Tennessee Administration

Interim President Joseph E. Johnson returns to the university he served for more than 40 years as instructor, administrator, and its 19th president.

Johnson began his UT career in 1958 as an instructor and research associate in political science and public administration. He left the university in 1960 to work in state government, serving as deputy commissioner of the department of finance and administration and later as executive assistant to Governor Buford Ellington.

He returned to UT in 1963 as executive assistant to President Andy Holt, a post he held for six years while also serving as vice president for institutional research. In 1970, he was named vice president of development and later the same year became chancellor of the university's health science center in Memphis.

Johnson assumed even greater development responsibilities in 1973, when he was named executive vice president. He spearheaded the most successful fundraising efforts in the university's history and played a significant role in elevating UT's annual giving program to the top ten among public universities.

When Johnson became president of the university in 1991, he had participated in an era of unprecedented growth at UT. His encyclopedic knowledge of the institution and personal acquaintance with most of its vast statewide population made him a leader uniquely equipped to guide the university into its third century.

Faced with the faltering economy of the early 1990s, Johnson worked to cut costs and reallocate resources. He focused on initiatives to serve students better, help the state's local governments and businesses, improve public education at every grade level, and to increase the university's efficiency.

As the university marked its bicentennial in 1994, Johnson announced the 21st Century Campaign, the most ambitious fundraising effort to date. Under his leadership, the campaign exceeded its $250 million goal by more than $180 million.

After retiring in 1999, Johnson continued to play an active role in development for UT. He has also been active in the Knoxville community, serving as chairman of Knoxville's Promise and on the boards of Home Federal Bank, the East Tennessee Foundation, the East Tennessee Diabetes Association and the Tennessee Research and Development Center.

He also serves a number of national organizations, including the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, the National Association of State Universities, and the National Association of State and College University Business Officers.

Johnson received the B.S. degree from Birmingham Southern College in Birmingham, Alabama. He received the M.A. and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Tennessee.

He and his wife, Pat, are the parents of two grown children, Kent and Kelly.

Director of Athletics Mike Hamilton

Mike Hamilton, an 11-year veteran of the athletics department, was named the school's seventh Director of Athletics on May 10, 2003. The announcement culminated a search process to replace the retiring Doug Dickey, who stepped down after 18 years in the position.

"This is not the end, but the beginning," Hamilton said that day. "Getting the job is not the ultimate goal. It's what you do with the job that matters. I want to be the best I can."

As he accepted the position, Hamilton said he felt "energized" and specifically referenced the positive reaction the announcement engendered.

"The thing that makes it special is the intense media and fan interest in the University of Tennessee," he said. "I've seen it in terms of the phone calls, e-mails and media attention I've received. It's been nothing short of phenomenal. I've received so much support from fans, donors, friends and peers from across the nation." He added that there had been hundreds of phone calls and other expressions of support.

Michael Edward Hamilton had been in the position of Senior Associate Director of Athletics for External Operations since September 2002 and has been on the UT staff since 1992.

He previously served as UT's Associate Director of Athletics for Development and Marketing. The Clemson graduate came to Tennessee from Wake Forest, where he was Assistant Director of Development.

"I take the legacy of University of Tennessee athletics very seriously, with names like Nathan Dougherty, Bob Neyland, Bob Woodruff, John Barnhill and Doug Dickey," Hamilton said. "It's a dream job for me."

In his former Senior Associate Athletics Director's post, the title carried full responsibility for UT's annual donors' program as well as all capital and planned giving. Gifts to the Volunteer Athletics Scholarship Fund have increased from $4 million a year prior to his arrival to almost $21 million in 2003. He assumed additional responsibilities in 2002-03 for men's basketball, baseball and all external operations.

Hamilton was honored in the spring of 1998 when the National Association of Athletic Development Directors named him National Fundraiser of the Year. The 40-year-old Hamilton, who grew up in Brevard, N.C., served as assistant director of the Deacon Club at Wake Forest before joining the Vols staff in 1992. He earlier had served as a graduate assistant in fund-raising at his alma mater.

"It's a very good day for the University of Tennessee," Dickey said at the May 10 announcement. "I'm pleased with the decision. I think he'll provide vibrant leadership for the department. He knows us. He's been here for 11 years and it's hard to find an enemy. Whatever he asks of me, I'll be available. He has all the ability and will be an excellent fit for the department."

Hamilton added, "I've always believed the University of Tennessee Athletics Director's job was one of the best positions in the nation. I appreciate the confidence the University has expressed by giving me this opportunity. When you enter any business, most people want to achieve at the highest level. I take the opportunity and challenge seriously."

Also on his mind these days are what he identifies as "five core values" that will guide his tenure as AD:

▷ Complying with NCAA and SEC rules;
▷ Competing for championships;
▷ Running a financially sound operation;
▷ Graduating student-athletes; and ▷ Continuing a pattern of service to the community and state, with the athletics department as a positive role model.

"We interviewed and evaluated Mike on the same basis as all the other candidates we measured for the UT assignment," Dr. Charles Knapp of the consulting firm Heidrick & Struggles said. "We recommended him without reservation as having all the attributes to be successful. Mike Hamilton really measures up well with the very best athletics directors in the country."

During his time in the development office at Tennessee, additions to the campus landscape have included: Neyland Stadium north end zone upper deck, east side sky boxes and JumboTron, Lindsey Nelson Stadium, Goodfriend Tennis Center, Thornton Athletics Student Life Center, renovations to Tom Black Track and the Tennessee Boat House.

"Collectively, I think Tennessee has the best coaches in the nation and an athletics department that's dedicated to supporting their endeavors," Hamilton continued. "We have an outstanding support base that gives us an opportunity to be successful on a national level. I certainly want to keep that tradition moving forward, even though I know there are challenges always in front of us to remain at the top.

"During the process of seeking a replacement for Coach Dickey, I'm certainly grateful for all the support I have received through a number of different avenues -- fans, alumni, the UT family. It always has been a goal of mine to become an athletics director at some period during my career. I dreamed of the possibility that it would be at Tennessee and this is a fulfillment of a goal that any athletics administrator would hope to obtain."

In addition to improving his management skills on the job, Hamilton also took advantage of planned programs like the Athletic Director's Institute in Dallas. The institute, sponsored by the Division I-A Athletic Director's Association, is a three-day seminar for associate and assistant athletics directors from Division I-A programs around the country who are being groomed to become athletics directors.

Hamilton and his wife, the former Elizabeth Merrill, also from Brevard, are parents of a 7-year-old daughter, Madison, and a 4-year-old son, Matthew.

Head Coach Phillip Fulmer

His team battered at mid-season by back-to-back defeats, Tennessee's Phillip Fulmer turned to his old standby, dedication to fundamental football, to right the program and carry the Vols to a top 10 finish in the national polls and the BCS standings.

They needed overtime to get past Alabama and struggled against undermanned Duke, but the Vols set the stage for a spectacular finishing flourish when they crossed swords with Miami at the Orange Bowl Nov. 8.

Earlier, after consecutive losses to Auburn and Georgia, Fulmer declined to throw in the sponge. "We can still accomplish a lot of things if we fix what's wrong and keep working at it," he told reporters at the time.

Fulmer's words were never more prophetic. He and his coaching staff bore down on the players, imploring them to "stay the course." They listened to the old warhorse, took a winning attitude to Miami and emerged with a season-salvaging 10-6 victory over the Hurricanes.

The Miami win, followed by Southeastern Conference decisions over Mississippi State, Vanderbilt and Kentucky, represented - many said - the best coaching job in Fulmer's 12-year career as the Vols head coach.

Of course, that's saying a lot considering the prosperity Tennessee has enjoyed since he took the reins in 1992. Pending the outcome of the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl, Fulmer's records stands at 113 victories against 27 losses for a percentage of .807, making him the second-ranking coach in college football. For coaches with 10 years minimum time on the job, he has the highest percentage of victories.

With a 6-2 mark in the Southeastern Conference, a league traditionally rated as peerless when it comes to the quality of football, Tennessee finished in a three-way tie for the Eastern Division title. A tie-breaking mechanism awarded the SEC championship game appearance to Georgia over Tennessee and Florida.

A win against Clemson on Jan. 2 at the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl would be Fulmer's 100th triumph in the past 10 years, a remarkable achievement against a schedule consistently rated among the toughest in the nation.

"None of these things would have happened without the dedicated players who love this university the same way I do," Fulmer said. "And certainly much of the credit belongs to our hard-working assistant coaches and to the fans who loyally support us."

Since Fulmer took over, more than 7 million fans have passed through the Neyland Stadium turnstiles. In 1998, Fulmer rewarded those supporters by guiding Tennessee to its sixth national championship with a perfect 13-0 record and a Tostitos Fiesta Bowl victory over Florida State.

The Vols participated in a bowl and completed a winning season in 2002 for a school-record 14th consecutive year. Then following the season, Fulmer was elected to serve as president of the influential American Football Coaches Association.

An accepted measure of a program's success, Tennessee's position in the national polls also has been a testimonial to Fulmer's sure hand at the helm. Under Fulmer, the Vols had a streak of 54 consecutive weeks ranked in the top 10.

UT has been in the national polls at game time for 124 of Fulmer's 140 games as head coach. The Vols have ended the season ranked in the top 10 six times since Fulmer took over as head coach, including a six top-10 finishes.

Fulmer's brilliant coaching record includes these accomplishments:

- Selection as National and SEC coach of the year in 1998.
- The first Tennessee team to post 13 victories in a single season, a record in 1998 that included an SEC championship and Tostitos Fiesta Bowl win for the national title.
- Ten Vols have earned first-team All-America honors, including defensive

FULMER 2003 AFCA PRESIDENT

Phillip Fulmer is leading the American Football Coaches Association in 2003 as president of the organization.

The Vols coach, who moved up from first vice-president, succeeded outgoing president Glen Mason of Minnesota.

"I'm obviously very excited about the opportunity," Fulmer said. "I'm particularly proud to be a part of the efforts we've made under Grant Teaff. A lot of work has been done and I'm looking forward to continuing it."

The AFCA, founded in 1922, has more than 8,000 members from all levels of the profession. According to its constitution, the AFCA was formed, in part, to "maintain the highest possible standards in football and the coaching profession," and to "provide a forum for the discussion and study of all matters pertaining to football and coaching."

In addition to Fulmer, 2003 AFCA officers are first vice-president Ken Hatfield of Rice, second vice-president Paul Pasqualoni of Syracuse and third vice-president Scot Dapp of Moravian.

Fulmer first was elected to the Board of Trustees in 1996 and is the second coach from Tennessee to serve as president of the AFCA, joining Johnny Majors (1990).

"It's a great honor," Fulmer said. "Through relationships with our athletes, including both personal and professional guidance, we do make a difference in their lives.

"Our strength and growth as an organization only gives us more tools to better lead our young men, not only on the football field but also toward much greater success in life. The young men who pass through our programs will be the husbands and fathers of tomorrow."

tackle and 2000 Outland Trophy award winner John Henderson, tailback Travis Stephens in 2001 and punter Dustin Colquitt in 2003.

•Twelve first-round NFL selections since 1993 and a total of 68 players selected in the draft since 1994 to lead all schools. The Vols had eight players selected in the 2003 NFL Draft to tie for top honors.

•Back-to-back SEC titles in 1997-98 and four Eastern Division crowns in the last seven years.

•A record of 59-16 over the last six years -- best mark in the SEC.

•A record of 45-5 from 1995-98, the most victories over a four-year span in school history.

•The Vols have ended the season ranked in the top 10 six times.

Fulmer's record becomes all the more remarkable because of the rugged gauntlet of opponents faced by the Vols. Tennessee's schedule is regularly among the toughest in the nation. In addition to the demanding SEC slate, the Vols stray far from home to meet such traditional national powerhouses as Miami, Notre Dame, Syracuse and UCLA.

Tennessee has gone 35-21 against ranked competition under Fulmer.

Notching two straight SEC titles in 1997 and 1998 carried special meaning for Fulmer, who played in the offensive line for the Vols and then came back as an assistant coach before being promoted to head coach in 1992.

In the spring of 2000, Fulmer received one of the most prestigious and personally satisfying honors that come to men in the field of athletics. A blue-ribbon panel named Fulmer the second annual winner of the State Farm Eddie Robinson Coach of Distinction Award. Penn State's venerable Joe Paterno was the inaugural recipient.

The Winchester native served 13 years as a Vols assistant beginning in 1980 before becoming the 20th head football coach at Tennessee. The decision to elevate Fulmer occurred five seasons after he was appointed assistant head coach and three seasons after he became offensive coordinator.

During Fulmer's years as offensive coordinator, the Vols consistently broke team total offense records and were ranked one or two in the SEC. Records have fallen with even greater frequency since he became head coach.

Year after year with Fulmer as head coach, Tennessee continues to stand in the top ranks of college football for graduating players who go on to careers in the professional game. Since 1994, Tennessee ranks first in total players drafted with 68, and the Vols have had 12 NFL first-round selections since 1993.

The 2003 NFL Draft saw eight UT players drafted - tied for tops in the nation - including Eddie Moore, Kelley Washington and Jason Witten in the first three rounds.

Fulmer also is an avid civic booster and was named 2002 Outstanding Volunteer Fundraiser by the Smoky Mountain Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals. He serves on such boards of directors as Boys and Girls Clubs, American Football Coaches Association and Child and Family Services. He is the national spokesperson for the Jason Foundation Inc., and considers such experiences essential to the education process of UT football players.

"It helps the players become more accountable, more responsible," he said. "There are many good things that can be done. I think it's our responsibility to provide our players the opportunity for community service and community involvement."

In the spring of 2000, he was recipient of the Brotherhood/Sisterhood Award of the National Conference for Community and Justice. It was the most recent recognition of Fulmer's outstanding civic leadership, which now includes heading up the Phillip Fulmer Golf Tournament that has raised in excess of $100,000 each of the last three years for the Boys and Girls Clubs of Knoxville.

Three decades ago, Fulmer was a competent blocker on three UT teams that ended their seasons gracing holiday bowl extravaganzas.

As an offensive guard, Fulmer helped UT to a 30-5 record from 1969-71. The Vols captured the SEC championship with a 9-2 record in 1969, went 11-1 and won the Sugar Bowl in 1970, and finished as Liberty Bowl champions with a 10-2 record in 1971, a season that ended Fulmer's playing career.

He served as a team alternate captain his senior year before spending the following season as graduate student assistant. Fulmer served as linebacker coach and defensive coordinator for the Vols freshman team in 1973 before moving to Wichita State the following season.

He spent five years at Wichita State, where he coached the offensive line in 1974 and 1977-78 and served as linebacker coach in 1975-76. He followed those years with a one-season stint at Vanderbilt, serving as an aide to Commodores head coach George MacIntyre.

He spent five years at Wichita State, where he coached the offensive line in 1974 and 1977-78 and served as linebacker coach in 1975-76. He followed those years with a one-season stint at Vanderbilt.

Fulmer is married to the former Vicky Morey and has four children: Phillip Jr., Courtney, Brittany and Allison.

One of the nation's winningest active coaches, Phillip Fulmer guided the Vols to back-to-back SEC titles in 1997 and 1998 and led UT to a national championship in 1998. For his efforts, Fulmer was named national coach of the year by numerous sources, including the AFCA, in 1998. This year, he is serving as president of that same association.

Vols Thrive Under Fulmer -- One of Football's Top Coaches

Phillip Fulmer promised to take Tennessee to the next level and he has done exactly that, winning two SEC titles, appearing in the SEC title game three times and garnering the national championship in 1998. Each of his Tennessee teams has made it to bowl games and seven of his teams have won 10 or more, highlighted by a 13-0 season in 1998. There have been quarterbacks like Heath Shuler, Peyton Manning, Tee Martin and Casey Clausen, the ever-inspirational Al Wilson -- spiritual leader of the 1998 team -- and many others. The Vols reeled off an unprecedented seven wins in a row against Alabama starting in 1995, ended the 2001 regular season with a 34-32 win over Florida in Gainesville and began 2002 with a 45-17 win over Michigan at the Florida Citrus Bowl. In 2001, the Vols achieved a remarkable trifecta, winning at Alabama, Notre Dame and Florida, plus knocking off Michigan at a neutral site. For the record, Fulmer is part of six of the eight 11-win seasons in Vol history -- in 1970 as a player, in 1989 as an assistant and in 1995, 1997, 1998 and 2001 as head coach. Last year, he became one of the fastest coaches in history to reach the 100-victory plateau by accomplishing the feat in the eighth game of his 11th season of coaching. He remains the only active coach among the top 15 in all-time Division I-A winning percentage and holds a record of 113-27 (.807).

Assistant Coaches

John Chavis

Assistant Head Coach
Defensive Coordinator
Linebackers

John Chavis' tenure in Big Orange Country has evolved into the elite atmosphere reserved for the top achievers in his profession.

Promoted to defensive coordinator at Tennessee in 1995, Chavis has gained recognition as a defensive guru the old-fashioned way -- by building hard-nosed teams that have helped Phillip Fulmer's Vols squads rank among the stingiest in college football.

Following the national championship season of 1998, Chavis was named the SEC's outstanding linebacker coach. Tennessee's defense led the SEC in 1996 and ranked in the top three five of the past six years.

In addition to supervising linebackers and the overall defense, Chavis in 1999 was named assistant head coach.

Chavis has divided his responsibilities between the defensive line and the linebacker corps since returning to his alma mater 14 years ago. In 1989, Chavis spent his time with the defensive line. Then in 1990, he made the switch to linebacker coach. In recognition of Chavis' experience, technical knowledge and fighting temperament, Fulmer promoted him to defensive coordinator prior to the 1995 season.

Before coming to Tennessee, Chavis had been the defensive coordinator at Alabama A&M. His first taste of coaching came at UT as a graduate assistant in 1979.

Dan Brooks

Defensive Line

Dan Brooks' remarkable run of success as coach of the Tennessee defensive line continues into this his 10th season in Big Orange Country.

A measure of Phillip Fulmer's confidence in Brooks came after the 1998 season when he designated him to take on additional duties as the Vols' recruiting coordinator. Brooks has since passed along those responsibilities, but during his stint the Vols annually ranked among the nation's leaders in the recruiting wars.

His previous experience as a coach included stops at Florida and North Carolina. The North Carolina native still has the zest for football he experienced when he was given his first job at Western Carolina in 1975.

A graduate of Western Carolina, Brooks received a master's degree from Florida. He coached at Western Carolina, Kings Mountain (N.C.) High School and Florida before going to work for Mack Brown at North Carolina in 1988.

The 2000 Vols recorded an SEC-leading 50 sacks, a school record, and the 2001 unit again led the league in sacks with 34. The 1996 Vols posted another school mark with 83 tackles for lost yardage.

Brooks, after the 1998 national championship season at UT, was awarded recognition as the SEC's outstanding defensive line coach.

Randy Sanders

Offensive Coordinator
Quarterbacks

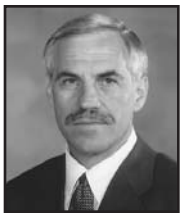

Randy Sanders is in his fifth season as Tennessee's offensive coordinator having achieved his goal of striking a healthy balance between running and passing the football.

At the same time, Sanders has seen quarterback Casey Clausen continue his ascension from rookie signal-caller to team leader at the core of an explosive and resourceful passing attack. Clausen stands No. 2 all-time on the Tennessee passing and total offense charts behind only Peyton Manning. Sanders, of course, takes extra pride in Clausen's performance since he has the added responsibility of working directly with the quarterbacks.

Sanders was named offensive coordinator after the 1998 season. His first game calling the offensive plays was against Florida State in the 1999 Tostitos Fiesta Bowl national championship game.

Sanders has held a variety of jobs on the Tennessee staff, including a couple of years as a graduate assistant before moving into a full-time position. Sanders' assignment with running backs starting in 1993 followed two seasons in which he worked as wide receivers coach.

Sanders was named a full-time assistant in 1991. Vols coaches had already observed him enough to set high expectations for his development. They had coached him and then watched his work for two more years as a volunteer coach on the UT staff.

Steve Caldwell

Defensive Ends
Special Teams

Steve Caldwell is in his ninth season on Phillip Fulmer's Tennessee football staff and has maintained the pressure at defensive end that has contributed to the Vols ranking among the league leaders in sack production.

Fulmer, who had worked with Caldwell when he was a graduate assistant coach on the Tennessee staff in 1990, brought him back before the start of the 1995 season.

Among Caldwell's most accomplished pupils was Will Overstreet, who not only finished his UT career with 19 sacks but also mirrored the coach's emphasis on studies by being named to the 2001 Academic All-America second team.

A dean's list student himself at Arkansas State, Caldwell played four years of football for the Indians as a defensive end and linebacker.

His first taste of coaching came from 1978-80 at his alma mater. From there, Caldwell moved on to Northwest Mississippi Community College, where he coached the offensive line for four seasons and was part of a national championship team in 1982.

Next he came back to Arkansas State, coaching linebackers under head coach Larry Lacewell during a notable period of success for the Indians.

Subsequent jobs took him to Tennessee, Pacific and Nevada.

Greg Adkins

Tight Ends/Offensive Line
Recruiting Coordinator

The newest member of Tennessee's football coaching staff is first-year assistant Greg Adkins, who accepted the assistant's position working with tight ends and the offensive line. Adkins also handles the responsibilities of recruiting coordinator.

He came to the Vols from Troy State, where he held similar duties under Larry Blakeney. Adkins' work with the offensive line helped the Trojans make the transition from Division I-AA. TSU went 4-8 in 2002, its first full year of Division I-A status after a 7-4 record in 2001.

Before coaching at Troy State, Adkins spent five years as an assistant at Georgia under Jim Donnan. He coached the Bulldogs' defensive line in 1996 and oversaw tight ends and the offensive line from 1997-2000. During his tenure in Athens, the Bulldogs posted a 40-19 record in five seasons and appeared in four bowl games. Two of those postseason contests were New Year's Day affairs.

A native of Cross Lanes, W.Va., Adkins arrived at Georgia in 1996 after spending 10 seasons at Marshall as a player and coach. He coached a variety of positions at Marshall, including offensive line, defensive tackles and tight ends. A coaching highlight while at Marshall was the team's 1992 NCAA Division I-AA national championship.

2003 UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE COACHING STAFF

Larry Slade

Defensive Backs

Larry Slade is in his fifth season on Phillip Fulmer's UT coaching staff and continues turning out some of the nation's best defensive secondary units.

Slade's 2000 and 2001 secondary units, aided and abetted by the rest of the defense, established school season records with 64 and 72 passes broken up, respectively. Last year, the Vols batted down 66 passes to just miss another school mark.

It continued a pattern of success that Slade has enjoyed in his 29 years in the coaching profession.

Slade is a native of Pelham, N.C., who twice was named All-West Virginia while playing guard at Shepherd in the early 1970s. He was named Little All-America honorable mention in 1971 and later inducted into the Shepherd College Hall of Fame. He received his degree in biology with a minor in English.

His coaching career began at his alma mater with a nine-year stay before subsequent stops at Richmond, Howard, Southern Illinois, Washington and Maryland.

His six-year tenure as secondary coach at Washington was highlighted by a national championship season in 1991, during which the Huskies ranked first in NCAA statistics for pass efficiency defense.

Jimmy Ray Stephens

Offensive Line

Tennessee's Jimmy Ray Stephens assumes command of the offensive line in only his second season on the Volunteer staff -- although it is a position with which he is quite familiar.

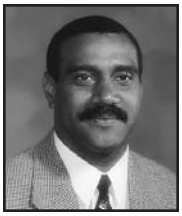

Prior to arriving in Knoxville, Stephens spent nine seasons coaching the Florida offensive line -- part of a high-powered offense that led to five SEC championships for the Gators.

Stephens himself sparkled both on the offensive line and at tight end during his playing career at Florida. He was a second-team All-SEC performer at center under Gators head coach Doug Dickey before making the move to tight end and earning second-team all-league honors there as well.

His most recent responsibility at Florida was as offensive line coach and run-game coordinator during the 2001 season. Prior to that, Stephens worked with the team's centers and guards and also coordinated the unit's pass protection.

The Eustis, Fla., native coached on the Gators' 1996 national championship team and helped Florida to nine January bowl games. During that span, Florida's offense was ranked among the nation's top 15 six times and its passing offense among the top 10 seven times.

Stephens rejoined the Gators staff in 1993 after a stellar high school coaching career that saw him compile a 63-7 mark.

Pat Washington

Receivers

Pat Washington, whose gifted receiving corps has been credited with much of the success of UT's traditionally strong passing attack, is in his ninth season on Phillip Fulmer's staff.

Washington's painstaking and effective coaching methods over the past eight seasons have strengthened UT's claim for recognition as Wide Receivers U. Donte' Stallworth, Cedric Wilson, Peerless Price, Marcus Nash and Joey Kent have been among the most celebrated pass-catchers under Washington's direction. In 1998, Washington received recognition as the outstanding receivers coach in the Southeastern Conference.

Before arriving at Tennessee in 1995, Washington coached running backs for one season at Baylor.

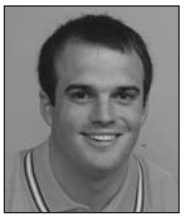

His duties at UT as receivers coach are more similar to his work at TCU in 1992 and 1993. There he directed the play of wide receivers and quarterbacks for the Horned Frogs. His coaching resume also includes three years at Louisiana-Lafayette in charge of receivers.

During the time he played quarterback at Auburn, from 1982-85, Washington did far more than hand the ball off to future Heisman Trophy winner and teammate Bo Jackson. In his junior and senior seasons, he led the Tigers to two Bowl games.

2003 UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE COACHING STAFF

Football Staff

Shane Beamer

Graduate Assistant Coach

Shane Beamer is in his third season as a graduate assistant football coach at Tennessee. He works with coach John Chavis and the Volunteers defense and special teams staff.

Beamer came to UT after one season at Georgia Tech (2000), where he worked with the Yellow Jackets offensive units.

He earned his bachelor's degree from Virginia Tech in 1999 and was the Hokies' starting long snapper for three seasons while also contributing at wide receiver. At Virginia Tech, Shane played on four bowl teams and three Big East Conference championship squads.

The Blacksburg, Va., native is the son of longtime Virginia Tech head football coach Frank Beamer.

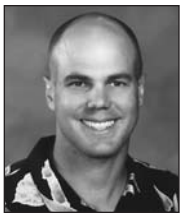

Marcus Satterfield

Graduate Assistant Coach

Marcus Satterfield is in his second season as a graduate assistant football coach at Tennessee. He assists the offensive and special teams units.

The Greenback native comes to the Vols after three years at UT-Chattanooga, where he worked with the wide receivers. Satterfield spent two seasons as graduate coach and the 2001 season as a full-time assistant coaching the receivers.

Satterfield played collegiately at East Tennessee State, where he was a three-year starter at receiver. He tallied 124 catches and 11 touchdowns during his four seasons for the Buccaneers. ETSU earned a spot in the Division I-AA playoffs in 1996, defeating Villanova in the opening round.

Scott Altizer

Director of High School Relations

Scott Altizer, a Furman University graduate, is employed by head coach Phillip Fulmer on the Tennessee football staff as Director of High School Relations.

A native of Radford, Va., who moved and attended high school in the East Tennessee borough of Morristown, Altizer has been a member of the Tennessee staff since 1994. While attending Furman, he played baseball for the Paladins and had a short professional career after graduating in 1993. He holds a master's degree from Tennessee.

Among Altizer's numerous duties within the Vols football program are organizing the annual Phillip Fulmer Football Camps. He also manages all official and unofficial on-campus visits by prospective football student-athletes and oversees the initial eligibility of Vol signees each year.

Gerald Harrison

Director of Community Relations

Gerald Harrison is in his second year in the position of director of community relations on the Tennessee football staff.

The Florence, S.C., native was hired following his graduation from UT in December 2001 and his responsibilities include all areas of philanthropy involving UT's football student-athletes.

During the last two years, the Go V.O.L.S. (Volunteering, Outstanding Leadership and Service) Program has led to more than 2,500 hours of community service by UT footballers. Volunteer student-athletes focus on such projects as the Boys and Girls Club and Habitat for Humanity.

Harrison played prep football for his father, Gerald Harrison Sr., at Darlington High School. He earned three letters at the center position and was named to the all-region team during his senior season of 1996.

Gerry Dickey

Assistant Athletics Director for Football Operations

Gerry Dickey returned to Phillip Fulmer's administrative staff in August 2003 in the position of Assistant Athletics Director for Football Operations.

Dickey returns to Knoxville from the University of Mississippi, where he served since February 2001 as assistant AD for football operations under head coach David Cutcliffe. He was hired by Ole Miss in December 1998 to serve as the director of football operations.

The Haven, Kan., native began his first stint with the Volunteers in 1993 while working toward his master's degree in sports administration. He served as a graduate assistant in football operations for one year until the completion of his degree in December 1994. During that time he assisted in coordinating and managing official and unofficial on-campus recruiting visits, the UT Coaches Clinic and the Phillip Fulmer Football Camp.

The following summer, Dickey was named UT's Coordinator of Academic Programs and served in that position until being named Associate Director of Student Life in July 1998. He provided academic counsel to Volunteer basketball and football student-athletes and directed the tutorial and study hall operations for student-athletes at Tennessee.

Dickey's duties at Tennessee will be similar to those he had at Mississippi, including oversight of the football program's administrative duties and management of team compliance issues along with the athletics department compliance office. In addition, he will direct all postseason planning and preparations, approve scholarships and distribution of funds and supervise and implement strategic planning with the head football coach and staff.

A graduate of Wichita State University, Dickey earned a bachelor's degree in business administration in December 1992.

Condredge Holloway

Assistant Athletics Director for Player Relations

To the delight of Tennessee fans everywhere, a former Vol so beloved during his playing days that his football deeds were put to music, returned to campus in 1998 as a sports administrator.

Five years later, Condredge Holloway still is the People's Choice, discharging player relations responsibilities on the Phillip Fulmer staff. The 49-year-old assistant athletics director is assigned to deal with various issues that arise in the conduct of a major college football program.

Regardless of the turns his career may take, Holloway always will be associated in the minds of UT fans with the razzle-dazzle offense he quarterbacked during his undergraduate days of the 1970s.

"Go Holloway" was the name of the ballad saluting his talents that echoed throughout Big Orange Country during Holloway's three seasons (1972-74) as the Vols signal-caller. And "go" he did. Nicknamed The Artful Dodger, Holloway became a master of improvising, packing excitement into every play whether it developed into a pass or a ground-gaining scramble.

Consistent with his brilliant sports career, Holloway has been the recipient of numerous honors paying tribute to his singular skills in both football and baseball. He has been inducted into the Canadian Football Hall of Fame, the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame and the UT Baseball Hall of Fame.

Other significant honors directed to Holloway include the Toronto Argonauts retiring his CFL jersey and the league naming him to the 125th Anniversary Team (1873-1998). In 1991, he was named the all-time quarterback at the end of the first century of UT football.

After leading Tennessee to three bowl appearances, Holloway went on to play 13 seasons in the CFL, passing for more than 25,000 yards in a career that took him to Ottawa, Toronto and British Columbia. He was named the league's MVP with the Toronto Argonauts in 1982.

Johnny Long

Head Strength and Conditioning Coach

Johnny Long was promoted in 2002 to the position of head strength and conditioning coach.

Long has used a solid teaching regimen to gradually climb the coaching ladder at UT. The former Olympic-caliber weightlifter began as a graduate assistant for the Vols conditioning staff in 1994, and then advanced to the position of assistant strength and conditioning coach two years later. He was named associate coach in 1999 before taking his current post.

Tennessee's emphasis on a strong fitness program is epitomized in Long, whose background in weight training underpinned his belief in the link between conditioning and athletics success. Long sets high goals for his charges but makes the standards attainable with realistic workout programs. He is credited by head coach Phillip Fulmer with making physical fitness a basic component of Volunteers football.

Roger Frazier

Equipment Manager

Equipment Manager Roger Frazier is responsible for all football equipment issue and maintenance, in addition to handling the purchasing and inventory control of all football game and practice gear. He also assists in new product development with Adidas.

Now in his 21st year with the Volunteers football program, the UT graduate began his career in 1978 as student manager before being named equipment manager in spring 1983. The equipment room was renamed the Roger Frazier and Max Parrott Football Equipment Room, given in their honor by Gordon, Melissa and Hannah Summerfield, on Jan. 25, 2003.

Frazier attended Bradley Central High School in Cleveland and played football. He and his wife, Donna, have two children, Brandon and Barrett.

Max Parrott

Assistant Equipment Manager

Max Parrott is into his 19th season as assistant equipment manager under the direction of Roger Frazier.

Parrott began his association with the Volunteers football program as a student assistant in 1980 before coming back in 1985 to take on the equipment room duty on a full-time basis.

Some of his duties include repair of equipment as well as the laundering of all Volunteers gear. The equipment room was renamed the Roger Frazier and Max Parrott Football Equipment Room, given in their honor by Gordon, Melissa and Hannah Summerfield, on Jan. 25, 2003.

Parrott graduated from Soddy-Daisy High School and received his UT bachelor's degree in arts and sciences in 1984.

Keith Clements

Head Athletic Trainer

Keith Clements was named Head Athletic Trainer in 2002. The 31-year-old is the youngest person to hold this position in the Southeastern Conference.

Clements has been affiliated with Volunteer athletics since August 1997 in the position of Assistant Athletic Trainer/Clinical Instructor. He came to UT as a doctoral graduate assistant from the University of La Verne, where he was football athletic trainer.

Prior to that, Clements spent three years at Cal Poly Pomona, serving as assistant athletic trainer while earning a master's degree in exercise biochemistry. He achieved that degree in 1997 and received his bachelor's degree in 1993 from Fresno State, majoring in athletic training.

Clements' primarily is responsible for coordinating all sports medicine coverage rendered to the Tennessee football program. He brought to UT a vast array of experience from schools in all three NCAA divisions.

2003 Tennessee Season Notes

Clemson Tigers (8-4) vs. No. 6/7 Tennessee Volunteers (10-2)

Tennessee and Clemson will be meeting for the 19th time with the Volunteers holding an 11-5-2 series advantage. UT has won the last seven contests. This will be the first game between the teams since 1976. Tennessee went 9-3-1 against the Tigers in Knoxville, while the series is knotted 2-2-1 in Clemson.

The series, which began in 1901, saw the schools meet 12 times through 1920. The squads played three times in the 1930s and once in 1944 before games in 1974 and 1976. The last two matchups were exciting tilts decided by a total of three points, with the Vols winning 29-28 and 21-19, respectively.

In the 1974 game, Tennessee had to come from a touchdown behind twice in a seesaw fourth quarter to set the stage for an unbelievable climax. Trailing 28-27 and needing a second two-point conversion to pull out a victory, Tennessee sent Condredge Holloway on an option to the right, the same play that seven minutes earlier had gained the Vols a 21-21 tie. This time Clemson was set and had the senior closed off on every option -- except for one. Holloway cut back and retreated to the 22. He spotted Larry Seivers at the goal and, just before he was hit, lofted a pass that the gifted Seivers caught over his shoulder.

The 1976 game saw Tennessee catch fire for three second-period touchdowns then stave off a last-ditch comeback bid by the Tigers for a breathtaking win.

The Vol defense came up with a crucial pair of saves on Clemson two-point conversion attempts. An interception by Danny Jenkins and a gang tackle by the right side of the line foiled the Tigers' efforts to post two-point conversions that could have produced first a victory and then a tie.

TENNESSEE VOLUNTEERS AT A GLANCE

Tennessee claimed a share of the Southeastern Conference Eastern Division title with a 6-2 league mark. The Volunteers tied with Georgia and Florida, but the Bulldogs were chosen to represent the division in the SEC title game due to a higher Bowl Championship Series ranking.

Since 1997, no team has won or shared more Eastern Division titles than Tennessee with four (1997, 1998, 2001, 2003).

Tennessee is appearing in its school-record 15th consecutive bowl game and 44th all-time, which is second nationally. The Vols are tied for third with Oklahoma and Penn State with 23 bowl victories.

The Vols are appearing in their eighth New Year's bowl game in the last nine years. Since 1989, UT has made 13 New Year's bowl games in 15 trips. Tennessee made a school-record seven straight New Year's bowl appearances from 1995-2001.

UT also won 10 games for the seventh time under head coach Phillip Fulmer and is aiming for its fifth 11-win campaign in his 12-year tenure.

The Volunteers finished the regular season on a six-game winning streak, the longest since reeling off seven consecutive victories to close out the 2001 regular season.

Tennessee went 2-1 against ranked teams, defeating both Miami and Florida on the road while dropping a home game to Georgia.

UT went a perfect 4-0 against non-conference foes, improving to 22-1 in regular season non-league games since 1997. It is the sixth time in the last seven years it went undefeated in non-conference games.

The Volunteers have won at least eight games for 15 straight seasons, joining Michigan (19) and Florida State (17) as the only schools to accomplish that feat. UT has also managed to post a winning conference mark each year during that span as well, with at least five league victories every season.

The Vols won two overtime games to improve to 4-1 all-time. UT downed South Carolina 23-20 and then played a five-overtime thriller at Alabama, edging the Tide, 51-43.

Tennessee is ranked No. 6 by the AP and No. 7 in the coaches poll. The No. 6 AP ranking is a season-high. UT finished No. 8 in the BCS rankings. The Vols opened the season ranked No. 12 in the AP poll and No. 16 in the USA Today/ESPN poll.

FULMER IN ELITE COMPANY IN POSTSEASON

Phillip Fulmer has guided UT to a bowl game every year during his tenure. He and former Nebraska coach Tom Osborne are the only coaches to guide a team to a bowl game in each of their first 12 years of coaching. Osborne led the Cornhuskers to a bowl game for 25 consecutive years before retiring following the 1998 Orange Bowl.

Under Fulmer, the Vols have played 14 postseason games. They are 8-6 in conference championship and bowl games combined, going 2-1 in the SEC title game and 6-5 in bowl contests.

TENNESSEE'S BOWL HISTORY

Tennessee, which ranks second in all-time bowl appearances behind Alabama's 51, will be playing in its 44th bowl game when it faces Clemson in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl. The Volunteers hold a 23-20 all-time bowl record and are tied with Penn State and Oklahoma for third all-time in bowl victories. Only Alabama's 29 and USC's 25 bowl wins rank ahead of Tennessee. UT is 11-5 in its last 16 bowl games.

This will be the 15th consecutive bowl game for the the Vols, which is a school record. UT has appeared in a bowl game in 21 of the last 22 years.

The Vols are appearing in their eighth New Year's bowl game in the last nine years. Since 1989, UT has made 13 New Year's bowl games in 15 trips. Tennessee made a school record seven straight New Year's bowl appearances from 1995-2001. Tennessee has made 26 bowl appearances in January compiling a 12-14 record. UT is 2-2 on Jan. 2, defeating Oklahoma in the 1939 Orange Bowl and Indiana in the 1988 Peach Bowl. The two defeats came versus Nebraska in the 1998 Orange and 2000 Fiesta Bowls.

Under Phillip Fulmer's direction, the Vols will be appearing in their 12th bowl game, compiling a 6-5 mark.

TENNESSEE BOASTS SUCCESS IN DOMES

The game in the Georgia Dome marks the 10th time the Vols have played indoors. Tennessee is 6-3 in domes, including 2-2 in the Georgia Dome. Previous games inside have included the 1972 and 1979 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowls in the former Houston Astrodome (against LSU-W and Purdue-L), the 1986 and 1991 Sugar Bowls in the New Orleans Superdome (against Miami-W and Virginia-W), the 1997, 1998 and 2001 SEC Championship games and the 2002 Peach Bowl in the Georgia Dome in Atlanta (against Auburn-W, Mississippi State-W, LSU-L, Maryland-L) and the Carrier Dome in Syracuse, N.Y. (against Syracuse-W).

VOLS AIM FOR FIFTH 11-WIN SEASON UNDER FULMER

Tennessee will be going for its ninth season with at least 11 victories and fifth under head coach Phillip Fulmer. Gen. Robert R. Neyland had two in 1938 and 1950, while Bill Battle (1970) and Johnny Majors (1989) had one each. Since 1995, Tennessee leads the SEC with four 11-win seasons.

The Vols have posted 18 seasons with at least 10 wins in school history. Seven of those have come under Fulmer (1993, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998, 2001, 2003). He has more 10-win seasons than any other coach in school history. Neyland (5), Battle (3), Majors (2) and Wyatt (1) all recorded 10-win seasons.

VOLS IN THE PEACH BOWL

Tennessee will be making its second straight appearance in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl and fourth overall. The Volunteers own a 1-2 mark in the Peach Bowl, having first appeared in 1982 against Iowa, again in 1987 versus Indiana and last year against Maryland.

UT IN THE PEACH BOWL (1-2)
Dec. 31, 1982 -- Iowa 28, Tennessee 22
Jan. 1, 1988 -- Tennessee 27, Indiana 22
Dec. 31, 2002 -- Maryland 30, Tennessee 3

In the 1982 Peach Bowl, Iowa built a 21-7 halftime lead, keyed by three Chuck Long touchdown passes. Tennessee's second-half comeback was led by quarterback Alan Cockrell and running backs Chuck Coleman and Doug Furnas. The Vols came off the mat to register two touchdowns and a field goal to close to 28-22 late in the fourth quarter.

With the clock winding down, the outcome hinged on two short yardage plays the Hawkeyes stopped at their own 7. On third-and-2, Cockrell's pass was deflected. On fourth down, the Vol signal-caller was stopped short on a counter-option. Cockrell was named the game's Most Valuable Player.

Tennessee closed out the 1987 season by posting a come-from-behind win over Indiana, 27-22, in the 1988 Peach Bowl. The Vols exploded to a 21-3 lead early in the second quarter as quarterback Jeff Francis led three scoring drives and threw touchdown passes to Anthony Miller and Terence Cleveland.

Indiana rallied in the second half and led 22-21 late in the fourth quarter. But the Vol defense stiffened and Francis and his offensive mates got the ball at the Hoosier 40.

Tennessee took it for the winning score as Francis scrambled for a crucial first down and Reggie Cobb got the game-winner from 9 yards out. Charles Kimbrough's interception sealed the Vols' first Peach Bowl win.

In 2002, Maryland took advantage of two key UT turnovers and used a balanced attack in defeating the Vols 30-3.

Terp quarterback Scott McBrien scored the first of his two rushing touchdowns in the game in the first quarter while Curome Cox returned an interception 54 yards for a touchdown in the second and Nick Novak tacked on a 48-yard field goal right before the half as Maryland led 17-3 at the break. Tennessee's only points came on a second quarter Alex Walls 38-yard field goal.

Novak was perfect on two placements in the second half from 44 and 25 yards, as McBrien put the game away with a 6-yard scoring run in the fourth period.

AGAINST THE ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

Tennessee is 85-54-7 (.606) all-time against the teams that comprise the Atlantic Coast Conference (11-5-2 vs. Clemson, 14-13-2 vs. Duke, 1-1 vs. Florida State, 24-17-2 vs. Georgia Tech, 5-3 vs. Maryland, 20-10-1 vs. North Carolina, 1-1 vs. N.C. State, 3-1 vs. Virginia, 6-3 vs. Wake Forest).

UT vs. ACC IN BOWL GAMES (4-3)
1-0 vs. Florida State (1999 Fiesta Bowl-W 23-16)
1-0 vs. Virginia (1991 Sugar Bowl-W 23-22)
2-3 vs. Maryland (2002 Peach-L 3-30, 1984 Sun-L 27-28, 1983 Citrus-W 30-23, 1974 Liberty-W 7-3, 1952 Sugar-L 13-28)

The 146 games played versus ACC teams are the most Tennessee has played against any other conference. UT head coach Phillip Fulmer is 3-1 against ACC teams. UT last played a team from the ACC Nov. 1 when it defeated Duke 26-3.

The Vols are 4-3 against teams that make up the ACC in bowl games. Five of those meetings have come versus Maryland in five different bowl games. UT beat Virginia in the 1991 Sugar Bowl and defeated Florida State in the 1999 Fiesta Bowl, securing the 1998 national championship.

2003 Tennessee Season Notes

ALL-SEC VOLUNTEERS

Punter Dustin Colquitt and center Scott Wells were the only Volunteers to garner first-team All-SEC honors. Colquitt was a unanimous selection by the league coaches as well as making the Associated Press team. Wells was named to the coaches squad while being selected to the AP second team.

Five Vols were named second-team All-SEC by the coaches, while four earned second team honors by AP.

Linebacker Kevin Simon and strong safety Gibril Wilson were named to the second team by both. Free safety Rashad Baker made the AP team, while linebacker Kevin Burnett, tailback Cedric Houston and offensive tackle Michael Munoz were selected by the coaches.

Colquitt, a Ray Guy Award finalist, leads the SEC with a 45.9-yard punting average. Wells has made 48 consecutive starts at center, while Simon and Wilson tied for the team lead with 106 tackles this season. Baker, who earned first team honors last season, missed two games and still finished fifth on the tackle chart with 64. Burnett ranked fourth on the team with 83 tackles while Houston was the league's fourth leading rusher at 65.5 yards per game. Munoz started every game at left tackle.

VOLS PLACE FIVE ON ALL-SEC FRESHMAN LIST

Offensive tackle Arron Sears, place kicker James Wilhoit, wide receiver Jayson Swain and defensive backs Antwan Stewart and Corey Campbell were named to the All-SEC Freshman team by the Knoxville News-Sentinel. Sears was a unanimous selection to the SEC coaches all-freshman team, joining Wilhoit and Campbell. Sears, Wilhoit and Stewart were also named to The Sporting News All-Freshman squad.

Sears played in six games, breaking into the starting lineup against Mississippi State at right tackle. He suffered an ankle injury in that contest that kept him sidelined the last two games. Wilhoit made 17-of-23 attempts during the season and all 39 of his extra-point kicks, while Swain ranked fifth on the team with 18 catches for 247 yards. Stewart appeared in every game, starting five, and finished the year with 23 tackles, two interceptions and six pass deflections. Campbell saw action in the final seven contests, averaging five tackles per game, while intercepting a pass in his first two games.

UT NEARS 100 WINS OVER LAST 10 YEARS

Not only does Tennessee rank as the winningest team in the Southeastern Conference since 1998, but the Volunteers are tied with Florida with 99 victories since 1994. UT has a 99-25 record that ties for fourth in victories, while the .798 winning percentage is the third-best nationally.

Over the last six years, UT has a 59-16 mark and a .786 winning percentage. The Volunteers have also compiled a 38-10 record in conference games during that stretch, winning three Eastern Division titles and one overall league crown.

COLQUITT NAMED ALL-AMERICA, RAY GUY AWARD FINALIST

Junior punter Dustin Colquitt has had a phenomenal season, leading the Southeastern Conference and ranking fourth nationally with a 45.9-yard average.

Because of his efforts, the two-time Ray Guy Award finalist was named to the Football Writers Association of America and Walter Camp All-America teams. He is the third Vol punter to garner All-America honors and the first since his cousin Jimmy Colquitt in 1983.

Colquitt was twice named the SEC's Special Teams Player of the Week. His most recent honor came after the South Carolina game when he had a career-high five punts of 50 yards or more for a 51.7-yard average, including a 63-yarder. Even more impressive was the fact that he placed four of his seven boots inside the 20 with three settling inside the 5-yard line. He forced the Gamecocks to start consecutive drives on their 2 and 1-yard lines, respectively, in the third quarter.

He first earned the honor following UT's win over Marshall when he punted four times for a 50.8 average, with two punts of 50-plus yards, including a 63 yarder. He pinned Marshall deep twice, turning the field position battle in UT's favor. He placed two punts inside the 20, at the Marshall four and three yard lines, respectively.

Against Florida he placed two punts inside the 10 and three of the six kicks inside the 20 with a season-long boot of 67 yards, one yard shy of his career high of 68 yards set versus Miami last year.

Colquitt placed 19 of 61 punts inside the 20, nine inside the 10 and five inside the 5. He has 18 punts of 50 yards or more, including five 60-yard kicks.

Thanks to his booming punts, along with excellent placement and a great punt coverage team, Tennessee is second in the SEC and 11th in the nation in net punting with a 40.0-yard average.

Over the last two seasons, Colquitt has averaged 44.71 yards per punt. His career average of 43.24 ranks second all-time at UT, while he has pinned opponents deep by placing 54 of 177 punts (30.5 percent) inside the 20. He has 43 punts of 50 yards or more in his career. Four times in his career he has had three punts in a game over 50 yards (Memphis & Kentucky 2001, Miami 2002, South Carolina 2003). He has had at least one 50-yard punt in 18 of the last 22 games and nine of 11. Colquitt ranks third in UT's record book with 7654 punting yards and 177 punts.

CLAUSEN HAS SOLID CAMPAIGN WITH 10-2 MARK AS STARTER

Casey Clausen has made a late-season surge in touchdown passes by tossing nine over the last three games to rank third in the league with 25, while tying for 12th nationally. That mark is a personal best for Clausen and ties Heath Shuler (1993) for the second-highest total in school history, ranking behind Peyton Manning's 36 in 1997.

BURNETT NAMED TO AFCA AND SEC GOOD WORKS TEAM

Junior linebacker Kevin Burnett was one of 11 student-athletes named to the American Football Coaches Association Division I-A Good Works Team to honor players for their dedication and commitment to community service. He is the fifth Vol selected to the team since its inception in 1992.

He was also named to the SEC Good Works Team.

Burnett has volunteered more than 150 hours of community service to groups in East Tennessee. He has worked with the East Tennessee Boys & Girls Club, East Tennessee Children's Hospital and Vine and Austin East Middle School. He is active in the Vols in Schools Program and Habitat for Humanity while being involved in voter registration drive and serving as a mentor for numerous little league teams.

Season

Consecutive passes without an interception (Season)--143, Clausen Clausen (previous: 132 by Peyton Manning in 1995) has thrown for 714 yards on 47 of 90 passes over the last three games.

His 2537 yards of total offense are seventh on UT's single season list, while his 202 completions are sixth, his 357 attempts are fifth and 2584 passing yards are sixth.

He joins Manning as the only UT quarterbacks to throw for at least 20 touchdowns in a season twice in a career. The Vols are third in the league with 26 TD passes behind LSU (30) and Ole Miss (29).

CLAUSEN SETS UT ROAD WINS MARK AT KENTUCKY

Casey Clausen set a Tennessee record at Kentucky with his 14th career road win, bettering Peyton Manning's 13. Clausen finishes his career with a 14-1 mark in road games. He won 11 straight road starts before losing at Auburn earlier this season. He has since won at Alabama, No. 6 Miami and Kentucky.

Clausen, who has won 12 of his last 15 starts and compiled a 34-9 record as a starter (18-5 home, 14-1 road, 2-3 neutral), joins Peyton Manning as the only Vol quarterbacks to win at least 30 games. Manning compiled a 39-6 record from 1994-97. With one more win, Clausen would move into a tie for fifth place on the NCAA all-time Division I-A quarterbacks wins list. He would join Nebraska's Eric Crouch, Syracuse's Donovan McNabb, Alabama's Jay Barker and Toledo's Chuck Ealey.

CLAUSEN SEASON NOTES

Casey Clausen set a Tennessee standard for passes without an interception at 143, breaking Peyton Manning's record of 132 set in 1995. Clausen's mark stands as the 10th-best effort in SEC history and the most in the league since Kentucky's Jared Lorenzen had 152 in 2002. His previous best was 112.

In just two-and-a-half quarters, Clausen tied a personal best and school record with five touchdown passes against Mississippi State. It marked the third time in his career he had thrown five, doing it first against Arkansas in 2000 and again versus Memphis in 2001. It was the seventh time in school history the feat had been accomplished.

He recorded his second 300-yard passing game of the season and sixth of his career with a 342-yard effort on 21 of 34 attempts versus Mississippi State. He passed for a season-high 355 yards earlier against Auburn.

He threw at least one touchdown pass in the first eight games, before being shut out at Miami. He threw at least two touchdown passes in a game seven times.

Clausen was named the SEC Offensive Player of the Week after accounting for five touchdowns (four passing, one rushing) in UT's 51-43 five-overtime win over Alabama. He completed 23-of-43 passes for 283 yards and no interceptions. He completed 4-of-8 passes in the overtime for 65 yards, with three completions going for touchdowns. He connected with 10 different receivers and had five pass plays for more than 20 yards. He also earned the honor for his efforts in the 2001 Alabama game.

His 1-yard scoring plunge and two-point conversion pass in the fifth overtime against the Tide put the Vols ahead for good. It was his first rushing tally since the South Carolina game last year.

Against Auburn he connected on seven passes of at least 20 yards while tying his career-best of 30 completions on a career-high 47 attempts. The 355 yards was the third-best effort of his career and was his first 300-yard passing game since a career-high 393 yards against Michigan in the 2002 Florida Citrus Bowl.

Clausen threw for 235 yards against Florida, including connecting on two of his four longest pass plays of the season. He hit James Banks on a 48-yard touchdown on the last play of the first half and then hooked up with freshman Bret Smith for a 57-yard gain in the third quarter, setting up UT's second touchdown.

For the season, Clausen has hit 15 passing plays of at least 30 yards, including a school-record 90-yard touchdown against Georgia.

CLAUSEN MOVES UP SEC CHARTS

Clausen has been moving up the SEC career passing charts, ranking ninth in completion percentage at 61.24, third in lowest percentage of interceptions at 2.55, seventh in career total offense yards at 9191, eighth in career touchdown passes with 73, sixth in career passing yards with 9323 and sixth in pass completions with 744. He is among the highest-rated passers in SEC history, ranking fifth with a mark of 140.42.

SEC CAREER PASS EFFICIENCY LEADERS

1. Danny Wuerffel, Florida	163.6
2. Peyton Manning, Tennessee	147.1
3. Rex Grossman, Florida	146.7
4. Tim Couch, Kentucky	141.7
5. Casey Clausen, Tennessee	140.4

Clausen is the eighth SEC quarterback to have at least 70 scoring strikes. He has accounted for 79 total touchdowns in his career and needs one more to become the sixth SEC quarterback to reach 80.

CLAUSEN NOTES

Set school record for pass attempts without an interception at 143 ... Has a UT record three games with five TD passes ... Has a personal-best 25 TD passes this season ... Completed 50 percent or better of his passes in 32 of his last 35 games and in 38 of 43 career starts ... Clausen's string of consecutive games with a touchdown pass ended at 12 against Alabama in 2002. It was the third-longest streak in school history ... His string of nine consecutive games with a 60 percent completion rate or better was snapped against Rutgers in 2002 when he completed 53.6 percent (15-of-28).

A SEASON OF COMEBACKS

Tennessee has come from behind in six of its 10 wins. In fact, the Vols have been tied or trailed at some point 10 times. The Fresno State and Vanderbilt contests are the only games UT has led from start to finish.

1. The Vols trailed twice against Marshall, 7-0 and 10-7, before scoring two third-quarter TDs to pull away.

2. UT trailed Florida 3-0 before a "Hail Mary" touchdown pass to James Banks at the end of the first half gave it the momentum to carry on to victory.

3. The Vols trailed 20-17 in overtime versus South Carolina and came out on top with a Banks touchdown catch.

4. Against Alabama, UT trailed five times, including 43-40 in the fourth overtime before winning its second overtime game of the season in the fifth period on a Casey Clausen plunge from 1 yard out.

5. Versus Miami, Tennessee was down 3-0 before reeling off 10 unanswered points. The last time UT won a game by scoring 10 or fewer points was a 10-9 triumph over No. 17 Washington State in 1994.

6. Tennessee trailed 7-0 at Kentucky before Mark Jones gave the Vols a 10-7 lead in the third quarter on an 18-yard touchdown reception.

2003 Tennessee Season Notes

LARKINS RANKS FOURTH ALL-TIME IN KICKOFF RETURNS

Corey Larkins is moving up UT's career kickoff returns and yardage list. He ranks fourth with 1020 yards, 110 yards behind third-place Dale Carter. Larkins is the fourth Vol with 1000 career return yards. He ranks third with 47 career returns for a 21.7-yard average. Larkins ranks seventh in the SEC, averaging 20.1 yards per return with a long of 33.

MARK JONES IS UT'S TRIPLE THREAT

After playing the secondary his entire career, Mark Jones moved to the offensive side of the ball this season and has become a triple threat by also playing on defense and special teams. He is averaging more than 55 snaps a game which means he's on the field for over 40 percent of the game.

Jones is UT's second-leading receiver with 31 receptions for 490 yards. He leads the club averaging 15.8 yards per catch and has four touchdowns. Jones has led the team in catches in a game five times and receiving yards three times.

He ranks second in the SEC and third nationally, averaging 15.7 yards per punt return (19-298). He leads UT in all-purpose yards at 75.3 yards per game and has made 17 tackles with two interceptions.

Versus Kentucky, he was in on a season-high 92 plays. He posted season-highs in all three phases with 43 offensive snaps, 33 defensive snaps and 16 on special teams.

Against Georgia, Jones mustered up enough strength to steal the ball away from a Bulldog defender and race 90 yards for a touchdown, setting a school record for the longest pass reception in school history. It bettered the 87-yard effort when Andy Kelly hooked up with Carl Pickens against Auburn (1991). It was the 14th pass play of at least 80 yards in school history and the first since Casey Clausen hit Donte' Stallworth for an 80-yard scoring strike versus Vanderbilt in 2001.

Jones had 117 yards receiving on four catches against the Bulldogs, recording the first 100-yard receiving game of the season by a Vol and the first since Kelley Washington had 112 against Arkansas last season.

The utility player came through in the clutch against Auburn, making a diving catch in the end zone for his first career touchdown catch while posting 56 yards receiving. Against Fresno State, he caught one pass for 12 yards while returning five punts for 56 yards. Jones made at least one big play in each quarter during that game. He made a touchdown-saving tackle on a punt return, took Fresno out of field goal range by forcing an intentional grounding on a blitz, made an open field tackle on third down and set up UT's final points with a 29-yard punt return. His versatility really came through against Florida as he intercepted his third career pass at the UT 31, stopping a Gator drive. He also had the longest run of the day on a 24-yard reverse.

JONES RANKS THIRD NATIONALLY IN PUNT RETURN AVERAGE

Mark Jones ranks second in the SEC and No. 3 nationally averaging 15.68 yards per punt return. Over the last three games he has returned nine punts for an average of 21.3 yards per return.

He was named the SEC Special Teams Player of the Week after accounting for 216 all-purpose yards against Vanderbilt. He had five punt returns for 120 yards, including a 58-yard touchdown return giving UT a 21-0 lead in the first quarter. It was the first punt return for a score since Donte' Stallworth against Vanderbilt in 2001. He also had returns of 25 and 23 yards.

Jones also recorded a team-high three catches for 45 yards with a long of 17, and picked off his second pass of the season, returning it 51 yards to the Commodore 7 setting up UT's sixth score of the day. He had two pass breakups.

VOLS BOAST TRIO OF 100-PLUS TACKLERS

For the first time since 1983 when Reggie White, Alvin Toles and Carl Zander topped UT's tackle chart with at least 100 tackles, the 2003 Volunteers boast three players who reached the century mark. SS Gibril Wilson and LB Kevin Simon tied for the team lead with 106 tackles, while LB Robert Peace was third with 100. Last season marked the first time since 1987 that the Vols had a player tandem reach 100 tackles in a season as linebackers Keyon Whiteside and Eddie Moore topped the list.

Wilson paced the eight Vols who recorded at least 10 stops in a game with seven 10-plus tackle efforts. Simon was second with five, while Peace had four. Rashad Baker, Corey Campbell and Jason Allen had two apiece, while Kevin Burnett and Mondre Dickerson had one each.

Wilson and Simon are among the league leaders with 6.25 and 6.17 solo tackles per game, respectively. Peace and Parys Haralson are tied for seventh in the conference with 1.04 tackles for loss per game. Simon tied for the SEC game-high with three sacks versus Marshall and was second in the league in game-high solo stops against Florida with 14.

VOLS RELY ON TOUGH PASS DEFENSE

Tennessee's ability to stop the pass has been a key in UT's current win streak that has seen opponents held to 8.0 points per game over the last five. They have held opponents to just four touchdowns and four field goals during that span, and just seven points over the last eight quarters.

The defense has seen marked improvement with two interceptions in each of the last four games and nine over the last six, compared to five in the first six games. UT has forced 14 turnovers over the last six games, compared to seven in the first half of the season.

PASS DEFENSE

Stat	1st 6	Last 6
Yards Per Game	205.3	156.8
Opp. Efficiency	125.05	88.24
Opp. TD Passes	7	3
Interceptions	5	9
Completion Pct.	59.6	52.0
Avg. Per Catch	11.6	9.2

They have also held opponents to 156.8 yards passing over the last six games, compared to 205.3 in the first six. Pass efficiency defense has improved to 88.24 over the last six games compared to 125.05 in the first half of the season.

Tennessee is third in the SEC and No. 18 nationally in pass efficiency defense at 105.7. It is second in the league and No. 15 nationally in passing yards allowed per game at 181.1.

The Vols lead the SEC in fewest passing touchdowns allowed with 10. That total ties for 10th nationally. UT has allowed just one touchdown pass in the last five games.

VOLS GET ON TRACK WITH OFFENSE

UT turned things around in the second half of the season, going 6-0 with a renewed vigor on offense. The Vols have improved in every major offensive category during the streak. Scoring is up by an average of 11.9 points per game, total offense has improved by nearly 23 yards per game and the average yards per rush has jumped to 4.2 from 3.8.

WIN STREAK COMPARISON

Stat	1st 6	Last 6
Points per Game	23.3	35.2
Total Offense	356.3	379.0
Rush Offense	136.3	157.3
Pass Offense	220.0	221.7
Turnovers	12	6
Turnover Margin	-5	+8

But the stat that tells the real story is turnovers. This is where UT has seen its greatest improvement. The Vols are a plus-eight in turnover margin after being a minus-five through the first six games. Tennessee went from being a -0.83 in turnover margin to a +0.25.

It went three full games and 16 straight quarters from the first stanza of the Alabama game through the first quarter of the Vanderbilt game without a turnover.

The three consecutive games without a turnover tied the 1957 team for the longest streak without a turnover. UT's longest streak without an interception was five games in 1961 and 2002, while the longest stretch without losing a fumble was five games in 1990.

WILSON IS HOTTEST OF ALL DEFENDERS

Strong safety Gibril Wilson is the hottest of all Tennessee defenders, pacing the Vols with seven 10-plus tackle games in his last eight. He is tied with Kevin Simon for the team lead in tackles with 106. Wilson has led the Vols in tackles six times, including three of the last four.

He was named the SEC Defensive Player of the Week after recording 11 tackles (nine solo) with a sack and three pass breakups against Kentucky Nov. 29.

Over the last three games he has recorded 33 tackles with five tackles for loss including two sacks. He has also broken up nine passes with two interceptions in the last four.

After making 15 tackles in his first four games, Wilson nearly doubled that total by registering 13 tackles at Auburn, beginning a string of four consecutive 10-tackle games. He has all three sacks recorded by the defensive backs this season.

HANNON TIES RECEIVING TD MARK

Chris Hannon etched his name into UT's record book as he was on the receiving end of a school-record-tying three touchdown catches against Mississippi State. The record is held by six others, done seven times, most recently accomplished by Donte' Stallworth against Kentucky in 2001.

What makes the mark special is that the three touchdowns came on his first three receptions of the game. He got the Vols on the board with an 18-yard score in the first and followed with two third quarter tallies, a 30 and 5-yarder. He finished with four catches for 69 yards. Over the last three games, He has six catches for 116 yards and four touchdowns.

BOWL SQUAD BOASTS 23 SENIORS

The bowl game marks the final game for Tennessee's senior class that has compiled a 37-13 mark over the last four years. The 23 seniors were part of four bowl games and two SEC Eastern Division titles.

BLOCK PARTY

Tennessee's special teams have come through with four blocked kicks, the most since four in 1995. The Vols have blocked two field goals and two punts. The last time UT had five was in 1991 (3 field goals, 2 punts). That year, linebacker Darryl Hardy had four of the five blocks (2 field goals and 2 punts).

O.J. Owens was the latest Vol to join the block party with a punt block against Mississippi State in the third quarter that set up UT's sixth touchdown of the day.

The Vols tied a school record with two blocked field goals against Alabama. Jason Allen blocked a 26-yard attempt in the second quarter, and Mondre Dickerson blocked a potential game-winning 45-yard attempt with four seconds remaining in the contest. The two blocked placements tied the record set against Notre Dame in 1991 as Floyd Miley and Jeremy Lincoln combined to snuff out attempts.

Marvin Mitchell's blocked punt on South Carolina's first possession set the Vols up at the Gamecock 10 for their first score of the game.

WILHOIT ONE OF TOP FRESHMAN KICKERS

Kicker James Wilhoit, who has connected on five straight field goals and 12 of his last 13 over the last six games, was named to The Sporting News Freshman All-America second team. He also garnered Freshman All-SEC honors by TSN. He ranks fourth in the SEC with 17 field goals and 20th nationally at 1.42 field goals per game. He ranks second to Miami's Jon Peattie (19 of 24) among freshmen placekickers.

Wilhoit is the most accurate kicker in the SEC from 40 yards and out, connecting on 7 of 10 for 70.0 percent.

He started slow, going 1-for-4, but then hit on four of his next six before connecting on a season-high seven straight. He is perfect on all 39 PATs.

ORANGE ZONE SUCCESS

Tennessee has enjoyed tremendous success in the Orange Zone, the area inside the opponent's 20-yard line, this season. The Vols are second in the SEC, having scored on 39-of-44 trips (88.6 percent), including 14 straight and 26 of their last 28.

The five failures are three missed field goals (two against Fresno State, one vs. Duke), a fumble versus Georgia and end of half at Miami. UT had its best success against Miss. State, going 7-for-7 (6 TDs, 1 FG).

The touchdown success rate is 70.5 percent, up from last season's 47.8 percent. UT has 31 touchdowns and eight field goals. Last year the Vols scored at a 75 percent clip (36-of-48), putting up 23 touchdowns and 13 field goals.

2003 Tennessee Season Notes

FULMER RANKS 13TH ON SEC VICTORIES LIST

Head coach Phillip Fulmer ranks 13th on the Southeastern Conference's all-time wins list with 113 victories. He tied former Vol coach and athletics director Doug Dickey with 104 wins after UT's season-opening triumph over Fresno State.

Fulmer now sets his sights on former Alabama mentor Frank Thomas and UT coach Johnny Majors, who are tied for 11th with 115 wins.

In this, Fulmer's 12th season, he is tied for fifth all-time in best career starts by wins. With one more victory, he can tie ex-Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson for fourth after 12 years as a coach.

Entering this season, Fulmer's 103 total victories after 11 seasons as a head coach tied him for fifth all-time with ex-Duke/Florida coach Steve Spurrier for the most wins. Fulmer's 100th career victory came in the Vols' 18-10 triumph at South Carolina in 2002. The UT coach tied former Texas A&M mentor R.C. Slocum as the fifth-fastest to reach 100 wins, doing so in his 11th season and eighth game.

TINSLEY ANOTHER KEY IN OFFENSIVE MACHINE

Derrick Tinsley continues to make his mark late in the season as an offensive threat. Since getting his first offensive touches in the Alabama game, he is second only to Chris Hannon (5) with four touchdowns. Tinsley has accounted for 149 all-purpose yards on 15 touches (9.9 yards per play).

He caught a 7-yard TD pass against Vanderbilt and had a 12-yard TD reception versus Mississippi State.

Tinsley was named the SEC Special Teams Player of the Week following his performance at Miami. He recorded two special teams tackles and a recovered fumble with 1:44 to play following a Tennessee punt that was dropped at the Miami 13-yard line and closed out the Vols' 10-6 win at Miami. He also scored the game's only touchdown on a fourth-and-2 end around just before halftime.

He recorded UT's long run twice (28 vs. Alabama, 12 vs. Miami) and scored his first touchdown in the first overtime period against Alabama.

VOLS RANK HIGH IN SACKS

Tennessee has always been among the league leaders in sacks and this season is no exception as the Vols have registered 27 sacks for 192 yards. UT is fourth in the SEC in total sacks and fifth in sack yardage.

UT has 17 sacks over the last 10 games, including five multi-sack efforts. It recorded a season-high six versus Marshall. It was the most since recording nine against Southern Miss in 2000.

Kevin Simon and Parys Haralson spearhead the attack with 4.5 sacks apiece. Constantin Ritzmann and Gibril Wilson follow with three each.

Against Marshall, Simon registered a career-high three sacks, recording 29 of the 72 minus yards (40 percent) suffered during the game.

UT's defensive line has 14 sacks, the linebackers have 10 and the secondary has three.

DAVIS: KING OF SHORT YARDAGE SCORES

Jabari Davis added to his team-leading touchdown total with a 7-yard run versus Vanderbilt bringing his season total to eight and his career sum to 20. Davis leads the team with eight rushing scores, tying for fourth in the SEC.

His two scores against Mississippi State marked the second time this season and the fourth time in his career he scored at least two touchdowns in a game. He tallied two touchdowns against Florida earlier.

Subbing for Cedric Houston, Davis carried the ball a season-high 20 times for 78 yards with a long run of 20 yards versus Florida. He earned SEC Offensive Player of the Week honors for his effort.

Davis topped 100 yards rushing for the second time in his career, subbing for an injured Houston against Duke. He rushed 17 times for 113 yards, averaging 6.6 yards per carry. He also reached the 1000-yard milestone and has 1206 career rushing yards.

BANKS IS UT'S LEADING RECEIVER

Sophomore James Banks is the leading pass catcher on the squad with 39 receptions for 584 yards and six touchdowns after playing quarterback last season. He is second on the team with seven total touchdowns.

Banks leads the club with nine catches of more than 20 yards, including five of at least 30. He has been on the receiving end of three of the eight longest TD pass plays and is the only Vol to catch a pass in every game. He has four games of at least 70 yards receiving.

He scored a receiving touchdown in each of the first four games and was the first UT wide receiver to accomplish that feat since Donte' Stallworth in 2001. Banks fell two games shy of the record for consecutive games with a touchdown reception set by Joey Kent in 1995.

Banks finished the Alabama game with a career-high 103 yards on a season-high tying seven catches with two touchdowns in overtime with a two-point conversion. His 20 points against Alabama are the most by a UT player since Jamal Lewis scored 24 against Kentucky in 1997. He scored his first touchdown of the game on his first play from the quarterback position this season as he sprinted up the middle for 25 yards to give Tennessee a 10-6 lead.

He has had monumental catches all season:

* In his first game, Banks hauled in seven receptions for 80 yards and one score against Fresno State, with three catches for 59 yards, including a 9-yard TD strike in the Vols' opening 76-yard scoring drive.

* Versus Marshall, his first catch of the game was a 24-yard scoring strike in the second quarter to tie the game 7-7.

* Banks swung the momentum in the Florida game by grabbing a career-long 48-yard "Hail Mary" pass from Casey Clausen on the final play of the first half, giving Tennessee a 7-3 lead at the half.

* His 4-yard fade pass reception lifted Tennessee over South Carolina in overtime

* In the fourth quarter versus Auburn, he had a key 19-yard reception on a third-and-15 that spurred the Vols on to a score that cut the lead to seven with 7:53 remaining.

* He had two TD catches and a two-point conversion in overtime against Alabama.

HOUSTON EDGES CLOSER TO UT'S TOP 20

Cedric Houston currently stands with 1605 career rushing yards, needing 18 yards to enter UT's top 20, passing Johnny Majors' career total of 1622.

He is the fourth-leading rusher in the SEC, averaging 65.5 yards per game which ranks him 84th nationally.

HOUSTON'S 100-YARD GAMES

Opponent	No-Yds-TD
vs. Wyoming 8/31/02	10-106-2
at South Carolina 11/2/02	30-108-0
Miami 11/9/02	14-111-0
at Miss. State 11/16/02	32-149-2
at Vanderbilt 11/23/02	25-140-1
Fresno State 8/30/03	19-161-0
Marshall 9/6/03	26-160-0

Houston has rushed for more than 80 yards five times with back-to-back 100-yard efforts against Frenso State and Marshall. He posted a career-high 161 yards against the Bulldogs and then followed with 160 yards versus the Herd. His 321 yards in the first two games ranks second in UT history behind Johnnie Jones' 400-yard effort to start the 1984 season.

Houston scored his first touchdown on a 3-yard run to give the Vols a 14-7 lead over South Carolina. He added his second score at Kentucky while rushing for 87 yards.

The dependable pass catcher out of the backfield has 12 receptions for 116 yards.

Against Fresno State, he carried the ball 19 times without a loss, doing most of his damage in the first quarter as he ran for 95 yards on 10 attempts, with long runs of 20 and 25. Versus Marshall he broke out in the third quarter by rushing for 102 yards on 10 carries with runs of 50 and 35 yards. He accounted for 74 yards on the Vols' 80-yard TD drive to open the second half.

SCORING STREAK

UT has scored in 121 consecutive games, dating back to a 31-0 shutout by Florida in Knoxville in 1994. It is the second-longest streak in the SEC, trailing Florida's 191.

Tennessee's home scoring streak is 63 contests, while it has scored in 129 straight games away from Neyland Stadium. The last road shutout was by Georgia in 1981, 44-0. UT had scored a TD in 104 straight games until the streak was snapped in a 26-3 loss to Miami Nov. 9, 2002.

Since 1992, Tennessee leads the SEC with 13 shutouts with at least one each of the last three years.

VOLS RANK THIRD IN ATTENDANCE

Tennessee finished third nationally in attendance, averaging 105,038 through seven home games. It trailed Michigan and Penn State which averaged 110,918 and 105,629, respectively. Ohio State was fourth with an average of 104,870.

The 2003 season saw the 25-millionth fan enter Neyland Stadium since official NCAA record keeping began in 1946.

NON-CONFERENCE DOMINANCE

Since 1989, UT has amassed a 55-12-1 mark in games against foes from outside the SEC. UT saw its 18-game regular-season non-conference game winning streak snapped with a 26-3 loss to No. 1 Miami last year. It was the first regular-season non-conference defeat since a 21-17 loss to Memphis in 1996. It was also the first non-conference home defeat since a 34-29 decision to No. 1 Notre Dame in 1990, a span of 27 games.

Comments From Phillip Fulmer

"We bring an exciting 10-2 Tennessee football team to Atlanta to play a very fine Clemson team. A win gives us 100th victories in 10 years and a chance to finish somewhere in the top five in the nation."

On the Volunteers:
"Our team is on a six-game winning streak, which we're excited about, and we're playing very well right now. We're the Eastern Division co-champions and this is the fifth time since I took over as head football coach that we've been Eastern Division champions or had a share of the championship. We've had a very fine 10-win season and we plan to prepare well in Knoxville and Atlanta and build on what we've accomplished this year. We really look forward to spending time there and enjoying ourselves and the bowl experience."

On Playing in the Peach Bowl:
"This is a chance for our 100th win in 10 years, which is exciting for us, and a win should also give us a chance to finish somewhere in the top five in the nation. This entire season, we've used the theme of obligation and how we're obligated to the football team and to each other. This is another opportunity for our team to demonstrate that by working hard, improving and helping us get to 11 wins. So that's what our goal and focus will be. I've had a chance to talk to our seniors and they're excited about the possibilities."

On Punter Dustin Colquitt:
"We're just elated for Dustin. Any and all awards he has won this year are well deserved. The greatest thing has been the appreciation from the fans and his teammates. It was great to see him develop, not only the maturity to be a consistent kicker from a technical standpoint but also the mental toughness that I think I was a part of developing."

On Success of Finishing 10-2:
"At 10-2, I think we ended up with a darn good season. There were people at the beginning of the year who said that with the stretch of tough games we had to play, particularly the big games on the road that we had to play, that we'd be lucky to win eight ballgames. So I'm really happy with our season. So we've got a lot to play for, along with, obviously, the pride and prestige of playing against a fine Clemson team."

On Season as a Whole:
"Our season was an interesting season. Starting all the way back in January, we had great leadership from a group of guys who went through a tough year last year. But if you have the right kind of people, you build on those tough times and we did. We had a great off-season. We started the season off very well. We had some disappointments at Auburn and against Georgia, but our team had the fortitude and leadership to fight back. We had some big wins at Florida and Miami, and always, in our case, the game at Alabama is big as well, and we were able to finish the season with six wins in a row."

On Playing Clemson:
"We've got a quarterback and an offense that are exciting, a defense that's improved a lot from the start of the year and a good kicking game, so we hope to bring our 'A' game and play well against a really fine Clemson team."

On the Development of the Team Throughout the Season:
"Our team this year just had no quit in it. It was a team that you enjoyed going to practice with every day. The players listened and they improved. The defense, when we started the season, had completely replaced the entire front. Our two safeties, collectively, actually had more starts than the rest of the defensive front combined, so you knew things were going to be tough early. But our team really got better over the course of the year, particularly defensively. You enjoyed that. It was a fun group of kids to be around and they fought like heck to get the most they could out of the season."

MISSION STATEMENT

University of Tennessee Athletics Departments

The mission of the University of Tennessee Men's and Women's Department of Intercollegiate Athletics is to provide opportunities for participation in intercollegiate athletics in an environment that encourages the achievement of athletic excellence and good sportsmanship. We are committed to maintaining a proper balance between participation in athletics and the educational and social life common to all students. Jump-started the UT offense with a 48-yard Hail Mary touchdown pass to James Banks on the final play of the first half in the win at No. 17 Florida ... Finished 12-for-23 for 235 yards against the Gators to lift his record at the Swamp to 2-0 ... Hit C.J. Fayton for a touchdown against South Carolina before eventually throwing a four-yard game-winning touchdown to James Banks to defeat the Gamecocks in overtime ... Completed 30-of-47 passes for 355 yards and two scores while valiantly leading the Vols' come-from-behind effort at Auburn ... Completed the longest pass in Tennessee history when he connected with wideout Mark Jones for a 90-yard score against No. 8 Georgia ... Was named SEC Offensive Player of the Week Oct. 25 following his 283-yard, four touchdown effort against Alabama, in which he completed 23-of-43 passes ... Kept Tennessee's hopes alive vs. Alabama when he completed 6-of-8 passes for 81 yards and a touchdown during the Vols' 86-yard touchdown drive that tied the game at 20-20 with 25 seconds left in regulation ... Threw for 208 yards and a touchdown vs. Duke for his 30th career win ... Completed a season-low 11-of-18 passes while leading the Volunteers to a 10-6 win over Miami in the Orange Bowl ... Tied a school record by tossing five touchdown passes during the win over Mississippi State, despite playing only three quarters ... Completed 21-of-34 passes for 342 yards against the Bulldogs ... The MSU contest also marked his fourth straight game without an interception, his sixth career 300-yard passing game (second of the 2003 season) and his third five-touchdown game ... In his final game in Neyland Stadium, he threw for 262 yards and three scores while leading Tennessee to a 48-0 victory over Vanderbilt ... The Vandy contest also saw him complete his 143rd straight pass without an interception, giving him the longest such streak in school history (surpassing Peyton Manning's mark of 132 set in 1995) ... Also against the Commodores, he became only the second UT player in history to accumulate more than 9,000 total yards in a career ... Despite suffering an illness, completed 11 passes for 110 yards and a touchdown at Kentucky in his final regular-season contest ... The win over the Wildcats at Commonwealth Stadium gave him 14 career road victories, the most of any quarterback in Tennessee history.

10 Mark Jones

Senior
Wide Receiver/Defensive Back
5-9, 185
Wallingford, Pa.

Full name: Mark Christopher Jones ... Born Nov. 3, 1980 ... Academic major: Psychology ... Coach at Strath Haven High School: Kevin Clancy.

HONORS - 2003 Special Teams Player of the Week (Nov. 22)

CAREER - Games/Started: 48/16 ... 2003 - Games/Started: 12/12 ... The most versatile player on the Vols' roster, this senior playmaker added the wide receiver position to his already loaded list of responsibilities ... In addition to receiver, was also used in the Vols' defensive Mustang package and on special teams on punt returns and kick coverage units ... Ranked second in the SEC and third nationally with an average of 15.7 yards per punt return ... During the regular season, he played 384 offensive snaps, 208 defensive snaps and 70 special teams plays (662 total plays) ... Led the team with 904 all-purpose yards during the regular season ... In the opening game against Fresno State—making his first career start at the wide receiver position—he caught one pass for 12 yards and returned five punts for 56 yards while logging 57 snaps overall ... Made at least one big play in each quarter against the Bulldogs, making a touchdown-saving tackle on a punt return, knocking Fresno State out of field goal range by forcing intentional grounding on a blitz, making an open-field tackle on third down and setting up UT's final points with a 29-yard punt return ... Caught four passes for 35 yards and also made a tackle during the win over Marshall ... Was on the field for 73 snaps against the Thundering Herd ... In the Florida game, he snagged his third career interception to stop a Gator drive and had the longest run of the day on a 24-yard reverse ... Caught the longest pass in Tennessee football history when he stole the ball from the grasp of a Georgia defender and then raced to the end zone for a 90-yard score ... Finished with 117 yards on four catches against the Bulldogs ... Had one tackle vs. Alabama to go with two catches for 34 yards and a 19-yard rush on a reverse ... Against Duke, had one rush for five yards, two catches for 32 yards and one punt return for 23 yards ... Gained 14 yards of total offense against Miami and also applied the pressure that caused Hurricane quarterback Brock Berlin to throw a critical fourth-quarter interception in the red zone on Miami's final drive of the game ... Caught a career-high five passes against Mississippi State for 90 yards, including a 28-yard touchdown reception ... Also returned three punts for 56 yards and made two solo tackles on defense against the Bulldogs ... Was named the SEC Special Teams Player of the Week after accounting for 216 all-purpose yards in the Vols' 48-0 win over Vanderbilt ... Against the Commodores, he caught three passes for 45 yards, returned five punts for 120 yards (including a 58-yard return for a touchdown) and nabbed one interception, which he returned 51 yards to the Vandy 7-yard line ... Made three tackles and forced a fumble against Kentucky and also caught three passes for 36 yards and a touchdown ... Finished the UK game with 92 snaps played, 19 more than his previous high ... Also added four solo special-teams tackles on the year for good measure.

Vols Ride Six-Game Winning Streak, Capture Share of SEC Eastern Division Crown

Not at all happy about Tennessee's disappearance from the ranks of national powerhouses the previous season, Phillip Fulmer attacked the problem with his tried-and-true emphasis on hard-nosed football and returned the Vols to championship form in 2003.

Sharing in a three-way deadlock for the Eastern Division crown of the Southeastern Conference, the Vols were denied a trip to the title game by a tie-breaking rule that gave the nod to Georgia.

When the regular season ended with a 20-7 victory over arch foe Kentucky at Lexington, the Vols had forged their way back into the top 10 ranks of college football.

Fulmer strengthened his standing as one of the game's premier mentors, the team's 10-2 record bringing his 12-year winning percentage to .807 on a record of 113 victories and 27 losses.

The return to good health and vitality of a crackerjack linebacker trio keyed the season-opening 24-7 victory over Fresno State at Neyland Stadium. Kevin Burnett, Kevin Simon and Robert Peace rebounded from 2002 injuries to stifle the Bulldogs, who were held to 117 yards total offense. For the first time since 1998 and only the seventh time in school history, the Vols held their opponent to minus rushing yardage. Cedric Houston ignited the running game with a 161-yard performance on 19 carries. Tennessee registered touchdowns each of the first three quarters and sealed the win with James Wilhoit's first career field goal in the final period.

Another 100,000-plus audience took in the Marshall game at Neyland Stadium, still wondering how complete a comeback Tennessee had effected since the previous season. Marshall made it terribly uncomfortable until star quarterback Stan Hill was injured, setting the stage for the Vols to cominate the fourth quarter and walk away with a 34-24 victory. In addition to the final tally, there were other encouraging signs of a Tennessee resurgence, including a 160-yard effort by tailback Cedric Houston and a three-touchdown passing display by Casey Clausen. The Vols accounted for six sacks, three of them by Kevin Simon. Dustin Colquitt pinned two punts inside the Marshall 5.

Trailing 3-0 as the clock clicked off the final seconds of the first half, Tennessee stunned 90,332 mostly hostile fans at Florida Field with a play that shifted momentum drastically…and for keeps. Casey Clausen heaved a 48-yard pass goalward off the fingertips of Mark Jones and into the waiting arms of James Banks. Suddenly trailing by 7-3, the Gators never regained the edge they enjoyed through most of the first half. The 24-10 UT victory marked the second straight win for the Vols in Gainesville. Kevin Simon's ubiquitous play at linebacker was documented by 16 tackles credited to him. Tennessee's widest margin, 17-3, came when Jabari Davis dived across for a third-quarter score. The Gators were held without a touchdown until the 14-minute mark of the final period.

Tennessee lost the battle of statistics against South Carolina, but General Neyland never worried about that kind of thing anyway. Neither did Phillip Fulmer, who joined 107,881 fans in celebrating a 23-20 overtime win over the Gamecocks. Four straight carries by Cedric Houston moved the ball to the South Carolina four after the visitors had gone ahead in the extra period on a 24-yard field goal. Casey Clausen found James Banks in the corner of the end zone and lifted a pass that Banks pulled in for the winning touchdown. A phenomenal punting performance by Dustin Colquitt served to nullify South Carolina's offensive production, which outdid the Vols, 371 yards to 266. Colquitt averaged 51.7 yards and parked three of his kicks inside the 10.

Auburn dominated the first three quarters so decisively that the Tigers were stunned in the fourth quarter to find the Vols trailing by only a touchdown and in possession of the ball. The Jordan-Hare Stadium crowd of 86,063 gave a gasp of relief only when defensive back Carlos Rogers intercepted a Casey Clausen pass to snuff out a rally that was threatening to send the game into overtime. As it turned out, Clausen's pinpoint marksmanship in the closing minutes was unable to overcome Carnell Williams'

A four-year starter, Casey Clausen's grit and determination came through as he guided the Vols to a 10-2 mark in 2003. His refuse-to-lose attitude helped him achieve an impressive 14-1 career record on the road.

brilliant running, which accounted for 185 yards and was the primary factor in the Tigers' 28-7 lead early in the final period. Tennessee's running game was virtually non-existent as the Vols were held to a measly 10 yards net on the ground in the 28-21 Auburn victory.

Georgia coach Mark Richt called it the biggest momentum swing he had ever seen, an assessment not likely to be challenged by the Tennessee Vols or the 107,517 fans packed into Neyland Stadium for the matchup of SEC title hopefuls. Of all the revolting developments! As the end of the half approached, Georgia holding to a 13-7 lead, Tennessee was marching toward a touchdown that would have put the Vols in the lead at intermission. With the ball at the Bulldogs 1, Casey Clausen and Troy Fleming collided in the backfield. Georgia safety Sean Jones scooped up the fumble and ran 92 yards for a touchdown. For all practical purposes, that ended the ball game. Tennessee came out looking dead in the second half and suffered a 41-14 setback, a humbling loss that in an odd way maybe inspired the Vols to stage a resurgence late in the season.

Appreciation for Casey Clausen's skills and his gamesmanship increased perceptively when he became the central figure in a five-overtime, come-from-behind 51-43 victory over Alabama at Tuscaloosa. The quarterback's heroic tale began in the drama of the closing two minutes of regulation when Clausen directed an 86-yard touchdown drive that sent the game into overtime tied at 20-all. With both squads fighting fatigue during the nearly five-hour marathon, Clausen and Jason Allen made the plays that gave the decision to the Vols. Clausen snuck across from the one, and Allen tipped away Alabama's final pass. A defensive stand that denied Alabama a first down late in regulation play will be long remembered as a key element in the victory.

The final score was 23-6, which sounds like a typical Homecoming-style victory over an overmatched opponent. But to the man the Vols will let you know there was nothing routine about their joust with Duke. The Blue Devils fought to a halftime tie and only trailed by 9-6 as the final period began. UT's Troy Fleming forced a fumble, recovered by Corey Larkins, early in the fourth quarter, and the floodgates finally opened for the Vols to post a 17-point victory. A four-yard touchdown pass from Casey Clausen to Chris Hannon and Gerald Riggs' 12-yard scamper accounted for the fourth-quarter scoring. Tailback Jabari Davis ran for a season-high 113 yards to pace the running game. Dustin Colquitt brightened his All-America prospects with a 49-yard average on five punts.

Passing up an almost certain field goal, Phillip Fulmer rolled the dice at the end of the half for a touchdown that produced a 10-6 victory over Miami, snapping the Hurricanes 26-game winning streak at the Orange Bowl. The Vols, deadlocked at 3-3, marched to the Miami two, abetted handsomely by two 15-yard penalties against the Hurricanes. On fourth down, Fulmer, sending a message the Vols weren't piddling around, elected to go for the touchdown. He called on Derrick Tinsley to execute an end-around, placing his faith in the versatile Georgian. Tinsley sprinted to his right and crashed across the goal to put Tennessee ahead, 10-3, at intermission, Miami's last threat in the second half was stopped short when Gibril Wilson picked off a hurried Hurricanes pass.

The meeting with Mississippi State before a crowd of 104,233 still toasting the victory over Miami turned into a track meet for the previously subdued offense. The coming-out party featured Casey Clausen's 21 completions for 342 yards and five touchdowns, nine receivers sharing in the bounty of Casey's tosses and seven running backs having a hand in the 505 yards of total offense generated by the Vols. Clausen's touchdown production tied a school record shared by Andy Kelly, Heath Shuler and Peyton Manning. Chris Hannon, one of numerous wide receivers coming into their own during the season, racked up touchdown catches of 10, 30 and five yards. The third quarter found the Vols playing to near perfection by scoring 24 points, blocking a punt and stopping the Bulldogs offense cold. State's 59-21 setback soured longtime head coach Jackie Sherrill's final visit to Knoxville.

Vanderbilt arrived in Knoxville encouraged by an impressive victory over Kentucky and evidence that the offense, with sophomore quarterback Jay Cutler in charge, was gaining maturity. But the youthful Commodores will have to wait a year for another crack at their in-state rival Vols. Tennessee pinned a 48-0 loss on the Commodores, whose hopes for an upset evaporated when the Vols tallied three touchdowns in the first quarter. The scores came on Tony Brown's 16-yard touchdown catch, Jabari Davis' seven-yard scoring burst and Mark Jones 59-yard punt return. Jones made an unforgettable day out of his final Neyland Stadium appearance, catching three passes for 45 yards, returning five punts for 120 yards and bringing an interception back 51 yards.

Phillip Fulmer's observation he had never seen an easy game with Kentucky held water for another year as the Vols posted a 20-7 victory over the Wildcats on a cold, blustery afternoon at Commonwealth Stadium. The final score was an illusion as it related to the course of the game. UT's victory wasn't secure until Cedric Houston bulled his way across the goal from the 10 with 1:27 left. Houston's surge climaxed a time-consuming march that began at the 9:01 mark. The objective was ball possession, designed to knock the Wildcats out of a last chance to win. With a six-point lead, Tennessee deftly mixed its play selection and cashed in with first downs until Houston's clinching touchdown.

A determined Derrick Tinsley fought his way across the goal line on this momentum-swinging play seconds before halftime at Miami. The score marked the game's only touchdown as the Vols went on to hand the Hurricanes a 10-6 loss in the Orange Bowl.

Tennessee's 2003 season opener was football the way Volunteer fans like to see it.

The 12th-ranked Vols dominated the ground with 274 yards and held the potentially dangerous Fresno State offense to minus-1 yards rushing for a 24-6 win at Neyland Stadium.

Cedric Houston had his best performance in an orange uniform as he rushed for a career-high 161 yards on 19 carries. He had 95 yards in the first quarter alone, carrying the ball six straight times in Tennessee's second drive of the game.

"As far as my running goes, I give all the credit to my offensive line and fullback Troy Fleming," Houston said. "The offensive line made my job a whole lot easier. They had holes everywhere, so I just had to pick one."

Backup Jabari Davis also made an immediate impact when he knifed 44 yards through the Bulldogs' defense to the checkerboard on his first carry of the season. He finished with 84 yards on 12 carries.

"We ran the football well," head coach Phillip Fulmer said. "I think we're going to be a good running team. I don't think we ran as well as we're capable of running."

Tennessee's defense also answered the call with a choking performance on Fresno State's running and aerial attacks by keeping the Bulldogs' offense scoreless. With a completely new defensive line and a healthy corps of linebackers, the Vols held the Bulldogs to only 117 yards of total offense compared to Tennessee's 433. Fresno State converted just four first downs.

Casey Clausen air strikes to James Banks set the tone for the Vols' first drive. Banks, who splits time between quarterback and receiver, hauled in three balls for 56 yards during the drive and caught Tennessee's first touchdown pass of the season, a 9-yard heave to the left sideline for a 7-0 early lead.

After Davis' touchdown scamper, Clausen hooked up with Tony Brown for a 5-yard score and a 21-0 third-quarter lead. Freshman kicker James Wilhoit added a 40-yard field goal for Tennessee in the fourth after missing two shorter kicks earlier in the game.

Fresno State's only points came with 7:14 to play when Richard Marshall intercepted a Clausen pass and took it 81 yards for a touchdown. The extra point, however, wasn't attempted due to a bad snap.

Indeed, it was an impressive win, considering some of the 2002 struggles and the questions surrounding the Vols' capabilities on both sides of the ball. But Fulmer noted there were aspects of his team that may need more improvement before the Vols head into SEC action.

"I was concerned about this game because Fresno is a good team," Fulmer said.

"It's a huge building block at this point. We will get better in areas."

GAME NOTES

* Tennessee improved to 79-22-6 (.766) all-time in season openers, with a nine-game win streak dating to 1995.
* In home openers, Tennessee improved to 83-18-5, (.806) with a 14-1 record in the last 15 home openers.
* Cedric Houston rushed for a career-high 161 yards on just 19 carries, breaking his old mark of 149 yards on 32 carries against Mississippi State in 2002.
* Tennessee's 274 yards rushing bettered 2002's season-high 242 vs. Vanderbilt and was the most for the Vols since 290 vs. Arkansas in 2000.
* The game marked the first time the Vols held an opponent to negative rushing yards since defeating Florida (-13) in 1998, and it was just the seventh time in school history.
* Tennessee recorded four sacks in the game: Kevin Burnett and Kevin Simon shared one while Gibril Wilson, Constantin Ritzmann and Mondre Dickerson each had individual sacks.

Vols Corral Thundering Herd in First Meeting of Division I-A's Top Coaches

Tennessee's Phillip Fulmer won the duel of the nation's most successful active coaches as his No. 12 Volunteers edged Marshall 34-24 at Neyland Stadium.

Casey Clausen passed for 235 yards and three touchdowns, while James Wilhoit kicked two fourth-quarter field goals in the victory.

Thundering Herd coach Bob Pruett entered the game owning Division I-A's best winning percentage at .862, with Fulmer second on the list behind a mark of .806.

"I take my hat off to Coach Pruett and Marshall," Fulmer said. "They did a fabulous job coming in here and playing well. This was a good game for us before the SEC schedule to play a tough team like Marshall."

The Vols had their hands full with the Thundering Herd in the early going, with Marshall taking a 10-7 lead in the second quarter.

But a 35-yard punt return by Rashad Baker, combined with a 15-yard personal foul on the Herd, started Tennessee's final drive of the half at the Marshall 27. It took only one play for Clausen to put the Vols on the board again when he hit Tony Brown over his shoulder in the corner of the checkerboard for a 14-10 lead at the break.

The Vols and Herd traded shots in the third quarter. Both of UT's scores were set up courtesy of runs by Cedric Houston, who finished the game with 160 yards on 26 tries. His scamper down the right sideline for 56 yards set the table for Jabari Davis' 2-yard leap over the line for a score. A 35-yard Houston run on the Vols' next possession was the foreword to Clausen's 3-yard pass to Troy Fleming.

Marshall found the end zone as well, with quarterback Stan Hill hooking up with Darius Watts for 13 yards and Josh Davis for 65 yards down the right sideline to make it 28-24 Tennessee headed into the fourth.

Davis led the Herd with 123 yards receiving, while Watts had 109 electrifying yards on nine catches. Hill finished with 242 yards passing, and also collected a 34-yard run in the first quarter.

Marshall, however, was forced to play the final stanza without Hill, who was injured celebrating Davis' touchdown. The loss of the quarterback left Tennessee in control of the fourth quarter, when Wilhoit nailed field goals of 42 and 35 yards to ice the 10-point victory.

"We definitely picked it up today - in the passing game as well as the running game," said Clausen, who finished 21-of-33 in the air. "We started off slow, and that's one thing that we'll have to watch on film and see what happened there. But after the first quarter, we picked it up and started making some plays downfield."

Tennessee's linebackers made the plays in Marshall's backfield, assuring a full recovery from last year's injuries. They had five of the Vols' six sacks, with Kevin Simon totaling three.

Dustin Colquitt also lived up to his accurate billing, landing two punts inside the Marshall 5.

GAME NOTES

* The game marked the first meeting between Tennessee and Marshall.
* Casey Clausen threw three touchdowns for the first time since passing for three scores against Rutgers in 2002.
* Clausen's 16-yard run in the second quarter was the longest of his career, breaking his old mark of 15 yards against Kentucky in 2001.
* Cedric Houston rushed for more than 100 yards for the seventh time in his career with his total of 160 yards.
* Tennessee improved an 81-5-2 mark since 1990 when having a running back rush for more than 100 yards.
* UT recorded six sacks (-56) in the game, the most since recording nine against Southern Mississippi in 2000.
* Kevin Simon had three sacks (-28) to tie for second on Tennessee's single-game sack chart.
* Dustin Colquitt earned SEC Special Teams Player of the Week honors for his 50.8-yard average in the game. He twice pinned Marshall inside the 5 and had a 63-yarder.

With no time on the clock and plenty of time in the pocket, Casey Clausen stepped up and launched a 48-yard heave. The throw was aimed at the right side of the end zone as the first half ended.

Mark Jones tipped it. James Banks caught it.

"It was huge," Banks said of the play that led to Tennessee's 24-10 win over Florida at steamy Ben Hill Griffin Stadium.

He was talking about the football as it bounced his way, but his words easily could describe the play, the game and the rivalry. "My eyes looked like I was in a horror movie. You dream about that kind of stuff."

Banks' heavenly touchdown gave No. 12 UT a 7-3 lead at the half and the momentum to outtough No. 17 Florida. It was the Vols' second consecutive win in Gainesville, a first for a Tennessee team since 1953-55.

"I can say this is a huge win for us," Vols' coach Phillip Fulmer said. "This is just another step in the right direction. There are a lot of good things about this football team, but the best things are their attitude, their work ethic, their coachability and their responsiveness."

It was that responsiveness the Vols showed after the miracle end to the first half. Clausen, who boosted his record to 11-0 as a starter on the road, gave an inspirational speech at halftime to fire up Tennessee's sluggish offense.

It worked.

"Casey Clausen showed leadership in the locker room and put the team in the mood to come out in the third quarter," said Jabari Davis, who filled in for a banged up Cedric Houston. "Casey's leadership he has on the road helps."

The Big Orange defense stalled Florida's second half opening drive, and the offense proceeded to eat the clock. The Vols took 11 plays to drive 18 yards, but wasted 4:11 on the clock before a James Wilhoit 51-yard field goal – the longest of his young career – pushed Tennessee's lead to 10-3.

Davis carried the load the rest of the game. After Clausen found freshman Bret Smith for a 57-yard gain to the 1, the junior tailback's trademark leap over the top made it 17-3.

Facing third-and-18, Florida's Ingle Martin found Kelvin Kight down the sideline for a 24-yard gain to end the third quarter. The new-found life pushed the Gators into the end zone in just 2:10 for their only touchdown when DeShawn Wynn split the middle for 5 yards on the ground to make it 17-10.

But the Vols responded with a five-minute drive, led by Davis and capped by his 9-yard blast through defenders for the game's final touchdown. He led all rushers with 78 yards.

Tennessee held Florida to 73 yards on the ground and limited the Gators 43.7 points below their season scoring average entering the game. Linebacker Kevin Simon dominated with 16 tackles, while end Parys Haralson recorded both the Vols' sacks.

GAME NOTES

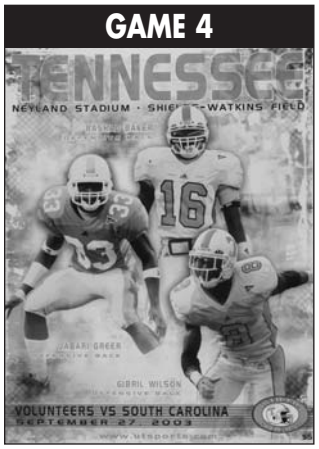

* Tennessee leads the overall series against Florida 18-15 and has won two of the last three contests.
* The win marked the first time the Vols won consecutive games in Gainesville since 1953 and 1955.
* The crowd of 90,332 was the largest in Florida history.
* Jabari Davis was named SEC Offensive Player of the Week after carrying 20 times for 78 yards and two TDs in the win. He gained 74 of his 78 yards in the final 24 minutes.
* Davis' two touchdowns in the game boosted his total to five scores in the last three games vs. Florida.
* James Wilhoit's 51-yard field goal in the third quarter was the longest of his career.
* The Vols held the Gators without a touchdown until 14:00 left in the fourth quarter.
* UT's Gus Manning attended his 600th consecutive Tennessee game, dating to the 1951 season opener.

Vols Cash in on Banks' Touchdown Catch to Slip by Gamecocks in Overtime

Tennessee	23
South Carolina	20

James Banks noticed the one-on-one coverage. So did Casey Clausen.

And they both took advantage of the situation.

Clausen dropped three steps and heaved a perfect lob to the right corner of the end zone to Banks for the game-winning touchdown as No. 8 Tennessee squeaked by South Carolina 23-20 in overtime at Neyland Stadium.

Tied at 17, South Carolina's Daniel Weaver connected on a 24-yard field goal to end the Gamecocks' overtime possession to give them the advantage.

But Tennessee responded by pounding the running game. Cedric Houston carried the ball four straight times to move the Vols to USC's 4. It was third-and-3, and another run appeared obvious to the fifth-largest crowd (107,881) in Neyland history until Clausen checked off and changed the play.

"I looked over at James and told him I was coming to him," Clausen said. "Big players make big plays, and it was a big win for us."

The victory was huge considering South Carolina's statistical domination. Tailback Demetris Summers used direction-changing runs to confuse the Vols' defense en route to 158 yards on the ground. It was the first time a back rushed for more than 100 yards against Tennessee since Miami's Willis McGahee had 154 in 2002, and the most since Nebraska's Ahmand Green had 206 yards in the 1998 Orange Bowl.

South Carolina gained 100 more yards than Tennessee, ran 16 more plays than the Vols and collected eight more first downs. The Big Orange, however, dominated in field position thanks to punter Dustin Colquitt, who punted seven times for a 51.7-yard average. Five of his punts flew more than 50 yards and he placed three of his kicks inside USC's 10.

"Sometimes you win a game like that where you are outplayed," Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer said. "Dustin won the game tonight. We had field position because of our punter, and they didn't."

Tennessee began the battle in Gamecock territory when Marvin Mitchell blocked South Carolina's punt and Derrick Tinsley recovered on the USC 10. Two plays into the Vols' first possession, Clausen hit C.J. Fayton on the side of the checkerboard over a Gamecock defender's head to make it 7-0.

Carolina responded with a touchdown on Daccus Turman's 1-yard run that began the first-half offensive chess match. Houston made the next move for UT with a 3-yard touchdown run, his first score of the year. Then it was an 89-yard drive by South Carolina, capped by a 1-yard Dondrial Pinkins pass to Hart Turner for seven points. James Wilhoit booted a 33-yard field goal to give the Vols a 17-14 halftime lead.

That, however, was all Tennessee's offense could muster the rest of the regulation. South Carolina's wasn't much more productive, save Weaver's 37-yard field goal to tie it up with 5:15 left in the third.

GAME NOTES

* Tennessee improved to 4-0 for the first time since 1998, when it went 13-0 and won the national championship.
* The Vols upped their record to 3-1 in overtime games, including a 3-0 mark at Neyland Stadium.
* In the three overtime wins by Tennessee, the score at the end of regulation was 17-17.
* Tennessee leads the all-time series with USC 18-2-2 and has won the last 11 meetings. Each of the last four games have been decided by eight points or less.
* C.J. Fayton's 9-yard touchdown catch was his first of the season and his first since catching a 2-yard score from Casey Clausen at South Carolina in 2002.
* Dustin Colquitt averaged a career-high 51.7 yards on seven punts, three of which landed inside the USC 10. His efforts earned him SEC Special Teams Player of the Week for the second time this year.
* Marvin Mitchell's blocked punt was Tennessee's first block of the season and led to a touchdown. Derrick Tinsley recovered for the Vols.

There was a lot of rock pounding, but it wasn't what Tennessee had planned.

The Tigers beat the No. 7 Vols at their own game, and then brushed off a fourth-quarter rally by the men in orange to hang on to a 28-21 win at Jordan-Hare Stadium.

Auburn turned the tables on traditional Tennessee football and rushed for 264 yards, led by Carnell Williams' 185 bruising yards on 36 carries. Meanwhile, the Tiger defense held a firm grip on the Vols' ground game, holding Tennessee's attack to a mere 4 yards.

"Obviously, this is not what we wanted," Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer said. "We knew they would run the ball. They rushed better, obviously, than what we had prepared for."

The Tigers had their way with things in the early going. They burst out of the gates to a 14-0 lead thanks to a 10-play, 80-yard march to open the game and a seven-play, 85-yard drive on their second possession. Ronnie Brown's 6-yard run and Jason Campbell's 29-yard pass to Ben Obomanu capped the respective drives, and the Vols played catch-up the rest of the way.

"We wanted to come out and have a good start," Campbell said. "We gained a lot of momentum in the opening quarter."

Both teams stalled in the second quarter until Tennessee opened up an all-out aerial attack with 2:32 left in the half with the ball on its own 16. Casey Clausen, who finished the game with 355 yards, was 7-of-8 passing on a drive that ended with a Jabari Davis touchdown leap to cut the margin to 14-7 at halftime.

The momentum, however, didn't last as James Wilhoit missed a 50-yard field goal on the Vols' opening possession of the second half. In response, Auburn leaned on its running game for 11 straight plays, capped by Williams' 1-yard score.

The Tigers tacked on another touchdown in their next possession when Campbell found Cole Bennett for an 8-yard scoring reception and a 28-7 fourth-quarter advantage.

But the Vols weren't finished. Clausen again unloaded his arsenal and cashed in on a 16-yard touchdown pass to Mark Jones, the first offensive score of Jones' career. Auburn had a rare three-and-out, and Clausen again put the Vols on the scoreboard, this time on a 28-yarder to Chris Hannon for his first career score.

Auburn threatened, but John Vaughn missed his second field goal, giving UT a shot to tie.

With less than two minutes to play, Clausen threw three incomplete passes before connecting with Hannon for 22 yards on fourth-and-14. Two plays later, Clausen ran for a first down, and an personal foul took it to the Auburn 29.

Clausen's next pass was a curl to Mark Jones on the left side, but Auburn's Carlos Rogers intercepted the low pass at the Tigers' 18-yard line with 54 seconds remaining to ice the game.

It was Auburn's first win over Tennessee since 1988.

Bulldogs Better Vols After First-Half Gamble Goes Haywire at the Goal

Georgia	41
Tennessee	14

Georgia capitalized on a peculiar score to end the first half and then rolled past Tennessee 41-14 in what was billed as a heavyweight title bout for the SEC Eastern Division lead.

Trailing 13-7 with 3:19 left in the second quarter, the No. 13 Vols rode the arm of Casey Clausen to the UGA 1. Tennessee's quarterback was 6-of-7 on the drive and also scrambled for four yards. Georgia had three personal foul penalties for 44 yards to aid the march.

But it all came down to a botched handoff.

Clausen tried a quarterback sneak before being stopped short on a second-and-goal play. After a Tennessee timeout with :07 showing on the clock, Clausen's handoff to Jabari Davis never made it. Clausen and fullback Troy Fleming collided and the ball popped free. Georgia safety Sean Jones scooped up the loose pigskin and raced 92 yards for a touchdown, turning the tables and making it 20-7 at the half.

"The last play of the half was the largest momentum swing I've ever seen." Georgia coach Mark Richt said of the recovery. "We could have been down one, but we were up 13."

The Vols never recovered.

Georgia forced a Tennessee punt to open the second half, then marched 83 yards behind the nearly perfect David Greene, who went 22-of-27 on the night for 228 yards. Michael Cooper capped the drive by dashing 6 yards to the right corner, outrunning the Vols' defense to paydirt.

It was 27-7, and the rout was on.

Tennessee's next play was intercepted by Georgia's Odell Thurman at the UT 31 and returned to the 5. It took the Bulldogs three plays before Tyson Browning's 8-yard run made it 34-7.

The Vols' next drive lasted two plays before Robert Geathers picked off a Clausen deflection at the UT 22. The Bulldogs needed only one play for Kregg Lumpkin to scamper into the end zone for a 41-7 lead with 6:34 left in the third quarter.

Bret Smith tacked on a touchdown for the Vols with 46 seconds left in the game when he caught a 15-yard pass from C.J. Leak. It was the first-ever collegiate score for both players.

"We as seniors have to show a lot of leadership and keep this team together," linebacker Robert Peace said. "There is still a lot of season ahead. I still believe in this team and I believe we can have a lot of success."

Georgia jumped out to a 10-0 lead to start the game thanks to a 32-yard field goal by Billy Bennett and an 11-yard touchdown pass from Greene to Michael Johnson.

Tennessee responded with a 90-yard touchdown bomb from Clausen to Mark Jones. Jones pulled the ball away from a defender near midfield, and then ran to the checkerboard for the longest pass play in Tennessee history.

Bennett added a 44-yard field goal for Georgia before the momentum-swinging fumble to end the first half.

GAME NOTES

* Casey Clausen's 90-yard touchdown pass to Mark Jones was the longest pass play in Tennessee history, surpassing an 87-yard completion from Andy Kelly to Carl Pickens vs. Auburn in 1991.
* The 90-yard TD strike was the third-longest Tennessee play from scrimmage, behind runs of 99 yards by Kelsey Finch vs. Florida in 1977 and 91 yards by Dick Dodson vs. Transylvania in 1927.
* Jones' 117 yards receiving made him the first Vols receiver to go over 100 yards in a game during the 2003 season.
* C.J. Leak's 15-yard TD pass to Bret Smith was the first of his UT career. It also was Smith's first score.
* The game marked Georgia's fourth consecutive win against Tennessee. The Bulldogs trail UT in the all-time series 17-14-2.
* Georgia scored 24 points in the game off four Tennessee turnovers - two fumbles and two interceptions.

Vols Take Memorable Chess Match, Halt Crimson Tide in Fifth Overtime

October 25, Tuscaloosa, Ala.
Bryant-Denny Stadium, 3:30 p.m.
Attendance 83,018

No wonder this is one of college football's greatest rivalries.

Led by quarterback Casey Clausen, No. 22 Tennessee orchestrated an 86-yard drive in the final two minutes of regulation to tie the game at 20. The Vols then outdueled Alabama in five overtimes to take a heart-pounding 51-43 victory at Bryant-Denny Stadium.

"This is a great win for us," said Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer. "Our coaches and players showed a lot of character. These kids have been through a lot, and I think it's something we can build on."

Clausen's character was displayed during UT's last drive before overtime when the Vols were without a timeout. He went 7-of-9 through the air, including a 1-yard TD pass to fullback Troy Fleming with 25 seconds remaining.

In the fifth extra period, he scrambled right and dove for the end zone only to be inches shy. The next play, Clausen called his own number and followed center Scott Wells' block into the end zone to put the Vols ahead for good.

"There's not a tougher-minded quarterback in the country than Casey Clausen," Fulmer said. His senior quarterback finished the game 23-of-43 with 283 yards, four passing touchdowns and one on the ground.

Alabama had one last push, but Tennessee's defense wouldn't let the Tide get a first down. On fourth-and-2 from the 17, UT corner Jason Allen deflected Brodie Croyle's pass in the end zone to cap the game just before the five-hour mark.

Tennessee's defense came up big on more than just the final play. It held Alabama on two goal-line stands – one on the 2 that resulted in a blocked Alabama field goal, the other early in the fourth with the game tied at 13.

But perhaps the most important stop was when Alabama needed a first down to run out the clock just before the Vols' game-tying drive. Leading 20-13 and needing only 2 yards to secure a win, the Tide's Shaud Williams was stopped on three consecutive runs, forcing Alabama to punt and giving Tennessee the last chance it needed to tie.

Both teams kicked field goals in the first half before UT's James Banks lined up at quarterback and sprinted 25 yards on a draw for a third-quarter touchdown. James Wilhoit added a 38-yard field goal, and it was 13-6 Vols.

Alabama responded with two touchdowns to lead 20-13 before Tennessee tied the game.

The extra periods were brief chess matches, with both teams alternating the advantage. Clausen had a 6-yard toss to Derrick Tinsley. Croyle threw a 6-yarder to Dre Fulgham.

Alabama got two 12-yard scoring runs from Tim Castille and Williams in the second and third overtimes, respectively. Tennessee got two scores from Banks – receptions of 5 and 25 yards, respectively – to even the game. Field goals were traded in the fourth overtime before Tennessee won the marathon in the fifth.

Devils Go Blue When Fourth Quarter Fumble Leads to Vols' Homecoming Win

Tennessee	23
Duke	6

November 1, Knoxville, Tenn.
Neyland Stadium, 4 p.m.
Attendance 104,772

Homecoming always has a little excitement for everyone and, for three quarters, this year's game was no different.

No. 19 Tennessee clung to a three-point lead before shutting out Duke in the second half and scoring two fourth-quarter touchdowns for a 23-6 Homecoming triumph.

"We just have to make it exciting, don't we?" Vols linebacker Kevin Burnett said.

Though Tennessee held the upper hand most of the game, it never really cashed in until the opening minutes of the fourth quarter. The Vols punted to Duke's Jamin Pastore, but UT fullback Troy Fleming hit him on the return, forcing a fumble. Backup tailback Corey Larkins recovered and the Vols took over on Duke's 37-yard line.

The six-play drive ended when Casey Clausen found Chris Hannon over the middle for a 4-yard touchdown and a 16-6 Tennessee lead.

"Initially it was a running play, and Casey checked it off because he saw something in the middle," Hannon said of his scoring play. "When he gave me the signal, I looked in the middle and saw that it was a good call."

Duke got good field position when Senterrio Landrum returned the ensuing kickoff to the 46. Chris Douglas carried the ball seven of the drive's 10 plays, taking the Blue Devils to the UT 20, but Matt Brooks' second consecutive missed field goal took the fire out of the Devils.

Clausen hit James Banks for 42 yards, then tailback Gerald Riggs carried the Vols into the checkerboard on consecutive runs of 13 and 12 yards -- the scoring play going straight through the middle of Duke's defense for some extra cushion.

"The game was won on momentum," said Duke defensive tackle Matt Zielinski, who had three tackles for loss. "They had a momentum swing there, and they just carried it into the final minutes of the game. It wasn't just the fumbled punt, but it was the defense letting them drive the field and score on the short field."

Vols tailback Jabari Davis, who started in place of injured Cedric Houston, set the tempo for the Tennessee offense. He finished with a season-high 113 yards on 17 carries. Douglas led Duke with 128 yards on 29 carries.

The Blue Devils had their chances. After a scoreless first quarter, field goals were traded, and Tennessee added a second for a 6-3 lead. Duke's Matt Brooks nailed a 37-yarder to close the half with the teams tied at 6 apiece.

James Wilhoit added another field goal for the Vols for a 9-6 third-quarter lead. But Duke's ground attack of Douglas and Cedric Dargan carried to a first-and-goal from the UT 2.

Douglas lost a yard and then an illegal procedure penalty pushed Duke back to the 8. An incomplete pass and a Mondre Dickerson quarterback sack made it fourth down from the 17.

Brooks' 34-yard field goal attempt was wide left and the Vols finally had the momentum. One fumbled punt later, UT had a hard-fought win.

GAME NOTES

* Tennessee improved to 61-16-3 in Homecoming games and have won 19 of the last 20.
* With the win, the Vols take a 14-13-2 advantage in the series with Duke that dates back to 1893.
* Tennessee has won three consecutive games against Duke for the first time in history.
* The Vols movd to 61-4 in November games since 1985, including a 40-2 mark at home.
* Casey Clausen moved past Tim Couch for 10th on the SEC's all-time passing list with 8,528 yards.
* Jabari Davis, who made his first start of the season, rushed for a season-high 113 yards on 17 carries.
* Kicker James Wilhoit's three field goals tied a career-high, set at Alabama one week earlier.
* Tennessee's defense had its third goal-line stand in two weeks when it held Duke scoreless after the Blue Devils had the ball first-and-goal at the UT 2.
* The defensive stand was highlighted by Mondre Dickerson's 9-yard QB sack, followed by Duke missing a 34-yard field goal.
* Tailback Gerald Riggs' 12-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter was the first of his collegiate career.

Games like these would make Gen. Neyland proud.

Tennessee walked directly into the eye of Miami's storm and came away victorious as the No. 18 Volunteers stunned the sixth-ranked Hurricanes 10-6 at the Orange Bowl. The upset snapped Miami's 26-game home winning streak and gave it its second consecutive defeat in 2003.

Facing fourth-and-goal from the 2 as the first half closed, Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer loosened his collar and ditched kicking a field goal. Instead, he put the ball in the hands of the versatile Derrick Tinsley, who took Casey Clausen's handoff and raced to the right side of the end zone on an end-around for what turned out to be the game-winning score with 20 seconds left in the second quarter.

"I thought we could make it, and I felt we needed to make a statement that we were down here to win the football game," Fulmer said. "We had no fear of the Hurricanes and what they've accomplished."

Miami bounced back from the 10-3 halftime deficit to kick a 22-yard third-quarter field goal, but it would get no more as the Vols' defense stood tall the rest of the game to hang on to the four-point win.

Neyland's Game Maxims were vital in Tennessee's upset win.

The team that makes the fewest mistakes will win: Miami had 12 penalties for 121 yards, threw two interceptions and gave up two fumbles.

Play for and make the breaks, and when one comes your way, score: Tinsley's touchdown would not have been a score if it weren't for a 15-yard personal foul slapped on Miami for roughing UT punter Dustin Colquitt on fourth-and-15 from the UT 35. The penalty resulted in a UT first down, and eventually the touchdown.

Protect our kickers, our quarterback, our lead and our ball game: Tennessee's defense held Miami scoreless the final 25:24, forcing two fumbles and collecting an interception.

Press the kicking game. Here is where the breaks are made: When Tennessee punted to Miami with 2:27 remaining in the game, the idea was for one final defensive stand. However, Miami's Sean Taylor, who was forced to backpedal under Colquitt's 56-yard punt, dropped the football. Tinsley pounced on it for the Vols, and the game was sealed.

The Hurricanes, who eclipsed the Vols in total yardage 321-170, were 2-of-3 in the red zone, twice settling for a field goal. Turnovers also plagued the scoring effort. Quarterback Brock Berlin's fumble was on the UT 38, and his second pick was on the UT 7.

Jon Peattie hit a 31-yard field goal on Miami's first drive, but Wilhoit responded with his 41-yarder in the second for a 3-3 tie. The Vols then took 9:19 to drive the field for the game's only touchdown.

GAME NOTES

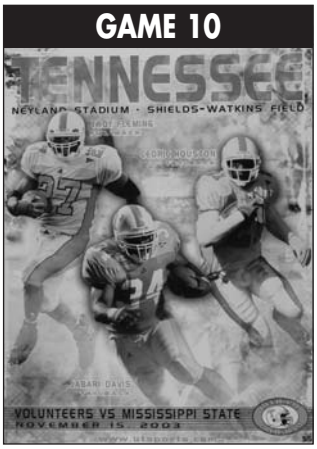

* Tennessee's win gives the Vols a 2-1 advantage in the all-time series against Miami, 1-0 at the Orange Bowl.
* The Vols' win snapped Miami's 26-game home winning streak in the Orange Bowl, dating back to a 27-23 loss to Penn State Sept. 18, 1999. It was Miami coach Larry Coker's first home loss.
* Tennessee held Miami without a touchdown for the first time at home since a 38-3 loss to Florida State in 1984.
* The Vols' defense forced four turnovers in the game - two interceptions and two fumbles.
* UT quarterback Casey Clausen completed a season-low 11-of-18 passes for 81 yards.
* Clausen improved to 13-1 in opponents' home stadiums, tying former Vol QB Peyton Manning for the most career road wins by a UT quarterback.
* Clausen moved past Steve Tanneyhill for ninth on the SEC's all-time passing list at 8,609 yards.
* Kevin Simon had his first career interception. J.T. Mapu had his first career fumble recovery. Gibril Wilson had his first career interception, stopping a potential Miami scoring drive.
* Tennessee's second-quarter touchdown drive lasted 15 plays for 9:19, the longest drive of the season.
* The Vols' possession time in the first half was 20:34, compared to the Hurricanes' 9:26.

Offense Flies Past State as Clausen Finds Hannon Three Times in Thrashing

Tennessee	59
Mississippi State	21

Casey Clausen and the No. 9 Vols unleashed their most explosive offensive production of the season in a 59-21 blitz of Mississippi State at Neyland Stadium.

Clausen was 21-of-34 for 342 yards and five touchdowns, tying a school mark for most touchdown passes in a game. It was the fourth consecutive game in which Clausen did not thrown an interception, marking 125 straight pass attempts.

"We came out and we executed, and when we had opportunities to make plays, we made those plays," Clausen said.

Receiver Chris Hannon was a highlight reel, turning his first three catches into touchdowns for his first multi-touchdown reception game.

Tailback Jabari Davis also had a strong outing. He rushed nine times for 67 yards, including a 42-yard breakaway. The junior also scored two touchdowns in goal-line situations.

"Offensively, this was the best showing we've had for execution," said Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer, whose team outgained the Bulldogs 535 yards to 288. "Through the first three quarters, before we took our starters out, we had the complete performance we've been looking for, except for the (kick) returns."

The third quarter proved to be the best 15 minutes of the season for the Vols. They put up 24 points and held the Bulldogs to just one first down and minus-5 total yards. Already leading 28-7, Tennessee began the period with runs by Davis, including his 42-yarder, and Gerald Riggs before Clausen found Hannon for 30 yards and a score.

Tennessee's O.J. Owens blocked an MSU punt and Troy Fleming recovered it at the 1. It was Davis over the top, and the Vols were up 42-7.

On UT's ensuing possession, James Banks caught a 50-yard pass over the middle to set up Hannon's third score in as many tries. Tennessee tacked on a James Wilhoit 26-yard field goal after Marvin Mitchell's interception, and it was 52-7.

Fullback William Revill capped the fourth quarter's opening drive with a 12-yard sprint through the middle to make it 59-7 Vols. The Bulldogs added two late scores against Tennessee's second- and third-string defense.

"I think as a team, this was the best game we've played all year," Clausen said. "Hopefully, we can build on that and continue to get better."

An 18-yard touchdown pass from Clausen to Hannon got things started for Tennessee in the first quarter. Mississippi State returned the favor on a 19-yard pass from Kevin Fant to Justin Jenkins to even things at 7. But that's as even as it got.

Tennessee all-purpose man Derrick Tinsley capped an 80-yard drive with a 12-yard scoring catch. Davis then leaped for his first touchdown and Mark Jones hauled in a 38-yard heave from Clausen to make it 28-7 before the Bulldogs could bark.

GAME NOTES

* The Vols improved their record to 26-15-1 against the Bulldogs, including wins in seven of the last eight games.
* Tennessee's 538 yards of total offense was a season-high for 2003, surpassing the 492 vs. Alabama.
* Casey Clausen tied UT's single-game record with five touchdown passes, a mark he shares with Andy Kelly, Heath Shuler and Peyton Manning. Clausen is the only Vol to accomplish the feat three times.
* It was Clausen's sixth career 300-yard passing game.
* Chris Hannon's three TD receptions tied UT's single-game mark held by six others.
* Derrick Tinsley scored his third touchdown in the last four games on a 12-yard pass from Clausen.
* State's first-quarter touchdown was the first allowed by Tennessee in eight quarters dating to the fourth period at Alabama.

Vols Blank Vandy for Third Straight Time as Jones Shines on Senior Day

November 22, Knoxville, Tenn.
Neyland Stadium, 1 p.m.

GAME 11

Tennessee's seniors bid farewell to Neyland Stadium and said so long to Vanderbilt as the No. 9 Vols blanked the Commodores 48-0 in the season's final home game.

Twenty-three seniors ran through the "T" for the final time, each receiving individual introductions during the pregame ritual. And, appropriately, the last Vol to be introduced was four-year starting quarterback Casey Clausen. But he still had some work to do.

Clausen threw for 262 yards and three touchdowns, spreading his passes among 12 different receivers. He also had 17 yards rushing and one score on a quarterback sneak. His second-quarter interception was the first pick in five games for the senior, setting a Tennessee record for 143 consecutive passes without an interception. It was also Tennessee's first turnover in 16 quarters, dating to the first quarter of the Alabama game.

"Midway through the season, I think confidence for a lot of our guys - particularly on offense - really picked up," Clausen said. "We're trying to get back to being a dynamic offense and being able to come out and put points up early."

Quick strikes were exactly what the Vols had against the Commodores, unloading 21 points in the first quarter and 20 in the second for a 41-0 halftime lead. Derrick Tinsley caught a third-quarter 7-yard touchdown pass from Clausen for the second half's only points.

The scoring, though, didn't all come from the offensive side. Senior Mark Jones left his mark on the field against Vanderbilt with a 58-yard punt return for a touchdown to put Tennessee up 21-0. Add his team-leading three catches for 45 yards and 51-yard interception return and Jones' 216 all-purpose yards topped Vanderbilt's 191 total offense yards.

"In the beginning of the year, it was kind of hard to grasp everything as far as offense and defense - and of course, my special teams assignments," Jones said. "But as the course of the season went on, I was able to pick up on it and condition myself well. By now it should be all downhill."

The Commodores couldn't keep up with Jones, or the rest of the Vols. James Wilhoit added two second-quarter field goals - one from 39 yards and one from 41. Between the kicks, Clausen hit Chris Hannon for a 38-yard scoring strike, then kept the football on a 1-yard sneak after Jones' interception.

As efficient as Tennessee was on offense, it was the defense that held Vanderbilt in check for the third straight shutout in the series. The Commodores never crossed midfield until the start of the fourth quarter, working their way to the Tennessee 26 before Antwan Stewart intercepted Jay Cutler's pass at the 3. Vandy also crossed midfield in the game's final drive.

"I'm really proud of this team as it has grown and gotten better," Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer said. "I can't say enough about the senior leadership, especially of the captains."

Vols Clinch Tie for SEC East Crown By Freezing Wildcats in Season Finale

Tennessee	20
Kentucky	7

Tennessee scored 20 unanswered points in response to another early deficit in Lexington and closed the 2003 regular season with a 20-7 victory against Kentucky at frigid Commonwealth Stadium.

It was the Vols' 19th consecutive win against the Wildcats. Tennessee, however, has trailed in four of the last five games in the Bluegrass State.

The victory gave No. 7 Tennessee a share of the Southeastern Conference Eastern Division championship, along with Georgia and Florida. It was the Vols' fourth Eastern Division title in the last seven seasons. The win also gave Tennessee (10-2) its seventh 10-win season under coach Phillip Fulmer - more than any other UT coach.

"We're really glad to get the win," Fulmer said. "It wasn't easy, and it's never easy when Tennessee and Kentucky play. We're glad to be 10-2, and we're looking forward to whatever comes next."

Despite winning their final six games of the season, the Vols were denied an SEC championship game berth. Georgia won the three-way tiebreaker by virtue of being ranked highest of the three in the Bowl Championship Series and winning head-to-head versus Tennessee, its closest competitor in the BCS standings.

Before being concerned with postseason destinations, however, Tennessee had to de-claw the 'Cats.

Trailing 7-0, Vols tailback Jabari Davis pounded the way late in the second quarter as Tennessee drove 12 plays to the UK 15. James Wilhoit booted a 33-yard field goal to cut the Wildcats' lead to 7-3.

Tennessee's opening drive of the second half shifted the lead. Cedric Houston ran through the middle for 27 yards to the 18. Casey Clausen, who battled a respiratory infection, rolled out and found Mark Jones on the next play for an 18-yard touchdown to make it 10-7 Vols early in the third quarter.

"It was a naked bootleg, and I tried to stay alive out there," Jones said of the scoring play. "Normally I don't catch the ball (on that route), but the defender stayed inside and Casey made a good throw."

Wilhoit added another field goal in the fourth quarter, this time from 47 yards, to make it 13-7. And with less than two minutes to play, Houston capped an 87-yard day and a clock-eating drive with a 10-yard bulldoze through the middle for a touchdown to seal the game.

"The opening drive of the third quarter was a killer," Kentucky coach Rich Brooks said. "We had two penalties - one on third down that was critical. Then they take the lead, and their last touchdown, they broke a few tackles and got it in on us to put the thing totally out of reach."

The Wildcats drew blood first when Arliss Beach ran three straight times and broke the goal-line plane late in the first quarter for a touchdown, capping a 66-yard drive that spanned more than seven minutes.

GAME NOTES

* Tennessee's win was its 19th consecutive victory in the series, the longest in the series and fourth-longest streak in Division I.
* The Vols improved to 73-4 in November since 1985.
* Casey Clausen led the Vols to a 14-1 road mark as UT's starting quarterback, surpassing Peyton Manning's 13 road win mark.
* Clausen completed the regular season with a career-best 25 touchdown passes, including nine in the final three regular-season games.
* Tennessee held Kentucky to just 51 yards on 25 carries and a season-low 187 yards of total offense.
* Scott Wells made his 48th consecutive start at center, the third-longest streak by offensive linemen in the nation.
* Antwan Stewart and Rashad Baker made interceptions on consecutive Kentucky drives to keep the Wildcats from scoring after they got an early 7-0 lead. It was Baker's first pick of the season.
* Phillip Fulmer led the Vols to their seventh 10-win season during his tenure, the most for any Tennessee coach.
* The win tied Tennessee for the SEC East championship.

Tennessee Bowl History Paved With Opportunities, Big Plays and National Championship Scenarios

When bowl matchmakers begin the mental calculations leading toward their annual holiday events, Tennessee is one of a select group of universities that always receive thoughtful consideration.

Under Phillip Fulmer, the Vols consistently provide an exciting bowl-game spectacle with high-powered offense and grudging defense. But that's just one of many reasons Tennessee is a bowl promoter's dream.

UT's other irresistible lure is its legions of fans, a collection of devoted supporters who bathe a neutral bowl site in a sea of orange worthy of a game at Neyland Stadium. The Vol faithful are good travelers who arrive at the game site early and make themselves seen and heard until they leave town.

Tennessee has appeared in 43 bowl games, of which a couple stand out as particularly memorable because of the bearing they had on producing two of the school's national championships.

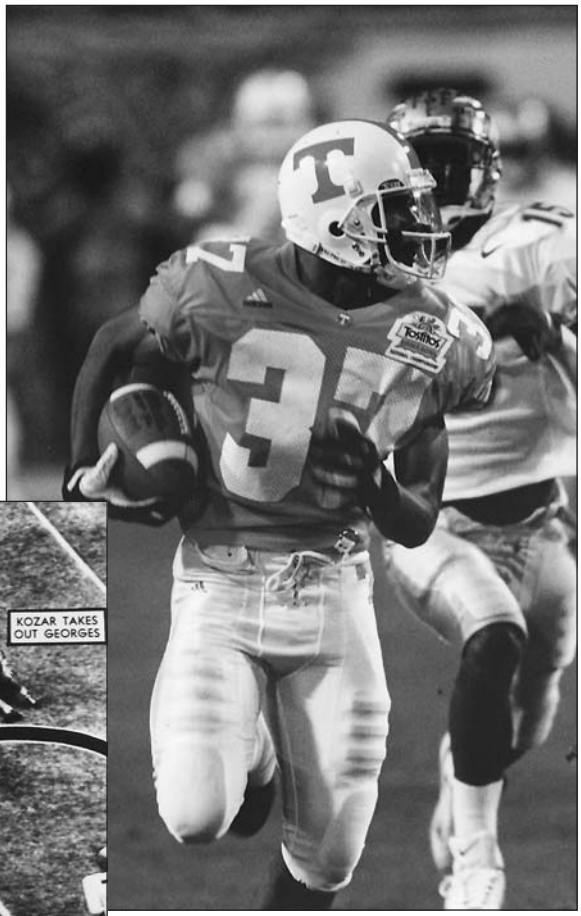

In the early years of wire service polls, the national champion was selected at the end of the regular season. Bowl results were not part of the evaluation process. But Tennessee's Cotton Bowl victory over Texas after the 1950 season was invaluable in paving the way for the crown UT claimed in 1951.

The 20-14 upset of the Longhorns in Dallas on New Year's Day made the Vols the team to beat going into the next season. When the curtain fell on the 1951 campaign, Tennessee had ridden the momentum of its Cotton Bowl triumph to the national title as awarded by both wire service polls.

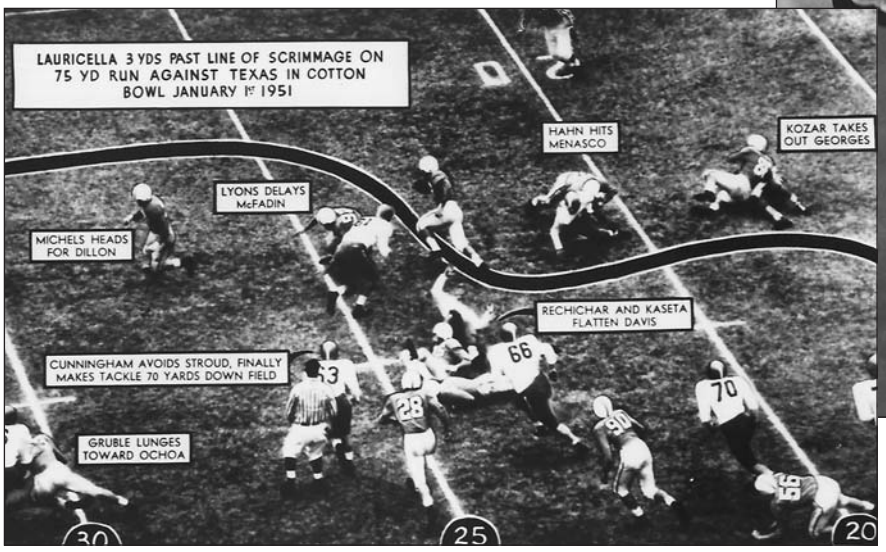

Forty-seven years later, a bowl game was crucial to another UT national championship claim. In the first officially sanctioned Bowl Championship Series title game, the Vols met Florida State in a matchup of the two top-ranked teams at the close of the season.

Led by the passing of quarterback Tee Martin, the Vols capped an undefeated season by turning back the Seminoles, 23-16, before a capacity crowd at the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz. National championship pandemonium reigned throughout the night at any place Vol fans were gathered.

The significance of bowl games is in the eye of the individual, however, so you can pick among almost two dozen UT victories for your favorites. Certainly some of the other leaders would include: 1939 Orange Bowl (Vols 17, Oklahoma 0), 1965 Bluebonnet Bowl (Vols 27, Tulsa 6), 1971 Liberty Bowl (Vols 14, Arkansas 13), 1986 Sugar Bowl (Vols 35, Miami 7), 1990 Cotton Bowl (Vols 31, Arkansas 27) and 1996 Citrus Bowl (Vols 20, Ohio State 14).

Peerless Price's 79-yard touchdown reception put the finishing touches on the Vols' 23-16 win over Florida State in the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl and capped a 13-0 season for the 1998 national championship.

Hank Lauricella's 75-yard run against Texas in the January 1951 Cotton Bowl gave the Vols the momentum they needed for a successful national championship run the following season.

NEW YORK CHARITY GAME

DEC. 5, 1931

TENNESSEE 13 NEW YORK U. 0

NEW YORK — It didn't count, at least according to NCAA statisticians, but Tennessee's first post-season bowl appearance came in the 1931 Charity Bowl game at Yankee Stadium.

The game was set up by New York City Mayor Jimmy Walker and was an intersectional clash between the Vols and the Violets of New York University. The Vols were 8-0-1 in 1931, with a 6-6 deadlock against Kentucky marring an otherwise perfect season.

It was Capt. Robert R. Neyland's sixth year at the Vol helm and the Vols had compiled a 52-2-4 overall record through the end of the 1931 season.

Herman Hickman's sensational defensive play earned him a spot on Grantland Rice's 1931 All-America team. Rice was so impressed with Hickman's performance that he named him to his All-America team on the basis of the Charity Bowl game alone.

Three future Vol College Football Hall of Fame members, Gene McEver, Beattie Feathers and Hickman, played in the contest. In addition, Capt. Neyland would also be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1956.

The Vols' second trip to New York was much better than their first. Seven years earlier, the Vols had lost to Army 41-0 at West Point.

Feathers and Deke Brackett had long touchdown runs and Hickman anchored the Vol defense as Tennessee defeated the Violets by a 13-0 count.

The game was one of a number of contests played during the Great Depression (mainly in 1931) to raise money for relief of the unemployed in response to the President's Committee on Mobilization of Relief Resources. In addition to the Charity Bowl, the Army-Navy games of 1930 and 1931 were played at Yankee Stadium. The NCAA does not recognize these games in the all-time bowl game records.

1939 ORANGE BOWL

JAN. 2, 1939

TENNESSEE 17 OKLAHOMA 0

MIAMI — Tennessee and Oklahoma squared off in the 1939 Orange Bowl in a classic battle of speed against size. And, when it was over, Tennessee's speed and stamina had won out by a 17-0 count. Tennessee had come into the game undefeated and No. 2 in the country and Oklahoma was riding a 14-game winning streak.

Tennessee scored first when a 15-yard penalty backed the Sooners to their 3-yard line. Vol tailback George Cafego returned the ensuing punt to the Sooner 27 and followed up the punt return with a key gain to the 12. Two plays later, Bob Foxx scored from the 8. The Vols scored a field goal after a Sooner fumble, a 22-yarder by Bowden Wyatt, and led 10-0 at the half.

Tennessee scored its final touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 19-yard run by Babe Wood on a reverse. The Vols polished off their eighth shutout of the season by stopping the Sooners the rest of the way and finished undefeated in 11 games.

It was a penalty-plagued game as tempers flared throughout the contest and more than 200 yards were assessed against the teams.

1940 ROSE BOWL

JAN. 1, 1940

SOUTHERN CAL 14 TENNESSEE 0

PASADENA — The Vols were 10-0 in the 1939 season and did not give up a point, heading by train to Pasadena for the 1940 Rose Bowl undefeated in 23 games and unscored upon in 15, but both streaks came to a halt against Southern California.

It marked the first of two Vol appearances in the Rose Bowl in the decade of the 1940s, both against Southern Cal.

Playing without star tailback George Cafego, the victim of a knee injury against The Citadel earlier in the year, the Vols fumbled away a golden opportunity in the fourth period and fell 14-0.

Southern Cal racked up 229 yards rushing, scored in the second and fourth quarter and ran nearly double the plays from scrimmage to take the 14-0 triumph.

The 1939 Tennessee team was the last to hold a full season of opponents scoreless, with future College Football Hall of Famers George Cafego, Bob Suffridge and Ed Molinski leading the way. Major Bob Neyland was also named to the College Hall.

VOL BOWL FACTS:

Tennessee has made 43 bowl appearances which ranks second all-time nationally. The Vols' 23 post-season victories rank third. Only Alabama (51) has played in more bowl games, while the Crimson Tide (29) and Southern California (26) have more bowl victories.

1941 SUGAR BOWL

JAN. 1, 1941

BOSTON COLLEGE 19
TENNESSEE 13

NEW ORLEANS — Boston College and Tennessee met in the 1941 Sugar Bowl in a game that had all the earmarks of a David and Goliath story. Before a record crowd at Tulane Stadium, the underdog Boston College team had pulled off the upset and, to make matters worse, did it with a play taken directly from the Vols' playbook.

Tennessee scored first on a 4-yard run by Van Thompson and the conversion by Bob Foxx, but lost the ball on downs at the BC 11 and lost an interception at the BC 15. The half ended 7-0.

Boston College tied the score in the third period, blocking a Tennessee punt and scoring quickly. It had been seven years since a Vol punt was blocked. The Vols went back ahead as Buist Warren scored from the 2 and Tennessee led 13-7.

Boston College answered immediately as Mike Holovak scored from the 1 after a 70-yard drive. The point failed and it was 13-13 entering the final canto. With six minutes left, the Eagles disdained the ground game and three passes moved the ball to the Vol 24. Eagle tailback Charlie O'Rourke then ran left, raised his arm as if to pass and sprinted 24 yards for the touchdown. Eagle Coach Frank Leahy said after the game he had seen the play in a Vol film and added it to his playbook.

Tennessee saw two scoring chances in the fourth quarter go by the boards, as Foxx missed a field goal and the Vols lost a fumble at the BC 38.

TULSA 7

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee made its second trip to the Sugar Bowl in three years to play Henry Frank's pass-minded Tulsa Hurricane.

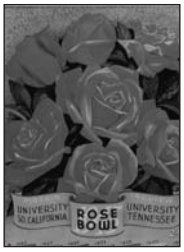

Despite a passing show by the Hurricanes' Glenn Dobbs, the Vols escaped with a 14-7 win. Tulsa scored first, but the Vols dominated the game from that point on to take the victory, racking up 208 yards rushing and holding Tulsa to minus-39 yards rushing. Bill Gold and Clyde "Ig" Fuson scored touchdowns and Denver Crawford blocked a punt for a safety as the Vols squared their bowl record at 2-2.

PASADENA — Tennessee finished 7-0-1 in 1944, but met its match against Southern California in the 1945 Rose Bowl, the second contest between the cross-country rivals in Pasadena in five seasons.

Tennessee had not fielded a team in 1943 and, given the green light by the conference to do so in 1944, put together an eight-game schedule that assembled talent available.

The Vols got good efforts from the 1944 team, but a lack of depth at key positions cost the Vols against the powerful USC team. Despite the loss, Tennessee coach John Barnhill was named SEC Coach of the Year.

RICE 8
TENNESSEE 0

MIAMI — Rice scored a touchdown and a safety in the first quarter and played defense and the kicking game in the best Tennessee tradition to defeat Bob Neyland's Volunteers 8-0 in the 1947 Orange Bowl.

Rice blocked two Vol punts in the first quarter, the second of which led to a safety and, combined with a touchdown drive of 83 yards, it was enough to win. The touchdown came on a lateral from Buddy Russ to Huey Kenney after Russ had run 25 yards to the Vol 25. Kenney took it in and Rice led.

Rice coach Jess Neely was then content to put the game in the hands of his defense, which held the Vols to five first downs and 137 yards.

The Vols had one big shot early in the second half, recovering a fumble at the Rice 18. But Rice intercepted a fourth-down pass and was in control from that point.

DALLAS — Tennessee's once-defeated Volunteers dominated the second half and defeated Texas 20-14 in the 1951 Cotton Bowl. The Vols scored first, on a 5-yard pass from Herky Payne to John Gruble, a play set up by a now-historic 75-yard run by Hank Lauricella, on which he reversed his field three times and slowed only to allow his blockers to catch up.

The Longhorns rallied to take a 14-7 halftime lead, parlaying a blocked kick into one score and a pass into another. The Vols closed to one point early in the fourth quarter, when fullback Andy Kozar bulled in from the 5. Later in the quarter, Jim Hill intercepted a Longhorn pass and the Vols were goalward again.

The teams exchanged fumbles on two consecutive plays and the Vols took the Texas turnover in for the winning score. Kozar got 6, Lauricella hit Rechichar for 23 and ran for 11. Finally, Kozar scored his second touchdown and the Vols held off a late Texas charge to win 20-14.

TENNESSEE 13

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee went to New Orleans undefeated and the 1951 national champions. But the Vols fell victim to an undefeated Maryland team that scored 21 points in 16 minutes and never looked back. The final was 28-13.

Maryland uncorked a strong running game to lead 21-6 at the half and used a timely interception return for a touchdown to keep the Vols at bay.

Tennessee showed only flashes of the power that had been its trademark during the regular season. Vol tailback Herky Payne led two touchdown drives, but otherwise, the Maryland defense stopped the Vol attack, using an eight-man line.

It was Robert R. Neyland's last bowl game as the Volunteers head coach.

NEW ORLEANS — No. 11-rated Baylor beat Tennessee at its own game in the 1957 Sugar Bowl, turning four interceptions and a key fumble recovery into a 13-7 win over the previously undefeated and No. 2-ranked Volunteers.

Baylor scored first on a pass from Bobby Jones to Jerry Marcontell covering 12 yards. The touchdown drive had been keyed by Shofner's 54-yard run after a Johnny Majors quick-kick. Tennessee had two drives snuffed by interceptions in the first half and trailed 6-0 at intermission.

The Vols scored early in the third quarter as Majors and fullback Tommy Bronson led the charge downfield and Baylor contributed a key piling-on penalty. Majors scored from the 1 and Sammy Burklow's conversion gave the Vols a 7-6 lead. The Vols held that lead into the fourth quarter when Majors was hit on a punt return and fumbled at the Vol 15. Baylor recovered and moved in for the winning score.

The Vols had two last chances to score, but two Baylor interceptions and a sack of Vol tailback Bobby Gordon erased the Vols' last scoring opportunities.

TENNESSEE 3
TEXAS A&M 0

JACKSONVILLE — In Paul "Bear" Bryant's last game as Aggie head coach, Tennessee used a fourth-quarter field goal by placekicker Sammy Burklow and a stubborn defense to hand the Aggies a 3-0 defeat on a wet and muddy Gator Bowl field. It was the lowest-scoring game in the history of the Gator Bowl and was played before a Gator Bowl-record crowd of 43,709.

The field goal was the first of Burklow's career and came from 17 yards out with 5:30 left to play in the game. It was a day for the defenses to shine as action was confined between the 35-yard lines.

The game was marked by the now-famous collision between Vol tailback Bobby Gordon and Aggie Heisman Trophy winner John David Crow on the Vols' march to the winning score. Both players recovered to continue play, with Gordon holding for Burklow's game-winning field goal.

TENNESSEE 27 TULSA 6

HOUSTON — Tennessee made its first bowl appearance since the Gator Bowl victory over Texas A & M in 1957 and made it a successful return by taking the measure of the Tulsa Hurricanes 27-6 in a swampy Rice Stadium.

The game was played in the wettest weather that ever confronted a Tennessee team, a steady downpour that that did not cease until long after the game was over.

The Vols took care of business quickly, moving to a 20-6 halftime lead by taking advantage of Tulsa turnovers and some brilliant work on the kicking game. Tulsa fumbles led to the Vol touchdowns by Hal Wantland and Dewey Warren and Jerry Smith's 45-yard punt return led to the third, another score by Warren. Glenn Gray's pass interception led to the final Vol score, an 11-yard burst by fullback Stan Mitchell.

Tulsa gained 250 yards through the air despite the wet conditions, but three fumbles and four Vol interceptions turned the game Tennessee's way.

TENNESSEE 18 SYRACUSE 12

JACKSONVILLE — Tennessee won its second consecutive bowl game under the tutelage of Doug Dickey, defeating Syracuse 18-12 in a game in which each team dominated one half.

Despite an early fumble that gave Syracuse favorable field position, the Vols got field goals from Gary Wright in the first and second quarters to lead 6-0. Another field goal appeared to be in the offing in the second period at the Syracuse 24, but the Vols caught Syracuse by surprise and quarterback Dewey Warren hit tight end Austin Denney instead for the touchdown and a 12-0 lead. Bill Young's interception led to the third Vol score, which came on a 2-yard strike from Warren to flanker Richmond Flowers.

Syracuse, led by the running of future pro stars Floyd Little and Larry Csonka, scored on their first possession of the second half. They lost the ball on downs at the Vol 3 later in the period and scored their final touchdown with 46 seconds left.

1968 ORANGE BOWL

JAN. 1, 1968

OKLAHOMA 26 TENNESSEE 24

MIAMI — A night football game, this time at Miami's Orange Bowl, became the Vols' undoing for the second time in the 1967 season. The Vols closed the 1967 season the way they opened it, with a loss under the lights. While UCLA was the culprit in the opener, Oklahoma edged the Vols in the season finale.

The Vols fell behind 19-0 in the first half and saw their first series of the second half stopped at the Oklahoma 14. But, on the ensuing series, Jimmy Glover returned a pass interception 36 yards for a touchdown and the Vols were back in the game. With 5:07 left in the third quarter, Charley Fulton scored and it was 19-14 as the fourth quarter began.

The Vols closed to 19-17, before giving up an interception that the Sooners returned for a touchdown. Warren brought the Vols back once again, capping a 77-yard drive with a 1-yard sneak and it was 26-24.

The Vols took possession at the Oklahoma 43 when Steve Owens was stopped short on fourth-and-1 and worked the ball to the 27 with time running out. But Karl Kremser's field goal faded wide right and Oklahoma had the game.

1969 COTTON BOWL

TEXAS 36
TENNESSEE 13

DALLAS — The other "Big Orange," the Texas Longhorns, rolled up 513 yards in total offense and held the white-shirted Vols to just 83 yards rushing in taking a convincing 36-13 triumph in the 1969 Cotton Bowl.

The Texans jumped to a 28-0 halftime lead, parlaying a crunching ground attack spiced by the passing combination of Jim Street and Cotton Speyrer. The Vols had an early shot at the Longhorns, but a 57-yard field goal missed and the Longhorns assumed command. The Longhorns intercepted three Vol passes.

Sub quarterback Bobby Scott gave the Vols a spark, throwing second half touchdown passes to Gary Kreis and Mike Price.

DEC. 27, 1969

FLORIDA 14
TENNESSEE 13

JACKSONVILLE — Before a Gator Bowl-record crowd of 72,248, SEC champ Tennessee went down in defeat to a Florida team which, like the Vols, had far exceeded expectations during the regular season.

Damage from the heralded passing duo of John Reaves and Carlos Alvarez was held to manageable proportions, but Tennessee's inability to score inside the 10 sealed the Vols' fate.

Workhorse running back Curt Watson gained 121 yards on 25 carries and tight end Ken DeLong caught five passes for 50 yards. But a blocked punt that Florida turned into a touchdown was the ultimate difference.

1971 SUGAR BOWL

JAN. 1, 1971

TENNESSEE 34
AIR FORCE 13

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee broke a three-game bowl losing streak at the expense of a highly-touted Air Force team. Scoring a record 24 points in the first quarter, the Vols rolled to a convincing 34-13 triumph, finishing the 1970 season with a then school-record 11-1 worksheet.

The first 12 minutes were nothing but fun for Vol partisans. The Vols scored the first four times they had the ball and mounted a 24-0 lead with 3:21 left in the opening quarter. Don McLeary scored twice, George Hunt booted a field goal and Gary Theiler caught a touchdown pass from game-MVP Bobby Scott.

A rugged Tennessee defense thwarted the Air Force offense time after time. Led by Ray Nettles, Tim Priest and Jamie Rotella, the Vols held Air Force to minus 12 yards rushing. The Vols secondary continued its assault, grabbing four interceptions. The Vols also covered four Air Force fumbles.

1971 LIBERTY BOWL

DEC. 20, 1971

TENNESSEE 14 ARKANSAS 13

MEMPHIS — Late in the fourth quarter, Arkansas looked to be a sure winner of the 1971 Liberty Bowl game only to see the game get away and Tennessee had enough left in the tank to grab an improbable victory.

A packed house at the Liberty Bowl that was nearly evenly divided in its loyalties saw the two schools battle for the first time since 1907 on a cold December evening.

Leading 13-7 and apparently dominating the game, the Razorbacks had a potential game-winning field goal nullified by a penalty. A series later, the Hogs lost a fumble after a completed pass at their 36.

With the break, the Vols struck quickly for the winning score, just as Gen. Neyland's game maxims had said. Quarterback Jim Maxwell, pressed into service in the Tulsa game earlier in the season and who was undefeated as a starter, hit tight end Gary Theiler to the Arkansas 19 to get the Vols in position.

Fullback Curt Watson, "The Crossville Comet," who was closing out a brilliant career in Orange and White, finished the drive with a 17-yard touchdown run, making a nifty move at the goal to find paydirt. George Hunt's extra point was the margin of victory. Eddie Brown had an interception on the ensuing series to seal the deal.

The narrow victory enabled the Vols to finish No. 9 in both national polls and finish 10-2 for the second year in a row. It was the first of three Liberty Bowl wins for the Vols, the others coming in 1974 and 1986.

1972 BLUEBONNET BOWL

DEC. 30, 1972

TENNESSEE 24 LSU 17

HOUSTON — Condredge Holloway turned in his most electrifying performance of the season, completing 11 of 19 passes for 94 yards and rushing for 74 yards in 19 carries, to lead the Vols past SEC rival Louisiana State 24-17 in the 1972 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Holloway, who was named the game's outstanding player, led the Vols to a 24-3 halftime lead, scoring twice and throwing a touchdown pass to tight end Jimmy Young. Known as the "Artful Dodger," Holloway kept the Tigers off balance the first 30 minutes and left Vol fans wondering what might be ahead for the diminutive signal-caller from Huntsville, Ala.

Things got tense for the Vols in the second half as Louisiana State All-America Bert Jones led the Tigers to two second-half scores and was threatening a third when All-America and senior defensive back Conrad Graham cleanly broke up a fourth-down pass at the Vol 10 to preserve the victory.

Tennessee's Carl Johnson was named the defensive player of the game. The game ended a 31-5 worksheet for the Vol senior class.

TEXAS TECH 28 TENNESSEE 19

JACKSONVILLE — Tennessee and Texas Tech gave the 62,000-plus fans on hand an exciting offensive show that was another in a series of 1973 games that went down to the wire before a winner was determined. This time, however, it was Texas Tech jumping to an early lead and hanging on for a 28-19 victory.

The Red Raiders jumped to a 14-0 lead on the running and passing of quarterback Joe Barnes and led 14-3 at the half as Ricky Townsend got the Vols on the board with a 30-yard field goal.

Haskel Stanback led the Vols' second-half rally, running for one touchdown and catching a pass from Condredge Holloway for another. The Vols closed to 21-19, but misfired on a two-point conversion and a field goal before a long run and subsequent touchdown put the game away for the Texans.

Stanback gained 95 yards in 19 carries and was named Tennessee's outstanding player.

1974 LIBERTY BOWL

DEC. 16, 1974

TENNESSEE 7 MARYLAND 3

MEMPHIS — Two Vol sophomores teamed up for the winning score in the 1974 Liberty Bowl. Randy Wallace, subbing for the injured Condredge Holloway, threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Larry Seivers with 2:44 left in the game to subdue the Terps, 7-3. Seivers outleaped two Maryland defenders for the winning score.

Until that time, Maryland had the better of it. Led by All-America tackle Randy White, the Terps had kept the Vols bottled up throughout the cold December night in Memphis. The Terps got a second quarter field goal and almost made it stand up.

Mike Gayles, who gained 106 yards in 17 carries, was named the Vols' outstanding offensive player. Defensive end Ron McCartney was named the Vols' defensive standout.

1979 BLUEBONNET BOWL

DEC. 31, 1979

PURDUE 27 TENNESSEE 22

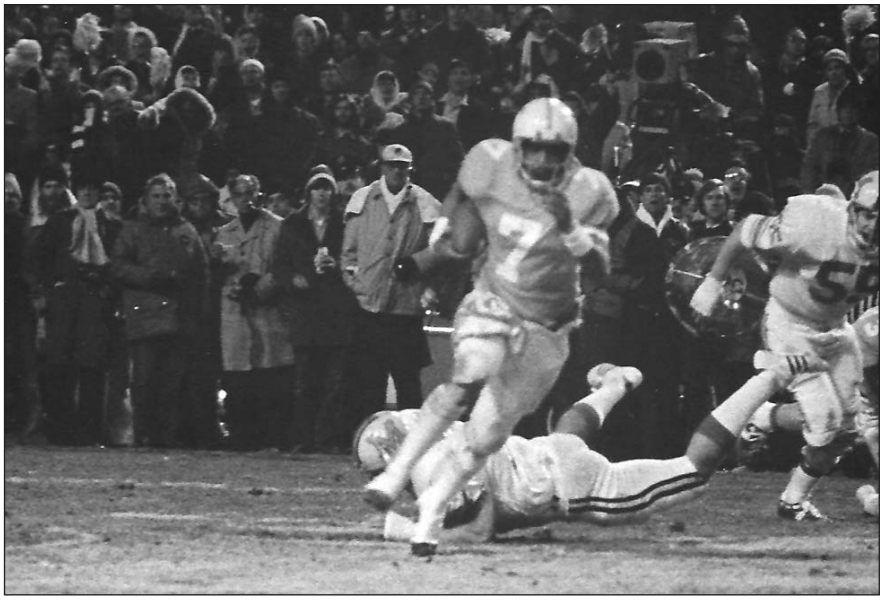

HOUSTON — Tennessee, making its first bowl appearance in five years, saw a gutty second-half comeback fall short in the waning moments of the fourth quarter. Trailing 21-0 in the third quarter, the Vols rallied to take the lead 22-21 late in the fourth quarter. But Purdue quarterback Mark Herrmann threw the game-winner, a 17-yard toss to Charley Young, with just 1:30 remaining.

The Vols' comeback was triggered by an 8-yard Jimmy Streater pass to halfback Glenn Ford. The second Vol touchdown came on a pass from wingback Phil Ingram to tailback James Berry. When Hubert Simpson scored the two-pointer, the Vols were back in the game. The Vols took the lead as Simpson scored and caught the two-point conversion.

All-America defensive back Roland James was the Defensive Player of the Game, with eight unassisted tackles and a 19-yard punt return to his credit. Streater finished with 270 yards rushing and passing.

DEC. 13, 1981

TENNESSEE 28 WISCONSIN 21

EAST RUTHERFORD — Steve Alatorre completed 24 of 42 passes for 315 yards and one touchdown as the Vols defeated Wisconsin 28-21.

After Wisconsin went ahead 7-3 in the first quarter, Willie Gault returned the ensuing kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown and the Vols were never headed. Alatorre hit wide receiver Anthony Hancock, who made 11 catches on the day, with a 43-yard scoring strike and the Vols led 21-7 at the half. The Vol defense did its part with two first-half interceptions.

Wisconsin's Randy Wright kept the Badgers in the game in the second half, throwing two touchdown passes, but Alatorre's 6-yard run in the fourth quarter proved to be the difference.

Both Alatorre and Hancock made their final Vol game their best. Alatorre was named the game's outstanding player. Defensively, tackle Reggie White led the Vols.

IOWA 28 TENNESSEE 22

ATLANTA — Iowa built a 21-7 first half lead, keyed by three Chuck Long touchdown passes, and weathered a second half Vol rally to win the 1982 Peach Bowl 28-22.

Tennessee's second-half comeback was led by quarterback Alan Cockrell and running backs Chuck Coleman and Doug Furnas. The Vols came off the mat to register two touchdowns and a field goal to close to 28-22 late in the fourth quarter.

With the clock winding down, the outcome hinged on two short yardage plays the Hawkeyes stopped at their 7. On third-and-2, Cockrell's pass was deflected. On fourth down, the Vol signal-caller was stopped short on a counter-option.

Cockrell completed 22 of 41 passes for 221 yards and one touchdown and was named Tennessee's Outstanding Player by CBS broadcasters.

1983 FLORIDA CITRUS BOWL

DEC. 17, 1983

TENNESSEE 30 MARYLAND 23

ORLANDO — The Vols closed out their finest season since 1972, scoring two fourth-quarter touchdowns to defeat Maryland 30-23, before a sell-out crowd of 50,500 and millions more on ESPN.

Johnnie Jones and Alan Cockrell were the Vols' offensive standouts. Jones gained 154 yards on 29 carries and tallied twice, part of the Vols' 201-yard ground attack. Cockrell completed 16 of 23 passes for 185 yards and one touchdown. Clyde Duncan caught six passes for 59 yards and Lenny Taylor caught four for 68 yards and one touchdown.

The Vols were led on defense by linebacker Alvin Toles, who recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass, both efforts leading to Vol scores. The Vols also held the Terrapins to 95 yards on the ground.

The Vols finished the year No. 15 by The New York Times, No. 17 by USA Today and No. 14 by Sports Illustrated.

DEC. 22, 1984

MARYLAND 28 TENNESSEE 27

EL PASO — Maryland, trailing 21-0 to Tennessee after the first half, scored 22 points in the third quarter and grimly held on for a 28-27 victory in the 1984 Sun Bowl. The issue was in doubt until Maryland defensive back Keeta Covington jarred the ball loose from the Vols' Tony Robinson, just when the Vols looked to be in position to win on a last-second field goal attempt.

The Vols jumped to the early lead on the running of tailback Johnnie Jones and the passing combo of Robinson to Tim McGee. Fuad Reveiz added two field goals and the Vols appeared in control.

Maryland reeled off 22 consecutive points in the third quarter, before Pete Panuska gave the Vols their last lead of the game, returning a Maryland kickoff 100 yards for the go-ahead score. Maryland's Rick Badjanek scored the game-winner with 2:28 left. But it remained for Covington to make his big play to secure the Maryland victory.

1986 SUGAR BOWL

JAN. 1, 1986

TENNESSEE 35 MIAMI 7

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee rang in 1986 in grand fashion, taking a 35-7 decision over the highly-touted Miami Hurricanes in the 52nd Sugar Bowl. A Louisiana Superdome crowd of 77,432 saw the Vols spot the Hurricanes an early 7-0 lead, but, after Daryl Dickey and Jeff Smith hooked up for a 6-yard touchdown pass early in the second quarter, the Vols were completely in control.

Ken Donahue's defensive troops ruled the Superdome turf, rattling the Hurricanes for six turnovers, seven quarterback sacks and five tackles for lost yardage.

The Vols took the lead late in the first half when wide receiver Tim McGee corralled a Vol fumble in the end zone. They extended their lead in the third quarter as fullback Sam Henderson scored from 1-yard out after Darrin Miller's fumble recovery gave the Vols the ball at the Miami 32. After a Miami punt, Tennessee's Jeff Powell brought Vol fans to their feet, sprinting 60 yards for another Vol touchdown. All-America defensive back Chris White intercepted Miami quarterback Vinny Testaverde in the fourth quarter to set up a 6-yard scoring run by Charles Wilson.

The win evened the Vols' Sugar Bowl mark at 3-3. Dickey, who completed 15 of 25 passes for 131 yards and one touchdown, was named the game's outstanding player. The Vols' 35 points set a then school record for the most points scored in a bowl game, eclipsing the previous mark of 34 set against Air Force in the 1971 Sugar Bowl.

TENNESSEE 21 MINNESOTA 14

MEMPHIS — Jeff Francis threw three touchdown passes and the Vol defense shut down Minnesota when it had to, leading Tennessee to a 21-14 victory over Minnesota in the 28th Liberty Bowl.

The Vols jumped to a 14-3 halftime lead as Francis threw touchdown passes to wide receiver Joey Clinkscales and fullback William Howard. Minnesota got a late field goal from Chip Lohmiller and trailed 14-3 at the half.

The Gophers dominated the third period, getting a touchdown from quarterback Rickey Foggie on a fourth-down option play. Freshman Darrell Thompson's two-point conversion run put Minnesota back in the game. Another field goal from Lohmiller in the fourth quarter knotted the count.

The Vols roared back for the clinching score, as Francis hit Nate Middlebrooks and Anthony Miller to move deep into Minnesota territory. On third-and-3, he hit Clinkscales for the game-winner in the left corner of the end zone. The Vol defense shut down Foggie and Minnesota the rest of the way and rang up UT's third Liberty Bowl victory in as many tries.

TENNESSEE 27 INDIANA 22

ATLANTA — Tennessee closed the 1987 season the way it began it way back in August, posting a come-from-behind win over a Big Ten rival. This time the Indiana Hoosiers were the victim, as the Vols rallied once again in the fourth quarter for a 27-22 victory.

A record Peach Bowl crowd of 58,737 saw the Vols explode to a 21-3 lead early in the second quarter as quarterback Jeff Francis led three scoring drives and threw TD passes to Anthony Miller and Terence Cleveland. Indiana rallied in the second half and led 22-21 late in the fourth quarter. But the Vol defense stiffened and Francis and his offensive mates got the ball at the Hoosier 40.

The Vols took it for the winning score as Francis scrambled for a crucial first down and Cobb got the game-winner from 9 yards out. Charles Kimbrough's interception sealed the Vols' first win in two Peach Bowl tries.

1990 COTTON BOWL

JAN. 1, 1990

TENNESSEE 31 ARKANSAS 27

DALLAS — Tennessee finished with its finest season record since 1970 by taking a hard-fought 31-27 decision over the Southwest Conference champion Razorbacks.

The Vols, paced by the running of offensive MVP Chuck Webb and an opportunistic defense, raced to a 31-13 lead after three periods, but the Hogs stormed back to close the margin before Alvin Harper recovered an onside kick attempt with 1:23 left on the clock and the Vols were able to run out the clock.

UT had parlayed a field goal by Greg Burke, two TDs by Webb — one on a 78-yard run down the near sideline — an 84-yard pass from Andy Kelly to Anthony Morgan and a 1-yard toss from Kelly to Greg Amsler to take the lead.

Martin Williams and Tracy Hayworth recovered fumbles to blunt two Arkansas drives and defensive MVP Carl Pickens intercepted an Arkansas pass to stop another drive. Kacy Rodgers made a big play in the fourth quarter, stopping Arkansas tailback Barry Foster on fourth-and-1 at the Vol 9.

1991 SUGAR BOWL

JAN. 1, 1991

TENNESSEE 23 VIRGINIA 22

NEW ORLEANS — Tennessee concluded its 100-year anniversary season and longest in Vol history with a come-from-behind victory in the 57th Sugar Bowl Classic at the Louisiana Superdome. The Vols thus concluded a 9-2-2 season that began way back in August.

The Vols trailed for the first 59:29, but won the game when Tony Thompson, who rushed for 151 yards, hurdled the line for a score from 1 yard out. Thompson's score climaxed a Sugar Bowl record-setting 20-point fourth quarter that saw the Vols outscore the Cavs by 14.

Leading 16-3, Virginia looked poised to put the game away late in the third quarter. But Floyd Miley intercepted a Shawn Moore pass at the Vol 6 and the rally was on. Andy Kelly, voted the game's most outstanding player, led three drives for scores and Dale Carter intercepted a last-gasp Virginia pass to gain the victory.

Thompson scored twice in the fourth-quarter rally and Kelly, who directed the Vol attack flawlessly in the final stanza, found Carl Pickens wide open for the other score.

Carter had two interceptions for his night's work and linebacker Darryl Hardy had eight tackles and four broken-up passes.

1992 FIESTA BOWL

JAN. 1, 1992

PENN STATE 42 TENNESSEE 17

TEMPE — Tennessee appeared to be in the driver's seat of the 21st Fiesta Bowl, leading 17-7 midway in the third quarter, but Penn State ran off 35 unanswered points in just 7:49 to take the decision. Turnovers proved to be the Vols' undoing as four of the six Penn State scores came off Vol mistakes.

The Vols, who trailed 7-0 just 1:19 into the game, ran off 17 unanswered points of their own between the first and third quarters, but failed to take full advantage of the 441-226 yard statistical edge. The Nittany Lions then reeled off 35 unanswered points of their own to seal the win.

James Stewart and Cory Fleming scored Vol touchdowns while John Becksvoort added two conversions and a 24-yard field goal. Stewart's score came after a 10-play, 62-yard drive in the first quarter. Fleming's came in the third quarter on a pass from Andy Kelly on which the Vol sophomore wideout made some nifty moves in the open field to find paydirt.

1993 HALL OF FAME BOWL

JAN. 1, 1993

TENNESSEE 38 BOSTON COLLEGE 23

TAMPA — Tennessee scored 14 points despite having the ball only 3:32 of the first quarter and added 24 more in the third and early fourth quarters to take a 38-23 decision over Boston College in the seventh annual Hall of Fame Bowl at Tampa Stadium.

Game MVP Heath Shuler led the way, completing 18 of 23 passes for 245 yards and two touchdowns while scoring two himself. His TD passes went to Cory Fleming (27 yards) and Mose Phillips (69 yards). Shuler scored twice on runs of 1 and 14 yards. Jerry Colquitt threw a 48-yard scoring pass to Fleming and John Becksvoort added a field goal and five extra points. The Vols outgained the Eagles 450-371.

After a bad snap on BC's first punt of the game led to good field position at the BC 43, Shuler found Ron Davis down the left side for 42 yards and scored a play later on a keeper left. Fleming's first TD came on the Vols' next possession. The Vols' third-quarter surge featured Shuler's second TD of the day and a determined Phillips' run for a score.

PENN STATE 31 TENNESSEE 13

ORLANDO — Tennessee jumped to a 10-0 lead on its first two offensive series, but Penn State rallied from a 13-10 deficit late in the first half with 21 unanswered points to take a 31-13 decision in the 48th annual Florida Citrus Bowl.

Tennessee moved to a field goal on its first possession, one of two made by John Becksvoort on the day. The Vols scored a touchdown on their second foray into Penn State territory on a 19-yard pass from Heath Shuler to Cory Fleming, but could add only a Citrus Bowl-record 50-yard field goal by Becksvoort the rest of the afternoon.

Penn State scored to take the lead for good just before halftime and added another score off a sustained drive after the opening kickoff of the second half to assume control of the game.

Charlie Garner rushed 16 times for 89 yards and Fleming caught seven passes for 101 yards. The Vols finished with a 9-2-1 overall record.

TENNESSEE 45 VIRGINIA TECH 23

GAINESVILLE — Tennessee bolted to a 35-10 halftime lead and moved on from there to take a 45-23 triumph over Virginia Tech in the 1994 Gator Bowl game, played this year at Florida Field in Gainesville. A 21-point second quarter was the key as the Vols scored on five of seven first half possessions.

James Stewart scored three TDs and threw a 19-yard TD pass to Kendrick Jones. Peyton Manning threw a 36-yard TD pass to Marcus Nash and Jay Graham scored on a 1-yard run.

Tyrone Hines had an interception which led to the Vols' first score and Shawn Summers had a 49-yard punt return that led to a Vol score in the fourth period.

Stewart, who was named the most outstanding player for the game, carried 22 times for 85 yards. Manning completed 12 of 19 passes for 189 yards. Joey Kent led the Vols with six receptions for 116 yards, 42 coming on a spectacular catch down the far boundary a play before Nash's TD grab. With the win, the Vols finished 8-4 for the season, after starting 1-3.

TENNESSEE 20 OHIO STATE 14

ORLANDO — Jeff Hall kicked two fourth-quarter field goals and the Vol defense held Ohio State in check as Tennessee defeated the Buckeyes 20-14 on a rainy day in the 50th annual Florida Citrus Bowl.

Jay Graham, the game's MVP, rushed for 154 yards, including a 69-yard scoring dash late in the first half that pulled the Vols even, 7-7, at halftime. Peyton Manning completed 20 of 35 passes for 182 yards and one touchdown. Joey Kent led the Vol receiving corps with seven catches for 109 yards, including a 47-yard scoring toss from Manning that gave UT a 14-7 advantage in the third quarter.

Hall's two field goals in the fourth quarter came after the Buckeyes had tied the game, 14-14, to open the final stanza. Tennessee's defense, which had stopped the Buckeyes on a second quarter fourth-and-inches at the Vol 3-yard line, forced three turnovers in OSU's final four possessions to seal the victory.

UT held Ohio State, with Heisman winner Eddie George, to a season-low 89 yards on the ground.

The victory upped Tennessee's record to 11-1, its best since 1989, and propelled the Vols to a No. 2 finish in the final CNN-USA Today poll, UT's highest since 1967. The Vols were tabbed No. 3 in final Associated Press voting.

TENNESSEE 48 NORTHWESTERN 28

ORLANDO — Tied 21-21 late in the second quarter, Tennessee scored the game's next 20 points and took a 48-28 victory over Big 10 co-champion Northwestern. Peyton Manning completed 27 of 39 passes for 408 yards to lead the Vol attack.

After the Wildcats had battled back from a 21-0 first-quarter deficit to tie the game, Manning threw a 67-yard TD pass to Joey Kent and beat the clock for a Jeff Hall field goal on the final play of the half to give the Vols a 31-21 halftime lead. The Vols stretched the lead to 38-21 when linebacker Tyrone Hines intercepted a Steve Schnur pass and returned the oskie 30 yards for a score. Hall added another field goal and Manning threw a TD pass to tight end Dustin Moore to conclude the Vol scoring.

The Vols had jumped to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter on a 43-yard TD pass from Manning to Peerless Price, a 10-yard run for a score by Manning and another TD toss, this one from Manning to Kent from 11 yards out. Price caught six passes for 110 yards and Kent caught five for 122 yards.

The Vols finished No. 9 overall in both polls.

NEBRASKA 42 TENNESSEE 17

MIAMI — A 21-point third quarter proved pivotal as No. 2 Nebraska took a 42-17 win over No. 3 Tennessee in the 1997 season's final bowl game and 64th Orange Bowl. The win vaulted the Cornhuskers to the No. 1 spot in the Coaches' Poll with a 13-0 record. Tennessee finished 11-2, the sixth 11-win season in school history, and earned seventh (AP) and eighth (ESPN/USA Today) place finishes. A crowd of 72,835 saw the contest, the first ever between the two teams.

Peyton Manning and Tee Martin each threw TD passes for the Vols, Manning's a 5-yarder to Peerless Price and Martin's a 3-yarder to Andy McCullough. Jeff Hall added a 44-yard field goal and Travis Stephens caught a two-point conversion pass from Martin.

Tennessee fell behind 14-0 before Hall's field goal in the second quarter and saw the game get away when Nebraska cranked up the ground game in the third quarter en route to scores on drives of 80, 73 and 80 yards. The Huskers' third score came after Manning's TD pass to Price cut the margin to 28-9 after a 72-yard, 9-play drive. Tailback Jamal Lewis concluded a stellar freshman season, carrying 14 times for 90 yards and being named his team's MVP.

1999 FIESTA BOWL

Jan. 4, 1999

TENNESSEE 23 FLORIDA STATE 16

TEMPE — Tennessee won the 1998 national championship, the first for the Vols since 1951, and completed the school's first-ever 13-0 season with a 23-16 win over the No. 2 Seminoles. Tee Martin completed 11 of 18 passes for 278 yards and threw TD passes to Shawn Bryson and Peerless Price, covering 4 and 79 yards, respectively.

For his part, Price caught four passes for 199 yards, setting a Tennessee bowl receiving record in the process. A Fiesta Bowl record crowd of 84,470 saw the game, only the second meeting between the two schools, the first coming in 1958.

Bryson's TD reception came in the second quarter and was followed by Dwayne Goodrich pilfering an FSU pass and returning the oskie 54 yards for a score which gave the Vols a 14-0 lead. Goodrich's TD run was the third of his career. Bryson's TD came after the Vols took a Jeff Hall field goal off the board due to a roughing-the-kicker penalty.

Florida State narrowed the margin to 14-9 at the half and the score remained that way until midway in the fourth quarter when Martin and Price hooked up for the pivotal 79-yard score, followed by a Seminole turnover and a Hall field goal good from 23 yards out. The Seminoles pulled to within the eventual 23-16 margin late in the game, but could get no closer.

Price was named the offensive player of the game and Goodrich the defensive player of the game.

NEBRASKA 31 TENNESSEE 21

TEMPE - Two long Nebraska scoring drives in the second half ended Tennessee's hopes of an upset in the Cornhuskers' 31-21 victory over the Vols before 71,526 in the 2000 Tostitos Fiesta Bowl.

The Cornhuskers, who rushed for 321 yards and held the Vols to but 44, jumped to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, on a 7-yard run by I-back Dan Alexander, who ran for 108 yards on the night, and a 60-yard punt return by Bobby Newcombe. Nebraska added a field goal late in the half before Tee Martin led a 65-yard, eight-play drive culminating in a 9-yard pass to wideout Donte' Stallworth.

The Vols closed it to 17-14 when Travis Henry scored on a 4-yard run early in the third quarter after the Vols forced a fumble on the second play after the third quarter kickoff. Will Overstreet caused the bobble and Dominique Stevenson got it.

The Cornhuskers hurt the Vols with the pass on the first scoring drive, but marched the entire 99 yards on the ground on the second drive.

The Vols got the game's last score when wide receiver Cedrick Wilson, a former high school quarterback, threw a 44-yard TD pass to Stallworth that closed it to 31-21 with 7:25 left. It was his first pass as a Vol and showed the versatility of the Memphis wideout.

KANSAS STATE 35 TENNESSEE 21

DALLAS - Leading 21-14 at the half, Kansas State scored on its first two possessions of the third quarter and held Tennessee scoreless until the final minutes to take a 35-21 victory in the 65th annual Cotton Bowl Classic on a cold and snowy day in Texas.

The Wildcats jumped to a 7-0 first quarter lead, but the Vols rallied to tie the game on a 17-yard pass from freshman quarterback Casey Clausen to wideout David Martin in the second period. Kansas State then parlayed two TD passes from game MVP Jonathan Beasley to wideout Quincy Morgan, 56 and 10 yards, respectively, to lead 21-7 midway in the second quarter.

Kansas State appeared headed for more late in the second quarter, when defensive tackle Chavis Smith tipped a Beasley pass and Jabari Greer took the interception back 78 yards for a score. K-State's 21-14 lead at the half didn't last long once the third quarter started.

The Wildcats' two third quarter scores came entirely on the ground in the first 4:54 of the third quarter. It remained 35-14 until Travis Henry, who ran for 180 yards on 17 carries, found daylight on a dash up the middle and outran everybody to the end zone.

The game marked the Vols' fifth appearance in the Cotton Bowl overall and first since 1990. It was also the Vols' first game against Kansas State.

2001 COTTON BOWL — Tennessee's Travis Henry had a stellar game in the 2001 Cotton Bowl with 180 yards on 17 carries. Henry's total included an 81-yard TD dash which set a Vol bowl record for longest run from scrimmage.

TENNESSEE 45 MICHIGAN 17

ORLANDO - Tennessee's first meeting with Michigan was one for the ages - as in, it had been ages since Michigan suffered such a resounding defeat.

The Vols threw nearly every offensive weapon possible at the Wolverines and rolled to a 45-17 victory in the Capital One Florida Citrus Bowl. Capping an 11-2 season, Tennessee's 28-point win matched its largest bowl triumph.

Game MVP Casey Clausen threw for a career-high 393 yards on 26-of-34 completions. He also passed for three touchdowns and nearly had two more - twice Donte' Stallworth was tackled inside the 1-yard line.

After UT marched for an opening field goal, defensive MVP John Henderson was in on three straight tackles that forced Michigan into a quick three-and-out. The Wolverines gained a first down on their next possession, but then Henderson caused one fumble and recovered another - on the same play - to set the Vols up for their first touchdown.

UT's receivers had a spectacular day. Stallworth caught eight passes for 119 yards and had 190 all-purpose yards. Kelley Washington caught six passes for 70 yards and two scores, while Jason Witten hauled in six catches for a career-high 125 yards.

Michigan's loss was its worst in 33 bowl appearances and the Wolverines' worst in any game since losing 50-14 to Ohio State in 1968.

"It's been a while since we've played a team as good as Tennessee," Michigan running back Chris Perry said.

MARYLAND 30 TENNESSEE 3

ATLANTA - Maryland handed Tennessee its worst bowl loss in school history, a 30-3 blitz at the 35th annual Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

The Terrapins took advantage of two key UT turnovers and used a balanced attack in defeating the Vols for the third time in five postseason meetings.

Tennessee had eight penalties for 68 yards and Vols quarterback Casey Clausen was sacked six times for minus-36 yards. In addition, UT converted only four of 13 third-down opportunities and rushed 27 times for just 45 net yards -- the school's third lowest figure in 43 bowl appearances.

Tennessee's defense played well enough to jump to No. 5 nationally in total defense by game's end after allowing the Terrapins only 274 yards from scrimmage. But Maryland balanced 154 rushing yards and 120 passing yards with 177 return yards on some timely special teams play.

The Terps' second touchdown was a 54-yard interception and return by Curome Cox, the longest against a Tennessee team in bowl history. Later, return specialist Steve Suter fielded a Dustin Colquitt punt and scampered 79 yards to the UT 14, setting up Maryland's final three points of the game.

Maryland quarterback Scott McBrien scored twice and place-kicker Nick Novak hit on all three field goal tries.

Tennessee finished the game with more first downs than Maryland, ran the same number of offensive plays and compiled more yards of total offense. Yet Alex Walls' 38-yard field goal in the second quarter was the only scoring the Vols could muster.

Bowl Halls of Fame

COTTON BOWL HALL OF FAME

Lindsey Nelson

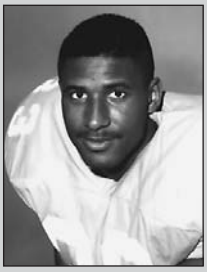

Nelson was the longtime Voice of the Cotton Bowl as he served as the play-by-play announcer for 26 of the annual New Year's Day games. His first broadcast was in 1951 on the NBC Radio Network. Nelson was inducted into the Cotton Bowl Hall of Fame in 2000. He served as Tennessee's sports information director in 1951 and is credited with creating the Vol Radio Network.

GATOR BOWL HALL OF FAME

Doug Dickey

Coach Dickey appeared in four Gator Bowls, three as a coach and one as a player. He quarterbacked the University of Florida to a 14-13 victory over Tulsa in 1953 and led his first Tennessee team to an 18-12 victory over Syracuse in 1966. He also coached Tennessee in the 1969 Gator Bowl and Florida in the 1975 Gator Bowl. Dickey was inducted into the Gator Bowl Hall of Fame in 1994.

James Stewart

The Morristown native was named the Most Outstanding Player as Tennessee took a 45-23 victory over Virginia Tech in the 1994 Gator Bowl. The Vol running back scored three touchdowns as he rushed for 85 yards on 22 attempts and also threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Kendrick Jones. Stewart was inducted into the Gator Bowl Hall of Fame in 1998.

ORANGE BOWL HALL OF HONOR

Gen. Robert R. Neyland

Neyland was included in the first Orange Bowl Classic Hall of Honor class in 1969. The legendary coach was instrumental in Tennessee's classic 1939 win over Oklahoma. Neyland also directed the Vols to the 1947 Classic against Rice University. He finished his career with a 173-31-12 (.829) record in 21 seasons at Tennessee.

Bob Suffridge

Suffridge, a three-time All-America lineman, played in Tennessee's 17-0 victory over Oklahoma in the 1939 Orange Bowl. The Vol defense allowed only 94 yards of total offense while the offensive line paved the way for the Vol rushing attack that gained 197 yards. Suffridge was elected to the Orange Bowl Hall of Honor in 1982.

George Cafego

Cafego played in Tennessee's 17-0 victory over Oklahoma in the 1939 Orange Bowl. The Tennessee running back set up the Vols' first score with a punt return to the Sooner 27-yard line and a 15-yard rushing gain. The Tennessee offense totaled 260 yards of offense behind the direction of Cafego. He was inducted into the Orange Bowl Hall of Honor in 1984.

LEGENDS OF THE SUN BOWL

Johnny Majors

Majors coached three teams to Sun Bowl berths including his 1984 Tennessee team. He also led Iowa State to the Sun Bowl in 1971 and Pittsburgh in 1975. He is one of only three coaches to appear in three Sun Bowl games. He was named a Legend of the Sun Bowl in 1995.

About the "T"

The famed letter "T" debuted on Tennessee's helmets in the fall of 1964 as Doug Dickey assumed the head coaching reins.

Prior to 1964 the helmets had been white with an orange stripe down the middle. There, however, have been two exceptions. In coach Bowden Wyatt's final season in 1962, the Vols had orange numerals on the sides of their helmets. In 1963 coach Jim McDonald stuck with the numbers on the helmets, but changed the numerals color to black.

When Johnny Majors was named head coach in 1977, he had the "T" slightly redesigned and the orange stripe widened.

Dickey also brought another Tennessee tradition to life when he started the Vols running through the "T."

From the time of coach Bob Neyland through the 1963 season, the Vols had their team bench on the east side of the field, close to their dressing room which entered the field on the 50 yardline.

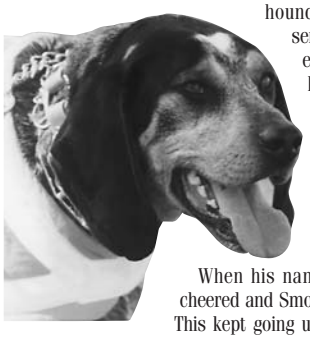

In 1965, Doug Dickey changed all that as the Vols opened the season against Army. He moved his team's bench to the west side, allowing the Vols to enter the field just before the opening kickoff through a giant "T" formed by the "Pride of Southland" Marching Band.

When the Vols moved to the new dressing room quarters under the north stands in 1983, the "T" remained, forming from north to south instead of east to west.

The "T" has occasionally been formed on the road, most notably at Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium in Memphis, at Vanderbilt Stadium in Nashville and at the 1986 and 1991 Sugar Bowls in New Orleans.

Smokey

After a student poll sponsored by the Pep Club revealed a desire to select a live mascot for the University, the Pep Club held a contest in 1953 to select a coonhound, a native breed of the state, as the mascot to represent the school. Announcements of the contest in local newspapers read, "This can't be an ordinary hound. He must be a 'Houn' Dog' in the best sense of the word." The late Rev. Bill Brooks entered his prize-winning blue tick coon hound, "Brooks' Blue Smokey," in the contest. At halftime of the Mississippi State game that season, the dogs were lined up on the old cheerleaders' ramp at Shields-Watkins Field. Each dog was introduced over the loudspeaker and the student body cheered for their favorite, with "Blue Smokey" being the last hound introduced. When his name was called, he barked. The students cheered and Smokey threw his head back and barked again. This kept going until the stadium was in an uproar and UT had found its mascot. Rev. Brooks supplied UT with the line of canines until his death in 1986 when his wife, Mildred, took over the caretaking role. She did so until 1994, when her brother and sister-in-law, Earl and Martha Hudson of Knoxville, took over responsibility for Smokey VII and eventually Smokey VIII, with Smokey IX now in the wings. Mrs. Brooks died in July 1997.

The dogs have led exciting lives. Smokey II was dognapped by Kentucky students in 1955 and later survived a confrontation with the Baylor Bear at the 1957 Sugar Bowl. Smokey VI, who suffered heat exhaustion in the 140-degree temperatures at the 1991 UCLA game, was listed on the Vol injury report until he returned later in the season. Smokey III compiled a 105-39-5 record and two SEC championships. Smokey VI, who passed away in 1991, was on the sidelines for three SEC championships. One of the most beloved figures in the state, Smokey is famous for leading the Vols out of the giant "T" prior to each home game. The present Smokey, now entering his ninth season, is eighth in the line of blue tick coon hounds and is appropriately called Smokey VIII. He is also the winningest Smokey, having recorded a 91-21 (.813) record, two SEC titles and the 1998 national championship.

School Colors

The colors Orange and White were selected by Charles Moore, a member of the first football team in 1891, and were later approved by a vote of the student body. The colors were those of the common American daisy which grew in profusion on The Hill. Tennessee players did not appear in the now-famous Orange jerseys until the season opening game in 1922. Coach M.B. Banks' Vols won that game over Emory and Henry by a score of 50-0.

Checkerboard End Zones

A Tennessee trademark from the mid-1960s was reinstated in 1989 with the installation of the orange and white checkerboard end zones on Shields-Watkins Field and continued with the return of grass.

The unique design accompanied coach Doug Dickey's arrival in 1964 when the Vols played Boston College. The colorful and popular end zones were a part of Tennessee football until 1968 when the natural sod was dug out and artificial turf was put in its place.

Workers installed the orange and white end zones and the interlocking UT at the 50-yard line in the summer of 1989. They were both completely inlaid with contrasting colored turf rather than painted turf.

Volunteer Navy

In 1962 former Vol broadcaster George Mooney found a quicker and more exciting way to get to Neyland Stadium other than fighting the notorious Knoxville traffic. Mooney navigated his little runabout down the Tennessee River to the stadium and spawned what would later become the "Volunteer Navy." Today, approximately 200 boats of all shapes and sizes make up this giant floating tailgate party. Tennessee and the University of Washington are the only institutions with football stadiums adjacent to bodies of water.

University of Tennessee's Pride of the Southland Band

The University of Tennessee band was organized immediately after the Civil War when the University reopened. Since then, the enrollment in the band program has grown to more than four hundred students (in all bands) from all colleges of the University.

Director of Bands, Dr. Gary Sousa, heads up a program which has maintained a long-standing reputation as one of the nation's finest musical organizations.

The band staff includes Dr. Don Ryder, Associate Director of Bands and Drill Designer, along with Ed Powell, Assistant Director. Drum Major for the 2003 season is Tommy Horst, and Head Majorette is Lanie Blankenship.

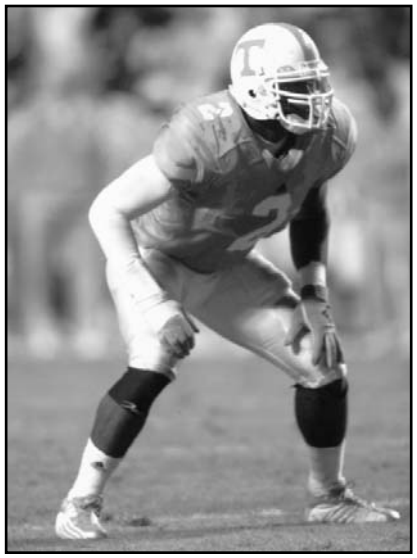

The band program is divided into several different units. The most famous of these units is the marching band, The full "Pride of the Southland Band," appears at all home football games and most out-of-town games before more than 850,000 spectators plus millions more on television.

The "Pride of the Southland" has represented the state of Tennessee at the Eisenhower, Johnson, Nixon, Carter, Reagan, Bush, Clinton and Bush Presidential Inaugurations and has appeared at the SEC Championship game, Rose Bowl, Astro Bluebonnet Bowl, Citrus Bowl, Gator Bowl, Hall of Fame Bowl, Liberty Bowl, Peach Bowl, Fiesta Bowl, Cotton Bowl, Orange Bowl and the Sugar Bowl.

When the UT Marching Band takes the field, the crowd reaction truly indicates that it is not only the Pride of all Tennesseans, but the "Pride of the Southland."

Alma Mater

The alma mater was selected as a result of a 1928 contest sponsored by Prof. L.S. Mayer of the UT men's glee club. All students, faculty members and alumni or members of their families throughout the state were eligible to compete for the $50 prize. The song, both music and words, had to be original and of high standard. The winner was Mrs. John Meek of Chattanooga, formerly Mary Fleming of Knoxville. The decision was announced at the Alumni banquet at the Farragut Hotel Oct. 26, 1928.

Kevin Burnett

BURNETT EXCELS IN COMMUNITY, CLASS AND ON FIELD

(From an article on the Associated Press wire by Elizabeth Davis concerning linebacker Kevin Burnett).

Tennessee linebacker Kevin Burnett walked up and down the rows of desks, signing posters and talking to each fourth-grade student.

One boy sat at a desk separated from his classmates and placed in the front where the teacher could make him behave.

When Burnett asked why he was sitting there, the teacher said, "He's my special friend."

Burnett smiled. "I know what that means," he said.

Burnett wasn't the model student and citizen he is now. He got in trouble and was sometimes even violent in his younger days growing up in South Central Los Angeles and learning to cope without his father, who died in a car accident when Burnett was 5.

Football helped him get his act together, and now he tries to convince children they can, too.

He spends many hours of free time visiting schools or counseling at a camp for children whose fathers have died.

At 20, Burnett has figured out one thing some professional athletes never do.

"You can't be bad off the field and be good on the field and expect to be successful. You have to be a good well-rounded person," he said.

In a visit earlier this month to Brickey Elementary School with quarterback Casey Clausen, Burnett encouraged students to read and pay attention in class.

"Who's the fastest? Who plays football? Any cheerleaders?" Burnett asked a group of fifth graders, who raised their hands to answer.

"This is an athletic class," Burnett told the students before he left. "You guys be good, and read your books!"

Wendy Newton, administrative assistant at Brickey, said no one told Burnett what to say to the students.

"He just jumped right in and made himself at home," she said.

If the NFL or sports business doesn't work out, Burnett would consider being a kindergarten teacher.

"I think being a bigger male with a deep voice, everybody would listen," he said. "I could teach the ABC's and 1-2-3's."

Burnett, a safety and running back at Dominguez High School in Carson, Calif., came to Tennessee in 2000 with great athletic promise and played in 11 games as a freshman. He started twice as a sophomore in 2001, but a knee injury ended the 2002 season early.

He returned as a starter this season at weakside linebacker and has 42 tackles going into No. 22 Tennessee's game Saturday at Alabama.

Burnett graduated in May with a degree in sports management and Academic All-Southeastern Conference honors but still had two years of athletic eligibility. Elected a team captain this year, he is taking graduate-level courses this fall toward a master's in sports administration.

"He's all-everything. He's a great guy to coach, a great guy to lead your football team. A super communicator," coach Phillip Fulmer said. "I think he's taken seriously his role as a community leader. You don't hear about those things nearly enough in college athletics. There are a lot of guys who give back to the community and Kevin Burnett would be at the head of the list."

Burnett's impact during his community service work is evident by the letters and calls he receives from some youngsters he has met, said Gerald Harrison, director of community relations for the football program.

Word about Burnett's good deeds has spread. The guidance counselor at a Knoxville high school called Burnett to talk to a freshman whose father had recently died.

Burnett also was a perfect fit as a counselor at Mike Gottfried's Team Focus summer camp for children ages 8 to 16 whose fathers have died. Based in Mobile, Ala., the organization holds Christian-based leadership camps in various cities, including nearby Maryville.

"Those kids, they drew to him," Harrison said.

And why not? Burnett knows how he would have felt if a big-time athlete took time to meet him.

"I would have listened to everything he said because I wanted to be a football player when I grow up and still do," Burnett said.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Kevin Burnett's generosity with regard to community service rated his inclusion as one of only 11 student-athletes on the American Football Coaches Association's Division I-A Good Works Team. Likewise, Burnett earned recognition on the SEC's Good Works Team. On the field, Burnett's return from injury proved a welcome sight to his teammates, as the junior racked up 83 tackles -- fourth on the team. Burnett maintained his Big Play capability, evidenced by notching 9.5 of those momentum shifters from his linebacker position.

CLAUSEN IS MAKING HIS OWN HISTORY

(From an article in The Sporting News by Matt Hayes concerning quarterback Casey Clausen).

The horn sounded and the ladder came out. Casey Clausen's hands were waving and the Tennessee band was swaying, the finishing touch on yet another road victory for the Vols' misunderstood quarterback. Maybe someday, these wins will be enough. Someday, the guy who's not Peyton Manning or Tee Martin or even Heath Shuler will carve his own piece of history without someone somewhere second-guessing.

"That's for all the disbelievers," Tennessee wideout Mark Jones said as Clausen balanced his bruised and beaten body on that rickety ladder, conducting the band after leading UT to its second consecutive victory at Florida. How rare is that feat? Manning and Martin, who have streets named after them in Knoxville, never won in Gainesville. Neither did Shuler. And Clausen? His second consecutive victory at The Swamp had publicity flaks scrambling to find the last time it happened. As far as we know, they're still looking.

We do know this: Clausen now is 11-0 in road games for Tennessee, and his gutty, gritty performance in a 24-10 win over the Gators could galvanize a talented team that has been searching for direction since fumbling away a chance at the national title game in 2001. That year, the Vols won at Florida, 34-32; they went on to lose to LSU as double-digit favorites in the SEC championship game. A year later, they staggered through months of injuries and underachieving, winning just eight games and losing to Maryland by 27 points in the Peach Bowl.

In one year, the Vols went from a team that should have played Miami in the Rose Bowl to one that had fallen off the map. The fire, of course, fell on Clausen. He never has been a fan favorite, anyway. A native Californian with a brash attitude and a cool demeanor, he practically invited the ire because he comes off arrogant and aloof and because, well, he wasn't any of the three quarterbacks who preceded him.

"Anybody who has criticized Casey is just plain stupid" Tennessee coach Philip Fulmer says matter-of-factly. After Clausen's performance at Florida, that statement has a little more pop. His numbers--12-of-23 for 235 yards, one touchdown and one interception--weren't gaudy, but his game management, leadership and performance in critical spots nearly was flawless. He overcame cramps and dehydration and a Florida defense that hounded and harassed him from the opening snap. He willed a team that lost its No. 1 tailback, Cedric Houston, because of bruised ribs midway through the game and couldn't protect its quarterback for three quarters to a victory that could change the complexion of the season.

For the first 29 minutes of the game, Tennessee never crossed the Florida 40. It finally did on a fluke Hall Mary heave from Clausen that wound up in James Banks' hands for a 7-3 lead at halftime. At one point early in the third quarter, Clausen had been sacked three times, hurried 12 times and knocked down nine times. After yet another hit, he staggered to the sideline, and the Vols were forced to call a timeout. Fulmer says Clausen had cramps; Clausen admits he was "seeing two of everybody" on defense.

That was when it all changed. Clausen came back and scrambled for 11 yards, then threw a slip screen to Jayson Swain for another 9 yards to set up a 51-yard field goal by James Wilhoit. The next three series included a perfectly thrown deep fade to Bret Smith for 57 yards to set up one touchdown and two key third-down completions to set up the Vols' final scoring drive.

"You don't leave a game like this," Clausen says. "There was no way I was coming out."

Just like last year, when there was no question that neither a fractured collarbone nor a high ankle sprain would keep him from completing his junior season. Fulmer says he never would have blinked had Clausen decided to sit with those two painful injuries. Instead, Clausen battled through them for seven games, losing three big contests (Alabama, Miami, Maryland) by a combined 90-20 and stoking the heat from disgruntled fans. Never mind that Clausen couldn't walk a flight of stairs on Sunday mornings. That he couldn't put on a shirt without help. That he was playing with virtually no deep threat and a hit-and-miss running game.

Had he sat, as most would have, it could have been much worse for the quarterback-strapped Vols. As if any of that matters. Fair or not, all of Tennessee's problems were pinned on the player who essentially held the season together. The same player who directed a players-only meeting in the offseason, staring down everyone in the room and giving them two options: Work hard or walk. "You could hear a pin drop," says center Scott Wells.

To no one's surprise, that was the exact opposite reaction to Clausen's stirring halftime speech last Saturday, when he called out his teammates for playing like Vanderbilt in the first half against the Gators. This is his team and his time. Who cares about the name of a street? Clausen just bagged his second win in Gainesville.

Who else in Knoxville can say that?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Casey Clausen proved most dangerous with a football in one hand and a suitcase in the other. No other Volunteer quarterback has ever been more successful hushing the rowdy road partisans. Clausen's 14 career road victories as the starting quarterback passed Peyton Manning's previous school record of 13 away wins. Clausen's statistics earn a spot in the upper echelon of all-time Tennessee and SEC QBs. He ranks third all-time in the SEC in lowest percent of interceptions (2.551), sixth in passing yardage (9,323), attempts (1,215) and completions (744). In the stat Clausen values most -- wins -- the senior's 34-9-0 (.791) record stands second in the Tennessee record books behind Manning's 39. Clausen's judgment and grasp of the offense guided the Vols to a five-overtime victory against ancient rival Alabama, a performance celebrated with nods as SEC Offensive Player of the Week.

A STAR FROM EUROPE IN U.S. COLLEGE FOOTBALL

(From an article in The New York Times by Chris Wohlwend concerning defensive end Constantin Ritzmann).

On a recent hot afternoon, Tennessee offensive tackle Michael Munoz is battling one on one with defensive end Constantin Ritzmann, trying to keep him away from the quarterback. The battles are intense, the players, both of them team captains, demonstrating to their understudies the tenacity and toughness required at this level of college football.

The drill is second nature to Munoz, who is the son of the Hall of Fame tackle Anthony Munoz and has been around football all his life.

Ritzmann, on the other hand, was born and raised in Germany, where football means soccer. He came to the American game relatively late, after a circuitous route that involved club teams in Europe and a scholarship sponsored by the National Football League to attend an American high school.

He is starting his senior season, which was delayed a year by a knee injury. But assuming he retains the speed that made him a devastatingly effective pass rusher during his first three seasons at Tennessee, he is likely to get an opportunity to play in the N.F.L., fulfilling the league's early faith in his athletic potential.

Ritzmann was one of four Germans given scholarships in 1997 by N.F.L. Futures. The project lasted two years before the National Collegiate Athletic Association put an end to it because of concerns about a professional

After straightening out assignments and putting growing pains in the rearview mirror, Tennessee's defense dominated offenses unfortunate enough to occupy the stretch run of the schedule. league's providing amateurs with high school scholarships. The league is looking at alternatives that might meet with N.C.A.A. approval.

Ritzmann's journey began in Mellensee, a rural village in southern Germany. As a 13-year-old, he began playing American football in backyards with his 18-year-old brother Alexander, his brothers' friends and some American soldiers.

"There were about 20 guys my brother's age," Ritzmann said. "Usually, there were a couple of American soldiers from the Army bases. They would get us into the PX and we would watch N.F.L. games on the Armed Forces Network. That's when I first saw Reggie White; I decided I wanted to take after him."

Though much younger than his teammates, Ritzmann said he could stay with them. "I was always bigger and faster than the other boys my age," he said. He is 6 feet 4 inches, and after four years with Tennessee's conditioning staff, he has muscled up to 265 pounds from the 220 he weighed when he signed.

Ritzmann's family eventually moved to Berlin, and in high school he participated in hockey, soccer, basketball and track.

"I was a sprinter," he said. "That gave me the basics for conditioning. Plus, Alexander saw something in me. He pushed me, organized my workouts, had me running extra, up hills. I wasn't excited about working out, but he really pushed me."

By the time he was 18, Ritzmann was playing on a team in Hamburg, where he stood out. "For three years in a row I was the most valuable player and was on a European all-star team," he said. "I have always been quick and explosive, always one of the fastest guys on the team wherever I'm playing."

With his scholarship from the N.F.L., Ritzmann enrolled at the North Florida Christian School in Tallahassee. When he arrived, his first impression was of the heat.

"When I got off the plane, it was August, and I took my first breath of the hot, humid air -- it was like being under water," he said. "I thought there was no way I could play football in that kind of temperature."

There were many other adjustments. "I was kind of hesitant with my English," Ritzmann said. "It took me about six or eight months to get comfortable with that. Of course, it was tough obeying the curfew after living in my own apartment in Hamburg. But I wanted to play football, and to do that I had to obey the rules. Plus, I was really excited to be there.

"I had an advantage because the German league I had played in was organized. We had a playbook. In Florida, it was more just line up and try to kill the guy with the ball. Because I had been playing with older guys since I was 13, I was never intimidated. Usually I just beat the other guy with my speed."

While in Florida, Ritzmann ran 100 meters in 10.8 seconds, finishing third in the state meet. Besides Tennessee, he got offers from Florida, Ohio State and Florida State. He chose Tennessee because it had just won a national championship. He did not know until later that his hero, Reggie White, had been a Volunteer.

"When I got to Tennessee I found out that the guys opposite me were as quick as I was," he said. "So I had to learn technique, how to come underneath, how to bull rush. I was working with Shaun Ellis and Will Overstreet, so with them and Coach Caldwell, I had good teachers."

Ellis now plays with the Jets and Overstreet with the Atlanta Falcons. Steve Caldwell coaches the defensive ends at Tennessee.

Ritzmann impressed his coaches with his athleticism, Caldwell said. "He had great speed, but didn't really know how to use it," Caldwell said. "And he didn't know how to stop the run. But he made great strides, both on the field and in the weight room."

In 2001, sharing time with Overstreet, Ritzmann had four sacks, eight tackles for a loss and scored three different ways: he tackled the opposing quarterback for a safety, recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and on a broken extra-point attempt, caught a pass from the holder for a 2-point conversion.

Ritzmann tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee during the last preseason scrimmage last summer. He missed the entire season and rehabilitated the knee for months.

Basing his opinion on their preseason practice battles, Munoz said that Ritzmann was back. "He's always pushing me," Munoz said. "He has a great combination of strength and speed, and great control of his body. Going against him every day makes me ready for any S.E.C. end."

When Ritzmann made his first trip home in three years last spring, he was asked to do the coin toss before a game involving the Berlin Thunder of N.F.L. Europe. His name was already familiar to Thunder fans.

As Ritzmann is preparing for his last college season, N.F.L. officials are working with the N.C.A.A. to find an alternative to the N.F.L. Futures program that would be acceptable to the N.C.A.A. The idea is to help popularize American football.

"The challenge is to figure out ways we can identify promising young athletes in Europe and then give them the U.S. high school and college experience," said John Beake, the N.F.L.'s vice president for football operations and player development. "We want to develop an interest in American football at an early age."

Ritzmann expects to graduate in December with a degree in sport management, and he hopes to play professionally for "as long as I can."

Then, perhaps, he will return home. "Maybe I'll work for N.F.L. Europe," he said, grinning.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Constantin Ritzmann's hard-charging pass rush culminated in 10.5 career sacks. In a league brimming with quarterback-crunching defenses, Ritzmann's 10.5 sacks ranks tied for seventh among all active players in the nation's toughest conference. Though touted as a pass rusher, Ritzmann put his run-stopping skills on display this season to the tune of 48 tackles, the best total on the defensive line. The senior captain also racked up 5.5 Big Plays, highlighted by 3.5 sacks.

ALL'S WELLS THAT ENDS WELL FOR UT CENTER

(From an article in the Chattanooga Times Free Press by Darren Epps concerning center Scott Wells).

One day, years from now, Jackson Wells will come home from school or practice and won't care to go back. Someone will tell him he's not smart enough or athletic enough to compete with the others.

The youngster will tug on Dad's shirt for comfort, as he describes the critical words of his classmates.

Scott Wells will lift his son with those strong hands, the ones he uses to fend off SEC defensive tackles every week, and he'll place Jackson on his 295-pound frame some considered too small for big-time college football. Wells will put his tree-trunk of an arm around his son to calm down the young boy.

And he will tell this story about becoming a standout at Tennessee.

Largely unknown after moving to the Nashville area from Pennsylvania, Wells didn't register a blip on the recruiting radar of most schools and entered the last half of his high school career more recognized in a wrestling singlet than shoulder pads. Virginia and Vanderbilt were the only two major schools showing interest, until former Tennessee offensive line coach Mike Barry watched a Brentwood Academy football game in 1998.

Barry couldn't understand why. He felt the strength in Wells' hands upon greeting him and his skilled footwork was perfect for the center position, though Wells wanted to play defensive tackle. They'd discuss that later.

"It was an absolute no-brainer," UT coach Phillip Fulmer said of offering Wells a scholarship. "He was the best player on the team. He was a nationally ranked wrestler, great student, wonderful kid to be around and just as tough as you could be. You just knew he was going to be good."

However, UT's offer brought mostly snickers, stares and whispers from those around Wells. Scott Wells at Tennessee? Isn't that a breeding ground for NFL offensive linemen? Isn't he a wrestler?

"A lot of people told me I would never play," Wells said. "They said I would get lost in all the talent."

Among those was then-Vanderbilt coach Woody Widenhofer, who scoffed when Wells called and told him the news.

"You're going to get lost in the numbers," Widenhofer said. "You know, you're not the caliber of player we needed anyway. We want guys who are looking to fight and create a better team and not looking to fall into a good team already just to say they play for a good team."

Even his high school coach, Carlton Flatt, cautioned Wells against signing with the Vols.

"I had a little concern because Tennessee didn't recruit him very much," Flatt said. "They came on at the end. I just wanted Scott to get an opportunity to play."

One of the happiest times in Wells' life quickly turned into a hearty laugh to those around him. But for a kid who set goals for himself during pee-wee football, tore a biceps muscle trying to break a bench press lifting record and went on to hold his own against Florida star Gerald Warren in his first collegiate game, shrugging off doubters was easier than curling a football.

Wells is the only one laughing now. Saturday, against the school which told him earning playing time at a major program was impossible for a player of his caliber, Wells will start at center for the 47th straight game, one shy of a Tennessee record for position players.

"That's the greatest thing about coming here and starting for four years," Wells said. "I can tell everybody, 'You were wrong.' I'll say, 'You never thought I'd play, but look now.' That's something I take a lot of pride in."

Wells didn't just start for 47 straight games. He dominated, most recently recording 12 knockdowns against Miami's vaunted front line two weeks ago and eight more against Mississippi State.

"He's probably the best center I've ever been around," said Barry, now at N.C. State. "He brings a lot to the game like tenacity and leadership. He's the best finisher I've been around, he's a special kid and I love him dearly. Every time Tennessee is mentioned, I think of Scott."

A long line of great Tennessee centers ended when Wells entered the game against Florida in 2000. Wells is much better than great. Fulmer said he doesn't remember a center like Wells playing for Tennessee in the past 20 years.

"He's one of the best players we've had at that position and I've coached a bunch of good ones," Fulmer said. "They've all been good, but this kid's been special. Even though he's undersized some, he'll play in the NFL. I don't think there's any question about that."

There shouldn't be any more questions concerning Wells' ability, either. It's a lesson he'll pass on to his son, Jackson, born two weeks ago.

"I look forward to the day I can tell my son, 'You can do anything you want. Don't listen to anybody else,'" Wells said. "Coming out of high school, people told me I should have wrestled or gone to some Ivy League school or whatever. I think I did OK for myself."

One day soon, Jackson Wells will know his story.

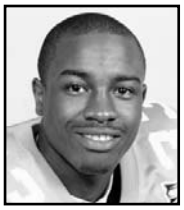

EDITOR'S NOTE: Against Kentucky to cap the regular season, Scott Wells led the Vol offense to the frostbitten line of scrimmage etched in the bluegrass for a remarkable 48th consecutive time as starting center -- the third-longest streak by any current offensive lineman in all of college football. Wells and his fellow road graders plowed the pathway to an improved offensive effort in 2003. Wells and his linemates toil in the statistical shadows, far away from the starring spotlight reserved for quarterbacks, receivers and running backs. But all statistics bear the fingerprint of the overlooked front five. Nowhere is their contribution more deflating for a defense than in a steady, overpowering, momentum-shifting touchdown drive. Wells helped author two of the SEC's most impressive spirit crushers, a 15-play, 73-yard, 9:19 masterpiece to better Miami and a 13-play, 66-yard, 7:34 work of art to light up the scoreboard against Kentucky.

'T' FOR TWO: FRICK AND FRACK

(From an article in the News Sentinel by Mike Griffith concerning safety Rashad Baker and cornerback Jabari Greer).

Rashad Baker

Jabari Greer

Jabari Greer and Rashad Baker came to Tennessee from different worlds, but once united in orange, the senior defensive backs have been virtually inseparable.

Greer and Baker, four-year starters in the Vols' secondary, will take the field at Neyland Stadium on Saturday afternoon against Vanderbilt for the final time.

It wouldn't be surprising to see them run through the "T" together.

"Every time you see one, you usually see the other," UT defensive back/receiver Mark Jones said. "They're like Frick and Frack."

It has been that way since they reported to Knoxville in the summer of 2000. Baker came from a tough borough of Camden, N.J., and Greer, from a slower, more laid-back setting in Jackson, Tenn.

"We basically roomed together for three years," said Baker, the quieter of the two. "When I first came in I was with Mark Jones and Jabari was with Courtney Rogers."

Once Jones and Rogers moved out, Baker initiated the friendship with his chatty teammate.

"I remember Rashad came to me and said he was moving in," Greer said. "At first, I wasn't too sure about that."

Baker said that coming from two completely different backgrounds, there were some obvious differences between the two.

"I remember there were some things Jabari would say that I really didn't understand," Baker said. "I thought those were fighting words or something."

Instead, the battles were reserved for the field. At first, they went against one another in practice - Baker started out at UT as a receiver with Greer at cornerback.

Three games into his freshman year, Baker was moved over to safety. He's lined up next to Greer ever since, and the two have fought numerous battles for Tennessee together in the secondary.

"Rashad and Jabari? Yeah, they've been attached at the hip," UT senior center Scott Wells said. "They were always real talkative in our summer 7-on-7 workouts. They'd build up some intensity in the drills. It made things more serious during the workouts, and that was good."

Baker and Greer stayed just as competitive with one another.

"We'd play video games every night after two-a-days," Baker said. "I dominated Madden (football), but Jabari was better at NBA Live."

The pair lived in Gibbs Hall for two years before moving off campus and sharing an apartment their junior years.

"We always kept a real nice pad together," Greer said. "We kept it straight. It was decked out, we had cool lights and the glow-in-the-dark stars on the ceiling.

"We've also gotten close to each other's family, going home with each other for holidays and stuff. We had some real good times up there in Philly, you know that's right across the bridge from Camden."

UT secondary coach Larry Slade smiled when asked about his memories of Greer and Baker. They were two recruits Slade personally groomed from start to finish after taking the defensive backs job at UT after the 1998 season.

"Jabari's a little more flamboyant, whereas Rashad is blue-collar," Slade said. "They get after each other all the time, but they are also very loyal to each other. They'll be kidding and all the sudden it will get serious. They know which buttons to push in one another. It's like they're brothers."

Greer moved out of the apartment prior to this season to help take care of his five-month old daughter, Jada.

"Jabari has been blessed with Jada," Baker said. "We've stayed close."

Greer said Baker still visits to play with his daughter.

"When Rashad is with her, he's just like her uncle; he is her uncle," Greer said. "It's cool looking back and seeing how we've grown from kids to adults together."

UT coach Phillip Fulmer said he's enjoyed watching the two mature on and off the field.

"They've been two great kids that hit it off and played side by side," Fulmer said. "They won together, and got through tough times together. They've grown into being two great young men."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rarely has a more effective safety and cornerback tandem patrolled the defensive backfield for the Vols. Co-captain Rashad Baker directed Tennessee's pass defenders to their assignments with efficiency and skill, much to the chagrin of opposing quarterbacks. His neighbors in the Memorial Football Club of South Jersey saw fit to honor him as their Division I-A College Player of the Year with local ties. Despite missing time with injury, Baker still tallied 64 hits and six defensive Big Plays, including his 11th career interception. Greer has kept the price of the air expensive on his quadrant of the field. The Jackson native hasn't allowed much cheap yardage in his senior campaign. As a result, opposing quarterbacks don't like to loft one in the vicinity of No. 33. Greer contributed 52 tackles on the season and eight defensive Big Plays, including five tackles for loss.

MICHAEL MUNOZ: HEAD OF THE LINE

Michael Munoz

It says something special about Tennessee offensive tackle Michael Munoz that he was elected a captain of the 2003 Volunteer squad as a junior. He and teammate Kevin Burnett are the first juniors to be named a captain since Bob Dobelstein did it back in the war year of 1944, before most of us were even born. His teammates had to have seen the qualities of leadership that have hallmarked Tennessee captains over the year and responded accordingly.

"It's a great honor and a great deal of responsibility," Munoz said. "It's something you can't prepare for and know what to expect. It's really made me step out of my comfort zone of what I normally do and take on a new role. I enjoy it and I'm honored."

In a sense, he has been preparing for this all his life. Michael came to Knoxville as a highly-rated prospect, most notably receiving the Bobby Dodd Award as nation's most outstanding lineman as voted by the Atlanta Touchdown Club.

He came by his talents honestly, given that his father, Anthony Munoz, was an all-everything lineman at USC, the one in Los Angeles, and with the Cincinnati Bengals.

The first time Anthony showed up for practice in Knoxville, he attracted as much attention just standing by the fence on the left field line at Lindsey Nelson Stadium as the players on the field did. Come to think of it, he was bigger than most of them.

He looked like he could still play and, equally important, he looked like no one could tell him he couldn't.

But he has played the role of proud dad to the hilt and it's not uncommon to see his famous mug during a telecast of a Vol game on whatever television network happens to be in town.

There's something comforting for a coach to be able to pencil in a name on the lineup and not have to worry about it from that point on, like Sparky Anderson did with the Reds in the mid-1970s, e.g., Rose, Morgan, Griffey, Foster, Bench, Perez, Conception and Geronimo. That's been the case with Michael during his career, except when the injury bug has hit. Phillip Fulmer has inked his name on the lineup card and left it there.

Munoz jumped to the front when he arrived on campus, and has made 30 career starts, despite some nagging injuries and one big one that caused him to miss the entire 2001 season. Despite that, he has shown what coaches expected of him when they issued jersey No. 77 and sent him onto the field.

A fierce competitor in the trenches, Michael, Michael Anthony Munoz Jr., for the purists, was a freshman All-America selection in 2000 despite playing in some pain most of the year. He became the first true freshman to start a season opener since Bill Mayo did likewise in 1981, in a game at Athens, Ga. He earned the plaudits of head coach Phillip Fulmer for the way he absorbed the lessons of playing the offensive line so quickly.

He has a big responsibility, charged with protecting the Vol quarterback's blind side. It's a matter of trusting technique and what happens elsewhere on the field.

VOLS IN THE ORANGE ZONE

Under offensive coordinator Randy Sanders, Tennessee's offense has become bullish in the Orange Zone, where the defenses get meaner and the real estate a more precious commodity. In 2003, Tennessee scored at a robust 88.6 percent clip, 39 of 44 times, inside the Orange Zone. More importantly, the Volunteers punched in 31 touchdowns opposed to eight field goals. Even more impressively, Tennessee only lost one turnover in the Orange Zone.

*Pre-SEC Championship Game

"You have to trust your technique and hope Casey Clausen gets the ball off," he said of trench warfare in the SEC and college football in general. "You just do your best every play. It's a big challenge to protect his blindside because he's helpless there.

"It's always good to get a fresh start," he said of his return in 2003 after dealing with the injury bug last season. "I thought I was going in healthy. Those things happen and you just have to push through. You don't expect them, but they just happen. I'm hoping for the best this season."

His most memorable minutes last year came in the South Carolina game at Columbia where the Vol offense ran to his side play after play on the decisive scoring drive in an 18-10 win that did not come easily at all. He was solid in both run and pass blocking and continues that trend already in 2003.

A native of Mason, Ohio, where he was a sensation at the famed Moeller High School and pretty much broke every dish in the house as a prep stalwart, Munoz became one of three Vols, Constantin Ritzmann and Scott Wells being the others, to add a gold band to his ring finger, left hand, when the former Emily Jones of Cincinnati became Mrs. Munoz before the season. It's quite a balancing act. He admits as much.

"Balancing football and school, and now being married, is a lot of responsibility," he said, "and that goes with being a captain, too. You have to learn that right from the beginning."

At 6-6, 305 pounds, Michael excels at pass blocking, with outstanding movement and use of hands. The sky is apparently the limit for him to follow in his father's legendary and large footprints. You have to think that, after his Vol career is over, he'll be playing on Sundays for a long time and make consistently large deposits in his bankbook over that time.

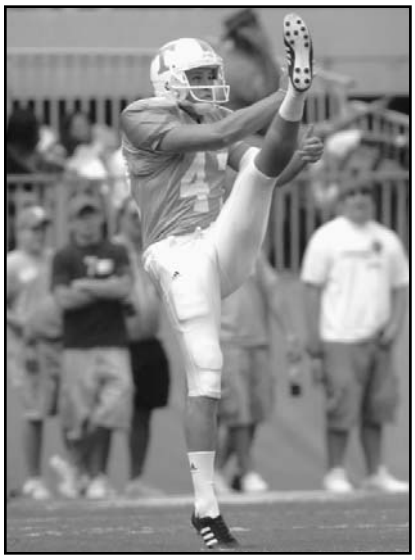

Just because the name "Munoz" is stitched across the back of his Tennessee jersey doesn't necessarily ensure success, but Michael seems ready for the challenge of helping lead Tennessee to glory. The man who sees him practice and play every day says so.

"Michael is a special player," line coach Jimmy Ray Stephens said. "We know what he can do and he has the total package in terms of All-SEC and All-America potential."

He's on his way to making his own, albeit large, imprint on Tennessee football. He wants to be mentioned in the same breath as the great Tennessee linemen of the past, recent and not-so-recent. There's nothing to indicate he can't do it. We'll keep you posted.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Michael Munoz' worth as a left tackle can be evaluated by scanning statistics buttressing Tennessee's offensive improvement. However, a more visible sign can be found in quarterback Casey Clausen. Munoz protects Clausen's blind side. To that end, Clausen hasn't missed a quarter this season because of injury. Every time Clausen walks off the field on his own power you can thank Munoz. Muzoz and his offensive linemates bulled Tennessee into second place in the SEC's red (orange) zone offensive statistics.

COLQUITT IN COMMAND

Dustin Colquitt

(From an article in the News Sentinel by Mike Strange concerning punter Dustin Colquitt).

For a baseball pitcher, it's one thing to have a smoking fastball. It's another to be able to throw it where he wants to throw it.

Dustin Colquitt is a punter, not a pitcher. But to continue the analogy, these days he's not only throwing smoke, he's hitting the corners with it.

"When I was a freshman, I didn't have any routine," Colquitt said. "I was scared to death when I walked out there.

"I really didn't know what I was doing. I wasn't aiming for one side of the field or the other. It was just get it down there."

He's getting it down there all right. High, low, left, right, whatever the situation calls for, Tennessee's homegrown junior punter is a weapon.

The Bearden High School grad is averaging 47.9 yards, which leads the SEC and ranks third in the nation.

The lefty is coming off a game at Florida in which he averaged 49 yards. He rolled a 67-yarder out of bounds at the Gators' 9, then hit his next one 57 yards to pin Florida at its 6.

"You know most likely he's going to kick the heck out of it," said defensive end Constantin Ritzmann. "He's usually going to turn the field over when he goes out there so it's fun to watch."

Defensive coordinator John Chavis might be seen leading cheers after Colquitt does his thing.

"Man, he's making our job a lot easier," said linebacker Kevin Simon. "He makes play calls for Coach Chavis a lot easier, having them pinned back inside the 20.

"It really just opens up a lot more things. We can really go after them and if we make a mistake and they get a 15-yard play, they're only on the 35 and it wouldn't be too big of a deal."

Here's what is a big deal for Colquitt - his routine. There's peace of mind that comes from repetition and uniformity.

The same rubber band on his wrist. The same music (Jack Johnson and Led Zeppelin) in his CD player. The same mesh shorts on Friday. The same mismatched socks.

"I've had them three years," said Colquitt. "One is longer than the other. One is real bright white. The other is yellow from three years of use.

"It's little things that help me get into somewhere I'm not thinking about the game and all the pressure."

Colquitt got serious about a routine during his freshman year when he was benched the first half at Notre Dame. It was coach Phillip Fulmer's message that inconsistent results were not acceptable.

Last year, he was so consistent he was one of three finalists for the Ray Guy Award as the nation's top punter.

After unprecedented off-season of lower-body strength work, he's off to an even better start this fall.

And once game time arrives, he's thinking plenty.

"I know what I'm going to do before I go out there," Colquitt said. "It's really helped me out having some kind of plan."

His plan includes being at UT for his senior year, even though he'll be finished with his degree.

"Punting is a position that's not very open to people who want to leave early," he said.

"There are too many good guys in the NFL and I'm having too much fun here."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Punting is never a pleasant proposition. However, the Vols have an ace in the hole with Ray Guy Award finalist Dustin Colquitt. The junior's ability to reverse field position with both booming power and pinpoint precision gives head coach Phillip Fulmer more peace of mind than he's enjoyed with any other punter wearing orange during his tenure. In 2003, Colquitt has punted 61 times for 2,801 yards for a 45.9 average. He has pinned the opposition inside its 20-yard line 19 times and forced four fair catches, while surrendering only six touchbacks. Colquitt earned 2003 All-America honors from the Football Writers and Walter Camp. He earned SEC Special Teams Player of the Week twice in the 2003 campaign, against Marshall and South Carolina.

HIGH EXPECTATIONS FOR VOLS' SIMON

Forgive Kevin Simon's insatiable desire to be better.

The Tennessee sophomore linebacker critiques himself as openly and matter of factly as heartless American Idol judge Simon Cowell might a contestant on the popular television show.

The Vols' Simon just isn't as smug.

"I'm really not surprised at anything so far," said Simon, whose 10.7 tackles per game rank second in the SEC. "I expect to make plays. I expect to make big plays. I expect a lot out of myself, and I know I can play a lot better."

This is coming from the same guy who feasted on Florida ball-carriers in The Swamp last Saturday to the tune of 16 tackles. That's twice as many tackles as any other Tennessee defender made against the Gators.

His 14 solo tackles were also the most for a Tennessee player since Darryl Hardy had 18 against Alabama in 1989.

"I know I look at him and am glad I don't have to block him," said Scott Wells, Tennessee's senior center and a team captain. "I watch him out there playing, and he's one of the best — if not the best linebacker in the SEC — the way he mixes up quickness with his explosiveness."

And did anybody mention that the 5-foot-11, 225-pound Simon is still learning on the job, not to mention playing on a sore right ankle that requires 90 minutes of rehabilitation every day?

"He's just a baller, a football player who can do everything," said Bob Ladouceur, who coached Simon at Northern California high school powerhouse De La Salle.

"He rushed for 1,600 yards for us as a tailback and then stepped on the other side and played the kind of linebacker he is now. He wasn't even a running back, but did it on heart, guts and smarts."

Simon is playing the strongside linebacker position for the Vols, although he played on the inside in high school and is probably more naturally suited to play middle linebacker in Tennessee's system.

Kevin Simon

But defensive coordinator John Chavis felt like it was crucial that he develop some depth at the two outside positions, and he also wanted to get Robert Peace's experience and toughness on the field.

Peace can only play in the middle, so that left Simon as the only real candidate to play on the strong side.

"Kevin is probably more comfortable in the middle and would like to play there, but I told him this summer that I had to have him at strong side," Chavis said. "He's taken it and run with it, but that's the kind of person he is. Everything he does, he does with the team in mind."

In Chavis' system, the strongside linebacker is asked to do a little bit of everything.

"Basically, you're looking for a strong safety who has the power, strength and flexibility to take on running backs and also rush the passer," Chavis said. "That guy has a lot of responsibility in our defense, and he also has to make sure the other guys are where they're supposed to be."

Several times against Florida, Simon was one-on-one with a wide receiver. Other times, he was blasting into a gap and standing up 225-pound Florida tailback DeShawn Wynn. He's also a dynamic pass-rusher as evidenced by his 3.5 quarterback sacks this season.

"You have to recognize and see stuff," Simon said. "It's a lot like playing rover at Florida State or playing strong safety at Colorado, the things they ask you to do. You have to look at the passing game and the running game, whereas most linebackers can focus on the running game.

"But I just like playing football. It doesn't really matter what position I'm playing."

He takes his craft as seriously as any attorney or surgeon would, maybe more so.

After the Marshall game — a game in which Simon had three sacks — he called Ladouceur for a little help.

In short, Simon didn't like the way he was playing. He asked Ladouceur to write down all the things he thought made Simon a great player at De La Salle (pre-knee and pre-ankle surgeries) and send them to him.

"Kevin never feels that he's on his game. That's one of his strengths," Ladouceur said. "I had no problem coming up with a list of characteristics that make him the player he is. Kevin wanted to focus on those things. He felt he had to recapture them."

In no particular order, some of the attributes Ladouceur listed were: closing speed, instincts, the ability to play off blockers and use his hands, explosion in the hips, confidence and his burst to the ball.

But perhaps the most endearing quality about Simon, according to Ladouceur, is his knack for making everybody else around him better.

"He demands that the other guys playing around him match his type of intensity," Ladouceur said. "If they aren't, he gets mad."

Sound familiar?

For Tennessee fans, it should. Visions of No. 27 come to mind. Al Wilson was the same way. Teammates were literally afraid to give anything other than maximum effort when Wilson was on the field.

"It's very, very impressive what Kevin's getting done," Tennessee Coach Phillip Fulmer said. "Coach Chavis has done a tremendous job with him. Kevin has done a tremendous job. He's very bright. He's a tough guy and a guy you love coaching because he wants to do everything just perfect."

Case in point: Simon never once mentioned his 16 tackles this week when asked about his performance in the Florida game. Instead, he lamented not being in position to cover Florida tight end Ben Troupe, who hurt the Vols several times over the middle.

In fact, Simon made it a point to correct reporters that it was he who had coverage on Troupe, and not weakside linebacker Kevin Burnett.

"The play looked like a run play where he was going to go block the middle linebacker," Simon said. "It's something I'll recognize from now on, and I'm going to be better at it."

Chavis can't help but smile when he hears one of his best players talk like that.

"He wants to make every tackle," Chavis said. "He's p….. off when he doesn't make every tackle. And those are the kind of players I want on my defense."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Along with fellow linebackers Kevin Burnett and Robert Peace, Kevin Simon completes a fearful trio for opposing offenses. Simon's mobility and punch when he arrives at his destination make a perfect combination in the Vols' defensive scheme. Simon's 106-tackle count shares the team lead with Gibril Wilson. Simon contributed eight defensive Big Plays, including a tie for the team lead with 4.5 sacks.

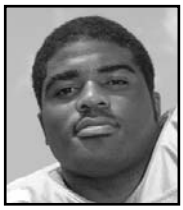

TENNESSEE'S TANDEM

(From an article in the Chattanooga Times Free Press by Darren Epps concerning tailbacks Cedric Houston and Jabari Davis).

ESPN's "Playmakers" wouldn't want this script.

Cedric Houston

Jabari Davis

There are Jabari Davis and Cedric Houston at a local recreation park, eating $1.50 chili cheese hot dogs while they watch kids half their size play football. There are the two University of Tennessee running backs in Davis' apartment, eating pizza, watching game film and laughing at Davis' most recent dance move performed in the middle of campus.

There they are at a party, chatting with girls -- or trying to, at least.

"Jabari gets all the chicks," Houston said, "so I just follow him around."

Where's the feud, starting with a trade-off of comments in the newspaper and escalating to on-field shouting matches? Where's the demand for more playing time? Where's the nose-to-nose stare-off at halftime in front of a crowd of anxious teammates?

Houston laughs. Forget "Playmakers." This script is better suited for a "Friends" episode.

"We work together instead of being individuals," Houston said, "because we'll be 10 times better than what we are."

Houston and Davis are best friends -- "actually more like brothers," Houston says -- an unlikely scenario considering their paths to Tennessee. Houston is from a small town in the eastern part of Arkansas -- Clarendon. Davis lived just a few miles away from Atlanta, the South's hot spot for nightclubs.

"He has to know how to dance being from there," Houston said. "He's good."

They both came out of high school as highly regarded running backs.

Davis read about Houston in the newspaper. Houston saw Davis' picture on the recruiting show "Countdown to Signing Day."

Surprisingly, as their competition grew on the field last year, so did their friendship. And when Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer named Houston the starter this fall, Davis didn't say a word.

"He just kept working hard, and in some cases, even harder than Cedric," Fulmer said.

Davis came to Houston after every possession with a scouing report on the defense and tips for his future carries. Against Marshall, Davis told Houston to keep another hand on the ball because he saw Herd players trying to strip it.

Keeping a good attitude is the key in football and life," said Davis, who was named the SEC Offensive Player of the Week after rushing for two touchdowns against Florida in place of Houston. "Even though things might not always go your way, if you keep your head up your turn is going to come."

Houston returned the favor last weekend against Florida. Out with a slight hip pointer, he watched most of the second half from the sideline and saw Florida's players attempting to stop Davis by taking out his legs. After a quick meeting on the sideline, Davis hopped his way out of two potential tackles to a 9-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter, putting away the Gators.

The first player off the sideline to greet Davis was Houston, who ignored the pain in his left hip and embraced the friend who offered him a shoulder to lean on when three of Houston's relatives died this summer.

"It's amazing to see," UT running backs coach Woody McCorvey said. "When Ced is on the field, Jabari is there in support of him. Then, when Ced comes to the sideline, Ced will ask him something that went on and Jabari will tell him. But when Ced knew he might not go back and play last weekend, he was there talking about how a linebacker was playing. They always try to help each other."

Back on the practice field Monday, their friendship was never more evident. In a position to win the starting job against South Carolina on Saturday with Houston out, Davis still said the words he knew would get Houston on the practice field.

"I asked Ced, 'Are you going to be able to go this afternoon?" McCorvey said.

Responded Houston with a smile: "Coach, I'm going to have to. Jabari told me he wasn't giving up anything."

Including those chili cheese hot dogs Davis always buys.

"They're just too good," Davis said. "You can't beat the price."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Both Cedric Houston and Jabari Davis have given running backs coach Woody McCorvey a promising one-two punch in the backfield. While splitting time toting the pigskin, Houston and Davis have combined for 1,279 yards, while the other 13 players with rushing carries combined for 483 yards. Houston leads the Vol rushing effort with 720 yards on 143 attempts for a 5.0 average and two touchdowns. Davis has run for 559 yards on 123 carries for a 4.5 average. However, Davis has run away with the team lead with eight rushing touchdowns to his credit, tied for fourth in the SEC.

WIDE RECEIVER U: VOLS' RECEIVERS TRY TO BRING BACK HISTORICAL NICKNAME

(From an article in the Tennessee vs. Duke Game Program by Josh Pate concerning Tennessee's wide receivers).

Wide Receiver U. - could the old nickname really describe Tennessee again after the great history of pass catchers who have worn the orange over the years?

Perhaps it was the illusive Johnny Mills, the versatile Richmond Flowers and All-America Austin Denny who started it all in the mid-1960s. Speedsters Willie Gault, Carl Pickens and Peerless Price continued the tradition.

Recent memory shows Donte Stallworth and Kelley Washington topping the list of NFL-caliber superstars who have played receiver on The Hill. But there's a slew of receivers on the Vols' roster this year who are looking to add their names to the list in the future - and for some, that future is now.

"I'm trying to get that back," junior receiver Tony Brown said of the nickname. "Two or three years down the road, people might say we're one of the best groups of receivers that ever came here. The future looks bright, and I hope we do well."

Receivers coach Pat Washington knows his stars are shining. But he's also keeping everything in perspective considering where these shining young stars came from, where they stand now and where they need to be.

"They show a lot of potential," he said. "But they've got to do it every week. They've got to be consistent in everything they do. If they do that, they've got a chance to be a pretty good group."

The group is a mix and match of top-notch athletes who are being groomed to catch passes. There are a few true wideouts, while some are former defensive and skill players, including a former and possible future quarterback.

That would be Tennessee's backup quarterback, James Banks. A sophomore, Banks flirted with moving from throwing the ball to catching it last year, but finalized the transition this season. Since making the move, he's gotten a better understanding of the offense and what it takes to run the team, which could help him back at his old shot-calling position. But for now, No. 11 is impressive with his leaping, catching and playmaking abilities.

"It's based on his athletic ability," Washington said of Banks' quick success. "The more he learns and understands the position and how he just needs to really work to be a great receiver, the better he'll be. Until that time, he's a good prospect. He's working hard and hopefully he'll get better."

Banks is putting up numbers that could force him to think about staying at wideout. Through the Vols' first six games, he led the club in catches and yards. He caught the team's first touchdown of the season. He caught a momentum-shifting Hail-Mary score to end the first half at Florida. He topped that with a 4-yard reception in the corner of the checkerboard for a game-winning touchdown over South Carolina in overtime.

"It's not necessarily surprising," Washington said. "I didn't know who would be leading the way at this particular point, but I knew he had the potential to be one of them."

It's also not surprising that Mark Jones is doing well at receiver. It is, however, breathtaking considering how much he plays. Tennessee's Mr. Everything is on the field just about all the time.

"Halftime," Jones said with a huge smile, noting the only time during a game he's not on the gridiron. "That's just about it."

He's right. Jones came to Tennessee a wide receiver, but changed to defensive back his freshman year. Now, he's back at home in his old position, while he still moonlights on defense during specific coverage packages. Throw in his dependability on special teams and No. 10 is everywhere for the orange. And he wouldn't have it any other way.

"Yeah, that's what I wanted coming into the season," the senior said. "I get tired at times, but you just have to suck it up for the most part."

"Mark picked up things a lot quicker than I had anticipated from spring practice until now," Washington said, noting Jones' high school experience catching the ball has added to his stock as a Volunteer.

Jones utilized his skills on both sides of the ball in one play - a 90-yard touchdown against Georgia. He stripped a Casey Clausen pass from a Georgia defender and outran everyone for the score. It was the longest pass play in Tennessee history, the third-longest from scrimmage.

Brown returned this year with the highest pass catching numbers among the team's 11 receivers, and he's looking to build on that.

His ace is providing a big target over the middle for Clausen with his tight end-like frame of 6-foot-2, 200 pounds. He was second in catches and yards after six games, and he's providing a mature approach.

"I had guys like Cedrick Wilson, Donte Stallworth, David Martin and Bobby Graham take me under their wings when I first got here," said Brown, who redshirted his first year at Tennessee in 2000. "I've tried to do the same thing with these guys and have them look up to me in the right way. I've tried to do things on and off the field to set a good example for them."

Brown is making big gains on the grass - after six games, he was tied with Banks with a team-leading five catches of 20 yards or more. Off the field, he's worked to develop better chemistry with his quarterback. Brown and Clausen are hotel roommates the night before games.

"It allows us to go over some things before games - what might happen, what to look for, when he can look for me," Brown said. "Just the little things like that can help us get an edge over the other team."

Brown's example is working well for youngsters like sophomores Chris Hannon - who had a breakout game against Auburn with 95 yards and a score - C.J. Fayton and Jomo Fagan. And it could be invaluable for freshmen Jayson Swain and Bret Smith, both of whom have made huge strides in just half a season. It doesn't hurt to have junior Derrick Tinsley - a multi-talented athlete who has played several positions - to provide support along the way.

But the focus is to return Tennessee to Wide Receiver U. status. Can it be done with this year's young group of thoroughbreds? It's possible, if you ask Washington. It's obvious, if you ask the receivers.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tennessee's receiving corps increased its gamebreaking potential by leaps and bounds in 2003. Vols caught 26 touchdown receptions in 2003, compared to 14 in 2002. Meanwhile, the receivers provided sound targets for quarterback Casey Clausen's march into the school record book. James Banks led the effort with 39 receptions for 584 yards and six touchdowns and an unexplainable knack for the momentum-swinging play. Chris Hannon also made the most of his 17 catches, as six went for touchdowns, including a school-record three against Mississippi State.

WILSON LETS PHYSICAL GAME SPEAK FOR ITSELF

Each time Gibril Wilson coils his 6-foot-1-inch, 190-pound frame to deliver another punishing blow, he wants the opposing ball carrier to know there is an accompanying message.

"You don't want a running back to run you over when you have a shot that you could really put somebody down and you don't do it," said Wilson, who'll start in No. 9 Tennessee's defensive backfield for the 17th time in 18 games at home today against Mississippi State.

"I want to be able to hit them and have him know that if he comes my way again, he's going to get hit the same way.

"Anybody can be a hard hitter, or be physical. You just have to have that mentality that you're going to physically tackle the person as hard as you can."

Wilson has been making a tackle just about every opportunity he gets, including nine stops last week in the Vols' upset victory at then-No. 6 Miami. Wilson, who got his game evaluation from the coaches and hadn't missed a single tackle in the win against the Hurricanes, also made a game-saving interception with scarcely four minutes remaining.

When fellow safety Rashad Baker went down with a leg injury in Tennessee's five-overtime win at Alabama Oct. 25, Wilson said he knew then it was time to elevate his game -- on the

"Rashad does so much for us back there," said Wilson, who's recorded 58 tackles in UT's last five outings. "When he went down, I kind of knew that I had to be the one to be the leader, to be the vocal leader, get guys lined up and get guys to do the stuff that (secondary coach Larry) Slade asks us to do."

Indeed, Wilson's progression this season has mirrored that of the entire defensive unit. Punished for at least 180 yards rushing in five consecutive games, the Vols' stop force stiffened last week against high-powered Miami, holding the 'Canes without a touchdown at home for the first time in 19 years.

Wilson had just 15 tackles through the team's first four games, but the senior has posted 10 tackles or more in four of the Vols' last five games.

Meanwhile, Tennessee's defense hasn't allowed a touchdown in its last two outings and has permitted fewer than 10 points in four of the team's nine games.

The key, said Wilson, has been a greater focus on fundamentals.

"We're tackling better, we're getting turnovers and we're playing extremely well," said the San Jose, Calif., native. "We're going to continue on getting better."

The elevated level of Wilson's game is drawing comparisons from the coaching staff to some of the best to play in UT's defensive backfield.

"He reminds me a lot playing the run of Fred White, but he's a much better pass defender," said defensive coordinator John Chavis. "He's all over the field. He plays with great effort and great intensity.

"He's very intense and worked hard to learn the system. He knows it well. He got a lot of help and benefited from Rashad Baker. He's done a good job of focusing on what he is doing and he's done it very well."

For Wilson, who picked Tennessee over Southern Cal, Florida and Washington coming out of junior college in spring 2002, the development into a fierce tackler and all-around defender has resulted from myriad components.

"I can't put my hand on one thing," said Wilson. "Just the whole game of playing football, I'm better. I would say I'm a better student of the game. You really have to study to be prepared."

And for ball carriers that keep coming Wilson's way?

"It's pride," said Wilson, whose 73 tackles are third-best on the team. "That's a great big deal, when you can get a guy down and have them not get an extra 2-3 yards.

"Even though some guys are bigger than you are, and they're coming full speed, you've just got to hit them and wrap up."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Gibril Wilson only added to his considerable reputation as a ballhawk as the 2003 season wore on. Wilson tied for the team lead in tackles with 106 hits all over the field on anyone unfortunate enough to have possession of the ball when No. 8 introduced himself. The hard-hitting safety proved skilled at playing the run or pass with a punishing flair the last half of the season. Wilson not only made the routine plays, but led the entire Volunteer defense with 19 Big Plays - the kind which routinely sent Tennessee's opponent searching for its punter. The senior broke up a team-best 11 passes and tied for the team lead with two interceptions. He earned SEC Defensive Player of the Week honors for his effort at Kentucky.

JONES ADDS A SLASH TO VOLS

Mark Jones just wanted a spot on the Tennessee playing field. Now he's got three.

After bouncing from wide receiver to kick/punt returner to defensive back, he's slated for duty at each position in 2003 as he looks to squeeze as much playing time as possible out of his senior season.

"The only time I want to be out of the game is if I'm injured," Jones said. "And hopefully, that doesn't happen."

Moonlighting

Coaches are typically reluctant to ask players to pull double duty, but at least four Vols have a slash in their position listing and the numbers are growing nationwide as well. Others at UT include junior receiver/tailback Derrick Tinsley, sophomore receiver/defensive back Jonathan Wade and sophomore receiver/quarterback James Banks.

"The last four, five, six years we've seen it more," said Vols' offensive coordinator Randy Sanders. "Partly, I think it's because of the scholarship reduction to 85. You don't have the depth you did before. Initially, there was some resistance because it had not been done for so long. That seems to be diminishing."

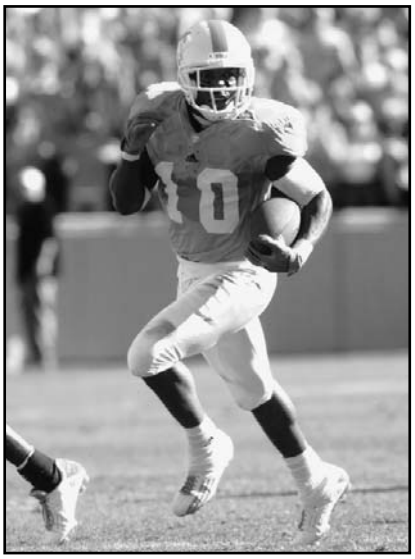

New firepower

After UT mustered only three points in a frustrating Peach Bowl loss to Maryland last December, head coach Phillip Fulmer immediately began a search for someone who could infuse this year's Vols with some offensive juice.

"Mark brings us the potential to be that guy," Fulmer said. "He can separate himself from the defensive backs and make the big plays. He's shown a lot of savvy."

Jones made the move back to receiver last spring, but defensive coordinator John Chavis retained a hold on Jones as a safety for about 20 snaps a game in the Vols' Mustang package, which features six defensive backs. Jones likes continuing in his defensive role, but is excited about playing his favorite position on offense.

"I like catching the ball and making something happen," he said.

Jones was the 1999 USA Today state player of the year as a receiver back at Strath Haven High School in Wallingford, Pa. Sanders sees him as the explosive weapon that the Vols need. But the gun can't be fired if it's left in the holster, so even though Jones carries defensive responsibilities, Sanders endorsed making him an offensive player as well.

"It's an effort to get the best 11 players on the field," Sanders said.

Jones isn't a rookie, having appeared in 36 games. While listed as the starter in only four contests, Jones was a regular in the secondary last season with 55 total hits, six pass breakups, an interception and a fumble recovery. He also averaged 9.2 yards on 26 punt returns and 34.5 yards on four kick returns, including an 82-yarder for a touchdown against Alabama.

Study table

Jumping into a second position without experience is a bit like taking a final exam without reading the textbook. It's often done, but usually not very well.

"College football is not like high school," Sanders said. "You can't just put someone out there and tell them what to run. You have to learn to adjust to multiple formations and shifts. Rarely do you just call a coverage and that's what you see. It takes a while to be comfortable.

"Mark has an advantage because he was a receiver for a couple months when he got here as a freshman. And last year he spent about 10 minutes a day on offense. So he's really just taken that base and built on it. Mark's done a great job of picking up the offense."

Jones isn't worried about the homework assignments. But he knows that taking the exam at full speed for three hours each

Saturday could leave a player gasping for the Rocky Top air.

"Conditioning is the hardest part," Jones said. "I'm exhausted in practice now and we haven't even touched special teams in practice yet."

However, he has no doubts about being ready on the first test day, Aug. 30 against Fresno State. Being asked to be the offensive answer gives Jones an adrenaline lift.

"It makes me feel good," he said. "It tells me the coaches have confidence in me and believe in me. When it comes down to it, I want them to know they can count on me when they do call my number."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mark Jones proved himself a Renaissance man in his Tennessee swan song. Volunteer graybeards needed to search the memory banks a long while before coming up with another Tennessean so skilled as a triple threat. Jones reliably provided an offensive spark when the Vols desperately needed to move the sticks. Likewise, the senior never missed a beat when called on for defensive duty in the backfield. As if playing double duty wasn't enough, Jones ranks second in the SEC and third in the NCAA with 19 punt returns for 298 yards, a robust 15.7 average. He put on a show worthy of the big top against Vanderbilt and was recognized as the SEC Special Teams Player of the Week.

VOLS' PEACE ENJOYS PLAYING WITHOUT PAIN

(From an article in The Tennessean by Chris Low concerning linebacker Robert Peace).

Tennessee senior middle linebacker Robert Peace had forgotten what it was like to shed a blocker and not wince in pain.

He'd forgotten what it was like not to be up most of the night with his left shoulder throbbing.

He'd forgotten what it was like to play football the way he knew how and not have to deal with the after-effects of a concussion.

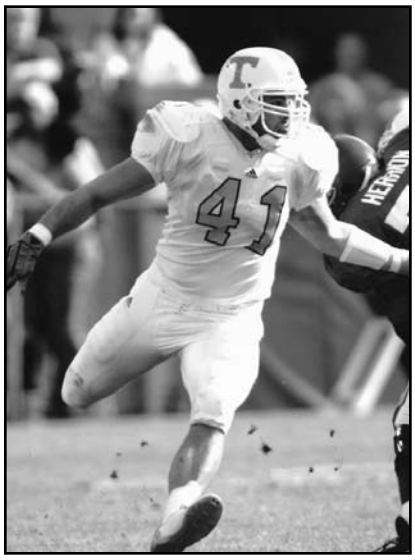

"The Alabama game last year was the worst," Peace said. "I was to the point where I was asking myself, 'Is this worth it?' "

Almost a year later, the answer is a resounding yes.

Peace is healthy for the first time in his Tennessee career, and he's playing some of his best football since arriving in Knoxville as a highly recruited prospect from Ruston, La.

"I've realized that it's fun to play football again," Peace said. "It's so much fun to be out there playing healthy. I'm so much more relaxed and soaking in every minute of my senior year."

Peace, who already has his undergraduate degree from UT in business, is coming off a career game against South Carolina. His 12 solo tackles were a career best, and his 15 total tackles tied a career high that he established last season in the six-overtime win against Arkansas.

Robert Peace

"Nobody would have any idea how badly Robert was hurting the last couple of years," Tennessee defensive coordinator John Chavis said. "He would have finished the season had he not broken his foot last year.

"He's a tough, tough individual and is never going to complain about anything. To have somebody with his maturity is invaluable. That's what we were missing, and he brings that maturity and toughness to our defense every day."

The frustrating thing for Peace was that he was never injured in high school. He enrolled early at Tennessee during January 2000 and went through spring practice. It wasn't until preseason practice in August that he suffered his first concussion.

He has had at least three different bouts with concussions since he has been at Tennessee. This season, he's using a different type of mouthpiece that has more padding and is supposed to be more shock absorbent.

"It's made a big difference," Peace said. "I haven't had any headaches or anything."

Of course, concussions were just a part of Peace's problems.

He labored through intense pain in his left shoulder during both the 2001 and 2002 seasons.

Already severely limited by his shoulder, Peace's season ended prematurely a year ago when he broke his foot in the Miami game.

He underwent surgery on his foot that following week and then had surgery in January to repair torn ligaments in his shoulder.

"About the time I got off crutches and out of the walking cast, it was time to go into surgery again to get my shoulder fixed," Peace said.

This past spring practice, Peace did very little in the way of live contact, but he had a stellar offseason in the weight room.

He added 10 pounds of muscle to beef up to 245 and didn't lose any speed.

"I came up there and spent a week at two-a-days and what I saw was that the old Robert was back," said Peace's father, Joe Raymond Peace, the former Louisiana Tech head coach.

"I can tell all the difference in the world in the way he feels, the way he's playing the game and the way he's attacking the ball. I think this is what Coach (Phillip) Fulmer and Coach Chavis thought they were getting when they recruited him."

Unlike fellow linebackers Kevin Simon and Kevin Burnett, Peace doesn't have great speed.

He's not slow, but he's never going to be confused for a track athlete, either.

What Peace has is the kind of instincts that can't be taught. He knows Chavis' defense inside and out, has a feel for finding the ball and finishes with the best of them when he gets there.

"Robert is one of those unsung heroes," Burnett said. "He's definitely one of those guys who goes in there and cleans the kitchen before he eats every day. You always know he's going to do his job and then some."

This Saturday, Peace will get plenty of opportunities to show his stuff. Auburn loves to line up with two backs and a tight end (sometimes two tight ends) and pound away.

"I've been ready for this stretch all year because I knew our first four games would be against teams who were constantly in shotgun and spreading you out," said Peace, who's second on the team in tackles behind Simon.

"I've really been looking forward to getting to this Auburn game. It's kind of a mike (middle) linebacker's game. They're going to be in the I-formation, not going to be tricky, and they're going to try to run the ball right at you."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Peace may have enjoyed a senior season with limited pain. However, it's a safe bet the hard-nosed linebacker inflicted more than his fair share of pain in ringing up 100 tackles, third of the team, and likely causing some ringing in the ears of opposing running backs. Peace also exhibited a flair for the dramatic with 15.5 defensive Big Plays, the second-best total on the squad. Peace knifed through the line into enemy territory to register 12.5 tackles for loss, tied for the best total on the team. He filled the middle with determination and made running north-south a less than pleasant option for visiting backs.
