WHAT THEY ARE SAYING ABOUT

Darian DeVries

"Darian DeVries is an excellent coach who has been a part of winning his entire career. He has an innovative offensive mind and his teams are hard-nosed. I believe the people of West Virginia will embrace his style, and his personality will fit the state like a glove." Fran Fraschilla, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"Darian DeVries and his family were with us for 12 memorable years at Creighton. Darian has an innovative basketball mind and great enthusiasm for the game. He will work with alumni, fans and staff to represent West Virginia University in a first-class manner." Dana Altman, Oregon Head Coach

"Great hire. He's a great X and O guy. He's a great program builder. He's good without his son. If he comes without his son, he's going to be great for West Virginia. He's the kind of guy I could see staying there for a long time. If he brings his son with him, Tucker DeVries is one of those guys that was playing a level below where he could have which is fine, he took their team to the NCAA Tournament. But he can play in the Big 12, and he's a good enough player to be there." Jay Wright, CBS Analyst and Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame member

"I could not be more excited for Darian, Ashley, Tucker and Tatum. He's worked extremely hard to earn this opportunity. He's very deserving. The job he did at Drake speaks for itself. None of this surprises me because I fully understand the impact he had on our program, not only for me when he was here but prior to my arrival with coach Altman." Greg McDermott, Creighton Head Coach

"Darian DeVries is a proven leader and basketball coach, and one of the brightest young coaches in the game. He took his experience working under Dana Altman and Greg McDermott to another level as head coach at Drake, and there is no doubt he will be a success at West Virginia. Darian has put his time in and he is the real thing. West Virginia found the right coach in Darian DeVries." Jay Bilas, ESPN

Recap

West Virginia scored the game's first 21 points on the way to an 87-59 season-opening victory over Robert Morris in Darian DeVries’ coaching debut for the Mountaineers.

His son, Tucker, tallied the first 8 and finished his night with a game-high 18.

Oklahoma State transfer Javon Small chipped in with 15, UIC transfer Toby Okani scored 13, freshman Jonathan Powell had 11 and fellow freshman KJ Tenner finished with 10.

Amani Hansberry just missed a double-double with 9 points and a game-high 12 rebounds.

West Virginia made 33 of its 60 field goal attempts for 55%, including 14 of 34 from 3-point distance. Six different Mountaineer players made 3s, led by DeVries’ four on nine attempts.

DeVries, who engineered six straight 20-win seasons and three NCAA Tournament berths at Drake, is the 23rd coach making his Mountaineer debut and the seventh since the WVU Coliseum opened on Dec. 1, 1970, against Colgate.

What the 9,229 here saw was an extremely aggressive defense, some accurate long-range shooting, excellent ball movement and good decision making.

Leading 30-2 with 11:59 left in the first half, West Virginia remained stuck on 30 for the next three minutes until Okani took Small’s baseline inbounds pass with one hand and soared above everyone for a thunderous dunk.

WVU answered Robert Morris’ 12-2 run with an 11-0 flurry that included 3s by DeVries, Hansberry and Powell, sandwiched between Tenner’s runner in the paint.

The only thing slowing West Virginia down was a delay to the second half because of a shot clock malfunction to the basket where the Mountaineers were warming up. Temporary shot clocks were positioned underneath each basket.

The Mountaineers outscored the Colonials 41-33 in a second half in which both teams used most of their players. WVU emptied its bench with 2:48 left and leading 82-56. West Virginia’s largest lead was 29 points, 73-44, with 9:01 remaining.

The Colonials shot just 32.4% and turned the ball over 14 times, 10 of those coming in the first half.

Nit pickers will notice Robert Morris’ 41-37 advantage on the glass, including 16 offensive rebounds, West Virginia shooting just 58.3% from the free throw line and the Mountaineers’ 11 turnovers, many of those unforced.

West Virginia improved to 100-16 overall in season-opening games in its 116th season of basketball. DeVries improved to 7-0 all-time in season-opening contests.

Recap

West Virginia received contributions from all nine players who got into the game in the 75-69 victory over Massachusetts at the WVU Coliseum.

Tucker DeVries’ 17 points led a balanced scoring attack that included 16 from forward Amani Hansberry, 12 from guard Javon Small and 10 off the bench from freshman guard Jonathan Powell.

Seven of Powell’s points came late in the first half when WVU went on an 8-0 run to lead 45-28 at the break.

But UMass (1-1) used a 1-1-3 zone defense for a portion of the second half that led to a six-minute field goal drought that ended with DeVries’ 3 from the wing to give the Mountaineers a 63-52 lead.

A Daniel Rivera layup and free throw made it a seven-point game with 2:45 left, but Hansberry answered with a close one at the other end and then free throws by DeVries and Hansberry got the lead back to 11.

The game was won at the free throw line where West Virginia made 25 of 29 from the charity stripe while UMass missed seven of its 20 attempts, four of those coming from Jaylen Curry late in the second half.

“We knew what this game was going to be – it was going to be tough; it was going to be physical, and it was going to be hard-fought, and it certainly didn’t disappoint,” West Virginia coach Darian DeVries said afterward. “I thought we did some really good things at times, especially in the first half, but in the second half there were a lot of learning opportunities for us.”

The Mountaineers (2-0) shot just 25% after intermission and finished the game 21 of 57 overall for 36.8%. From behind the arc, where West Virginia made 14 in its 28-point win over Robert Morris, it was 8 of 23 for 34.8%.

WVU also turned the ball over eight times in the second half when Massachusetts turned up the pressure.

Every player on the floor for the Mountaineers scored, grabbed at least one rebound and five different players made 3s. WVU had a 36 to 34 advantage on the glass and turned 15 Minutemen turnovers into 22 points.

Other specialty stats in WVU’s favor were bench scoring (23 to 8) and fastbreak points (19 to 6), which compensated for UMass’ 32 to 24 edge in paint scoring.

Guard Rahsool Diggins led everyone with 19 points, but he made just 5 of his 14 field goal attempts and got 8 of his game-high total in the final 16 seconds when the outcome was already decided.

UMass was making its first appearance in the WVU Coliseum since the 2007 National Invitation Tournament.

An announced crowd of 10,017 watched the game.

Javon Small's 23 points powered West Virginia to an 86-43 victory over visiting Iona at the WVU Coliseum.

Small made half of his 14 field goal attempts, including 5 of 9 from 3-point distance, grabbed five rebounds and handed out five assists for the Mountaineers.

WVU also got 13 points from Tucker DeVries, 11 from freshman Jonathan Powell (during a four-minute span in the first half), and 10 points and nine rebounds from Amani Hansberry.

The Mountaineers connected on 15 of their 31 3-point attempts and was 29 of 56 overall from the floor for 51.8% WVU's biggest lead was 44 points with 48 seconds remaining.

West Virginia used a 14-2 run during a three-minute stretch in the first half to build a 14-point lead, which quickly swelled to 22 on Small's basket with 6:55 left.

The Mountaineers hit a lull for the next four minutes, missing seven straight jump shots at one point, before Small's layup ended the drought.

Iona (1-4) then got a couple of baskets from Adam Nie Jr. and Kernan Bundy ahead of Dejour Reeves' 3-point try from the corner that got stuck between the rim and the backboard, one of 20 shots missed by the Gaels in the first half.

West Virginia shot well enough early, especially from 3, to force Iona to pull out of its full-court pressure.

Iona, making its first-ever visit to Morgantown, and the Gaels didn't convert their 10th field goal until 30 minutes into the game and finished the night 14 of 59 overall for 23.7%.

James Patterson led Iona with 12 points while Luke Jungers came off the bench to contribute 10. Reeves, Iona's leading scorer averaging 15.5 points per game, had a miserable night missing all seven of his field goal tries and failing to score.

Iona turned the ball over 21 times leading to 26 West Virginia points and the Mountaineers also outscored the Gaels 24 to 10 in the paint. WVU was credited with 11 blocked shots, four coming from backup forward Eduardo Andre, and 11 steals, four credited to Small.

"I thought Javon had a terrific game," coach Darian DeVries said. "You go 7 for 14, 5 for 9 from 3, 4 for 5 from the line, five assists, one turnover and four steals. That's a good night. We challenged him a little bit after our last game because we need him to be more aggressive, not just as a scorer but also as a facilitator."

Iona scored on just 19 of its 70 possessions.

Recap

Just five games into his West Virginia University coaching career, Darian DeVries owns his first signature victory.

His rebuilt Mountaineers, powered by Javon Small's career-high 31 points, outlasted third-ranked Gonzaga 86-78 in overtime in the second game of the Bad Boys Battle For Atlantis at Imperial Arena in Paradise Island, Bahamas.

It was West Virginia's first win over a No. 3-rated team since last year against Kansas in Morgantown, but you must go back five years to find an instance when that has happened away from the Coliseum. That was against second-ranked Ohio State at Rocket Mortgage FieldHouse in Cleveland on Dec. 29, 2019.

It was also WVU's first-ever victory against Gonzaga in six tries, two of those coming in NCAA Tournament play.

Small's game-high tally came on 9 of 18 from the floor, 9 of 11 from the free throw line, and 4 of 10 from behind the arc.

The free throw line is where the game was decided, West Virginia making four more free throws (23) than Gonzaga attempted (19).

Gonzaga (5-1) used the 3-ball to build an eight-point halftime lead, but the Mountaineers made a 12-0 run early in the second half to take a 45-43 lead. Toby Okani began things with a dunk, followed by Small's fastbreak layup and 3.

Amani Hansberry, who began the game by scoring 10 points in rapid-fire succession during a four-minute stretch, added a 3 and Small capped the run with another basket. West Virginia got its lead to five before the Zags rallied.

Gonzaga got eight in a row during a two-minute stretch and led by five with 25 seconds left on Ryan Nembhard's two free throws.

But Tucker DeVries banged in a 3 from the top of the key and then turned a midcourt steal into two free throws when he was fouled by Nolan Hickman while attempting a game-tying layup.

Following a lengthy break to determine substitutions, Gonzaga was unable to get off a game-winning shot when Khalif Battle lost the ball while trying to score.

Small began the overtime with a layup, and free throws by Okani and Hansberry pushed the lead to four. After Small's layup, Sincere Harris came up with a

Recap

West Virginia got 26 points from Tucker DeVries to outlast 24th-ranked Arizona 83-76 in overtime in the third-place game at the Bad Boys Mowers Battle 4 Atlantis at Atlantis Resort Imperial Arena in Paradise Island, Bahamas.

It was the third-straight overtime game for WVU, which outlasted third-ranked Gonzaga two days earlier and then lost to Louisville a day earlier.

It is the first time in school history West Virginia has ever played three consecutive overtime games.

DeVries was virtually unstoppable at times, particularly from behind the 3-point arc where he made 8 of 12, including a couple of just in front of the mid-court line. DeVries had 17 points at halftime to give WVU a 39-37 lead at intermission.

WVU, down backup big Eduardo Andre following his injury yesterday against Louisville and still without Jayden Stone, had to go one player deeper on its bench with senior forward Haris Elezovic getting his first meaningful minutes of the season. Elezovic didn't score, but he did grab two rebounds in seven minutes of action.

The Mountaineers (5-2) appeared to have control of the game with less than four minutes left after Javon Small's two free throws gave them a 63-56 lead, but empty possessions allowed the Wildcats to battle back.

KJ Lewis converted a traditional three-point play to cut West Virginia's lead to four, and then Jaden Bradley's layup made it a two-point game with three minutes remaining.

Toby Okani answered with a corner 3 with 2:06 left, but that was WVU's last field goal during regulation.

Following a West Virginia timeout, Tucker DeVries was unable to get his shot inside the free throw line to go down to win the game.

In overtime, Amani Hansberry got things going with a jumper and then DeVries hit another 3 to give WVU a 71-66 lead. The margin swelled to eight on two Small free throws with 1:32 left and again got to eight on two more Small charities with 27 seconds to go.

WVU won the game despite being out-shot 45.3% to 39.7% and being out-scored 38 to 20 in the paint.

The Mountaineers made up for it with a 24 to 6 advantage in points off turnovers and their 21 assists on 27 made baskets.

Okani contributed a season-high 20 on 7-of-11 shooting, while Small finished with 14.

Hansberry contributed 13 points and 10 rebounds. WVU had a 40 to 39 edge on the glass against the Wildcats.

Recap

West Virginia rallied from a five-point second half deficit to down Georgetown 73-60 in a Big 12-Big East Battle game at the WVU Coliseum.

The Hoyas, leading 30-28 at halftime and 41-36 on Malik Mack's 3-pointer with 14:46 left, got just a Drew Fielder layup over the next six minutes as the Mountaineers went on a 17-2 run to take control of the game.

Javon Small, who scored a game-high 26, began the run with a three-point play, followed by an Eduardo Andre dunk and then two K.J. Tenner free throws tie the game 43.

Consecutive Toby Okani baskets and then 3s from Small and Tucker DeVries built the Mountaineer lead to 10, 53-43, with 9:28 left. Another DeVries basket pushed the lead to 12 before the Hoyas rallied with seven straight.

Small again stopped the run with a jumper, and his biggest shot of the game, a bank-shot 3 with the shot clock winding down, pushed the margin back to 11 with 1:20 to go. Okani put the punctuation mark on tonight's win with a breakaway dunk with a minute remaining.

The Hoyas (7-2) took the lead six minutes into the contest and led for 20:11 of the game.

"In the first half we were just stuck in the mud a little bit and couldn't get much going, but thankfully defensively we were able to keep it fairly tight going into the half," West Virginia coach Darian DeVries said.

DeVries contributed 15 points on 5 of 10 shooting, including 13 in the second half. Okani chipped in with 11.

Andre gave West Virginia a big lift coming off the bench in the second half and finished the game with four points, four blocks and three defensive rebounds.

West Virginia (6-2) held its own on the glass against the much bigger Hoyas and actually outboarded them 34 to 33.

Guards Sencire Harris (nine) and DeVries (seven) led the Mountaineers in rebounding.

WVU outscored Georgetown 28 to 22 in the paint and had a 19 to 12 edge on points off turnovers. Other specialty stats in West Virginia's favor were fastbreak points, 14 to 4, and bench points, 9 to 8.

Georgetown got 17 from Jayden Epps and 13 from leading scorer Thomas Sorber, who played a good portion of the second half with four fouls.

West Virginia finished the game out-shooting Georgetown 45.6% to 37.9%, and also had a 12 to 7 advantage in free throws.

A crowd of 11,522 watched the contest.
