The Colosseum was built about 5 years after Paul's death. In his time it was an ornamental lake in the gardens of Nero. Among those who laboured to make it were 12,000 Jews who were sent to Rome in chains after the Fall of Jerusalem.

... the Cross (blue) which commemorates those who received martyrdom in the Colosseum. I think it is one of the most beautiful & most venerable in the world. It is said that the first to die there was the venerable Ignatius, Pastor of the Church of Antioch, who has always been claimed by Eastern tradition as the little child who was placed in the midst of his disciples as a model of innocence. ... The poor old saint was dragged across the world by brutal soldiers, happy only in the thought of his approaching martyrdom as in expectation of his meeting with his Master. Surely never the most in the Colosseum hid its face in shame as the lions galled his fallen body to the sand.

Simon Stylites - sit for years
but control them the 12th c. patristic, imitating him.

So we today.

Little Tracts: absolutely lyrical "u"
magnificent witness.
Little Phil. & Zeb - dramatic in style
- Jan Broughton - long hair
- John Scott.

People that are we today, extremes.

Sitting on Tracts pole.
