

General questions

1. What problems can you identify in this story? Are solutions presented?
2. In what way might this story be relevant in your community?

Further exploration

1. Compare and contrast the difference between urban poverty and rural poverty. Do they require different approaches in addressing?
2. Name some ways the Kalinga Institute has given its students more than a classroom education.
3. India has about 400 distinct aboriginal tribes who number perhaps 80 million. They have lived far outside the mainstream for millennia, in forests across central and eastern India that are largely beyond the government's reach and outside of mainstream society. What challenges and ethical considerations can you think of in attempting to integrate these tribes into a mainstream society?