William & Mary
The Wren Building

William & Mary is unlike any other university in America.

We're the second oldest institution of higher education in the nation, but also a cutting-edge research university. We're one of only eight in the nation offering a world-class education at an exceptional value.

Our students are not only some of the smartest in the world, but passionate about serving others and serious about having fun. Our professors are teachers, scholars and research mentors, the cornerstone of a thriving intellectual community that produces experienced, engaged, successful graduates.

Through their strengths, passions and knowledge, our faculty, students and staff are creating a new model of sustainability for higher education.

We love our hometown of Williamsburg and the amazing Commonwealth of Virginia and we're proud to be one of the reasons for their economic success.

We're famous for our rigorous liberal arts curriculum and our dedicated, engaged professors. Our students are nothing short of exceptional; they're scholars, athletes, activists, musicians, world travelers and generous volunteers. Our campus, adjoining Colonial Williamsburg, is a masterwork of preservation and innovation.

THE PRESIDENT

Katherine A. Rowe
President

On February 20, 2018, William & Mary's Board of Visitors unanimously elected Katherine A. Rowe as the 28th president of the university. Nationally recognized as an innovator in higher education, Rowe champions the liberal arts, entrepreneurship and strengthening education-workforce pathways. She began on July 1, 2018 and was inaugurated on February 8, 2019. On November 19, 2021, the Board unanimously approved an early extension of President Rowe's contract, through June 2028.

Under Rowe's leadership, William & Mary has advanced access and affordability, holding tuition flat for five years, from 2019-2023. Her cross-university initiatives include a central Entrepreneurship Hub, a Studio for Teaching & Learning Innovation, W&M's first Sustainability Plan and Climate Action Roadmap, realization of William & Mary's long-planned Memorial to the Enslaved, a Veteran to Executive Transition program, an Institute for Integrative Conservation and a university-wide approach to inclusive excellence. William & Mary successfully closed its For the Bold campaign in June 2020, raising just over $1 billion.

Rowe oversaw the creation of William & Mary's ambitious strategic plan, Vision 2026, via an inclusive, multi-year planning process. During the first phase of planning, the university community came together to craft William & Mary's first-ever statement of shared values. Consistent with the strategic goals outlined in Vision 2026, Rowe announced in 2022 a commitment to cover full tuition and fees for all in-state Pell Grant recipients beginning in fall 2023.

As president, Rowe led William & Mary's effective COVID-19 response, joining forces with the City of Williamsburg and other key local partners. In August of 2020 William & Mary reconvened in-person learning, uninterrupted – flexibly adapting every university practice and system to ensure that students could maintain momentum to their degrees. Key institutional innovations were launched during the pandemic: enhanced career development for students, a unified approach to Communications and Marketing and a whole-university Council for Community Partnerships.

Rowe serves on the Northern Virginia Technology Council, the Virginia Business and Higher Education Council Board, RVA757 Connects, the Virginia American Revolution 250 Commission and the GoVA Region 5 Council. Rowe was named to the Virginia Business Virginia 500 Power List in 2020, 2021 and 2022. In 2020, D*iverse: Issues in Higher Education* named Rowe one of the top 35 women in higher education.

Previously, Rowe served as provost and dean of faculty at Smith College in Massachusetts. Earlier in her career, Rowe co-founded and served as the CEO of Luminary Digital Media, which developed educational apps for Shakespeare's plays.

Rowe holds a bachelor's degree from Carleton College and a master's and a Ph.D. from Harvard University. She has completed graduate work in Cinema and Media Studies at New York University's Tisch School of the Arts. Her areas of research and scholarship include Shakespeare, Milton, Renaissance drama and media history.

An award-winning teacher, Rowe spent 16 years at Bryn Mawr College as an English professor, department chair and director of the Katharine Hepburn Center for leadership and public engagement. She began her teaching career as an assistant professor of English at Yale. Prior to arriving at William & Mary she held the Sophia Smith chair at Smith College.

Rowe has published three books: New Wave Shakespeare on Screen with Thomas Cartelli (Polity Press, 2007), Reading the Early Modern Passions: Essays in the Cultural History of Emotion as co-editor (Penn Press, 2004) and Dead Hands: Fictions of Agency, Renaissance to Modern (Stanford, 2000). She has editing credits in the Cambridge Guide to the Worlds of Shakespeare. With more than 350 scholarly contributors from five continents, this world-standard, multi-volume, reference work was honored in 2016 by the American Association of Publishers with two PROSE awards, considered the most prestigious in the publishing industry.

Dr. Rowe is a past president of the Shakespeare Association of America. She served on Harvard's Board of Overseers' Visiting Committee of the Library and the Executive Committee of the American Council of Learned Societies. She has held various scholarly memberships as well as service positions in the Modern Language Association and the American Council of Learned Societies.

Rowe spent more than a decade coaching Ultimate Frisbee and has led multiple teams to state championships in Pennsylvania. She was a World Ultimate Club Finalist and a Women's Nationals Finalist. She co-founded the nonprofit Boston Ultimate Disc Alliance and the Carleton College women's Ultimate team.

Rowe shares her love of Ultimate with her spouse, Bruce Jacobson, William & Mary's First Gentleman. They have two adult children, Daniel and Beah.

Robert M. Gates '65, L.H.D. '98
Chancellor

Robert Gates served as the 22nd Secretary of Defense (2006-2011). He is the only Secretary of Defense in U.S. history to be asked to remain in office by a newly elected President. Dr. Gates served eight U.S. presidents in total across both parties. He has led a distinguished career of service and institutional reform both in and out of government. On his last day as Secretary, President Barack Obama awarded Gates the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor.

Gates began his career at the Central Intelligence Agency in 1966 and spent nearly 27 years as an intelligence professional, including 9 years on the National Security Council. He is the only career officer in CIA's history to rise from entry-level employee to director. He served as Director of Central Intelligence from 1991 until 1993 and, through the collapse of the Soviet Union, restructured the intelligence community for a post-Cold War world.

Gates next served as President of Texas A&M University, one of the nation's largest universities, from 2002 to 2006. As President, he launched a successful campaign to make Texas A&M one of the nation's top twenty research universities.

As Secretary of Defense, Gates reversed losing wars in Iraq and Afghanistan while preparing the U.S. military for unconventional warfare and for dramatic reductions in federal spending. Among his many initiatives, Gates championed the production and deployment of Mine-Resistant Ambush Protected (MRAP) vehicles, saving the lives and limbs of thousands of U.S. servicemembers. Gates is fondly remembered as the "Soldiers' Secretary."

Currently, Gates is a principal in the strategic consulting firm Rice, Hadley, Gates & Manuel, LLC, with former Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, former National Security Advisor Stephen Hadley, and Aspen Strategy Group Executive Director Anja Manuel.

Gates serves as Chancellor of William & Mary. He is the first William & Mary alumnus in the modern era to serve as Chancellor. He is National Chairman of the Eisenhower Fellowships, having succeeded General Colin Powell in 2018. Additionally, he is Board Chairman of the Holdsworth Center, a Texas nonprofit institution dedicated to improving K-12 public education by supporting and developing education leaders. Gates is a member of the Board of Directors of the George and Barbara Bush Foundation and has served as National President of the Boy Scouts of America.

A native of Kansas, Gates received his bachelor's degree from William & Mary, his master's degree in history from Indiana University and his doctorate in Russian and Soviet history from Georgetown University. In 1967, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force and served as an intelligence officer at Whiteman Air Force Base in Missouri. Gates has been awarded honorary degrees from more than a dozen universities and colleges, including Notre Dame, Yale, Morehouse College, and all three of his alma maters.

Gates has authored four books – Exercise of Power: American Failures, Successes, and a New Path Forward in the Post-Cold War World, published in 2020; A Passion For Leadership: Lessons on Change and Reform from Fifty Years of Public Service, published in 2016; Duty: Memoirs of a Secretary at War, published in 2014; and From the Shadows: The Ultimate Insider's Story of Five Presidents and How They Won the Cold War, published in 1996.

William & Mary Athletics

Friday-Saturday 11am-9:30pm

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Brian Mann is entering his fourth year as William & Mary's Director of Athletics. He was named the university's AD on June 23, 2021, and began his tenure at W&M on Aug. 9, 2021.

He is responsible for the daily operations of the Athletics Department and its more than 500 student-athletes and 120 coaches and staff. He oversees the university's 23 Division I varsity sports, which compete in the Coastal Athletic Association (CAA).

During the 2023-24 year, Tribe Athletics scored a number of triumphs:

Won two conference championships
Hired three new head coaches
Successfully completed the All In fundraising campaign
Launched the new Excel program to focus on the personal and leadership development of student-athletes
Made great progress on the renovation and improvement of Kaplan Arena
Dedicated Jill Ellis Field and the 1987 Women's Soccer Team Training Center
Ranked as the No. 1 public university for perfect multiyear APR scores

Women's tennis scored a three-peat as CAA Champions. Their school-record tying 14-match win streak came to an end at the hands of the Wisconsin Badgers in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Head Coach Jessica Giuggioli was named CAA Coach of the Year for the third straight year.

Field hockey won the CAA tournament and then defeated Sacred Heart in the first round of the NCAA tournament before falling to eventual champion North Carolina.

Three new coaches joined Tribe Athletics in the past year. Brian Earl, formerly the head coach at Cornell, is the new head Men's Basketball coach. Rob McCoy is the new skipper for W&M Baseball, coming to the Tribe from Niagara. Joining the Tribe as the head coach for Women's Lacrosse is Kelyn Freedman, who was previously at Towson.

The All In campaign exceeded its $55 million goal with a grand total of $57.2 million raised, including $13.2 million for scholarships, thanks to an outpouring of support from 11,206 donors. Of those donors, 3,280 gave to athletics for the first time and 2,310 donors made their first gift ever to W&M. Nearly $3.4 million was secured for the Athletics Impact Fund, which gave immediate-use funds to teams, programs and areas facing pressing needs.

The New Excel program, designed to enhance student-athletes' personal development during their college years, finished its inaugural year. W&M's student-athletes are involved with Excel from the moment they step on campus to the day they receive their diplomas. This comprehensive program provides numerous opportunities to develop their leadership skills and to ensure they are ready to start their professional careers upon graduation.

Renovations in Kaplan Arena, funded by the All In campaign, took a major step forward and resulted in an enhanced gameday experience. An impressive new video board, lighting and sound system, plus a new weight room and refurbished locker rooms, debuted to the delight of both fans and student-athletes. Plans for the Mackesy Sports Performance Center (MSPC) – the crown jewel of the W&M Athletics Complex, are also taking shape.

Jill Ellis Field, a completely new turf field, was installed on campus, along with the new 1987 Women's Soccer Team Training Center. With a new scoreboard and lights, night practices and games are possible for varsity and rec sports. The new field honors Ellis. A legendary Tribe soccer player who had a stellar career as a head coach at the Division 1 level and as the head coach for the U.S. National Women's Team, which won back-to-back FIFA World Cups in 2015 and 2019.

The Tribe ranked No. 1 nationally among all public universities in perfect multiyear Academic Progress Rate (APR) scores. The APR is calculated on a team basis, with scholarship student-athletes earning points for remaining eligible and staying in school or graduating. Tribe programs garnered 12 Public Recognition Awards, which go to teams earning multiyear APRS in the top 10% of all squads in their sport. The Tribe's 12 were the most in the CAA, state of Virginia and among all Division I public universities in the country.

Tribe student-athletes achieved a GPA of 3.4 during the Spring 2024 semester and for the second consecutive year all 21 programs had a semester GPA above 3.0.

Other athletics highlights include:

7 student-athletes were named All-Americans
2 student-athletes were named CAA Player of the Year
1 student-athlete was named CAA Rookie of the Year

A seasoned athletics administrator, Mann has more than 20 years of experience in intercollegiate athletics, the private sector and professional sports. Prior to W&M, he was the senior associate athletics director at the University of California, Berkeley.

Prior to his stint at UC Berkeley, Mann was chief development officer and senior associate athletics director at Rice, where he was responsible for all fundraising for the Owls' athletics programs. He also was the single contact between athletics and the office of admission for all 16 sports.

He and his wife Hilary have two young sons, Russell and Henry. They reside in Williamsburg.

THE CAA

New members, a new geographic footprint, a new vision, long-standing commitments to excellence – and a new name.

On July 20, 2023, the Colonial Athletic Association changed its name to the Coastal Athletic Association. The new name reflects the CAA's recent expansion as well as the commitment from each institution to be United In Excellence on the field and in the classroom.

The CAA has established itself as one of the nation's top collegiate conferences both athletically and academically for nearly four decades. The conference encompasses many of the nation's largest metropolitan areas with a geographic footprint that stretches from Boston to Charleston, S.C. The CAA has produced 18 national team champions in five different sports, 33 individual national champions, 15 national players of the year, 15 national coaches of the year and 13 Honda Award winners. Just as impressive, however, are the honors accumulated away from competition, which include five Rhodes Scholars and 25 NCAA post-graduate scholars. In 2022-23, more than 3,500 of the league's student-athletes received the Commissioner's Academic Award after posting at least a 3.0 grade point average while lettering in a varsity sport.

The landscape of the conference stretches along the majority of the East Coast and includes several of the nation's top media markets – New York (1), Philadelphia (4), Washington, D.C. (7), Boston (9) and Baltimore (26). The number of television homes in the CAA market exceeds 20 million.

The CAA conducts championships in 24 sports. Male athletes compete for championships in baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, lacrosse, soccer, swimming & diving, tennis and indoor and outdoor track & field. Female athletes battle for conference titles in basketball, cross country, field hockey, golf, lacrosse, rowing, soccer, softball, swimming & diving, tennis, indoor and outdoor track & field and volleyball.

Over the past decade, CAA schools have captured national championships in field hockey (Delaware), women's lacrosse and football. Since 1997, the conference has also had teams reach the NCAA Final Four in men's basketball and women's basketball, the Women's College World Series and the semifinals of the Men's Lacrosse Championship. CAA men's basketball teams have combined to win 48 games in postseason play since 2006. Charleston won a league-record 31 games in 2022-23 and became the first CAA team to be ranked in the AP Top 25 poll since 1987. CAA women's basketball teams have recorded 38 victories in postseason play over the past decade.

The CAA also excels in many other sports. The conference has sent multiple teams to the NCAA Men's Soccer Championship in nine of the past 13 years with Hofstra advancing to the third round in 2021. Hofstra has reached the second round of the NCAA Women's Soccer Championship three times in the past five seasons. Towson's volleyball program has claimed four straight league titles and reached the second round of the NCAA Volleyball Championship in 2019. UNCW's baseball team has earned 11 NCAA Regional berths since 2003. William & Mary's men's cross country team strung together an amazing 20 straight conference championships from 2000-19. A conference-record four CAA women's lacrosse teams received NCAA Tournament berths in 2021. Towson reached the men's lacrosse Final Four in 2017. Charleston became the first CAA team to advance to the NCAA Men's Golf Championship in 15 years in 2022 and the Cougars' Laura Fuenfstueck reached the NCAA Women's Golf Championship in 2017. Eleven CAA track and field athletes qualified for the 2023 NCAA Outdoor Championship, with North Carolina A&T's Paula Salmon (100 hurdles) and Raheem Hayles (400 meters) earning first-team All-America honors. Towson swimmer Brian Benzing has garnered honorable mention All-America accolades for the past two years in the 100 breaststroke.

CAA member institutions are committed to excellence in the classroom. The CAA Academic Alliance was created in 2002 by the league's presidents with a goal of expanding their partnership to all aspects of university education and life outside of intercollegiate athletics. The Alliance has facilitated leadership exchanges to promote professional development, developed an academic resource sharing program to support student athletes, and created opportunities for institutions to partner on a wide range of initiatives that enhance student success.

On July 1, 2016, Joseph D'Antonio began his tenure as only the second Commissioner in the history of the CAA. He replaced Thomas E. Yeager, who guided the CAA from its inception in 1985.

The conference traces its roots back to 1983 when current member William and Mary was aligned with East Carolina University, George Mason University, James Madison University, the United States Naval Academy and the University of Richmond as a basketball league (ECAC South). During the next two years, the league added 11 sports, acquired two new members (the University of North Carolina at Wilmington and American University) and decided to form a new conference. The transformation from ECAC South to CAA took place on June 6, 1985.

Old Dominion University joined the CAA in 1991 and was followed by Virginia Commonwealth University in 1995. The conference added the University of Delaware, Drexel University, Hofstra University and Towson University in 2001. Georgia State University and Northeastern University became members of the conference in 2005. College of Charleston began its first year as a CAA member in 2013 and Elon University joined the conference on July 1, 2014.

The conference welcomed four new members on July 1, 2022 with the addition of Hampton University, Monmouth University, North Carolina A&T State University and Stony Brook University. The league expanded to 14 members for the first time when Campbell University joined the conference on July 1, 2023.

The 1999 Ivy League Player of the Year at Princeton, Earl joins W&M after spending the last seven seasons as the head coach at Cornell, where he led the Big Red to numerous offensive milestones and its first-ever NIT bid this year.

In 2023-24, Earl led the Big Red to 22 wins, tied for second-most in school history, and Cornell's first-ever bid to the NIT. The team ranked 17th in the nation in scoring offense (82.1 points per game), eighth in assists per game (17.9) and 10th in 3-pointers made per game (10.3). The Big Red finished the regular season with an RPI of 49. For his efforts, Earl was named the National Basketball Coaches Association District 13 Coach of the Year.

Earl and the Big Red compiled a record 31-5 in home games over the past three seasons, including a perfect 15-0 non-conference mark.

Earl's 2022-23 team posted 17 wins and led the Ivy League in 11 categories while ranking in the top 10 nationally in scoring offense, assists, bench points, fast break points, steals and 3-pointers made and attempted.

In his seven seasons in Ithaca, Earl led the Big Red to four Ivy League Tournament appearances (top four earn a tournament berth). Additionally, Cornell qualified for the post season in two of the last five seasons. Along with the 2024 NIT, the Big Red appeared in the CIT in 2019, returning to the post season for the first time since reaching the Sweet 16 in the 2010 NCAA Tournament.

Earl entered the coaching profession in 2007 after four years as an account executive at Sallie Mae. Former teammate Sydney Johnson asked him to join his staff at their alma mater. He served as an assistant and associate head coach at Princeton over nine seasons, during which the Tigers posted a 143-69 overall record and a 72-26 record in Ivy League play, winning 20 or more games five times.

The Tigers earned a postseason bid in each of his four seasons, including a win over UCLA in the 1996 NCAA Tournament and a victory over UNLV in the 1998 tournament as the East Region's No. 5 seed.

Earl graduated from Princeton with a degree in economics in 1999. Deciding he wasn't finished with playing, he continued his career in the United States Basketball League and the Eastern Basketball Alliance, then played in Germany and England from 1999-2002.

Earl comes from a strong basketball family. His father, Denny, was a starting forward for Rutgers where he played with the late Jim Valvano. His brother Dan played at Penn State and is the head coach at Chattanooga. Earl and his brother are one of five active sets of brothers directing Division I programs, joining Bryce and Scott Drew, Bobby and Danny Hurley, Joe and James Jones and Archie and Sean Miller.

Erin Dickerson Davis heads into her third season at William & Mary after being named the sixth Division I head coach in Tribe women's basketball history on April 12, 2022.

Davis' second season in Williamsburg, 2023-24, was highlighted by numerous records, culminating in another 12-6 record in the CAA, matching the program record for league wins for the second season in a row. Finishing fifth in the conference, it was the first time in program history that the Green and Gold won 10-plus conference games in back-to-back campaigns. The Tribe's 8-3 start in CAA play was the best conference start in program history through 11 games, and the squad's six conference road wins also tied the most in program history. Davis personally put her name in the W&M record books in 2023-24 season, becoming the fastest head coach to 20 conference wins (29 games) in program history, and the fastest to 30 career wins (53 games) in 95 years. During non-conference play the Tribe captured the FIU Thanksgiving Classic title, beating host FIU in the championship game on their home floor.

The talent Davis and her staff ushered in to the Tribe program was noticed by the conference with Nylah Young and Cassidy Geddes earning CAA First Team and All-Rookie honors respectively. Young, who transferred into the program in 2023-24, flourished with the Green and Gold, finishing second in the league at 16.1 points per game with 11 performances of 20 points or more. Geddes made an immediate impact for W&M in her first collegiate season, averaging the second most minutes on the team to go 9.7 points per game. She finished the third in the CAA for scoring among freshmen and seventh overall in the league in steals.

In 2022-23, Davis led William & Mary to 18 wins – the most by a first-year head coach in program history. Additionally, the 12 CAA wins by the Tribe matched the record for most in a single-season. Under Davis, the Green and Gold finished the regular season fourth in the league and advanced to the program's sixth conference semifinal.

Davis also saw graduate guards Riley Casey and Sydney Wagner take their respective games to the next level. Caesy went on to be named CAA Scholar Athlete of the Year, and earning a spot on both the VaSID and All-CAA first teams. Meanwhile, Wagner was named Second-Team All-CAA and captured a spot on the All-Tournament Team.

Before arriving in Williamsburg, Davis served as the Associate Head Coach at Wake Forest where she helped lead the Demon Deacons to a pair of postseason appearances, highlighted by the program's first NCAA Tournament berth in 30 seasons.

Davis joined the Wake Forest staff in 2020 as an assistant coach and was promoted to associate head coach in 2021. During her time with the Demon Deacons, she recruited and coached three All-ACC selections.

Prior to Wake Forest, Davis was assistant coach and recruiting coordinator at Georgetown from 2017-20. In the 2018-19 season, the Hoyas had its most overall wins (19) in seven seasons and reached the quarterfinals of the WNIT. The team reached the second round of the WNIT in 2017-18 as well.

At Georgetown, she recruited and coached four All-Big East selections, one Defensive Player of the Year and one Most Improved Player of the Year. She helped the program sign a 2018 recruiting class that ranked first in the Big East.

Davis also held coaching positions at Towson from 2015-17 (associate head coach/recruiting coordinator); Illinois State from 2013-15 (assistant coach/recruiting coordinator); La Salle from 2010-13 (assistant coach) and at Furman from 2009-10 (assistant coach).

In 2021, The Athletic named Davis one of 22 assistant women's basketball coaches ready to lead their own program. She was also named a 2017 Women's Basketball Coaches Association (WBCA) Thirty Under 30 honoree.

Davis has a master's degree in sports industry management from Georgetown University and a bachelor's degree in learning and organizational change from Northwestern University. While at Northwestern, she was a four-year scholarship athlete and letter winner in women's basketball. She was team captain for all four years.

A Chicago native, Davis and her husband, Thomas, are the parents of daughter, Lyla.

He and the rest of Erin Dickerson Davis' staff became the fastest to 20 conference wins in program history and the fastest to 30 overall wins since 1929.
