*—National championships from 1975-96 are from the National Collegiate Rowing Championship.

In 1997, the NCAA began national championships for openweight women's rowing but not lightweight rowing.

—The openweight team participated in the IRA Regatta from 1997-98, winning the all points trophy both years.

^—Wisconsin raced its second varsity eight; DNP—Did not participate; CAN—Event cancelled due to bad weather

#—"Rogue" IRA raced after final cancelled due to weather

MIDWEST ROWING CHAMPIONSHIPS

Former Wisconsin head rowing coach Randy Jablonic inherited the men's crew program following the 1968 season and within five years began what is now the 35-year history of the Midwest Rowing Championships. Started in the spring of 1973 on Lake Wingra in Madison, the Midwest Rowing

Championships give the Badgers an opportunity to showcase their graceful sport to the campus and Madison community. The Badger women boast 32 varsity eight titles—all but two of the 34 races in the regatta's history. Weather cancelled the event in 2005.

Big Ten Medal of Honor

In 1914, the Conference endowed a Medal of Honor, to be awarded annually at each institution, to a student in the graduating class that has demonstrated proficiency in scholarship and athletics. The recipients in 1964 were 50th Anniversary winners of the Medal of Honor. Beginning in 1982, a senior woman athlete from each institution has also been awarded the Conference Medal of Honor.

Sarah Gornick Scholarship

The Sarah Gornick Scholarship is a memorial award in honor of a lightweight crew member who died of meningitis during the fall of 1998. Her parents created an endowed scholarship that each spring recognizes a lightweight crew member who best represents Sarah's great enthusiasm for crew, school and life. The award comes with a $2,500 scholarship, and the recipient's name is engraved on a permanent plaque.

WISCONSIN ROWING HISTORY

The tradition of women's rowing on the Wisconsin campus actually began in 1895, but intercollegiate status was not granted until 1974. Since its inception, rowing is one of Wisconsin's oldest and most successful women's sports, having earned 14 national championships and numerous runner-up titles in the past 33 years of varsity competition. The Badger lightweight program started a new rowing tradition, becoming a varsity sport in 1995.

Wisconsin has traditionally ranked among the top-10 crews in the nation and consistently places among the top teams in national regattas like the Head of the Charles, the San Diego Crew Classic and NCAA championships. The UW qualified for its first NCAA Championship in 1999 and has become an annual qualifier for the event.

With such national success, Wisconsin rowers have regularly represented the university in national, international and Olympic rowing events. Since women's rowing became an official event in 1976, Wisconsin boasts 16 participants named to U.S. Olympic teams.

The program is one of the original 12 women's sports that became part of the Wisconsin athletic department on July 1, 1974, but was a club sport the previous two years, thanks in large part to Kathy Wutke, Sue Ela and Cindy Holden, among others.

Wisconsin's first captain at the varsity level was Carie Graves, a gold-medal winner in the 1984 Olympics, a member of the 1980 boycotted Games and a bronze medalist in the 1976 Olympics. She is one of only two Wisconsin woman athletes to have been named to three consecutive Olympic teams.

Peggy McCarthy and Jackie Zoch joined Graves in the 1976 bronze medal boat. McCarthy and coxswain Chris Cruz joined Graves on the 1980 U.S. team. Former UW rower Kris Thorsness, a gold-medal winner in the eights, and Chari Towne were named to the 1984 Olympic team.

In 1988, Cindy Eckert, Kim Santiago, and Sarah Gengler were members of the women's four with coxswain. Mara Keggi rowed as part of a pair and Kris Thorsness was an alternate team member. In 1992, Eckert and Carol Feeney were members of the silver medal-winning straight four, while Gengler and coxswain Yasmin Farooq participated in the eight. Santiago served as an alternate in the Barcelona Olympiad. In 1996, Farooq again coxed the eight with Melissa Iverson being an alternate for the eight.

Wisconsin has also had a number of rowers named to the U.S. women's national team including seven-time member Farooq. Graves was a six-time member while Eckert, Thorsness, Kristin Hedstrom and Mandi Kowal were all five-time members. Hedstrom, 2008 graduate, is the school's most recent Olympian.

In 1995, Wisconsin began competing in lightweight rowing. The addition of the lightweight program has since brought success, with five titles at the Head of the Charles, eight Eastern Sprints crowns and five national championships in the lightweight eight.

Wisconsin at Henley

The Badger women have competed twice in the Royal Henley Regatta on the Thames River in London, most recently in 1999. The UW women's eight lost a close race in the second round to a composite boat comprised of former British National Team rowers.

In their first Henley competition, the Badger women captured the collegiate eight title in 1995. Wisconsin defeated Georgetown in the 1,500-meter grand final with a time of 4:58 winning the Ladies Plate collegiate race. The win earned Wisconsin the Price Waterhouse trophy.
