

Suggested writing prompt (250 words)

Dr. Dall-Winther talks about the concept of moral injury for health providers who live “everyday with that conflict of what they believe and how they wanted to deliver care” but feel trapped by the system. What reforms might help reduce the amount of moral-injury felt by health care providers? Do you think those changes are realistic in today’s health care system?