

General questions

1. What problems can you identify in this story? Are solutions presented?
2. In what way might this story be relevant in your community?

Further exploration

1. Often, victims must deal with stigma, shame, and rejection from their families. What could be done to destigmatize victimization?
2. Traffickers prey on economically impoverished people by promising better jobs, better lives. What can be done to take away the economic bait used by traffickers?
3. Many women are trafficked into China where the one-child policy and cultural preference for male children created a shortage of brides. Does the Chinese government bear responsibility for fueling human trafficking?