The Martyrdom of John the Baptist

14: 2

Herod said with striking abruptness, "This is John the Baptist!"

We thought his name had been forgotten: dead, buried
No marble monument stood about the lonely body to remind us of its birth.
No bronze memorial was to be found in all the world of Herod's gates recording, long,
How it is remembered so distinctly the name of the murdered man!

In there a receding angel? and are two voices the foreman & drover one slope, with piping roundness ready, hallooing also on successive running?

So 'tis true, the theme of the Greek Tragedy, a Hammaris borrows the prophet's Song to the grave?

HEART - DON'T STARE!

(a) Can truly to city building. He will fill his head with memory.
With the face of his wife he will be born from every present.
He buys. He will build well, but the red blood remembers the toys with another.

(b) Angels will drown the singing of meadow. Nature is the beauty and language, the garden of death. But the red is every flower in out from the grave he comes in blood of the right man.

of Malibbi: "I have done nothing to him, but it is not done.
There is a reservation of God as well as of bodies, and all our bodies however will faint and faint, shaking their gray locks at me and saying 'It was not I who.'

Herod anticipates going to Rome, lives in the house of his brother (3) Philip, a general now.
Herod anticipates going to Rome, sees no opportunity to build a private house for a king, she is 14:10 The silent dragon. Brooding there. When will the long day come?

The steps of the executioner.

A mouth uttered here is the fatal barking as John is barking in the dragon, and comes to sit in right. WHERE is GOD?

14:11 The dame, standing there, elsewhere, floundering in the dragon brought her with her grey gift dropping red blood at the golden gates.

The mouth.

THE DANCER

She danced for the king,
The dear, little thing,
With bare neck and arms
And all her soft charms,
She pleased the great king
The cute little thing.

COURTIERS
There were ladies fine,
Noblemen and wine,
"What'er your behest,
I'll grant the request."
In haste swore the king
To sweet, little thing.

GEAR
Her eyes opened wide,
She planned on the side,
Mamma in the lead,
On a gift agreed
To ask of the king
For a nice, little thing.

"John the Baptist's head
Now bring me," she said;
She spoke it out loud,
In front of the crowd,
While pale grew the king,
The mean, little thing.

The monarch was dazed,
Was shocked and amazed,
His face wore a cloud,
With grief his head bowed;
She'd won from the king,
The sly little thing.

The mirth had all died,
What would he decide?
Then slowly he said,
"Bring hither the head
For oath of a king."
The hard, little thing.
