ATTITUDE

I bought ten thousand sunsets,
And a friendly old oak tree,
And a hundred thousand violets,
When my farm was ~~deeded me~~ BOUGHT BY ME.

Ten thousand dewy mornings
With a mocking bird to sing,
And a mossy glade with a willow shade
And the music of a spring.

The owner thought he sold me land;
How poor a trader he!
But it was all fair, for it was all there
For all the world to see.

A Meadow starred with daisies,
And a wild rose rambling free,
And a Squirrel's den and a nested Wren,
And it all belongs to me.

I paid the man his money
And he did not understand,
He had put a price on paradise
When he thought he sold me land.
