Frederic Ramsey Jr. Papers
(1922-1995)
22,811 items

Scope and Content Note:

This collection is composed of the personal and work related papers of Frederic Ramsey Jr. Ramsey was a writer, collector, photographer, a record and documentary producer, and historian whose main interests were blues and jazz music and the southern American culture where they developed. The collection includes correspondence, photographs, research files, interview transcripts, and drafts concerning Ramsey's work and his relationships with musicians and other music scholars. Also present is Ramsey's fiction writing, his school work completed while at Princeton, and items related to his family life.

Mr. Ramsey may be best known as a jazz scholar for his co-authorship and editing of the 1939 publication Jazzmen. Research notes and photocopies, memoranda, and correspondence between Ramsey and his co-authors, co-editor, and publisher can be found in this collection, along with similar material related to Ramsey's other major works in jazz history. Those works include The Jazz Record Book, 1942; A Guide to Longplay Jazz Records, 1954; and Jazzways: A Yearbook of Hot Jazz, 1946 + 1947. Also of interest is the correspondence, memos, and research notes concerning Ramsey's involvement with Folkway's records and their "Jazz" series of albums. Transcripts of recorded interviews with jazz musicians and their friends and families shed light on the development of jazz music; many of the interviews deal with the early history of jazz and Buddy Bolden. Significant research notes pertaining to Bolden, a pioneering cornet player in New Orleans, was compiled for a planned but never completed book. Mr. Ramsey's Bolden research files include correspondence, photographs, biographical sketches, interview transcripts, photocopies of city directories and police blotters, as well as newspaper clippings.

Mr. Ramsey's interest in blues and the rural American South led him to author a 1960 Rutgers University Press book titled Been Here and Gone. Research notes, interview transcripts, newspaper clippings, correspondence, photocopies, photographs, and ephemera from multiple trips through the south as well as many field recordings were used in publishing the book and in the publishing of Folkway's records "Music From the South" series. Ramsey is also known for his work with Huddie "Lead Belly" Ledbetter, having recorded the Folkways issued "Lead Belly's Last Sessions." This work is illustrated in Ramsey's research notes, newspaper clippings, correspondence, newsletters, photographs, and drafts of scholarly works concerning Lead Belly. Of particular note is a letter written by Lead Belly to Ramsey (see folder 1159).

Other topics represented in this collection include Ramsey's race relations documentary titled "Mississippi: A Self Portrait" as well as material related to Ramsey's fiction writing and his time spent with the Farm Service Agency. Ramsey's time as a student at Princeton is documented as well as his interest in folk music. There is a small quantity of material related to Ramsey's family life. A small selection of cassette tapes are present and have been digitized, these, along with indexes he kept related to his major publications and his photography, are described individually in the finding guide.

Note that the entirety of Frederic Ramsey's field recordings are now held by the Smithsonian Institute and portions of his personal papers are held at the Rutgers Institute of Jazz Studies.

Photograph Index. Boxes 97 & 98

This is an index of Frederic Ramsey Jr.'s photographs. Included on the cards are Ramsey's negative number, notes about the subjects in the photos, date of the photo, and location of the photo. Also present on the entries are notes concerning the use of the photograph in publications such as books, articles, and record folders. Contact prints of the photographs are often attached to the index card. Below is a list of Ramsey's index headings. The "ST" in the early heading, is believed to stand for Southern Trip, as this is a reference commonly used in Ramsey's Files. Other index titles refer to chapters in Ramsey's book, "Been Here and Gone," for example the headings "A Joyful Noise Prologues," "2," "3," "4." Some of the entries in this index have blue or red tabs attached to them. The red tabs seem to be images chosen for possible inclusion in Ramsey's book "Been Here and Gone," and the blue tabs denote images used in the publication of Folkways record folder text.

People and Place name index. Boxes 99-103

This index consists mainly of entries relating to people in New Orleans involved with jazz and blues music. Information on these people varies from limited biographical information, such as birth and death dates, to information on places of residence, employment, and criminal records. Also present in this index are entries on places, such as music halls and theaters. These place entries include information on who may have resided there, musical events at the site, and even crimes that occurred at that location. This index seems to be compiled chiefly from New Orleans city directories and police blotter, both of which are represented in Ramsey's files in the forms of photocopies and transcriptions.

Box 99 Abbott – Cooper, Mary

Box 100 Cooper, Richard - Itzkovitch

Box 101 Jackson - Owens

Box 102 Padron - Vutera

Box 103 Wade – Zollinger

Also present in box 103 are heading cards for titled Bibliography, Discography, Maps, and Newspapers.

An index of quotations from books, magazines, articles and letters is also present in box 103. This index is divided into two arrangement schemes, the first is alphabetical and the second is chronological. The alphabetical headings are from "African Culture in U. S. South Carolina" to "Wire Road Alabama U. S. 80". The chronological portion is from 1716 – 1937. The quotations concern music.

Street Name Index. Box 104-114.

This is an index of New Orleans addresses, arranged alphabetically by street name. The entries provide bounding streets, the names of residents or places of business at that address, and occasionally information on crimes which occurred at the address. There may be multiple people listed on a single entry if there was a change in residence. This index seems to be compiled chiefly from New Orleans city directories and police blotter, both of which are represented in Ramsey's files in the forms of photocopies and transcriptions.
