WHAT THEY ARE SAYING ABOUT

"Darian DeVries is an excellent coach who has been a part of winning his entire career. He has an innovative offensive mind and his teams are hard-nosed. I believe the people of West Virginia will embrace his style, and his personality will fit the state like a glove." Fran Fraschilla, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"Darian DeVries and his family were with us for 12 memorable years at Creighton. Darian has an innovative basketball mind and great enthusiasm for the game. He will work with alumni, fans and staff to represent West Virginia University in a first-class manner." Dana Altman, Oregon Head Coach

"Great hire. He's a great X and O guy. He's a great program builder. He's good without his son. If he comes without his son, he's going to be great for West Virginia. He's the kind of guy I could see staying there for a long time. If he brings his son with him, Tucker DeVries is one of those guys that was playing a level below where he could have which is fine, he took their team to the NCAA Tournament. But he can play in the Big 12, and he's a good enough player to be there." Jay Wright, CBS Analyst and Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of

"I could not be more excited for Darian, Ashley, Tucker and Tatum. He's worked extremely hard to earn this opportunity. He's very deserving. The job he did at Drake speaks for itself. None of this surprises me because I fully understand the impact he had on our program, not only for me when he was here but prior to my arrival with coach Altman." Greg McDermott, Creighton Head

"Darian DeVries is a proven leader and basketball coach, and one of the brightest young coaches in the game. He took his experience working under Dana Altman and Greg McDermott to another level as head coach at Drake, and there is no doubt he will be a success at West Virginia. Darian has put his time in and he is the real thing. West Virginia found the right coach in Darian DeVries." Jay Bilas, ESPN

Recap

West Virginia scored the game's first 21 points on the way to an 87-59 season-opening victory over Robert Morris in Darian DeVries' coaching debut for the Mountaineers.

His son, Tucker, tallied the first 8 and finished his night with a game-high 18.

Oklahoma State transfer Javon Small chipped in with 15, UIC transfer Toby Okani scored 13, freshman Jonathan Powell had 11 and fellow freshman KJ Tenner finished with 10.

Amani Hansberry just missed a double-double with 9 points and a game-high 12 rebounds.

West Virginia made 33 of its 60 field goal attempts for 55%, including 14 of 34 from 3-point distance. Six different Mountaineer players made 3s, led by DeVries' four on nine attempts.

DeVries, who engineered six straight 20-win seasons and three NCAA Tournament berths at Drake, is the 23rd coach making his Mountaineer debut and the seventh since the WVU Coliseum opened on Dec. 1, 1970, against Colgate

What the 9,229 here saw was an extremely aggressive defense, some accurate long-range shooting, excellent ball movement and good decision making.

Leading 30-2 with 11:59 left in the first half, West Virginia remained stuck on 30 for the next three minutes until Okani took Small's baseline inbounds pass with one hand and soared above everyone for a thunderous dunk.

WVU answered Robert Morris' 12-2 run with an 11-0 flurry that included 3s by DeVries, Hansberry and Powell, sandwiched between Tenner's runner in the paint.

The only thing slowing West Virginia down was a delay to the second half because of a shot clock malfunction to the basket where the Mountaineers were warming up. Temporary shot clocks were positioned underneath each basket.

The Mountaineers outscored the Colonials 41-33 in a second half in which both teams used most of their players. WVU emptied its bench with 2:48 left and leading 82-56. West Virginia's largest lead was 29 points, 73-44, with 9:01 remaining.

The Colonials shot just 32.4% and turned the ball over 14 times. 10 of those coming in the first half.

Nit pickers will notice Robert Morris' 41-37 advantage on the glass, including 16 offensive rebounds, West Virginia shooting just 58.3% from the free throw line and the Mountaineers' 11 turnovers, many of those unforced.

West Virginia improved to 100-16 overall in season-opening games in its 116th season of basketball. DeVries improved to 7-0 all-time in season-opening contests

Recap

West Virginia received contributions from all nine players who got into the game in the 75-69 victory over Massachusetts at the WVU Coliseum.

Tucker DeVries' 17 points led a balanced scoring attack that included 16 from forward Amani Hansberry, 12 from guard Javon Small and 10 off the bench from freshman guard Jonathan Powell.

Seven of Powell's points came late in the first half when WVU went on an 8-0 run to lead 45-28 at the break.

But UMass (1-1) used a 1-1-3 zone defense for a portion of the second half that led to a six-minute field goal drought that ended with DeVries' 3 from the wing to give the Mountaineers a 63-52 lead

A Daniel Rivera layup and free throw made it a sevenpoint game with 2:45 left, but Hansberry answered with a close one at the other end and then free throws by DeVries and Hansberry got the lead back to 11.

The game was won at the free throw line where West Virginia made 25 of 29 from the charity stripe while UMass missed seven of its 20 attempts, four of those coming from Jaylen Curry late in the second half.

"We knew what this game was going to be – it was going to be tough; it was going to be physical, and it was going to be hard-fought, and it certainly didn't disappoint," West Virginia coach Darian DeVries said afterward. "I thought we did some really good things at times, especially in the first half, but in the second half there were a lot of learning opportunities for us."

The Mountaineers (2-0) shot just 25% after intermission and finished the game 21 of 57 overall for 36.8%. From behind the arc, where West Virginia made 14 in its 28-point win over Robert Morris, it was 8 of 23 for 34.8%.

WVU also turned the ball over eight times in the second half when Massachusetts turned up the pressure.

Every player on the floor for the Mountaineers scored. grabbed at least one rebound and five different players made 3s. WVU had a 36 to 34 advantage on the glass and turned 15 Minutemen turnovers into 22 points.

Other specialty stats in WVU's favor were bench scoring (23 to 8) and fastbreak points (19 to 6), which compensated for UMass' 32 to 24 edge in paint scoring.

Guard Rahsool Diggins led everyone with 19 points, but he made just 5 of his 14 field goal attempts and got 8 of his game-high total in the final 16 seconds when the outcome was already decided.

UMass was making its first appearance in the WVU Coliseum since the 2007 National Invitation Tournament.

An announced crowd of 10,017 watched the game.

Recap

Damian Dunn's 23 points led a balanced Pitt attack in an 86-62 victory over West Virginia at the Petersen Events Center in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Dunn, a Houston transfer, was one of four Panther players to reach double figures. Ishmael Leggett contributed 15, Cameron Cohren scored 13 and Guillermo Diaz Graham added 10 for the Panthers.

Pitt shot 48.3% overall, including 10 of 27 from 3-point range, and had a 20-to-8 edge at the free throw line. Pitt was 20 of 26 from the charity stripe compared to 8 of 15 for West Virginia

The Mountaineers struggled shooting the basketball, WVU connecting on just 24 of 62 overall for 38.7% and 6 of 29 from 3-point range for 20.7%.

"It wasn't the way we anticipated this game going," West Virginia coach Darian DeVries said afterward. "I thought we had a great week of practice. Our guys were really excited about coming here in a big rivalry game and I thought they were ready.

"Then, we got off to a poor start and we just never recovered," DeVries added.

Pitt, which dominated the glass 45 to 32, led 44-22 at halftime.

The big discrepancy came from the two starting lineups where Pitt outscored West Virginia 70 to 36. Javon Small was the only Mountaineer starter to reach double figures with 12 points, although the senior made just 5 of his 14 field goal attempts.

A bright spot for West Virginia was the play of freshman Jonathan Powell coming off the bench with a team-high 16 points on 6 of 12 shooting. Powell made four of the Mountaineers' six 3s tonight.

Senior center Eduardo Andre contributed 9 points, making all four of his field goal tries, while freshman KJ Tenner added 7 in a reserve role.

Tucker DeVries and Amani Hansberry fouled out for West Virginia while Tenner had four fouls. The Mountaineers committed 22 fouls to Pitt's 14.

"I'm incredibly disappointed," DeVries said. "There is no way to sugarcoat what happened tonight. It's three games in and we're not going to hang on to it forever, but we do need to learn from it and we've got to get some things figured out.'

The game was the 191st Backyard Brawl, which WVU now leads 101-90. The Panthers have won two straight, including taking last year's game in Morgantown 80-63.

Recap

Javon Small's 23 points powered West Virginia to an 86-43 victory over visiting Iona at the WVU Coliseum.

Small made half of his 14 field goal attempts, including 5 of 9 from 3-point distance, grabbed five rebounds and handed out five assists for the Mountaineers.

WVU also got 13 points from Tucker DeVries, 11 from freshman Jonathan Powell (during a four-minute span in the first half), and 10 points and nine rebounds from Amani Hansberry.

The Mountaineers connected on 15 of their 31 3-point attempts and was 29 of 56 overall from the floor for 51.8%

WVU's biggest lead was 44 points with 48 seconds

West Virginia used a 14-2 run during a three-minute stretch in the first half to build a 14-point lead, which quickly swelled to 22 on Small's basket with 6:55 left.

The Mountaineers hit a lull for the next four minutes, missing seven straight jump shots at one point, before Small's layup ended the drought.

Iona (1-4) then got a couple of baskets from Adam Nie Jr. and Kernan Bundy ahead of Dejour Reaves' 3-point try from the corner that got stuck between the rim and the backboard, one of 20 shots missed by the Gaels in the first half.

West Virginia shot well enough early, especially from 3, to force Iona to pull out of its full-court pressure.

Iona, making its first-ever visit to Morgantown, and the Gaels didn't convert their 10th field goal until 30 minutes into the game and finished the night 14 of 59 overall for 23.7%.

James Patterson led Iona with 12 points while Luke Jungers came off the bench to contribute 10. Reaves, lona's leading scorer averaging 15.5 points per game, had a miserable night missing all seven of his field goal tries and failing to score.

Iona turned the ball over 21 times leading to 26 West Virginia points and the Mountaineers also outscored the Gaels 24 to 10 in the paint. WVU was credited with 11 blocked shots, four coming from backup forward Eduardo Andre, and 11 steals, four credited to Small.

"I thought Javon had a terrific game," coach Darian DeVries said. "You go 7 for 14, 5 for 9 from 3, 4 for 5 from the line, five assists, one turnover and four steals. That's a good night. We challenged him a little bit after our last game because we need him to be more aggressive, not just as a scorer but also as a facilitator. '

Iona scored on just 19 of its 70 possessions.

Recap

Just five games into his West Virginia University coaching career, Darian DeVries owns his first signature victory.

His rebuilt Mountaineers, powered by Javon Small's career-high 31 points, outlasted third-ranked Gonzaga 86-78 in overtime in the second game of the Bad Boys Battle For Atlantis at Imperial Arena in Paradise Island, Bahamas.

It was West Virginia's first win over a No. 3-rated team since last year against Kansas in Morgantown, but you must go back five years to find an instance when that has happened away from the Coliseum. That was against second-ranked Ohio State at Rocket Mortgage FieldHouse in Cleveland on Dec. 29, 2019.

It was also WVU's first-ever victory against Gonzaga in six tries, two of those coming in NCAA Tournament play.

Small's game-high tally came on 9 of 18 from the floor, 9 of 11 from the free throw line, and 4 of 10 from behind the arc.

The free throw line is where the game was decided, West Virginia making four more free throws (23) than Gonzaga attempted (19).

Gonzaga (5-1) used the 3-ball to build an eight-point halftime lead, but the Mountaineers made a 12-0 run early in the second half to take a 45-43 lead. Toby Okani began things with a dunk, followed by Small's fastbreak layup and 3.

Amani Hansberry, who began the game by scoring 10 points in rapid-fire succession during a four-minute stretch, added a 3 and Small capped the run with another basket. West Virginia got its lead to five before the Zags rallied.

Gonzaga got eight in a row during a two-minute stretch and led by five with 25 seconds left on Ryan Nembhard's two

But Tucker DeVries banged in a 3 from the top of the key and then turned a midcourt steal into two free throws when he was fouled by Nolan Hickman while attempting a game-tying layup

Following a lengthy break to determine substitutions, Gonzaga was unable to get off a game-winning shot when Khalif Battle lost the ball while trying to score.

Small began the overtime with a layup, and free throws by Okani and Hansberry pushed the lead to four. After Small's layup, Sincere Harris came up with a big defensive rebound and was eventually fouled by Nembhard. Harris made both free throws, giving WVU a two-possession cushion which it extended to eight on Small's free throw and Harris' steal and dunk.

After Braden Huff's putback basket, DeVries iced the victory with a pair of free throws.

West Virginia (4-1) got 19 points and eight rebounds from Hansberry, 16 from DeVries and 10 from Okani.

WVU made 11 of 35 from 3-point range, which compensated for Gonzaga's 30 to 2 advantage in bench points. Louisville.

Recap

Louisville rallied from 11 points down in the first half to defeat West Virginia 79-70 in overtime in the semifinals of the Bad Boys Mowers Battle 4 Atlantis at Atlantis Resort Imperial Arena in Paradise Island, Bahamas.

After trailing 28-17 late in the first half, the Cardinals pulled even with 8:06 left on Chucky Hepburn's 3. His basket was part of a 9-0 Louisville run that got the Cardinals' lead to four, 54-50.

Javon Small stopped the run with a jumper in the paint, but Louisville responded with another 5-0 spurt, all five points coming from the free throw line, to build its lead to seven, 59-52, with 4:22 remaining.

West Virginia (4-2) rallied, however.

Toby Okani got a short jumper to go down with 3:59 left, Amani Hansberry added a pair of free throws, Small hit another jumper and Okani's close one gave WVU a 60-59 lead with two minutes left.

The lead went back Louisville on Terrence Edwards Jr.'s jumper and then back to West Virginia 16 seconds later on Small's answer.

Hepburn's free throw with 31 seconds left tied the game at 62, but his second was missed giving West Virginia an opportunity to win the game in regulation.

Unfortunately, the Mountaineers were unable to get off a shot before the shot clock expired and the game went into overtime.

In the extra session, the Cardinals took control of the game when Tucker DeVries picked up his fifth foul attempting to help on Hepburn's drive to the basket. Hepburn converted the layup and added the free throw to give Louisville a 70-67 lead. The margin swelled to five on Kasean Pryor's layup and then to seven after more Hepburn free throws.

Hepburn finished with a career-high 32 on 8 of 12 shooting, including 14 of 17 from the free throw line. Louisville made 24 of its 33 free throws compared to just 9 of 12 for West Virginia, which drops to 4-2 with the loss.

Small led the Mountaineers with 26 points on 10 of 19 shooting. He also had seven rebounds and seven assists one day after scoring 31 against Gonzaga.

Hansberry contributed 19 points and five rebounds, while Okani chipped in with 12.

West Virginia made 26 of its 59 field goal attempts for 44.1%, while Louisville connected on 24 of 57 for 42.1%.

Louisville had a 41 to 34 edge on the glass and outscored West Virginia 21 to 10 in second-chance points. The Cardinals' other significant advantage was their bench scoring where they out-tallied the Mountaineers 16 to 3.

Reyne Smith scored 15 and Pryor finished with 13 for

Recap

West Virginia got 26 points from Tucker DeVries to outlast 24th-ranked Arizona 83-76 in overtime in the third-place game at the Bad Boys Mowers Battle 4 Atlantis at Atlantis Resort Imperial Arena in Paradise Island, Bahamas.

It was the third-straight overtime game for WVU, which outlasted third-ranked Gonzaga two days earlier and then lost to Louisville a day earlier.

It is the first time in school history West Virginia has ever played three consecutive overtime games.

DeVries was virtually unstoppable at times, particularly from behind the 3-point arc where he made 8 of 12, including a couple of just in front of the mid-court line. DeVries had 17 points at halftime to give WVU a 39-37 lead at intermission.

WVU, down backup big Eduaro Andre following his injury vesterday against Louisville and still without Jayden Stone, had to go one player deeper on its bench with senior forward Haris Elezovic getting his first meaningful minutes of the season. Elezovic didn't score, but he did grab two rebounds in seven minutes of action.

The Mountaineers (5-2) appeared to have control of the game with less than four minutes left after Javon Small's two free throws gave them a 63-56 lead, but empty possessions allowed the Wildcats to battle back.

KJ Lewis converted a traditional three-point play to cut West Virginia's lead to four, and then Jaden Bradley's layup made it a two-point game with three minutes remaining.

Toby Okani answered with a corner 3 with 2:06 left, but that was WVU's last field goal during regulation.

Following a West Virginia timeout, Tucker DeVries was unable to get his shot inside the free throw line to go down to win the game.

In overtime, Amani Hansberry got things going with a jumper and then DeVries hit another 3 to give WVU a 71-66 lead. The margin swelled to eight on two Small free throws with 1:32 left and again got to eight on two more Small charities with 27 seconds to go.

WVU won the game despite being out-shot 45.3% to 39.7% and being out-scored 38 to 20 in the paint.

The Mountaineers made up for it with a 24 to 6 advantage in points off turnovers and their 21 assists on 27 made baskets.

Okani contributed a season-high 20 on 7-of-11 shooting, while Small finished with 14.

Hansberry contributed 13 points and 10 rebounds. WVU had a 40 to 39 edge on the glass against the Wildcats.

Recap

West Virginia rallied from a five-point second half deficit to down Georgetown 73-60 in a Big 12-Big East Battle game at the WVU Coliseum.

The Hoyas, leading 30-28 at halftime and 41-36 on Malik Mack's 3-pointer with 14:46 left, got just a Drew Fielder layup over the next six minutes as the Mountaineers went on a 17-2 run to take control of the game.

Javon Small, who scored a game-high 26, began the run with a three-point play, followed by an Eduardo Andre dunk and then two K.J. Tenner free throws tie the game 43.

Consecutive Toby Okani baskets and then 3s from Small and Tucker DeVries built the Mountaineer lead to 10, 53-43. with 9:28 left. Another DeVries basket pushed the lead to 12 before the Hoyas rallied with seven straight.

Small again stopped the run with a jumper, and his biggest shot of the game, a bank-shot 3 with the shot clock winding down, pushed the margin back to 11 with 1:20 to go. Okani put the punctuation mark on tonight's win with a breakaway dunk with a minute remaining.

The Hoyas (7-2) took the lead six minutes into the contest and led for 20:11 of the game.

"In the first half we were just stuck in the mud a little bit and couldn't get much going, but thankfully defensively we were able to keep it fairly tight going into the half," West Virginia coach Darian DeVries said.

DeVries contributed 15 points on 5 of 10 shooting, including 13 in the second half. Okani chipped in with 11.

Andre gave West Virginia a big lift coming off the bench in the second half and finished the game with four points, four blocks and three defensive rebounds.

West Virginia (6-2) held its own on the glass against the much bigger Hoyas and actually outboarded them 34 to 33.

Guards Sencire Harris (nine) and DeVries (seven) led the Mountaineers in rebounding.

WVU outscored Georgetown 28 to 22 in the paint and had a 19 to 12 edge on points off turnovers. Other specialty stats in West Virginia's favor were fastbreak points, 14 to 4, and bench points, 9 to 8.

Georgetown got 17 from Jayden Epps and 13 from leading scorer Thomas Sorber, who played a good portion of the second half with four fouls.

West Virginia finished the game out-shooting Georgetown 45.6% to 37.9%, and also had a 12 to 7 advantage in free throws.

A crowd of 11,522 watched the contest.

Recap

West Virginia advanced its record to 7-2 with a commanding 79-45 victory over North Carolina Central at the WVU Coliseum.

Freshman Jonathan Powell led three double-figure Mountaineer scorers with a season-high 17 points 12 of those coming from 3-point distance on 4-of-11 shooting.

Joseph Yesufu chipped in with a season-high 14, including 11 during a nine-minute stretch in the first half.

Senior guard Javon Small contributed 12.

West Virginia was without starting guard Tucker DeVries, sidelined indefinitely with an upper body injury. The announcement of DeVries' injury was made before this game.

"I wasn't sure what to expect and we had two days to prepare a few different lineups, and a lot of guys were in different spots tonight," coach Darian DeVries said. "Then, you play a team that switches defenses almost every possession throwing everything at you, so having some organization for every single defense was a little bit of a challenge.'

Eduardo Andre got the starting nod in place of DeVries and scored 3 points with eight rebounds. Freshman K.J. Tenner began the second half for Andre and tallied 9 for the contest.

"I liked the fact that K. I. was getting into the paint and we needed that," DeVries explained. "It was just a matchup thing. Like I told Eduardo, it had nothing to do with his performance by any means, we just needed four perimeter guys out there to help break the press and also to just match up better on the defensive end for what they were running."

Amani Hansberry pulled down a game-high 12 rebounds to help give the Mountaineers a 45 to 28 advantage on the glass.

All 10 West Virginia players who got into the game scored, including 9 from senior guard Jake Auer in just four minutes of court time

WVU got 51 points from its bench and had a 19 to 7 advantage in points off turnovers.

"What I did like is we got 21 assists on 28 (field goals) and that says something about the way the guys played tonight. They really shared it, really moved it and made that extra pass," DeVries said.

Defensive-oriented North Carolina Central of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, making its first-ever Coliseum appearance, made just 16 of its 48 field goal attempts for 33.3%.

Isaac Parson was the only Eagle to reach double figures with 16 points. Leading scorer Po'Boigh King, averaging 17.4 points per game, was 0 for 7 from the floor and finished with 5 points

Recap

West Virginia used 27 points, six rebounds and six assists from senior guard Javon Small to defeat Bethune-Cookman 84-61 at the WVU Coliseum.

The Mountaineers had a balanced scoring attack with four players reaching double figures. Amani Hansberry tallied 16, Jonathan Powell contributed 14 and Sencire Harris added a season-high 12.

West Virginia, which led by as many as 20 points in the first half, saw its lead trimmed to six four minutes into the second half. But the Mountaineers scored seven in a row to push it back to 13 and kept the margin above double digits for the remainder of the game.

"We were able to build up a pretty good lead in the first half and then there was a long stretch from that point on until late in the second half when we couldn't quite find our rhythm," West Virginia coach Darian DeVries said.

WVŪ didn't grab its first offensive rebound until Hansberry hauled down a Harris missed with 14:34 left in the second half and was out-boarded by the Wildcats, 39 to 35.

The Mountaineers (8-2) made 17 free throws in a row until Hansberry missed his second attempt with 3:28 left.

West Virginia finished the game connecting on 20 of 22 from the charity stripe.

After shooting 51.7% in the first half, the Mountaineers cooled off after intermission and ended the game making 27 of 58 field goal attempts for 46.6%.

WVU was outscored 32 to 30 in the paint and 13 to 9 off turnovers

"We fouled a little too much and the game got a little choppy because there was a lot of free throws and there was no flow to it and it was hard for us to get going," DeVries said. "We've got to play with more discipline and keep our hands back."

West Virginia did convert 10 of its 26 attempts from 3-point distance, Powell leading the way with four. Small made two and one each came from Hansberry, Toby Okani, Joseph Yesufu and Jake Auer.

It was the second game without second-leading scorer Tucker DeVries, who is nursing an undisclosed upper body injury. Powell got his first career start in place of DeVries.

"I thought the last five minutes we really dug in defensively, the talk was a little better and we got some transition baskets to really extend it and feel more comfortable," DeVries said.

Brayon Freeman led Bethune-Cookman with 14 points. An announced crowd of 9,651 attended the game.

Recap

West Virginia concluded its four-game homestand with a 67-46 victory over Mercyhurst at the WVU Coliseum.

Javon Small scored a game-high 19 points, including the 1,000th point of his collegiate career.

Eduardo Andre came off the bench to score a season-high 14 points while Toby Okani got his first double-double of the season with 13 points and a season-high 12 rebounds.

West Virginia, now 9-2 and equaling its win total from last season, limited the Lakers of the Northeast Conference to just 28.3% shooting for the game. Mercyhurst missed 38 of its 53 field goal attempts and turned the ball over 16 times.

"Like I told the guys, the nonconference portion is now over, and they did their job in terms of putting themselves in position and now they get ready for Big 12 play," West Virginia coach Darian DeVries said. "Overall, this game was a little ugly at times, but I thought defensively in the second half we got it cranked up and get out into transition a little bit more to pull away."

After WVU led 35-22 at halftime, the Lakers went on an 8-0 run to reduced the Mountaineers' lead to eight, 38-30, with 14:46 left. Small finally snapped its nearly six-minute field goal drought with a layup, two of 16 straight points West Virginia scored to build its lead up to 24 points.

Starting center Amani Hansberry also checked out 18 seconds into the game with what appeared to be an ankle injury. He spent the game sitting on the bench with an ice bag on his foot, but DeVries indicated afterward it was nothing serious.

With Hansberry out, Harris Elezovich got some extended playing time and finished with four points, five rebounds and an assist in 15 minutes.

"(Hansberry's injury) took away a little bit of our depth and our ability to throw it inside," DeVries explained. "But I thought Haris came in and gave us some really good minutes and Eduardo took an extended role, so that was good."

Freshman Jonathan Powell, getting his second start in DeVries' place, made two 3s and finished the game with six points.

The Mountaineers outscored the Lakers 30 to 16 in the paint and had a 29 to 19 edge in bench scoring.

"When you are kind of struggling a little bit offensively you need to have defense so you can hang around, and then when you get the chance to break it open you can do that," DeVries said.

A crowd of 10,777 attended the game.
