SAM CARVER GYMNASIUM

Dedicated on March 30, 1962, Sam Carver Gymnasium on the Western Washington University campus, Carver Gym is the home to WWU Basketball. After undergoing a two-year state-of-the-art renovation, WECU Court at Carver Gym reopened for the 2017-18 season. During the two-year construction project, WWU's home games were played at Whatcom Community College Pavilion.

Named for Sanford E. Carver, a NAIA Hall of Famer who was the school's first director of athletics and chair of the physical education department from 1914-55, Carver Gym was an addition to the existing physical education facility. It added 54,233 square feet of floor space at a cost of $1.04 million. The most significant addition was the main gymnasium.

The facility first opened in time for the 1961-62 basketball season, although it wasn't named for Carver until the dedication ceremony the following spring. Dr. James L. Jarrett, then Western's president, and Dr. E.V. Pullias, a professor at the University of Southern California, were the main speakers at the gathering.

Basketball has been the primary event at Carver Gym. The Vikings have racked up an impressive record at Carver Gym, posting a 592-184 (.763) record over 59 seasons.

Western was a much different place when Carver Gym was built. It was a state college, not a university, and the enrollment was a third of the more than 16,000 it is today. Many of the buildings that dot the campus landscape today were either brand new or still many years away from construction.

Carver Gym has been host to a number of events. Acts like Jefferson Airplane, Duke Ellington, Simon & Garfunkel, the Tubes, Pat Paulsen, the Smothers Brothers and Ike & Tina Turner have played in the facility. There also have been NBA pre-season games, the Harlem Globetrotters, national basketball teams from Australia, Korea, Japan and Taiwan, and the junior national women's team from the Soviet Union. The U.S. and Canadian national volleyball teams played a match at Carver Gym, and Vice President Hubert Humphrey spoke in the building. Most recently, WWU hosted the 2022-23 GNAC Men's and Women's Basketball Championships and the 2022 NCAA Division II Volleyball West Regional.
