had his medical offices here with Dr. George V. Litchfield his insurance office here 1880 – 1891 and Dr. Jack Barrow General in the Confederate Army. Judge R. M. Page had Secretary of War in Buchanan's Cabinet, and Brigadier 1830-1863, while serving as Governor of Virginia, John B. Floyd used the building as a law office office, with the original logs underneath the siding. Built in 1815, the front portion of the house is the law

159 E. MAIN ST. TO GENERAL FRANCIS PRESTON'S LAW OFFICE

Confederate officers' headquarters. During the Civil War the house was used as a of this house was built in 1792 by Andrew Russell. One of Abingdon's oldest buildings, the western part

TS NIAM .3 YOT-631 16) THE ANDREW RUSSELL HOUSE

Federal façade.

when a bracketed Italianate cornice was added to the buildings were restored immediately after the war, same fire that burned the nearby courthouse. The destroyed in 1864 in General Stoneman's raid - the to the east in 1828. The house and store were partially this house in 1819 and added the store/office building

As a wealthy merchant and businessman, White built TYI E. MAIN ST. 1D COL. JAMES WHITE HOUSE

known as "Jockey Lot."

and mule trading became so established the lot became buy and sell goods, horses, land or livestock. Horse courthouse to exchange news, transact business, and had business or not. They gathered behind the came to the county seat on court days, whether they memorial to those who served during WWI. Many a se bebba and soibute yn Tiffany Studios and added as a popular at the time. The stained glass window was two-stage cupola reflect the Italianate style that was Doric columns and portico. The bracketed cornice and Flemish Bond pattern with a shallow hipped roof, Greek Revival style. The three stories are bricked in the the present courthouse was constructed in 1869 in the aftermath of General Stoneman's Civil War raid and A courthouse on this site burned in 1864 in the 191 E. MAIN ST.

and later in this country. "split chancel" design popular after 1840 in England

WASHINGTON COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Gothic chapel. The chancel layout is the traditional church. It is based on a 14th century English Tudorollowing a fire that destroyed the original 1846 frame Completed in 1925, the current church was built 124 E. MAIN ST.

2) ST. THOMAS EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Gregory Peck. Eleanor Roosevelt, Jimmy Carter, Elizabeth Taylor and as a hotel in 1935 and has seen such illustrious guests as also served as a Civil War hospital. It began operating were added at this time. During this period the college College, named in honor of the first lady. The two wings sold in 1858 and in 1860 became Martha Washington residence for General Francis Preston and family. It was the Martha Washington Inn was constructed as a private

In 1832, the central building of the complex that is now TS NIAM .W OLL A92 & NNI NOTONIHSAW AHTAAM HT (1)

DOWNTOWN HISTORIC DISTRICT

3 SINKING SPRINGS PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

130 E. MAIN ST.

In 1837 the original Sinking Spring congregation and Thomas Trigg, it operated under the firm name Built in 1884 by James G. Greenway, David Greenway TS E. MAIN ST.

208 E. MAIN ST.

5) DUNN'S HOTEL/THE VIRGINIA HOUSE

A GREENWAY-TRIGG BUILDING

with a tall steeple over the front entrance. Presbyterian churches found in the Valley of Virginia, lines of the Greek rectangular plan of many of the location and dedicated it in 1851. It was built on the Sinking Spring Presbyterian Church at the present Barter Theatre, while the "new school" group built Part of the congregation remained at what is now divided over a "new school - old school" controversy.

CUMMINGS S Walking down Plumb Alley provides another vantage of PLUMB ALLEY PARK ST Center Nisitor nobgnidA E S TE NIAM TS NIAM 50 22 21

Tanner Street and open to the public dawn to dusk.

located on Plumb Alley between White's Alley and (private property), and Abingdon's meditation labyrinth,

Walnut Grove, a reconstructed 18th Century log cabin beautiful landscaping and gardens. Keep an eye out for Abingdon's historic buildings and features glimpses of Town Hall (now Barter Theatre) in the early 1900's, Miss Presbyterian Church was converted into Abingdon's shop in 1891 (now a clothing boutique). When the 1832 to his daughter Minnie Baugh who added an apothecary The house descended through Valentine's son Leonidas boundary line between Virginia and Tennessee in 1802. by the Governor of Virginia to mark the state adding wood siding. Baugh was a surveyor appointed eastern part of the lot, expanding the building and by Valentine Baugh. Two years later he purchased the around 1798 by Robert Duke. It was purchased in 1805 The western part of this house is a log building built 129 E. MAIN ST.

TS Y3JJAV

(9) THE VALENTINE BAUGH HOUSE

ပ

Town Library.

222 E. MAIN ST.

6) THE TAVERN

used as a millinery shop, a physician's office, and the Phillip Rohr as a residence. Through the years it has been This brick townhouse was built in 1845 by the Reverend top floor was used a hospital during the Civil War.

133 E. MAIN ST.

18) THE REVEREND ROHR HOUSE/MARCELLA residence, post office, antique shop and restaurant. The bakery, general store, cabinet shop, barber shop, private can still be seen. The Tavern has also served as a bank, on the east side of the Tavern where the original mail slot

Abingdon's first post office was located in the addition guests as Henry Clay and President Andrew Jackson.

a tavern and inn for stagecoach travelers. It saw such se gninniged sti mort besu bne 9771 bnuore tliud sew

Considered the oldest building in Abingdon, the Tavern under the ownership of G. R. C. Stuart. It has housed the

The Arlington House. The house was "rejoined" in 1965 hotel was sold in 1879 to Frank S. Findlay and renamed of Abingdon purchased the eastern half in 1873, while the

and renamed the hotel "The Virginia House." The Bank

After John Dunn's death, his sons operated the businesses paints. The western part of the building was the hotel.

& Sons' store sold hats, yard goods, boots, groceries, and store and a hotel, with two front entrances. John Dunn

1846. Known as Dunn's Hotel, the building was both a

John Dunn built this building with its stepped gables in on the uppermost window stand for the firm's name.

the mirror image western side of the house. The initials

Greenways lived on the east side and the Triggs lived in duplex home of the Greenway and Trigg families. The Greenway Brothers & Company, then later became the offices of Penn Stuart Attorneys at Law since 1962.

County Historical Society. Ethel were instrumental in organizing the Washington them to remodel the front porch. Minnie and her sister Minnie purchased the church's wood columns and used sometime before 1817. During recent restoration work, had acquired both houses and he joined them together

Matthew Willoughby in 1791. By 1798, James Longley built in 1790 by Morris Morrison, and the eastern half by

Originally two separate houses, with the western half

Street. Between 1903 and 1907 it was moved back and a from 1849 - 1890. The house originally sat closer to Main an Abingdon merchant. E. L. Davenport resided here eastern addition was built in 1835 by Ludowick C. Price, present in the western portion of the house. The

In 1825, the Lynch family built a log cabin that is still required." The building has been a boarding house, meat with "ladies to be waited upon in their homes, if newspaper announced he was ready to serve the public took one of the rooms, and in 1843, The Banner professional purposes. Dr. Gilliam, a surgeon-dentist,

Newcomers occasionally used hotel rooms for drivers who had a room set aside for their regular use.

Abingdon's first hotel. It saw many travelers and stage

In 1835, Thomas Findlay built "The Washington House,"

THE WASHINGTON HOUSE/THOMAS FINDLAY'S HOTEL

8 LUDOWICK C. PRICE/E. L. DAVENPORT HOUSE

(9) JAMES LONGLEY/JAMES K. GIBSON HOUSE

TS YALLEY ST

123 W. MAIN ST.

TOI E. MAIN ST.

doors to remain open.

281 E. MAIN ST.

basement was added.

TS NIAM .3 882

market, and hat shop.

228 - 230 E. MAIN ST.

(21) WILLIAM RODEFER HOUSE

added behind the sanctuary in 1914.

ABINGDON UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Rodefer filed for bankruptcy in the early 1870s.

façade, in 1857. The Civil War intervened, and Mr.

this Federal style house, with its classically symmetrical

Rodeter, a carpenter and joiner, began construction of built on the east side by 1880, and a brick annex was Honaker to Silas Jones. A 2-story frame parsonage was beautifully decorated" for the marriage of Nannie E.

the church, "though not completely finished, was Construction began in 1883. By December 26th that year,

Welcome Center

BS TS A

🖈 Virginia Creeper Trail

SALLEY SALLEY

Constructed in 1831 as the original Sinking Spring SARTER THEATRE

(2)9)9

(B)

theatre its name.

127 W. MAIN STREET

were hung on rods during warm weather to allow the in the sides of the exterior doorways, where curtains hinges. A particularly interesting feature is the holes rose-headed nails, and original door locks and H & L pegged rafters, log floor joists, hand-forged owners found clues to the age of the house including preserve the musical heritage of the region. 1746-1786. His son, Andrew, collected materials to area, and authored History of Southwest Virginia, Southwest Virginia, a major historical resource for the and historian. Summers compiled The Annals of building was deeded to Lewis P. Summers, lawyer Built in 1872 as the Johnston & Trigg law office, this

PARK ST

TS NIAM

TS YALLEY ST

(8)

6

the O. W. Gray & Son map of 1880. Historical descriptions churches, are those which were shown to have existed on Buildings on this tour, with the exception of three produce, livestock, and other goods, giving the new Abingdon, where they bartered theatre tickets for Robert Porterfield brought a group of actors to the Opera House. In 1933, during the Great Depression, department in the rear. The main floor was referred to as included offices upstairs, a jail in the basement, and fire portion of the building was added. The Town Hall to be used as a Town Hall. In 1905, the current front transferred the building's title to the Town of Abingdon,

Temperance Hall. In 1890, The Sons of Temperance and social events, and the building became known as

by the Sons of Temperance who hosted performances

Presbyterian Church. In 1837 the building was acquired are from Places in Time by Nanci King.

ALLEY

120 COURT ST. (13) SUMMERS LAW OFFICE home to William King Museum of Art. Abingdon Male Academy for property that today is 1808. William King's will provided a legacy to the residence, a school, and offices. He died at age 39 in house in Abingdon. The house has been used as a naming it "Grace Hill" in 1803. It was the first brick Ireland, William King constructed this residence,

A wealthy merchant and salt manufacturer from TO8 CONKT ST. NE

12) THE WILLIAM KING HOUSE bank vault. The Bank is a National Historic Landmark.

private residence, its dining room still has the original a brother of the first cashier, Robert Preston. Now a bank failed after the Civil War and was purchased by entrance, iron bars on the windows and a vault. The western side of the building had a separate front Designed as a combination bank and residence, the Built in 1858 for the Exchange Bank of Virginia.

225 E. MAIN ST. (11) THE BANK/PRESTON HOUSE

finally Abingdon.

Hills," which later became "Black's Fort" and Boone's dogs in 1760. Boone named this area "Wolf where legend has it that wolves attacked Daniel the home. Behind the house are cave entrances of Lost Horizon and Goodbye Mr. Chips, purchased Alice Brown Hilton, widow of James Hilton, author business and made saddles and harnesses. In 1949, by Adam Hickman, who was in the tannety This Gothic Revival style house was built in 1857

279 E. MAIN ST. 10 ADAM HICKMAN HOUSE/THE CAVE HOUSE

341 W. Main Street, Abingdon VA 24210 (276) 623-8337 Hswcv.org

HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

300 Green Spring Road, Abingdon VA 24210 Open April – November Call the Abingdon Visitor Center for info

VIRGINIA CREEPER TRAIL WELCOME CENTER

335 Cummings Street, Abingdon AV 24210 (800) 435-3440 visitabingdonvirginia.com

ABINGDON VISITOR CENTER

FOR MORE INFORMATION

ADDITIONAL POINTS OF INTEREST

SOME OF ABINGDON'S MOST INTERESTING HISTORIC SITES ARE NOT FEATURED ON THE DOWNTOWN WALKING TOUR BUT ARE EASILY ACCESSIBLE BY CAR.

.....

SINKING SPRING CEMETERY AND PARSON CUMMINGS' CABIN RUSSELL RD. AND VALLEY ST.

Predating both Washington County and Abingdon, the cemetery was established as the burial ground for members of Sinking Spring Presbyterian Church, organized in 1773. Members of the congregation, led by Rev. Charles Cummings, built a log church and laid out the cemetery on 11 acres. Burials over the past 200 years reflect the long history of Washington County. On the same parcel of land, separated by Russell Road, is the burial place of the enslaved people owned by these early Presbyterians, and also free people of color.

The log house at the cemetery entrance was built circa 1773 by Reverend Cummings, the most influential leader of Presbyterianism in 18th Century Southwest Virginia. It was later relocated to its current site, at the location of the original Presbyterian Church.

WILLIAM KING MUSEUM OF ART 415 ACADEMY DR.

In 1824 the Abingdon Male Academy was built at the top of this 25 acre site. The Civil War took its toll on the building, and in 1872 a new brick school was erected through a legacy gift of merchant William King. The Academy closed its doors around 1905. In 1912, its trustees leased the property to the Town of Abingdon and the School District of Washington County. A new brick school building was built in 1913, using the same footprint as the Academy building. The new public school was named William King High School, operating until 1973. It now houses the museum facility.

ABINGDON MUSTER GROUNDS 700 COLONIAL RD.

Northern trailhead for the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail, established by Congress in 1980. In 1780 militia from Washington County assembled here to begin their 330-mile march to ultimately defeat British forces at the Battle of King's Mountain in South Carolina. Thomas Jefferson pointed to this battle as a decisive turning point in the Revolutionary War. In 1864, Union soldiers under the command of General George Stoneman camped in the same meadow. Immediately next door, "Retirement" was built by Captain Robert Craig circa 1813. The eastern portion of the house was added in 1858 by Judge Samuel V. Fulkerson.

VIRGINIA CREEPER TRAIL WELCOME CENTER 300 GREEN SPRING RD.

Probably built by Francis Findlay, this brick home now serves as the welcome center for the Virginia Creeper Trail, a 34-mile-long recreation trail that was once a railway line. The nickname, Virginia Creeper, came from the early steam engines that struggled up the steep grades. The Welcome Center also houses a collection of train photography by O. Winston Link called "A Day on Abingdon became a major distribution point for mail and supplies on "The Great Road." The town also became known for its love of the arts. Concerts, operatic performances, and theatre were important in Abingdon life. Our affinity for the arts survives today as modern amenities flourish alongside venerable antiquities.

House, 108 Court Street.

Abingdon grew slowly for the first few years. Its position alongside the Great Road leading down through the Valley of Virginia, and connecting to the road leading further west, soon encouraged merchants, tavern keepers, tanner, wagon builders and others to locate in the new settlement. The county courthouse and, in 1793, the first post office in the area drew more people to town. As the population grew, so did the number of buildings. The first structures were all built of logs. Only a few years later frame buildings with rock foundations were erected, and in 1803 the first brick foundations were erected, and in 1803 the first brick foundations were erected, and in land the first brick house was built and still stands today; the William King County and in 1778, the Town of Abingdon was incorporated as the county seat. The name is thought to be in honor of Martha Washington's ancestral home of Abingdon Parish in England.

on his first expedition to Kentucky, camped at the southern base of present-day Courthouse Hill. Legend has it that his dogs were attacked by wolves appearing from a cave near the hill's creat, and so Boone named the area "Wolf Hills."

time, from a well-known explorer. In 1760 Daniel Boone,

Abingdon acquired another nickname around the same

In 1776, the Virginia Assembly created Washington

Abingdon traces its roots to 1750, when Dr. Thomas Walker, who had been granted over 6,000 acres of land by King George II, explored the area. Later, Joseph Black and built a small fort. The area became known as "Black's Fort." Abingdon was the first English speaking settlement incorporated in the watershed of the Mississippi.

HISTORY OF ABINGDON

the Abingdon Branch," on loan from William King Museum of Art. A Class M steam engine, nicknamed "The Old Mollie," is displayed at the trailhead.

WHITE'S MILL 692 WHITE'S MILL RD.

Originally built as Moffett's Mill in 1790, White's Mill was purchased by Col. James White in 1838. When White's Mill began milling grain with its overshot wheel, waterpower provided the only stable mechanized energy. Visitors to the mill can see the old equipment, as well as contemporary upgrades. It is one of the oldest water powered grist mills in Southwest Virginia. The mill is a Virginia Historic Landmark and listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Next door, the Mercantile sells White's Mill grits and cornmeal, plus hand crafts and art.

ABINGDON VISITOR CENTER/HASSINGER HOUSE

335 CUMMINGS ST. (Pictured on the cover)

Built in 1906 for John Harvey Hassinger by his older brother William Hassinger, a master builder. The brothers founded Hassinger Lumber Company, a logging company that constructed the Virginia-Carolina railroad (now the Virginia Creeper Trail). Mr. William Hassinger was known to have been quite proud of his handiwork. The foundation stones speak for themselves; the window glass is double thickness, which eliminates the need for storm windows. The exterior clapboards and interior floors and millwork are made of clear white pine, harvested from the virgin forests of Southwest Virginia, on land that is now Jefferson National Forest.

