

General questions

1. What problems can you identify in this story? Are solutions presented?
2. In what way might this story be relevant in your community?

Further exploration

1. Is the government responsible for assisting farmers who lose crops to the impact of climate change?
2. How does this story tie environmental, economic and mental health issues together?
3. Many farmers are turning to older seeds that are more climate resistant but deliver a lower yield. India's population is still growing and will need more food than ever in the future. How can India continue producing food in a sustainable method and meet the rising demand?