UW FIELD HOUSE

It's a landmark building in a number of ways. From being listed on the National Register of Historic Places to the record-setting attendances and the momentous wins, the Wisconsin Field House is a memorable place steeped in a rich history.

Since it was built, the Field House has been the site of numerous sporting events including basketball, boxing, track and field, and wrestling. It also hosted UW commencement exercises, carnivals and speakers, including John F. Kennedy.

The Badgers first competed in the Field House in 1977 when they hosted the Big Ten Tournament. UW didn't return to the building until 1980, hosting two tournaments. Wisconsin's play in the Field House was sporadic until 1986 when it became the permanent home of the volleyball team. With the construction of the Kohl Center in 1998, volleyball took over sole possession of the Field House in the fall. The building is also used as the competition site for the wrestling team.

As the sole occupant of the UW Field House, the Wisconsin has made the building one of the finest volleyball facilities in the country. A new wood floor was installed in 2013, making the volleyball court the center of attention.

Badger facilities include a team room for relaxing, studying and watching video, separate from the locker room. The room features a large-screen projection television, leather sofas, pub table and chairs, and a kitchenette.

The renovation of Camp Randall Stadium in 2005 included improvements to the north end of the Field House including updated restrooms as well as a new media room and opponent locker rooms on the lower level.

In 2018, six sections of the upper deck were opened for the first time since the 2007 season, increasing the capacity to 7,052.

Other items in the building include the All-America wall on the west side of the building, featuring photos of the Badger greats, and the Big Ten championship and NCAA tournament banners hanging over the playing court.
