. The Vols also made their first appearance at the NCAA Championships with Jim Baer (100 breast) and David Edgar (50 freestyle) becoming the first Vol All-Americans. The Vols also won the SEC All-Sports Trophy for good measure.

The third edition of UT swimming and diving program continued to make waves in the world of swimming in 1970. The Vols recorded their first dual-meet victories over Florida and Alabama on their way to a 10-0 season. Edgar broke the American record in the 50 freestyle with a swim of 20.5 versus Navy. Edgar went on to win the NCAA championship in both the 50 and 100 freestyles as the Vols claimed the first of 10 straight top-10 NCAA finishes.

In 1971, the Vols continued their climb toward the top. The Vols finished sixth at the NCAA Championships with Edgar again taking the 50 and 100 freestyle national championships. Edgar's American record in the 50 freestyle was tied by UT freshman John Trembley, but the elder Vol was able to lower the record to 20.2 at the SEC Championships. UT also scored a historic and dramatic victory over Coach Ray Bussard with prized pupil David Edgar.

Southern Methodist. With Sports Illustrated watching, the Vols handed SMU its first home loss in 11 years. The national sports publication went on to describe the dramatic victory, proclaim Edgar the "Fastest Man Afloat" and detail Bussard's unique approach to coaching a swim team.

The Vols enjoyed another first in the 1972 season as Edgar represented UT on the U.S. Olympic squad and brought back the school's first Olympic gold medal with his world record-setting victory in the 400 freestyle relay.

The year 1973 was a banner season for the Vols and for junior Trembley. Tennessee played host to both the SEC and NCAA championships. The Vols claimed the first of seven consecutive conference titles and finished as the runner-up at the NCAA meet. Trembley set an NCAA record by winning five first-place NCAA medals during the meet and compiling a record 64 points. Trembley won the national championship in the 50 freestyle, 100 freestyle and the 100 butterfly while anchoring UT's American record-setting 400 free relay and racing on the victorious 400 medley relay team.

After winning the first SEC championship in 1969, the Vols won the conference crown again in 1972, beginning a string of seven consecutive SEC titles culminating with a national championship in 1978, the first for an SEC team.

Coach Bussard retired in 1988 with a career dual-meet record of 252-20 and a winning percentage of .926.

From a meager beginning, the Vols reached the pinnacle of collegiate success. Today, the Vols continue to battle for top conference and national honors on a yearly basis. In the program's storied history, Tennessee swimmers and divers have claimed 174 individual conference titles and 41 individual national crowns in addition to countless All-America honors for its swimmers.

School Colors

The bright orange uniforms that adorn Tennessee's athletic teams, as well as the legions of fans that follow them wherever they may travel, are as recognizable as any in college sports.

The colors orange and white were selected by Charles Moore, a member of the first football team in 1891, and later were approved by a vote of the student body. The colors were those of the common American daisy that grew in profusion on The Hill.

Home Water

Another tradition that has proven to be a favorite of Tennessee fans is the ritual that takes place prior to away dual and championship meets. Prior to the opening event, a Tennessee swimmer will pour a bottle of water from the home pool into the enemy waters. The tradition, started by coach Ray Bussard, has been known to excite both fans and foes alike. During the 2008-09 season, senior Jimmy Dabney officially made the Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center the new home of the Vols when he emptied a container of water from the old Student Aquatic Center into the new pool.

Coonskin Caps

The coonskin caps proudly worn by Tennessee swimming and diving teams debuted in 1971.

Legendary head coach Ray Bussard took his undefeated squad to Dallas, Texas, to meet undefeated Southern Methodist. Prior to leaving the visiting locker room to face a hostile crowd in excess of 2,000, Bussard gave his team a history lesson about Tennessee, Texans, the Alamo and Davy Crockett. He then opened a box of coonskin caps and distributed them to the team. Senior All-America Jim Baer took the lead by slapping a coonskin on his head and letting out a yell. Inspired, the Vols went out and handed SMU its first home loss since 1960.

Now the coonskin cap is worn by UT teams that earn the right by performing in a manner worthy of being called a "team."

The Smokey Boat Race

Rocky Top

Felice and Boudleaux Bryant's "Rocky Top"- written in 10 minutes at the Gatlinburg Inn in 1967- has captured the fancy of Vols fans everywhere and is a much-requested and much-played song at UT sporting events. First performed as part of a halftime country music show at the 1972 Tennessee-Alabama game, the song attracted so much attention and is so beloved that long-time band director W.J. Julian said that not playing it would cause a mutiny among Vol fans.

Marketing

Often it's the little things that go unnoticed. Fans who attend Tennessee Swimming and Diving meets do so to support the Vols and observe quality competition among the elite collegiate athletes. The Marketing Department also wants the fans to have a little fun.

The marketing staff arrives long before the first fan. Staff members are constantly hustling around the pool deck, ensuring music is played during warm-ups and replenishing the schedule posters and event itineraries in the Student Aquatic Center lobby. The staff coordinates with the PA announcer, video board controller, head coaches and meet officials to make sure all constituents are aware of the marketing activities and promotional contests. Each meet is scripted by the Marketing Department. It all begins with a meet format and coordinating PA script that includes team introductions, upcoming events and sponsor "thank-yous." The marketing staff's goals are to put fans in the stands and entertain them while creating a winning edge, or home pool advantage, for the Aqua Vols.

In addition to placing newspaper ads and posting fliers, the marketing staff creates fun. Promotions that take place during a typical Tennessee meet include the lucky duck pool, remote controlled boat races and t-shirt distribution. Seven children are chosen to fish a lucky duck out of the pool with a fishing net. Each duck has a number that is assigned to a specific prize. Prizes include Tennessee swimming and diving t-shirts, goggles, basketball tickets, movie passes and coupons redeemable at Knoxville-area restaurants. A second popular promotion has been the boat races. Two contestants are handed the controls to racing boats. The first contestant to successfully navigate their boat down and back wins dinner for two. The races are always a fan and athlete favorite. T-shirts are thrown into the stands every time a Tennessee Vol wins an event. Another giveaway in high demand is the Sea Ray beach towel that is available at a select meet each season. For the fourth straight season, Smokey, the beloved UT mascot, joins in on the fun by participating in a revamped boat race. Smokey will take the helm of one raft boat and one contestant will man the other in what has become another fan favorite. The first dog, or Vol fan, to reach the finish line wins!

The 1996 SEC Championship team is proudly wearing its hard-earned coonskin caps as it is honored before a crowd in excess of 100,000 at a UT football game.

Mt. LeConte Hike

The weekend of the Tennessee-Florida football game, the swim team runs the Mount LeConte Trail in Great Smokey Mountain National Park. The peak of the trail is 6,593 feet above sea level and is the third highest point in the park. Former swimmer Jason Baxter holds the record for the fastest time up the mountain- one hour and thirty seconds.

Aquatic Center Era Ending with Construction of Allan Jones Center

During its 41-year history, the University of Tennessee's Student Aquatic Center has gained a reputation as one of the nation's most comprehensive training facilities. In fact, the Aquatic Center has played host to no fewer than nine major regional or national events since its completion in 1967.

The Student Aquatic Center has hosted six Southeastern Conference Championships as well as the 1973 NCAA Championships and the ground-breaking dual meet between the United States and the Soviet Union in 1982.

UT's Student Aquatic Center played host to the 1973 NCAA Championships.

In addition, the SAC housed U.S. Olympic training in 1972, 1980 and 1996. An enthusiastic crowd numbering in the thousands turned out in 1996 for an open workout, as the U.S. men's and women's Olympic squads prepared for their excursion to Atlanta.

"The Site Selection Committee of the Olympic International Division reviewed five prospective sites for 1996 Olympic training," UT head coach John Trembley said. "On the basis of environment, total facilities and proximity to Atlanta, the University of Tennessee and the Student Aquatic Center received the bid to play host to the Olympic team as it prepared for 1996."

The facility added to its rich and storied championship history in 2006 when the SEC Swimming and Diving Championships visited for the last time before the Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center will be completed. Tennessee put on one of its best displays in several seasons on the way to a league title. Previous to 2006, the facility last hosted Southeastern Conference competition in 1996.

In addition to possessing excellent overall facilities, the Aquatic Center has provided the Volunteers with a "home pool advantage" that can be matched by few venues in college athletics. Tennessee hammered out 41 consecutive victories at home from Jan. 16, 1988, until a heated dual-meet with Texas on Nov. 22, 1997. During that time, five consecutive classes left Knoxville with a spotless home record.

"It's particularly nice to have seniors leave Tennessee never having tasted defeat at home," Trembley said. "That's become a tradition and it's been a source of pride for the program for many years."

Underscoring UT's prolific home success is the fact that the loss to Texas was the first Trembley has experienced in 19 seasons at the Student Aquatic Center. Trembley, who was an All-America swimmer with the Vols from 1971-74, served as an assistant coach from 1975-79 and has been in charge of the Vol swimmers since the fall of 1988.

Completed in 1967 at a cost of $1.7 million, the Student Aquatic Center was paid for entirely by money from student activities and service fees. In addition to being home of the Vols and Lady Vols swimming and diving teams, the center serves as a recreational area for students and faculty of the University.

The history and tradition of Tennessee swimming and diving continues just one block away now that the new state-of-the-art Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center is completed.

The AJIAC, which is located adjacent to the existing Student Aquatic Center, is a first-class complex capable of hosting the Southeastern Conference and NCAA Championships, as well as national and international events. The location of the new aquatic center gives the Tennessee swimmers and divers the luxury of training at one of the few universities in the country that has three full-size 50-meter pools within 200 feet of each other.

Construction of the Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center began Oct. 15, 2005. The $24.3 million complex bears the name of Cleveland, Tenn., businessman Allan Jones, who provided a $4 million challenge gift towards the construction of the new state-of-the-art facility. Over 50 former swimmers, divers and their families also made significant contributions in excess of $450,000 to make the AJIAC a reality along with a total of 872 donors. Private support for the swimming and diving program is a great need in underwriting the program.

A separate competition diving well features five platforms with heights varying from one to ten meters. Also, there are three one- and three-meter springboards. Other amenities include permanent seating for 1,800 spectators with a spacious deck area that can accommodate up to 2,000 additional individuals, teams and other personnel comfortably during meets.

Also included in the new facility are a weight room, training room, and the University of Tennessee Swimming and Diving Hall of Fame. The complex is clearly one of the finest collegiate swimming and diving facilities in the country.

The AJIAC, which is located adjacent to the existing Student Aquatic Center, is a first-class complex capable of hosting the Southeastern Conference and NCAA Championships.

Under the direction of former Athletics Director Doug Dickey, and current Athletics Director Mike Hamilton, the University of Tennessee's mammoth facilities construction and renovation program has given the University a total athletics environment second to none. From the current construction of the Allan Jones Intercollegiate Aquatic Center to the Neyland Stadium renovation, UT's commitment to its successful athletics programs is clearly communicated through its mission to provide Vol student-athletes with the very best in athletics training facilities.

The Neyland-Thompson Sports Center provides UT athletes with the finest strength and conditioning, dressing, health care, meeting and coaching facilities in the country. Completed in 1989 at a cost of $11 million, the expansive 120,000-square foot, two-level structure features practice, weight and training areas.

Thompson-Boling Arena

The 12,000-square foot Percy Strength Facility, located in the Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, ranks as one of the best in the country in terms of size while housing more than 48,000 pounds of weights and state-of-the-art equipment by David, Nautilus and 18 other companies.

The strength and conditioning facility has more than 140 training stations that have been custom designed and built to the specifications set by Head Strength and Conditioning Coach Johnny Long and his staff. Some of the equipment was specifically designed just for use at UT.

Percy Strength Facility

With a goal to provide each student-athlete with a well-rounded strength and conditioning program, computers tailor workouts to each specific position and sport.

The state-of-the-art training room includes separate taping and examination areas, plus the latest equipment for treating athletics injuries and a state-licensed pharmacy.

The Tim Kerin Training Facility, directed by Head Athletic Trainer Jason McVeigh, provides health care and wellness to each student-athlete. With an overall area of 14,000 square feet, the training room is equipped with the most modern health care and rehabilitation equipment. Considered one of the most functional facilities in the nation, it is capable of handling 25-30 student-athletes at a time. With separate taping, training, rehabilitation and hydrotherapy areas, confusion and excess traffic are eliminated.

The hydrotherapy room contains seven whirlpools, while the training and rehabilitation room has 17 examination stations along with stationary bikes, treadmills and exclusive Biodex and Cybex rehabilitation machines.

Another unique feature of UT's training room is a pharmacy within the facility. It is the only state-licensed facility in the country located in a training room.

Thornton Athletics Student Life Center

Tennessee's commitment to its student-athletes doesn't stop outside the competitive arena, however. UT can boast of top-notch academic support that can be rivaled by few programs in the land. Additionally, Thornton Academic Center, a $4 million facility with 25,000 square feet of space, is in operation. The impressive center houses a state-of-the-art computer facility, offices for directors and advisers, a career center, a writing laboratory, a special needs center and large and small tutoring rooms.

A Classroom Success Story

Vols Blend Academic, Athletic Excellence

Tennessee's success in the competitive pool is highly documented. In the school's long and storied history of swimming competition, the Vols have captured an NCAA title in 1978, 10 SEC championships, garnered All-America honors for untold numbers of its student-athletes and picked up a plethora of individual conference and national titles. While everyone is well aware of these measures of pool prowess, they may be astonished to find similar levels of success by Vols in the classroom. The Tennessee commitment to excellence extends from the pool to every phase of college life, including academics.

The 2003-04 season followed the pattern of 15 previous campaigns under John Trembley's direction as the Vols once again coupled academic and athletics success. Seven of UT's student-athletes who were named to the 2003 SEC Academic Honor Roll were members of the swim team. The athletes who achieved top academic honors included Tennessee's top pool performers as well as those athletes who serve in a supporting role. Leading the way for the Volunteers were seniors Jamie Graves and Evan Nylander.

Since 1989, when John Trembley assumed the head coaching duties, the Vols have placed more athletes on the SEC Academic Honor Roll (146) than any other institution in the conference.

The CoSIDA Academic All-America Teams program recognizes student-athletes who have succeeded on the field and in the classroom. Individuals are selected by votes from CoSIDA, the 1,800-member College Sports Information Directors of America. To be eligible, an athlete must be a varsity starter or key reserve and maintain a cumulative GPA of at least 3.20 on a scale of 4.00.

Tennessee's first CoSIDA Academic All-America was Zane DeWitz, who earned the honor for the 2001 season. Simpson was next to be named with his first team honor coming in 2002.

In 1999, seven Tennessee athletes competed in the NCAA Championships while carrying a GPA of 3.5 or higher. As a result, the Vols earned the highest team GPA of any team to finish among the top 25 at the NCAA Championships as they swam to a seventh-place national finish.

- ♦ Since 1990, the Vols have had at least six student-athletes each year named to the SEC Academic Honor Roll.
- ♦ Since the inception of the SEC Academic Honor Roll in 1984, Tennessee has had more selections than any other school (139).
- ♦ Zane DeWitz, Greg Simpson and Mike Burton were the only CoSIDA Academic All-Americans (First Team).

The Thornton Athletics Student Life Center, under the direction of the Provost, provides Tennessee student-athletes with the nation's best academic support.

With comprehensive services in advising, tutoring, counseling and management, UT's Office of Student Life supplies the Volunteer student-athlete with all the tools necessary to be successful in the classroom.

It is part of a national trend that focuses on a need for programs to develop student-athletes' potential to be well-rounded, well-educated individuals. This is to make sure the student-athlete enjoys a successful adjustment to university life and eventually realizes a positive academic experience through counseling, tutoring, study hall and special needs assistance.

Rows of plaques line the Thornton Center honoring Tennessee's Academic All-America and Academic All-SEC selections. This lends further evidence that the word "student" in student-athlete is not just for show at Tennessee.

The Thornton Athletics Student Life Center is dedicated in honor of John Thornton, his wife Ellen, and their family, in recognition of the commitment they made to the establishment of the building. Their family's generous gift funded construction of one of the most significant buildings in the University of Tennessee athletic complex. His gift to the Thornton Athletics Student Life Center project, an academic home for University of Tennessee student-athletes, reflects his belief that success starts with academics.

"The University of Tennessee has to do its best to provide the atmosphere and academic assistance to the young men and women who come to school here and participate in athletics," he said. A Blount County native, Thornton has built an impressive resume of business success and community service. A member of UT's Board of Trustees, Thornton and his family have served the University well over the years and his legacy will be reflected in the lives of each of the young student-athletes served within the Thornton Center.

Thornton Center Mission Statement

"The University of Tennessee and its Athletic Departments are committed to the academic success of each student-athlete. The mission of the Thornton Center is to provide the academic support, the educational programs and the learning environment in which all student-athletes have the opportunity to achieve their academic and personal goals. The Center also will encourage the student-athletes' participation in the many enriching opportunities available at the University and in the surrounding community."

Thornton Center Quick Facts

- ◆ The Thornton Athletics Student Life Center, completed in the spring of 2001, is the hub for all academic support and student life activities for Volunteer student-athletes.
- ◆ The Thornton Center houses two student rooms: the Peyton Manning Study Area, located on the main level, and the Lyle Finley Study Area, located on the second level. Each comfortably accommodates 60 students.
- ◆ The David L. Howard & Family Computer Lab provides up-to-date technological facilities for University of Tennessee student-athletes. The computer lab houses 48 computers, three laser printers and five scanners.

Eric Brey
Director of Thornton Athletics
Student Life Center

Eric Brey begins his third year as Director of the Thornton Athletics Student Life Center. He oversees the academic support and CHAMPS/Life Skills program for University of Tennessee student-athletes.

Prior to his current position, Brey was the Associate Athletic Director for Academics at the University of Wyoming from 2002 to 2005. His responsibilities included the oversight of the Office of Academic Support, monitoring both initial and continuing eligibility, campus relations and game day operations. Prior to his position at Wyoming, Brey served as the Assistant Director for Academics and Eligibility at the University of Colorado from 2000 - 2002 and Assistant Director for the Achievement Center for Intercollegiate Athletics at Southwest Missouri State University from 1996 - 2000. While working on his graduate degree, he was an Athletics Intern at the University of Kansas working with a variety of offices within the department.

Brey actively works with the National Association for Academic Advisors for Athletics, Division 1A Athletic Directors Association's CHAMPS program and the NCAA Educational Services office.

Brey earned both his degrees, bachelor's (1994) and master's (1996), from the University of Kansas. He and his wife, Jana, have one son, Jacob.

Academic Advising

The advisors of the the Office of Student Life provide in-depth knowledge of the NCAA requirements for student-athletes, as well as the practical knowledge and experience from familiarity with the UT academic department and courses. Since student-athletes have a multitude of responsibilities, planning coursework can sometimes be more taxing than for other students. For this reason, student-athletes must plan their schedule with one of the advisors prior to each semester. However, student-athletes are welcome and encouraged to visit more often for informal assistance or planning during the semester.

Tutoring

Tutors are available for all subject matter during the day and evening hours. Group as well as individual sessions are available for student-athletes, depending on the nature of the course. A proactive approach is taken to tutoring in which the student-athletes are encouraged to begin early with an organized plan for achieving tasks. Assistance is offered throughout the entire process, from researching topics at the library to efficient note taking during class. An experienced tutor's guidance can enhance the content of a course while it also makes reviewing and studying for specific exams more productive and effective.

Mentoring

Incoming student-athletes can take advantage of the UT mentoring program in which they are assigned a student who is more familiar with the campus and the day-to-day intricacies of college life. This is beneficial in terms of making the transition to college life and helping the student-athlete achieve balance in his personal goals. Since these mentors have already demonstrated success in academics, they can serve as positive role models as well as a crucial part of the support system available to student-athletes.

Career Planning

All student-athletes are encouraged to use the resources of the career planning department with resume writing, interviewing and self-marketing being offered throughout the student-athlete's academic career. In addition, before the student-athlete is in position to seek employment, valuable assistance is offered to allow the student-athlete to accurately define his interests and unique skills.

Computer Lab

The Office of Student Life computer lab offers state-of-the-art computer services to the student-athlete. The lab is open throughout the day and most evening hours with staff assistance available during those times. IBM and Mac computers and laser printers are available as well as numerous software packages. The use of the Internet is encouraged to communicate on campus and research various topics conveniently.

Dr. Earl Schliesman Dir. of Continuing Eligibility

Dr. Earl Schliesman serves as Director of Continuing Eligibility in Tennessee's Department of Student Life. A native of Wisconsin, he has served on the academic staff since 1985. Schliesman holds an undergraduate degree and a master's degree in English from the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse. Additionally, he earned a master's degree in physical education from Tennessee, where he also received his Ph.D. in sport psychology. Schliesman and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Aaron and Kristina.

Dr. Craig Wrisberg Sport Psychologist

Dr. Craig Wrisberg is a professor of Cultural Studies in Education at UT, and serves as the men's swimming and diving team's sports psychologist. He has been on the Tennessee faculty since 1977 and during that time has worked with athletes in both the men's and women's athletics departments. A native of St. Louis, Dr. Wrisberg has four degrees, including a Ph.D. in motor behavior from the University of Michigan, and is certified through the Association for the Advancement of Applied Sport Psychology.

Brooke Richardson Academic Counselor

Brooke has been an as an academic counselor here at the Thornton Center since October 2007. She received her undergraduate degree from Lynchburg College in Lynchburg, Va. in 2005 and her Masters degree from the University of Tennessee in 2007. A former student-athlete, she has had two years of previous experience working at the Thornton Center as a Graduate Assistant to the Academic Compliance Officer. Upon earning her graduate degree, she accepted a Director of Compliance position at the University of Louisiana-Monroe for a few months before returning to UT to accept her current position as the Academic Counselor to the Men's and Women's Swimming & Diving teams and Women's Soccer team.

UT's Special Needs Program

The Special Needs Program is a comprehensive academic support program that assists student-athletes with disabilities (physical, psychological and learning) or "at-risk" students in need of remediation skills. All student-athletes who have official disability diagnosis documentation from a psychologist, physician, audiologist or learning specialist are eligible to participate in the program.

The University of Tennessee does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, color, religion, national origin, age disability, or veteran status in provision of educational programs and services or employment opportunities and benefits. This policy extends to both employment by and admission to the University. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex or disability in the education programs and activities pursuant to the requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990. Inquiries and charges of violations concerning Title VI, Title XI, Section 504, the ADA, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) or any of the other above reference policies should be directed to the Affirmative Action Officer, 711E Andy Holt Tower, Knoxville, TN 37996-0174, telephone (865) 974-2243. Requests for accommodation of a disability should be directed to the ADA Coordinator at the Office of Human Resources Management, 600 Henley Street, Knoxville, TN 37996-4125, telephone (865) 974-5151.

The Volunteer Statue

The Spirit of the university youth and its ideal of service, the statue was cast and placed in Circle Park where it was unveiled on April 19, 1968. The Volunteer Creed, "One that beareth a torch, shadoweth oneself to give light to others," is etched into a plaque at the statue's base.

The Rock

Unearthed in the 1960s, the Rock soon became a canvas for student messages. For years, the university sandblasted away the messages but eventually deferred to students' artistic endeavors. It is the only place on campus where graffiti is legal.

The Strip

Cumberland Avenue was one of the original Knoxville streets surveyed and platted by Charles McClung in 1791. Through the years, the street has been home to filling stations, grocery stores, clothiers, restaurants, clubs, drug stores and other neighborhood enterprises. "The Strip," as it is known to UT students, serves an important role in the social lives of many students.

Orange and White

The school colors of orange and white date to April 12, 1889, when Charles Moore, president of UT Knoxville's athletic association, chose the colors for the first field day. His inspiration came from the orange and white daisies that grew profusely on the Hill. Students endorsed the colors in 1892.

The Hill

"The Hill," the original part of campus, is symbolic of higher education in Tennessee. UT, founded in downtown Knoxville in 1794 as Blount College, moved to "The Hill" in 1828 and quickly grew around it. The main part of UT's old campus stands on this rising bank above the north shore of the Tennessee River. Ayres Hall (seen above), built atop the Hill in 1919, holds a commanding view over the campus. Next to it is the oldest building on campus, South College Hall, built in 1872.
