Thomas Jonathan Jackson (1824-1863)
Colonel of the Virginia volunteers. Killed at the battle of Bull Run. He is remembered as "Stonewall".

July, 1861, first Federal invasion of Virginia at Bull Run. The attack brought Confederate reinforcements, under Gen. Bee, but instead of retreating, Jackson stood around, around. Gen. Bee called back to his own army. "There is Jackson standing like a stone wall." Behind the Virginia. The battle ended the Richmond was then Virginia
The next day. From the ground.

Accidentally that of his own men. He never returned from the battle of Jackson.
