KEY STORYLINES

THE SERIES

- The Hokies hold a 14-5-1 advantage over the Cardinals, including a four-game win streak that dates back to a Nov. 6, 2019 ACC tournament clash.
- Tech claimed the series' first eight matchups beginning in 1980 and the last four since 2019 - leaving a stretch from 1991 to 2019 in which the Cardinals held a 5-2-1 advantage.
- Three of Virginia Tech's last four triumphs over Louisville have come on the road.
- When the Hokies defeated Louisville in the first round of last season's ACC Championships, it marked the first time that a No. 12 seed had defeated a No. 5 seed in the tournament's history. Ethan Ballek and Daniel Starr were the goalscorers that day with the help of two Misei Yoshizawa assists.

A WIN WOULD...

- Be Virginia Tech's first win of the season
- Be Virginia Tech's first conference win since Oct. 8, 2021 against Louisville.
- Be Virginia Tech's first conference road win since April 9, 2021 against North Carolina.
- Be Virginia Tech's first top-6 win since defeating No. 1 Marshall on August 29, 2021.
- A tie would... be Virginia Tech's fourth-straight draw, which has never happened in program history.

LAST TIME OUT

- Virginia Tech is coming off a 1-1 draw against North Carolina, which capped off a three-game homestand that saw the Hokies tie each game.
- Unlike the two results against Loyola (Md.) and Davidson, Tech scored first in their opening ACC fixture. Just 10 minutes away from their first win of the season, a 42-minute weather delay killed of Tech's momentum and the Hokies conceded an 82nd-minute equalizer from outside the box by Quenzi Huerman.

- With the visiting Tar Heels holding a marginal lead in shots (9-8) and attempts on goal (3-2), it was an evenly contested match that saw Tech hold a team scoreless for the longest period of time this season (82 minutes).

UNDERCLASSMEN ON THE SCORESHEET

- All five of Tech's goals this season have been scored by freshmen Oliver Roche, Marcos Escocor or sophomore Ethan Ballek.
- Ballek - who scored the opening goal in Tech's 2-1 win over Louisville last season - scored Tech's first two goals of the season in Harrisonburg, Va.
- Roche opened his account for an equalizer against Loyola (Md.), while Escocor followed his lead against Davidson.

SOME TOUGH BREAKS

- Virginia Tech has conceded eight goals in its last four games, although that number is skewed by a five-goal performance by Duquesne.
- Of the eight goals allowed, five of the efforts have come from outside the box - including all three in Tech's trio of draws since Sept. 3.
- When you include the four goals conceded against UCLA, another them occurs. Tech has allowed seven goals between the 44th and 55th minute this season and 10 when the range is widened from the 35th to the 62nd minute.

ALWAYS LOOKING TO IMPROVE

- Last season, Tech struggled to find the back of the net – going scoreless in their first three games and scoring in only six games all season.
- The Hokies suffered nine one-goal losses last season, including eight 1-0 defeats.
- As Brizendine put it following Virginia Tech's 1-1 result against North Carolina, "If we can get shutouts, we'll win games. We're scoring in every game. We fixed our scoring issue. We have to get shutouts."

VERSATILITY OVER THE PITCH

- The Hokies benefit from an assortment of players that fit in at several positions across the field – none more so than juniors Declan Quill and Carter Hensley.
- Hensley, the 2021 North Carolina Gatorade Player of the Year, came into Tech as a highly-touted midfielder, but has featured on the wing and at wingback for the Hokies. After filling the LWB slot for Tech's first four games, he naturally slotted in as central midfielder against the Tar Heels last Friday.
- Quill, another talented midfielder in high school, debuted for Tech as a midfielder his freshman year against Duke before picking up a season-ending knock. Since then, he's filled in as a striker, winger and midfielder for Tech.

BRAZIL BROS

- There's a unique connection between center-backs Theo Drennan and Welnilton Jr., as both were born in Brazil and speak Portuguese – often to communicate in the back line.
- While Welnilton Jr. experienced a more traditional route of being born in Para, Brazil before moving in his teens to attend Montverde Academy, Drennan's is a little different.
- The son of a full-Brazilian mother and half-Brazilian father, the Richmond United product moved to the U.S. at the age of eight after being raised in Curitiba, Brazil. He developed a love for soccer by playing futsal on the beach at his grandparents' place in Brazil.

FROZE'S FIRST START

- Timi Adams made his debut in the starting eleven for Virginia Tech on Sunday evening in his third season with the team. The Atlanta, Ga. native registered three saves in 90 minutes – looking composed on the ball as Tech attempted to play out the back.
- Adams came in the same class as two-year start Ben Martino, who signed a professional contract with Nashville SC following the 2022 season.
- The keeper made his collegiate debut on August 27 against Duquesne – coming on as a sub.

MONTVERDE CONNECTION

- Virginia Tech boasts three players from Montverde Academy: Mayola Kinyua, Welnilton Jr. and Misei Yoshizawa.
- Welnilton Jr. and Kinyua serve as captains of the Hokies squad, along with being among the team's leaders in appearances. Kinyua has 70 career appearances in his collegiate career, including 52 for the Hokies.
- Yoshizawa burst onto the scene in 2022 - appearing in all 18 games for Tech and registering two goals and four assists. His play earned him ACC All-Freshman Team honors.

IMPACT TRANSFERS

- The Hokies look to boost their squad with a set of proven transfers, including: Marco Vesterholm, Ethan Hackenberg, Andy Sullins and Isaiah Byrd.
- Vesterholm and Hackenberg joined Tech in the spring and made their mark. A vocal leader that could fool many as a lifelong Hokie, Vesterholm is a commanding presence in the midfield. Meanwhile Hackenberg offers a creative flair to the Tech attack.
- Sullins and Byrd offer a unique perspective - having joined the Hokies from in-state rivals Virginia.

QUOTABLES

- Head coach Mike Brizendine and Oliver Roche spoke to Tech Sideline's David Cunningham after the Loyola (Md.) game:
- "These guys need to learn how to win," Brizendine said. "They don't know what it's like, they haven't experienced it. They weren't here during our Elite Eight and Sweet Sixteen runs. ... I think it's a good building block as we move on to Davidson."
- "[It gives me] a lot of confidence," Roche said. "I know it's a draw but I feel like we're building a base and don't need to look too much at the numbers right now. I know they don't look so good, but I feel like we're making progress every day."

▶ THE BRIZ FILE

Taking over the reins of a program that faced strict recruiting restrictions, head coach Mike Brizendine has rebuilt the men's soccer team and has seen the most success in program history. Brizendine has made it his mission to lead the Virginia Tech program to new heights and make the Hokies into one of the top programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Since 2016, Virginia Tech has qualified for six NCAA Tournaments and reached four 'Sweet Sixteens.' As one of five programs to reach each tournament from 2016-2021, the Hokies were one of three to advance in each NCAA postseason, as well.

Along with postseason success, the Hokies have built a reputation of developing pro talent, including 2021 MLS SuperDraft No. 1 overall pick Dani Pereira. At the conclusion of the 2022 season, sophomore Ben Martino and Danny Flores added their names to the pro Hokies club by signing MLS contracts.

Under Brizendine's watch, the Hokies have knocked off three No. 1-ranked teams: Marshall (2021), Notre Dame (2017) and UNC (2011).
