

The Angola Nutrition for Growth, Education and Learning (ANGEL) Program is a five-year initiative funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) through the McGovern-Dole International Food for Education and Child Nutrition Program. It is implemented by World Vision Angola and subrecipient ADPP in partnership with the Government of Angola. The budget is US$28.6 million targeting 62,250 students in 82 schools. ANGEL complements Angola's National School Feeding Program by providing nutritious school meals, strengthening literacy outcomes, improving school infrastructure, promoting child health and nutrition, strengthening safeguarding systems, and building sustainable local food systems.

World Vision ANGEL Project staff member, Bernardo Florindo, engages in conversation with the school head teacher, Emmanuel Tulefa, at Njambi Primary School in Huila Province.

"The school meals have made a visible difference. More children are coming to school, attendance has improved, and learners are more focused in class. When they know they will eat, their behaviour and consistency change. Even after school, they go home happy and satisfied."
