TOURNAMENT HISTORY

Situated on the banks of the Tennessee River in West Knoxville, Cherokee Country Club is home to the 2017 Mercedes-Benz Women's Collegiate Championship.

Founded in 1907, Cherokee is Knoxville's oldest and most prestigious golf course and country club. The course was originally designed by Donald Ross, in his time considered to be one of America's outstanding golf course architects. The spacious clubhouse stands above the scenic Tennessee River, with a breathtaking view of the Great Smoky Mountains.

Cherokee states that its goal is to offer golf at its finest and truly be an "exceptional golf experience" for all levels of players.

From 2004-07 and 2013-2017, Cherokee Country Club has hosted the Mercedes-Benz Women's Collegiate Championship. Cherokee has also hosted the U.S. Open Qualifier, the UT Men's Invitational Golf Tournament and numerous other state amateur events.

Yardage: 5,897 or 5,840
Par: 71

From 2010-2012, Holston Hills was home to the Mercedes-Benz Championship. Located just east of Knoxville, the course was built in 1927 and began hosting important regional tournaments, including a PGA Tour Event.

The challenging layout features more than one hundred bunkers scattered across the 150-acre property. There are little to no homes or other visual distractions taking away from the links-like feel. The course is situated on an old farm tucked into a bend in the Holston River. The course is arrayed in a broad, fan-shaped formation, with both nines returning to the clubhouse that sits on an up-slope along the north side of the property.

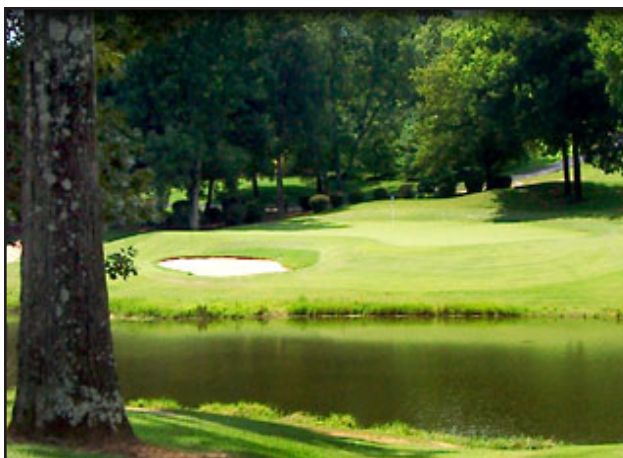

Yardage: 6,398
Par: 72

From 2003 and 2008-2009, Fox Den Country Club held the Mercedes-Benz Women's Collegiate Championship. Featuring an 18-hole championship golf course, the club provided a challenge to premier golfers and teams from across the nation.

Situated in nearby Farragut, Tenn., Fox Den opened in the summer of 1968, and is the result of one golfer's (Chester A. Massey) enthusiasm for the game and his desire to build one of America's finest golf courses. As the host of the Knoxville Open, a Nationwide Tour event, it boasts a course that requires finesse as well as long-ball power.

Yardage: 6,575
Par: 72

From 1997-2002, the Mercedes-Benz Women's Collegiate Championships were held at the Gettysvue Polo, Golf and Country Club, located in West Knoxville, Tenn.

Gettysvue is an exclusive course located on 300 rolling acres in the heart of Knoxville. The club features beautiful views of the Great Smoky and Cumberland Mountains. It is a challenging course that requires precise shot placement and careful course management. It demands players make shots onto multi-tiered greens and from various lies.

VOLUNTEER TRADITIONS

THE POWER T

The Power T is the official logo of the University of Tennessee athletics department.

The first appearance of the “T” came in 1964, when Doug Dickey replaced the familiar numbers on the side of the Volunteers’ football helmets with a block T for the first time.

Three years later, the logo that would go on to become the worldwide symbol for the Tennessee Volunteers would appear for the first time on the helmets. The Power T would get a slight makeover in 1977, with a bolder script under first-year head coach and legendary Tennessee player John Majors.

The Power T was updated in 2015, when it also became the primary mark for the University of Tennessee Knoxville campus.

THE NICKNAME

As the land grand university for the state of Tennessee, UT adopted the state’s moniker of “The Volunteer State” for its athletic teams.

The history of the “The Volunteer State” began with the War of 1812 when Gen. Andrew Jackson led more than 1,500 soldiers from his home state to fight for the United States at the Battle of New Orleans.

The name truly took hold during the Mexican-American war when President James K. Polk, another native son, made an appeal for 2,600 nationwide volunteers at the beginning of the conflict that resulted in more than 30,000 soldiers from his home state alone.

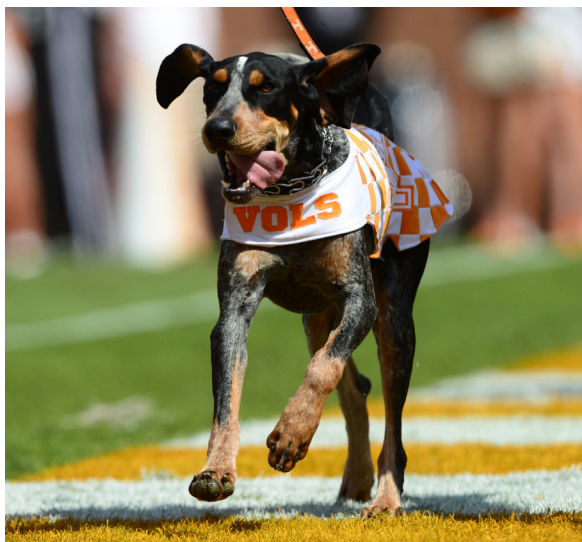

As long as teams have represented UT on the field, they have carried on the name and tradition of the original Tennessee Volunteers.

Upon formation of the Women’s Intercollegiate Athletics Department in 1976, the female athletes were known as the Lady Volunteers. This tradition lives on to present day with the eight-time national champion women’s basketball team still proudly carrying the Lady Volunteers name and logo.

Tennessee honored the history of the Lady Volunteers with a patch on the uniforms of all women’s teams during the 2016-17 school year.

SMOKEY

The Pep Club held a contest in 1953 to select a coonhound, a native breed of the state, as the school's live mascot. Announcements of the contest in local newspapers read, "This can't be an ordinary hound. He must be a 'Houn' Dog' in the best sense of the word."

The late Rev. Bill Brooks entered his prize-winning blue tick coon hound, "Brooks' Blue Smokey," in the contest. At halftime of the Mississippi State game that season, the dogs were lined up on the old cheerleaders' ramp at Shields-Watkins Field. Each dog was introduced over the loudspeaker and the student body cheered for their favorite, with "Blue Smokey" being the last hound introduced. When his name was called, he barked. The students cheered and Smokey threw his head back and barked again. This kept going until the stadium was in an uproar and UT had found its mascot.

Rev. Brooks supplied UT with the line of canines until his death in 1986 when his wife, Mildred, took over the caretaking role. She did so until 1994, when her brother and sister-in-law, Earl and Martha Hudson of Knoxville, took over responsibility for Smokey VII and eventually Smokey VIII, Smokey IX and now Smokey X carrying on the banner of the Smokey lineage. Earl Hudson passed away in June of 2017. The Hudson's son and daughter-in-law, Charles and Cindy Hudson, now continue the family tradition of providing the University of Tennessee with its living mascot for future generations of Big Orange fans to enjoy.

One of the most beloved figures in the state, Smokey is famous for leading the Vols out of the giant 'T' prior to each home game.

Smokey II was dognapped by Kentucky students in 1955 and later survived a confrontation with the Baylor Bear at the 1957 Sugar Bowl. Smokey VI, who suffered heat exhaustion in the 140-degree temperatures at the 1991 UCLA game, was listed on the Vols injury report until he returned later in the season. Smokey III compiled a 105-39-5 record and two SEC championships. Smokey VI, who passed away in 1991, was on the sidelines for three SEC championships. Smokey VIII is the winningest Smokey, having compiled a record of 91-22 (.805), with two SEC titles and the 1998 national championship.

After the retirement of Smokey IX following the 2012 season, the newest Smokey returned the lineage of the mascot to the state of Tennessee. Born in Shelbyville, Smokey X made his debut in the fall of 2013.

THE ORANGE AND WHITE

Tennessee's orange and white colors were selected by Charles Moore, a member of the university's first football team in 1891. They were later approved by a student body vote.

The colors were those of the common American daisy, a flower that grew prominently on The Hill, the area of campus that surrounds iconic Ayres Hall and overlooks Neyland Stadium.

Tennessee football players did not wear orange jerseys until the season-opening game in 1922. Coach M.B. Banks' Vols christened the orange jerseys on Sept. 23, 1922 with a 50-0 victory over Emory and Henry.
